FOREWORD

by Edward Hindson

Th.D., D.Min., D.Litt., D.Phil.
General Editor

The Bible is the most amazing book ever written. In fact, it is a collection of sixty-six books which Christians revere as the very Word of God. It challenges the soul, informs the mind, and moves the heart of its readers because God Himself speaks through its incredible pages. It is still the best-seller of all time because the Bible alone is “profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness: That the man of God may be perfect, thoroughly furnished unto all good works” (2 Tim. 3:16–17). For these reasons, the Bible is our final authority in all matters of faith and practice.

Christians accept both the Old Testament (Hebrew Scriptures) and the New Testament (Greek Scriptures) as the inspired Word of God. The Bible has been translated into more languages and has sold more copies than any other book that has ever been written. Of all these translations, the majestic tone of the King James Version has stood the test of time for over 400 years in the English-speaking world.

In 1985, Dr. Jerry Falwell Sr. commissioned a team of biblical scholars at Liberty University in Virginia to begin writing a series of study notes for The King James Study Bible, which was published by Thomas Nelson publishers in Nashville, Tennessee, in 1988. It was the first study Bible to include such unique features as personality profiles, archaeological notes, doctrinal keys, and in-text maps. These features, coupled with detailed and insightful comments in the study notes, have made it one of the best-selling study Bibles of all time with over two million copies in print.

This second edition includes updated notes on critical issues and archaeological discoveries that have come to light in the past quarter century. It was my privilege to serve on the original editorial and design committee. From the very beginning, it was our desire to produce faith-affirming study notes that provide clear explanations of biblical passages to open their truths to the understanding of today’s readers. We were also committed to answering the challenges raised by critical scholars and providing answers to the issues they have often raised. More than anything else, it was then, and still is, our desire that men and women would come to faith in Jesus Christ the Savior as they read and study the Word of God for themselves.

As the Ethiopian eunuch responded to Philip’s question about whether he understood the Scripture, he replied, “How can I, except some man should guide me?” (Acts 8:31), so we desired this study Bible to point its readers to Christ, whom to know is life eternal. As you explore the treasure trove of information in the pages of The King James Study Bible, it is our prayer that you will begin the adventure of a lifetime of searching the Scripture, understanding its message, and knowing its Savior in a personal, meaningful, and life-transforming way.

As you read, notice that the words of Scripture are bolded in the notes to distinguish what God has said from what the authors have written. Each contributor is a born-again believer with a deep personal commitment to Christ and belief in the inerrancy of Scripture. Each is a scholar in his own right, but each one of us realizes that it is only in the Scripture itself that we have also a “more sure word of prophecy” because “holy men of God spake as they were moved by the Holy Ghost” (2 Pet. 1:19, 21). Let God speak to you through His Word as you read it, memorize it, and meditate on its truths.

DEAR READER

We are pleased that you have chosen The King James Study Bible. It has been developed to provide conservative Christians with a reliable study Bible that is both scholarly and spiritually relevant.

The King James Study Bible has been a labor of love for its dedicated team of scholars. The scholars involved have produced Bible-related materials that combine technical scholarship and practical application. The result is an excellent study tool you can depend on, one that will enrich your spiritual development as you use it from day to day.

Within the pages of this Bible, you will find many resources for your personal Bible study. Comprehensive book introductions and outlines give you an overview of each book's authorship, dating, and content. Rather than thousands of brief notations on the Bible text, the study system has in-depth annotations that punctuate the text in over 5,700 places with useful insights on what the Bible authors are saying. These annotations include background information to help you put the Bible's events, teachings, and personalities into their proper setting.

Three other important features are unique to The King James Study Bible:

- (1) Doctrinal Footnotes—These notes provide a system for studying the doctrines of the Bible and for tracing them throughout the Scriptures. By reading all of the notes within one topic area, you complete a total survey of that particular Bible teaching, with its explanations, illustrations, and practical applications for daily living. For more information on this feature, see Introduction to Doctrinal Footnotes on page xvi.
- (2) Personality Profiles—Brief biographies of key men and women of the Bible are placed near the verses where they are mentioned. Through these sketches, you gain insight into how these individuals were used by God to bring about His perfect plan for mankind.
- (3) Archaeological Sites—The information in these notes zooms in on significant places mentioned in the Bible and archaeological findings surrounding them. These notes, too, are positioned near related verses to shed light on the passages as you read them.

What else will you find in The King James Study Bible?

- Forty-eight maps in the text, recompiled and redrawn for the new edition
- Center-column references with notes including alternate and equivalent translations as well as explanations of unusual King James words and phrases
- Additional special interest articles
- Index to the annotations, doctrinal footnotes, personality profiles, and archaeological sites
- New in this edition: Topical Index to Christ and the Gospels; Topical Index to Paul and His Letters; Topical Index to End Times Prophecy; King James Concordance with Original-Language Word Studies
- Full color Bible maps at the end of the Bible

These components further enhance your study of God's Word by placing at your fingertips a wealth of related information from which you can draw.

We believe that the Bible is God's message to men and women of all time—that it presents His plan for salvation and daily Christian living. We pray that this new edition of The King James Study Bible will increase your understanding of that message and will richly bless your spiritual life and growth for years to come.

HOW TO USE

The King James Study Bible

As you look through this Bible, you will see a number of study resources on the pages with the text. These features are included to increase your understanding and enjoyment of Gods' Word. Take a few minutes to learn more about them.

Annotations, over 5,700 of them, provide useful insights on what the Bible authors are saying and background information to help you put Bible teachings, events and personalities into their proper setting. For easy use, every effort has been made to keep the annotations on the page with the verses to which they apply. Occasionally, however, they may be placed on the next page.

To locate annotations, look below the text to find a note referenced in bold type by chapter and verse. Below is an example of the text and annotation:

3 ^aAnd God said, ^bLet there be light: and there was light.

1:3. And God said: This is the first of a highly structured series of succinct and formulaic sentences expressing the creative commands of God. Thus, Creation is accomplished by His word. Each command consists of (1) an announcement, "God said"; (2) a creative command, "Let there be"; (3) a summary word of accomplishment, "And it was so"; (4) a descriptive word of accomplishment, "The earth brought forth"; (5) a descriptive blessing, "God blessed"; (6) an evaluative approval, "It was good"; and (7) a concluding temporal framework, numbering each day.

Three other special helps are unique to this Bible:

(1) Doctrinal Footnotes introduce you to a systematic study of the Bible's teachings. Look toward the bottom of the page to find gray boxes with the key symbol.

2 And the earth was ^awithout form, and void; and darkness was upon the face of the deep. ^bAnd the Spirit of God ¹moved upon the face of the waters.

THE HOLY SPIRIT IN CREATION

1:2. The first emblem of the Holy Spirit in Scripture is that of the Spirit "moving" or literally "brooding" over the waters, much as a bird broods over her eggs to hatch them. Illustration: The Scriptures assign to the Holy Spirit the works of creating the world (Ps. 33:6), of brooding over the waters (v. 2), of garnishing the heavens (Job 26:13), of renewing the earth (Ps. 104:30), and of sustaining life (Ps. 104:29). The Holy Spirit's work in Creation results in order (Is. 40:12, 14; Gen. 1:2); life (Job 33:4); beauty (Job 26:13); and renewal (Ps. 104:30). The work of the Holy Spirit in Creation is one of the biblical proofs of His deity. Application: The Scriptures also describe the physical body of the Christian as the temple of the Holy Spirit, and suggest He is in the process of recreating us into Christ's image (Phil. 1:6). (First Reference, Gen. 1:2; Primary Reference, Gen. 1:2; cf. Luke 4:18.)

For more information on Doctrinal Footnotes, see the introduction to this feature on page xvi.

(2) Personality Profiles describe key men and women of the Bible. Look toward the bottom of the page to find gray boxes with the profile symbols.

8 But Noah ^afound grace in the eyes of the LORD.

6:8. Noah was the last of the pre-Flood patriarchs and the builder of the ark that survived the great Flood. He was 600 years old when the Flood began and lived to be 950 years of age. He is described in the Bible as a righteous man (v. 9) and a man of obedience (v. 22) and faith (Heb. 11:7). The New Testament writers refer to him as an actual person (Matt. 24:37, 38; Luke 17:26, 27) and one who preached righteousness to his generation (2 Pet. 2:5). God sealed His covenant with him by the sign of a rainbow (9:9–17). From his three sons—Shem, Ham, and Japheth—the present world was populated. (First Reference, Gen 6:8; Primary Reference, Gen. 6:8—10:1.)

11 And it came to pass, when he was come near to enter into Egypt, that he said unto Sarai his wife, Behold now, I know that thou art ^aa ¹fair woman to look upon:

12:11 Sarah was the wife of Abraham and was also his half sister. She was originally called Sarai and came with Abraham from Ur. Her inability to produce an heir was the major factor in her convincing Abraham to have a child by Hagar, her handmaid. At age 90 Sarah conceived and bore Isaac. Later, at her insistence, Hagar and Ishmael were expelled by Abraham. Sarah lived to be 127 years old. She died at Kirjath-arba (Hebron) and was buried in the cave of Machpelah (23:1–20). The New Testament refers to Sarah as the mother of the children of promise (Rom. 9:9). She is included in the list of the faithful (Heb. 11:11) and is cited as an example of obedience to her husband (1 Pet. 3:6). (First Reference, Gen. 11:29; Primary Reference, Gen. 17:15–19.)

(3) Archaeological Sites focus on significant places mentioned in the Bible and archaeological findings related to them. Look toward the bottom of the page to find gray boxes with the shovel symbol.

10 And Lot lifted up his eyes, and beheld all ^athe plain of Jordan, that it was well watered every where, before the LORD ^bdestroyed Sodom and Gomorrah, ^c*even* as the garden of the LORD, like the land of Egypt, as thou comest unto ^dZoar.

13:10 Sodom is identified in Scripture with Gomorrah and the cities of the plain (13:10—14:12). Sodom was known for its moral wickedness. The ancient site has not yet been clearly identified, but is thought to be possibly submerged under the waters of the Dead Sea south of the El-Lisan peninsula, in what was originally the vale of Siddim (14:3). Jebel Usdum (“Mount of Sodom”), a salt mountain at the southwestern end of the Dead Sea, seems to preserve the ancient name. Excavations at nearby Bab edh-Dhra were begun by William F. Albright in 1924, and were completed by Paul Lapp for the American Schools of Oriental Research (1965–67). They revealed an enormous cemetery with over 20,000 tombs and several hundred thousand burials. Evidence of an extensive population in this area totally ceased after the twenty-first century b.c. (about the time of Abraham). Historical references to Sodom have been cited among the clay tablets from Ebla found at Tell Mardikh in Syria. There can be no doubt that a flourishing civilization once existed in this area and came to an abrupt halt at the end of the Middle Bronze Age.

See the next three pages for information on other features of the text and how to use the center column.

A boldface reference in the center column indicates the chapter and verse to which an entry applies.

A superior letter preceding the word or phrase in the text indicates a cross-reference.

A superior numeral indicates an equivalent translation, alternate translation, literal translation, language note, or explanatory note.

In-text maps highlight important Bible events.

THE FIRST MISSIONARY JOURNEY OF PAUL

An equivalent translation is similar in meaning to the translation in the text. It helps you understand the text by showing you a synonym.

Square brackets around a cross-reference mark it as a conceptual cross-reference, which identifies a passage similar in concept to the referenced passage in the text.

A literal translation gives the literal meaning of the word or phrase.

An explanatory note explains the word or phrase in the text. Words set in roman type in translation notes are explanatory only and are not translated from the original languages.

A language note gives the Hebrew, Greek, or Aramaic word or phrase that underlies the English translation.

An alternate translation is different in meaning from the words in the text, but is justified by the original languages. That is, the translators could have understood the original word or phrase this way, although they felt their choice was more appropriate.

Precious Ointment

6 Now when Jesus was in ^aBethany, in the house of Simon the leper,
7 There came unto him a woman having an alabaster ¹box of very ²precious ointment, and poured it on his head, as he sat at ³meat.

8 ^aBut when his disciples saw it, they had indignation, saying, To what purpose is this waste?

9 For this ointment might have been sold for much, and given to the poor.

10 When Jesus understood it, he said unto them, Why trouble ye the woman? for she hath wrought a good work upon me.

11 ^aFor ye have the poor always with you; but ^bme ye have not always.

12 For in that she hath poured this ointment on my body, she did it for my ^aburial.

13 Verily I say unto you, Whosoever this gospel shall be preached in the whole world, ^athere shall also ple a prisoner, whom they ³would.

16 And they had then a ¹notable prisoner, called Barabbas.

17 Therefore when they were gathered together, Pilate said unto them, Whom will ye that I release unto you? Barabbas, or Jesus which is called Christ?

18 For he knew that for ^aenvy they had delivered him.

19 When he was set down on the judgment seat, his wife sent unto him, saying, Have thou nothing to do with that just man: for I have suffered many things this day in a dream because of him.

Jesus led ^ahim away to Caiaphas the high priest, where the scribes and the elders were assembled.

58 But ^aPeter followed him ¹afar off unto the high priest's ^apalace, and went in, and sat with the servants, to see the end.

59 Now the chief priests, and elders, and all the council, sought ^afalse ¹witness against Jesus, to put him to death;

60 But found none: yea, though ^amany false witnesses came, yet found they none. At the last came ^btwo false witnesses, 61 And said, This ^a fellow said, I am able to destroy the temple of God, and to build it in three days.

Introduction to

DOCTRINAL FOOTNOTES

Doctrinal footnotes are a special feature in this study Bible. They are designed to help you in your survey of God's Word. Each of these notes fits within a system of doctrine, and by reading all of them, you will have touched on all the doctrines of Scripture.

Where useful, each theological reference is footnoted with the primary Scripture source, where the full or, at least, the most significant explanation can be found. The first reference helps you to understand how God introduced the doctrine. Doctrinal paths are marked "cf." At the end of each footnote, you are referred to another note, which takes you to the next logical aspect of the doctrine you are studying. By looking up each footnote, you progress along a doctrinal path through the Scriptures.

Most theological footnotes are divided into three sections: (1) explanation, (2) illustration, and (3) application. When you have absorbed all the notes within one topic area, you will have completed a total survey of that doctrine.

Thus this doctrinal footnote system unlocks the entire wealth of theological truth in the Scriptures.

HOW TO STUDY THE BIBLE

The Bible is the greatest book ever written. In it God Himself speaks to men. It is a book of divine instruction. It offers comfort in sorrow, guidance in perplexity, advice for our problems, rebuke for our sins, and daily inspiration for our every need.

The Bible is not simply one book. It is an entire library of books covering the whole range of literature. It includes history, poetry, drama, biography, prophecy, philosophy, science, and inspirational reading. Little wonder, then, that all or part of the Bible has been translated into more than 1,200 languages, and every year more copies of the Bible are sold than any other single book.

The Bible alone truly answers the greatest questions that men of all ages have asked: “Where have I come from?” “Where am I going?” “Why am I here?” “How can I know the truth?” For the Bible reveals the truth about God, explains the origin of man, points out the only way to salvation and eternal life, and explains the age-old problem of sin and suffering.

The great theme of the Bible is the Lord Jesus Christ and His work of redemption for mankind. The person and work of Jesus Christ are promised, prophesied, and pictured in the types and symbols of the Old Testament. In all of His truth and beauty, the Lord Jesus Christ is revealed in the Gospels; and the full meanings of His life, His death, and His resurrection are explained in the Epistles. His glorious coming again to earth in the future is unmistakably foretold in the Book of Revelation. The great purpose of the written Word of God, the Bible, is to reveal the living Word of God, the Lord Jesus Christ (read John 1:1-18).

Dr. Wilbur M. Smith relates seven great things that the study of the Bible will do for us:

1. The Bible discovers sin and convicts us.
2. The Bible helps cleanse us from the pollutions of sin.
3. The Bible imparts strength.
4. The Bible instructs us in what we are to do.
5. The Bible provides us with a sword for victory over sin.
6. The Bible makes our lives fruitful.
7. The Bible gives us power to pray.

You do not need a whole library of books to study the Bible. The Bible is its own best commentator and interpreter. With all of the instructive helps that you have in this new Bible, you have a whole lifetime of Bible study.

I. PERSONAL BIBLE STUDY

A. Devotional Bible Study

The Bible is not an end in itself, but is a means to the end of knowing God and doing His will. The apostle Paul said, “Study to shew thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth” (2 Tim. 2:15). God has given us the Bible in order that we might know Him and that we might do His will here on earth.

Therefore, devotional Bible study is the most important kind of Bible study. Devotional Bible study means reading and studying the Word of God in order that we may hear God’s voice and that we may know how to do His will and to live a better Christian life.

A great scientist and medical doctor, Dr. Howard A. Kelly (Professor of Gynecology at Johns Hopkins University from 1889 through 1940), was also an avid student of the Bible. He once said: “The very best way to study the Bible is simply to read it daily with close attention and with prayer to see the light that shines from its pages, to meditate upon it, and to continue to read it until somehow it works itself, its words, its expressions, its teachings, its habits of thought, and its presentation of God and His Christ into the very warp and woof of one’s being.”

For your devotional reading and study of the Bible, here are several important, practical suggestions:

1. Begin your Bible reading with prayer (Ps. 119:18; John 16:13-15).

2. Take brief notes on what you read. Keep a small notebook for your Bible study (see number 4 below).

3. Read slowly through one chapter, or perhaps two or three chapters, or perhaps just one paragraph at a time. After reading, ask yourself what this passage means. Then reread it.

4. It is often very helpful in finding out the true meaning of a chapter or passage to ask yourself the following questions, then write the answers in your notebook:

- a. What is the main subject of this passage?
- b. Who are the persons revealed in this passage: Who is speaking? About whom is he speaking? Who is acting?
- c. What is the key verse of this passage?
- d. What does this passage teach me about the Lord Jesus Christ?
- e. Does this passage portray any sin for me to confess and forsake?
- f. Does this passage contain any command for me to obey?
- g. Is there any promise for me to claim?
- h. Is there any instruction for me to follow?

Not all of these questions may be answered in every passage.

5. Keep a spiritual diary. Either in your Bible study notebook mentioned above (number 2), or in a separate notebook entitled, “My Spiritual Diary,” write down daily what God says to you through the Bible. Write down the sins that you confess or the commands you should obey.

6. Memorize passages of the Word of God. No one is ever too old to memorize the Word of God. Write verses on cards with the reference on one side and the verse on the other. Carry these cards with you and review them while you’re waiting for a train, standing in lunch line, and so on.

Other persons prefer to memorize whole passages or chapters of the Bible. A small pocket Bible will help you to review these passages when you have spare moments. One of the best ways is to spend a few minutes every night before going to sleep, in order that your subconscious mind may help you fix these passages of God’s Word in your mind while you’re asleep (Ps. 119:11).

To meditate means “to reflect, to ponder, to consider, to dwell in thought.” Through meditation the Word of God will become meaningful and real to you, and the Holy Spirit will use this time to apply the Word of God to your own life and its problems.

7. Obey the Word of God. As Paul said to Timothy in 2 Timothy 3:16: “All scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness.” The Bible has been given to us that we may live a holy life, well-pleasing to God. Therefore God says, “But be ye doers of the word, and not hearers only” (James 1:22).

8. The Navigators, a group of men banded together just before World War II to encourage Bible study among Christian servicemen, developed a splendid plan for a personal, devotional study.

- a. After prayer, first read the Bible passage slowly and silently; then read it again aloud.

- b. In a large notebook divide the paper into columns and head each column as follows: Chapter title, Key verse, Significant truth, Cross-references, Difficulties in this passage (personal or possible), Application to me, and Summary or outline of the passage. In each of these columns, write the information desired.

Do not try to adopt all of these methods at once, but start out slowly, selecting those methods and suggestions which appeal to you. You will find, as millions of others have before you, that the more you read and study the Word of God, the more you'll want to read it. Therefore, the following suggestions of Bible study are made for those who wish to make a more intensive study of the Bible truths.

B. Study for Bible Knowledge

There are many valuable methods of Bible study. One may study the Bible, as if with a telescope, to see the great truths that stand out in every book. Or one may study the Bible as if with a microscope to find all of the marvelous details that are in this mine of spiritual riches. In this section there are several proven methods with which a person may conduct more intensive Bible study. The most important thing is to follow faithfully some systematic method of Bible study.

Bible Study by Chapters. In the Bible there are 1,189 chapters in the Old and New Testaments. In a little over three years, a person could make an intensive study of the whole Bible, taking a chapter a day. It is usually a good practice to start your Bible study in the New Testament.

1. Read through the chapter carefully, seeking to find its main subject or subjects.

2. As you read each chapter, give it a title which suggests its main content. If you are reading the Gospel of John, for example, you might title the chapters like this:

- ch. 1 "Jesus Christ, the Word of God"
- ch. 2 "The Wedding at Cana"
- ch. 3 "The New Birth"
- ch. 4 "The Woman at the Well"
- ch. 5 "The Healing of the Man at the Pool of Bethesda"

3. Reread the chapter again and make a simple outline, which will include its main thoughts. For example in John 1, you might make an outline like this:

"Jesus Christ, the Word of God":

- a. Jesus Christ was the eternal Word of God, 1-9.
- b. Jesus Christ came into the world, 10-18.
- c. John witnesses that Christ is to come, 19-28.
- d. John says that Jesus is the Lamb of God, 29-37.
- e. Jesus Christ calls His first disciples, 38-51.

4. Concerning each chapter, ask and answer the questions suggested in item number 4 of devotional Bible study hints above. Especially take note of any practical or theological problems in this chapter. Then, using your concordance, look up the key words in those verses and find out what other portions of the Bible say about this question or problem. Compare Scripture with Scripture to find its true meaning. Usually, to understand an important Bible chapter, you must study it together with the preceding or following chapters.

Bible Study by Paragraphs. A paragraph is several sentences of thought in writing. When an author changes the subject of emphasis in writing, he usually begins a new paragraph. (In this Bible, use the outline headings in the text as paragraph breaks, subdividing when appropriate.) Studying the Bible by paragraphs like this is often called analytical Bible study.

1. Read the paragraph carefully for its main thought or subject.

2. In order to find the relation of the important words and sentences in this paragraph, it is often helpful to rewrite the text. For example, if you were going to study the paragraph on prayer in the Sermon on the Mount found in Matthew 6:5–8, you could rewrite this text:

“And when thou prayest, thou shalt not be as the hypocrites are: for they love to pray standing in the synagogues and in the corners of the streets, that they may be seen of men. Verily I say unto you, They have their reward.

“But thou, when thou prayest, enter into thy closet, and when thou hast shut thy door, pray to thy Father which is in secret; and thy Father which seeth in secret shall reward thee openly.

“But when ye pray, use not vain repetitions, as the heathen do: for they think that they shall be heard for their much speaking.

“Be not ye therefore like unto them: for your Father knoweth what things ye have need of, before ye ask him.”

3. From the text which you’ve now rewritten so that you can see the relationship of the various parts of the paragraph, it is easy to make a simple outline. For example, using Matthew 6:5–15, your outline of this passage would be something like this:

“Jesus Teaches Us How to Pray”—Matthew 6:5–15.

a. How not to pray: Matthew 6:5–8

- (1) Hypocritically in public, 6:5
- (2) With useless repetition, 6:7, 8

b. How to pray: Matthew 6:6, 9–13

- (1) In private to your heavenly Father, 6:6
- (2) Following the pattern of Jesus’ model prayer, 6:9–13

4. It is helpful also to look up in the concordance important words that occur in this paragraph. For example, the words “hypocrites,” “heathen,” and so on. By comparing other passages of the Bible that teach about prayer, you’ll be kept from making any mistakes concerning the true nature, conditions, and results of prayer according to the will of God.

Bible Study by Verses. In studying the historical passages of the Bible, such as most of the Old Testament or parts of the Gospels, each verse may have only one simple meaning.

But many verses in both the Old and New Testaments are rich with many great Bible truths that will demand more detailed study. There are many ways that you can study a single Bible verse.

1. Study it by the verbs in the verse. For example, if you were studying John 3:16 you would find the following verbs: “loved ... gave ... should not perish ... have ...”

You could make a comparative list like this:

God loved	Man believes
God gave	Man shall not perish
	Man has everlasting life

Or simply take the nouns in this wonderful verse: “God ... world ... only begotten Son ... whosoever ... everlasting life.”

2. Study a verse through the personalities revealed. For example, once again taking John 3:16, these very simple but significant points are brought to light: “God ... only begotten Son ... whosoever ... him.”

3. Study a verse by looking for the great ideas revealed in it. Let us look again at John 3:16 as our example. We might title this verse, “The greatest verse in the Bible.” The following ideas are found in it:

- “God”—the greatest person
- “so loved”—the greatest devotion
- “the world”—the greatest number
- “he gave”—the greatest act
- “his only begotten Son”—the greatest gift
- “that whosoever believeth”—the greatest condition
- “should not perish”—the greatest mercy
- “have everlasting life”—the greatest result

4. Sometimes a combination of these various ideas applied to a verse will bring the richest results. For example, take Romans 5:1:

“Therefore”—This verse depends on 4:25. Our justification is based on and is guaranteed by Jesus’ resurrection.

“justified”—made righteous

“by faith”—method of our justification (see also 3:24; 4:9)

“have”—not future, but present tense—We have this now.

“peace with God”—We were enemies, but now there is peace between us and God because of what Christ has done.

“through our Lord Jesus Christ”—The way to peace with God is only through Jesus Christ.

Bible Study by Books. After you have begun to study the Bible by chapters or paragraphs or verses, you will be ready to study the Bible by books.

1. There are several methods of Bible book study.

a. One is called the inductive method. This is a method of studying in detail the contents of a Bible book and then drawing from these details general conclusions or principles concerning the contents and purpose of the book.

b. Another method of book study is called the synthetic method. By this method, one reads the Bible book over several times to receive the general impressions of the main ideas and purpose of the book without attention to the details. (It is sometimes hard to distinguish these two methods.)

c. In some cases the study of a Bible book becomes a historical study, if that book relates the history of a nation or a man in a particular period of time. For example, the Book of Exodus tells the history of the children of Israel from the death of Joseph in Egypt until the erection of the tabernacle in the wilderness in the time of Moses. This covers approximately 400 years.

2. Here are some methods for Bible study by books:

a. Read the book through to get the perspective and the general emphasis of the book.

b. Reread the book many times, each time asking yourself a relevant question and jotting down the answers you find as you read. Here are the most important questions to ask:

First reading: What is the central theme or emphasis of this book? What is the key verse?

Second reading: Remembering the theme of the book, see how it is emphasized and developed. Look for any special problems or applications.

Third reading: What does it tell me about the author and his circumstances when he wrote this book?

Fourth reading: What does the book tell me about the people to whom the book was written and their circumstances, needs, or problems?

Fifth reading: What are the main divisions of the book? Is there any outline apparent in the logical organization and development of the book? During this reading, divide the text into the paragraphs as you see them and then give a title to each paragraph. Draw a line down the right side of the outline and on the other side write any problems, questions, words, or ideas that require further study by comparison with other passages in the Bible.

Sixth and successive readings: Look for other facts and/or information that your earlier readings have suggested. By now certain words will stand out in the book. See how often they recur. (For example, as you read the Book of Philippians, you will soon find that the word joy occurs many times. This is one of the key words of the book, so note its occurrences and the circumstances surrounding it.)

As you read and reread a book, you'll find that you begin to see its structure and its outline very clearly. It is true, however, that there are other outlines for any given book. It depends on the principle of division that you select. For example, as you study the Book of Romans, you might adopt the outline that Dr. G. Allen Fleece, president of Columbia Bible College, has written:

THE BOOK OF ROMANS

Subject: "The Gospel"

Key verse: 1:16

Outline:

- I. The gospel for the lost sinner, 1—5
- II. The gospel for the Christian, 6—8
- III. The gospel for the whole world, 9—11
- IV. The gospel applied to daily living, 12—16

Of course, each of these great sections of this remarkable book can be divided into smaller subjects with great profit.

This method, applied to a book which is mainly historical, will also enable you to find a clear outline. In the case of a historical book, the outline will be largely chronological. The Book of Acts lends itself to this kind of study and outline.

THE BOOK OF ACTS

Subject: "The Gospel Witness in the First Century"

Key verse: 1:8

Outline:

- I. Introduction: The apostles receive power, 1:1—2:4
- II. The witness in Jerusalem, 2:5—7:60
- III. The witness in Judea and Samaria, 8:1—11:18
- IV. The beginning of the witness to the end of the earth, 11:19—28:31

Once again more careful study will give the details and further subdivisions of each of these great units of gospel history in this inspired record of the origin of the Christian church.

Bible Study by Words. There are two profitable and helpful ways of studying great words or subjects in the Word of God.

1. Word study by Bible books. Certain words have special significance in certain Bible books. For example, after studying the Gospel of John as a book and by chapters, you'll find it instructive and inspiring to trace the words believe and belief. They occur almost 100 times. By reading the book hurriedly and underlining each passage where the words believe and belief occur, you'll understand why Bible scholars contend that the purpose of the Gospel of John is expressed by the author in John 20:31.

2. General word study. The fine concordance in this Bible will be a great help. Through the study of great Bible words, you can soon become familiar with the great doctrines of the Bible and understand the great theological principles which the Bible reveals.

With the concordance you might begin with the study of the word grace. By tracing the occurrences of this word through the Old Testament and then into the New Testament, you will come to see that God has always dealt with His people in grace, and you will find in a concrete way the great truth of Ephesians 2:8.

Bible Study by Topics. Closely related to the method of study by words is the study according to great topics or subjects: Bible prayers, Bible promises, Bible sermons, Bible songs, Bible poems, and so on.

Or one might study Bible geography by reading rapidly through and looking for rivers, seas, and mountains highlighted in Scripture. For example, the mountaintop experiences in the life of Abraham are a thrilling study.

Another challenging study is to read rapidly through the Gospels and Epistles looking for the commands of the Lord to us. The list of Bible topics is unlimited.

First, for a topical study on prayer, look up the word prayer or pray in your concordance. Look up every form of these words and such related words as ask and intercession. After you have looked up these verses, study them and bring together all the teaching on prayer that you find. You will find conditions of prayer, words to be used in prayer, results to expect from prayer, when to pray, and where to pray.

Bible Study Through Biography. The Bible is a record of God's revealing Himself to men and through men. The Old Testament as well as the New is rich in such biographical studies. Here are a few:

- The life of Noah: Genesis 5:32—10:32
- The life of Abraham: Genesis 12—25
- The life of Joseph: Genesis 37—50
- The life of Deborah: Judges 4, 5

Let us summarize various methods for studying the great Bible biographies:

1. Read the Bible book or passages in which this person's life is prominent, e.g., Abraham in Genesis 12—25, plus references to Abraham in Hebrews 11 and Romans 4.
2. Trace a character with a concordance.
3. Be careful to note indirect references to the person in other portions of Scripture.

Conclusion. There are many other methods of studying the Bible: the psychological method, the sociological method, the cultural method, the philosophical method, and so on. Use all the Bible study methods suggested above. From time to time, change your method so that you'll not become too accustomed to any one method or tired from delving too deeply into one type of study.

II. FAMILY BIBLE STUDY

Nothing is more important in a Christian home than the family altar. At a convenient time when all members of the family are home, father or mother should lead them in worship of God and in reading His Word. A simple program for family worship includes singing a hymn, an opening prayer by a family member, a brief Bible study, and a concluding period of prayer in which all members take part.

The family altar and Bible study will bind the family together, eliminate juvenile delinquency, foster deeper love, and enable each member to become a stronger, better Christian. Since family Bible study usually includes small children, it is wise to avoid deep, difficult topics and study something of interest and help to all. Such subjects might be Bible biographies as outlined above, stories of miracles and deeds of Jesus as revealed in the Gospels, miracles in the Old Testament, and other narrative portions of the Bible. It is wise to keep the study brief and to concentrate on a short passage of Scripture. For example, if the family is going to study the life of Moses, it could be divided into units like this:

- First day: The birth of Moses: Exodus 2:1-10
- Second day: Moses' great choice and great mistake: Hebrews 11:24-27; Exodus 2:11-15
- Third day: Moses' wilderness training: Exodus 2:16-25
- Fourth day: Moses' call to serve God: Exodus 3:1-22
- Fifth day: Moses' argument with God: Exodus 4:1-17
- Sixth day: Moses' return to Egypt: Exodus 4:18-31

Here are several practical hints on how to make your family Bible study interesting and profitable to all:

1. Keep your family Bible study reasonably short: one brief chapter or several paragraphs a day.
2. Have each member read a verse.
3. Appoint one family member to lead in worship each day and select the passage to read. This one may appoint others to help in the family worship.

4. Read through a Bible book, a chapter, or several paragraphs each day. As you read, together decide on a name or a title for each chapter and memorize this.

5. After reading the passage, have each member in the family explain one verse or one paragraph.

6. Let the leader (or the father or mother) prepare five or ten questions on the Bible passage and ask various members of the family to answer these questions after the passage has been read.

7. Study the beautiful maps in your Bible together and trace Paul's journeys or the wandering of the children of Israel in Egypt.

8. Study Bible topics together. Assign verses concerning a topic or great word to each member of the family. Let each read a verse and tell what the verse teaches about the topic or word.

9. After the Bible reading, have each member tell what this verse means or how it can be applied to personal life.

10. Make up Bible games by having each member make up questions to try to stump the others.

11. Study a Bible book together, using the hints given above. There are many wonderful ways to make the Bible the heart of your home.

III. PRINCIPLES OF BIBLE INTERPRETATION

Since the Bible was written by many men over a period covering 1,500 years, and since the last author of the Bible has been dead 1,900 years, there are definite problems in understanding the exact meaning of certain passages of the Bible.

There is a need to interpret clearly certain passages of the Bible because there is a gap between the way we think and the words we use today and the way of thinking and the words that these Bible writers used thousands of years ago. Bible scholars have pointed out that there are language gaps—differences in words that we use; there are cultural gaps—different customs were in vogue then. There are geographical gaps—certain rivers that are spoken of in the Bible have long since dried up. Some places that are spoken of frequently in the Bible are not on our modern maps. And then there are historical gaps—the Bible speaks of kings and empires which existed years ago.

Therefore, there is a need for Bible interpretation. This is a fascinating study in itself, but here are just a few principles of interpretation of the Bible that will keep you from error and help you understand the difficult passages of the Word of God.

1. Always remember that the Bible is God's infallible, inerrantly inspired Word. There are no mistakes in the Bible. God has included everything in the Bible that He wants you to know and is necessary for you to know concerning salvation and your Christian life.

2. The second principle of interpretation is to interpret the Bible in the light of its historical background. There are three aspects of this:

- a. Study the personal circumstances of the writer. In studying the Book of the Revelation, it is important to understand where John was and what he was doing when God gave him this marvelous revelation. See Revelation 1:1-10.
- b. The second aspect of this principle is to study the culture and customs of the country at the time that the writing or story was taking place. For example, to understand the Book of Ruth, it is important to study the customs concerning widows, redemption of property, and so on, as they are explained in Leviticus 25 and Deuteronomy 25.
- c. A third aspect of this principle is to study and interpret the Bible in the light of the actual historical situation and events that were taking place at the time of the story. For example, in studying the Gospels it is important to realize that the entire land of Palestine and all of the Jews were being governed and oppressed by the Roman Empire at that time.

3. Interpret the Bible according to the purpose and plan of each book.

Every Bible book has its specific purpose intended by the Holy Spirit to bring some special message to man. For example, it is important to remember that First John (see 1 John 5:13) was written to Christians. Therefore the promise in 1 John 1:9 is specifically applied to Christians.

4. One of the most important principles of interpretation is always to interpret according to the context of a verse.

The “context” includes the verses immediately preceding and immediately following the verse you are studying. If you do not take care to interpret the verse according to the context, you could make the Bible teach atheism. For the Bible itself says, “There is no God” (Ps. 14:1). But the context makes very clear what this verse means: The entire sentence says, “The fool hath said in his heart, There is no God.”

Always study the passage immediately preceding and immediately following any verse, word, or topic to make sure that you see this truth in the setting which God intended.

5. Always interpret according to the correct meaning of words. You can find the correct meaning of a word in several ways. First of all, look up the usage of the word in other parts of the Bible to find how it was used in that generation. Another way is to look up its background or its root. You could do this with the use of a dictionary. Still another way is to look up the synonyms—words that are similar in meaning but slightly different: for example, prayer, intercession, supplication.

6. Also interpret the Bible according to all of the parallel passages that deal with the subject and according to the message of the entire Bible.

The more you read the Bible, the more you will understand that in it God is revealing His way of salvation to men from beginning to end. And when you come to a difficult passage, think of it in the light of the overall purpose of the Bible. For example, the animal sacrifices of the Old Testament are meant to be a picture of the perfect sacrifice of Jesus Christ on the cross.

If you will follow these simple rules, you will be kept from error and extremes, and you will be helped to understand correctly the teachings of even the more difficult passages in God’s Word.

The OLD TESTAMENT

Introduction to the Old Testament

The Bible, from Genesis to Revelation, clearly reveals that God Himself is the ultimate source, supervisor, and sum of all history, and that the center and goal of history is found in Jesus Christ, God's Son (Col. 1:15–20). Thus the Bible, while in one sense being a library of sacred Scriptures, is one story, of which the Old Testament is the foundation for the New Testament revelation.

Although Jewish and Christian scholars have used somewhat different terminology in classifying the books of the Old Testament, the designations used in this study Bible are based on subject matter: Pentateuch (Genesis—Deuteronomy), Historical Books (Joshua—Esther), Poetical Books (Job—Song of Solomon, Lamentations), Major Prophets (Isaiah, Jeremiah, Ezekiel, Daniel), and Minor Prophets (Hosea—Malachi).

Pentateuch. Jewish and Christian scholars alike have traditionally agreed that Moses was the original author of the Pentateuch (except for Deut. 34, which recounts the death of Moses). This belief is confirmed in both Testaments (Josh. 1:7, 8; John 1:17), and especially by Jesus Himself (Luke 24:27, 44). The Pentateuch is of crucial importance, for it records the origin of the universe and planet earth, the life of earth's early inhabitants, including the fall of man, and the growth of human civilization. Particular attention is centered on Israel, that nation through whom man's Redeemer would come: its selection (Gen.), redemption (Ex.), sanctification (Lev.), preservation (Num.), and covenant responsibilities (Deut.).

Historical Books. The historical books trace some one thousand years of Israelite history, from the fifteenth to the fifth century B.C. They may be conveniently considered under four periods.

- I. The Pre-Monarchic Period (Josh. 1—1 Sam. 7)—from the entrance into Canaan, through the era of the Judges, until the selection of Saul as king.
- II. The Era of the United Monarchy (1 Sam. 8—1 Kin. 11; cf. 1 Chr. 10—2 Chr. 9)—from the selection of Saul as king until the death of Solomon. Central focus is on the life of David, including the giving of the Davidic covenant.
- III. The Era of the Divided Monarchy (1 Kin. 12—2 Kin. 25; cf. 2 Chr. 10—36)—from the death of Solomon until the fall of Jerusalem. Key features include: the division of the kingdom, the rise of the prophets, and the apostasy and fall of both the northern and southern kingdoms.
- IV. The Era of the Exile and Return (Ezra, Neh., Esth.)—from the fall of Jerusalem until the end of the Old Testament era. Central focus is on events surrounding the exile and return of the Jews to the land.

Poetical Books. In a distinctive way the books of Hebrew poetry disclose the heart of the Old Testament saint. Written in a style that “rhymes” ideas, rather than sounds, over successive parallel lines, Hebrew poetry is filled with images and expressions of the believer's spiritual pilgrimage in the everyday world. They contain such literary features as: drama and story, lyric song and liturgical hymn, and lament and wise sayings. Their beauty and universal appeal have given instruction, challenge, and comfort to God's people of all ages.

Prophetic Books. The prophetic books contain the collected messages and writings of men uniquely called to act as God's spokesmen in the increasingly complex and changing world of international affairs from the eighth through the fifth centuries B.C. Their message was one of both condemnation and correction for Israel and the nation, and of comfort for God's people in the confident hope that centered in the growing expectation of Messiah's coming to usher in an age of everlasting blessedness. The Jewish Canon closed with the writing of Malachi (c. 420 B.C.).

The Old Testament is indeed an enduring book. Not only was it the Bible of Jesus and the apostles, but its unfolding account of God's saving work for mankind is integral to every part of the New Testament. As the foundational portion of God's inerant revelation, its timeless messages will yet bring instruction and correction, and comfort and hope to all who will receive them (Ps. 119:105-112; 2 Tim. 3:16).

The First Book of Moses Called GENESIS

Genesis is the book of beginnings. It records the beginning of time, life, sin, salvation, the human race, and the Hebrew nation. It begins with primeval history centered in four major events: the Creation, the Fall, the Flood, and the dispersion of the nations. Genesis then narrates the history of four great patriarchs: Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, and Joseph.

The title, Genesis (Gr. “Beginning”), was applied to this book by the Septuagint. The Hebrew title (Berēshīt) comes from the first word of the book in Hebrew (“In the beginning”). The book is divided by 10 units (tōledōt) under the rubric: “These are the generations of.” Thus, some have suggested that Moses had access to the patriarchal records.

Authorship. With very few exceptions, until the eighteenth century, Jewish and Christian scholars alike believed that Moses wrote Genesis. His authorship is supported by the Samaritan Pentateuch, the Palestinian Talmud, the Apocrypha (cf. Ecclus. 45:4; 2 Macc. 7:30), the writings of Philo (Life of Moses 3:39), and Josephus (Antiquities of the Jews 4:8:45; Contra Apion I.8).

During the nineteenth century, higher critics began to question—then deny—the Mosaic authorship of Genesis and of the entire Pentateuch, preferring the Documentary Hypothesis (or Developmental Theory). Using the initials J, E, D, and P to identify four different alleged source documents, this theory suggests that the Pentateuch is a composite of several documents. The J document was attributed to the author who preferred the name Jehovah and was assigned an arbitrary date of about 850 B.C. The E document prefers the name Elōhīm for God and was dated at around 750 B.C. The D document was identified with much of Deuteronomy and was dated at around 620 B.C. The P document was identified with a priestly writer in the postexilic period nearly one thousand years after the time of Moses.

But there is no valid reason to reject Mosaic authorship of the Pentateuch, with the exception of the record of his death in Deuteronomy 34. The Pentateuch itself attests Mosaic authorship (cf. Ex. 17:14; 24:4; 34:27; Num. 33:1, 2; Deut. 31:9), and Old Testament references outside the Pentateuch abound (cf. Josh. 1:7, 8; 8:31, 32; 1 Kin. 2:3; 2 Kin. 14:6; 21:8; see also Ezra 6:18; Neh. 13:1; Dan. 9:11–13; Mal. 4:4). New Testament references to Mosaic authorship are not lacking either (Matt. 19:8; Mark 12:26; John 1:45; 5:46, 47; Acts 3:22; Rom. 10:5). Jesus Himself clearly stated that Moses was the author of the Pentateuch (Luke 24:27, 44). What can be inclusively said of the Pentateuch can particularly be said of Genesis.

Date. Moses’ life extended 120 years (Deut. 34:7). The first 40 years (1525–1485 B.C.) he spent as Pharaoh’s son, learning the wisdom of the Egyptians (Acts 7:22). He spent the next 40 years (1485–1445 B.C.) in the desert of Midian as a shepherd (Ex. 2:15; Acts 7:30). The final 40 years (1445–1405 B.C.) he spent wandering in the Sinai wilderness with the children of Israel (Deut. 8:2). He very likely wrote all of the books of the Pentateuch after his call to lead the people out of Egypt, as recounted in Exodus 3. This would have been in his last 40 years of life, during the wilderness wanderings.

Genesis is the foundational book to the rest of the Bible. Its important theological themes include the doctrines of God, Creation, man, sin, and salvation. It teaches the importance of substitutionary atonement and of faith in God's revelation of Himself to mankind. It also records the first messianic prophecies of the Bible predicting that the Redeemer would be born of the seed of a woman (3:15) through the line of Seth (4:25); a son of Shem (9:27); the offspring of Abraham (12:3), Isaac (21:12), and Jacob (25:23); and from the tribe of Judah (49:10).

Genesis covers more time than any other book in the Bible. It opens with the words: "In the beginning God created" (1:1), and it ends with "in a coffin in Egypt" (50:26). Thus it covers the whole plight of man, who was created in God's image to live forever, but because of sin became destined for the grave. The book leaves the reader anxiously anticipating the redemptive intervention of God.

OUTLINE OF GENESIS

I. Primeval history

(early beginnings) 1:1—11:26

- A. The creation of the world 1:1—2:3

The Creation

1 In the ^abeginning ^bGod created the heaven and the earth.

2 And the earth was ^awithout form, and void; and darkness was upon the face of the deep. ^bAnd the spirit of God ¹moved upon the face of the waters.

4 And God saw the light, that it was good: and God divided the light from the darkness.

Is. 40:13, 14 ¹ was hovering over 1:3 ^aPs. 33:6, 9 ^b 2 Cor. 4:6 ^c [Heb. 11:3]

1:1. In the beginning (Heb. berēshūt): Creation marks the absolute beginning of the temporal and material world. The traditional Jewish and Christian belief is that Genesis 1:1 declares that God created the original heaven and earth from nothing (Lat. ex nihilo) and that verse 2 clarifies that when it came from the Creator's hand, the mass was "without form, and void," unformed and without any life. The rest of the chapter then explains the process of Creation in detail. There is no evidence in the Hebrew text for long ages of evolutionary development or a gap of time between verse 1 and verse 2. God (Heb. Elōhīm): This form of the divine name occurs 2,570 times in the Old Testament. The plural ending īm indicates a plural of majesty and takes a singular verb. Created (Heb. bara'): This verb is used exclusively with God as its subject. It refers to the instantaneous and miraculous act of God by which He brought the universe into existence. Thus, the Genesis account of Creation refutes atheism, pantheism, polytheism, and evolution.

1:2. Without form, and void (Heb. tōhū wabōhū, "unformed and unfilled") describes the condition of earth after the initial act of Creation. It does not describe a chaotic condition as a result of judgment. Thus was (Heb. hayetah) is correct and should not be translated became. How the earth became formed and filled is described in verses 3–31. Darkness is not always a symbol of evil (cf. Ps. 104:19–24). Here it simply refers to the absence of light. Deep refers to the waters covering the earth, not some primitive cosmogony. The Spirit of God is a clear reference to the creative activity of the Holy Spirit. John 1:3 indicates that Christ actually created all things for the Father. Thus, all three persons of the Trinity are active in the Creation. This undoubtedly accounts for the plural pronouns us and our in verse 26 which take singular verbs in expressing the tri-unity of God.

1:3. And God said: This is the first of a highly structured series of succinct and formulaic sentences expressing the creative commands of God. Thus, Creation is accomplished by His word. Each command consists of (1) an announcement, "God said"; (2) a creative command, "Let there be"; (3) a summary word of accomplishment, "And it was so"; (4) a descriptive word of accomplishment, "The earth brought forth"; (5) a descriptive blessing, "God blessed"; (6) an evaluative approval, "It was good"; and (7) a concluding temporal framework, numbering each day.

1:4. Light: Not the sun which was created on the fourth day (v. 16), but some fixed light source outside of the earth. The earth passed through a day-and-night cycle in reference to this light. Good: The word contains less an aesthetic judgment than a designation of purpose and correspondence to God's will, indicating the moral goodness of the Creation.

THE HOLY SPIRIT IN CREATION

1:2. The first emblem of the Holy Spirit in Scripture is that of the Spirit "moving" or literally "brooding" over the waters, much as a bird broods over her eggs to hatch them. Illustration:

The Scriptures assign to the Holy Spirit the works of creating the world (Ps. 33:6), of brooding over the waters (v. 2), of garnishing the heavens (Job 26:13), of renewing the earth (Ps. 104:30), and of sustaining life (Ps. 104:29). The Holy Spirit's work in Creation results in order (Is. 40:12, 14; Gen. 1:2); life (Job 33:4); beauty (Job 26:13); and renewal (Ps. 104:30). The work of the Holy Spirit in Creation is one of the biblical proofs of His deity. Application: The Scriptures also describe the physical body of the Christian as the temple of the Holy Spirit, and suggest He is in the process of recreating us into Christ's image (Phil. 1:6). (First Reference, Gen. 1:2; Primary Reference, Gen. 1:2; cf. Luke 4:18.)

1:5. God called: This act demonstrates His sovereign dominion over His Creation. In the Semitic world the naming of something or someone was the token of lordship. Reuben changed the names of the cities of the Amorites after he had conquered them (Num. 32:38). Likewise, Pharaoh Necho changed Eliakim's name to Jehoiakim after he defeated the Judean king (2 Kin. 23:34). Day (Heb. yom): Apart from the use of the word day in verses 5, 8, 13, 19, 23, and 31, where it describes the days of Creation, it is used in at least four ways in the first two chapters of Genesis: (1) the 12-hour period of daylight as opposed to night (vv. 14, 16, 18); (2) a solar day of 24 hours (v. 14); (3) the period of light that began with the creation of light on the first day (v. 5); and (4) the entire, six-day creative period (2:4). Everywhere in the Pentateuch the word day when used (as here) with a definite article or numerical adjective means a solar day or a normally calibrated, 24-hour day. Thus, the biblical account of Creation clearly indicates that God created the world in six literal days (cf. Ex. 20:11).

1:6. Firmament is an "expanse" between the waters suspended by God in vapor form over the earth. Most likely, approximately half of the waters upon the earth were supernaturally elevated above the atmosphere, perhaps in the form of an invisible vapor canopy. This would have trapped the earth's heat with a "greenhouse effect" and would have provided a uniformly tropical climate everywhere, until it collapsed upon the earth during the universal rainfall at the time of the great Flood (7:11). This might explain the longevity described in Genesis 5, in addition to providing a water source for the Flood of chapters 6-9.

1:11. Contrary to the modern evolutionists (who insist that all plants and animals developed over hundreds of millions of years from a single speck of life in the ocean) and theistic evolutionists (who claim the Bible allows for such processes by the use of such phrases as Let the earth bring forth), Genesis not only dates the creation of marine life (v. 20) as being after the creation of plants and fruit trees, but also reveals that fruit trees were created already bearing fruit whose seed is in itself. God produced a functioning and mature Creation. Plants were created full-grown, as mature and adult organisms, with a superficial appearance of age. Similarly Adam and Eve were created as adults. The phrase after his [or their] kind is repeated 10 times in this chapter, and demands that adults of each "kind" would have to be created supernaturally to begin the life cycle. Moses uses the word kind 30 out of the 31 times it appears in the Old Testament. The word may not require the separate creation of each species by God, but it does require at least the separate creation of families within orders.

1:16. And God made two great lights refers to the sun and moon. They did not appear (a different verb and stem) as the dry land did in verse 9, but were actually made (asah, synonymous with bara') at this time. God makes it clear that He, not the sun, is the earth's Creator, and that God is not dependent upon the sun either for the earth's material substance or for the sustaining of life. From the standpoint of astronomy, the sun and the moon are obviously not "the two great lights" of the universe. This is the language of appearance, as seen from man's viewpoint. Genesis is written in geocentric (rather than heliocentric) terms. "Signs" in verse 14 might refer to unusual sights in the heavens, such as eclipses of the sun, rather than suggest that God designed the celestial bodies to determine the destinies of individual men as modern astrologers proclaim (cf. 2 Kin. 23:12; Jer. 19:13; Zeph. 1:5, where God condemns such practice).

day, and the ^blesser light to rule the night: he made ^cthe stars also.

17 And God set them in the firmament of the ^aheaven to give light upon the earth, 18 And to ^arule over the day and over the night, and to divide the light from the darkness: and God saw that it was good.

19 And the evening and the morning were the fourth day.

The Fifth Day

20 And God said, Let the waters ¹bring forth abundantly the moving creature that hath life, and ²fowl that may fly above the earth in the ³open firmament of heaven.

21 And ^aGod created great ¹whales, and every living creature that moveth, which the waters ²brought forth abundantly, after their kind, and every winged fowl after his kind: and God saw that it was good.

22 And God blessed them, saying, ^aBe fruitful, and multiply, and fill the waters in the seas, and let fowl multiply in the earth.

23 And the evening and the morning were the fifth day.

The Sixth Day

24 And God said, Let the earth bring forth the living creature after his kind, cattle, and creeping thing, and beast of the earth after his kind: and it was so.

25 And God made the beast of the earth after his kind, and cattle after their kind, and every thing that creepeth upon the earth after his kind: and God saw that it was good.

The Creation of Man

26 And God said, ^aLet us make man in our image, after our likeness: and ^blet them have dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the fowl of the air, and over the cattle, and over all the earth, and over every creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth.

27 So God created man ^ain his own image, in the image of God created he him; ^bmale and female created he them.

1:20. Let the waters bring forth is better translated and understood as, “Let the waters swarm with swarms of living creatures,” so as not to misleadingly suggest that the waters themselves produced marine life. This text also implies that aquatic life and fowl appeared simultaneously, denying the evolutionary sequence of reptiles before birds.

1:21. Great whales is not the best translation; better is the term “great sea creatures” to include the great fish as well as whales. Taninim is used elsewhere to describe the serpent (Ex. 7:9, 10, 12) and the dragon (Ps. 148:7; Is. 51:9; Ezek. 29:3). There is no evidence whatever, either from paleontology or genetics, that whales or great sea monsters could have developed from land animals. The theory of evolution claims that the first animals in the oceans were microscopic, single-celled creatures, and that whales (sea cows) had to evolve from four-legged land mammals, which in turn evolved from cold-blooded marine creatures. Thus, they would have devolved!

1:24. Living creature is the same Hebrew expression used for man in 2:7, translated “living soul.”

1:26–28. In contrast to animals in verses 20 and 24 where God said, “Let the waters bring forth” and “Let the earth bring forth,” He now says, Let us make man in our image, after our likeness. All others reproduce after “their kind,” but man is the only one made in the image of God and reproducing in that image (5:3). The terms image and likeness are used synonymously, and refer primarily to man’s spiritual resemblance (rationally and morally) to his Maker. God placed a great chasm between man and the beast, for only man has the capacity for eternal life, fellowship, moral discernment, self-consciousness, speech, and worship. Even after the Fall, man retains this image of God (cf. 9:6; James 3:9), though it has been marred. The plural pronoun us is most likely a majestic plural from the standpoint of Hebrew grammar and syntax. Man is used in a generic sense which is amplified by the phrase male and female, even though Eve’s physical formation is not detailed until 2:18–24. These words are not the usual Hebrew words for “man” (ish) and “woman” (ishah). The words used here specifically distinguish the sexes—male and female. Sexes are only implied with regard to animals, but not here. The reason is that a completely unique relationship

IMAGE AND LIKENESS OF GOD

1:26. Man was created in both the image and likeness of God. An image is a representation or replica of one person or thing by another. Illustration: An image may be similar but not necessarily identical to its original. The term likeness is used as a gauge of comparison, or analogy.

When man fell, he retained an impaired image of God (9:6). Regaining a likeness of God is one of the accomplishments of salvation. Our spiritual likeness is restored in justification. Our character likeness is being continuously developed in the process of sanctification. We will be like Christ physically when we are glorified. Application: God’s purpose in our lives today is to conform us to the image of Christ (Rom. 8:29). (First Reference, Gen. 1:26; Primary Reference, Gen. 1:27; cf. Heb. 4:12.)

28 And God blessed them, and God said unto them, “Be fruitful, and multiply, and ¹replenish the earth, and ^bsubdue it: and have dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the fowl of the air, and over every living thing that ²moveth upon the earth.

The Giving of Food

29 And God said, Behold, I have given you every herb ¹bearing seed, which is upon the face of all the earth, and every tree, in the which is the fruit of a tree yielding seed; ^ato you it shall be for ²meat.

30 And to ^aevery beast of the earth, and to every ^bfowl of the air, and to every thing that creepeth upon the earth, wherein there is ¹life, I have given every green herb for ²meat: and it was so.

The Seventh Day

2 Thus the heavens and the earth were finished, and ^aall the host of them.

2 ^aAnd on the seventh day God ended his work which he had made; and he rested on the seventh day from all his work which he had made.

3 And God ^ablessed the seventh day, and sanctified it: because that in it he had rested from all his work which God created and made.

was to develop, namely, holy marriage (cf. 2:22–24). Dominion is not the content but the consequence of the divine image (cf. 1 Cor. 6:3; 15:27, 28; Heb. 2:7–10; James 3:7, 8). And God blessed them: To “bless” is not only to bestow a gift, but also to assign a function. Replenish is better translated “fill the earth,” indicating the first time. It cannot be used in support of the refashioning of an already judged earth, for it always means to fill something the first time. 1:29–31. Meat meant “food” in the early seventeenth century, when the KJV was translated. No actual animal flesh was condoned until after the Flood in Genesis 9:3. God saw is an expression in anthropomorphic terms relating His evaluation of His Creation (cf. 6:5; 11:5). Now at the end of His Creation work, He says it was very good, “exceedingly good” and not simply “good” as before in the chapter. In the light of this statement, it is difficult to believe that the earth was already under the control of a fallen angel, Satan, and that the crust of the earth was filled with the fossils of creatures that had previously been destroyed (the Gap Theory). 2:1–3. The process of “filling” and “forming” is now finished (cf. 1:1). Host of them refers to all the things that God created, as opposed to stars in Nehemiah 9:6 and angels in 1 Kings 22:19. He rested employs the root for “sabbath” that later relates to Israel in Exodus 16:29; 20:10, 11; and Deuteronomy 5:15. It implies He ceased or desisted from His creating work. No weariness is suggested. John 5:17 indicates the Father is always at work. Sanctified: That is, He set it apart from the other days (Ex. 20:11). 2:4–7. Generations is the first of 10 section-headings in Genesis (cf. 5:1; 6:9; 10:1; 11:10, 27; 25:12, 19; 36:1; 37:2), which may be better understood as narrating the “histories” or “stories” of various people or

CREATION OF MAN

1:27. Man was created by God on the sixth day of Creation and is the grand climax of all that God had accomplished in the Creation week of miracles. The final act of Creation was that God joined the material and immaterial parts of man. Man’s body was shaped from the dust, but he became a living soul only after God breathed the breath of life into his nostrils (2:7). Application: Our formation by natural birth is no less noteworthy than Adam’s formation from the dust. With David we need to say, “I will praise thee; for I am fearfully and wonderfully made” (Ps. 139:14). (First Reference, Gen. 1:27; Primary Reference, Gen. 1; cf. Gen. 2:7.)

INNOCENCE—EDENIC COVENANT

1:28. The first dispensation, innocence, was governed by the Edenic covenant. Under this covenant, Adam had six obligations: (1) to replenish the earth with children (v. 28); (2) to use nature for his physical needs including food and shelter (v. 28); (3) to have dominion over animal life (v. 28); (4) to eat fruit and vegetables (v. 29); (5) to labor for his sustenance (2:15); and (6) to obey God by abstaining from eating the forbidden fruit. Adam’s failure under this covenant resulted in his expulsion from the garden and in the fall of the human race from a state of innocence into a condition characterized by sin (cf. 3:15).

events. Nowhere in Genesis does the word include the birth of the individual (except in 25:19, where Isaac is mentioned as the son of Abraham). Genesis 5:1 indicates there may have been a “book” (or tablet) of the histories relating to Adam, to which Moses had access under inspiration. In the day is idiomatic, conveying the idea “when the LORD God made.” Made is ’asah, used synonymously with bara’ (cf. 1:1). LORD is likely pronounced “Yahweh.” It is the most significant name for God in the Old Testament, appearing 6,823 times. The name refers to God as the self-existent active One, as it is related to the verb to be in Exodus 3:14. It also indicates Israel’s Redeemer in Exodus 6:6. This name is associated with God’s holiness in Leviticus 11:44, 45, His hatred of sin in Genesis 6:3–7, and His graciousness in providing redemption for all in Isaiah 53:1, 5, 6, and 10. God (Elohīm), which is used to the exclusion of other names for God in chapter 1, indicates His omnipotence, whereas this name emphasizes His care and personal concern for His Creation and His intimate and close relationship to it. Beginning with verse 4, there is a change in the narrative’s flow as it centers on the garden just before man’s arrival. A mist: Some relate this word to an Akkadian root meaning “canals,” “subterranean waterways,” or “floodways,” and not “mist,” which is mere conjecture. The root verb of verse 6’s watered is used in verse 10 for a kind of irrigation relating to the four rivers. The verb “rise up” is used of the Nile River in Amos 8:8 and 9:5. As described in verse 15, keeping the garden well-irrigated and watered for these special types of plants was part of Adam’s work. Formed man: The verb is used on occasion for the “potter” (cf. Jer. 18:2). It expresses the relation of a craftsman to his material, connoting skill (Ps. 94:9) and a sovereignty which man forgets at his peril (Is. 29:16; Jer. 18:4). Here is the “potter” par excellence setting the design and pattern. The corporeal part was the dust of the ground (which is not a symbol of the animal kingdom from which Adam evolved; note its use in 3:19), and the non-corporeal part was the breath of life. The word breath (Heb. ruach) is “spirit.” Life is a plural, but Hebrew frequently uses the plural without meaning a numerical plural. Living soul (Heb. nepesh chayah) should be translated “living creature” as the same phrase appears in 1:21–24 applied to animals. Here the reference stands for the entire person, and is not used in just the metaphysical, theological sense in which we tend to use the term soul today.

2:8. Garden eastward in Eden: The Septuagint has paradeisos, “parkland,” hence paradise for garden. It was only a part of Eden (cf. vv. 10–14). It was literally “off east,” most likely in Mesopotamia (modern Iraq), since two of the four rivers are the well-known Tigris and the Euphrates (v. 14). The word for Eden means “delight, enjoyment” and is associated with paradise in Revelation 2:7. Eden is a symbol of great fertility in Isaiah 51:3, Ezekiel 36:35, and Joel 2:3. So here it may indicate a state of unbroken fellowship between God and man. The expulsion from the garden was more than a physical move (3:24).

2:9. Pleasant is the same root as covet in the Ten Commandments in Exodus 20:17; compare 3:6 where it is “a tree to be desired to make one wise.” We tend to covet things that are pleasant to the sight (Josh. 7:21 and Achan’s sin). Tree of life ... and the tree of knowledge of good and evil: These were two literal trees to which God gave some special significance. The tree of life seems to symbolize the fixed moral state (3:22). Thus, partaking of this tree would be a blessing only for those already glorified (Rev. 2:7; 22:2, 14). Good and evil sometimes serves as an idiom of universality (Num. 24:13; 2 Sam. 13:22), but in this context it has a moral significance.

SOUL

2:7. In the Old Testament, the word soul, among other uses, refers to the whole person. It identifies something that cannot be defined materially and that is therefore distinct from the body (Is. 10:18). The soul is that part of us that is life. It is incorporeal existence. Illustration: At the creation of Adam, man did not have a soul but he became a soul, and the life-principle was the breath or Spirit of God (v. 7). Death is described as the soul’s departing from the body (35:18). Application: The fundamental desire of a Christian’s soul should be for a deeper fellowship and communion with God (Ps. 25:1). (First and Primary Reference, Gen. 2:7; cf. Gen. 1:26.)

The Creation of Woman

21 And the LORD God caused a ^adeep sleep to fall upon Adam, and he slept: and he took one of his ribs, and closed up the flesh instead thereof;

22 And the rib, which the LORD God had taken from man, ¹made he a woman, ^aand ^bbrought her unto the man.

2:15. Dress is from the root meaning “to serve, work,” translated “till” in verse 5 (Deut. 15:19; Is. 19:9; Ezek. 48:18). Keep: The verb means “take care of, guard,” involving tending to or keeping things such as a garden (v. 15), a flock (30:31), or a house (2 Sam. 15:16). In this context, it does not imply to guard from Satan.

2:16. God’s command was thou mayest freely eat, and this included every tree except the tree of the “knowledge of good and evil” in the next verse. The Hebrew conveys very emphatically “you may freely eat [strengthened permission construction] to your heart’s content,” emphasizing the freedom and permission of a loving, gracious God. Note Satan’s subtle assertion in 3:1 as he focused on the “one” tree they could not eat from. In so doing, he excluded the abundance in this verse.

2:17. Thou shalt not eat is in strongest Hebrew form of prohibition. Surely die: The construction emphasizes in the strongest way the certainty of death upon eating. (Note 3:4 and Satan’s “Ye shall not surely die.”) In the Bible there are three deaths: (1) physical death, separation of body and spirit; (2) spiritual death, separation of the individual from God; and (3) eternal death, the final estate of the lost person in the “lake of fire” (Rev. 20:10, 14; termed the “second death,” separation from God forever).

2:18. Not good: The negative is extremely emphatic. It is not the construction for expressing a mere negative preference. In the context of chapters 1 and 2, it is the only thing “not good.” After man and woman are completed, God said in 1:31 it was “very [exceedingly] good.” God’s plan for man was less than ideal and not complete without woman, the emphasis being on alone. Help is a word frequently used in reference to the Lord in the Psalms (10:14; 22:11; 28:7; 46:1; 54:4; 72:12; 86:17; 119:173, 175; 121:1, 2). Thus it is not a degrading position for the woman. The verb form basically means to aid or supply that which the individual cannot provide for himself. The Septuagint translates it boethos, a word the New Testament uses in the sense of “physician” (Matt. 15:25; Mark 9:22, 24; Acts 16:9; Rev. 12:16). It conveys the idea of aiding someone in need, such as the oppressed. Certainly a godly woman meets this need of man. Meet comes from the Hebrew word meaning “opposite.” Literally it is “according to the opposite of him,” meaning that she will complement and correspond to him. The Septuagint has kat’ auton (“according to him”). This relates to a “norm” or “standard.” She is to be equal to and adequate for man. She is also made in the image of God, thus again equal to man and not on the animal level of being.

2:19. Call: God delegated authority to man, since the act of naming the animals shows lordship or dominion (used of God in ch. 1 and in Ps. 8:4–6). It was also a spiritual exercise to prepare Adam and to make him aware of his aloneness as verse 20 indicates. None of the animals “corresponded to” him.

2:20. Adam (related to Heb. adamah, “ground”) literally means “earth man.” It is applied to mankind in general, and to the first created man specifically. Adam was a historical person and was the father of mankind.

2:21. Ribs: It may mean “rib” or “side” (of the ark, a building, or of leaves of a door). Here it would mean from “his side” or “from his ribs” to convey the plural number. Verse 23 indicates it probably involves flesh and bone.

2:22. Brought her unto the man: Here a loving Father presents the bride to the man.

2:19 Adam was the first man and the forefather of the entire human race. He lived a total of 930 years. He was created in a state of innocence and in the image of God. He was also created with the appearance of age, with a high level of intelligence, and with the ability to communicate with God. When he and his wife, Eve, fell into sin (ch. 3), they brought the curse of sin on the entire human race. Adam also appears in nine references in the New Testament in regard to his headship over the human race. (First Reference, Gen. 1:26; Primary Reference, Rom. 5:12–21.)

The Fall of Man

6 And when the woman *a*saw that

2:23. After noticing all of the animals, Adam now at long last (This is now = “this time”), finds that which “corresponds to” him. The close association of the man and woman is conveyed by their names, since she is called Woman [ishah] because she was taken out of Man (ish). Adam’s act of naming his wife reinforces his leadership and authority over her (cf. God’s naming in chapter 1 and 2:19, 20).

2:24. Therefore indicates a reasoned conclusion in light of Adam’s joy at finding a mate. Leave: Here the man leaves, but note Psalm 45:10, 11. Cleave is a strong verb, meaning “join, stick to.” The two verbs “leave” and “cleave,” may be subordinated in the following way: “Let a man forsake, or abandon, his father and his mother in order that he may cleave unto his wife and in order that they might become one flesh.” If he does not leave, he cannot cleave, nor can he become or be one flesh. This is the strongest Hebrew construction to indicate a change of state, the verb “to be” (hayū) plus the preposition (le). The process of becoming one flesh, totally united in life, purpose, and pleasure is presented. Note the change of state in verse 7.

2:25. Naked ... not ashamed: Their outward nakedness was a sign of their integrity. They lived and moved without guilt, shame, or fear of exploitation or threat. Naked in the Hebrew sounds like the word subtil in 3:1, thus tying the two chapters together. Satan will concentrate his shrewdness on their integrity.

3:1. The serpent was a creature made by God but used by Satan (John 8:44; 1 John 3:8; Rev. 12:9; 20:2). More subtil (subtle): Subtlety is a positive virtue when rendered “prudent” (Prov. 12:16, 23; 14:8, 15, 18; 22:3). It is negative when rendered “crafty” (2:25; Job 5:12; 15:5). In the prologue of Proverbs (1:4), one of the goals of the book is to “give subtilty [subtlety] to the simple” (cf. Matt. 10:16). Yea, hath God said: More contemporarily: “Has God indeed said?” It emphasizes his amazement that God would restrict man’s freedom of choice in the garden. Satan centers on a restriction, casting doubt on God’s word, and not emphasizing the fact that God had said in 2:16 they might “freely eat” of all the trees.

3:2. Eve’s reply reveals her carelessness with the wording of 2:16, as she disparages the privileges of God by leaving out the word that conveys the sense of “freely eat” and leaves out the word all.

3:3. Neither shall ye touch it: By adding to His command Eve exaggerates the limitations God had set forth. Or it may just express the idea of consumption, with a parallel phrase used euphemistically of “touching a woman” in Genesis 20:6; 26:29; Ruth 2:9; and Proverbs 6:29. The lest ye die reveals Eve’s third error, toning down the penalty and certainty of death for eating. “Lest” expresses a fear of possibly dying when God had already expressed the certainty of it in 2:17!

3:4. Here Satan blatantly denies God with the same strong Hebrew expression God used in 2:17.

3:5. It was technically true that their eyes would be opened (vv. 7 and 22). But the problem was that their eyes were opened to behold all things in the light of their own sinfulness. As gods is better translated “as God,” which was true in that they would have a fixed moral nature like God; but it was fixed in sin, not righteousness. They knew good, but were unable to do it; and they knew evil, but were unable to resist it. There has always been the temptation to be like God. Here it suggests God is holding something back from Adam and Eve.

3:6. When the woman saw: This was an evaluation process of the mind, for the tree was good for food

2:24. God’s ideal plan for marriage is one man for one woman for one lifetime. God’s pattern for marital happiness is evident when a man loves and leads his family, with children who obey and reverence their parents (Eph. 6:1–4), with a wife who respects and supports her husband’s leadership (Eph. 5:21–33). A mutually supportive attitude must characterize both husband and wife if they are to succeed in building a harmonious home. Illustration: Marriage is so important in the mind of God that it was the first of three divine institutions and was patterned to illustrate Christ’s love for the church. Application: Christians should therefore do their part in contributing to the success of the family. (First Reference, Gen. 2:24; Primary Reference, Eph. 5:22–6:4; cf. Matt. 19:3.)

15 And I will put enmity between thee and the woman, and between ^athy seed and ^bher seed; ^cit¹ shall bruise thy head, and thou shalt bruise his heel.

16 Unto the woman he said, I will greatly multiply thy ¹sorrow and thy conception; ^ain sorrow thou shalt bring forth children; ^band thy desire shall be ²to thy husband, and he shall ^crule over thee.

(an appeal to appetite, or “lust of the flesh”); it was pleasant to the eyes (the same root word used in Ex. 20 in the law against coveting, as “lust of the eyes”); and it was to be desired to make one wise (the verb for desired is used in the law in Deut. 5 for coveting, and appeals to “pride of life,” cf. 1 John 2:16). With her may imply that the man was in close proximity all the time.

3:7. The sense of guilt is immediate (cf. 2:25), and they attempt to make themselves presentable, to cover up their nakedness (v. 21).

3:8. Voice: Better translated “sound” as it appears in the theophanies in the Old Testament (cf. Ps. 18:13; 29:3–9; Jer. 25:30; Ezek. 1:24ff.; Joel 3:16). Walking: Actually “traversing back and forth” looking for Adam (v. 9). The cool of the day may be understood as the “spirit of the day,” as the Hebrew word for cool is the same for spirit. The day is a judgment day in the context. No small wonder that as the sound of the Lord God was traversing back and forth in the garden seeking out Adam and Eve, they actively hid themselves from His presence, acknowledging that their intimate fellowship was broken (cf. 4:14; Ps. 139:7ff.).

3:9. God always seeks out man, in the sense that He solicits a response from His Creation now separated from Him by sin. Thus God comes asking questions, not making accusations.

3:10. Adam heard the “sound” of the Lord God and was afraid (as most men are afraid of God today), and began the agelong process of “hiding himself” from his Maker.

3:12. Adam blamed the woman and God, since God was the one who brought her to Adam in 2:22.

3:13. Eve was beguiled as 1 Timothy 2:14 confirms (cf. 2 Cor. 11:3). But she did not take responsibility for eating, either. Blame-shifting is another evasive tactic employed by fallen man.

3:14. Jeremiah 12:4 and Romans 8:20 indicate that the whole animal kingdom was affected by the Fall and the Edenic curse. The serpent’s mobilization may have been changed, and figuratively he was to eat dust, (idiomatic for subservience) which conveys the idea of being cursed. Isaiah 65:25 indicates the effects will remain in the Millennium.

3:15. This verse has long been recognized as the first messianic prophecy of the Bible. Thus, it also contains the first glimpse of the gospel (protoevangelium). It reveals three essential truths: (1) that Satan is the enemy of the human race, explaining why God put enmity [related to the word enemy] between thee [Satan] and the woman; (2) that He would place a spiritual barrier between thy seed (Satan’s people) and her seed (God’s people); and (3) that the representative seed of the woman (i.e., a human being: Christ) would deliver the deathblow to Satan, but in so doing would be bruised Himself. It [or “He,”] shall bruise [lit., “crush”] thy head, and thou shalt bruise his heel refers to Christ’s bruising on the cross, which led to the eventual crushing of Satan and his kingdom.

3:16. Thy sorrow and thy conception: The word for sorrow means “birth pangs” and sounds like the Hebrew word for tree, which is a reminder of the source of this pain in the sin involving the tree of the knowledge of good and evil. It also looks forward to the Crucifixion when the curse ultimately will be hung on a tree. Thy desire has been variously interpreted: (1) a physical desire strong enough to compensate for the pain of childbirth; (2) her natural desire to submit

17 And unto Adam he said, ^aBecause thou hast hearkened unto the voice of thy wife, and hast eaten of the tree, ^bof which I commanded thee, saying, Thou shalt not eat of it: ^ccursed is the ground for thy sake; ^din ¹sorrow shalt thou eat of it all the days of thy life;

18 Thorns also and thistles shall it bring forth to thee; and ^athou shalt eat the herb of the field;

19 ^aIn the sweat of thy face shalt thou eat bread, till thou return unto the ground; for out of it wast thou taken: ^bfor dust thou art, and ^cunto dust shalt thou return.

20 And Adam called his wife's name ^aEve;¹ because she was the mother of all living.

21 Unto Adam also and to his wife did the LORD God make ¹coats of skins, and clothed them.

Man Sent from the Garden

22 And the LORD God said, Behold, the man is become as one of us, to know good and evil: and now, lest he put forth his hand, and take also of the tree of life, and eat, and live for ever:

23 Therefore the LORD God sent him forth from the garden of Eden, ^ato till the ground from whence he was taken.

24 So ^ahe drove out the man; and he placed ^bat the east of the garden of Eden ^cCherubims, and a flaming sword which turned every way, to ¹keep the way of the tree of ^alife.

Cain and Abel

4 And Adam knew Eve his wife; and she conceived, and bare ¹Cain, and said, I have gotten a man from the LORD.

to her husband's leadership; or (3) perhaps a desire "against" her husband in not being willing to submit to him because of her fallen sinful nature (cf. Eph. 5:22; 1 Tim. 3:4, 11).

3:17. Adam "obeyed" the voice of Eve and not God (2:17), which was the first marital role reversal. Sorrow is the same word applied to the woman in verse 16. Thus, they shared equally in their punishment.

3:20, 21. Eve comes from the verb to live. Here is Adam's act of faith, looking to the future with hope. This word sounds like the word used in this verse, living. Adam seems not only to believe that God spoke the truth, but also to have faith in the salvation God had promised in verses 15 and 16. Coats of skins: This is how Yahweh provides clothing for Adam and Eve, after their feeble attempt to cover their nakedness and shame. It is His way of demonstrating that He acknowledges their act of faith in verse 20. The word for skins presupposes the death of an animal and therefore the idea of blood sacrifice is clearly implied.

3:22-24. Man is become as one of us: Satan's promise in 3:5 was technically true; see the discussion there. God sent him forth as an act of grace as well as judgment. To keep was used in 2:15 for the activities of man. The account relates privileges and responsibilities lost. And the way to the tree of life is guarded. Man's way back to life is not easy; it will be by divine intervention.

4:1. Knew in this context refers to the "knowledge" of sexual relations. It is also the connecting link to the whole chapter; note the appearance of the word in connection with the tree of knowledge in verses

FIRST MESSIANIC PROPHECY: PROTOEVANGELIUM

3:15. The promise that the seed (descendant) of the woman would crush the head of the serpent (Satan) is the first messianic prophecy of the Bible. No specific details are given, only the promise that a human being descending from the line of the woman would finally triumph over Satan. Scholars have often called this the protoevangelium (first gospel). Application: The promise finds its fulfillment in the incarnation and birth of Christ (Matt. 1:25). "But when the fulness of the time was come, God sent forth his Son, made of a woman, made under the law" (Gal. 4:4; cf. Ex. 26:1).

ADAMIC COVENANT

3:15. The dispensation of conscience was based on Adam's limited experience with good and evil. He should have remembered the positive results of obedience and the disastrous consequences of disobedience. The Adamic covenant was introduced at the beginning of this period. Under the covenant, the serpent was cursed (v. 14); God promised redemption through the seed of the woman (v. 15); the woman experienced multiplied sorrow and pain in child-bearing (v. 16); the earth was cursed (vv. 17, 18); sorrow, pain, and physical death became part of the experience of life, and labor became burdensome (v. 19). Man failed under this covenant, degenerating to the point where people did only evil continually (6:5) until God judged them with the Flood (cf. 9:12).

3:20. Eve is described as the "mother of all living." As the first woman, she is the mother of the entire human race. The term "woman" (Heb. 'ishah), means "from the man" ('ish), whereas Eve is her personal name and comes from the verb "to live" (Heb. hayya). The account of her moral choice and its consequences is nowhere repeated in the Old Testament. In the New Testament, the fall of the human race is clearly viewed as the result of Adam's willful disobedience (Rom. 5:12-21).

2 And she again bare his brother ¹Abel. And ^aAbel was a keeper of sheep, but Cain was a tiller of the ground.

3 And ¹in process of time it came to pass, that Cain brought of the fruit ^aof the ground an offering unto the LORD.

4 And Abel, he also brought of ^athe firstlings of his flock and of ^bthe fat thereof. And the LORD had ^crespect unto Abel and to his offering:

Abel Murdered

8 And Cain talked with Abel his brother: ¹and it came to pass, when they were in the field, that Cain rose up against Abel his brother, and ^aslew him.

9 And the LORD said unto Cain, Where is Abel thy brother? And he said, ^aI know not: Am I ^bmy brother's keeper?

10 And he said, What hast thou done? the voice of thy brother's blood ^acrieth unto me from the ground.

The Curse of Cain

11 And now art ^athou cursed from the earth, which hath opened her mouth to receive thy brother's blood from thy hand;

12 When thou tillest the ground, it shall not henceforth yield unto thee her strength; a fugitive and a vagabond shalt thou be in the earth.

1, 17, and 25. The replacing of a son by “knowing” is antithetical to the murder, which is denied in verse 9 by, “I know not.” Some take from the LORD as an accusative: “I have gotten a man, the LORD.” But the preposition is better, “I have created, acquired, a man with [the help of] Yahweh!” Thus Eve sees her generative power as part of the sharing of divine power: “Yahweh formed man; I have formed the second man.”

4:2. Brother: This word appears seven times in this passage. The name Abel appears seven times and Cain 14 times, which heightens the contrast between the two men. Abel means “Keeper” and refers to his occupation as a keeper of sheep.

4:4. Firstlings of his flock refers to the fact that Abel's offering was accepted because it was a blood sacrifice based upon previous knowledge (cf. 3:21). Thus, he acknowledged that his sin deserved death and could be covered only by the death of a guiltless sacrifice (cf. Heb. 9:22). That his lamb was a “firstling” and “fat” may also imply that he gave the best that he had in contrast to Cain's offering. However, it is obvious from the entire account that Abel's offering was “more excellent” (Heb. 11:4) because it was the right kind of offering as well as being made with the right heart attitude.

4:6, 7. God approached Cain in love and offered him a chance to correct his mistake. Again God asked convicting questions. He made no accusations. He gave him the opportunity to do well, that is, to make the right kind of sacrifice with the right heart attitude.

He then warned Cain that an offering of good works would not be accepted. Sin lieth (“crouches” like a lion) probably refers to the fact that sin would pounce upon him if he did not rule (“master”) it. Some take this phrase to mean that a sin offering was at the door, and if he made the right offering he could still rule over his brother, but the other interpretation is preferred. The idea of potentiality is the same as expressed in 3:16.

4:8. Cain's anger had already been noted in verses 5 and 6. Now, in a fit of anger, he murders Abel. This begins the long history of human violence and man's inhumanity to his fellowman. This murder also had to be a heartbreaking reminder to Adam and Eve that the consequence of sin is death (2:17; cf. Rom. 6:23).

4:9. Cain's insolence and arrogance are evident in his curt response to God's question, Where is Abel thy brother? First he lied and then used a play on words to avoid answering the question. Am I my brother's keeper? plays on the name Abel, “Keeper.”

4:10. Thy brother's blood is plural in Hebrew and may refer to his “seeds” who have been cut off and will never be born. Thus, God's judgment is on those who, by whatever means, abort human life. Crieth means crying out for vengeance.

4:11. Cain was now to be cursed (cf. the serpent and the ground, 3:14, 17). This was a special curse making it impossible for Cain to be a farmer, his occupation in verse 2.

4:12. He would be a fugitive (the root meaning to “wander” or “move”) and vagabond (denoting a 4:1. Cain was the eldest son of Adam and Eve and a farmer or tiller of the ground. His offering of the fruits of his labor was rejected probably because it represented his self-effort or good works, as opposed to Abel's blood sacrifice. Since God had made the original sacrifice in clothing Adam and Eve's nakedness (Gen. 3:21), it can be assumed that Cain knew this was the only kind of sacrifice God would accept. Blood atonement foresaw both Israel's sacrificial system (Lev. 1:2–17) and the sacrificial blood atonement of Christ on the cross (Rom. 5:11; 1 Cor. 15:3). New Testament authors view Cain as being “of the evil one” (1 John 3:12) who acted out of envy and unbelief.

13 And Cain said unto the LORD, My ¹punishment is greater than I can bear.

14 Behold, thou hast driven me out this day from the face of the earth; and ^afrom thy face shall I be ^bhid; and I shall be a fugitive and a vagabond in the earth; and it shall come to pass, ^cthat every one that findeth me shall slay me.

15 And the LORD said unto him, ¹Therefore whosoever slayeth Cain, vengeance shall be taken on him ^asevenfold. And the LORD set a ^bmark upon Cain, lest any finding him should kill him.

Lamech's Descendants

19 And Lamech took unto him ^atwo wives: the name of the one was Adah, and the name of the other Zillah.

20 And Adah bare Jabal: he was the father of such as dwell in tents, and of such as have ¹cattle.

24 ^aIf Cain shall be avenged sevenfold, truly Lamech seventy and sevenfold.

“going back and forth”), conveying the idea of wandering aimlessly. He dwells in the land of Nod (“Wandering”), a word with the same root as vagabond in Hebrew.

4:13. He has just killed his brother and now blames God for being too harsh! Punishment may refer to either (1) the actual punishment for sin; or (2) his “iniquity” or “guilt.” It reflects his feeling that either the punishment, or his burden of guilt which he now recognized, was too harsh.

4:14. Adam hid from Yahweh in shame and guilt (3:8); now Cain must hide himself. From thy face shall I be hid is a passive verb form (“I must hide myself from your face”), and is part of his curse. Every one is “anyone finding me”; it looks to the idea of blood revenge for this death and anticipates other murders.

4:15. The LORD set a mark as another act of His grace and goodness toward Cain. It is best to take it as a personal sign for Cain, like that for Gideon in Judges 6:36–40 and Elisha in 2 Kings 2:9–12. The idea of vengeance appears in verse 24 with the taunt song of Lamech.

4:16. This portrays the direction of fallen and un-saved humanity into exile from God, without hope in the world, “wandering aimlessly” about.

4:23. Lamech said: These verses express the culmination of centuries of ungodly living among the descendants of Cain. Cain had desired to establish a name for himself (cf. 6:4; 10:9; 11:4); he built a city and named it after his son. His descendants were involved in polygamy, as well as purely humanitarian pursuits. Now Lamech had taken the law into his own hands and had killed someone in revenge. The judicial office had degenerated into a vengeful tyranny in this heir of the dynasty’s murderous founder. The song expresses Lamech’s overweening pride and his refusal to suffer any hurt without wreaking severalfold, dire revenge. This expression of arrogance, conceit, and disdain for customary retribution is skillfully reinforced by the poet through a clever manipulation of poetic convention by which a smaller is placed before a larger one in parallel structure for distinct emphasis. This sets the background for why God sends the Flood in chapters 6–9, where He says “violence” fills the earth (6:13).

ANTHROPOMORPHISMS

4:14. Occasionally the Scriptures use expressions that seem to attribute human, physical features to God (such as fingers, hands, arms, and face). Theologians refer to these as “anthropomorphisms.” Illustration: Because God is spirit and not a body (John 4:24), we know these expressions do not describe Him physically but are used to help man understand truths concerning God. Application: Paul used a similar type of expression when he urged Christians to “run with patience the race that is set before us” (Heb. 12:1). He did not mean Christians should devote time to jogging as they would to prayer and Bible study. He used this figure of speech to emphasize the truth of continuing to live the Christian life. (First Reference, Gen. 3:8; Primary Reference, Gen. 4:14; cf. 1 John 1:5.)

4:25, 26. Against this dark picture of man apart from God, there is a brief testimony that God has a remnant of people who are trusting Him. Knew: Compare the use of this word in verse 1 with the meaning of "Appointed." Seth's name in Hebrew is pronounced shēt; for God "appointed" (shat) him, a play on words. Eve is acknowledging that God has provided a son in the place of the slain Abel. Enos: The word comes from the word for man which means "weak" or "sickly," denoting man's frailty. It is translated "desperately wicked" in reference to the heart of man (Jer. 17:9). Call upon the name of the LORD: This is a testimony that the religious worship of the community of faith was organized for their public worship of God, together (cf. vv. 2-4, indicating individual worship too). And it is significant that they know the name of Yahweh (LORD) before the events of Exodus 6:3. The liberal interpretation says they learned the name for the first time during the Exodus period.

5:3-20. Adam ... begat a son in his own likeness: Man, too, reproduces after his kind (cf. 1:11, 12, 21, 24, 25). This likeness is now sinful, in contrast to 1:26. It is helpful to note that Cain and Abel are not included. Therefore the list does not include all descendants. There are 10 patriarchs mentioned in this chapter. The last one, Noah, has three sons listed. This symmetry is the same in chapter 11. In Matthew 1 there are three sets with 14 names to a set, plus obvious omissions. Certainly no strict chronology can be determined from any of the lists. Nine hundred and thirty years: Seven patriarchs lived more than nine hundred years; contrast this fact with the much shorter life span in 11:10-32—an average span of about two hundred years. The purpose of this chapter, and the source of its historical importance, is its testimony to the development of the human race from Adam to Noah, citing the godly line. It appears to be God's answer to Satan's blasphemous lie: "Ye shall not surely die" (3:4). Death reigned, and God's word was fully vindicated.

5:3. Seth was the third son of Adam and Eve. He became the forefather of the godly line of their descendants. He was the ancestral father of the world's longest living man, Methuselah (Gen. 5:27); of the first person to be raptured directly to heaven, Enoch (Gen 5:24); and of Noah, who survived the great flood (Gen. 5:29). Jewish tradition considers Seth as "honored among men" (Sirach 49:16). The spiritual intermarriage of the godly line of Seth and the ungodly line of Cain ultimately led to the judgment of the global flood.

Man's Wickedness

6 And it came to pass, ^awhen men began to multiply on the face of the earth, and daughters were born unto them,

5:21-24. Enoch walked with God: The verb employed signifies "to walk about" or "to live," and the preposition denotes intimacy, fellowship (Jude 14 and 15 reveal his ministry and evidently powerful preaching). And he was not; for God took him (Heb. 11:5): The same Hebrew word is used for the "translation" of Elijah in 2 Kings 2:3-5. He went to heaven without dying. His bodily translation (during the long antediluvian sway of the curse) was a sign that, ultimately, reconciliation with God includes victory over death.

5:28-32. Noah: The oracle of the birth of the son of Lamech involves a wordplay, passing over the obvious etymology of the name Noah, meaning "Rest." There is a somewhat similar verb, nacham, meaning "comfort." The allusion to 3:17 may be a sign that he treasured the promise of 3:15. Noah begat Shem, Ham, and Japheth: Japheth was the oldest (cf. 10:21), Ham the youngest (9:24). Shem is mentioned first because it was through him that God's Messiah would come. This chapter serves at least three purposes in the scheme of Genesis: (1) It bears witness to man's value to God; by naming individuals and stages in this early human phase, each is known and remembered. (2) It shows how the line of Seth, "the Appointed," led to Noah, "the Deliverer." And (3) it demonstrates both the reign of death by the refrain and he died, and the standing pledge of death's defeat by the "taking" of Enoch.

6:1-4. Sons of God (Heb. benē elohīm) refers to the godly line of Seth, which intermarried with the daughters of men, the ungodly line of Cain. The result of these spiritually mixed marriages brought the judgment of God upon the primeval world. While the term sons of God refers to angels in some passages (e.g., Job 1:6), this is certainly not the case here. Jesus clearly taught that angels do not "marry or give in marriage" (Matt. 22:30). My spirit shall not always strive with man is a reference to the Holy Spirit striving with, in the sense of judging or convicting, mankind for its sinfulness. Man was given 120 years after this warning, before the judgment of the Flood actually came. Giants (Hebrew nephilim, perhaps "fallen ones" or "princes"): When the Israelites saw the Anakim they concluded they had seen "the nephilim" (Num. 13:33). Mighty men (gibōrīm, "warriors"): Note in verse 11 that the earth was filled with violence. Men of renown were literally "men of a name." In 11:4 the "reputation" or "name" is used in a derogatory sense, contrasted with God's giving Abram a good "name" in 12:2. "Mighty one" is used of Nimrod in a negative sense in 10:8-10.

2 That the sons of God saw the daughters of men that they were fair; and they ^atook them wives of all which they chose.

3 And the LORD said, ^aMy spirit shall not always ^bstrive¹ with man, ^cfor that he also is flesh: yet his days shall be an hundred and twenty years.

4 There were ¹giants in the earth in those ^adays; and also after that, when the sons of God came in unto the daughters of men, and they bare children to them, the same became mighty men which were of old, men of renown.

5 And ¹GOD saw that the wickedness of man was great in the earth, and that every ^aimagination² of the thoughts of his heart was only evil ³continually.

6 And ^ait¹ repented the LORD that he had made man on the earth, and it ^bgrieved him at his ^cheart.

7 And the LORD said, I will ^adestroy man whom I have created from the face of the earth; both man, and beast, and the creeping thing, and the fowls of the air; for ¹it repented me that I have made them.

These giants already existed on earth and were not the offspring of the marriages mentioned.

6:5. Every imagination: The “formations” (2:7 where God “formed” man) is the same word as imagination (yetser). Only evil continually: Man’s design or purpose was “nothing but evil all the day.”

6:6-8. Repented does not imply that God made a mistake in His dealings with men, but rather indicates a change in divine direction resulting from the actions of man. It is “an anthropopathism” (a human emotion applied to God), describing the pain that is caused God by the destructiveness of His creatures. It is used 30 times with God as its subject, each time speaking of a change of mind or intention that accords with His righteous purposes, and results in action commensurate with those purposes. But Noah found grace: This is the first occurrence of the word grace in Scripture. Its root meaning is “to bend or stoop,” implying the condescending or unmerited favor of a superior person to an inferior one. It is often used redemptively (Jer. 31:2; Zech. 12:10). Mankind, the beasts of the field, and the fowl of the air would be destroyed; but God would call out a remnant for Himself.

6:9-13. Noah was a just man and perfect in his generations: The root for just basically means conformity to an ethical or moral standard. It is used of Noah, Daniel, and Job in Ezekiel 14:14, 20. Perfect has the idea of “completeness” or “that which is entirely in accord with truth and fact.” Noah, like his godly ancestor Enoch (5:22, 24), “walked with God.” He separated himself from the wickedness of his contemporaries and followed the Lord.

6:14. Ark of gopher wood: This may be a reference to cedar or cypress, though its meaning is uncertain. The dimensions of the ark given in verse 15 indicate it was more like a barge than a ship. It was about 450 feet long, 75 feet wide, and 45 feet high. It had about 95,700 square feet on three decks, 1,400,000 cubic feet, and a gross tonnage of 13,960. It was fully large enough to carry its prescribed cargo. Its carrying capacity equaled that of 522 standard railroad stockcars, which can carry 125,000 sheep. Thus, the ark was about the size of an oil tanker and was of proper seagoing dimensions for an ocean voyage.

Pitch refers to tar, which like oil is plentiful in the Near East.

6:8. Noah was the last of the pre-Flood patriarchs and the builder of the ark that survived the great Flood. He was 600 years old when the Flood began and lived to be 950 years of age. He is described in the Bible as a righteous man (v. 9) and a man of obedience (v. 22) and faith (Heb. 11:7). The New Testament writers refer to him as an actual person (Matt. 24:37, 38; Luke 17:26, 27) and one who preached righteousness to his generation (2 Pet. 2:5). God sealed His covenant with him by the sign of a rainbow (9:9-17). From his three sons—Shem, Ham, and Japheth—the present world was populated. (First Reference, Gen 6:8; Primary Reference, Gen. 6:8—10:1.)

17 ^aAnd, behold, I, even I, ¹do bring a ^bflood of waters upon the earth, to destroy all flesh, wherein is the breath of life, from under heaven; and every thing that is in the earth shall ^cdie.

The Promise of a Covenant

18 But with thee will I establish my ^acovenant; and ^bthou shalt come into the ark, thou, and thy sons, and thy wife, and thy sons' wives with thee.

19 And of every living thing of all flesh, ^atwo of every sort shalt thou bring into the ark, to keep them alive with thee; they shall be male and female.

7 And the ^aLORD said unto Noah, ^bCome thou and all thy house into the ark; for ^cthee have I seen righteous before me in this generation.

6:16. A window was cut all the way around the ark under the roofline for light and ventilation. The door allowed an entrance for embarkation and debarkation. The three stories were to separate animals for safety and cooperation during the voyage.

24 ^aAnd the waters prevailed upon the earth an hundred and fifty days.

The Waters Recede

8 And God ^aremembered Noah, and every living thing, and all the ¹cattle that was with him in the ark: ^band God made a wind to pass over the earth, and the waters ²as-swaged;

2 ^aThe fountains also of the deep and the windows of heaven were ^bstopped, and ^cthe rain from heaven was restrained;

3 And the waters ¹returned from off the earth continually: and after the end ^aof the hundred and fifty days the waters ²were abated.

The Ark Rests on Ararat

4 And the ark rested in the seventh month, on the seventeenth day of the month, upon the mountains of Ararat.

7:16. And the LORD shut him in: God preserved Noah and his family.

7:20. Fifteen cubits upward: The water level was 15 cubits (or about 22.5 feet) higher than the highest mountain. Since water seeks its own level, certainly this was no local flood.

8:1-5. God remembered Noah: This is not to intimate that during the days of the Flood, God had forgotten His righteous servant; the verb remember refers to the special attention or personal care that God gives to His own. The verb is used the same way concerning Samson (Judg. 16:28); Hannah (1 Sam. 1:11); Abraham, for Lot's benefit (Gen. 19:29); on behalf of Israel (Ex. 2:24); and for the repentant thief on the cross (Luke 23:42). Mountains of Ararat: The text says mountains, which indicates a range of mountains and not necessarily one peak. Today, Ararat rises about 17,000 feet above sea level. The ark rested on land 74 days after the end of the 150 days while the water abated (cf. 7:11).

GLOBAL FLOOD

7:17. The flood of waters is described as a global flood. Universal terms (“all flesh,” “every thing”) are used 30 times in describing this Flood. The double superlatives (“every living thing of all flesh,” and “all the high hills under the whole heaven”), clearly indicate that the author intended to state his case unmistakably. The Hebrew word mabul (“deluge”) describes only this Flood, as does the New Testament Greek word kataklysmos, “cataclysm” (2 Pet. 3:3-7). The depth of the Flood and its duration (371 days) indicate that it was no mere local flood. The size of the ark (95,700 square feet of deck space) and its gross tonnage indicate the magnitude of this Flood. God’s promise (9:11) that He would never again send such a flood upon the earth also confirms its uniqueness. Our Lord Jesus referred to both the historicity and universality of this Flood as an example of the worldwide judgment to accompany His second coming (Matt. 24:37-44). The conclusion is inescapable: the universal Flood is presented as a fact of history in the Bible (cf. Num. 12:1-10).

5 And the waters decreased continually until the tenth month: in the tenth month, on the first day of the month, were the tops of the mountains seen.

A Raven and a Dove Sent Forth

6 And it came to pass at the end of forty days, that Noah opened “the window of the ark which he had made:

7 And he sent forth a raven, which went forth to and fro, until the waters were dried up from off the earth.

8 Also he sent forth a dove from him, to see if the waters were abated from off the face of the ground;

9 But the dove found no rest for the sole of her foot, and she returned unto him into the ark, for the waters were on the face of the whole earth: then he put forth his hand, and took her, and pulled her in unto him into the ark.

10 And he stayed yet other seven days; and again he sent forth the dove out of the ark;

11 And the dove came in to him in the evening; and, lo, in her mouth was an olive leaf ¹plucked off: so Noah knew that the waters were abated from off the earth.

12 And he stayed yet other seven days; and sent forth the dove; which returned not again unto him any more.

13 And it came to pass in the six hundredth and first year, in the first month, the first day of the month, the waters were dried up from off the earth: and Noah removed the covering of the ark, and looked, and, behold, the face of the ground was dry.

Leaving the Ark

15 And God spake unto Noah, saying,

16 Go forth of the ark, “thou, and thy wife, and thy sons, and thy sons’ wives with thee.

17 Bring forth with thee every living thing that is with thee, of all flesh, both of fowl, and of cattle, and of every creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth; that they may breed abundantly in the earth, and “be fruitful, and multiply upon the earth.

18 And Noah went forth, and his sons, and his wife, and his sons’ wives with him:

19 Every beast, every creeping thing, and every fowl, and whatsoever creepeth upon the earth, after their ¹kinds, went forth out of the ark.

Noah’s Sacrifice and God’s Promise

20 And Noah builded an “altar unto the LORD; and took of ^bevery clean beast, and of every clean fowl, and offered ^cburnt offerings on the altar.

21 And the LORD smelled “a ¹sweet savour; and the LORD said in his heart, I will not again ^bcurse the ground any more for man’s sake; ²for the “imagination³ of man’s heart is evil from his youth; “neither will I again smite any more every thing living, as I have done.

22 “While the earth remaineth, seedtime and harvest, and cold and heat, and summer and winter, and ^bday and night shall not cease.

God Blesses Noah

9 And God blessed Noah and his sons, and said unto them, “Be fruitful, and multiply, and ¹replenish the earth.

8:20-22. Noah builded an altar, illustrating his walk with God. The Lord regarded this sacrifice as a “sweet savor,” or more literally, “a smell of satisfaction” (Lev. 1:9, 13, 17; 2:2, 9; 3:5, 16, all for the voluntary offerings of consecration). He promised never again to curse the ground, that is, to destroy the earth by a flood, and not a reversal of 3:17 or 5:29. Note 9:9-17 in this regard. If the Flood of Noah’s day had been merely a local one, the Lord has violated His promise many times over. Shall not cease: This may be considered the basic text for the doctrine of “limited uniformitarianism.” The theory of “total uniformitarianism” is refuted in 2 Peter 3:1-6, for such a theory denies the possibility of a universal flood and a final supernatural judgment of the world. Genesis 8:22 guarantees that after the Flood, the seasonal cycle will continue uninterrupted “while the earth remaineth”—until the end of the Millennium. Thus, the doctrine of “limited uniformitarianism” assures us that the world cannot be destroyed by water during our lifetime.

The Rainbow

12 And God said, ^aThis is the ¹token of the covenant which I make between me and you and every living creature that is with you, for perpetual generations:

13 I do set ^amy ¹bow in the cloud, and it shall be for a ²token of a covenant between me and the earth.

14 And it shall come to pass, when I bring a cloud over the earth, that the ¹bow shall be seen in the cloud:

15 And ^aI will remember my covenant, which is between me and you and every living creature of all flesh; and the waters shall no more become a flood to destroy all flesh.

16 And the ¹bow shall be in the cloud; and I will look upon it, that I may remember ^athe everlasting covenant between God and every living creature of all flesh that is upon the earth.

17 And God said unto Noah, This is the ¹token of the covenant, which I have established between me and all flesh that is upon the earth.

18 And the sons of Noah, that went forth of the ark, were Shem, and Ham, and Japheth: ^aand Ham is the father of Canaan.

19 ^aThese are the three sons of Noah: ^band of them was the whole earth ¹overspread.

9:1-7. Fear and dread take the place of the previous harmony between man and animals. God now sanctions man to eat animals. However, further revelation in Leviticus 17:10 prohibits eating blood. And surely your blood of your lives will I require: The God-given right of executing murderers involves the establishment of human government following the Flood. This right of capital punishment has not been rescinded during the Christian era (Acts 25:11; Rom. 13:4). The really terrible thing about murder is that it strikes at the very image of God in man, which makes man of vital importance to God.

9:18. Shem was not the oldest, but he was in the messianic line (note the order in 5:32; 6:10; 7:13; and 10:1). Ham is the father of Canaan: This circumstantial clause actually traces the beginnings of the family of Canaanites and shows that Ham, acting as he did, revealed himself as the true "father" of Canaan, which would recall to the Israelite mind many unfavorable images because of their corrupting influence (12:6; 13:7; 15:16; 18:20-22; 19:38; Lev. 18:2-6).

NOAHIC COVENANT

9:12. This covenant involved the dispensation of human government, with humanity governing itself. Man was responsible to govern the world for God. The governing covenant of this era was the Noahic covenant (v. 11). Under it, man's relationship to the earth and to the order of nature was confirmed (vv. 2-11), human government was established, and God promised never again to use a universal flood to judge the world (vv. 11-17). The failure of man under this dispensation culminated in the building of the tower of Babel and resulted in the judgment of the confusion of tongues (cf. 11:1-3, 7).

Noah's Drunkenness

20 And Noah began to be an husbandman, and he planted a vineyard:

21 And he drank of the wine, ^aand was drunken; and he was uncovered within his tent.

22 And Ham, the father of Canaan, saw the nakedness of his father, and told his two brethren without.

23 ^aAnd Shem and Japheth took a garment, and laid it upon both their shoulders, and went backward, and covered the nakedness of their father; and their faces were ¹backward, and they saw not their father's nakedness.

24 And Noah awoke from his wine, and knew what his younger son had done unto him.

Canaan Cursed

25 And he said, ^aCursed be Canaan; ^ba servant of servants shall he be unto his brethren.

26 And he said, ^aBlessed be the LORD God of Shem; and Canaan shall be his servant.

27 God shall ^aenlarge Japheth, ^band he shall dwell in the tents of Shem; and Canaan shall be his servant.

28 And Noah lived after the flood three hundred and fifty years.

Noah's Descendants

10 Now ¹these are the generations of the sons of Noah, Shem, Ham, and Japheth: ^aand unto them were sons born after the flood.

Japheth's Descendants

2 ^aThe sons of Japheth; Gomer, and Magog, and Madai, and Javan, and Tubal, and Meshech, and Tiras.

3 And the sons of Gomer; Ashkenaz, and Riphath, and Togarmah.

4 And the sons of Javan; Elishah, and Tarshish, Kittim, and Dodanim.

5 By these were ^athe ¹isles of the Gentiles ²divided in their lands; every one ³after his tongue, after their families, ⁴in their nations.

Ham's Descendants

6 ^aAnd the sons of Ham; Cush, and Mizraim, and ¹Phut, and Canaan.

7 And the sons of Cush; Seba, and Havilah, and Sabtah, and Raamah, and Sabtechah: and the sons of Ramah; Sheba, and Dedan.

9:20. Noah began: The word began brings an ominous note to the early stories in Genesis (cf. 10:8; 11:6). Husbandman literally means “man of the soil,” perhaps indicating “master of the earth,” or “lord of the earth.”

9:21. He drank of the wine, and was drunken; and he was uncovered [“uncovered himself”] within his tent: Noah had been so faithful to God that it is unlikely that he did this deliberately. His drunken condition may have been a totally unexpected result of the changed environment after the Flood.

9:22. Ham ... saw the nakedness of his father: While many explanations have been suggested for this phrase, it is best to take it to mean merely what it says. There is no indication of any gross violation. The phrase is not the same as in Leviticus 20:17, where it is parallel to another term used exclusively for sexual violations. The phrase indicates that this violation of privacy was merely the beginning of eventual sexual degradation.

9:25. Cursed be Canaan: The essence of this prophetic curse is that only the Canaanites are cursed, not all of Ham's descendants. Servant of servants literally denotes the most abject slavery. Even when the blessings are declared for the brothers, the theme of Canaan's servitude is repeated both times.

The Canaanites were white. In no way is this to be interpreted as a curse on the black race. The Canaanites inhabited Palestine and were first subjugated by Joshua and later by Solomon (1 Kin. 9:20, 21). They were partly exterminated by the Israelites, and their western colonies (such as Carthage) were finally conquered by the Japhetic Romans. They practiced ritual prostitution, homosexuality, and various orgiastic rites, and were the center of God's prophecy of judgment in Genesis 15:16, to be carried out by Israel after their sojourn in Egypt. But the curse did not preclude individual salvation, for Rahab joined Israel, and Hiram, king of Tyre, gave materials for the temple.

9:26. Blessed be the LORD God of Shem: Shem's blessing is a spiritual one, by virtue of his knowing Yahweh. It looks to his descendants—Israel—who would enter a covenant relationship with Him in Exodus 19, 20. By blessing one's God, the man himself is blessed. The Jews are of Semitic origin—from Shem.

9:27. Japheth is from the verb meaning “to enlarge,” and Japheth's descendants would receive the temporal blessings along with the prospect of participation with Shem (dwelt in the tents of Shem). They dominated the great northern frontier from the Aegean Sea to the highlands of Iran and northward to the steppes beyond the shores of the Black Sea.

10:1. Sons of Noah: All the people of the world since the Flood have descended from the three sons of Noah (cf. Acts 17:26).

8 And Cush begat ^aNimrod: he began to be a mighty one in the earth.

9 He was a mighty ^ahunter ^bbefore the LORD: wherefore it is said, Even as Nimrod the mighty hunter before the LORD.

10 ^aAnd the beginning of his kingdom was ^bBabel, and Erech, and Accad, and Calneh, in the land of Shinar.

10:9–11. Nimrod the mighty hunter: The name of this man means “Let Us Revolt.” Arab traditions record ruins named after him at Birs-Nimrod, which is Borsippa, and at the Nimrud of Calah. His activities centered first in Shinar (Babylonia) and included building the Tower of Babel (cf. 11:1–9). Then he went to Assyria (cf. Mic. 5:6). Some believe that since the context deals with men and not animals, his prowess in hunting deals with men and that his exploits are of a moral and spiritual nature. “Mighty hunter” is from 6:4, and his name relates to the word marad, meaning “rebel.” Thus he established a thoroughly autocratic, imperialistic, despotic system of government (of a kind described in Is. 13, 14), back of which stands Satan in all his rage against God. He did all of this before the LORD. What he did was very significant and was a matter of concern to God Himself. God certainly knows what everybody does; but this made a strong impression, just as the “sons of God” did in 6:2.

10:25. Earth divided: The division of the earth in verses 25 and 32 is most likely related to the events of 11:1–9. It does not refer to the splitting apart of the continents, but to the dispersion of peoples at the Tower of Babel. The fact that Peleg’s ancestors are not mentioned as being alive at this time (Noah, Shem, etc.) implies that they had long since died. This is another indication that there are gaps in the genealogy of chapter 11. In 11:16–19 there is a considerable shortening of the life span from Eber to Peleg (from 464 to 239 years), which also suggests a time gap and that Eber may have been a distant ancestor of Peleg.

10:21. Shem was the forefather of the Semitic peoples, including the Hebrews, who descended from this son of Noah. He was one of eight people who survived the flood (Gen. 7:7, 13). After the flood, he fathered Elam, Asshur, Arphaxad, Lud, and Aram. Their progeny are generally identified as Persia, Assyria, Chaldea, Lydia, and Syria—most of which shared various Semitic dialects. Shem is listed in Luke 3:36 as one of the ancestors of Jesus Christ.

Shem's Line to Abram

10 ^aThese ¹are the generations of Shem: Shem was an hundred years old, and begat Arphaxad two years after the flood:

11 And Shem lived after he begat Arphaxad five hundred years, and begat sons and daughters.

12 And Arphaxad lived five and thirty years, ^aand begat Salah:

13 And Arphaxad lived after he begat Salah four hundred and three years, and begat sons and daughters.

14 And Salah lived thirty years, and begat Eber:

15 And Salah lived after he begat Eber four hundred and three years, and begat sons and daughters.

16 ^aAnd Eber lived four and thirty years, and begat ^bPeleg:

11:1-9. One language is literally "one lip," meaning language or dialect. There is a single family in one place speaking one language. From the east: An idiom for "off east," indicating direction. Shinar was in the region of Babylon. Brick: The irony of the passage is that they did not have the stone or mortar for building and had to use makeshift materials. Let us build us a city and a tower: Their ambition is expressed. They wish to bind their strength with the city and tower. The tower may mean a fortress (Deut. 1:28; 9:1 speak of cities fortified up to heaven). The tower may have served as a rallying point and a symbol of their fame. Their desire to make us a name goes back to 4:17, 22-24; 6:4; 10:9; all of which are focal points of rebellion against God. Here they do not want to fulfill God's command to Noah and his family after the Flood (9:1). And the LORD came down: The "coming down" is significant (cf. 18:2, 21; 19:1). God was already aware of the program, but being the righteous judge, He wished to examine it closely. No matter how high their tower, He still comes down. They begin to do: This would be only the start! Imagined to do means "they purposed."

Let us go down: Again the plural does not refer to angels, but is a plural of majesty (cf. 1:26; 3:22). The LORD scattered them: What men will not do willingly, God forces them to do as a result of judgment, and today there are more than three thousand languages and dialects. The result of this confusion (v. 9) was the scattering of mankind. The name Babel is linked with the Hebrew verb balal (to confuse). But the ancient Babylonians called the city Bab-ilu, meaning "Gate of God." At any rate, there is a pun in the construction of Babel-babal. In the Bible this city increasingly came to symbolize the godless society, with its pretensions (ch. 11), persecutions (Dan. 3), pleasures, sins, and superstitions (Is. 47:8-13), as well as its riches and eventual doom (Rev. 17, 18). Certain lessons appear: (1) boastful pride in material power is sinful in God's sight. This is the theme behind all sin: pride. (2) Yahweh's purpose endures forever. Every plan He formulates is inevitably implemented in spite of all efforts and devices of man. The peoples will settle in all the earth. And (3) unity and peace are not ultimate goals in a sinful world: better division than collective apostasy.

Abram was not the oldest, but is mentioned first since God chose him for the messianic line (cf. 5:32 for the same pattern). According to 12:4, Abram was 75 years old when he departed from Haran; and according to verse 32, Terah died when he was 205, which means that Abram was born when his father was 130.

Abram means "Exalted Father." This signified his honored status as progenitor of God's chosen people. Later, in 17:5, his name would be changed to Abra- ham, which means "Father of a Great Multitude." He was born in approximately 2165 B.C.

Most locate Ur of the Chaldees in Sumer, in southern Mesopotamia, while others locate it in northern Mesopotamia, at Urfa, Haran. The Sumerian Ur was one of the most spectacular cities of the ancient world. If indeed Abraham migrated from this city to Haran, he left behind an advanced culture, to put his faith in the promises of God.

12:1–10. Genesis 12:1–9 records the call of Abram

11:28 Ur was one of the most significant and prosperous cities of its time. It was located about 10 miles west of the Euphrates River near the Persian Gulf, some two hundred miles southeast of Baghdad. It is significant in Scripture as the city from which Abraham departed on his pilgrimage to the Promised Land (v. 31). Archaeological excavations were begun there as early as 1854, but the most significant work was done by Sir Charles L. Woolley (1922–34). Discoveries included a golden helmet, golden daggers and drinking cups, a royal cemetery where kings were buried with an entire retinue of servants, numerous clay tablets, cylinder seals, statues, musical instruments, the elaborate headdress and jewelry of Queen Shubad, and a 70-foot-high ziggurat (a brick, pyramid tower rising in step-like stages). This Sumerian city had one of the most advanced cultures in all the ancient world.

11:31 Haran was a commercial center on the main highway linking the Mediterranean coast to the Euphrates River. The city was a center of the Babylonian moon cult and was probably founded by Sumerians from Ur. Haran is identified in Scripture as the city Terah settled in after leaving Ur (v. 31) and the place Abraham departed from to go south into Canaan (12:1). Later, Abraham's servant went to Haran seeking a bride for Isaac (24:4), and Jacob fled to Haran from Esau. There also Jacob married Leah and Rachel (ch. 29). Excavations were conducted there by D. J. Rice (1951–56), revealing the early culture of the Sumerian city and its later Assyrian influence. By 1300 B.C. it was fortified by the Assyrian King Adad-nirari I, and thereafter served as an Assyrian provincial capital. Josiah lost his life in battle to keep the Egyptians from going to the aid of the Assyrians in the crucial Battle of Haran (609 B.C.).

ABRAHAMIC COVENANT

12:1-3, 7. When God established a covenant with Abraham, it was another dramatic turning point in human history. Abraham and his heirs (the nation of Israel) received an unconditional promise. Under this covenant, God promised to make Israel a great nation, to bless the seed of Abraham, to give him a great name, to make him a blessing, to bless those who blessed him and curse those who cursed him, to give him the Promised Land, and through his descendants to bless all the families of the earth with a Redeemer. Israel's failure in this dispensation was illustrated by their leaving the land to settle in Egypt, and resulted in bondage there. Israel's final testing under this dispensation occurred when God attempted to draw them back to the land. But they refused Him in unbelief at Kadesh-barnea (cf. Ex. 19:5).

12:1 Abraham was the forefather of both the Jews and the Arabs. He was originally called Abram ("High Father") and left Ur in ancient Sumeria (Mesopotamia) to travel to Haran in Syria. He eventually migrated to Canaan where God promised him that his descendants would ultimately dwell (15:1-6). He lived to be 175 years old. He is pictured in the Bible as the father of faith in God because of his faithful obedience to God's call and subsequent commands. His greatest test came in his obedience regarding Isaac at Mount Moriah (22:1-14). The New Testament regards him as the ancestor of Israel (Acts 13:26), of the Levitical priesthood (Heb. 7:5), and of the line of Christ (Matt. 1:1). God's great promise to Abraham (vv. 1-3; 17:1-8) forms a key whereby all mankind may be blessed in Abraham's seed and principal Heir, Christ Jesus (Gal. 3:6-29). and his obedience. The first three verses record the call and the promises; the rest of the section describes the obedience of Abram. The passage is constructed on two imperatives. The first is the basic call for Abram to leave the land in verse 1: Get thee out: These elements are mentioned: (1) out of his country; (2) away from his kindred; and (3) away from his father's house. Joshua 24:2 states that his family practiced idolatry. He is not told where he is to go, only unto a land that I will shew thee, which requires faith on his part. If he leaves, there are three promises that Yahweh makes to him. They might even be translated in each case as a cohortative, "Let me": (1) "Let me make of thee a great nation," and (2) "Let me bless thee," and (3) "Let me make thy name great." The last promise certainly contains some irony. The quest for a name had been the driving ambition of the "sons of God" in Genesis 6:1–4 and of the architects of the Tower of Babel in 11:1–9. Now God will do for Abram what others had so selfishly sought but failed to attain. The last words in verse 2 may be translated "so that you shall be a blessing." Abraham is to be a great nation, be personally blessed, and receive a great name—so that he may be a blessing. Certainly this is true for us today (cf. Gal. 3:29). To whom and how he was to be a blessing are both answered in verse 3. It may be translated, "and I will bless them that bless thee, and curse him that curseth thee in order that in thee shall all families of the earth be blessed." Abram's first act of obedience is recorded in verse 4 as he departed out of Haran. The second is in verses 5 and 8 as they came into the land of Canaan and builded an altar unto the LORD, and called upon the name of the LORD (cf. 4:26). The Book of Genesis is divided into two main sections. The first 11 chapters deal with the history of the human race, and the last 39 with the family of Abraham. Thus in the twelfth chapter, God turns our attention from a rebellious humanity recently scattered by the judgment of Babel, to this one family through which the Savior of the world would ultimately come. The Canaanite was then in the land: These were wicked people, and in Genesis 15:16 and Deuteronomy 7:1–5 they were later to be destroyed because of the abominations they practiced. Right in the locality of God's call for Abram were wicked sinners! It would be hard for him to live for God and be pure. And there was a famine in the land: In addition to the wicked Canaanites, now he was tested by a famine (cf. James 1:2–8, and those in Gen. 26:1 and 41:56).

12:10. Egypt is the great civilization of northeastern Africa which, when united, included both the upper (southern) and lower (northern) kingdoms. It is identified as Mizraim in Hebrew, the dual ending -ayim perhaps indicating the upper and lower kingdoms of ancient Egypt. By the time Abraham arrived in Egypt during the First Intermediate Period, the great pyramids of the Old Kingdom Period (2700–2200 B.C.) had already been standing for some five hundred years! The subsequent rise of the Middle Kingdom Period (2040–1786 B.C.) parallels the arrival of Jacob and Joseph. Extensive archaeological excavations at various sites throughout Egypt reveal an advanced culture expressed in architecture, agriculture, literature, music, military prowess, and religion. The Pharaoh was considered to be a god incarnate whose word was law. This probably accounts for the complete absence of any law codes in ancient Egypt and supports the uniqueness of the Mosaic Law. Egypt continued to be an important factor to Israel throughout the Old Testament record.

12:11 Sarah was the wife of Abraham and was also his half sister. She was originally called Sarai and came with Abraham from Ur. Her inability to produce an heir was the major factor in her convincing Abraham to have a child by Hagar, her handmaid. At age 90 Sarah conceived and bore Isaac. Later, at her insistence, Hagar and Ishmael were expelled by Abraham. Sarah lived to be 127 years old. She died at Kirjath-arba (Hebron) and was buried in the cave of Machpelah (23:1–20). The New Testament refers to Sarah as the mother of the children of promise (Rom. 9:9). She is included in the list of the faithful (Heb. 11:11) and is cited as an example of obedience to her husband (1 Pet. 3:6). (First Reference, Gen. 11:29; Primary Reference, Gen. 17:15–19.)

Behold now, I know that thou art ^aa fair woman to look upon:

12 Therefore it shall come to pass, when the Egyptians shall see thee, that they shall say, This is his wife: and they ^awill kill me, but they will save thee alive.

13 ^aSay, I pray thee, thou art my ^bsister: that it may be well with me for thy sake; and my soul shall live because of thee.

14 And it came to pass, that, when Abram was come into Egypt, the Egyptians beheld the woman that she was very fair.

15 The princes also of Pharaoh saw her, and commended her before Pharaoh: and the woman was taken into Pharaoh's house.

16 And he ^aentreated¹ Abram well for her sake: and he ^bhad sheep, and oxen, and ²he asses, and menservants, and maidservants, and she asses, and camels.

19 Why saidst thou, She is my sister? so I might have taken her to me to wife: now therefore behold thy wife, take her; and go thy way.

12:11-20. Say, I pray thee, thou art my sister: that it may be well with me for thy sake: According to 20:13, Abram lied about Sarai everywhere he went to save his life, even after he had been saved and called by God. But God's sovereignty overcame Abram's sin. God plagued Pharaoh and his house, and Abram was rebuked by Pharaoh. Sarai was his half sister (20:12), but his statement was a lie.

13:1-18. In verse 4 he called on the name of the LORD (cf. 12:8). The material wealth occasioned a shortage of available grazing land and caused strife between Lot's shepherds and Abram's. Abram condescended to the younger man, Lot, and gave him the first choice of all the land. Lot dwelled in the cities of the plain, and pitched his tent toward Sodom. Later he dwelt there (14:12) and subsequently served on the town council (19:1). And the LORD said unto Abram, after that Lot was separated from Him indicates that God gives the best to those who leave the choice to Him, for He reaffirmed His promise to give the land of Canaan to Abram and his seed [descendants] for ever (v. 15). Again it is noted he built there an altar unto the LORD. He was not ashamed to publicly worship his God.

14:1–16. Fourteen years previous to the time of the incident narrated here (v. 5), Chedorlaomer (not Hammurapi) had subjugated the plain of Jordan. At this time Abram was possibly still in Haran. Five cities of the plain revolted; and Chedorlaomer, with three allies, marched against them. The reason for the allies' presence is only a guess, but they certainly came a long distance to control this area. So they may have come to control the copper mines south and southwest of the Dead Sea. The Proto-Sinaitic Inscriptions reveal that the mines were worked for centuries. Later, Solomon worked them. Trained servants, born in his own house, three hundred and eighteen: The term indicates the might of Abram, especially the size and strength of his entourage. He actually had combat troops at his disposal. The Ebla Tablets refer to an Ebrum, which was a dynastic title a few centuries before Abram. He is called a "mighty prince" in 23:6, and thus is recognized by the inhabitants of the land as an influential person, possibly a ruler of a section of the land.

13:10 Sodom is identified in Scripture with Gomorrah and the cities of the plain (13:10–14:12). Sodom was known for its moral wickedness. The ancient site has not yet been clearly identified, but is thought to be possibly submerged under the waters of the Dead Sea south of the El-Lisan peninsula, in what was originally the vale of Siddim (14:3). Jebel Usdum ("Mount of Sodom"), a salt mountain at the southwestern end of the Dead Sea, seems to preserve the ancient name. Excavations at nearby Bab edh-Dhra were begun by William F. Albright in 1924, and were completed by Paul Lapp for the American Schools of Oriental Research (1965–67). They revealed an enormous cemetery with over 20,000 tombs and several hundred thousand burials. Evidence of an extensive population in this area totally ceased after the twenty-first century B.C. (about the time of Abraham). Historical references to Sodom have been cited among the clay tablets from Ebla found at Tell Mardikh in Syria. There can be no doubt that a flourishing civilization once existed in this area and came to an abrupt halt at the end of the Middle Bronze Age.

14:17–24. Melchizedek king of Salem probably was not a theophany, but an actual king of Jerusalem or Salem (cf. Ps. 76:2). He typifies Christ and His priesthood according to Psalm 110:4 and Hebrews 7. He is a priest of the most high God. It is interesting to note believers besides Abram and his descendants in this limited account (chs. 12–50). He gave him tithes of all: Abram paid tithes to Melchizedek, indicating Melchizedek's superior priesthood, since Levi was considered to be in the body (seminally) of Abram when he paid tithes to Melchizedek (Heb. 7:9, 10). Lest thou shouldest say, I have made Abram rich: Abram refused to take anything, so as not to be obligated to the king of Sodom, and also to demonstrate his total allegiance to the Lord. He took only food for his men and gave his allies the liberty to accept the spoils that were due them.

14:18 Salem is generally thought to refer to the ancient Canaanite site of Jerusalem on the hill of Ophel. There is ample archaeological evidence of Canaanite and Jebusite settlement during the Early and Middle Bronze Age periods, during which the first water shaft was dug to ensure an ample supply of water for the city. Ancient evidence for the name of the city can be found in the Ebla Tablets (U-ru-sa-li-ma), the later Egyptian Excretion Texts (Urushalimma), and the Amarna Letters (Urusalim or Beth-Shalem). Some scholars argue that Salem refers, not to Jerusalem, but to the fertile region of Salim near the Dead Sea. This argument rests on the proximity of Salim to Sodom and the reference to Abraham meeting the king of Sodom in the valley of Shaveh, rather than in the central hill country (v. 17).

15:1. Thy shield, and thy exceeding great reward: This chapter introduces the Abrahamic covenant by which God promises him an heir and eventual descendants who will one day possess the land of Canaan. The word shield is translated in other passages as "believed." Thus, God is the object of Abram's faith and thereby the source of his confidence. The promise of reward is especially significant in view of the fact that Abram had just refused a reward from the king of Sodom. God Himself would be Abram's true reward (cf. Ps. 127:3).

15:2-5. Childless: Ten years have passed and Abram is still without an heir. Following the custom of the day, he suggests that perhaps he ought to adopt his steward... Eliezer of Damascus as his legal heir. However, God refuses this offer and clearly promises that Abram will have a child out of thine own bowels (i.e., physically procreated). God further promised that his eventual descendants would be as innumerable as the stars. Tell means "count."

15:6. He believed in the LORD: This was not his original act of faith, but a further evidence of his confidence in God. In light of Hebrews 11:8-10, clearly Abram had already experienced saving faith at the time of his original call. Romans 4:6 and 22 cite instances of God imputing righteousness to the account of those who were already believers. Romans 4:18 refers to Abram's believing God's promise that he would have a posterity. Thus, the doctrine of imputation is based upon man's faith. The fact that Abram was justified by God 14 years before he was circumcised is the basis for Paul's argument in Romans 4:9-12 that faith, not works (e.g., circumcision), is the means of our justification. Therefore, the Old Testament as well as the New Testament teaches salvation by faith, not works.

15:7-21. Divided them in the midst: "Cutting" a covenant conveys the idea that the same will be done to the one who breaks this covenant. Ancient covenants were sometimes confirmed by the halving of the sacrificial victims and the two parties to the covenant passing between them (cf. Mari Tablets and Jer. 34:18, 19). In this case, however, God alone passes between the animal pieces, in the form of a smoking furnace from which torch-like flames shoot out (cf. Ex. 19:18), because this covenant with Abram is unconditional, and can be carried out only by God Himself. Thy seed shall be a stranger in a land that is not theirs: This is a prophecy of Israel's sojourn in Egypt, predicted to take place some three hundred years later and lasting about four hundred years (cf. Ex. 12:40, 430 to be exact). Then God would judge that nation (Egypt in Ex. 15), and bring Israel out with great substance (cf. Ex. 12:34-36), and use them as a means of judgment upon the inhabitants of Canaan, when the iniquity of the Amorites would be full.

14 And also that nation, whom they shall serve, ^awill I judge: and afterward ^bshall they come out with great ¹substance.

15 And ^athou shalt ¹go ^bto thy fathers in peace; ^cthou shalt be buried in a good old age.

16 But ^ain the fourth generation they shall come hither again: for the iniquity ^bof the Amorites ^cis not yet ¹full.

17 And it came to pass, that, when the sun went down, and it was dark, behold ¹a smoking ²furnace, and ³a burning lamp that ^apassed between those pieces.

18 In the same day the LORD ^amade a covenant with Abram, saying, ^bUnto thy ¹seed have I given this land, from the river of Egypt unto the great river, the river Euphrates:

19 The Kenites, and the Kenizites, and the Kadmonites,

20 And the Hittites, and the Perizzites, and the Rephaims, 21 And the Amorites, and the Canaanites, and the Girgashites, and the Jebusites.

16:1–6. Go in unto my maid; it may be that I may obtain children by her: This was according to legal customs as witnessed in legal codes and marriage contracts of the time. Ten years had elapsed since God's original promise of an heir (16:3), and Abram and Sarai took matters into their own hands (note Gen. 30:3). The negative commentary concerning this episode is written by Paul in Galatians 4 and contrasts the “work of the flesh” and the product of the “Spirit of God” in verse 29.

16:7–16. The angel of the LORD was likely the pre-incarnate appearance of the Second Person of the Trinity as the angel's character, deeds, and power confirm this interpretation (cf. 17:1–22; 22:11–18; 31:11,

LAND PROMISE

15:18. God promised to give the land of Canaan to Abraham's descendants after four generations (400 years) of bondage (Gen. 15:13–16). Affirming His covenant with Abram, God specified Israel's future borders as extending from the “river of Egypt” (Wadi el-Arish) to the Euphrates in Syria. This designation is made clear by naming the various Canaanite tribes that Israel would eventually conquer. These borders were only extended to this length under the reigns of David and Solomon (2 Sam. 10:19). Application: The land promise, including its borders, was given to the nation and people of Israel. It will be guaranteed only by Israel's continued obedience to the covenant (Deut. 4:23–31). Israel's later disobedience led to their expulsion by the Babylonians (586 B.C.) and the Romans (A.D. 70). With Israel's rebirth as a nation in 1948, hope for her full and final restoration has revived but will only be fulfilled during Christ's millennial kingdom (Rev. 20:1–6; cf. Gen. 24:13–67).

16:1. Hagar served as the surrogate mother of Ishmael for Abraham and Sarah. However, when she became pregnant, she mocked Sarah, who dealt with her harshly. Hagar fled into the wilderness where the Angel of the Lord (perhaps a theophany of Christ) spared both her and her unborn child. When her teenage son, Ishmael, later mocked Isaac at the festival of his weaning, Hagar and Ishmael were again expelled. God preserved their lives in the wilderness and promised to bless Ishmael's descendants.

This is the first time that the Angel of the Lord appears in the Old Testament. Hagar's son will be a wild man and shall dwell in the presence of all his brethren. The Hebrew actually means "in defiance/disregard of" as shown in Genesis 25:18 and Deuteronomy 21:16. The idiom and context denote a hostility on the part of Ishmael (and his descendants) toward his brethren (Isaac and his descendants) and even among Ishmael's own people.

Thus began the Jewish and Arab conflict, due to an act of the flesh on the part of Abram. When Hagar finally gave birth, Abram was 86 years old. Eleven years had passed since God first promised an heir, and His promise was still unfulfilled.

17:1-8. Thirteen years had passed since the birth of Ishmael (cf. verse 1). Almighty God (Heb. El Shaddai): El denotes "power" and Shaddai may be derived from the Akkadian shadadu, to "overpower," portraying God as the overpowering, almighty One who will supernaturally provide descendants for Abram when all other means fail. Thy name shall

ANGEL OF THE LORD

16:7. In the Old Testament, an angel identified as the "angel of the LORD" (v. 7), the "angel of God" (21:17), the "angel of his presence" (Is. 63:9), and the "messenger of the covenant" (Mal. 3:1) appeared to individuals. A closer look at the context of His appearances reveals that He is more than another angel: He is God. The expression usually signifies a preincarnate appearance of Christ, and is sometimes called a "Christophany," meaning the visible and bodily manifestation of God the Son before His incarnation. Illustration: That He is not merely another angel is evident in those appearances where He is called God. This was recognized by Hagar (v. 13), Abraham (22:14), Moses (Ex. 3:14), Gideon (Judg. 6:22), and Manoah (Judg. 13:18, 22). The expression is also used of men, but on such occasions is translated "the LORD's messenger" (Hag. 1:13). Application: The Angel of the Lord no longer appears to men today, since God has commissioned Christians to be His messengers to the world. (First Reference and Primary Reference, Gen. 16:7.)

16:11 Ishmael was the eldest son of Abraham by Hagar, Sarah's Egyptian handmaid (vv. 15, 16). He was later guilty of taunting his half brother Isaac (21:9), and he and his mother were expelled by Abraham at Sarah's insistence. God promised that Ishmael would be "a wild man" (v. 12). His life was spared by God. He married an Egyptian and became the father of 12 princes; he was the forefather of the Arabs whom God promised to bless. (First Reference, Gen. 16:15, 16; Primary References, Gen. 17:20-27; 21:9-21.)

From Sarai to Sarah

18 And Abraham ^asaid unto God, O that Ishmael might live before thee!

19 And God said, ^aSarah thy wife shall bear thee a son indeed; and thou shalt call his name Isaac: and I will establish my ^bcovenant with him for an everlasting covenant, and with his ¹seed after him.

Ishmael to Be a Great Nation

20 And as for Ishmael, I have heard thee: Behold, I have blessed be Abraham: Abram means "High Father," but he is now to be called Abraham, suggesting he will become the father of a multitude (Heb. ham, cf. 12:3). Everlasting covenant ... I will give ... the land: Since the covenant is "everlasting" and includes possession of Canaan, it guarantees Israel the right of possession as an earthly inheritance forever. God is the Landlord who gives the title deed to Israel, His son. Thus, the Jews have a rightful claim to this land as long as the earth shall stand.

17:9-14. Abraham's part in the covenant-making process was circumcision, which God established as a sign of the covenant to indicate that his offspring were uniquely dedicated to God (Ex. 4:24-26; Rom. 4:11). A Hebrew who failed to observe this rite would be cut off from the covenant community. Circumcision was to serve as an outward sign of inward dedication to God. In itself, it was neither efficacious, nor unique to Israel.

17:15-22. Then Abraham ... laughed: It seems strange that Abraham laughs at the idea of a hundred-year-old man begetting a son, when his own father was 130 at the time of his birth. Sarah would die when he was 137, but he was able to beget sons long after that (25:1-6). Paul states that when he was 100, "He considered not his own body now dead" (Rom. 4:19). This laughter is one of doubt as verse 18 reveals. His plea, O that Ishmael might live before thee! indicates his wish to adopt him as his heir (cf. 15:2, 3; Ps. 2:7 and the law code of Hammurapi for the legal statement of adoption expressed by "thou art my child," and when God declared officially that Jesus was His Son, at the Resurrection, Rom. 1:4). Thou shalt call his name Isaac: The name means "He Laughs" and was to serve as a reminder to Abraham of the unlikely means by which he was brought into the world, and his response in 17:17, and Sarah's reaction in 18:12.

Abraham's Household Circumcised

23 And Abraham took Ishmael his son, and all that were born in his house, and all that were bought with his money, every male among the men of Abraham's house; and circumcised the flesh of their foreskin in the selfsame day, as God had said unto him.

24 And Abraham was ninety years old and nine, when he was circumcised in the flesh of his foreskin.

25 And Ishmael his son was thirtreen years old, when he was circumcised in the flesh of his foreskin.

26 In the selfsame day was Abraham circumcised, and Ishmael his son.

27 And ^aall the men of his house, born in the house, and bought with money of the stranger, were circumcised with him.

Sarah Promised a Son

9 And they said unto him, Where is Sarah thy wife? And he said, Behold, ^ain the tent.

10 And he said, I will certainly return unto thee ^aaccording to the time of life; and, lo, ^bSarah thy wife shall have a son. And Sarah heard it in the tent door, which was behind him.

14 ^aIs any thing too hard for the LORD? ^bAt the time appointed I will return unto thee, according to the time of life, and Sarah shall have a son.

18:1-15. The three men who appeared to Abraham were the preincarnate Christ (Yahweh) and two angels (v. 22; 19:1). Here we find an example, not only of "entertaining angels unawares" (Heb. 13:2), but also of God becoming the guest of one of His saints (cf.

John 14:23; Rev. 3:20). Sarah laughed within herself either because she did not know of the promise of 17:19 or because she was unconvinced it would be fulfilled. In either case, one of the three men was now clearly identified as Yahweh, who knew Sarah's thoughts.

15 Then Sarah denied, saying, I laughed not; for she was afraid. And he said, Nay; but thou didst laugh.

Sodom and Gomorrah's Fate

16 And the men rose up from thence, and looked toward Sodom: and Abraham went with them ^ato ¹bring them on the way.

17 And the LORD said, ^aShall I hide from Abraham that thing which I do;

18 Seeing that Abraham shall surely become a great and mighty nation, and all the nations of the earth shall be ^ablessed in him?

19 For I know him, ^athat he will command his children and his household after him, and they shall keep the way of the LORD, to do ¹justice and judgment; that the LORD may bring upon Abraham that which he hath spoken of him.

21 ^aI will go down now, and see whether they have done altogether according to the cry of it, which is come unto me; and if not, ^bI will know.

22 And the men turned their faces from thence, ^aand went toward Sodom: but Abraham stood yet before the LORD.

Angels Visit Lot

19 And there ^acame two angels to Sodom ¹at even; and ^bLot sat in the gate of Sodom: and Lot seeing them rose up to meet them;

18:16-33. This section gives the basis for Abraham's being called the friend of God (2 Chr. 20:7; Is. 41:8; James 2:23). Because he was the friend of God and all the nations of the earth will be blessed in him, he was allowed the high privilege of learning something about God's principles of dealing with those nations. The cry of Sodom and Gomorrah is great: Their sins cried out for punishment (cf. 4:10; Hos. 7:2; Jonah 1:2). I will go down (cf. 11:7) indicates that God's justice moved Him to demonstrate that He had full possession of the facts. Actually the two angels went to Sodom and the Angel of the Lord stayed with Abraham. Abraham expressed concern for the people (cf. 13:8, 9). Fifty righteous: Lot was one of them (2 Pet. 2:7), but there evidently were not even 10 righteous (19:14). Therefore the city had to be destroyed. In all likelihood, backslidden Lot was the only "just" man there.

and he bowed himself with his face toward the ground;

2 And he said, Behold now, my lords, ^aturn in, I pray you, into your servant's house, and ¹tarry all night, and ^bwash your feet, and ye shall rise up early, and go on your ways. And they said, ^cNay; but we will abide in the ²street all night.

3 And he ¹pressed upon them greatly; and they turned in unto him, and entered into his house; ^aand he made them a feast, and did bake ^bunleavened bread, and they did eat.

The Evil Men of Sodom

4 But before they lay down, the men of the city, even the men of Sodom, ¹compassed the house round, both old and young, all the people from every quarter:

5 ^aAnd they called unto Lot, and said unto him, Where are the men which came in to thee this night? ^bbring them out unto us, that we ^cmay ¹know them.

11 And they ^asmote¹ the men that were at the door of the house with blindness, both small and great: so that they wearied themselves to find the door.

Lot and His Family Flee

12 And the men said unto Lot, Hast thou here any besides? son in law, and thy sons, and thy daughters, and whatsoever thou hast in the city, ^abring them out of this place:

13 For we will destroy this place, because the ^acry of them ¹is waxen great before the face of the LORD; and ^bthe LORD hath sent us to destroy it.

14 And Lot went out, and spake unto his sons in law, ^awhich married his daughters, and said, ^bUp, get you out of this place; for the LORD will destroy this city. ^cBut he seemed as one that ¹mocked unto his sons in law.

15 And when the morning arose, then the angels ¹hastened Lot, saying, ^aArise, take thy wife, and thy two daughters, which are here; lest thou be consumed in the ²iniquity of the city.

16 And while he lingered, the men ^alaid hold upon his hand, and upon the hand of his wife, and upon

19:1-15. Sat in the gate implies that Lot was a leader in the city, possibly a judge (cf. v. 9; 34:20). Pressed upon them greatly: Lot knew what might happen to them if they did not stay with him. That we may know them: The word know is to be interpreted in the light of Genesis 4:1 as carnal or sexual knowledge, here referring to homosexuality. We are given a glimpse of the unspeakable possibilities of human depravity. The Scripture clearly denounces homosexuality as sin (cf. Lev. 18:22-30; 20:13; Rom. 1:24-27; 1 Cor. 6:9; 1 Tim. 1:10). Later, the law would make homosexuality a capital offense, grouped with incest and bestiality. I have two daughters was an absolutely amazing alternative to be offered by a believer. Seemed as one that mocked: Evidently Lot's testimony had degenerated to the point where even his family did not believe he was serious.

19:1. Lot was Abraham's nephew who accompanied him from Mesopotamia to Canaan. Both had large herds of cattle and sheep, and they eventually separated. Lot's selfish choice of the Jordan Valley and his weakness in pitching his tent toward Sodom (Gen. 13:12) led to tragic consequences. He soon moved into Sodom and, though 2 Peter 2:7-8 indicates that Lot's soul was vexed by the unrighteousness of the city, he had little or no influence there or even on his own family. He lost his wife and later fathered two sons, Moab and Ammon, by his own daughters (Gen. 19:31-38).

the hand of his two daughters; the ^bLORD being merciful unto him: ^cand they brought him forth, and set him ¹without the city.

17 And it came to pass, when they had brought them forth ¹abroad, that ²he said, ^aEscape for thy life; ^blook not behind thee, neither stay thou in all the plain; escape ^cto the mountain, lest thou be ³consumed.

18 And Lot said unto them, Oh, ^anot so, my Lord:

19 Behold now, thy servant hath found grace in thy sight, and thou hast magnified thy mercy, which thou hast shewed unto me in saving my life; and I cannot escape to the mountain, lest some evil take me, and I die:

20 Behold now, this city is near to flee unto, and it is a little one: Oh, let me escape thither, (is it not a little one?) and my soul shall live.

21 And he said unto him, See, ^aI have ¹accepted thee concerning this thing also, that I will not overthrow this city, for the which thou hast spoken.

22 Haste thee, escape thither; for ^aI cannot do any thing till thou ¹be come thither. Therefore ^bthe name of the city was called ²Zoar.

23 The sun was risen upon the earth when Lot entered into Zoar.

28 And he looked toward Sodom and Gomorrah, and toward all the land of the plain, and beheld, and, lo, ^athe smoke of the country went up as the smoke of a furnace.

29 And it came to pass, when God destroyed the cities of the plain, that God ^aremembered Abraham, and sent Lot out of the midst of the overthrow, when he overthrew the cities in the which Lot dwelt.

The Birth of Moab and Benammi

30 And Lot went up out of Zoar, and ^adwelt in the mountain, and his two daughters with him; for he feared to dwell in Zoar: and he dwelt in a cave, he and his two daughters.

31 And the firstborn said unto the younger, Our father is old, and there is not a man in the earth ^ato come in unto us after the ¹manner of all the earth:

32 Come, let us make our father drink wine, and we will lie with him, that we ^amay preserve ¹seed of our father.

33 And they made their father drink wine that night: and the firstborn went in, and lay with her father; and he perceived not when she lay down, nor when she arose.

34 And it came to pass on the morrow, that the firstborn said unto the younger, Behold, I lay yesternight with my father: let us make him drink wine this night also; and go thou in, and lie with him, that we may preserve ¹seed of our father.

35 And they made their father drink wine that night also: and the younger arose, and lay with him; and he perceived not when she lay down, nor when she arose.

19:16-38. I will not overthrow this city: That God not only spared Sodom until Lot was safe, but also spared another city (Bela) permanently because of his prayer, is one of the strongest Old Testament illustrations of eternal security for backslidden believers. In spite of Lot's deep apostasy, the New Testament assures us that he was a "righteous man" (redeemed), and that his "righteous soul" was daily vexed with the unlawful deeds of his Sodomite neighbors (2 Pet. 2:8). Doubtless, Lot will be among those who "shall suffer loss: but he himself shall be saved; yet so as by fire" (1 Cor. 3:15). She became a pillar of salt: Jesus used this incident as a warning to others not to look back (Luke 17:21-33). Lot's wife apparently lingered behind, continually and longingly looking back on her beloved possessions, and was buried by the explosion that resulted from the destruction of the city. Brimstone and fire may refer to a meteorite shower that literally burned up the whole area.

36 Thus were both the daughters of Lot with child by their father.

37 And the firstborn bare a son, and called his name Moab: “the same is the father of the Moabites unto this day.

38 And the younger, she also bare a son, and called his name Ben-ammi: “the same is the father of the children of Ammon unto this day.

8 Therefore Abimelech rose early in the morning, and called all his servants, and told all these things in their ears: and the men were ¹sore afraid.

Abimelech Reproaches Abraham

9 Then Abimelech called Abraham, and said unto him, What hast thou done unto us? and ¹what have I offended thee, ^athat thou hast brought on me and on my kingdom a great sin? thou hast done deeds unto me ^bthat ought not to be done.

10 And Abimelech said unto Abraham, What sawest thou, that thou hast done this thing?

11 And Abraham said, Because I thought, Surely ^athe fear of God is not in this place; and ^bthey will slay me ¹for my wife’s sake.

12 And yet indeed ^ashe is my sister; she is the daughter of my father, but not the daughter of my mother; and she became my wife.

13 And it came to pass, when ^aGod caused me to wander from my father’s house, that I said unto her, This is thy kindness which thou shalt shew unto me; at every place

20:1–18. She is my sister: The same thing had happened in Egypt (ch. 12). Now it occurred in Gerar with Abimelech. God appeared to him in a dream, revealed Abraham’s deception, and expressed His sovereignty in withholding thee from sinning against me. He preached to Abraham in the morning and asked him why he had done such a thing. Abraham had forgotten that God was his shield (15:1). Behold, he is to thee a covering of the eyes: Literally, “It is a covering for the eyes,” apparently a method for diverting or forestalling suspicion. The phrase thus she was reproved conveys the idea that she was vindicated. Several passages convey the idea of a similar legal or disciplinary connotation (21:25; 31:42). Abimelech’s large gift of a thousand pieces of silver (since no coins existed at this time, pieces is not accurate; everything was weighed) was proof of his high esteem for Abraham and Sarah, and would serve to stop any scoffing on the part of her household. God referred to Abraham as a prophet in verse 7. Abraham said he would pray for Abimelech (an absolutely amazing statement under the circumstances), and when he did so, God healed Abimelech. Abraham’s intercession (cf. 18:23–33) saved Abimelech’s life and removed the barrenness of his household—For the LORD had fast closed up all the wombs (cf. 12:17).

20:1 Gerar was an ancient trading post located halfway between Beer-sheba and Gaza on the Mediterranean coast. Its exact location has been debated. W. J. Phythian-Adams (1922) and W. F. Flinders Petrie (1927) suggested Tell Jemmeh as the original site, but the excavations of D. Alon at Tell Abu Hureirah revealed the latter site as more likely to be ancient Gerar. A flourishing Middle Bronze Age community was discovered there which parallels the time of the patriarchs. Here Minoan (proto-Philistine) traders like Abimelech made contact with wealthy desert sheiks like Abraham.

Hagar Cast Out

9 And Sarah saw the son of Hagar ^athe Egyptian, which she had born unto Abraham, ^bmocking.¹

10 Wherefore she said unto Abraham, ^aCast out this bondwoman and her son: for the son of this bondwoman shall not be heir with my son, even with Isaac.

11 And the thing was very ¹grievous in Abraham's sight ^abecause of his son.

12 And God said unto Abraham, Let it not be grievous in thy sight because of the lad, and because of thy bondwoman; in all that Sarah hath said unto thee, hearken unto her voice; for ^ain Isaac shall thy seed be called.

13 And also of the son of the bondwoman will I make ^aa nation, because he is thy ¹seed.

14 And Abraham rose up early in the morning, and took bread, and a ¹bottle of water, and gave it unto Hagar, putting it on her shoulder, and the ²child, and ^asent her away: and she departed, and wandered in the wilderness of Beer-sheba.

21:1-8. Abraham circumcised his son Isaac as a sign of the covenant (17:9-14).

21:9-33. Mocking is an intensive form of the verb for Isaac's name, "He Laughs." It was used in 19:14 and again in 39:14-17. In Isaac, Ishmael saw all his hopes for an inheritance shattered. The discord may have seemed trivial at first glance, but with time it became a fundamental rift, on the background of which the New Testament would expound the incompatibility of the natural man and the spiritual man (Gal. 4:29). Cast out this bondwoman and her son is cited in Galatians 4:30 as an inspired demand. In Isaac shall thy seed be called: See Abraham's previous wish (17:18). Here is a case where the chronologically firstborn son did not receive the firstborn status. For I will make him a great nation: The promise assured Hagar that God would take care of Ishmael. God is with thee:

Others saw God's hand of blessing upon Abraham and they desired to make a covenant with him in verse 24. The land of the Philistines refers to the coastal plain which was later occupied by the Philistines from 1200 B.C. onward. The reference here clearly identifies Abimelech with the Philistines ("Sea Peoples"). There is ample evidence of Aegean contact with the coast of Canaan during the time of Abraham. While the term Philistine may be used proleptically, it is not to be taken as an anachronism. Mycenaean and Minoan traders from the Greek islands have left pottery remains in this area. Thus, proto-Philistines, like Abimelech, are correctly identified as belonging to this people grouping. It would also stand to reason that Abraham, being a foreigner himself, would seek a trading alliance with these outsiders who would later come in great enough numbers to threaten Israel's security.

21:3 Isaac was the miraculously born son of Abraham and Sarah and was the forefather of the Jews. Both Abraham (17:17) and Sarah (18:12) laughed at the promise of a son in their old age but later laughed for joy at his birth (vv. 1-8). He represented the ancestral line of the promised Messiah. God tested Abraham's faith by His command to sacrifice Isaac on Mount Moriah. Isaac's obedience also anticipates Christ as the only begotten Son willing to be bound on the altar of sacrifice by His Father. In Isaac's marriage to Rebekah the faith of Abraham was again tested for 20 years as he awaited Isaac's son. Isaac lived 180 years and fathered both Esau and Jacob. (First Reference, Gen. 17:19; Primary Reference, Gen. 26:1-5.)

15 And the water was ¹spent in the bottle, and she ²cast the child under one of the shrubs.

16 And she went, and sat her down ¹over against him a good way off, as it were a bow shot: for she said, Let me not see the death of the child. And she sat over against him, and lift up her voice, and wept.

God Consoles Hagar

17 And ^aGod heard the voice of the lad; and the ^bangel of God called to Hagar out of heaven, and said unto her, What aileth thee, Hagar? fear not; for God hath heard the voice of the lad where he is.

18 Arise, lift up the lad, and hold him ¹in thine hand; for ^aI will make him a great nation.

19 And ^aGod opened her eyes, and she saw a well of water; and she went, and filled the ¹bottle with water, and gave the lad drink.

20 And God ^awas with the lad; and he grew, and dwelt in the wilderness, ^band became an archer.

21 And he dwelt in the wilderness of Paran: and his mother ^atook him a wife out of the land of Egypt.

32 Thus they made a covenant at Beer-sheba: then Abimelech rose up, and Phichol the chief captain of his host, and they returned into the land of the Philistines.

33 And Abraham planted a ¹grove in Beer-sheba, and ^acalled there on the name of the LORD, ^bthe everlasting God.

34 And Abraham sojourned in the Philistines' land many days.

The everlasting God would be a logical epithet of a deity called upon to support a formal treaty expected to be valid for all time. The name is one of a series, including El Elyon (14:18), El Roi (16:13), El Shaddai (17:1), El-elohe-Israel (33:20), El-beth-el (35:7). Each one expresses an aspect of God's self-disclosure.

21:14 Beer-sheba is located 48 miles southwest of Jerusalem and midway between the Mediterranean and the Dead Sea. It was the gateway to the Negev desert to the south. Abraham and Isaac both settled there (vv. 31-34; 26:23-33). Archaeological excavations were begun in 1969 by Yohanan Aharoni for the Institute of Archaeology of Tel Aviv University. The Early Bronze Age site was quite small, but several wells from the period have been found. Permanent settlement of the site began in the twelfth century B.C., and it was fortified in the tenth century B.C. The city suffered massive destruction during the Assyrian invasion under Sennacherib in the eighth century B.C. The site was reoccupied in the Persian period and is mentioned among the villages of Judah (Neh. 11:27). The present thriving metropolis is located about one mile west of the mound (tell) which marks the ancient location of the city.

Isaac to Be Offered as a Sacrifice

22 And it came to pass after these things, that “God did ¹tempt Abraham, and said unto him, Abraham: and he said, Behold, here I am.

2 And he said, Take now thy son, ^athine only son Isaac, whom thou ^blovest, and get thee ^cinto the land of Moriah; and offer him there for a ^dburnt offering upon one of the mountains which I will tell thee of.

A Substitute Offering

9 And they came to the place which God had told him of; and Abraham built an altar there, and laid the wood in order, and bound Isaac his son, and ^alaid him on the altar upon the wood.

22:1-14. God did tempt Abraham: The verb tempt is better rendered as “proved” or “tested.” God does not tempt anyone with evil (James 1:13); but in certain instances He does test, try, or prove us (James 1:2; 1 Pet. 1:6, 7). Therefore we must assume that the command to sacrifice Isaac was not evil. God knew what He would do in the end. He had no intention to permit the murder of Isaac. The reason God prohibited the Israelites from following the example of Gentiles who offered their own children as sacrifices to their gods (Deut. 12:31) was that such monstrous deeds were in contradiction to the character of the true God. Abraham’s faith was being tried. This was the entire purpose of the episode. Moriah was in the general area that included the hills on which Solomon later built his temple in Jerusalem (2 Chr. 3:1). The journey was about 50 miles. Come again to you: This was no empty phrase; it was his full conviction based on “in Isaac shall thy seed be called” (21:12). Hebrews 11:17-19 reveals he was expecting Isaac to be resurrected; thus he would regard him as given back from the dead. God will provide is a phrase that would be immortalized in the name of the place in verse 14. Now I know that thou fearest God indicates that God was certain that Abraham feared (reverenced) Him more than anyone else, since he was willing to offer Him his son. So God provided a ram as a substitute for Isaac (cf. John 1:29). Rebekah is introduced as one of the offspring of Bethuel and Nahor and later became the wife of Isaac (24:15, 67).

heaven, ^cand as the sand which is upon the sea shore; and ^dthy seed shall possess the gate of his enemies;

18 ^aAnd in thy seed shall all the nations of the earth be blessed; ^bbecause thou hast obeyed my voice.

19 So Abraham returned unto his young men, and they rose up and went together to ^aBeer-sheba; and Abraham dwelt at Beer-sheba.

Nahor's Descendants

The Purchase of Machpelah

3 And Abraham stood up from before his dead, and spake unto the sons of ^aHeth, saying,

4 ^aI am a stranger and a sojourner with you: ^bgive me ¹a possession of a buryingplace with you, that I may bury my dead out of my sight.

5 And the children of Heth answered Abraham, saying unto him,

6 Hear us, my lord: thou art ^aa ¹mighty prince among us: in the choice of our ²sepulchres bury thy dead; none of us shall withhold from thee his sepulchre, but that thou mayest bury thy dead.

7 And Abraham stood up, and bowed himself to the people of the land, even to the children of Heth.

8 And he ¹communed with them, saying, If it be your mind that I should bury my dead out of my sight; hear me, and ²intreat for me to Ephron the son of Zohar, 9 That he may give me the cave of ^aMachpelah, which he hath, which is in the end of his field; for ¹as much money as it is worth he shall give it me ²for a possession of a buryingplace amongst you.

10 And Ephron dwelt among the children of Heth: and Ephron the Hittite answered Abraham in the ¹audience of the ²children of Heth, even of all that ^awent in at the gate of his city, saying, 11 ^aNay, my lord, hear me: the field give I thee, and the cave that is therein, I give it thee; in the presence of the sons of my people give I it thee: bury thy dead.

23:1-20. Kirjath-arba: This older name for Hebron (cf. Josh. 14:15; Judg. 1:10) means "City of Four." Actually, it commemorates a hero of the Anakim (Josh. 14:15). It is debatable whether the sons of Heth were real Hittites or simply those who spoke their language. But such an encounter is illuminated by a knowledge of Hittite customs illustrated by their laws. Hittite law required that the owner of a complete unit of land continue performing the king's ilku (feudal services). Abraham would avoid transfer of these obligations to himself by purchasing only the cave which is in the end of his field. However, Ephron insisted on selling the entire unit—the field, and the cave—as the conclusion repeatedly notes (vv. 17, 19, 20; cf. 49:29-32, especially note v. 32). The prominent mention of trees in the final agreement was another characteristic of the Hittite business documents (v. 17). Since the Hittites were destroyed about 1200 B.C., the liberal critics' assertion of a late date for the composition of Genesis is rejected at this point. Mighty prince as it appears in verse 6 is a term generally translated "prince of God," or "mighty prince." The term nasi' (cf. 17:20) designates an official who has been elevated in or by the assembly, hence elected. Here, it is an honorific epithet. The Hittites were acknowledging that God (Elohim) had played a mighty part in Abraham's life. This was after Abraham had lived in the area for 62 years (cf. 12:4; 17:17; 23:1). This term is similarly used in early texts of the chiefs of the Midianites (Josh. 13:21; Num. 25:18) and Shechem (Gen. 34:2). The title is later applied to David and Solomon (1 Kin. 11:34). The cave of the field of Machpelah became the burial spot for Sarah, Abraham, Isaac, Rebekah, Leah, and Jacob. Rachel is a notable exception having been buried on the outskirts of Bethlehem. Today, the mosque of the patriarchs covers the site of Machpelah (cf. 35:19).

12 And Abraham bowed down himself before the people of the land.

13 And he spake unto Ephron in the audience of the people of the land, saying, But if thou wilt give it, I pray thee, hear me: I will give thee money for the field; take it of me, and I will bury my dead there.

14 And Ephron answered Abraham, saying unto him,

15 My lord, hearken unto me: the land is worth four hundred ^ashekels of silver; what is that ¹betwixt me and thee? bury therefore thy dead.

16 And Abraham hearkened unto Ephron; and Abraham ^aweighed to Ephron the silver, which he had named in the ¹audience of the sons of Heth, four hundred shekels of silver, ²current money with the merchant.

17 And ^athe field of Ephron, which was in Machpelah, which was before Mamre, the field, and the cave which was therein, and all the trees that were in the field, that were in all the borders round about, were ¹made sure 18 Unto Abraham for a possession in the presence of the children of Heth, before all that went in at the gate of his city.

The Burial of Sarah

19 And after this, Abraham buried Sarah his wife in the cave of the field of Machpelah before Mamre: the same is Hebron in the land of Canaan.

20 And the field, and the cave that is therein, ^awere ¹made sure unto Abraham for a possession of a buryingplace by the sons of Heth.

The Search for a Wife for Isaac
24 And Abraham ^awas old, and ¹well stricken in age: and the LORD ^bhad blessed Abraham in all things.

2 And Abraham said ^aunto his eldest servant of his house, that ^bruled over all that he had, ^cPut, I pray thee, thy hand under my thigh:

3 And I will make thee ^aswear¹ by the LORD, the God of heaven, and the God of the earth, that ^bthou shalt not take a wife unto my son of the daughters of the Canaanites, among whom I dwell:

4 ^aBut thou shalt go ^bunto my country, and to my kindred, and take a wife unto my son Isaac.

5 And the servant said unto him, ¹Peradventure the woman will not be willing to follow me unto this land: must I ²needs bring thy son again unto the land from whence thou camest?

6 And Abraham said unto him, Beware thou that thou ¹bring not my son thither again.

7 The LORD God of heaven, which ^atook me from my father's house, and from the land of my kindred, and which spake unto me, and that sware unto me, saying, ^bUnto thy ¹seed will I give this land; ^che shall send his angel before thee, and thou shalt take a wife unto my son from thence.

8 And if the woman will not be willing to follow thee, then ^athou shalt be clear from this my oath: only ¹bring not my son thither again.

9 And the servant put his hand under the thigh of Abraham his master, and sware to him concerning that matter.

24:1-12. Eldest servant may have been Eliezer of 15:2 and 3. He worshiped God (vv. 26, 27, 52); he was devoted to Abraham (vv. 12b, 14b, 27); and he was dedicated to finishing the task (vv. 33, 56). If he was this Eliezer, then his loyalty in serving the heir who had displaced him is all the greater. Thy hand under my thigh: Thigh is a euphemism for the procreative organ. This act either symbolized that the yet-unborn children would avenge any violation of the oath, or solemnized the oath in the name of the God who gave circumcision as the sign of the covenant (cf. 47:29 for the only other instance). Daughters of the Canaanites: The command to marry only within God's redeemed community was given later through Moses, but here is an example of the godly Abraham desiring to be separate from the pagans surrounding him (cf. Deut. 7:3, 4; 1 Kin. 11:4; Ezra 9; and Paul's "only in the Lord," 1 Cor. 7:39). Show kindness unto my master Abraham: The word kindness is chesed (cf. 20:13): he is entreating God to be faithful to His servant Abraham. God had promised Abraham a seed, and He had given him one; now Abraham wants to get a bride for the promised seed in accordance with God's standards of separation. He asks God to be faithful to His servant Abraham and provide for him. Then, in verses 14, 27, and 49, he testifies that God did show chesed, covenant-faithfulness.

The Servant's Prayer

10 And the servant took ten camels of the camels of his master, and departed; ^afor all ¹the goods of his master were in his hand: and he arose, and went to Mesopotamia, unto ^bthe city of Nahor.

11 And he made his camels to kneel down without the city by a well of water at the time of the evening, even the time ^athat women go out to draw water.

12 And he ^asaid, O LORD God of my master Abraham, I pray thee, ^bsend¹ me good speed this day, and shew kindness unto my master Abraham.

13 Behold, ^aI stand here by the well of water; and ^bthe daughters of the men of the city come out to draw water:

Rebekah: An Answer to Prayer

15 And it came to pass, ^abefore he had done speaking, that, behold, ^bRebekah¹ came out, who was born to Bethuel, son of ^cMilcah, the wife of Nahor, Abraham's brother, with her pitcher upon her shoulder.

16 And the damsel ^awas very ¹fair to look upon, a virgin, neither had any man known her: and she went down to the well, and filled her pitcher, and came up.

17 And the servant ran to meet her, and said, Let me, I pray thee, drink a little water of thy pitcher.

18 ^aAnd she said, Drink, my lord: and she hastened, and let down her pitcher upon her hand, and gave him drink.

19 And when she had done giving him drink, she said, I will draw water for thy camels also, until they have done drinking.

20 And she hastened, and emptied her pitcher into the trough, and ran

30 And it came to pass, when he saw the ¹earring and bracelets upon his sister's hands, and when he heard the words of Rebekah his sister, saying, Thus spake the man unto me; that he came unto the man; and, behold, he stood by the camels at the well.

Rebekah Can Go

50 Then Laban and Bethuel answered and said, ^a"The thing proceedeth from the LORD: we cannot ^bspeak unto thee bad or good.

DIVINE SOVEREIGNTY AND HUMAN RESPONSIBILITY

24:13-67. The selection of Rebekah to be Isaac's wife illustrates the biblical balance of divine sovereignty (God's choice) and human responsibility (human choice). Both are clearly taught in Scripture and both are evident in this account. Abraham commissioned his servant by an oath to find a wife for Isaac from among his relatives in Haran (vv. 3-4). However, the servant asked what he should do if the woman were "not willing" to follow him back to Canaan (v. 5). If she is not willing, Abraham assured the servant, he would be "clear from this my oath" (v. 8). As the servant approached the well on the outskirts of town, he prayed for God to lead him to the girl He had "appointed" (v. 14). When Rebekah arrived and responded in compliance with his prayer, the servant worshipped, announcing "the LORD led me" (v. 27). Upon hearing the servant's account, Laban and Bethuel replied, "The thing proceedeth from the LORD" (v. 50). Nevertheless, they called Rebekah and asked her, "Wilt thou go with this man?" and she replied, "I will go" (v. 58). Application: We can trust God to lead us into His sovereign will for our lives which operates in cooperation with our human choices (cf. Num. 6:22-26).

51 Behold, Rebekah ^ais before thee, take her, and go, and let her be thy master's son's wife, as the LORD hath spoken.

52 And it came to pass, that, when Abraham's servant heard their words, ^ahe worshipped the LORD, bowing himself to the earth.

53 And the servant brought forth ^ajewels¹ of silver, and jewels of gold, and ²raiment, and gave them to Rebekah: he gave also to her brother and to her mother ^bprecious things.

Preparing to Leave

54 And they did eat and drink, he and the men that were with him, and tarried all night; and they rose up in the morning, and he said, ^aSend me away unto my master.

55 And her brother and her mother said, Let the damsel ¹abide with us a few days, at the least ten; after that she shall go.

56 And he said unto them, ¹Hinder me not, seeing the LORD hath prospered my way; send me away that I may go to my master.

57 And they said, We will call the damsel, and ¹enquire at her mouth.

Rebekah Agrees to Go

58 And they called Rebekah, and said unto her, Wilt thou go with this man? And she said, I will go.

59 And they sent away Rebekah their sister, ^aand her nurse, and Abraham's servant, and his men.

60 And they blessed Rebekah, and said unto her, Thou art our sister, be thou ^athe mother of thousands of ¹millions, and ^blet thy ²seed possess the gate of those which hate them.

61 And Rebekah arose, and her damsels, and they rode upon the camels, and followed the man: and

Isaac and Rebekah Marry

62 And Isaac came from the way of the ^awell Lahai-roi; for he dwelt in the south country.

63 And Isaac went out ^ato meditate in the field at the eventide: and he lifted up his eyes, and saw, and behold, the camels were coming.

64 And Rebekah lifted up her eyes, and when she saw Isaac, ^ashe ¹lighted off the camel.

65 For she had said unto the servant, What man is this that walketh in the field to meet us? And the servant had said, It is my master: therefore she took a veil, and covered herself.

66 And the servant told Isaac all things that he had done.

67 And Isaac brought her into his mother Sarah's tent, and ^atook Rebekah, and she became his wife; and he loved her: and Isaac ^bwas comforted after his mother's death.

Abraham's Descendants

25 Then again Abraham took a wife, and her name was ^aKeturah.

2 And ^ashe bare him Zimran, and Jokshan, and Medan, and Midian, and Ishbak, and Shuah.

4 And the sons of Midian; Ephah, and Epher, and Hanoch, and Abidah, and Eldaah. All these were the children of Keturah.

5 And ^aAbraham gave all that he had unto Isaac.

6 But unto the sons of the concubines, which Abraham had,

24:64. The first historical references to domesticated camels appear in the Abraham narratives.

25:1-11. Keturah: She was a concubine (v. 6; 1 Chr. 1:32) and this suggests that she was alive when Sarah was living. Many of the names listed have already been identified with Arab tribes, fulfilling God's promise to Abraham that he would be the father of many nations (17:4). The fact that Abraham gave all that he had unto Isaac indicates that Isaac was the principal heir (cf. 21:10—"Cast out this bondwoman and her son: for the son of this bondwoman shall not be heir with my son, even with Isaac"; 17:18; Gal. 4:28-31). Only if he had legally adopted the sons of the concubine by pronouncing "my son, child" would they have inherited his wealth. Abraham was then gathered to his people, which has been interpreted as (1) a euphemism for death; (2) a reference to a multiple burial; or (3) as the majority of commentators assert, a reference to immortality, a witness to life after death.

Abraham gave gifts, and ^asent them away from Isaac his son, while he yet lived, eastward, unto ^bthe east country.

7 And these are the days of the years of Abraham's life which he lived, an hundred threescore and fifteen years.

9 And ^ahis sons Isaac and Ishmael buried him in the cave of ^bMachpelah, in the field of Ephron the son of Zohar the Hittite, which is before Mamre;

10 ^aThe field which Abraham purchased of the sons of Heth: ^bthere was Abraham buried, and Sarah his wife.

Isaac's Descendants

19 And ¹these are the ^agenerations of Isaac, Abraham's son: ^bAbraham begat Isaac:

20 And Isaac was forty years old when he took Rebekah to wife, ^athe daughter of Bethuel the Syrian of Padan-aram, ^bthe sister to Laban the Syrian.

21 And Isaac ¹intreated the LORD for his wife, because she was barren: ^aand the LORD was intreated of him, and ^bRebekah his wife conceived.

22 And the children struggled together within her; and she said, If it

25:12-18. This gives the account of the sons of Ishmael. He had been the subject of particular divine promises made to Hagar (16:10-12) and Abraham (17:20; 21:13). The fulfillment of his descendants is noted before the history of the Abrahamic kingdom proceeds.

25:19-34. The Syrian of Padan-aram, the sister to Laban the Syrian: The word Syrian is translated best by "Aramean" and does not refer to the Syria of which Damascus was the capital. It was called Mesopotamia in 24:10 and lay north and east of Palestine. Its chief city was Haran. And the children struggled together within her (womb): The struggle was typical of the years to follow. Also, the elder shall serve the younger was a startling revelation; for it went contrary to ancient Near Eastern custom. This forms the basis for our understanding of the New Testament application of the term firstborn to the Lord Jesus Christ. It refers to rank, not origin. Normally, the eldest son was given preferential treatment. He assumed more responsibility and was rewarded with honor and given two shares in the family inheritance, instead of the single share that each of his younger brothers received. Occasionally, the eldest fell out of favor and was replaced by a younger son, a brother. Notice some examples: Jacob replaced Esau; Ephraim replaced Manasseh in 48:13-20; Joseph replaced Reuben in 49:3, 4; (cf. 1 Chr. 5:1, 2); and Solomon replaced Adonijah in 1 Kings 1:5-53. Thus, the younger became the "firstborn," that is, he attained to first rank. This term is applied in this sense to the nation of Israel (cf. Ex. 4:22; Amos 3:1, 2). And he sold his birthright unto Jacob: Thus Esau impudently forfeited important rights, responsibilities, and honors that were his by birth. He despised his birthright; he considered the responsibilities and honors unimportant, or he was totally uninterested in them. The agreement was solidified by a formal oath in verse 33. Hebrews 12:16 refers to Esau as a "profane person," which implied something unhalloved, something sacred made common. He took what God considered sacred and made it common. Being so totally concerned with his temporary and material needs, he gave them priority over his rights as the firstborn son and his responsibilities as heir to the blessing of the Abrahamic covenant. Every Christian must beware lest he count as unimportant what God considers sacred.

be¹so, why am I thus?^a And she went to enquire of the LORD.

23 And the LORD said unto her, “Two nations are in thy womb, and two manner of people shall be separated from thy bowels; and ^b*the one* people shall be stronger than the other people; and ^cthe elder shall serve the younger.

The Birth of Esau and Jacob

24 And when her days to be delivered were fulfilled, behold, there were twins in her womb.

25 And the first came out red, ^aall over like an hairy garment; and they called his name ¹Esau.

26 And after that came his brother out, and ^ahis hand took hold on Esau’s heel; and ^bhis name was called ¹Jacob: and Isaac was three-score years old when she bare them.

27 And the boys grew: and Esau was ^aa ¹cunning hunter, a man of the field; and Jacob was ^ba ²plain man, ^cdwelling in tents.

28 And Isaac loved Esau, because he did ^aeat of his venison: ^bbut Rebekah loved Jacob.

God’s Covenant with Isaac

26 And there was a famine in the land, beside ^athe first famine that was in the days of Abraham. And Isaac went unto ^bAbimelech king of the Philistines unto Gerar.

2 And the LORD appeared unto him, and said, ^aGo not down into Egypt; dwell in ^bthe land which I shall tell thee of:

3 ^aSojourn in this land, and ^bI will be with thee, and ^cwill bless thee; for unto thee, and unto thy seed, ^dI will give all these countries, and I will perform ^ethe oath which I swore unto Abraham thy father;

26:1–16. A famine in the land: There had been a famine in Abraham’s day (12:10). He had not been forbidden to go down to Egypt as Isaac was now being directed by God in verse 2. God forced Isaac to trust in His ability to provide, and not to do the natural thing that everybody else would be doing (42:5). Besides, this was God’s promised land for Abraham and his descendants (vv. 3, 4). She is my sister is the very same expression Abraham had used, 12:13 and 20:12, 13. Abimelech was evidently a Philistine dynastic title. This was not the same Abimelech that Abraham had encountered some 97 years earlier. Isaac sowed in the land and received an hundredfold in spite of the famine and persecution because he obeyed God and was the promised seed.

25:25 Esau was Jacob’s twin brother and the father of the Edomites. Though he was the first-born and his father’s favorite, he lost both his birthright and blessing to Jacob (vv. 24–34; 27:1–29). The later animosity between the descendants of Esau (Edomites) and the descendants of Jacob (Israelites) is well documented in the Old Testament (Num. 20:18–21). Esau is later used in Scripture as an illustration of the non-elect of God (Rom. 9:13). The New Testament refers to him as a “profane person” (Heb. 12:16, 17). The Old Testament states that Esau “despised his birthright” (v. 34). (First Reference, Gen. 25:25–28; Primary Reference, Gen. 27:30–40.)

25:26 Jacob was born clutching the heel of his twin brother, Esau, who was born first. Jacob eventually obtained Esau’s birthright by taking advantage of his hunger (vv. 29–34); and Jacob deceived his father, Isaac, into giving him Esau’s blessing as well (27:1–29). Jacob fled for his life to Haran, where he married both Leah and Rachel and became the father of the 12 tribes of Israel. Jacob’s name was changed to Israel when he wrestled with the Angel of the Lord (32:24–32). He eventually settled in Hebron. In his old age he moved his entire family to Egypt at Joseph’s invitation. Jacob died at over 130 years of age and was buried in the cave of Machpelah, near Hebron. (First Reference, Gen. 25:26–28; Primary Reference, Gen. 28:10–22.)

4 And ^aI will make thy ¹seed to multiply as the stars of heaven, and will give unto thy seed all these ²countries; ^band in thy seed shall all the nations of the earth be blessed;

5 ^aBecause that Abraham obeyed my voice, and kept my charge, my commandments, my statutes, and my laws.

Isaac's Deception

6 And Isaac dwelt in Gerar:

7 And the men of the place asked him of his wife; and ^ahe said, She is my sister: for ^bhe feared to say, She is my wife; lest, said he, the men of the place should kill me for Rebekah; because she ^cwas ¹fair to look upon.

8 And it came to pass, when he had been there a long time, that Abimelech king of the Philistines looked out at a window, and saw, and, behold, Isaac was ¹sporting with Rebekah his wife.

9 And Abimelech called Isaac, and said, Behold, ¹of a surety she is thy wife: and how saidst thou, She is my sister? And Isaac said unto him, Because I said, Lest I die ²for her.

10 And Abimelech said, What is this thou hast done unto us? one of the people might ¹lightly have lien with thy wife, and ^athou shouldst have brought guiltiness upon us.

11 And Abimelech charged all his people, saying, He that ^atoucheth this man or his wife shall surely be put to death.

Isaac Prospers

12 Then Isaac sowed in that land, and ¹received in the same year ^aan hundredfold: and the LORD ^bblessed him.

13 And the man ^awaxed¹ great, and ²went forward, and grew until he became very great:

14 For he had possession of flocks, and possession of herds, and ¹great store of servants: and the Philistines ^aenvied him.

Disputes Over Wells

17 And Isaac departed thence, and ¹pitched his tent in the valley of Gerar, and dwelt there.

18 And Isaac digged again the wells of water, which they had digged in the days of Abraham his father; for the Philistines had stopped them after the death of Abraham: ^aand he called their names after the names by which his father had called them.

19 And Isaac's servants digged in the valley, and found there a well of ¹springing water.

20 And the herdmen of Gerar ^adid¹ strive with Isaac's herdmen, saying, The water is ours: and he called the name of the well ²Esek; because they strove with him.

26:17-33. The Philistines had asked Isaac to leave, so he did. The encampments such as Esek ("Contention") and Sitnah ("Enmity") led to the spacious and fruitful place of Rehoboth ("Plenty of Room"). He had many struggles, but we can identify with him and hopefully see how God worked in the life of an average man. In Beer-sheba God appeared to him and again confirmed the Abrahamic covenant. So he worshiped there by building an altar (cf. 12:7, 8; 13:4, 18).

A Covenant with Abimelech

27 And Isaac said unto them, Wherefore come ye to me, ^aseeing ye hate me, and have ^bsent me away from you?

Isaac's Request

27 And it came to pass, that when Isaac was ^aold, and ^bhis eyes were dim, so that he could not see, he called Esau his eldest son, and said unto him, My son: and he said unto him, Behold, here am I.

2 And he said, Behold now, I am old, I ^aknow not the day of my death:

3 ^aNow therefore take, I pray thee, thy weapons, thy quiver and thy bow, and go out to the field, and ¹take me some venison;

4 And make me ¹savoury meat, such as I love, and bring it to me, that I may eat; that my soul ^amay bless thee before I die.

5 And Rebekah heard when Isaac spake to Esau his son. And Esau went to the field to hunt for venison, and to bring it.

Rebekah and Jacob's Scheme

6 And Rebekah spake unto Jacob her son, saying, Behold, I heard thy father speak unto Esau thy brother, saying,

7 Bring me ¹venison, and make me ²savoury meat, that I may eat, and bless thee before the LORD before my death.

8 Now therefore, my son, ^aobey my voice according to that which I command thee.

9 Go now to the flock, and fetch me from thence two good kids of the goats; and I will make them ^asavoury meat for thy father, such as he loveth:

10 And thou shalt bring it to thy father, that he may eat, and that he ^amay bless thee before his death.

11 And Jacob said to Rebekah his mother, Behold, ^aEsau my brother is a hairy man, and I am a ¹smooth man:

26:34, 35. Esau married two heathen women, which provides additional evidence of his spiritual dullness (cf. 24:3).

27:1-4. I am old: Isaac lived still another 43 years (cf. 35:28) and he was 137 at this time. That my soul may bless thee: Isaac still favored Esau (cf. 25:28). He was apparently ignoring the fact that Esau had bartered his birthright (25:34) and had married heathen women (26:34). This is quite remarkable in light of the pains his father Abraham had taken to get a wife for him in chapter 24.

27:5-29. Rebekah favored Jacob (25:28) and instigated the deception in verses 6-29. Jacob had to resort to lying (vv. 19, 24); and Isaac allowed his senses of touch (v. 22), taste (v. 25), and smell (v. 27) to overrule what he heard (v. 22). The blessing included both benediction (v. 28) and prediction (v. 29). Jacob would be the head over Isaac's household: let people serve thee ... let thy mother's sons bow down to thee.

12 My father ¹peradventure will “feel me, and I shall seem to him as a deceiver; and I shall bring ^ba curse upon me, and not a blessing.

13 And his mother said unto him, “Upon me be thy curse, my son: only obey my voice, and go fetch me them.

14 And he went, and fetched, and brought them to his mother: and his mother ^amade ¹savoury meat, such as his father loved.

15 And Rebekah took ^agoodly¹ raiment of her eldest son Esau, which were with her in the house, and put them upon Jacob her younger son:

16 And she put the skins of the kids of the goats upon his hands, and upon the ¹smooth of his neck:

17 And she gave the savoury meat and the bread, which she had prepared, into the hand of her son Jacob.

Jacob Deceives Isaac

18 And he came unto his father, and said, My father: and he said, Here am I; who art thou, my son?

19 And Jacob said unto his father, I am Esau thy firstborn; I have done according as thou ^badest me: arise, I pray thee, sit and eat of my ²venison, ^athat thy soul may bless me.

20 And Isaac said unto his son, How is it that thou hast found it so quickly, my son? And he said, Because the LORD thy God brought it to me.

21 And Isaac said unto Jacob, Come near, I pray thee, that I ^amay feel thee, my son, whether thou be my very son Esau or not.

22 And Jacob went near unto Isaac his father; and he felt him, and said, The voice is Jacob’s voice, but the hands are the hands of Esau.

Jacob Receives the Blessing

23 And he ¹discerned him not, because ^ahis hands were hairy, as his brother Esau’s hands: so he blessed him.

24 And he said, Art thou ¹my very son Esau? And he said, I am.

25 And he said, Bring it near to me, and I will eat of my son’s venison, ^athat my soul may bless thee. And he brought it near to him, and he did eat: and he brought him wine, and he drank.

26 And his father Isaac said unto him, Come near now, and kiss me, my son.

27 And he came near, and ^akissed him: and he smelled the smell of his ¹raiment, and blessed him, and said, See, ^bthe smell of my son is as the smell of a field which the LORD hath blessed:

28 Therefore ^aGod give thee of ^bthe dew of heaven, and ^cthe fatness of the earth, and ^dplenty of ^ccorn and wine:

29 ^aLet ¹people serve thee, and nations bow down to thee: be ²lord over thy brethren, and ^blet thy mother’s sons bow down to thee: ^ccursed be every one that curseth thee, and blessed be he that blesseth thee.

Esau Returns

30 And it came to pass, as soon as Isaac had made an end of blessing Jacob, and Jacob ¹was yet scarce gone out from the presence of Isaac his father, that Esau his brother came in from his hunting.

31 And he also had made ¹savoury meat, and brought it unto his father, and said unto his father, Let my father arise, and ^aeat of his son’s venison, that thy soul may bless me.

27:30–46. For he hath supplanted me: The root of supplant is ‘aqab, meaning “to take by the heel.” Esau was distressed and saw the event as a repetition of the birthright exchange, a fulfillment of the birth prophecy, and an explanation for Jacob’s name, which forms a pun with supplanter, and is pronounced ya’aqōb. There is another pun with the words for birthright (bekōr) and blessing (berakah). The cursed and blessed terminology reminds one of 12:3. Thy dwelling shall be the fatness of the earth should actually be rendered “away from the fatness.” Edom (Esau) is doomed to privations; yet his day will come—it shall come to pass when thou shalt have the dominion, that thou shalt break his yoke from off thy neck. Esau’s descendants (the Edomites) would occupy a territory less fertile than that of Jacob’s descendants (Israel). But from time to time they would break loose and assert their independence (see 2 Chr. 21:8–10). So Esau hated Jacob ... Esau said in his heart ... then will I slay my brother: The sins of all concerned in the matter of the blessing at once began to take their toll. To deliver Jacob from Esau’s vengeance, Rebekah was obliged to deliver her favorite over to her brother Laban, and disguised her intentions with a lie: I am weary of my life because of the daughters of Heth.

32 And Isaac his father said unto him, Who art thou? And he said, I am thy son, thy firstborn Esau.

33 And Isaac trembled very exceedingly, and said, Who? where is he that hath ¹taken venison, and brought it me, and I have eaten of all before thou camest, and have blessed him? yea, ^aand he shall be blessed.

Esau Begs for a Blessing

34 And when Esau heard the words of his father, ^ahe cried with a great and exceeding bitter cry, and said unto his father, Bless me, even me also, O my father.

35 And he said, Thy brother came with ¹subtilty, and hath taken away thy blessing.

28:1-9. God Almighty is translated from El Shaddai (cf. 17:1 note). Jacob would certainly need the help of a powerful tower of strength. Verse 4 explains that the land promised to Abraham 15:18-21 is now guaranteed to Jacob and his descendants.

5 And Isaac sent away Jacob: and he went to Padan-aram unto Laban, son of Bethuel the Syrian, the brother of Rebekah, Jacob's and Esau's mother.

6 When Esau saw that Isaac had blessed Jacob, and sent him away to Padan-aram, to take him a wife from thence; and that as he blessed him he gave him a charge, saying, Thou shalt not take a wife of the daughters of Canaan;

28:10-22. A ladder set up on the earth: This would be better understood as a ramp or staircase. It is related to the mound thrown up against a walled city (2 Sam. 20:15). The streams of God's angels ascending and descending on it indicate the appropriateness of this rendering. Jesus took this figure of a means of access between heaven and earth as a picture of Himself (John 1:51). Jacob's response to this vision

(vv. 16, 17) suggests that he may have become a true believer on this occasion. Pillar and oil are the symbols normally used for a memorial (cf. Deut. 27:2-4; Is. 19:19) and consecration (Lev. 8:10, 11). The pillars that were later forbidden were related to Baal worship (Deut. 12:3) and objects of that worship (Mic. 5:13). I will surely give the tenth: This was voluntary on Jacob's part; God had not commanded it (cf. 14:20,

28:19 Beth-el means "House of God." It was the name given by Jacob to the place where he met God. It was also called Luz. The city itself was on the boundary between Benjamin and Ephraim in the time of ancient Israel. Its location was identified in the nineteenth century by E. Robinson as Tell Beitin, 12 miles north of Jerusalem. The site was later excavated by William. F. Albright and others, revealing a Canaanite settlement dating from 2000 B.C. Toward the end of the Middle Bronze Age the city was fortified by a wall 11 feet thick. Beth-el later became a prominent Hyksos fortress about 1600 B.C. The burning of the city during the Israelite conquest (Josh. 12:7-16) has been verified by a level of charred debris as much as five feet thick. It was later rebuilt and served as a royal sanctuary for Jeroboam's cult worship in the early monarchy (cf. 1 Kin. 12:26-33; 2 Chr. 13:8, 9).

where Abram's "tenth" to Melchizedek was also voluntary). It was not a requirement until the Law was given to Israel; and then two tithes were to be given, not one, as many assume (the annual tithe for the maintenance of the Levites in Lev. 27:30; Num. 18:21; and one for the Lord's feast in Deut. 14:22). It may be that every third year the second tithe was not brought to the sanctuary, but was kept at home and used to feed the Levites and the poor according to Deuteronomy 14:28, 29. If not, then there was a third tithe every third year. Thus, a consistent Israelite might give 23½ percent annually, plus offerings for sin, and so forth.

29:1–14. People of the east is a reference to his being near Haran. The son of Nahor as used in relation to Laban could be confusing, since Laban was actually his grandson (24:15, 29), but son was the usual Hebrew word for such a relationship; there was no word for grandson or grandfather. Surely thou art my bone and my flesh does not refer to legal adoption, but relationship by marriage.

29:16 Leah and Rachel were the daughters of Laban. Both of them were married to Jacob at Haran. They and their handmaids—Bilhah and Zilpah—were the mothers of the 12 tribes of Israel. Leah was the mother of Reuben, Simeon, Levi, Judah, Issachar, Zebulun, and Dinah. Rachel was the mother of Joseph and Benjamin, who were Jacob's favorite sons. She was also the ancestral mother of Ephraim and Manasseh. Rachel was Jacob's favorite wife. She died while delivering Benjamin at Ramah, near Bethlehem. Jacob lived most of his life with Leah, who was eventually buried with him at Machpelah in Hebron (49:31). She was the mother of Judah, the fourth son of Jacob, the ancestral mother of the Davidic line, and ultimately the ancestress of Christ Himself. (First Reference, Gen. 29:9–18; Primary References, Gen. 29:31–35; 30:22–24; Ruth 4:11.)

17 Leah *was*¹ tender eyed; but Rachel was^a beautiful² and well favoured.

18 And Jacob loved Rachel; and said, "I will serve thee seven years for Rachel thy younger daughter.

4 And she gave him Bilhah her handmaid *a*to¹ wife: and Jacob went in unto her.

29:15-30. Fulfil her week, and we will give thee this also indicates that Jacob had to complete the wedding week with Leah (cf. Judg. 14:12, 17) so he could then marry Rachel for whom he would have to serve another seven years. Thus, he accepts both wives without asking God's direction in the matter. Jacob was now being treated as he had treated his own brother and father. The deceiver had been out-deceived at last! And he loved also Rachel more than Leah: His parents had made this mistake—they had played favorites. This is part of the reason that Jacob was in this dreadful position now. He not only had two wives (bigamy, which was practiced by Cain's descendants, and marrying two sisters concurrently, which was later forbidden by Mosaic Law in Lev. 18:18), but he reaped the many years of agony this situation produced.

5 And Bilhah conceived, and bare Jacob a son.

6 And Rachel said, God hath ^ajudged ¹me, and hath also heard my voice, and hath given me a son: therefore called she his name ²Dan.

10 And Zilpah Leah's maid bare Jacob a son.

11 And Leah said, A ¹troop cometh: and she called his name ²Gad.

18 And Leah said, God hath given me my hire, because I have given my maiden to my husband: and she called his name ¹Issachar.

19 And Leah conceived again, and bare Jacob the sixth son.

20 And Leah said, God hath endued me with a good ¹dowry; now will my husband dwell with me, because I have born him six sons: and she called his name ²Zebulun.

The Birth of Joseph

22 And God ^aremembered Rachel, and God hearkened to her, and ^bopened her womb.

23 And she conceived, and bare a son; and said, God hath taken away ^amy reproach:

24 And she called his name ¹Joseph; and said, ^aThe LORD shall add to me another son.

Jacob Bargains with Laban

25 And it came to pass, when Rachel had born Joseph, that Jacob said unto Laban, ^aSend me away, that I may go unto ^bmine own place, and to my country.

26 Give me my wives and my children, ^afor whom I have served thee, and let me go: for thou knowest my service which I have done thee.

30:1–13. When the Lord saw that Rachel was loved and Leah hated, He closed the womb of Rachel and this produced the envy in verse 1. Bear upon my knees does not indicate an adoption rite (cf. 48:12; 50:23). It is a welcoming-in at birth of a new child. In the Hurrian tales the event is associated with birth, the naming of the child, the welcoming into the family, and the handling by the parents.

30:14–24. Mandrakes: This is an herb of the belladonna family, considered to be an aphrodisiac. It has a yellow fruit the size of a small apple. Peoples of the ancient Near East attributed sensual desire to this plant and thought it would aid conception. Note that while Rachel got the mandrakes, Leah received another son! His name was Issachar, meaning "Reward." And God remembered Rachel (cf. 8:1 when God took care of Noah in a supernatural way during the Flood): Her offspring was Joseph whose name means either "To Take Away" or "To Add." Either God had removed the reproach of her childlessness or would give her another son. God did give Benjamin much later.

30:25–43. Removing from thence all the speckled and spotted cattle, and all the brown: Evidently, Jacob relied on a superstition that the offspring would be influenced by the fears or expectations of the mother during pregnancy (vv. 37, 38). Tests have shown that spotting gives way to solid color in the breeding of goats. Modern genetic studies on dom-

Jacob Prospers

37 And ^aJacob took him rods of green poplar, and of the hazel and chesnut tree; and ¹pilled white ²strakes in them, and made the white appear which was in the rods.

38 And he set the rods which he had ¹pilled before the flocks in the gutters in the watering troughs when the flocks came to drink, that they should conceive when they came to drink.

39 And the flocks conceived before the rods, and brought forth cattle ¹ringstraked, speckled, and spotted.

40 And Jacob did separate the lambs, and set the faces of the flocks toward the ¹ringstraked, and all the brown in the flock of Laban; and he put his own flocks by themselves, and put them not ²unto Laban's cattle.

41 And it came to pass, whensoever the stronger ¹cattle did conceive, that Jacob laid the rods before the eyes of the cattle in the gutters, that they might conceive among the rods.

42 But when the cattle were feeble, he put them not in: so the feebler were Laban's, and the stronger Jacob's.

43 And the man ^aincreased¹ exceedingly, and ^bhad ²much cattle, and maidservants, and menservants, and camels, and ³asses.

inance and latency have supported Jacob's method, which at one time seemed to link the Bible with groundless supposition. Jacob's success was also attributed to selective breeding (vv. 40-42) in addition to divine help (31:10-12).

31:1-24. Laban became openly hostile to Jacob. Therefore God told Jacob to return to the land of Canaan, and I will be with thee. His wives agreed. They said, whatsoever God hath said unto thee, do. Laban had changed Jacob's wages ten times even though God suffered him not to hurt me. Images: Many have supposed that the theft of the images secured an inheritance for Jacob. In the ancient Nuzi texts the gods were given as part of an inheritance. However, heirs who did not receive the gods also participated in the division normally granted to the eldest son. The

The Flight from Laban

17 Then Jacob rose up, and set his sons and his wives upon camels;

18 And he carried away all his ¹cattle, and all his goods which he had gotten, the ¹cattle ²of his getting, which he had gotten in Padan-aram, for to go to Isaac his father in the land of ^aCanaan.

19 And Laban went to shear his sheep: and Rachel had stolen the ^aimages¹ that were her father's.

20 And Jacob stole away unawares to Laban the Syrian, in that he told him not that he ¹fled.

21 So he fled with all that he had; and he rose up, and passed over the river, and ^aset his face toward the ¹mount Gilead.

Laban Pursues Jacob

22 And it was told Laban on the third day that Jacob was fled.

23 And he took ^ahis brethren with him, and pursued after him seven days' journey; and they overtook him in the ¹mount Gilead.

24 And God ^acame to Laban the Syrian in a dream by night, and said unto him, Take heed that thou ^bspeak not to Jacob either good or bad.

25 Then Laban overtook Jacob. Now Jacob had pitched his tent in the mount: and Laban with his brethren pitched in the mount of Gilead.

26 And Laban said to Jacob, What hast thou done, that thou hast stolen away unawares to me, and ^acarried away my daughters, as captives taken with the sword?

27 Wherefore didst thou flee away secretly, and steal away from me; and didst not tell me, that I might have sent thee away with ¹mirth, and with songs, with ²tabret, and with harp?

A Present for Esau

13 And he lodged there that same night; and took of that which ¹came to his hand ^aa present for Esau his brother;

32:1-23. Mahanaim was the name given to the place, meaning "Double Camp," possibly a reference to the two camps or bands of angels, or his camp and the angels' camp. The Jabbok was a tributary of the with God and ^cwith men, and hast prevailed.

29 And Jacob asked him, and said, Tell me, I pray thee, thy name. And he said, ^aWherefore is it that thou dost ask after my name? And he ^bblessed him there.

30 And Jacob called the name of the place ¹Peniel: for ^aI have seen God face to face, and my life is preserved.

31 And as he passed over ¹Penuel the sun rose upon him, and he ²halted upon his thigh.

32 Therefore the children of Israel eat not of the ¹sinew which shrank, which is upon the ²hollow of the ³thigh, unto this day: because he ⁴touchèd the hollow of Jacob's thigh in the ¹sinew that shrank.

Jacob and Esau Meet

33 And Jacob lifted up his eyes, and looked, and, behold, ^aEsau came, and with him four hundred men. And he divided the children unto Leah, and unto Rachel, and unto the two ¹handmaids.

2 And he put the handmaids and their children foremost, and Leah and her children after, and Rachel and Joseph ¹hindermost.

3 And he passed over before them, and ^abowed himself to the ground seven times, until he came near to his brother.

4 ^aAnd Esau ran to meet him, and embraced him, ^band fell on his neck, and kissed him: and they wept.

32:24-32. And there wrestled a man with him until the breaking of the day: The man is identified by some as the preincarnate Christ, and by others as an angel, a special messenger from God. Some even cite Hosea 12:4 to support both views! The context seems to favor the angel being the preincarnate Christ (cf. v. 30 and the phrase for I have seen God face to face). If we assume the deity of the messenger, God allowed Himself to be overcome; and Jacob was crippled; his thigh was out of joint. The blessing constituted the changing of his name from Jacob, "Heel Catcher," "Supplanter," or "Deceiver," to Israel, meaning "May God Prevail [for Him]." Thus, he was now recognized as "Prince with God."

33:1-20. Jacob took no chances when he saw Esau as he bowed himself to the ground seven times, an action reserved as a sign of homage, usually before kings, as the Amarna Tablets relate: "At the two feet of my lord, the king, seven times and seven times I fall." Esau went to Seir (i.e., Edom; cf. Obadiah) and

Jacob to Succoth ("Booths") located east of the Jordan and just north of the Jabbok (32:22). And then he came to Shalem, which some take adverbially in the sense of "and then Jacob came safely to Shechem." Approximately 10 years may have elapsed in Succoth before Jacob went to Shechem. Recognizing that he had returned to fulfill the covenant promise (cf. 28:15), he erected an altar as Abraham had on his arrival (12:7). The plot of ground he bought at Shechem was the second "foothold" of Abraham's family in the Promised Land. Just before he died in Egypt 50 years later, Jacob gave this land to Joseph (48:22), whose bones were buried there four hundred years later (Josh. 24:32). Here also Jacob dug a well that became the scene of an important episode in the ministry of Jesus 1,900 years later (John 4:5, 6). The name El-elohe-Israel indicates that Jacob was confessing, using his new name Israel, that El was his God, "a Mighty God is the God of Israel," in preserving his life as he confronted Esau.

5 And he lifted up his eyes, and saw the women and the children; and said, Who are those with thee? And he said, The children ^awhich God hath graciously given thy servant.

6 Then the ¹handmaidens came near, they and their children, and they bowed themselves.

7 And Leah also with her children came near, and bowed themselves: and after came Joseph near and Rachel, and they bowed themselves.

8 And he said, What meanest thou by ^aall this ¹drove which I met? And he said, These are ^bto find ²grace in the sight of my lord.

9 And Esau said, I have enough, my brother; keep that thou hast unto thyself.

10 And Jacob said, Nay, I pray thee, if now I have found ¹grace in thy sight, then receive my present at my hand: for therefore I ^ahave seen thy face, as though I had seen the face of God, and thou wast pleased with me.

11 Take, I pray thee, ^amy blessing that is brought to thee; because God hath dealt ^bgraciously with me, and because I have ¹enough. ^cAnd he urged him, and he took it.

12 And he said, Let us take our journey, and let us go, and I will go before thee.

13 And he said unto him, My lord knoweth that the children are ¹tender, and the flocks and herds ²with young are with me: and if men

Jacob Settles in Canaan

17 And Jacob journeyed to ^aSuccoth, and built him an house, and made ¹booths for his cattle: therefore the name of the place is called ²Succoth.

18 And Jacob came ¹to ^aShalem, a city of ^bShechem, which is in the land of Canaan, when he came from Padan-aram; and pitched his tent before the city.

19 And ^ahe bought a parcel of a field, where he had ¹spread his tent, at the hand of the children of Hamor, Shechem's father, for an hundred ²pieces of money.

20 And he erected there an altar, and ^acalled it ¹El-elohe-Israel.

Dinah Defiled

34 And ^aDinah the daughter of Leah, which she bare unto Jacob, went out to see the daughters of the land.

34:1–31. Dinah must have been 12 to 14 years of age. Even after she had been defiled, Shechem wanted to marry her (vv. 3, 4). His father Hamor approached Jacob in order to arrange the marriage. This proposal was accepted, provided that Hamor's family submit to circumcision (v. 15). But this idea was a deception on the part of the sons of Jacob, because they answered Shechem and Hamor his father deceitfully. It was also a demeaning of the rite of circumcision. The decision was made in the gate of their city (cf. 19:1 and Lot) that every male among us be circumcised. They were circumcised; but on the third day when the men were suffering from fever and inflammation, Dinah's brothers attacked and killed them (vv. 25–27). They also took all their wealth ... little ones, and their wives ... captive. Simeon and Levi were the guilty ones, killing all the males (note the condemnation in 49:5–7). Jacob was alarmed and troubled at their action; but he did not answer their question, should he deal with our sister as with a harlot?

33:18 Shechem has been identified as Tell Balata situated at the eastern end of the pass between Mount Ebal and Mount Gerizim. The town was strategically located to control all the roads through the hill country in ancient times. The site has been excavated most extensively by G. E. Wright (1956–62). These excavations revealed small permanent settlements prior to 1800 B.C., when the Hyksos built a large fortress there. This would readily explain why Hamor, also a seminomad, was so anxious to form an alliance with Jacob. In later times a Canaanite fortress-temple of Baal-berith was built there (Judg. 9:4) and was eventually destroyed by Gideon's son Abimelech (Judg. 9:46–49).

2 And when Shechem the son of Hamor the Hivite, prince of the country, saw her, he ^atook her, and lay with her, and ¹defiled her.

3 And his soul ¹clave unto Dinah the daughter of Jacob, and he loved the damsel, and spake kindly unto the ²damsel.

4 And Shechem ^aspake unto his father Hamor, saying, Get me this damsel ¹to wife.

5 And Jacob heard that he had defiled Dinah his daughter: now his sons were with his ¹cattle in the field: and Jacob ^aheld² his peace until they were come.

6 And Hamor the father of Shechem went out unto Jacob to ¹commune with him.

7 And the sons of Jacob came out of the field when they heard it: and the men were grieved, and they were very ¹wroth, because he ^ahad ²wrought folly in Israel in lying with Jacob's daughter; ^bwhich thing ought not to be done.

8 And Hamor communed with them, saying, The soul of my son Shechem longeth for your daughter: I pray you give her him to wife.

9 And make ye marriages with us, and give your daughters unto us, and take our daughters unto you.

10 And ye shall dwell with us: and the land shall be before you; dwell and trade ye therein, and ¹get you possessions therein.

11 And Shechem said unto her father and unto her brethren, Let me find ¹grace in your eyes, and what ye shall say unto me I will give.

12 Ask me ¹never so much ^adowry² and gift, and I will give according as ye shall say unto me: but give me the damsel ³to wife.

The Brothers' Requirement

17 But if ye will not hearken unto us, to be circumcised; then will we take our daughter, and we will be gone.

18 And their words pleased Hamor, and Shechem Hamor's son.

19 And the young man ¹deferred not to do the thing, because he had delight in Jacob's daughter: and he was ^amore honourable than all the house of his father.

20 And Hamor and Shechem his son came unto the ^agate of their city, and communed with the men of their city, saying, 21 These men are peaceable with us; therefore let them dwell in the land, and trade therein; for the land, behold, it is large enough for them; let us take their daughters to us for wives, and let us give them our daughters.

Jacob Builds an Altar

6 So Jacob came to ^aLuz, which is in the land of Canaan, that is, Beth-el, he and all the people that were with him.

7 And he ^abuilt there an altar, and called the place ¹El-beth-el: because ^bthere God appeared unto him, when he fled from the face of his brother.

8 But ^aDeborah Rebekah's nurse died, and she was buried ¹beneath Beth-el under an ²oak: and the name of it was called ³Allon-bachuth.

9 And ^aGod appeared unto Jacob again, when he came out of Padan-aram, and ^bblessed him.

10 And God said unto him, Thy name is Jacob: ^athy name shall not be called any more Jacob, ^bbut Israel shall be thy name: and he called his name Israel.

11 And God said unto him, ^aI am God Almighty: ^bbe fruitful and multiply; ^ca nation and a company of nations shall be of thee, and kings shall come out of thy loins;

12 And the ^aland which I gave Abraham and Isaac, to thee I will give it, and to thy ¹seed after thee will I give the land.

13 And God ^awent¹ up from him in the place where he talked with him.

14 And Jacob ^aset up a pillar in the place where he talked with him, even a pillar of stone: and he poured a drink offering thereon, and he poured oil thereon.

35:1-15. Beth-el ("House of God") is where God confirmed the Abrahamic covenant to Jacob nearly 30 years earlier (cf. 28:10-19). It was about 15 miles south of Shechem. Put away the strange gods: In the crisis precipitated by the Shechem massacre (34:25, 26), Jacob's divine protector intervened with directions and defense; for the terror of God was upon the cities ... and they did not pursue after the sons of Jacob (v. 5). The putting away of the strange gods indicates Jacob's desire for an exclusive devotion to his sovereign God, the Suzerain (cf. 31:19; Ex. 20:3). The earrings probably were amulets with idolatrous significance (Ex. 32:2, 3). Later, Joshua was to demand the same removal of foreign gods at a covenant renewal (Josh. 24:2, 14, 23). Naming the altar El-beth-el ("God of the House of God") gave witness to the Lord's sovereign faithfulness. The stone pillar was the customary covenant witness. Thus Jacob made it clear that he was returning to God, not just to His house. This decision became the turning point of his life.

15 And Jacob called the name of the place where God spake with him, ^aBeth-el.

The Birth of Benjamin

16 And they journeyed from Beth-el; and there was but a little way to come to Ephrath: and Rachel ¹travailed, and she had hard labour.

17 And it came to pass, when she was in hard labour, that the midwife said unto her, Fear not; ^athou shalt have this son also.

18 And it came to pass, as her soul was in departing, (for she died) that she called his name ¹Ben-oni: but his father called him ²Benjamin.

The Death of Rachel

19 And ^aRachel died, and was buried in the way to ^bEphrath, which is Beth-lehem.

20 And Jacob set a pillar upon her grave: that is the pillar of Rachel's grave ^aunto this day.

35:16-29. Rachel gave birth to Ben-oni, meaning "Son of My Pain" or "Son of My Misfortune." Jacob's renaming of his son as Benjamin, or "Son of My Right Hand," emphasized the positive aspect of this event. Perhaps this indicated Jacob's understanding of "right hand" in its normal sense, accompanied by its propitious overtones of honor (Ps. 110:1), skill (Ps. 137:5), and soundness (Eccl. 10:2). The phrase her soul was in departing indicates only that the life was departing.

Reuben's sin of incest cost him his birthright forever, and he was replaced by Joseph (49:3, 4; 1 Chr. 5:1, 2), again demonstrating the concept of rank and not origin. (See the note on 25:19-34.) The blessing of messianic ancestry went to Judah (49:10).

36:21 Edom is the rugged desert area that extends for about a hundred miles from the Wadi Zered to the Gulf of Aqaba. Here the descendants of Esau settled (vv. 1-43). In the Middle Bronze Age, the King's Highway passed through this region (cf. Num. 20:14-18). However, archaeological excavations seem to indicate that the area was occupied only by various Bedouin tribes ruled by chieftains ("dukes") until the fourteenth century b.c. After that the Edomites remained a constant threat to the Israelites until David conquered them (2 Sam. 8:13). In the time of the divided monarchy Edom regained its independence. Its constant hostility toward God's people was frequently denounced by Israel's prophets. Edom was later subjugated by Assyria and eventually overrun by the Nabateans in the third century b.c.

35 And Husham died, and Hadad the son of Bedad, who smote Midian in the field of Moab, reigned in his stead: and the name of his city was Avith.

36 And Hadad died, and Samlah of Masrekah reigned in his stead.

2 ¹These are the generations of Jacob. Joseph, being seventeen years old, was feeding the flock with his brethren; and the lad was with the sons of Bilhah, and with the sons of Zilpah, his father's wives: and Joseph brought unto his father ^atheir² evil report.

3 Now Israel loved Joseph more than all his children, because he was ^athe son of his old age: and he ^bmade him a ^ccoat of many colours.

4 And when his brethren saw that their father loved him more than all his brethren, they ^ahated him, and could not speak peaceably unto him.

The Sheaf

5 And Joseph dreamed a dream, and he told it his brethren: and they hated him yet the more.

6 And he said unto them, Hear, I pray you, this dream which I have dreamed:

7 For, ^abehold, we were binding sheaves in the field, and, lo, my sheaf arose, and also stood upright; and, behold, your sheaves stood round about, and ¹made obeisance to my sheaf.

8 And his brethren said to him, Shalt thou indeed reign over us? or shalt thou indeed have dominion over us? And they hated him yet the more for his dreams, and for his words.

The Sun, Moon, and Stars

9 And he dreamed yet another dream, and told it his brethren, and

37:1–17. The reference to being a lad suggests he may have been a servant or helper (22:3; Ex. 33:11), as his age has already been cited. Their report was evil in the sense that their actions were evil and he reported this to his father. The fact that Jacob loved Joseph more than all his children indicates he had learned nothing from his previous experiences with favoritism (25:28). He made him a coat of many colours: This traditional understanding, and the alternate “coat with sleeves,” are sheer guesses from the context. The phrase ketōnet pasīm occurs aside from this section only in 2 Samuel 13:18, 19, where it describes a garment worn by the daughters of kings. Cuneiform inventories include various types of clothing, of which one is called kitū (or kutin-nū) pishannu, and it was a ceremonial robe draped about statues of goddesses. It had various gold ornaments sewn onto it. Thus it would be a technical term denoting appliqué ornaments on costly vests and bodices.

37:2 Joseph was the eleventh son of Jacob, the first son of Rachel (30:24), and was his father's favorite. However, he was resented by his jealous brothers, who sold him into slavery to a passing caravan of Ishmeelites. Joseph arrived in Egypt during the Second Intermediate Period of ancient Egypt's history, and rose to the position of grand vizier or prime minister to the Pharaohs (probably Sesostris II and Sesostris III). Joseph eventually reconciled to his brothers. He then invited his father and entire family to move to Egypt to escape a great famine and thus preserve the line of the Messiah. Joseph received the blessing (double portion) from his father (48:8–22). (First Reference, Gen. 30:22–24; Primary Reference, Gen. 41:37–53.)

said, Behold, I have dreamed a dream more; and, behold, ^athe sun and the moon and the eleven stars ¹made obeisance to me.

10 And he told it to his father, and to his brethren: and his father rebuked him, and said unto him, What is this dream that thou hast dreamed? Shall I and thy mother and ^athy brethren indeed come to bow down ourselves to thee to the earth?

11 And ^ahis brethren envied him; but his father ^bobserved¹ the saying.

Joseph's Search for His Brothers

12 And his brethren went to feed their father's flock in ^aShechem.

13 And Israel said unto Joseph, Do not thy brethren feed the flock in Shechem? come, and I will send thee unto them. And he said to him, Here am I.

14 And he said to him, Go, I pray thee, see whether it be well with thy brethren, and well with the flocks; and bring me word again. So he sent him out of the vale of ^aHebron, and he came to Shechem.

15 And a certain man found him, and, behold, he was wandering in the field: and the man asked him, saying, What seekest thou?

16 And he said, I seek my brethren: ^atell me, I pray thee, where they feed their flocks.

17 And the man said, They are departed hence; for I heard them say, Let us go to Dothan. And Joseph went after his brethren, and found them in ^aDothan.

Joseph Sold to Ishmeelites

28 Then there passed by ^aMidianites merchantmen; and they ¹drew and lifted up Joseph out of the pit,

37:18-36. Ishmeelites and Midianites are terms used interchangeably in verse 28, just as in Judges 8:22 and 24. Ishmeelite may not be an ethnic term, as used here, but is simply a reference to nomadic merchants. It is not likely that Joseph was sold ... into Egypt during the Hyksos period (1730-1570 B.C.), but rather prior to it late in the reign of Sesostri II, and eventually served under Sesostri III in the Middle Kingdom during the Twelfth Dynasty (1878-1843 B.C.). This is most compatible with 1 Kings 6:1 and Exodus 12:40. Potiphar is an Egyptian name meaning, "Whom Ra [the sun-god]

Has Given." He was an officer of Pharaoh's, and captain of the guard (v. 36; 39:1). The term translated "officer" is elsewhere translated "eunuch" (cf. Dan. 1:3). Historically, the word followed the same shift of meaning in Hebrew as in Akkadian—from "Official Courtier" to the more restricted meaning of "Eunuch." Note in 39:7 that Potiphar was married. Here, the earlier meaning of "Official" is best. As for the second term, rather than literal Hebrew understanding, "chief executioner," the usual rendering "captain of the guard" is best, since he was a prison keeper (cf. 40:1-4).

Judah's Descendants

38 And it came to pass at that time, that Judah went down from his brethren, and ^aturned in to a certain Adullamite, whose name was Hirah.

2 And Judah ^asaw there a daughter of a certain Canaanite, whose name was ¹Shuah; and he ²took her, and went in unto her.

3 And she conceived, and bare a son; and he called his name ^aEr.

4 And she conceived again, and bare a son; and she called his name ^aOnan.

5 And she yet again conceived, and bare a son; and called his name ^aShelah: and he was at Chezib, when she bare him.

Tamar, Wife of Er

6 And Judah ^atook a wife for Er his firstborn, whose name was ^bTamar.

7 And ^aEr, Judah's firstborn, was wicked in the sight of the LORD; ^band the LORD ¹slew him.

8 And Judah said unto Onan, Go in unto ^athy brother's wife, and marry her, and raise up seed to thy brother.

9 And Onan knew that the seed should not be ^ahis; and it came to pass, when he went in unto his brother's wife, that he spilled it on the ground, lest that he should give seed to his brother.

10 And the thing which he did ¹displeased the LORD: wherefore he slew ^ahim also.

38:1–11. Adullamite describes a person from Adullam, a Canaanite town situated on the route through Azekah and Sochoh, halfway between Lachish and Jerusalem. It controlled one of the principal passes into the hill-country of Judah from the northern Shephelah. It was about 15 miles northwest of Hebron. Judah married a Canaanite there (v. 2), and there his firstborn was slain by the Lord for acting wickedly (v. 7). From Shuah he had three sons, Er, Onan, and Shelah. Er was the firstborn who was slain by the Lord. Evidently, he represented the rapid degeneration resulting from Shuah's intimate Canaanite alliances (cf. ch. 19). Er left no heir; so according to the law of levirate marriage (the marriage of a widow to the brother of her deceased husband), his brother Onan was to marry the childless widow and provide a son for Er. This was a widely practiced custom in the ancient Near East and was later incorporated into the law of Moses (Deut. 25:5–10). And Onan knew that the seed should not be his, thus he forsook his responsibility in favor of his own desires (cf. Ruth 4:6), and God killed him.

38:2 Judah was the fourth son of Jacob by Leah (29:35). In spite of his early failures (vv. 1–30), he later rose to a position of leadership among his brothers by interceding for Joseph (37:26, 27), Simeon (43:8, 9), and Benjamin (44:14–34). Jacob eventually blessed him with the position of leadership among the 12 brothers (49:8–10). Judah was promised that he would be the ancestor of the Messiah. He became the founder of the tribe of Judah, thus also of the line of David and of Christ (Matt. 1:3–16). He is symbolized in Genesis 49:9 as a lion. Later, therefore, Christ is called the “Lion of the tribe of Judah” (Rev. 5:5). (First Reference, Gen. 29:35; Primary Reference, Gen. 49:9, 10.)

11 Then said Judah to Tamar his daughter in law, ^aRemain a widow at thy father's house, till Shelah my son be grown: for he said, ¹Lest peradventure he die also, as his brethren did. And Tamar went and dwelt ^bin her father's house.

12 And in process of time the daughter of Shuah Judah's wife died; and Judah ^awas comforted, and went up unto his sheepshearers to Timnath, he and his friend Hirah the Adullamite.

Judah Deceived by Tamar

13 And it was told Tamar, saying, Behold thy father in law goeth up ^ato Timnath to shear his sheep.

14 And she put her widow's garments off from her, and covered her with a vail, and wrapped herself, and ^asat in an open place, which is by the way to Timnath; for she saw ^bthat Shelah was grown, and she was not given unto him to wife.

15 When Judah saw her, he thought her to be an harlot; because she had covered her face.

16 And he turned unto her by the way, and said, Go to, I pray thee, let me come in unto thee; (for he knew not that she was his daughter in law.) And she said, What wilt thou give me, that thou mayest come in unto me?

17 And he said, ^aI will send thee a kid from the flock. And she said, ^bWilt thou give me a pledge, till thou send it?

18 And he said, What pledge shall I give thee? And she said, ^aThy signet, and thy ¹bracelets, and thy staff that is in thine hand. And he gave it her, and came in unto her, and she conceived by him.

19 And she arose, and went away, and ^alaid by her vail from her, and put on the garments of her widowhood.

20 And Judah sent the kid by the hand of his friend the Adullamite, to receive his pledge from the woman's hand: but he found her not.

21 Then he asked the men of that place, saying, Where is the harlot, that was ¹openly by the way side? And they said, There was no harlot in this place.

22 And he returned to Judah, and said, I cannot find her; and also the men of the place said, that there was no harlot in this place.

23 And Judah said, Let her take it to her, lest we be shamed: behold, I sent this kid, and thou hast not found her.

24 And it came to pass about three months after, that it was told Judah, saying, Tamar thy daughter in law hath ^aplayed the harlot; and also, behold, she is with child by ¹whoredom. And Judah said, Bring her forth, ^band let her be burnt.

25 When she was brought forth, she sent to her father in law, saying, By the man, whose these are, am I with child: and she said, ^aDiscern, I pray thee, whose are these, the signet, and ¹bracelets, and staff.

26 And Judah ^aacknowledged them, and said, ^bShe hath been more righteous than I; because that ^cI gave her not to Shelah my son. And he knew her again ^dno more.

Birth of Zarah and Pharez

27 And it came to pass in the time of her travail, that, behold, twins were in her womb.

28 And it came to pass, when she travailed, that the one put out his hand: and the midwife took and bound upon his hand a scarlet thread, saying, This came out first.

29 And it came to pass, as he drew back his hand, that, behold, his brother came out: and she said,

38:12-26. Harlot: The word (zōnah) in verse 15 indicates a common harlot. But verses 21 and 22 make it clear that she dressed and acted like a Canaanite temple prostitute (haqedeshah). She hath been more righteous than I: Judah was wrong on two accounts. He had committed adultery with her, and he had not kept his word when he refused to give Tamar his son Shelah.

38:27-30. Although the hand that appeared first belonged to Zarah, the child Pharez (meaning "Breach") was actually born first. He is listed in the genealogy of Christ in Matthew 1:3 (cf. Ruth 4:18). The prenatal struggle, like Esau and Jacob's (25:22-26), brings a violent chapter to an end. It also launches the tribe of Judah on its career and provides the dark and dismal background for the appearance of godly Joseph.

How hast thou broken forth? this breach be upon thee: therefore his name was called ^aPharez.¹

30 And afterward came out his brother, that had the scarlet thread upon his hand: and his name was called ^aZarah.¹

Joseph as Overseer

39 And Joseph was brought ^adown to Egypt; and ^bPotiphar, an officer of Pharaoh, captain of the guard, an Egyptian, ^cbought him of the hands of the Ishmeelites, which had brought him down thither.

2 And ^athe LORD was with Joseph, and he was a ¹prosperous man; and he was in the house of his master the Egyptian.

3 And his master saw that the LORD was with him, and that the LORD ^amade all that he did ¹to prosper in his hand.

4 And Joseph ^afound ¹grace in his sight, and he served him: and he made him ^boverseer over his house, and all that he had he put into his ²hand.

5 And it came to pass from the time that he had made him overseer in his house, and over all that he had, that ^athe LORD blessed the Egyptian's house for Joseph's sake; and the blessing of the LORD was upon all that he had in the house, and in the field.

6 And he left all that he had in Joseph's ¹hand; and he knew not ²ought he had, ³save the bread which he did eat. And Joseph ^awas ⁴a goodly person, and well favoured.

Joseph Accused of Wrongdoing

14 That she called unto the men of her house, and spake unto them, saying, See, he hath brought in an ^aHebrew unto us to ¹mock us; he came in unto me to lie with me, and I cried with a loud voice:

39:1-23. The key to Joseph's whole life is expressed in the words the LORD was with him, and ... the LORD made all that he did to prosper in his hand. Lie with me were the words of his master's wife. Joseph's reasons for refusing (vv. 8, 9) were those that another man might have given for yielding. That he was free from supervision, that he had made a rapid rise in authority which had corrupted other stewards (cf. Is. 22:15-25; Luke 16:1ff.), and his realization that only one realm was forbidden to him were all arguments for his being disloyal. He called the proposition wickedness and said it was sin against God. But she persisted day by day (cf. Samson twice in his career in Judg. 14:17; 16:16). Evidently, he would not even be with her. Joseph's actions are to be contrasted with Reuben's (35:22) and Judah's (38:16). Her first approach involved flattery (v. 7), then the drawn-out enticing (v. 10), and finally the ambush (v. 12). Joseph fled, not like a coward, but in the preservation of his honor, which the New Testament commands (2 Tim. 2:22; 2 Pet. 1:4). This is the second time a coat of Joseph is used in deceit about him (cf. 37:31-33).

19 And it came to pass, when his master heard the words of his wife, which she spake unto him, saying, After this manner did thy servant to me; that ¹his ^awrath was kindled.

Joseph Is Imprisoned

20 And Joseph's master took him, and ^aput him into the ^bprison, a place where the king's prisoners were bound: and he was there in the prison.

21 But the LORD was with Joseph, and shewed him ¹mercy, and ^agave² him favour in the sight of the keeper of the prison.

The Two Dreams

5 And they ^adreamed a dream both of them, each man his dream in one night, each man according to the interpretation of his dream, the butler and the baker of the king of Egypt, which were bound in the prison.

6 And Joseph came in unto them in the morning, and looked upon them, and, behold, they were ¹sad.

7 And he asked Pharaoh's officers that were with him in the ward of his lord's house, saying, ^aWherefore look ye so sadly to day?

8 And they said unto him, ^aWe have dreamed a dream, and there is no interpreter of it. And Joseph said unto them, ^bDo not interpretations belong to God? tell me them, I pray you.

The Butler's Dream

9 And the chief butler told his dream to Joseph, and said to him, In my dream, behold, a vine was before me;

10 And in the vine were three branches: and it was as though it budded, and her blossoms shot forth; and the clusters thereof brought forth ripe grapes:

11 And Pharaoh's cup was in my hand: and I took the grapes, and pressed them into Pharaoh's cup, and I gave the cup into Pharaoh's hand.

12 And Joseph said unto him, ^aThis is the interpretation of it: The three branches ^bare three days:

13 Yet within three days shall

40:1-23. Butler literally means "cupbearer of the king." Egyptian inscriptions include various titles for those involved in serving wine and beer to the Pharaoh. When the captain charged Joseph with them, he gave Joseph control over administrative affairs in the prison, not merely over high-ranking prisoners (cf. 41:12). The two imprisoned court officials had dreams that perplexed them (vv. 5-7). Joseph's immediate response was do not interpretations belong to God? (cf. the immediate response of his mind in 39:9; 41:16, 51, 52; 45:8). Shew kindness is the same term used by Abraham in 20:13 and indicates a demonstration of faithfulness based upon a particular relationship. In this case, Joseph had interpreted a dream of the chief butler. It is the same word used of God's faithfulness shown to Joseph in 39:21 when he was in prison and God changed the heart of the keeper of the prison (cf. Daniel in Dan. 1:9). When it is said that Pharaoh lifted up the head of the chief butler and of the chief baker, Joseph used a key expression, capable of being interpreted in opposite ways, to describe first the cupbearer's pardon and restoration to honor (cf. 2 Kin. 25:27), then the beheading or hanging of the baker (v. 19).

Pharaoh ^alift up thine head, and restore thee unto thy ¹place: and thou shalt deliver Pharaoh's cup into his hand, after the former manner when thou wast his butler.

Joseph Makes a Request

14 But ^athink on me when it shall be well with thee, and ^bshew kindness, I pray thee, unto me, and make mention of me unto Pharaoh, and bring me out of this house:

15 For indeed I was ^astolen away out of the land of the Hebrews: ^band here also have I done nothing that they should put me into the dungeon.

The Baker's Dream

16 When the chief baker saw that the interpretation was good, he said unto Joseph, I also was in my dream, and, behold, I had three ¹white baskets on my head:

17 And in the uppermost basket there was of all manner of ¹bakemeats for Pharaoh; and the birds did eat them out of the basket upon my head.

18 And Joseph answered and said, This is the interpretation thereof: The three baskets are three days:

19 Yet within three days shall Pharaoh lift up thy head from off thee, and shall ^bhang thee on a tree; and the birds shall eat thy flesh from off thee.

The Fulfillment of the Dreams

20 And it came to pass the third day, which was Pharaoh's ^abirthday, that he ^bmade a feast unto all his servants: and he ^clifted up the head of the chief butler and of the chief baker among his servants.

The Two Dreams of Pharaoh

41 And it came to pass at the end of two full years, that ^aPharaoh dreamed: and, behold, he stood by the river.

2 And, behold, there came up out of the river seven well favoured ¹kine and fatfleshed; and they fed in a meadow.

3 And, behold, seven other ¹kine came up after them out of the river, ²ill favoured and leanfleshed; and stood by the other kine upon the ³brink of the river.

4 And the ¹ill favoured and leanfleshed kine did eat up the seven ²well favoured and fat kine. So Pharaoh awoke.

5 And he slept and dreamed the second time: and, behold, seven ¹ears of corn came up upon one stalk, ²runk and good.

6 And, behold, seven thin ¹ears and ²blasted with the ^aeast wind sprung up after them.

7 And the seven thin ¹ears devoured the seven ²runk and full ears. And Pharaoh awoke, and, behold, it was a dream.

8 And it came to pass in the morning ^athat his spirit was troubled; and he sent and called for all ^bthe magicians of Egypt, and all the ^cwise men thereof: and Pharaoh told them his dream; but there was none that could interpret them unto Pharaoh.

41:1–57. There has been some question as to the exact position Joseph held in the royal court. Some think he was merely an important official with considerable power. Others believe he was a vizier or prime minister. He was set as chief steward over Pharaoh's house (v. 40); he was in command over all the land of Egypt (cf. vv. 41, 43, 44, 55; 42:6; 45:8); and he was directly responsible and subordinate only to Pharaoh (v. 40). Other Asiatics were known to have achieved similar eminence in Egypt's government in the second millennium B.C. Pharaoh had Joseph ride in the second chariot (v. 43). Thutmose III gave the following charge to his newly appointed vizier: "Look thou to this office of vizier. Be vigilant over everything that is done in it. Behold, it is the support of the entire land. Behold, as to the vizierate, behold, it is not sweet at all, behold, it is bitter as gall." Joseph had two sons, Manasseh and Ephraim. His firstborn's name means "One Who Causes Me to Forget." The reference to all his toil, and all my father's house only meant that the hardship brought upon him by his brothers was a thing of the past. Ephraim, meaning "Fruitful," signified God hath caused me to be fruitful in the land of my affliction. What a sweet, pleasant, and thankful spirit he showed in interpreting the events that had transpired in his life! The fulfillment of Pharaoh's prophetic dreams set the stage for the final scene in the fulfillment of Joseph's own dreams.

Joseph Remembered

9 Then spake the ^achief butler unto Pharaoh, saying, I do remember my faults this day:

10 Pharaoh was ^awroth¹ with his servants, ^band put me in ²ward in the captain of the guard's house, both me and the chief baker:

11 And ^awe dreamed a dream in one night, I and he; we dreamed each man according to the interpretation of his dream.

12 And there was there with us a young man, ^aan Hebrew, ^bservant to the captain of the guard; and we told him, and he ^cinterpreted to us our dreams; to each man according to his dream he did interpret.

13 And it came to pass, ^aas he interpreted to us, so it was; me he restored unto mine office, and him he hanged.

Joseph Brought Before Pharaoh

14 ^aThen Pharaoh sent and called Joseph, and they ^bbrought him hastily ^cout of the dungeon: and he shaved himself, and ^achanged his ¹raiment, and came in unto Pharaoh.

15 And Pharaoh said unto Joseph, I have dreamed a dream, and there is none that can interpret it: ^aand I have heard say of thee, that thou canst understand a dream to interpret it.

16 And Joseph answered Pharaoh, saying, ^a*It* is not in me: ^bGod shall give Pharaoh an answer of peace.

Joseph Interprets the Dreams

25 And Joseph said unto Pharaoh, The dream of Pharaoh is one: ^aGod hath shewed Pharaoh what he is about to do.

26 The seven good ¹kine are seven years; and the seven good ²ears are seven years: the dream is one.

27 And the seven thin and ¹ill favoured kine that came up after them are seven years; and the seven empty ²ears ³blasted with the east wind shall be ^aseven years of famine.

28 ^aThis is the thing which I have spoken unto Pharaoh: What God is about to do he sheweth unto Pharaoh.

29 Behold, there come ^aseven years of great plenty throughout all the land of Egypt:

30 And there shall ^aarise after them seven years of famine; and all the plenty shall be forgotten in the land of Egypt; and the famine ^bshall ¹consume the land;

31 And the plenty shall not be known in the land by reason of that famine following; for it shall be very grievous.

32 And for that the dream was ¹doubled unto Pharaoh twice; it is because the ^athing is established by God, and God will shortly bring it to pass.

33 Now therefore let Pharaoh look out a man ¹discreet and wise, and set him over the land of Egypt.

34 Let Pharaoh do this, and let him appoint ¹officers over the land, and ^atake up the ²fifth part of the land of Egypt in the seven plenteous years.

35 And ^alet them gather all the food of those good years that come, and lay up ¹corn under the ²hand of Pharaoh, and let them keep food in the cities.

36 And that food shall be for ¹store to the land against the seven years of famine, which shall be in the land of Egypt; that the land ^aperish not through the famine.

Joseph Is Made Ruler

37 And ^athe thing was good in the eyes of Pharaoh, and in the eyes of all his servants.

38 And Pharaoh said unto his servants, Can we find such a one as this is, a man ^ain whom the Spirit of God is?

39 And Pharaoh said unto Joseph, Forasmuch as God hath shewed thee all this, there is none ¹so discreet and wise as thou art:

40 ^aThou shalt be ¹over my house, and according unto thy word shall all my people be ruled: only in the throne will I be greater than thou.

41 And Pharaoh said unto Joseph, See, I have ^aset thee over all the land of Egypt.

42 And Pharaoh ^atook off his ¹ring from his hand, and put it upon Joseph's hand, and ^barrayed him in ²vestures of fine linen, ^cand put a gold chain about his neck;

43 And he made him to ride in the second ^achariot which he had; ^band they cried before him, Bow the knee: and he made him ruler ^cover all the land of Egypt.

44 And Pharaoh said unto Joseph, I am Pharaoh, and ¹without thee shall no man lift up his hand or foot in all the land of Egypt.

45 And Pharaoh called Joseph's name ¹Zaphnath-paaneah; and he gave him to wife ^aAsenath the daughter of Poti-pherah priest of On. And Joseph went out over all the land of Egypt.

king of Egypt. And Joseph went out from the presence of Pharaoh, and went throughout all the land of Egypt.

47 And in the seven plenteous years the earth brought forth ¹by handfuls.

48 And he gathered up all the food of the seven years, which were in the land of Egypt, and laid up the food in the cities: the food of the field, which was round about every city, laid he up in the same.

49 And Joseph gathered ¹corn ^aas the sand of the sea, very much, until he ²left numbering; for it was without number.

Joseph's Descendants

50 ^aAnd unto Joseph were born two sons before the years of famine came, which Asenath the daughter of Poti-pherah priest of On bare unto him.

51 And Joseph called the name of the firstborn ¹Manasseh: For God, said he, hath made me forget all my toil, and all my ^afather's house.

52 And the name of the second called he ¹Ephraim: For God hath caused me to be ^afruitful in the land of my affliction.

The Seven Years of Famine Begin

53 And the seven years of plenteousness, that was in the land of Egypt, were ended.

54 ^aAnd the seven years of ¹dearth began to come, ^baccording as Joseph had said: and the dearth was in all lands; but in all the land of Egypt there was bread.

55 And when all the land of Egypt was famished, the people cried to Pharaoh for bread: and Pharaoh said unto all the Egyptians, Go unto Joseph; ^awhat he saith to you, do.

56 And the famine was over all the face of the earth: And Joseph opened ¹all the storehouses, and ^asold unto the Egyptians; and the famine ²waxed sore in the land of Egypt.

57 ^aAnd all countries came into Egypt to Joseph for to ^bbuy ¹corn; because that the famine was so ²sore in all lands.

Jacob Sends Sons to Egypt

42 Now when ^aJacob saw that there was ¹corn in Egypt, Jacob said unto his sons, Why do ye look one upon another?

2 And he said, Behold, I have heard that there is ¹corn in Egypt: get you down thither, and buy for us from thence; that we may ^alive, and not die.

3 And Joseph's ten brethren went down to buy ¹corn in Egypt.

4 But Benjamin, Joseph's brother, Jacob sent not with his brethren; for he said, ^aLest peradventure ¹mischief befall him.

5 And the sons of Israel came to buy ¹corn among those that came: for the famine was ^ain the land of Canaan.

6 And Joseph was the governor ^aover the land, and he it was that sold to all the people of the land: and Joseph's ¹brethren came, and ^bbowed down themselves before him with their faces to the earth.

Joseph Recognizes His Brothers

7 And Joseph saw his brethren, and he knew them, but ¹made himself ^astrange unto them, and spake ²roughly unto them; and he said unto them, Whence come ye? And they said, From the land of Canaan to buy food.

8 And Joseph knew his brethren, but they knew not him.

The Brothers Accused of Being Spies

9 And Joseph ^aremembered the dreams which he dreamed of them, and said unto them, Ye are spies; to see the ¹nakedness of the land ye are come.

12 And he said unto them, Nay, but to see the nakedness of the land ye are come.

13 And they said, Thy servants are twelve ¹brethren, the sons of one man in the land of Canaan; and, behold, the youngest is this day with our father, and one ^ais ²not.

14 And Joseph said unto them, That is it that I spake unto you, saying, Ye are spies:

15 Hereby ye shall be ¹proved: ^aBy the life of Pharaoh ye shall not go forth hence, except your youngest brother come hither.

16 Send one of you, and let him fetch your brother, and ye shall be ¹kept in prison, that your words may be ²proved, whether there be any truth in you: or else by the life of Pharaoh surely ye are spies.

17 And he put them all together into ¹ward ^athree days.

Joseph's Conditions

18 And Joseph said unto them the third day, This do, and live; ^afor I fear God:

19 If ye be true men, let one of your brethren be bound in the house of your prison: go ye, carry ¹corn for the famine of your houses:

20 But ^abring your youngest brother unto me; so shall your words be verified, and ye shall not die. And they did so.

21 And they said one to another, ^aWe are verily guilty concerning our brother, in that we saw the anguish of his soul, when he ¹besought us, and we would not hear; ^btherefore is this distress come upon us.

42:1-28. The mischief that Jacob had in mind certainly was a fear that something similar to what happened to Joseph might happen to Benjamin. It is hard to determine Joseph's real motive in testing his brothers. Most scholars feel that Joseph was not being vindictive, but was engaged merely in official probing and testing. However, Joseph's manner, coupled with the numerous tests through which he put his brothers, gives the distinct impression that he was humbling his previously arrogant brothers (vv. 6-14). The fact that they bowed down themselves before him brings to mind the fulfillment of the dreams they had gone to great lengths to thwart (cf. v. 9; 37:5-11). The experience of being put in prison caused the brothers to discuss their guilt concerning Joseph (vv. 21, 22), which may have been Joseph's purpose in testing them. Hearing their conversation, he turned from them and wept. Certainly this does not characterize a man of hate. When they were on their way, one of them discovered his money: And their heart failed them, and they were afraid, saying... what is this that God hath done unto us? Joseph's plan was working.

22 And Reuben answered them, saying, “Spake I not unto you, saying, Do not sin against the ¹child; and ye would not hear? therefore, behold, also his blood is ^brequired.

23 And they knew not that Joseph understood them; for he spake unto them by an interpreter.

24 And he turned himself ¹about from them, and ^awept; and returned to them again, and ²communed with them, and took from them ^bSimeon, and bound him before their eyes.

Returning to Canaan

25 Then Joseph ^acommanded to fill their sacks with ¹corn, and to ^brestore every man’s money into his sack, and to give them provision for the way; and ^cthus did he unto them.

26 And they ¹laded their ²asses with the ³corn, and departed thence.

27 And as ^aone of them opened his sack to give his ¹ass ²provender in the inn, he ³espied his money; for, behold, it was in his sack’s mouth.

28 And he said unto his brethren, My money is restored; and, lo, it is even in my sack: and ¹their heart failed them, and they were afraid, saying one to another, What is this that God hath done unto us?

The Brothers’ Report to Jacob

29 And they came unto Jacob their father unto the land of Canaan, and told him all that befell unto them; saying,

30 The man, who is the lord of the land, ^aspake ¹roughly to us, and took us for spies of the country.

31 And we said unto him, We are ¹true men; we are no spies:

32 We be twelve brethren, sons of our father; one is not, and the youngest is this day with our father in the land of Canaan.

33 And the man, the lord of the country, said unto us, ^aHereby shall I know that ye are ¹true men; leave one of your brethren here with me, concern for Jacob (v. 27), his affectionate favoritism for Benjamin (vv. 29–34), and exact knowledge of the interlocking sequence of births of these sons of four mothers (v. 33). The fact that Joseph had the brothers separated from the Egyptians (v. 32)—it would have been an abomination unto the Egyptians had they not been separated—suggests that this was a native Egyptian Pharaoh. If it were a Hyksos king, most likely he would not have demanded such discrimination. Evidently, the Egyptians had a deep hatred for Asiatic shepherds (cf. 46:34; Ex. 8:26). Verse 34 suggests that the brothers were not jealous or resentful toward Benjamin because of the preferential treatment; thus, they seemingly had a change of heart. But Joseph was going to test them (ch. 44).

25 And they made ready the present ¹against Joseph came at noon: for they heard that they should eat bread there.

Joseph's Final Test

44 And he commanded ¹the ^asteward of his house, saying, ^bFill the men's sacks with food, as much as they can carry, and put every man's money in his sack's mouth.

2 And put my cup, the silver cup, in the sack's mouth of the youngest, and his ¹corn money. And he did according to the word that Joseph had spoken.

3 As soon as the morning was light, the men were sent away, they and their ¹asses.

4 And when they were gone out of the city, and not yet far off, Joseph said unto his steward, Up, follow after the men; and when thou dost overtake them, say unto them, Wherefore have ye ^arewarded ¹evil for good?

5 Is not this it in which my lord drinketh, and whereby indeed he ¹divineth? ye have done evil in so doing.

The Search for Joseph's Silver Cup

6 And he overtook them, and he spake unto them these same words.

7 And they said unto him, Wherefore saith my lord these words? ¹God forbid that thy servants should do according to this thing:

8 Behold, ^athe money, which we found in our sacks' mouths, we brought again unto thee out of the land of Canaan: how then should we steal out of thy lord's house silver or gold?

9 With whomsoever of thy servants it be found, ^aboth let him die, and we also will be my lord's ¹bondmen.

44:1-34. Joseph sent his brothers home with the money and with his silver cup in Benjamin's sack. He then had his servant pursue them, open the sacks, and require them to return to explain the matter. There was a sacred character attributed to the cup, for he called it a divining cup (cf. vv. 5, 15). This theft may have been punishable by death (cf. 31:32). Divining was fundamentally alien to Israel; God revealed His will explicitly (cf. Num. 23:23). Joseph would certainly not have used these means, but he was playing a role and testing his brothers. He wanted to see if they would seize this opportunity to get rid of Benjamin. Would they stand with him? Had their hearts been changed? Judah's statement, Let thy servant abide instead of the lad, indicates that God had changed the hearts of the brothers. His plea reminds one of the great Servant born to this tribe—the Servant who offered Himself for the transgressions of His people.

10 And he said, Now also let it be according unto your words: he with whom it is found shall be my ¹servant; and ye shall be blameless.

11 Then they speedily took down every man his sack to the ground, and opened every man his sack.

12 And he searched, and began at the eldest, and ¹left at the youngest: and the cup was found in Benjamin's sack.

13 Then they ^arent¹ their clothes, and laded every man his ²ass, and returned to the city.

Joseph's Accusation

14 And Judah and his brethren came to Joseph's house; for he was yet there: and they ^afell before him on the ground.

15 And Joseph said unto them, What deed is this that ye have done? ¹wot ye not that such a man as I can certainly ²divine?

16 And Judah said, What shall we say unto my lord? what shall we speak? or how shall we clear ourselves? God hath ^afound out the iniquity of thy servants: behold, ^bwe are my lord's servants, both we, and he also with whom the cup is found.

17 And he said, ^aGod¹ forbid that I should do so: but the man in whose hand the cup is found, he shall be my servant; and as for you, get you up in peace unto your father.

19 My lord asked his servants, saying, Have ye a father, or a brother?

lad cannot leave his father: for if he should leave his father, his father would die.

23 And thou saidst unto thy servants, ^aExcept your youngest brother come down with you, ye shall see my face no more.

24 And it came to pass when we came up unto thy servant my father, we told him the words of my lord.

25 And ^aour father said, Go again, and buy us a little food.

26 And we said, We cannot go down: if our youngest brother be with us, then will we go down: for we may not see the man's face, except our youngest brother be with us.

27 And thy servant my father said unto us, Ye know that ^amy wife bare me two sons:

28 And the one went out from me, and I said, ^aSurely he is torn in pieces; and I saw him not since:

31 It shall come to pass, when he seeth that the lad is not with us, that he will die: and thy servants shall bring down the gray hairs of thy servant our father with sorrow to the grave.

32 For thy servant became surety for the lad unto my father, saying, ^aIf I bring him not unto thee, then I shall bear the blame to my father for ever.

Joseph Reveals His Identity

45 Then Joseph could not ¹refrain himself before all them that stood by him; and he cried, Cause every man to go out from me.

And there stood no man with him, ^awhile Joseph made himself known unto his brethren.

2 And he ^awept aloud: and the Egyptians and the house of Pharaoh heard.

3 And Joseph said unto his brethren, ^aI am Joseph; doth my father yet live? And his brethren could not answer him; for they were ¹troubled at his presence.

4 And Joseph said unto his brethren, Come near to me, I pray you. And they came near. And he said, I am Joseph your brother, ^awhom ye sold into Egypt.

5 Now therefore be not grieved, nor angry with yourselves, that ye sold me hither: ^afor God did send me before you to preserve life.

6 For these two years hath the ^afamine been in the land: and yet there are five years, in the which there shall neither be ¹earing nor harvest.

The Invitation of Pharaoh

16 And the ¹fame thereof was heard in Pharaoh's house, saying, Joseph's brethren are come: and it pleased Pharaoh well, and his servants.

17 And Pharaoh said unto Joseph, Say unto thy brethren, This do ye; ¹lade your beasts, and go, get you unto the land of Canaan;

20 Also ¹regard not your stuff; for the good of all the land of Egypt is yours.

Provisions for the Journey

21 And the children of Israel did so: and Joseph gave them ^awagons,¹ according to the commandment of

45:1-28. This chapter is the climax to the story. And his brethren could not answer him; for they were troubled at his presence: In spite of many assurances, this uneasiness persisted for many years (cf. 50:15). They were literally "terrified, trembling." Joseph gave a clear testimony to God's working providentially in his own life when he said God sent me before you to preserve you a posterity ... and to save your lives ... so now it was not you that sent me hither, but God. The phrase He hath made me a father to Pharaoh is an expression applied to Egyptian viziers as far back as the third millennium B.C. The land of Goshen was an Egyptian region (47:6, 27) in the eastern delta area (47:11), not far from the court at Memphis. It was in the area around the Wadi Tumilat, a valley that was about 40 miles long. It was highly suitable for cattle (47:4-6), but hated by the Egyptians (46:34); thus it provided good seclusion. This isolation would provide for Israel's distinctive cultural preservation under conditions favorable to their growth and unity.

Pharaoh, and gave them one provision for the way.

22 To all of them he gave each man ^achanges of ¹raiment; but to Benjamin he gave three hundred pieces of silver, and ^bfive changes of raiment.

23 And to his father he sent after this manner; ten ¹asses ²laden with the good things of Egypt, and ten she asses laden with ³corn and bread and ⁴meat for his father ⁵by the way.

24 So he sent his brethren away, and they departed: and he said unto them, See that ye ¹fall not out by the way.

Good News for Jacob

25 And they went up out of Egypt, and came into the land of Canaan unto Jacob their father, 26 And told him, saying, Joseph is yet alive, and he is governor over all the land of Egypt. ^aAnd Jacob's heart fainted, for he believed them not.

27 And they told him all the words of Joseph, which he had said unto them: and when he saw the wagons which Joseph had sent to carry him, the spirit ^aof Jacob their father revived:

28 And Israel said, It is enough; Joseph my son is yet alive: I will go and see him before I die.

46:1–7. Jacob stopped at Beer-sheba, and offered sacrifices unto the God of his father Isaac. Both Abraham (21:33) and Isaac (26:25) had erected altars here, and this may have been his motive for offering sacrifices. Abraham had lied about his wife in Egypt (12:10–20) with serious consequences; and Isaac had been forbidden even to go there (26:2), which must have caused Jacob some anxiety. But God assured Jacob that he need fear not to go down into Egypt; for I will there make of thee a great nation (cf. 15:13ff.; Ps. 105:17, 23). The Lord promised to be with Jacob and also surely bring thee up again. It was also promised that Jacob would die in Egypt as Joseph shall put his hand upon thine eyes, contrasted to the troubled end he had predicted for himself (37:35). Thus, “bring thee up again” refers to the nation of Israel, not Jacob.

46:8–27. The phrase the children of Israel appears for the first time in reference to the family as a whole. The grand total of 66 in verse 26—to which Moses added Jacob, Joseph, and Joseph's two sons—makes the number 70, as in verse 27. This agrees with Deuteronomy 10:22 and the Hebrew text of Exodus 1:5. Exodus 1:5 in the Septuagint, however, reads 75, which Stephen apparently quoted in his sermon (Acts 7:14) and which the Dead Sea Scrolls support. The number 75 probably includes five later descendants of Joseph.

27 And the sons of Joseph, which were born him in Egypt, were two souls: ^aall the souls of the house of Jacob, which came into Egypt, were threescore and ten.

The Reunion of Joseph and Jacob

28 And he sent Judah before him unto Joseph, ^ato direct his face unto Goshen; and they came ^binto the land of Goshen.

29 And Joseph made ready his ^achariot, and went up to meet Israel his father, to Goshen, and presented himself unto him; and he ^bfell on his neck, and wept on his neck a good while.

30 And Israel said unto Joseph, ^aNow let me die, since I have seen thy face, because thou art yet alive.

31 And Joseph said unto his brethren, and unto his father's house, ^aI will go up, and ¹shew Pharaoh, and say unto him, My brethren, and my father's house, which were in the land of Canaan, are come unto me;

32 And the men are ^ashepherds, for their ¹trade hath been to feed ²cattle; and they have brought their flocks, and their herds, and all that they have.

33 And it shall come to pass, when Pharaoh shall call you, and shall say, ^aWhat is your occupation?

34 That ye shall say, Thy servants' ^atrade¹ hath been ²about cattle ^bfrom our youth even until now, both we, and also our fathers: that ye may dwell in the land of Goshen; for every shepherd is ^acan³abomination unto the Egyptians.

The Brothers Presented to Pharaoh

47 Then Joseph ^acame and told Pharaoh, and said, My father and my brethren, and their flocks, and their herds, and all that they have, are come out of the land of Canaan; and, behold, they are in ^bthe land of Goshen.

47:1-10. Joseph's wise advice in 46:33, 34 enabled his brothers to express their desires before Pharaoh, and to receive exactly what they wanted. Evidently, Jacob was not intimidated by Pharaoh; and he blessed Pharaoh in verses 7 and 10. This is amazing in the light of Hebrews 7:7. Jacob said his days were few and evil. The word evil does not mean "sinful," but "calamitous, constantly confronted by anger, anguish, distress, and tribulation."

2 And he took some of his ¹brethren, even five men, and ^apresented them unto Pharaoh.

3 And Pharaoh said unto his brethren, ^aWhat is your occupation? And they said unto Pharaoh, ^bThy servants are shepherds, both we, and also our fathers.

4 They said moreover unto Pharaoh, ^aFor to sojourn in the land are we come; for thy servants have no pasture for their flocks; ^bfor the famine is ¹sore in the land of Canaan: now therefore, we pray thee, let thy servants ^cdwell in the land of Goshen.

5 And Pharaoh spake unto Joseph, saying, Thy father and thy brethren are come unto thee:

6 ^aThe land of Egypt is before thee; in the best of the land make thy father and brethren to dwell; ^bin the land of Goshen let them dwell: and if thou knowest ¹any men of activity among them, then make them rulers over my cattle.

Jacob Presented to Pharaoh

7 And Joseph brought in Jacob his father, and set him before Pharaoh: and Jacob ^ablessed Pharaoh.

8 And Pharaoh said unto Jacob, How old art thou?

9 And Jacob said unto Pharaoh, ^aThe days of the years of my ¹pilgrimage are an ^bhundred and thirty years: ^cfew and evil have the days of the years of my life been, and ^dhave not attained unto the days of the years of the life of my fathers in the days of their pilgrimage.

10 And Jacob ^ablessed Pharaoh, and went out from before Pharaoh.

17 And they brought their ¹cattle unto Joseph: and Joseph gave them bread in exchange for horses, and for the flocks, and for the cattle of the herds, and for the ²asses: and he ³fed them with bread for all their cattle for that year.

Land Sold for Bread

18 When that year was ended, they came unto him the second year, and said unto him, We will not hide it from my lord, how that our money is spent; my lord also hath our herds of ¹cattle; there is ²not ought left in the sight of my lord, but our bodies, and our lands:

19 Wherefore shall we die before thine eyes, both we and our land? buy us and our land for bread, and we and our land will be servants unto Pharaoh: and give us seed, that we may ^alive, and not die, that the land be not desolate.

47:11-31. They were to settle in the best of the land, in the land of Rameses. This has posed a problem for interpreters, for the first Rameses dynasty did not reign until around 1319 B.C. Thus this expression has been viewed as either an anachronism or a modernization of an older place-name by a later scribe. It may be that some later scribe, finding here a name that nobody knew anymore, and being very much concerned to have a Bible that everyone could understand, inserted this new form of the name. This city of Rameses was earlier known as Tanis and, before that, Avaris. It is not unlikely that the name was being brought up to date.

20 And Joseph ^abought all the land of Egypt for Pharaoh; for the Egyptians sold every man his field, because the famine ¹prevailed over them: so the land became Pharaoh's.

21 And as for the people, he ¹removed them to cities from one end of the borders of Egypt even to the other end thereof.

The Priests' Land Not Sold

22 ^aOnly the land of the ^bpriests bought he not; for the priests had ¹a portion assigned them of Pharaoh, and did eat their ²portion which Pharaoh gave them: wherefore they sold not their lands.

Joseph Establishes Tenant Laws

23 Then Joseph said unto the people, Behold, I have bought you this day and your land for Pharaoh: lo, here is seed for you, and ye shall sow the land.

24 And it shall come to pass in the increase, that ye shall give the fifth part unto Pharaoh, and four parts shall be your own, for seed of the field, and for your food, and for them of your households, and for food for your little ones.

25 And they said, Thou hast saved ^aour lives: let us find ¹grace in the sight of my lord, and we will be Pharaoh's servants.

26 And Joseph made it a law over the land of Egypt unto this day, that Pharaoh should have the fifth part; ^aexcept the land of the priests only, which became not Pharaoh's.

28 And Jacob lived in the land of Egypt seventeen years: so the whole age of Jacob was an hundred forty and seven years.

29 And the time ^adrew nigh that Israel must die: and he called his son Joseph, and said unto him, If now I have found grace in thy sight, ^bput, I pray thee, thy hand under my thigh, and ^cdeal kindly and truly with me; ^dbury me not, I pray thee, in Egypt:

Joseph's Sons Visit Jacob

48 And it came to pass after these things, that one told Joseph, Behold, thy father is sick: and he took with him his two sons, ^aManasseh and Ephraim.

2 And one told Jacob, and said, Behold, thy son Joseph cometh unto thee: and Israel ¹strengthened himself, and sat upon the bed.

3 And Jacob said unto Joseph, God ^aAlmighty appeared unto me at ^bLuz in the land of Canaan, and blessed me,

4 And said unto me, Behold, I will ^amake thee fruitful, and multiply thee, and I will make of thee a multitude of people; and will ^bgive this land to thy ¹seed after thee ^cfor an everlasting possession.

5 And now thy ^atwo sons, Ephraim and Manasseh, which were born unto thee in the land of Egypt before I came unto thee into Egypt, are mine; as Reuben and Simeon, they shall be mine.

48:1-14. The blessing of Joseph's sons is the one act among all the others that the writer of Hebrews selected as an act of faith (Heb. 11:21). There is a gentle irony in the fact that on just such an occasion as this Jacob had exercised his guile in his youth (ch. 27). Once more we have an example of the firstborn's blessing being given to the younger brother; but in this instance there is no bitterness, resentment, or scheming (cf. Prov. 10:22). They shall be mine has been taken as a form of adoption on the part of Jacob in relation to Manasseh and Ephraim. The purpose may have been to give an inheritance to someone who was not automatically qualified, even though the father already had heirs of his own. But they shall be mine may only mean that the grandfather welcomed the two latest additions into the clan which he headed. Or it may mean that the passage simply concerns inheritance, as verse 6 indicates. In that case, Jacob was using his paternal authority to enable Joseph's sons to inherit directly from their grandfather, rather than from Joseph. This act would honor Rachel's memory by giving her three tribal territories in the Promised Land.

6 And thy ¹issue, which ²thou begettest after them, shall be thine, and shall be called after the name of their brethren in their inheritance.

7 And as for me, when I came from Padan, ^aRachel died ¹by me in the land of Canaan in the way, when yet there was but a little way to come unto Ephrath: and I buried her there ²in the way of Ephrath; the same is Beth-lehem.

12 And Joseph brought them out from ¹between his knees, and he bowed himself with his face to the earth.

13 And Joseph took them both, Ephraim in his right hand toward Israel's left hand, and Manasseh in his left hand toward Israel's right hand, and brought them near unto him.

18 And Joseph said unto his father, Not so, my father: for this is the firstborn; put thy right hand upon his head.

19 And his father refused, and said, ^aI know it, my son, I know it: he also shall become a people, and he also shall be great: but truly ^bhis younger brother shall be greater than he, and his seed shall become a multitude of nations.

20 And he blessed them that day, saying, ^aIn thee shall Israel bless, saying, God make thee as Ephraim and as Manasseh: and he set Ephraim before Manasseh.

Return to Canaan Foretold

21 And Israel said unto Joseph, Behold, I die: but ^aGod shall be with 48:15-22. When Jacob blessed Ephraim as the firstborn in verse 18, he startled Joseph. Jacob assured Joseph that Manasseh would be great, and the blessing of Jacob on Ephraim became evident during the time of the judges. By this time it had increased in number and power so that it exercised leadership among the 10 northern tribes. Later, the name Ephraim became equal to the name Israel (cf. Is. 7:2; Hos. 4:17; 13:1). The Angel which redeemed me from all evil in verse 16 refers to Christ Himself, pictured as redeeming (gō'ēl) him from all calamity. This is the first mention of the gō'ēl in the Bible, meaning "a savior" or "deliverer" (cf. Ex. 6:6; Is. 59:20; both of which speak of God as redeeming His people). Leviticus 27:13 and Ruth 4:4 speak of human beings as redeeming property or certain rights of individuals. In Isaiah 63:9 He is referred to as "the angel of his presence" ("his face") and that He saved them (Israel). The one portion in verse 22 is a problem for which Speiser, a commentator, says there is no plausible solution. The Hebrew word for "portion" is shekem (lit., shoulder or ridge); thus some have translated it as "mountain slope." But the word also stands for the city of Shechem, which is dominated by the mountain called Mount Gerizim. This area was to fall in Manasseh's territory at the center of the area covered by the two Josephite tribes (cf. John 4:5). But there is no record of any conquest of it by Jacob, Joseph, or later by Joshua. Perhaps the property owned by Jacob was taken away by the Amorites after he left the area, and then some time later he took it back by force. This does not refer to chapter 34, because Jacob had no hand in the deed, and he sharply rebuked his sons.

you, and bring you again unto the land of your fathers.

22 Moreover ^aI have given to thee one ¹portion above thy brethren, which I took out of the hand ^bof the Amorite with my sword and with my bow.

49:1–27. Jacob concludes his life as other saints who spoke a blessing before their end: Isaac (ch. 27), Moses (Deut. 33), Joshua (Josh. 24), and Samuel (1 Sam. 12). In the last days introduces the whole prophecy, and functions in an important way in the Old Testament. It refers to Israel's future in dual perspective: the period of their occupation of Canaan, and the time of the coming of Messiah. Sometimes the expression refers to Israel at the end of the Great Tribulation (Deut. 4:30; Ezek. 38:16), sometimes to the history of Gentile nations (Dan. 2:28), and sometimes to the present church age in its entirety (Heb. 1:2) or at its conclusion (2 Tim. 3:1; James 5:3). Jacob's pronouncements in chapter 49 included both prophecy (v. 1) and blessing (v. 28). Reuben is referred to as being unstable as water. Unstable literally means "a boiling over" of water, a vivid metaphor for unstable emotions (cf. Judg. 9:4; Zeph. 3:4, where the same root denotes pride and frivolity). It is said of Simeon and Levi that in their selfwill they digged down a wall. It is literally, "At their pleasure they lamed oxen." This is supplementary to 34:27–29. What these two men did not capture as plunder they destroyed in the fierceness of their anger. The key thought is expressed as the sceptre shall not depart from Judah, nor a lawgiver from between his feet, until Shiloh come; and unto him shall the gathering of the people be. The scepter was a symbol of royal power. Lawgiver, according to Speiser, refers to a mace. Etymologically, it is something pertaining to a legislator or one in authority, and from the context, an analogue of the scepter. When a dignitary was seated, the staff would rest between his feet. Jacob was not saying his rule would end when Shiloh came. On the contrary, this term denotes the turning point at which the superiority of Judah will continue, not then to cease, but at that time to be enlarged so as to embrace all nations. Shiloh is a hidden name for Messiah; it is made up of three grammatical parts (sh-l-oh) meaning "Him to Whom It [the Scepter or Kingdom] Belongs." The sh is the relative pronoun, the l is the possessive, and the oh is the pronominal suffix (cf. Ezek. 21:27). Thus it is not to be taken as a proper name for Messiah, nor does it refer to the town where the tabernacle was later established, for this would be meaningless prophetically. The phrase and unto him shall the gathering of the people be means, literally, "And unto him shall be the obedience of the peoples." This can refer only to the Messiah. Thus, the reference to a lion in verse 9 points to that One who is called "the Lion of the tribe of Judah" (Rev. 5:5). Verses 11 and 12 describe the millennial prosperity (cf. Is. 11:1–9; Ezek. 34:23–31; Amos 9:11–15).

with a great and very ¹sore lamentation: ^band he ²made a mourning for his father seven days.

11 And when the inhabitants of the land, the Canaanites, saw the mourning in the floor of Atad, they said, This is a grievous mourning to the Egyptians: wherefore the name of it was called ¹Abel-mizraim, which is beyond Jordan.

12 And his sons did unto him according as he commanded them:

Joseph Relieves His Brothers' Fears

19 And Joseph said unto them, ^aFear not: ^bfor am I in the place of God?

50:1–14. Jacob was embalmed and Joseph commanded his servants, the physicians (harôpe'im) to do the work. Medicine and the embalming were two distinct professions. He may have employed the physicians so as to avoid the magic and mysticism of the embalmers and priests. The threescore and ten days for mourning accord with the traditional period for mummification and mourning. The various internal viscera were removed and placed in canopic jars of natron (a mixture of sodium carbonate and sodium bicarbonate), causing rapid dehydration and preventing decomposition of the body. Following a seven-day period of mourning at the threshing floor of Atad (named Abel-mizraim or "Mourning of Egypt," because of the sorrow expressed by the Egyptians), the body was placed in the cave of Machpelah with the other patriarchs.

20 ^aBut as for you, ye ¹thought evil against me; but ^bGod meant it unto good, to bring to pass, as it is this day, to save much people alive.

50:15-26. What the brothers had meant for evil, God had intended for good. This is one of the clearest declarations of divine providence found anywhere in the Bible, reminding us that God's purpose prevails over the evil of men. Joseph was buried in Egypt, but made the Israelites pledge with an oath that they would carry his bones to the Promised Land when God visited them to bring them out of Egypt (which they did, cf. Ex. 13:19; Josh. 24:32). Like his father, he was embalmed and put in a coffin (arōn) which is the same word used for the ark of the covenant in the Old Testament.

EXODUS

Exodus relates the story of freedom for God's people from slavery and the beginning of national identity. The book is strategically important to both Old Testament history and a proper understanding of Hebrew customs and institutions. It is a vital connecting link between the age of the patriarchs (Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, and Joseph) and the remaining books of the Law (Leviticus and Deuteronomy). It relates how God fulfilled His promise to Abraham by multiplying his descendants into a great nation (Gen. 12:2), and then redeeming them from bondage (Gen. 15:13, 14). God then gave them the law (chs. 20—23) and instructions for building the tabernacle, the place from which He would meet with His people in worship. Exodus emphasizes God's covenant faithfulness (2:24; 3:6; 6:4–8; 15:13). The deliverance from bondage was a crucial event in the experience of the Israelites. Centuries later, many authors of the Psalms and prophetic books acclaimed it as the most significant miracle in their history. The deliverance serves as a beautiful type of the sinner's redemption from the bondage of sin. God is presented in several interesting roles in the book: (1) He is the One who controls history; (2) He is pictured as the great "I AM"; (3) He is a holy God; (4) He is the God who remembers; (5) He is the God who acts in salvation; (6) He is the God who acts in judgment; (7) He is the God whose anger may be averted; (8) He is the God who speaks; (9) He is the God who is transcendent; and (10) He is the God who lives among His people.

Historical Setting. Following is a brief presentation of approximate dates of events in the Book of Exodus. Jacob and his family entered Egypt about 430 years before the Exodus (12:40; Gal. 3:17), which would be about 1877 B.C. During this time Israel experienced physical prosperity and increase (1:7). Then Joseph died about 1800 B.C. (Gen. 50:26). About 1720 B.C. the Hyksos took over Egypt (1:8: "There arose up a new king over Egypt"), and intense bondage began for the Israelites. The Hyksos were expelled about 1570 B.C. by the Egyptians and King Ahmose I (1570–1545 B.C.), with the beginning of the Eighteenth Dynasty, and the oppression continued (1:15–22). Moses was born about 1527 B.C. during the reign of Amenhotep I (1545–1525 B.C.), and fled into exile about 1487 B.C. (2:15) during Hatshepsut's reign (1504–1483 B.C.). Based upon two key scriptural witnesses, the Exodus took place in approximately 1445–1447 B.C. According to 1 Kings 6:1, the temple of Solomon was begun in the fourth year of his reign (967 B.C. or shortly thereafter), which was the 480th year after the Exodus. This would be in the reign of Amenhotep II (1450–1423 B.C.). Further confirmation of this "early" date for the Exodus is found in Judges 11:26, where Jephthah reminds the Ammonite invaders that the Israelites have been too long in possession of the contested land of Gilead for the Ammonites to challenge their legal right to hold it. The time period is given as three hundred years before Jephthah's day, which was about 1100 B.C. A New Testament reference substantiating the "early" date is found in Acts 13:19 and 20, with a reference to 450 years which includes the Exodus itself down to the career of Samuel, and even to David's capture of Jerusalem about 1004 B.C.

In spite of the scriptural evidence, many scholars today favor a considerably later date, the most favored one at present being 1290 B.C., which would be about 10 years after Rameses II began his reign. A still later date of about 1225 B.C. is favored by a few scholars.

Authorship. The evidence that supports the Mosaic authorship of Genesis (see that book's Introduction) also applies to Exodus. There is positive testimony beginning in his day and continuing into modern times through an unbroken chain. Unlike Genesis, which is anonymous as far as internal evidence is concerned, Exodus claims in more than one place that Moses wrote at least substantial portions of the book. In 17:14 he was told to write on a scroll the story of Israel's victory over the Amalekites. Also, 24:4 records that "Moses wrote all the words of the LORD," which probably included at least 20:18—23:33, the law code known as the "Book of the Covenant." In Joshua's day, Moses' law was still mandatory for the people (Josh. 1:7). In David's day the king referred to God's "commandments . . . written in the law of Moses" (1 Kin. 2:3). Hilkiah the priest discovered "the book of the law" in the temple (2 Chr. 34:14). During the Babylonian exile, Daniel read of the curse "written in the law of Moses" (Dan. 9:11). Ezra the priest set up Passover observances for the returning remnant, "as it is written in the book of Moses" (Ezra 6:18). And the Old Testament ends with Malachi's exhortation, "Remember ye the law of Moses my servant" (Mal. 4:4). Jesus quoted from Exodus 20:12 using the introduction, "For Moses said" (Mark 7:10; cf. Luke 20:37). The apostle Paul noted, "Moses describeth the righteousness which is of the law" (Rom. 10:5). The testimony of both the Jewish community and the Christian church throughout history has been that Moses wrote the Book of Exodus.

A New King for Egypt

8 Now there arose up a new king over Egypt, ^awhich¹ knew not Joseph.

9 And he said unto his people, Behold, the people of the children of Israel are more and ^amightier than we:

10 ^aCome on, let us^b deal¹ wisely with them; lest they multiply, and it come to pass, that,² when there fall-eth out any war, they join also unto our enemies, and fight against us, and so³ get them up out of the land.

1:1-7. The book begins with the very words of Genesis 46:8, which is in the context of God's promise to Israel (Jacob): "Fear not to go down into Egypt; for I will there make of thee a great nation: I will go down with thee ... and I will also surely bring thee up" (Gen. 46:3, 4). These verses relate information contained in Genesis 35:22-26; 46:27; and 50:26. All of the tribes are represented as going down into Egypt. The number seventy agrees with Genesis 46:27 and Deuteronomy 10:22, but the Septuagint and Acts 7:14 have 75. The Dead Sea materials also agree with the Septuagint. The number 66 in Genesis 46:26 does not include Joseph and his two sons, and Moses likely added these later, making 70. The number 75 probably includes the five grandsons of Joseph who were in Egypt. Verse 7 sounds like Genesis 1:28; 9:1; 12:2; 17:2, 6; 22:17; 26:4; 28:14; and 48:4. This was visible evidence of God's blessing and the fulfilling of His promises.

1:8-14. Now there arose up a new king over Egypt has been interpreted various ways. Some take the new king to be a native Egyptian, possibly one of the New Kingdom Pharaohs such as Ahmose (1570-1545 B.C.) who founded the Eighteenth Dynasty and expelled the Hyksos from Egypt. However, the Hebrew verb qūm followed by the preposition al often has the meaning "to rise against," as in Deuteronomy 19:11; 28:7; Judges 9:18; 20:5; 2 Samuel 18:31; 2 Kings 16:7, and it really never conveys the idea of assuming the throne in a peaceful manner. This probably was a Hyksos king, since the Hyksos came forcefully into Egypt between 1720 and 1700 B.C. and were expelled about 1570 B.C. This would better fit the time in which

1:1 Egypt was overrun by the Hyksos during the Second Intermediate Period (1786-1550 B.C.). Thus there arose a "new king over Egypt" who not only "knew not Joseph" but viewed the Israelites as "more and mightier than we." By 1550 B.C. the Hyksos were expelled by Ahmose, who ushered in the Eighteenth Dynasty (during which names ending with -mose became popular) and the New Kingdom Period (1550-1070 B.C.). During the early phase of the New Kingdom Period, Egypt reached its greatest heights of military and political power under Thutmose III while Moses was in exile in Midian. When Moses finally returned to Egypt, Amen-Hotep II was on the throne and likely became the Pharaoh of the Exodus. The identification of Rameses II (c. 1220 B.C.) as the Pharaoh of the Exodus does not fit the biblical chronology.

11 Therefore they did set over them taskmasters ^ato afflict them with their ^bburdens. And they built for Pharaoh ^ctreasure cities, Pithom ^dand Raamses.

12 But the more they afflicted them, the more they multiplied and grew. And they were ¹grieved because of the children of Israel.

13 And the Egyptians made the children of Israel to ^aserve with ¹rigour:

14 And they ^amade their lives bitter with hard bondage, ^bin mortar, and in brick, and in all manner of service in the field: all their service, wherein they made them serve, was with rigour.

Midwives to Kill Male Children

15 And the king of Egypt spake to the ^aHebrew midwives, of which the name of the one was Shiphrah, and the name of the other Puah:

18 And the king of Egypt called for the midwives, and said unto them, Why have ye done this thing, and have saved the men children alive?

19 And ^athe midwives said unto Pharaoh, Because the Hebrew women are not as the Egyptian women; for they ¹*are* lively, and are delivered ere the midwives come in unto them.

20 ^aTherefore God dealt well with the midwives: and the people multiplied, and ¹waxed very mighty.

21 And it came to pass, because the midwives feared God, ^athat he ¹made them houses.

Pharaoh's Order to His People

22 And Pharaoh ¹charged all his people, saying, ^aEvery son that is

Jacob came down to Egypt—430 years before the Exodus (Ex. 12:40)—thus entering Egypt about 1877 B.C. (cf. Gen. 15:13 and its four hundred years). Joseph would have served during the reigns of Sesostriis II (1897–1878 B.C.) and Sesostriis III (1878–1842 B.C.), and died about 1805 B.C. It is very unlikely that a native Egyptian king could have said, Behold, the people of the children of Israel are more and mightier than we. The Hyksos may well have had reason to hate the descendants of Jacob because of the episode at Shechem (Gen. 34) and Jacob's later conflicting with the Amorites (Gen. 48:22). The Amorites were one of the main elements of the Hyksos people. The statement that they knew not Joseph indicates their contempt for Joseph's previously privileged status next to Pharaoh and the divine blessings that accrued to the people of Israel as a result of this. Notice a similar action on the part of a native Egyptian in 5:2 directed toward Yahweh and submitting to Him. The reference to the treasure cities, Pithom and Raamses, has caused scholars much consternation. It is used to support a late date for the Exodus (c. 1290 B.C.), since the "house of Rameses" is viewed as a reference to Rameses II who reigned from 1290 to 1224 B.C. But there is one serious problem with this position. The building of these cities clearly took place before the birth of Moses. He was 80 years old at the time of the Exodus (7:7), and so the construction work described in chapter 1 would have occurred 80 years prior to the date of the Exodus. Thus Moses would have been born around 1370 B.C. and it is obvious Rameses II could not have ordered the building of these cities. Some say the name Raamses may have been introduced by the Hyksos, whereas others suggest that the name is an anachronism, or possibly the name was an obsolete place-name brought up-to-date by a later scribe. It also poses a real problem for Genesis 47:11. The last proposal seems best.

1:15–22. Possibly the Egyptians in verse 13 were under the reign of Ahmose I, mentioned above. Then the Pharaoh of verse 15 would have been Amenhotep I (1545–1525 B.C.), who commanded the midwives to kill the Hebrew boys (vv. 15–22), being succeeded by Thutmose I (1525–1508 B.C.), who commanded the Hebrew boys to be thrown into the Nile (v. 22). These Pharaohs, like their spiritual predecessors Cain and Esau, and like their successors Haman and Herod, were tools of Satan for the attempted destruction of the Seed of the Woman. But God providentially overruled their wicked plans and thus preserved the Messiah's line. The statement by the midwives that because the Hebrew women are not as the Egyptian women; for they are lively, and are delivered ere the midwives come in unto them is probably a lie in light of the statement in verse 17: and did not as the king of Egypt commanded them, but saved the men children alive. If they truly had not made even one Hebrew male delivery during the months of Pharaoh's murderous program, then their response would have been laudable and justified by Old Testament ethics. However, if they were partially truthful and partially lying, they were just as blameworthy as Rahab, Abraham, Isaac, or Jacob were when they lied. The juxtaposition of the account of their lie to Pharaoh with the statement that God dealt well with them in verse 20 might appear to imply an endorsement of their lie. But this suspicion cannot be sustained in the text, for twice it attributes the reason for God's blessing them to the fact that they feared [believed] God (vv. 17 and 21).

daughter, Shall I go and call to thee a nurse of the Hebrew women, that she may nurse the child for thee?

8 And Pharaoh's daughter said to her, Go. And the maid went and called the child's mother.

9 And Pharaoh's daughter said unto her, Take this child away, and nurse it for me, and I will give thee thy wages. And the woman took the child, and nursed it.

10 And the child grew, and she brought him unto Pharaoh's daughter, and he became ^aher son. And she called his name ¹Moses: and she said, Because I drew him out of the water.

11 And it came to pass in those days, ^awhen Moses was grown, that he went out unto his brethren, and looked on their burdens: and he ¹spied an Egyptian ²smiting an Hebrew, one of his brethren.

12 And he looked this way and that way, and when he saw that there was no man, he ^aslew the Egyptian, and hid him in the sand.

13 And ^awhen he went out the second day, behold, two men of the Hebrews ^bstrove¹ together: and he said to him that did the wrong, ²Wherefore smitest thou thy fellow?

2:1-25. The phrase the daughter of Pharaoh has been interpreted by many to refer to the famous Hatshepsut (1504-1483 B.C.), considering an early date for the Exodus, since Moses would have been born about 1527 B.C. This would be during the reign of her father, Thutmose I (1525-1508 B.C.). She was his only daughter and when her father died she became queen, having been married to a half brother, Thutmose II (1508-1504 B.C.). After his death, she had herself crowned king with full pharaonic powers, regalia, and titulary, refusing for nearly 20 years to allow her stepson Thutmose III (1504-1450 B.C.) to rule. But there is a good possibility that Moses was reared in one of the royal harems which were common in the New Kingdom period (c. 1570-1085 B.C.). The Egyptian kings maintained residences and harims not only in the great capitals of Thebes, Memphis, and Rameses, but also in other parts of Egypt. The harim supervised a great deal of domestic industry, spinning, and weaving done by servants. The children of harem-women would be educated (Acts 7:22) by the overseer of the harem. In due time, princes (he was called her son) were given a tutor who was usually a high official at court, or maybe a retired military officer close to the king. The fact that he "became her son" may merely indicate he had rejoined the royal court. Having done so, he was in a position to receive all the privileges and opportunities of a member of that court. The king of Egypt died: This would have been Thutmose III (1483-1450 B.C.), the Pharaoh of the oppression.

2:10 Moses was from the tribe of Levi. He was saved from Pharaoh's edict to destroy the Hebrew male infants by his mother's cleverness and by the intercession of Pharaoh's daughter. He was raised at court and trained in the "wisdom of the Egyptians" (Acts 7:22). He later fled Egypt for the land of Midian in the Sinai wilderness (Ex. 2:15). There he married Zipporah the daughter of Jethro (Reuel). After meeting God at the burning bush on Mount Sinai (Ex. 3:1-12), Moses returned to Egypt to lead the great Exodus of Israel back to the Promised Land. In the wilderness of Sinai he received the Law directly from God and oversaw the building of the tabernacle and the institution of Israel's feasts and offerings. He finally viewed the Promised Land from Mount Nebo and was buried by God in the land of Moab at age 120 (Deut. 32:48-52; 34:1-8). He was a prophet of God (Deut. 18:18) and the author of the Pentateuch. He later appeared, representing the Law, at the transfiguration of Christ (Matt. 17:3-6). (First Reference, Ex. 2:10; Primary Reference, Ex. 3:1-22; 6:1-13.)

14 And he said, ^aWho made thee a prince and a judge over us? intendest thou to kill me, as thou killedst the Egyptian? And Moses ^bfeared, and said, Surely this thing is known.

Moses Flees from Pharaoh

15 Now when Pharaoh heard this thing, he sought to slay Moses. But ^aMoses fled from ¹the face of Pharaoh, and dwelt in the land of ^bMidian: and he sat down by ^ca well.

16 ^aNow the priest of Midian had seven daughters: ^band they came and drew water, and filled the ^ctroughs to water their father's flock.

17 And the ^ashepherds came and ^bdrove them away: but Moses stood up and helped them, and ^cwatered their flock.

18 And when they came to ^aReuel¹ their father, ^bhe said, How is it that ye are come so soon to day?

19 And they said, An Egyptian delivered us out of the hand of the shepherds, and also drew water enough for us, and watered the flock.

20 And he said unto his daughters, And where is he? why is it that ye have left the man? call him, that he may ^aeat bread.

21 And Moses was content to dwell with the man: and he gave Moses ^aZipporah his daughter.

22 And she bare him a son, and he called his name ^aGershom:¹ for he said, I have been ^ba ²stranger in a strange land.

God Hears His People's Cry

23 And it came to pass ^ain process of time, that the king of Egypt died: and the children of Israel ^bsighed¹ by reason of the bondage, and they cried, and ^ctheir cry came up unto God by reason of the bondage.

24 And God ^aheard their groaning, and God ^bremembered his ^ccovenant with Abraham, with Isaac, and with Jacob.

Moses and the Burning Bush

3 Now Moses kept the flock of ^aJethro his father in law, ^bthe priest of Midian: and he led the flock to the backside of the desert, and came ^cto the mountain of God, even to ^dHoreb.

2 And ^athe angel of the LORD appeared unto him in a flame of fire out of the midst of a bush: and he looked, and, behold, the bush burned with fire, and the bush was not consumed.

3 And Moses said, I will now turn aside, and see this ^agreat sight, why the bush is not burnt.

4 And when the LORD saw that he turned aside to see, God called ^aunto him out of the midst of the bush, and said, Moses, Moses. And he said, Here am I.

3:3 ^a Acts 7:31

3:4 ^a Ex. 4:5; Deut. 33:16

3:1–6. The angel of the LORD who appeared to Moses is identified as the God of thy father, the God of Abraham ... Isaac ... Jacob. This is apparently the continuation of the manifestations of “the angel of the LORD” begun in Genesis 16:7. This one is more than just an angelic messenger from God. Frequently He received the respect, worship, and honor reserved only for God; yet He was consistently distinguished from God. Note the references in Genesis: 16:7–11; 21:17; 22:11–18; 24:7, 40; 31:11; 32:24–30; 48:15–16. He carried an identity with God; yet He was also sent from Him! The patriarchs may not have regarded Him as equivalent to a Christophany, but it is sure that He was not the invisible God. And He acted and talked as the Lord.

2:15 Midian was the desert region between Sinai and the Arabian desert, south of Edom. Its exact location is unknown due to its seminomadic population. Midian is listed as one of Abraham's sons by his wife Keturah, who was sent into the “land of Qedem” (Gen. 25:1–6). In the Joseph story (Gen. 37:25–36) the designations “Midianites” and “Ishmeelites” are used virtually interchangeably. During the wilderness journey of the Israelites, the Midianites appear in confederation with the Moabites and Amorites. By the time of Gideon (Judg. 6:1–5), the Midianites appear as desert bandits in alliance with the Amalekites. Their recorded devastation by Gideon's forces may well account for the fact that they disappear from the biblical record thereafter. Excavations near the Gulf of Aqaba have uncovered walled towns and numerous villages dating to the Late Bronze Age, indicating a well-organized society.

5 And he said, ¹Draw not nigh hither: “put off thy shoes from off thy feet, for the place whereon thou standest is holy ground.

6 Moreover he said, ^aI am the God of thy father, the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob. And Moses hid his face; for ^bhe was afraid to look upon God.

7 And the LORD said, ^aI have surely seen the affliction of my people which are in Egypt, and have heard their cry ^bby reason of their taskmasters; ^cfor I know their ¹sorrows;

8 And ^aI am come down to ^bdeliver them out of the hand of the Egyptians, and to bring them up out of that land ^cunto a good land and a large, unto a land ^dflowing with milk and honey; unto the place of ^ethe Canaanites, and the Hittites, and the Amorites, and the Perizzites, and the Hivites, and the Jebusites.

9 Now therefore, behold, ^athe cry of the children of Israel is come unto me: and I have also seen the ^boppression wherewith the Egyptians oppress them.

3:16 ^a Ex. 4:29 ^b Gen. 50:24; Ex. 2:25; 4:31; Ps. 33:18; Luke 1:68

3:7–22. The significance of the name of God given in verse 14, I AM THAT I AM, constitutes the idea that the “I AM” in Exodus 3 reveals God as the Being who is absolutely self-existent, and who, in Himself, possesses essential life and permanent existence. To the Hebrew, to be does not just mean to exist, but to be active, to express oneself in active being. God is the One who acts. The imperfect tense of the verb becomes clear. God’s manifestation to Israel is yet future at the time of the burning bush incident. The “I AM” or “I will be” is God’s promise that He will redeem the children of Israel. The people wanted to be reassured that this God would meet them in their time of need, proving His character and promises. The phrase no, not by a mighty hand may best be understood as “not by a strong hand [of man] but by a divine agency” as expressed in 6:1: “Then the LORD said unto Moses, Now shalt thou see what I will do to Pharaoh: for ... with a strong hand shall he drive them out of his land.” Several other translations have “unless a mighty hand compels him” and “except under compulsion.”

PRIMARY NAMES OF GOD

3:13. There are three primary names of God: Elohim (God), Jehovah or Yahweh (usually printed as LORD in the KJV), and Adonai (Lord). Each of these names emphasizes a different aspect of the nature of God. The name Elohim occurs 31 times in Genesis 1, where it emphasizes His strength and creative power. The name Yahweh is most often used to express God’s self-existence, particularly in relation to humanity. Adonai means “master” and underscores the authority of God. Illustration: When Moses objected to returning to Egypt, one of his excuses was that he did not know God’s name. By that he meant that he did not understand enough about God’s authority. God solved this problem by revealing Himself as the “I AM,” that is, Yahweh. Application: Because God reveals Himself in His names, Christians should understand them to better serve Him. (First Reference, Gen. 1:1; Primary Reference, Ex. 3:13.)

Moses Feels Inadequate

10 And Moses said unto the LORD, O my Lord, I am not eloquent, neither ¹heretofore, nor since thou hast spoken unto thy servant: but ^aI am slow of speech, and ²of a slow tongue.

11 And the LORD said unto him, “Who hath made man’s mouth? or who maketh the dumb, or deaf, or the seeing, or the blind? have not I the LORD?”

4:1–10. Moses’ objection that he was slow of speech, and of a slow tongue likely means he was not eloquent (cf. Jer. 1:6). Among the Egyptians, eloquence in speech was not only a desirable quality, but could bring about social justice and positive decision. However, Acts 7:22 says he “was mighty in words and in deeds.”

12 Now therefore go, and I will be ^awith thy mouth, and teach thee what thou shalt say.

4:21-26. God's statement but I will harden his heart, that he shall not let the people go has produced much discussion because it gives the appearance of the kind of sovereign action that prevents the operation of human choice. The Book of Exodus attributes the hardening process ten times to God (v. 21; 7:3; 9:12; 10:1, 20, 27; 11:10; 14:4, 8, 17) and nine times to the Pharaoh himself (7:13, 14, 22; 8:15, 19, 32; 9:7, 34, 35). The first two references (v. 21; 7:3) state that God "will harden" the Pharaoh's heart without specifying when that will be. The next ten references (only exception in 9:12) indicate that the Pharaoh hardened his own heart. He refused to acknowledge the power of Yahweh, the God of Israel, and, at times, did not even listen to the statements of the magicians themselves (cf. 8:19). There is a sense in which Pharaoh blinded himself and in so doing incurred the wrath and judgment of God. Pharaoh viewed himself as a god and expressed disdain for Yahweh from the very beginning in 5:2, "Who is the LORD that I should obey his voice ... I know not the LORD." One must remember that God deserves the right to judge sin and the sinner whenever He desires. The sinner is subject to the wrath of God at any point in his life. God has the right to judge sin in any way He so desires the first time one commits sin. It is really the mercy of God that allows the sinner to continue to live. Pharaoh sinned knowingly, willfully, and continually (9:34): "And when Pharaoh saw that the rain ... ceased, he sinned yet more, and hardened his heart." Paul rea-

4:14 Aaron was the brother of Moses and a descendant of Levi. He was commissioned by God to serve as Moses' spokesman to Pharaoh (7:1, 2). He held up Moses' hands, with Hur's assistance, as Israel prevailed over the Amalekites (17:8-12). In spite of his sinful lapse in making the golden calf (32:5), he was later consecrated and anointed as high priest (Lev. 8), a position he served throughout the remainder of his life. Later, the budding of his rod was a testimony against those who rebelled against his authority, and the rod was kept in the ark of the covenant. Aaron eventually died at age 123 on Mount Hor, near Petra (Num. 33:38, 39; Deut. 10:6). (First Reference, Ex. 4:14; Primary References, Ex. 5:1-19; 6:14-23; Lev. 8, 9.)

Pharaoh Increases Burdens

6 And Pharaoh commanded the same day the ^ataskmasters of the people, and their officers, saying,

7 Ye shall no more give the people straw to make ^abrick, as heretofore: let them go and gather straw for themselves.

8 And the ¹tale of the bricks, which they did make heretofore, ye shall lay upon them; ye shall not diminish ought thereof: for they be soned that God hardened the Pharaoh's heart in a free and sovereign manner, but not in a capricious or arbitrary way (Rom. 9:14–18). He always acts justly (Rom. 9:14) and in sovereign freedom (Rom. 9:18). He displays "much longsuffering" toward "the vessels of wrath" (Rom. 9:22). He gave Pharaoh numerous opportunities to free the people of Israel, but He knew in advance that the Pharaoh would choose to do otherwise. The Pharaoh would therefore be compelled to bear full responsibility for that willful and sinful choice (10:7). This hardening of men's hearts is one way God judges men who resist His will. Thus He also accomplished His purposes for the people of Israel as noted in Joshua 11:20: "It was of the LORD to harden their hearts, that they should come against Israel in battle, that he might destroy them utterly." For the cup of the iniquity of the Amorites was full (cf. Gen. 15:16), and the time for judgment had come.

5:1–14. Pharaoh's response to Moses and Aaron is very illuminating and sets the tone for the whole Exodus account. He said, Who is the LORD, that I should obey his voice to let Israel go? I know not the LORD, neither will I let Israel go. Pharaoh was probably not completely ignorant of the name of the God of the Israelites. His name certainly had been used by the Israelites in the presence of the Egyptians for more than four hundred years in the land of Egypt.

More likely, he refused to recognize the name of Yahweh, or the request brought in that name, because he did not recognize Yahweh's authority for such a demand. Therefore he says he would not obey His voice. In Egypt the king was not considered a mere representative of the gods, but was a god himself. Thus, this was really a confrontation between gods: Yahweh versus Pharaoh. The word know was used in the ancient Near East in a technical sense to indicate international treaties as binding or not, and to relate the binding relationship between the suzerain (the great king) and his vassal. The essence of Pharaoh's statement indicates he did not recognize Yahweh's authority, and as a result, needless to say, he was not saved (cf. Is. 45:4, 5). Isaiah 19:21 may preserve the technical sense when it refers to Egypt's future conversion: "And the LORD shall be known to Egypt, and the Egyptians shall know the LORD in that day, and shall do sacrifice and oblation; yea, they shall vow a vow unto the LORD, and perform it." Someday the Egyptians will submit to Yahweh and His authority and obey Him. It became Yahweh's sole purpose throughout the rest of the encounter with Pharaoh that he and his people would know Yahweh, at least in the sense of submitting and letting His people go. In reference to Pharaoh, see 7:17; 8:10, 22; 9:14, 29; and in reference to the Egyptians, see 7:5; 14:4, 18.

12 So the people were scattered abroad throughout all the land of Egypt to gather stubble instead of straw.

13 And the taskmasters ¹hasted them, saying, Fulfil your works, your daily tasks, as when there was straw.

14 And the ^aofficers of the children of Israel, which Pharaoh's taskmasters had set over them, were ^bbeaten, and demanded, Wherefore have ye not fulfilled your task in making brick both yesterday and to day, as heretofore?

3 And I ^aappeared unto Abraham, unto Isaac, and unto Jacob, by the name of ^bGod Almighty, but by my name ^cJehovah¹ was I not known to them.

6:1-8. The statement but by my name JEHOVAH was I not known to them is filled with meaning and has been one of the focal points of debate between the liberal critic and the conservative scholar for several centuries. There are three basic views: (1) In the early patriarchal period the tribal name of God was El Shaddai, but Moses was now about to reveal for the first time the name Yahweh as the God of Israel (yet note Gen. 4:26; 12:1, 4; 13:4). (2) The phrase should be expressed as a question: "And I appeared unto Abraham, unto Isaac, and unto Jacob, as God Almighty [El Shaddai]; but by my name Yahweh was I not known to them?" (3) There is a special revelation of the name Yahweh, not its first introduction. Cowles says, "The meaning is, not that the name [Yahweh] was never used by them or given of God to them: but that its special significance had not been manifested to them as He was now about to make it manifest." (See the previous comments on 3:7-22 for the import of the divine name.) The name "God Almighty" conveys the concept of power and might, whereas "Yahweh" emphasizes God's revealing Himself in His actions through history and in a unique way now of redeeming them from bondage and meeting their needs as they enter into a covenant with Him in chapter 19. There are four key expressions relating to God's design for the people of Israel in this portion of Scripture: (1) Initially, His design is deliverance as expressed in 6:14-27. The immediate context of verses 14-25 is surrounded by two sections (vv. 10-12, 28-30) that contain essentially the same material expressed as: Go in, speak unto Pharaoh ... And Moses spake ...

how then shall Pharaoh hear me, who am of uncircumcised lips? This expresses Moses' feeling of inadequacy for the task at hand. The function of the genealogy is to encourage Moses. It lists only three of Jacob's sons (Reuben, Simeon, and Levi), instead of the usual 12 sons, because the object is to go only as far as needed to get to Moses' and Aaron's appearance on the list. Each of the three men had committed grievous sin, and yet they had also received God's forgiving grace. So had Moses. He had murdered a man and fled. Thus when Moses balks at further confrontations with Pharaoh, God gently reminds the reader not to think as highly about the channels (Moses and Aaron) as about the God who calls and equips men.

12 For they cast down every man his rod, and they became serpents: but Aaron's rod swallowed up their rods.

13 And he hardened Pharaoh's heart, that he hearkened not unto them; as the LORD had said.

7:1–13. Verse 3 says I will harden Pharaoh's heart, but verse 4 says Pharaoh shall not hearken unto [obey, listen to] you. Then verse 13 is to be translated “and Pharaoh's heart was hardened” meaning by the setting of his own will against God. The miracle worked in verse 12 gains additional significance through the fact that the word for “serpent” (tanim) is used in later prophecies as a symbol of Pharaoh (the monster of Is. 30:6; 51:9; Ezek. 29:3; 32:2). The names of the two sorcerers here (Jannes and Jambres) were preserved in a Targum (an Aramaic paraphrase of a portion of the Hebrew Old Testament) and mentioned by Paul (2 Tim. 3:8). The tremendous miracles God performed through Moses in Egypt called forth the fullest display of Satan's “lying wonders,” even as it shall be at the end of this age (Matt. 24:24; 2 Thess. 2:9).

The Plague of Frogs

8 And the LORD spake unto Moses, Go unto Pharaoh, and say unto him, Thus saith the LORD, Let my people go, “that they may serve me.

2 And if thou “refuse to let them go, behold, I will ¹smite all thy ²borders with ^bfrogs:

3 And the river shall bring forth frogs abundantly, which shall go up and come into thine house, and into thy ^abedchamber, and upon thy bed, and into the house of thy servants, and upon thy people, and into thine ovens, and into thy ¹kneadingtroughs:

7:14–25. Notice in verse 14 God’s omniscience as He says that the heart of Pharaoh is hardened and also Pharaoh’s personal response: he refuseth to let the people go. Although there were 10 plagues in all, the tenth is climactic and is described at greater length in 11:1–12:30. There were several purposes of the plagues: (1) The Lord sent the plagues to judge Egypt and her gods (Ex. 7:4; 10:2; 12:12; 18:11), and many plagues seem to be directed against specific Egyptian deities. (2) They were also used by God to compel the Pharaoh to free the Israelites (7:4; 18:10). (3) They were sent to prove once and for all that God Himself is the only sovereign Lord of nature and history (7:5; 9:14, 15; 10:2; 18:11). (4) The plagues struck the land of Goshen selectively, making a distinction between Egypt and Israel and demonstrating that the Israelites were God’s chosen people, who came under His protective care (8:22, 23; 11:7; 12:27). (5) Finally, the plagues displayed God’s almighty power and proclaimed His holy name (9:16). The effects of the first miracle (v. 21) seem to prove that the blood was real, as it shall be also under the second trumpet and the second and third vials of Revelation 8 and 16. In addition to the loss of all their fish and their drinking water, the Egyptians suffered the extreme indignity of seeing the gods of the Nile made loathsome before their very eyes.

8:1–15. Note the concept of Pharaoh’s response in verse 2 as God says if thou refuse to let them go. The fact that the magicians did so with their enchantments, and brought up frogs certainly would not have been a blessing to the Egyptians.

4 And the frogs shall come up both on thee, and upon thy people, and upon all thy servants.

5 And the LORD spake unto Moses, Say unto Aaron, "Stretch forth thine hand with thy rod over the streams, over the rivers, and over the ponds, and cause frogs to come up upon the land of Egypt.

6 And Aaron stretched out his hand over the waters of Egypt; and "the frogs came up, and covered the land of Egypt.

7 "And the magicians did so with their ¹enchantments, and brought up frogs upon the land of Egypt.

9 And Moses said unto Pharaoh, Glory over me: when shall I intreat for thee, and for thy servants, and for thy people, to destroy the frogs from thee and thy houses, that they may remain in the river only?

10 And he said, To morrow. And he said, Be it according to thy word: that thou mayest know that "there is none like unto the LORD our God.

The Plague of Lice

16 And the LORD said unto Moses, Say unto Aaron, Stretch out thy rod, and smite the dust of the land, that it may become ¹lice throughout all the land of Egypt.

17 And they did so; for Aaron stretched out his hand with his rod, and smote the dust of the earth, and "it became lice in man, and in beast; all the dust of the land became lice throughout all the land of Egypt.

The Plague of Flies

20 And the LORD said unto Moses, "Rise up early in the morning, and stand before Pharaoh; lo, he cometh forth to the water; and say unto him, Thus saith the LORD, ^bLet my people go, that they may serve me.

The goddess Heket (the spouse of the god Khnum), who is depicted in the form of a woman with a frog's head, was held to blow the breath of life into the nostrils of the bodies that her husband fashioned (Gen. 2:7) on the potter's wheel from the dust of the earth. Genesis intends to convey that Israel's God alone rules the world, and that He alone bestows on His creatures, according to His will, the power of fertility. These frogs, considered by the Egyptians a symbol of fertility, could be transformed, if God so desired, from a token of blessing to one of blight. Moses allowed Pharaoh to pick the time when the frogs should be removed as he said: Glory over me: when shall I entreat for thee. The sense of this language is that Moses allowed Pharaoh the choice of the time when Moses would intercede for him. Then God would remove the frogs. But notice Pharaoh's response: When Pharaoh saw that there was respite, he hardened his heart, and hearkened not unto them (cf. 8:32; 9:34). All of this was as the LORD had said (cf. 4:21; 7:4).

8:16-19. The third plague, like the sixth and ninth, concludes a cycle and comes unannounced as a special judgment for failing to heed the others. This was the first plague that the magicians could not reproduce, and they were forced to admit that this is the finger of God, an expression conveying the miraculous power of God as in Exodus 31:18; Deuteronomy 9:10; Psalm 8:3; and in a comparison of Luke 11:20 with Matthew 12:28.

21 Else, if thou wilt not let my people go, behold, I will send swarms of flies upon thee, and upon thy servants, and upon thy people, and into thy houses: and the houses of the Egyptians shall be full of swarms of flies, and also the ground whereon they are.

22 And ^aI will ¹sever in that day the land of ^bGoshen, in which my people dwell, that no swarms of flies shall be there; to the end thou mayest ^cknow that I am the LORD in the midst of the ^dearth.

8:20-32. Each of the plagues in a new cycle (the first, the fourth, and the seventh) proceeds with a warning from Moses as he stands before Pharaoh early in the morning, as he cometh forth to the water. The second plague in each cycle (the second, the fifth, and the eighth) has only a warning from Moses; and the last ones do not receive a warning, but they come unannounced. Moses conveyed to Pharaoh the additional distinction that the land of Goshen, the area where Israel lived, would be unaffected by the plague to the end thou mayest know that I am the LORD in the midst of the earth. Division in verse 23 actually means a "ransom, redemption" in the Hebrew text, but the Septuagint, Syriac Peshitta, and Vulgate (notable ancient versions of the Old Testament) have a different root, meaning "distinction, difference." The word "distinction, difference" does appear in 9:4; 11:7; and 33:16 and is a significant concept in that God does "distinguish" between His people and the heathen when judgment comes. And in 33:16 it is His very presence with Israel, His people, that sets them apart from all other peoples. The act of sacrificing (the abomination of the Egyptians) seems to be related to the sacrifice of sheep. This is supported by the warning of Joseph in Genesis 46:34. Some have suggested it was the sacrifice of heifers, the cow being the animal sacred to the goddess Hathor. Another view is that the Israelites would not carry out the rigid regulations with regard to the cleanness of the sacrificial animals. Pharaoh's response, Go ye, sacrifice to your God in the land, is the first of four compromises he proposed, which may be paraphrased as follows: (1) "Stay in the land" (v. 25). (2) "Do not go very far away" (v. 28). (3) "Leave your families with me" (10:11). (4) Leave your possessions with me" (10:24). Satan makes the same basic appeals to young Christians today. The text carefully notes that Pharaoh hardened his heart at this time also. Moses had plainly told Pharaoh in verse 29 not to deal deceitfully any more in not letting the people go to sacrifice to the LORD (cf. Gen. 3:1 and Satan's tactics). Satan has been a murderer and liar from the beginning (John 8:44).

4 And ^athe LORD shall ¹sever between the cattle of Israel and the cattle of Egypt: and there shall nothing die of all that is the children's of Israel.

5 And the LORD appointed a set time, saying, To morrow the LORD shall do this thing in the land.

6 And the LORD did that thing on the morrow, and ^aall the cattle of Egypt died: but of the cattle of the children of Israel died not one.

7 And Pharaoh sent, and, behold, there was not one of the cattle of the Israelites dead. And the ^aheart of Pharaoh was hardened, and he did not let the people go.

The Plague of Boils

8 And the LORD said unto Moses and unto Aaron, Take to you handfuls of ashes of the furnace, and let Moses sprinkle it toward the heaven in the sight of Pharaoh.

9 And it shall become small dust in all the land of Egypt, and shall be ^aa boil breaking forth with ¹blains upon man, and upon beast, throughout all the land of Egypt.

10 And they took ashes of the furnace, and stood before Pharaoh; and Moses sprinkled it up toward heaven; and it became ^aa boil breaking forth with blains upon man, and upon beast.

11 And the ^amagicians could not stand before Moses because of the ^bboils; for the boil was upon the magicians, and upon all the Egyptians.

9:1-7. Once again Egypt's religion was rebuked and ridiculed, because it included the worship of various animals (such as the bull-gods Apis and Mnevis; the cow-god Hathor; and the ram-god Khnum) as well as animal-headed deities. Again God made a "distinction" between the Egyptians and the Israelites: the cattle of the children of Israel died not one. All of these various animals would have affected transportation, agriculture, and worship.

9:8-12. The sixth plague came with no warning, and even the magicians could not stand before Moses because of the boils. The boils are referred to again in Deuteronomy 28:35. They were very painful and seriously affected the knees, legs, and soles of the feet, which may explain why they could not stand before Moses. In 8:18 the "magicians" could not "bring forth lice"; now they cannot even stand in Moses' presence.

23 And Moses stretched forth his rod toward heaven: and ^athe LORD sent thunder and hail, and the fire ran along upon the ground; and the LORD rained hail upon the land of Egypt.

24 So there was hail, and fire mingled with the hail, very grievous, such as there was none like it in all the land of Egypt since it became a nation.

What Things God Has Wrought

10 And the LORD said unto Moses, Go in unto Pharaoh: ^afor I have hardened his heart, and the heart of his servants, ^bthat I might shew these my signs before him:

2 And that ^athou mayest tell in the ears of thy son, and of thy son's son, what things I have wrought in Egypt, and my signs which I have done among them; that ye may ^bknow how that I am the LORD.

9:13–35. Hail was the seventh plague. It was the first one in the last cycle. Verse 15 is best translated “For by now I could have stretched out My hand and struck you.” But He had not, for verse 16 says, And in very deed for this cause have I raised thee up and two reasons are then given: (1) for to shew in thee my power and (2) that my name may be declared throughout all the earth. Paul quoted the verse almost verbatim as an outstanding illustration of God’s sovereignty (Rom. 9:17). The resulting declaration of God’s name “throughout all the earth” is incorporated into the Song of Moses in 15:14–16 and is graphically illustrated in Joshua 2:9–11. The real issue was pride as Pharaoh continued to exalt himself against the Lord’s people (v. 17). He would not humble himself and “obey” God as in 5:2. There were some Egyptians that feared the word of the LORD among the servants of Pharaoh who made his servants and his cattle flee into the houses. (See 8:19 for a positive response to God’s working.) Notice Pharaoh’s testimony and confession: I have sinned this time. The phrase this time means “now at length” or “this once,” which might reflect some of the arrogance and the shallowness of his confession. Interestingly, he says, the LORD is righteous, and I and my people are wicked, when only a few months before he refused to even acknowledge the existence of Yahweh (5:2). “Righteous” may refer only to this particular event. His principal concern was for relief in verse 28, and Moses knew Pharaoh’s heart, as he said, I know that ye will not yet fear the LORD God. Moses was certainly right, for after the respite, Pharaoh sinned yet more, and hardened his heart, he and his servants. The reference to servants is intriguing, since most of the discussion centers around the hardening of Pharaoh’s heart only, but the text expands the discussion to the servants. In 10:1 God said “I have hardened his heart, and the heart of his servants.”

Moses Warns of Coming Locusts

3 And Moses and Aaron came in unto Pharaoh, and said unto him, Thus saith the LORD God of the Hebrews, How long wilt thou refuse to ^ahumble thyself before me? let my people go, that they may ^bserve me.

4 Else, if thou refuse to let my people go, behold, to morrow will I bring the ^alocusts unto thy ¹coast:

5 And they shall cover the face of the earth, that one cannot be able to see the earth: and ^athey shall eat the residue of that which is escaped, which remaineth unto you from the hail, and shall eat every tree which growth for you out of the field:

6 And they shall ^afill thy houses, and the houses of all thy servants, and the houses of all the Egyptians; which neither thy fathers, nor thy fathers' fathers have seen, since the day that they were upon the earth unto this day. And he turned himself, and went out from Pharaoh.

7 And Pharaoh's ^aservants said unto him, How long shall this man be ^ba snare unto us? let the men go, that they may serve the LORD their God: knowest thou not yet that Egypt is destroyed?

8 And Moses and Aaron were brought again unto Pharaoh: and he said unto them, Go, serve the LORD your God: but who are they that shall go?

9 And Moses said, We will go with our young and with our old, with our sons and with our daughters, with our flocks and with our herds will we go; for ^awe must hold a feast unto the LORD.

10 And he said unto them, Let the LORD be so with you, as I will let you go, and your little ones: look to it; for evil is before you.

The Plague of Locusts

12 And the LORD said unto Moses, ^aStretch out thine hand over the land of Egypt for the locusts, that they may come up upon the land of Egypt, and ^beat every herb of the land, even all that the hail hath left.

13 And Moses stretched forth his rod over the land of Egypt, and the LORD brought an east wind upon the land all that day, and all that night; and when it was morning, the east wind brought the locusts.

14 And ^athe locusts went up over all the land of Egypt, and rested in all the coasts of Egypt: very ¹grievous were they; ^bbefore them there were no such locusts as they, neither after them shall be such.

15 For they ^acovered the face of the whole earth, so that the land was darkened; and they ^bdid eat every herb of the land, and all the fruit of the trees which the hail had left: and there remained not any green thing in the trees, or in the herbs of the field, through all the land of Egypt.

16 Then Pharaoh called ^afor Moses and Aaron in haste; and he said, ^bI have sinned against the LORD your God, and against you.

17 Now therefore forgive, I pray thee, my sin only this once, and ^aintreat¹ the LORD your God, that he may take away from me this death only.

18 And he ^awent out from Pharaoh, and intreated the LORD.

19 And the LORD turned a mighty strong west wind, which took away the locusts, and cast them ^ainto the 10:1-20. And that thou mayest tell in the ears of thy son ... that ye may know how that I am the LORD: Telling our children of God's miraculous deeds is an important means of keeping the memory of these deeds alive for future generations (12:26, 27; 13:8, 14, 15; Deut. 4:9; Ps. 77:11-20; 78:43-53; 105:26-38; 106:7-12; 114:1-3; 135:8, 9; 136:10-15). Actually, the content of the message relates to the parent leading the child into a "belief" in the God of Israel. The real issue is expressed again by the Lord through Moses and Aaron as How long wilt thou refuse to humble thyself before me? ... Else, if thou refuse ... to morrow will I bring the locusts (cf. 9:17 for same idea). The response of some of his servants, How long shall this man be a snare unto us? ... knowest thou not yet that Egypt is destroyed? indicates that all of this was due to the Pharaoh's persistent and willful disobedience. His confession in verse 16 (I have sinned) again seems to come out of practical expediency, since he was interested in an immediate deliverance from a plague that was about to destroy his land.

Red sea; there remained not one locust in all the ¹coasts of Egypt.

20 But the LORD ^ahardened Pharaoh's heart, so that he would not let the children of Israel go.

The Plague of Darkness

21 And the LORD said unto Moses, "Stretch out thine hand toward heaven, that there may be darkness over the land of Egypt, ¹even darkness which may be felt.

22 And Moses stretched forth his hand toward heaven; and there was a ^athick darkness in all the land of Egypt ^bthree days:

23 They saw not one another, neither rose any from his place for three days: ^abut all the children of Israel had light in their dwellings.

24 And Pharaoh called unto Moses, and ^asaid, Go ye, serve the LORD; only let your flocks and your herds be stayed: let your ^blittle ones also go with you.

25 And Moses said, Thou must give ¹us also sacrifices and burnt offerings, that we may sacrifice unto the LORD our God.

26 Our ^acattle also shall go with us; there shall not an hoof be left behind; for thereof must we take to serve the LORD our God; and we know not with what we must serve the LORD, until we come thither.

The Final Plague

5 And ^aall the firstborn in the land of Egypt shall die, from the firstborn of Pharaoh that sitteth upon his throne, even unto the firstborn of the maidservant that is behind the mill; and all the firstborn of beasts.

10:21–29. The ninth plague came without warning. The darkness struck at the very heart of Egyptian theology and practice. It humbled one of the greatest Egyptian gods, the sun god Re. It is ironic that the Pharaoh should choose to use such ideas as "sight," "appear," and "see" (v. 28) in the midst of thick darkness. Moses' response I will see thy face again no more contains a sense of poetic justice, certainly not an intended prophecy by Pharaoh!

11:1. The order of events in these chapters may be clarified by assuming that verses 1–3 and 12:1–28 occurred before Moses' final interview with Pharaoh (10:24–29; 11:4–8). Thus, Moses' departure from Pharaoh in a great anger (v. 8) would be followed the same night by the death of the firstborn (12:29), and the Israelites would be inspecting the Passover lamb during the three days of thick darkness that covered the Egyptians (10:22; 12:3–6).

11:2–10. All the plans and dreams of a family were bound up in the firstborn son; thus the tenth plague was the ultimate disaster. It was not simply a childhood disease that would reach epidemic proportions. The plague was too selective for that. It would wipe out every Egyptian firstborn son, from the firstborn of Pharaoh ... even unto the firstborn of the maidservant that is behind the mill. By contrast, among the Israelites shall not a dog move his tongue, against man or beast for the LORD doth put a difference [distinction] between the Egyptians and Israel.

tongue, against man or beast: that ye may know how that the LORD doth put a difference between the Egyptians and Israel.

8 And ^aall these thy servants shall come down unto me, and bow down themselves unto me, saying, Get thee out, and all the people that follow thee: and after that I will go out. ^bAnd he went out from Pharaoh in a great anger.

9 And the LORD said unto Moses, ^aPharaoh shall not hearken unto you; that ^bmy wonders may be multiplied in the land of Egypt.

10 And Moses and Aaron did all these wonders before Pharaoh: ^aand the LORD hardened Pharaoh's heart, so that he would not let the children of Israel go out of his land.

Passover Instituted by God

12 And the LORD spake unto Moses and Aaron in the land of Egypt, saying,

2 ^aThis month shall be unto you the beginning of months: it shall be the first month of the year to you.

3 Speak ye unto all the congregation of Israel, saying, In the ^atenth day of this month they shall take to them every man a lamb, according to the house of their fathers, a lamb for an house:

4 And if the household be too little for the lamb, let him and his neighbour next unto his house take it according to the number of the ¹souls; every man according to his eating shall make your count for the lamb.

5 Your lamb shall be ^awithout¹ blemish, a male ²of the first year: ye shall take it out from the sheep, or from the goats:

CHRIST OUR PASSOVER

12:13. The annual Feast of the Passover commemorated the birth of the nation Israel and her deliverance from Egypt. Typologically, it pointed forward to the greater deliverance from the bondage of sin to be provided by the Messiah. In the Passover, a lamb without blemish was selected and killed. The blood was then applied to the doorpost (doorjamb) of the home, and the lamb was roasted and eaten with unleavened bread and bitter herbs. Illustration: When John the Baptist introduced Jesus to the nation, he recognized Christ as the fulfillment of the typical Passover lambs: "Behold the Lamb of God" (John 1:29, 36). Application: The Christian not only recognizes the typological fulfillment of the Passover sacrifice by Christ, but also his own responsibility to "keep the feast" by living a sincere and truthful life (1 Cor. 5:6–8). (First Reference, Ex. 12:13; Primary Reference, Ex. 12; cf. Lev. 1:2.)

shall put away leaven out of your houses: for whosoever eateth leavened bread from the first day until the seventh day, ^bthat ¹soul shall be ²cut off from Israel.

16 And in the first day there shall be ^aan holy convocation, and in the seventh day there shall be an holy convocation to you; no manner of work shall be done in them, ¹save that which every man must eat, that only may be done of you.

17 And ye shall observe the feast of unleavened bread; for ^ain this selfsame day have I brought your ¹armies ^bout of the land of Egypt: therefore shall ye observe this day ²in your generations by an ordinance for ever.

18 ^aIn the first month, on the fourteenth day of the month at even, ye shall eat unleavened bread, until the one and twentieth day of the month at even.

19 ^aSeven days shall there be no leaven found in your houses: for whosoever eateth that which is leavened, even that ¹soul shall be cut off from the congregation of Israel, whether he be a stranger, or born in the land.

20 Ye shall eat nothing leavened; in all your habitations shall ye eat unleavened bread.

Death of the Firstborn

29 ^aAnd it came to pass, that at midnight ^bthe LORD smote all the firstborn in the land of Egypt, from the firstborn of Pharaoh that sat on his throne unto the firstborn of the captive that was ¹in the dungeon; and all the firstborn of ^ccattle.

30 And Pharaoh rose up in the night, he, and all his servants, and all the Egyptians; and there was a great cry in Egypt; for there was not a house where there was not one dead.

Pharaoh's Orders to Leave

31 And he ^acalled for Moses and Aaron by night, and said, Rise up, and get you forth from among my people, ^bboth ye and the children of Israel; and go, serve the LORD, as ye have ^csaid.

32 ^aAlso take your flocks and your herds, as ye have said, and be gone; and bless me also.

12:29. If Amenhotep II (1450-1423 B.C.) was the Pharaoh of the Exodus, the son who died would have been his eldest son. While no Egyptian records refer to this incident, the dream stela (a stone monument recording Pharaoh's dream) of his successor, Thutmose IV (1423-1410 B.C.), clearly states that he was not his father's eldest son. Thus, the chronological sequence of these earlier kings fits best with the biblical account.

33 ^aAnd the Egyptians were ^burgent upon the people, that they might send them out of the land in haste; for they said, We be all dead men.

34 And the people took their dough before it was leavened, their ¹kneadingtroughs being bound up in their clothes upon their shoulders.

35 And the children of Israel did according to the word of Moses; and they ¹borrowed of the Egyptians ^ajewels of silver, and jewels of gold, and raiment:

41 And it came to pass at the end of the four hundred and thirty years, even the selfsame day it came to pass, that ^aall the hosts of the LORD went out from the land of Egypt.

Rules of the Passover

43 And the LORD said unto Moses and Aaron, This is ^athe ordinance of the passover: There shall no stranger eat thereof:

44 But every man's servant that is bought for money, when thou hast ^acircumcised him, then shall he eat thereof.

45 ^aA foreigner and an hired servant shall not eat thereof.

12:35, 36. The phrase they borrowed of the Egyptians jewels ... so that they lent unto them does not imply any deception on the part of the Israelites. Both borrowed and lent come from the same Hebrew word, with the first commonly translated "asked" and the second being rendered "handed over," as it is in a different stem. This was not merely conscience money for the Jews' generations of slave labor. It had been promised to Abraham long before in Genesis 15:14.

12:38. The mixed multitude may have included other Semites who had settled in the delta region, plus many native Egyptians who "feared the word of the LORD" (9:20) and accepted the covenant faith of Israel. No doubt malcontents also seized the opportunity to flee, and they later became a source of trouble (Num. 11:4).

12:40, 41. The four hundred and thirty years as the time of the sojourning in Egypt has been interpreted in two basic ways. The first is that the bondage lasted only 215 years. The two main arguments for this view are: (1) Galatians 3:17 assumes that the 430 years mentioned begins with the call of Abraham and concludes with the Exodus. This would mean that the patriarchal period consisted of 215 years and the oppression in Egypt of 215 years. (2) The other argument rests upon the Septuagint (Greek) translation of Exodus 12:40 which reads "who dwelt in the land of Egypt and the land of Canaan," rather than simply in Egypt. This also points to the 430 years as including the patriarchal age as well as the period of bondage. The objections to this view are several. (1) Both Genesis 15:13 and Acts 7:6 state that the sojourn would be in the land that was not theirs and they would be oppressed for four hundred years. (2) Galatians 3:17 does not state that the 430 years was from the time of Abraham's call to the time of the Mosaic covenant; rather it is measured from the confirmation of the Abrahamic covenant until the Sinaitic covenant (cf. Gen. 46:3, 4 in 1877 B.C. to Jacob). (3) Genesis 15:13 and Acts 7:6 do not speak of Abraham's sons but of his descendants being afflicted for four hundred years. (4) The expression "fourth generation" (Gen. 15:16) probably refers to a four-hundred-year period, since that number is given in the same context (15:13). Generations in this context were calculated at one hundred years rather than 40. The second major view of the period of oppression is that it lasted for the period of 430 years, as stated in Exodus 12:40, 41. The view assumes that the reading of the Hebrew text is to be preferred over the Greek translation of the Old Testament (Septuagint). A third proposal, which is a slight variation from the second above, suggests that the 430 years includes the four-hundred-year oppression plus the time from the confirmation to Jacob until the giving of the Sinaitic covenant.

13:2. Sanctify unto me all the firstborn is commanded because the Lord had spared the firstborn of Israel when the Egyptian firstborn children were destroyed. Appropriately the firstborn of men and animals were to be "set apart" for His service.

13:9. The word sign has been the subject of some speculation. Due to this verse and Deuteronomy 6:8 and 11:18 the Jews have concluded that this meant literally wearing pouches called tephillin, a term explained to mean prayers. The Greek designation was phylakterion (Matt. 23:5), from which the English word "phylactery" has been derived. It consisted of small pouches made from the skin of ceremonially clean animals, sewn to leather bands by which they were strapped to the forehead between and immediately above the eyes, and to the left arms, of males who had reached the age of 13. Inside the pouches, certain passages of the Law were written (13:2-10; Deut. 6:4-9; 11:13-21).

The Beginning of the Exodus

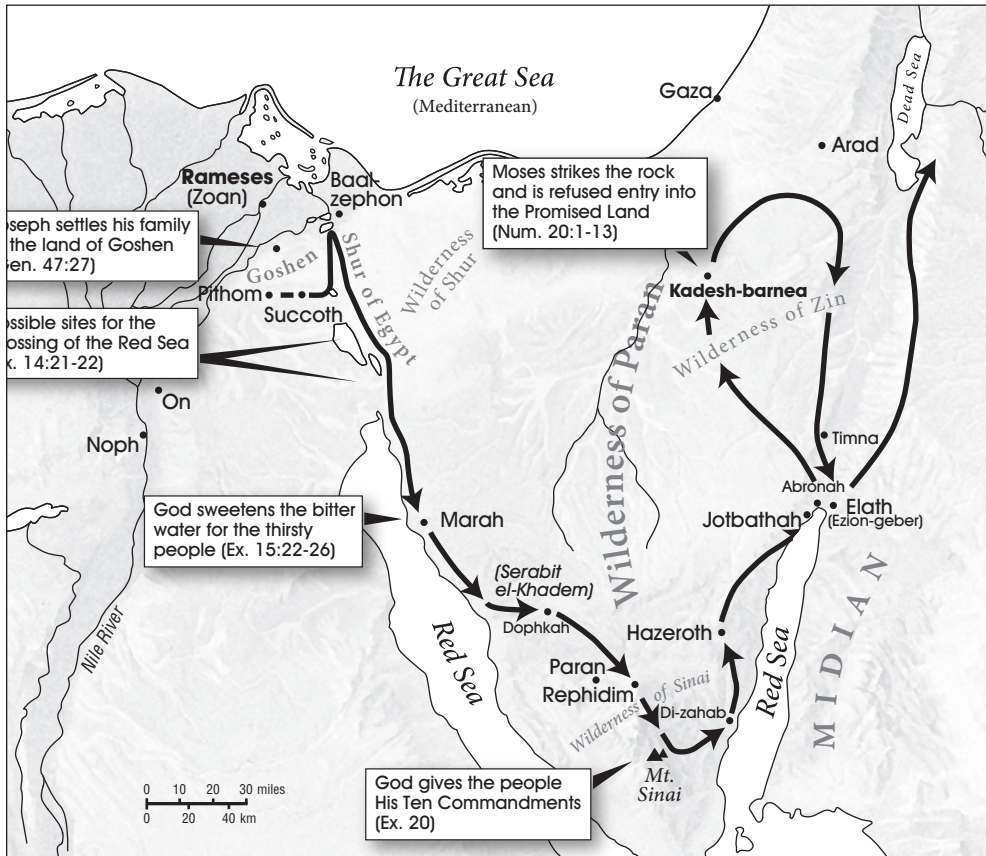

17 And it came to pass, when Pharaoh had let the people go, that God led them not through the way of the land of the Philistines, although that was near; for God said, Lest peradventure the people ^arepent¹ when they see war, and ^bthey return to Egypt:

13:18. The location of the Red sea crossing has produced much debate. Several views have been proposed: (1) The crossing was near the northern end of the Gulf of Suez. (2) It was near Lake Timsah or the southern extension of the present Lake Menzaleh. (3) The sea was located in the northern delta region, perhaps at Serbonitis. (4) The crossing was in the Bitter Lakes region, known for its marshes and reeds, as the Hebrew reflects (yam sūp, “Sea of Reeds”). The advantage of this last view is that such a route would have led them immediately to the wilderness of Shur after their crossing, and it would also have coincided with a three-day trip as in 15:22. In any case, it was a miraculous crossing in deep water.

13:21. This glowing cloud was the shekinah glory of Yahweh, which later filled the tabernacle (40:35) and then Solomon’s temple (1 Kin. 8:10), and finally departed from the temple and the city just before the Babylonian captivity (Ezek. 8—11). This “glory of the God of Israel” will not return to Israel until the second coming of Christ (Ezek. 43:1-7), at which time the glowing cloud will once again cover God’s earthly people (Is. 4:5). It guided the people through the wilderness, assured them of God’s presence, and protected them from the Egyptians (cf. 14:19, 20).

14:7. All the chariots of Egypt were probably from various parts of the delta region as opposed to the six hundred chosen which were most likely of a special royal force. Note that the Eighteenth Dynasty was known for its standardization of the chariot as army equipment. The chariots were open at the rear and consisted of a semicircular standing board made of wood. This was encircled by a rim that stood approximately two-and-one-half feet above the standing board. Each chariot had two wheels and was drawn by two small horses. The chariots were usually manned by two men: a warrior and a charioteer. The introduction of the horse and chariot into Egypt during the Hyksos period (1732-1570 B.C.) not only revolutionized the science of war, but provided a sport more dashing than any previously known by adding both verve and a quality of knightly dignity to such pastimes as archery and hunting.

Pharaoh's Army Destroyed

26 And the LORD said unto Moses, Stretch out thine hand over the sea, that the waters may come again upon the Egyptians, upon their chariots, and upon their horsemen.

27 And Moses stretched forth his hand over the sea, and the sea ^areturned ¹to his strength when the morning appeared; and the Egyptians fled against it; and the LORD ^boverthrew² the Egyptians in the midst of the sea.

31 And Israel saw that great ¹work which the LORD did upon the Egyptians: and the people ²feared the LORD, and ^abelieved the LORD, and his servant Moses.

14:22. God employed "a strong east wind" (v. 21) to divide the waters; but its effects were supernatural, for it piled up the waters like a wall in two directions at once (north and south), and to such a depth that they engulfed six hundred Egyptian chariots when the waters were released by the hand of God (vv. 28, 29; 15:8, Ps. 78:13).

15:1-21. Song in verse 2 likely means "my fortress, defense." The miracle at the Sea of Reeds, God's greatest act of redemption during the Old Testament period, is described not only in narrative prose (13:17—14:31) but also in lyric poetry (vv. 1-21). It is one of the oldest poems in the Bible. The story focuses on God Himself (v. 11); the name LORD appears 10 times (vv. 1, 2, 3a, 3b, 6a, 6b, 11, 16, 17c, 18; LORD in 17d is the less intimate word Adonai). The hymn contains five stanzas (vv. 1-5; 6-8; 9, 10; 11, 12; 13-18), each of the first three concluding with a simile ("as a stone," v. 5; "as an heap," v. 8; "as lead," v. 10). The first four stanzas tell the story of the deliverance of Israel at the Sea of Reeds, and the final stanza predicts the conquest of Canaan. Miriam was one of several women in the Bible to whom the title "prophetess" was applied. Others were Deborah (Judg. 4:4), Isaiah's wife (Is. 8:3), Huldah (2 Kin. 22:14), and Anna (Luke 2:36). Also, Philip the evangelist (Acts 6:5; 8:5) had four daughters who prophesied (Acts 21:8, 9).

21 And Miriam ^aanswered them, ^bSing ye to the LORD, for he hath triumphed gloriously; the horse and his rider hath he thrown into the sea.

22 So Moses brought Israel from the Red sea, and they went out into the wilderness of ^aShur; and they went three days in the wilderness, and found no ^bwater.

25 And he cried unto the LORD; and the LORD shewed him a tree, ^awhich when he had cast into the waters, the waters were made sweet: there he ^bmade for them a statute and an ¹ordinance, and there ^che ²proved them, 26 And said, ^aIf thou wilt diligently hearken to the voice of the LORD thy God, and wilt do that which is right in his sight, and wilt give ear to his commandments, and keep all his statutes, I will put none of these ^bdiseases upon thee, which I have brought upon the Egyptians: for I am the LORD ^cthat healeth thee.

2 And the whole congregation of the children of Israel ^amurmured¹ against Moses and Aaron in the wilderness:

3 And the children of Israel said unto them, ^aWould to God we had died by the hand of the LORD in the land of Egypt, ^bwhen we sat by the ¹flesh pots, and when we did eat bread to the full; for ye have brought us forth into this wilderness, to kill this whole assembly with hunger.

15:22-27. This records the first of five crises. This one concerned thirst. The second centered on hunger in chapter 16, followed by thirst again in 17:1-7. A fourth concerned war in 17:8-16, and the fifth dealt with overwork in 18:1-27.

15:20 Miriam was the sister of Moses and Aaron. She watched the baby Moses in the basket among the bulrushes and recommended her mother as a nurse for the child (2:7-10). Later she was active in the Exodus experience and led the women in songs of praise to celebrate the crossing of the Red Sea (vv. 20, 21). She was called a “prophetess” and occupied a position of great respect among the Israelites. She later rebelled against Moses because of his marriage to an Ethiopian woman and was struck with leprosy (Num. 12). She was miraculously healed of the leprosy because of Moses’ intercession on her behalf. She eventually died at Kadesh and was buried there (Num. 20:1). 9 And Moses spake unto Aaron, Say unto all the congregation of the children of Israel, ^aCome near before the LORD: for he hath heard your ¹murmurings.

10 And it came to pass, as Aaron spake unto the whole congregation of the children of Israel, that they looked toward the wilderness, and, behold, the glory of the LORD ^aappeared in the cloud.

God Sends Quail and Manna

11 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

12 ^aI have heard the ¹murmurings of the children of Israel: speak unto them, saying, ^bAt even ye shall eat flesh, and ^cin the morning ye shall be filled with bread; and ye shall know that I am the LORD your God.

13 And it came to pass, that at even ^athe quails came up, and covered the camp: and in the morning ^bthe dew lay round about the host.

14 And when the dew that lay was gone up, behold, upon the face of the wilderness there lay a small round ^athing, as small as the ^bhoar frost on the ground.

15 And when the children of Israel saw it, they said one to another, ¹It is manna: for they ²wist not what it was. And Moses said unto them, ^aThis is the bread which the LORD hath given you to eat.

19 And Moses said, Let no man ^aleave of it till the morning.

21 And they gathered it every morning, every man according to his eating; and when the sun waxed hot, it melted.

The Sixth Day's Gathering

22 And it came to pass, that on the sixth day they gathered twice as much bread, two omers for one man: and all the rulers of the congregation came and told Moses.

23 And he said unto them, This is that which the LORD hath said, To morrow is ^athe rest of the holy sabbath unto the LORD: bake that which ye will bake to day, and ¹seethe that ye will ¹seethe; and that which remaineth over lay up for you to be kept until the morning.

24 And they laid it up till the morning, as Moses bade: and it did not ^astink, neither was there any worm therein.

25 And Moses said, Eat that to day; for to day is a sabbath unto the LORD: to day ye shall not find it in the field.

26 ^aSix days ye shall gather it; but on the seventh day, which is the sabbath, in it there shall be none.

16:15. The manna literally means "What is it?" Not only was it remarkable for its size, shape, color, taste, and variety of uses (16:14, 23, 31; Num. 11:7, 8), but especially for its daily appearance at dawn, its tremendous abundance, its strange capacity for breeding worms at the end of each day except the sixth, and its sudden and permanent disappearance as soon as the Israelites entered Canaan (Josh. 5:12). It taught the people to look Godward for their daily bread, and it pointed toward the One who claimed to be the true bread from heaven, even "the bread of life" (John 6:32, 35).

seventh day for to gather, and they found none.

28 And the LORD said unto Moses, How long ^arefuse ¹ye to keep my commandments and my laws?

29 See, for that the LORD hath given you the sabbath, therefore he giveth you on the sixth day the bread of two days; abide ye every man in his place, let no man go out of his place on the seventh day.

30 So the people rested on the seventh day.

31 And the house of Israel called the name thereof ¹Manna: and ^ait was like coriander seed, white; and the taste of it was like wafers made with honey.

Manna Kept as a Testimony

32 And Moses said, This is the thing which the LORD commandeth, Fill an omer of it to be kept for your generations; that they may see the bread wherewith I have fed you in the wilderness, when I brought you forth from the land of Egypt.

33 And Moses said unto Aaron, ^aTake a pot, and put an omer full of manna therein, and lay it up before the LORD, to be kept for your generations.

34 As the LORD commanded Moses, so Aaron laid it up ^abefore the Testimony, to be kept.

35 And the children of Israel did ^aeat manna ^bforty years, ^auntil they came to a land inhabited; they did eat manna, until they came unto the borders of the land of Canaan.

Moses Acts as Judge

13 And it came to pass on the morrow, that Moses ^asat to judge the people: and the people stood by Moses from the morning unto the evening.

17:14. The reference to Write ... in a book is the first mention of writing as related to Scripture and official Hebrew records. It probably was done on papyrus, the most common Egyptian writing material. Moses evidently kept a diary of Israel's journey through the wilderness as implied in Numbers 33:2. Certainly this is contrary to the earlier liberal view that Moses could not have written and did not. The curse in this verse upon Amalek was due to several factors. First, recall that they were related to the Israelites through Esau (Gen. 36:12). Second, we are told in Deuteronomy 25:17-19 that they took cruel advantage of those who were weak and faint and weary among the Israelite stragglers, and they "feared not God." Finally, we learn from Numbers 24:20 that "Amalek was the first of the nations; but his latter end shall be that he perish for ever." As the first nation to attack the newly redeemed and separated Israel (and thus typical of all who later hated God's people), the Amalekites received the full impact of God's curse upon "him that curseth thee" (Gen. 12:3). Thus, in later history, the Amalekites who escaped from Saul (1 Sam. 15:7) were smitten by David (1 Sam. 30:17); and the ones who escaped from David were destroyed by the descendants of Simeon in the days of King Hezekiah (1 Chr. 4:43).

14 And when Moses' father in law saw all that he did to the people, he said, What is this thing that thou doest to the people? why ¹sittest thou thyself alone, and all the people stand by thee from morning unto even?

rulers of hundreds, rulers of fifties, and rulers of tens:

22 And let them judge the people at all seasons: ^aand it shall be, that every great matter they shall bring unto thee, but every small matter they shall judge: so shall it be easier for thyself, and ^bthey shall bear the burden with thee.

23 If thou shalt do this thing, and God command thee so, then thou shalt be able to endure, and all this people shall also go to their ^aplace in peace.

24 So Moses hearkened to the voice of his father in law, and did all that he had said.

25 And ^aMoses chose able men out of all Israel, and made them heads over the people, rulers of thousands, rulers of hundreds, rulers of fifties, and rulers of tens.

26 And they judged the people at all seasons: the ^ahard¹ ²causes they brought unto Moses, but every small matter they judged themselves.

27 And Moses let his father in law depart; and ^ahe went his way into his own land.

The Children of Israel at Sinai

19 In the third month, when the children of Israel were gone forth out of the land of Egypt, the same day ^acame they into the wilderness of Sinai.

2 For they were departed from ^aRephidim, and were come to the desert of Sinai, and had pitched in the wilderness; and there Israel camped before ^bthe mount.

18:23. The Scriptures give us no indication that this was mere worldly advice on the part of Jethro. Moses described this episode to the people in later years without regrets or apologies for his decision (Deut. 1:15). The fact that God appointed 70 Spirit-empowered elders to assist Moses in Numbers 11 does not imply that God set aside these "able men" of Exodus 18. The former were apparently executives and spiritual leaders; the latter were judges.

19:1 Sinai is the name of the desert peninsula joining Egypt to Canaan (Israel). It is a rugged wilderness to this day. Mount Sinai (also called Horeb) is near the southern tip of the peninsula and is generally identified as Jebel Musa, the location of Saint Catherine's Monastery, which was built in the sixth century A.D. The peninsula itself served as a trading and mining center from the Old Kingdom Period (2700-2200 B.C.) onward. Archaeological investigation has been limited by the rugged terrain and the political instability of the area. The most interesting finds come from Serabit el-Khadem, which revealed copper and turquoise mining, and produced the famous Proto-Sinaitic inscriptions, which provide the earliest evidence of a Semitic alphabetic script. These finds clearly prove the existence of writing during this period of time. This discovery is significant because of the claim by nineteenth-century critics that there was no such writing in the time of Moses (c. 1500 B.C.). The Proto-Sinaitic inscriptions prove that writing did exist at that time.

God Speaks to Moses

3 And ^aMoses went up unto God, and the LORD ^bcalled unto him out of the mountain, saying, Thus shalt thou say to the house of Jacob, and tell the children of Israel;

4 ^aYe have seen what I did unto the Egyptians, and how ^bI ¹bare you on eagles' wings, and brought you unto myself.

5 Now ^atherefore, if ye will obey my voice indeed, and ^bkeep my covenant, then ^cye shall be a ¹peculiar treasure unto me above all people: for all the earth ^dis ^{mine}:

6 And ye shall be unto me a ^akingdom of priests, and an ^bholy nation. These are the words which thou shalt speak unto the children of Israel.

cloud, ^bthat the people may hear when I speak with thee, and believe thee for ever. And Moses told the words of the people unto the LORD.

Sanctify the People

10 And the LORD said unto Moses, Go unto the people, and ^asanctify¹ them to day and to tomorrow, and let them wash their clothes, 11 And be ready against the third day: for the third day the LORD will come down in the sight of all the people upon mount Sinai.

12 And thou shalt set bounds unto the people round about, saying, Take heed to yourselves, that ye go not up into the mount, or touch the border of it: ^awhosoever toucheth the mount shall be surely put to death:

13 There shall not an hand touch it, but he shall surely be stoned, or shot through; whether it be beast or man, it shall not live: when the trumpet soundeth long, they shall come up to the mount.

14 And Moses went down from the mount unto the people, and sanctified the people; and they washed their clothes.

15 And he said unto the people, Be ready against the third day: ^acome not ¹at your wives.

19:1-25. The rest of Exodus, plus Leviticus and the first 10 chapters of Numbers, contain what is commonly referred to as the Mosaic Law. This chapter, in addition to chapter 20, follows the pattern of ancient suzerainty treaties, thus suggesting that Yahweh is King and Israel is His kingdom. His subject people are to render complete submission, allegiance, and obedience to Him. A typical treaty contained a preamble (v. 3), historical prologue (with emphasis on the benevolence of the "great King" v. 4), specific obligations of the vassals, witnesses to the treaty, and a list of the consequences of keeping or breaking the treaty (i.e., blessings and curses). The pattern follows closely that of the Hittites, who were destroyed around 1200 B.C., thus demonstrating the antiquity of the law and the fact that it is a complete unit not to be dissected. It may also explain the nature of the two tablets (Ex.

31:18). One would be a copy for the "great King" and the other for the vassal, Israel.

19:5, 6. The phrase peculiar treasure actually means "personal property." Israel was God's personal possession (Ps. 135:4), since He had redeemed her from bondage, not because of her goodness, but solely because He loved her and was faithful to the promises given to the patriarchs. Those who fear the Lord become His "peculiar treasures" whom He will never forget, even in that time of great judgment (Mal. 3:16-18). Notice Titus 2:13, 14: "Jesus Christ who gave himself for us, that he might redeem us from all iniquity, and purify unto himself a peculiar people, zealous of good works." Although all the earth is mine, and everything in it was created by God and belongs to Him (Gen. 14:19, 22; Ps. 24:1, 2), Israel is His special treasure.

LAW—MOSAIC COVENANT

19:5-8. The dispensation of Law meant government by the Mosaic covenant. This covenant was given to Israel in order to reveal sin and death. The Law reflected the holiness of a personal God, instructed the people in God's discipline, reminded them through its priests and sacrifices of God's salvation, and acted as a pedagogue to lead them to Christ. The Law contained three elements: (1) commandments revealing the righteousness of God; (2) judgments expressing social requirements; and (3) ordinances directing the religious life of Israel. No one was ever saved by keeping the Law; it was simply God's moral guideline for Israel. This dispensation ended with vicarious judgment at the Cross, as Christ died for the sins of all men (cf. Jer. 31:31).

Meeting God at Mount Sinai

16 And it came to pass on the third day in the morning, that there were ^athunders and lightnings, and a thick cloud upon the mount, and the voice of the trumpet exceeding loud; so that all the people that was in the camp ^btrembled.¹

17 And ^aMoses brought forth the people out of the camp to meet with God; and they stood at the nether part of the mount.

18 And ^amount Sinai was altogether on a smoke, because the LORD descended upon ^bit in fire: ^cand the smoke thereof ascended as the smoke of a furnace, and the ^dwhole mount quaked greatly.

19 And when the voice of the trumpet sounded long, and waxed louder and louder, ^aMoses spake, and ^bGod answered him by a voice.

God Calls Moses to the Mount

20 And the LORD came down upon mount Sinai, on the top of the mount: and the LORD called Moses up to the top of the mount; and Moses went up.

21 And the LORD said unto Moses, Go down, ¹charge the people, lest they break through unto the LORD ^ato gaze, and many of them perish.

22 And let the ^apriests also, which come near to the LORD, ^bsanctify¹ themselves, lest the LORD ^cbreak forth upon them.

23 And Moses said unto the LORD, The people cannot come up to mount Sinai: for thou chargedst us, saying, ^aSet bounds about the mount, and ¹sanctify it.

Ten Commandments for Israel

20 And God spake ^aall these words, saying,

2 ^aI am the LORD thy God, which have brought thee out of the land of Egypt, ^bout of the house of ¹bondage.

3 ^aThou shalt have no other gods before me.

4 ^aThou shalt not make unto thee any graven image, or any likeness of any thing that is in heaven above, or that is in the earth beneath, or that is in the water under the earth:

5 ^aThou shalt not ¹bow down thyself to them, nor serve them: ^bfor I the LORD thy God am a jealous God, ^cvisiting² the iniquity of the fathers upon the children unto the third and fourth generation of them that hate me;

6 And ^ashewing mercy unto thousands of them that love me, and keep my commandments.

7 ^aThou shalt not take the name of the LORD thy God in vain; for the LORD ^bwill not hold him guiltless that taketh his name in vain.

8 ^aRemember the sabbath day, to keep it holy.

9 ^aSix days shalt thou labour, and do all thy work:

20:9 ^a Ex. 34:21; 35:2, 3; Lev. 23:3; Deut. 5:13; Luke 13:14

20:3. The phrase before me has been the subject of no small debate. Some suggest it means “in addition to Me,” as the preposition is used this way in Genesis 31:50 and Deuteronomy 19:9. Others take before to indicate “in preference to Me.” The preposition is translated “in hostility toward” in Genesis 16:12. Thus the first commandment teaches that no deity, real or imagined, is to rival the one true God, who is the only One who matters. It demands an exclusive covenant relationship with Yahweh (cf. Ps. 81:9, 10).

20:4. The prohibition of any graven image forbids, among other things, the making of any likeness of what is in the heavens above. Obviously this would include images of Yahweh. Archaeologists have observed that a figure of Yahweh has yet to be found in debris of an Israelite town. This would also seem to substantiate the antiquity of the second commandment, since such images of other gods are frequently found at later periods.

20:7. In vain reflects the Hebrew term that is written in the absence of a distinct vowel sound. It means “emptiness, vanity.” It is used in Scripture to describe vain works (Ps. 127:2), worthless idols (Jon. 2:8), and false prophecy (Ezek. 12:24), among other things. So the basic meaning provides an accurate description of a vowel that has been reduced to almost nothing. So here, in addition to what most think of as a prohibition of cursing or swearing, it has the primary connotation of not using it in an empty or worthless fashion. It certainly forbids profanity and false oath-taking in the Lord’s name, but also forbids frivolous usage. See the note on Deuteronomy 5:11.

10 But the ^aseventh day is the sabbath of the LORD thy God: in it thou shalt not do any work, thou, nor thy son, nor thy daughter, thy manservant, nor thy maidservant, nor thy cattle, ^bnor thy stranger that is within thy gates:

11 For ^ain six days the LORD made heaven and earth, the sea, and all that in them is, and rested the seventh day: wherefore the LORD blessed the sabbath day, and hallowed it.

12 ^aHonour thy father and thy mother: that thy days may be ^blong upon the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee.

13 ^aThou shalt not kill.

14 ^aThou shalt not commit ^badultery.

15 ^aThou shalt not steal.

16 ^aThou shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbour.

17 ^aThou shalt not covet thy neighbour's house, ^bthou shalt not covet thy neighbour's wife, nor his manservant, nor his maidservant, nor his ox, nor his ass, nor any thing that is thy neighbour's.

3 If he came in by himself, he shall go out by himself: if he were married, then his wife shall go out with him.

20:24, 25. An altar of earth ... an altar of stone, thou shalt not build it of hewn stone: for if thou lift up thy tool upon it, thou hast polluted it: At Tell Arad an Israelite temple or sanctuary or sacred precinct, much like that of the tabernacle, was discovered, dating to the tenth or eleventh century B.C. In the outer courtyard stood an altar for burnt offerings, five cubits square (like that of the tabernacle—27:1), and built of earth or rubble and unhewn field stones or bricks (as here). This tabernacle has been more specifically identified as probably a Kenite sanctuary, whose priests traced their sacerdotal heritage back to Moses' father-in-law, Jethro (Judg. 1:16), who was a priest of Midian and had at least some knowledge of Yahweh (18:10-12). Finally, since it is apparently patterned after the Exodus tabernacle, this would argue for the antiquity of the Exodus tabernacle. No markings were allowed, probably to prevent the making of images in connection with the altar itself.

5 ^aAnd if the servant shall plainly say, I love my master, my wife, and my children; I will not go out free:

6 Then his master shall bring him unto the ^ajudges; he shall also bring him to the door, or unto the door post; and his master shall bore his ear through with an aul; and he shall serve him for ever.

Laws Regarding Maidservants

7 And if a man ^asell his daughter to be a maidservant, she shall not go out as the menservants do.

8 If she ¹please not her master, who hath betrothed her to himself, then shall he let her be redeemed: to sell her unto a ²strange nation he shall have no power, seeing he hath dealt deceitfully with her.

9 And if he have betrothed her unto his son, he shall deal with her after the manner of daughters.

10 If he take him another wife; her food, her raiment, ^aand her duty of marriage, shall he not diminish.

11 And if he do not these three unto her, then shall she go out free without money.

25 Burning for burning, wound for wound, stripe for stripe.

26 And if a man smite the eye of his servant, or the eye of his maid, that it perish; he shall let him go free for his eye's sake.

27 And if he smite out his manservant's tooth, or his maidservant's tooth; he shall let him go free for his tooth's sake.

Laws Regarding Oxen

28 If an ox gore a man or a woman, that they die: then ^athe ox shall be surely ¹stoned, and his flesh shall not be eaten; but the owner of the ox shall be ²quit.

21:22, 23. And yet no mischief follow ... and if any mischief follow, then thou shalt give life for life: Verse 22 has been mistakenly interpreted as referring to a miscarriage. The text literally reads, "so that her children go [or come] out." The plural for child is used, making it clear that a human being is in view, and the plural is generic to cover the contingency of multiple births of either sex. The Hebrew verb shakal would be appropriate to indicate a miscarriage (cf. 23:26; Hos. 9:14). Thus the fetus in the law code is pictured as a human being and feticide is indeed murder (cf. Ps. 139:13, 16; Job 10:18).

29 But if the ox ¹were wont to push with his horn in time past, and it hath been ²testified to his owner, and he hath not kept him in, but that he hath killed a man or a woman; the ox shall be stoned, and his owner also shall be put to death.

30 If there be laid on him a sum of money, then he shall give for ^athe ransom of his life whatsoever is laid upon him.

31 Whether he have gored a son, or have gored a daughter, according to this judgment shall it be done unto him.

32 If the ox shall push a manservant or a maidservant; he shall give unto their master ^athirty shekels of silver, and the ^box shall be stoned.

33 And if a man shall open a pit, or if a man shall dig a pit, and not cover it, and an ox or an ass fall therein;

34 The owner of the pit shall make it good, and give money unto the owner of them; and the dead beast shall be his.

35 And if one man's ox hurt another's, that he die; then they shall sell the live ox, and divide the money of it; and the dead ox also they shall divide.

36 Or if it be known that the ox hath used to push in time past, and his owner hath not kept him in; he shall surely pay ox for ox; and the dead shall be his own.

Laws Regarding Restitution

22 If a man shall steal an ox, or a sheep, and kill it, or sell it; he shall ^arestore five oxen for an ox, and four sheep for a sheep.

2 If a thief be found ^abreaking ¹up, and be smitten that he die, there shall ^bno blood be shed for him.

3 If the sun be risen upon him, there shall be blood shed for him; for he should make full restitution; if he have nothing, then he shall be ^asold¹ for his theft.

4 If the theft be certainly ^afound in his hand alive, whether it be ox, or ass, or sheep; he shall ^brestore double.

6 If fire break out, and catch in thorns, so that the stacks of corn, or the standing corn, or the field, be consumed therewith; he that kindled the fire shall surely make restitution.

7 If a man shall ^adeliver unto his neighbour money or stuff to keep, and it be stolen out of the man's house; ^bif the thief be found, let him pay double.

8 If the thief be not found, then the master of the house shall be brought unto the ^ajudges, to see whether he ¹have put his hand unto his neighbour's goods.

9 For all manner of trespass, whether it be for ox, for ass, for sheep, for raiment, or for any manner of lost thing, which another challengeth to be his, the ^acause of both parties shall come before the judges; and whom the judges shall condemn, he shall pay double unto his neighbour.

10 If a man deliver unto his neighbour an ass, or an ox, or a sheep, or any beast, to keep; and it die, or be hurt, or driven away, no man seeing it:

11 Then shall an ^aoath of the LORD be between them both, that he hath not put his hand unto his neighbour's goods; and the owner of it shall accept thereof, and he shall not make it good.

12 And ^aif it be stolen from him, he shall make restitution unto the owner thereof.

13 If it be ^atorn in pieces, then let him bring it for witness, and he shall not make good that which was torn.

22:19. Bestiality was forbidden in Leviticus 18:23; 20:15, 16; and Deuteronomy 27:21. The Canaanites practiced this offensive act. The Hittites forbade its practice with sheep, cows, or pigs, but not with horses or mules. Israel was to be holy, as Yahweh was (Lev. 11:44; 19:2).

25 And ye shall ^aserve the LORD your God, and ^bhe shall bless thy bread, and thy water; and ^cI will take sickness away from the midst of thee.

26 ^aThere shall nothing cast their young, nor be barren, in thy land: the number of thy days I will ^bfulfil.

27 I will send ^amy fear before thee, and will ^bdestroy all the people to whom thou shalt come, and I will make all thine enemies turn their backs unto thee.

 23:27 ^aGen. 35:5; Ex. 15:16; Deut. 2:25; Josh. 2:9 ^bDeut. 7:23

23:20-33. Behold, I send an Angel before thee: God promised "an angel" or "mine angel" (v. 23) for Israel's protection and success. This is no ordinary angel, for God's name is in him and He can pardon your transgressions (for "Who can forgive sins, but God alone?"—Luke 5:21). This must be the Angel of the covenant (Is. 63:9; Mal. 3:1), the preincarnate Christ Himself who now attends His law. Obedience was not to a dead law, but to the Angel, Christ Himself. Obedience would result in blessing; therefore, obey his voice, provoke him not (something they really did in Num. 14:11; Ps. 78:17, 40, 56). Besides "sending" His Angel, God would send my fear before thee [Josh. 2:9-11 for fulfillment] ... and I will send hornets. He promised to send panic and confusion to every nation they had to face in military action. Some have taken the hornets as literal ones; others identify it as a reference to the Egyptian armies. However, it is probably best viewed as a figurative expression referring to the panic-producing power of God which aided in overcoming both kings, Sihon and Og. This is supported by the proximity of verse 28 to verse 27. In one sense, this is synonymous parallelism (cf. Deut. 2:25; 7:20). Panic certainly did play an important role in the victories both in Trans-Jordan and Canaan (Num. 22:3; Josh. 2:9, 11; 5:1; 9:24).

28 And ^aI will send hornets before thee, which shall drive out the Hivite, the Canaanite, and the Hittite, from before thee.

29 ^aI will not drive them out from before thee in one year; lest the land become desolate, and the beast of the field multiply against thee.

30 By little and little I will drive them out from before thee, until thou be increased, and inherit the land.

31 And ^aI will set thy ¹bounds from the Red sea even unto the sea of the Philistines, and from the desert unto the ²river: for I will ^bdeliver the inhabitants of the land into your hand; and thou shalt drive them out before thee.

32 ^aThou shalt make no ¹covenant with them, nor with their gods.

33 They shall not dwell in thy land, lest they make thee sin against me: for if thou serve their gods, ^ait will surely be a snare unto thee.

24 And he said unto Moses, Come up unto the LORD, thou, and Aaron, ^aNadab, and Abihu, ^band seventy of the elders of Israel; and worship ye afar off.

2 And Moses alone shall come near the LORD: but they shall not come nigh; neither shall the people go up with him.

3 And Moses came and told the people all the words of the LORD, and all the ¹judgments: and all the people answered with one voice, and said, ^aAll the words which the LORD hath said will we do.

4 And Moses ^awrote all the words of the LORD, and rose up early in the morning, and builded an altar under the hill, and twelve ^bpillars, according to the twelve tribes of Israel.

5 And he sent young men of the children of Israel, which offered ^aburnt offerings, and sacrificed peace offerings of oxen unto the LORD.

Moses Meets God on the Mount

9 Then went up Moses, and Aaron, Nadab, and Abihu, and seventy of the elders of Israel:

10 And they ^asaw the God of Israel: and there was under his feet as it were a paved work of a ^bsapphire stone, and as it were the ^cbody of heaven in his clearness.

11 And upon the nobles of the children of Israel he ^alaid¹ not his hand: also ^bthey saw God, and did ^ceat and drink.

12 And the LORD said unto Moses, ^aCome up to me into the mount, and be there: and I will give thee ^btables of stone, and a law, and commandments which I have written; that thou mayest teach them.

13 And Moses rose up, and ^ahis minister Joshua: and Moses went up into the mount of God.

14 And he said unto the elders, Tarry ye here for us, until we come again unto you: and, behold, Aaron and ^aHur are with you: if any man have any matters to do, let him come unto them.

15 And Moses went up into the mount, and ^aa cloud covered the mount.

16 And ^athe glory of the LORD abode upon mount Sinai, and the cloud covered it six days: and the seventh day he called unto Moses out of the midst of the cloud.

24:8. The blood of the covenant is the terminology from which the Old Testament (or covenant) gets its name. Because Israel failed to keep this conditional covenant of works, God promised through Jeremiah the institution of an unconditional covenant of grace

(Jer. 31:31–34), which will be fulfilled in Israel during the Great Tribulation. But this covenant of grace is based upon the atoning work of Christ; and for this reason the church also participates in it, through His blood (Luke 22:20; Heb. 8:6–13; 9:15–18; 12:24).

17 And the sight of the glory of the LORD was like ^a“devouring fire on the top of the mount in the eyes of the children of Israel.

18 And Moses went into the midst of the cloud, and gat him up into the mount: and ^aMoses was in the mount forty days and forty nights.

Instructions for a Tabernacle

8 And let them make me a ^a“sanctuary;¹ that ^bI may dwell among them.

9 According to all that I shew thee, after the pattern of the tabernacle, and the pattern of all the instruments thereof, even so shall ye make it.

The Ark of the Testimony

10 ^a“And they shall make an ark of shittim wood: two cubits and a half shall be the length thereof, and a cubit and a half the breadth thereof, and a cubit and a half the height thereof.

11 And thou shalt overlay it with pure gold, within and without shalt thou overlay it, and shalt make upon it a crown of ^a“gold round about.

12 And thou shalt cast four rings of gold for it, and put them in the four corners thereof; and two rings shall be in the one side of it, and two rings in the other side of it.

13 And thou shalt make staves of shittim wood, and overlay them with gold.

25:8, 9. Sanctuary ... tabernacle: There are 50 chapters in the Bible devoted to the tabernacle: 13 in Exodus; 18 in Leviticus; 13 in Numbers; two in Deuteronomy; and four in Hebrews. The final 16 chapters in Exodus are primarily devoted to the instructions and fashioning of the tabernacle. The amount of space devoted certainly demonstrates its importance to Israel’s experience as a religious community. The above are two of the five different names or titles applied to the tabernacle in the Pentateuch. Sanctuary translates the Hebrew miqdōsh. It derives from a root meaning “be holy,” and may have come into use because of the two parts into which the facility was divided: the Holy Place and the Most Holy Place. This reinforces the notion of holiness or separation. The sanctuary testifies to the holiness of God by more than its structure. Aaron, the chief minister of the tabernacle, wore a diadem with the engraving, “HOLINESS TO THE LORD” (Ex. 28:36).

This term lends an aura of the unapproachable and the distant. Though God was accessible to the people, the engraving reminded them that the tabernacle was no ordinary facility. The tabernacle was set apart and special to Yahweh. The second term, tabernacle, translates the Hebrew mishkan, “dwellingplace.” Notice that Yahweh says, Let them make me a sanctuary; that I may dwell among them. It implies an active sense of dwelling. When the tabernacle was completed, the signal that Yahweh had come now to inhabit it was the descent of the glory cloud (40:34–38). The ark was significant for more than being the depository for the law. The ark’s cover represented the throne of God. Therefore the ark was placed in the Most Holy Place of the tabernacle and symbolized God’s presence. Also, the table of the bread of the presence (v. 30), on which were placed the 12 loaves, symbolized that the tribes were present before the LORD.

CHRIST IN THE TABERNACLE

25:8. The predominate “type” of Christ in the Old Testament is the tabernacle. The New Testament authority for recognizing its typological significance is Hebrews 9:1–24. Because the pattern for the tabernacle was designed by God, this has led some Bible scholars to conclude that even the most minute details of the tabernacle have a typological significance. Illustration: In describing the incarnation (John 1:14), John uses the word for dwelt, which has the idea of pitching a tent or tabernacle. The tabernacle was the sanctuary of God, described as His dwelling place (v. 8). Just as God lived in a tent in the wilderness, so the Son of God lived (and still lives) in a human body as the New Testament “tent.” Application: Today, the physical bodies of Christians serve as the temple (dwelling place) of the Holy Spirit (1 Cor. 16:19, 20). (First Reference, Ex. 25:8; Primary Reference, Heb. 8, 9.)

14 And thou shalt put the staves into the rings by the sides of the ark, that the ark may be borne with them.

15 "The staves shall be in the rings of the ark: they shall not be taken from it.

16 And thou shalt put into the ark "the testimony which I shall give thee.

The Mercy Seat

17 And "thou shalt make a mercy seat of pure gold: two cubits and a half shall be the length thereof, and a cubit and a half the breadth thereof.

18 And thou shalt make two cherubims of gold, of beaten work shalt thou make them, in the two ends of the mercy seat.

19 And make one cherub on the one end, and the other cherub on the other end: even of the mercy seat shall ye make the cherubims on the two ends thereof.

20 And "the cherubims shall stretch forth their wings on high, covering the mercy seat with their wings, and their faces shall look one to another; toward the mercy seat shall the faces of the cherubims be.

21 "And thou shalt put the mercy seat above upon the ark; and "in the ark thou shalt put the testimony that I shall give thee.

22 And "there I will meet with thee, and I will ¹commune with thee from above the mercy seat, from ^bbetween the two cherubims which are upon the ark of the testimony, of all things which I will give thee in commandment unto the children of Israel.

25:17. Mercy seat probably derives from the root meaning "to cover," or "to conceal." Thus a covering of sin was symbolized until it was dealt with in fact by the atonement of Christ. But there is evidence that the verb is derived from a noun meaning "ransom," since it is parallel to the word "redeem" (pada) in Psalm 49:7. Actually, the idea of "mercy seat" is incorrect, for the word is not related to mercy and of course it was not a seat. Further, the translation "mercy seat" does not sufficiently express the fact that the lid of the ark was the place where the blood was sprinkled on the Day of Atonement. "Place of atonement" would perhaps be more expressive. Note that the Septuagint is usually hilasterion, "place or object of propitiation," a word applied to Christ in Romans 3:25, 1 John 2:2 and 4:10.

25:21. The testimony quite clearly designates the two tables of stone on which the Ten Words (Ten Commandments) were written (24:12; 31:18; 32:15; 34:29). These two tables represented God's covenant with Israel (34:27, 28) and as such are called the "tables of the covenant" (Deut. 9:9).

36 Their knops and their branches shall be of the same: all it shall be one beaten work of pure gold.

TABERNACLE TYPES

26:1ff. The intricate design of the Tabernacle teaches the biblical theology of sacrificial atonement for personal holiness. The one door indicates there is only one way to God (John 14:6).

That way is through the blood atonement on the brass altar (Heb. 9:22), which was accomplished by Christ shedding His blood for us on the cross (Mark 14:24; 1 Cor. 11:25). The laver symbolizes our need for daily cleansing (John 13:2–12), the table of bread symbolizes our need for communion and fellowship (1 Cor. 11:23–27), and the incense altar symbolizes our need for prayer (Rev. 5:8). The veil (curtain) separated man from God's holy presence but was torn apart at the time of Christ's death (Matt. 27:51), giving every believer access to God's presence as symbolized by the Ark of the Covenant (Rev. 11:19). Application: The details of the Tabernacle were intended to help us understand how we are to approach our holy God in proper worship through the atoning sacrifice of Christ (cf. Zech. 12:10–13:1).

13 And a cubit on the one side, and a cubit on the other side of that which remaineth in the length of the curtains of the tent, it shall hang over the sides of the tabernacle on this side and on that side, to cover it.

The Covering and the Boards

14 And ^athou shalt make a covering for the tent of rams' skins dyed red, and a covering above of badgers' skins.

15 And thou shalt ^amake boards for the tabernacle of shittim wood standing up.

16 Ten cubits shall be the length of a board, and a cubit and a half shall be the breadth of one board.

17 Two ¹tenons shall there be in one board, set in order one against another: thus shalt thou make for all the boards of the tabernacle.

18 And thou shalt make the boards for the tabernacle, twenty boards on the south side southward.

19 And thou shalt make forty sockets of silver under the twenty boards; two sockets under one board for his two tenons, and two sockets under another board for his two tenons.

20 And for the second side of the tabernacle on the north side there shall be twenty boards:

21 And their forty sockets of silver; two sockets under one board, and two sockets under another board.

22 And for the sides of the tabernacle westward thou shalt make six boards.

23 And two boards shalt thou make for the corners of the tabernacle in the two sides.

24 And they shall be ¹coupled together beneath, and they shall be coupled together above the head of it unto one ring: thus shall it be for them both; they shall be for the two corners.

25 And they shall be eight boards, and their sockets of silver, sixteen sockets; two sockets under one board, and two sockets under another board.

The Bars

26 And thou shalt make bars of shittim wood; five for the boards of the one side of the tabernacle, 27 And five bars for the boards of the other side of the tabernacle, and five bars for the boards of the side of the tabernacle, for the two sides westward.

28 And the ^amiddle bar in the midst of the boards shall reach from end to end.

29 And thou shalt overlay the boards with gold, and make their rings of gold for places for the bars: and thou shalt overlay the bars with gold.

30 And thou shalt ¹rear up the tabernacle ^aaccording to the fashion thereof which was shewed thee in the mount.

The Vail

31 And ^athou shalt make a vail of blue, and purple, and scarlet, and fine twined linen of cunning work: with cherubims shall it be made:

32 And thou shalt hang it upon four pillars of shittim wood overlaid with gold: their hooks shall be of gold, upon the four sockets of silver.

33 And thou shalt hang up the vail under the taches, that thou mayest bring in thither within the vail ^athe ark of the testimony: and the vail shall divide unto you between ^bthe holy place and the most holy.

34 And ^athou shalt put the mercy seat upon the ark of the testimony in the most holy place.

35 And ^athou shalt set the table ¹without the vail, and ^bthe candlestick over against the table on the side of the tabernacle toward the south: and thou shalt put the table on the north side.

The Court

9 And ^athou shalt make the court of the tabernacle: for the south side southward there shall be hangings for the court of fine twined linen of an hundred cubits long for one side:

10 And the twenty pillars thereof and their twenty sockets shall be of brass; the hooks of the pillars and their fillets shall be of silver.

11 And likewise for the north side in length there shall be hangings of an hundred cubits long, and his twenty pillars and their twenty sockets of brass; the hooks of the pillars and their fillets of silver.

12 And for the breadth of the court on the west side shall be hangings of fifty cubits: their pillars ten, and their sockets ten.

13 And the breadth of the court on the east side eastward shall be fifty cubits.

14 The hangings of one side of the gate shall be fifteen cubits: their pillars three, and their sockets three.

15 And on the other side shall be hangings fifteen cubits: their pillars three, and their sockets three.

16 And for the gate of the court shall be an hanging of twenty cubits, of blue, and purple, and scarlet, and fine twined linen, wrought with needlework: and their pillars shall be four, and their sockets four.

17 All the pillars round about the court shall be filleted with silver; their ^ahooks shall be of silver, and their sockets of brass.

26:36. The door of the tent: This was a tent of meeting. Here the people's representatives—the priests and Moses in particular—met with Yahweh and He with them. Here the dispute between Aaron, Miriam, and Moses was arbitrated (Num. 12:4). The instructions about the daily offerings state that at the door of the tent of meeting the lambs shall be offered morning and evening, and “where I will meet you, to speak there unto thee” (29:42). Here Yahweh spoke with Moses “face to face, as a man speaketh unto his friend” (Ex. 33:9-11). He also met with the people here: “and there I will meet with the children of Israel” (Ex. 29:43). It seems that individuals could hear from Yahweh in response to their seeking Him at the door of meeting in Exodus 33:7. This is the place where the entire contents of Leviticus are represented as being delivered to Moses by Yahweh (Lev. 1:1). This was the place where Yahweh and His people met. All had access to Him.

27:2. The horns of it (the altar): The bronze altar of burnt offering was also an altar with horns. An excellent example of such a horned altar has been discovered at Beer-sheba, dating to the eighth century B.C. In Leviticus 4:7, 10, 18 this altar is named “the altar of the burnt offering.” The position of this altar near the entrance of the main court indicates very clearly the absolute necessity for blood atonement before real fellowship can be initiated with an infinitely holy God. The slaughter of animals was a vivid reminder to Israel that sin indeed requires a high price. The horns were used to bind the sacrificial animals (Ps. 118:27).

20 And ^athou shalt command the children of Israel, that they bring thee pure oil olive beaten for the light, to cause the lamp to ¹burn always.

The tabernacle was to provide a place where God might dwell among his people. The term tabernacle sometimes refers to the tent, including the Holy Place and the Most Holy Place, which was covered with embroidered curtains. But in other places it refers to the entire complex, including the curtained court in which the tent stood.

The illustration below shows the relative positions of the tabernacle furniture used in Israelite worship. The tabernacle is enlarged for clarity.

THE PLAN OF THE TABERNACLE

11 With the work of an ^aengraver in stone, like the engravings of a signet, shalt thou engrave the two stones with the names of the children of Israel: thou shalt make them to be set in ¹ouches of gold.

12 And thou shalt put the two stones upon the shoulders of the ephod for stones of memorial unto the children of Israel: and ^aAaron shall bear their names before the LORD upon his two shoulders ^bfor a memorial.

13 And thou shalt make ouches of gold;

14 And two chains of pure gold at the ends; of wreathen work shalt thou make them, and fasten the wreathen chains to the ouches.

19 And the third row a ¹ligure, an agate, and an amethyst.

20 And the fourth row a ¹beryl, and an ²onyx, and a jasper: they shall be set in gold in their ³inclosings.

21 And the stones shall be with the names of the children of Israel, twelve, according to their names, like the engravings of a signet; every one with his name shall they be according to the twelve tribes.

22 And thou shalt make upon the breastplate chains at the ends of ¹wreathen work of pure gold.

23 And thou shalt make upon the breastplate two rings of gold, and shalt put the two rings on the two ends of the breastplate.

24 And thou shalt put the two wreathen chains of gold in the two rings which are on the ends of the breastplate.

25 And the other two ends of the two wreathen chains thou shalt fasten in the two ouches, and put them on the shoulderpieces of the ephod before it.

26 And thou shalt make two rings of gold, and thou shalt put them upon the two ends of the breastplate in the border thereof, which is in the side of the ephod inward.

27 And two other rings of gold thou shalt make, and shalt put them on the two sides of the ephod underneath, toward the forefront thereof, over against the other coupling thereof, above the ¹curious girdle of the ephod.

28:30. Urim and the Thummim: The purpose for the breastplate was for judgment (cf. v. 15). The Urim and Thummim were deposited in the pouch and functioned as sacred lots used as the means of making judgments (v. 30). The word Urim begins with the first letter of the Hebrew alphabet and Thummim begins with the last letter. This may imply the lots were restricted to giving either positive or negative responses to questions asked of them. A good translation of the terms into English is "curses and perfections," meaning that if Urim dominated when the lots were cast, the answer would be "no"; but if Thummim dominated, the answer would be "yes." We do not know how many there were, what they looked like, or exactly how they were used. There were numerous instances in the Old Testament where they were employed, even though it was not always explicitly stated in such cases. It was not like throwing dice, because the results were not determined by chance. The priest knew that the lots' outcome was "of the LORD" (Prov. 16:33). Acts 1:23-26 is the last mention of a divine decision mediated through lots. When the Holy Spirit came in power on the Day of Pentecost (Acts 2:1-4) the need for the casting of lots disappeared.

place; that they ^bbear¹ not iniquity, and die: it shall be a statute for ever unto him and his seed after him.

Anointing of Priests

29 And this is the thing that thou shalt do unto them to hallow them, to minister unto me in the priest's office: *a*Take one young bullock, and two rams without blemish,
2 And *a*unleavened bread, and cakes unleavened tempered with oil, and wafers unleavened anointed with oil: of wheaten flour shalt thou make them.

3 And thou shalt put them into one basket, and bring them in the basket, with the bullock and the two rams.

4 And Aaron and his sons thou shalt bring unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, *a*and shalt wash them with water.

5 *a*And thou shalt take the garments, and put upon Aaron the coat, and the robe of the ephod, and the ephod, and the breastplate, and gird him with ^bthe curious girdle of the ephod:

6 *a*And thou shalt put the mitre upon his head, and put the holy crown upon the mitre.

7 Then shalt thou take the anointing *a*oil, and pour it upon his head, and anoint him.

8 And *a*thou shalt bring his sons, and put coats upon them.

9 And thou shalt gird them with girdles, Aaron and his sons, and put the bonnets on them: and *a*the priest's office shall be their's for a perpetual statute: and thou shalt ^bconsecrate Aaron and his sons.

The Bullock

10 And thou shalt cause a bullock to be brought before the tabernacle of the congregation: and *a*Aaron and his sons shall put their hands upon the head of the bullock.

11 And thou shalt kill the bullock before the LORD, by the door of the tabernacle of the congregation.

12 And thou shalt take of the blood of the bullock, and put it upon *a*the horns of the altar with thy finger,

A Wave Offering

22 Also thou shalt take of the ram the fat and the rump, and the fat that covereth the inwards, and the caul above the liver, and the two kidneys, and the fat that is upon them, and the right shoulder; for it is a ram of consecration:

25 ^aAnd thou shalt receive them of their hands, and burn them upon the altar for a burnt offering, for a sweet savour before the LORD: it is an offering made by fire unto the LORD.

26 And thou shalt take ^athe breast of the ram of Aaron's consecration, and wave it for a wave offering before the LORD: and it shall be thy part.

27 And thou shalt sanctify ^athe breast of the wave offering, and the shoulder of the heave offering, which is waved, and which is ¹heaved up, of the ram of the consecration, even of that which is for Aaron, and of that which is for his sons:

10 And ^aAaron shall make an atonement upon the horns of it once in a year with the blood of the sin offering of atonements: once in the year shall he make atonement upon it throughout your generations: it is most holy unto the LORD.

The Atonement Offering

11 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

12 ^aWhen thou takest the sum of the children of Israel after their number, then shall they give every man ^ba ¹ransom for his soul unto the LORD, when thou numberest them; that there be no ^cplague among them, when thou numberest them.

13 ^aThis they shall give, every one that passeth among them that are numbered, half a shekel after the shekel of the sanctuary: (^ba shekel is twenty gerahs:) ^can half shekel shall be the offering of the LORD.

14 Every one that passeth among them that are numbered, from twenty years old and above, shall give an ¹offering unto the LORD.

30:1-10. Altar to burn incense: The position of the altar was to be in the Holy Place, in front of the veil that is by the ark of the testimony, before the mercy seat that is over the testimony, where I will meet with thee. Hebrews 9:3, 4 notes that the altar of incense was considered as belonging to the Most Holy Place. This was the first place the priests came as they approached the sacred presence of God above the mercy seat. The priests were not permitted to go beyond that point except on the Day of Atonement. Aaron and his sons were responsible for offering a perpetual incense upon it in the morning and in the evening. Offering strange incense (that is, incense not composed like that in vv. 34, 35) was strictly forbidden. In Scripture, incense often symbolizes prayer and communion with God the Father (Ps. 141:2; Luke 1:10; Rev. 5:8; 8:3, 4). The continual burning is an example of the necessity for continuous and persistent prayer (cf. Ps. 16:8; 55:17; 1 Thess. 5:17, 18). Incense, or perfume, denotes that which produces a sweet-smelling odor when burned (cf. Prov. 27:9). The spice frankincense (lebōna) may be used as an incense.

15 The ^arich shall not give more, and the poor shall not give less than half a shekel, when they give an offering unto the LORD, to make an atonement for your souls.

16 And thou shalt take the atonement money of the children of Israel, and ^ashalt ¹appoint it for the service of the tabernacle of the congregation; that it may be ^ba memorial unto the children of Israel before the LORD, to make an atonement for your souls.

The Brass Laver

17 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

18 ^aThou shalt also make a ¹laver of brass, and his foot also of brass, to wash withal: and thou shalt ^bput it between the tabernacle of the congregation and the altar, and thou shalt put water therein.

19 For Aaron and his sons ^ashall wash their hands and their feet thereat:

20 When they go into the tabernacle of the congregation, they shall wash with water, that they die not; or when they come near to the altar to minister, to burn offering made by fire unto the LORD:

21 So they shall wash their hands and their feet, that they die not: and ^ait shall be a ¹statute for ever to them, even to him and to his ²seed throughout their generations.

The Holy Anointing Oil

22 Moreover the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

23 Take thou also unto thee ^aprincipal spices, of pure ^bmyrrh five hundred shekels, and of sweet cinnamon half so much, even two hundred and fifty shekels, and of sweet ^ccalamus two hundred and fifty shekels,

The Sweet Incense

34 And the LORD said unto Moses, ^aTake unto thee sweet spices, stacte, and onycha, and galbanum; these sweet spices with pure frankincense: of each shall there be a like weight:

35 And thou shalt make it a perfume, a confection ^aafter the art of the ¹apothecary, ²tempered together, pure and holy:

30:18. Laver of brass: This is the laver of cleansing located between the altar of burnt offering and the door of the tabernacle. It was actually made of bronze and set aside for ceremonial washing of the priests before they entered the Holy Place. The symbolic meaning is indeed significant and precious. It provided a type of cleansing that served to maintain fitness for a spiritual ministry. The altar of sacrifice dealt with the priests' guilt, but something else was required for effective fellowship and worship in the tabernacle. The blood did not remove the defilement of sin. So before one could enter the presence of a holy God, sin had to be taken care of (cf. Eph. 5:26; John 15:3 in the life of the believer today). We are freed from the guilt of sin and its penalty by the application of the blood (Rom. 5:9), but there remains defilement of sin that comes through daily living and is cleansed by the washing of the Word of God (John 13:10).

36 And thou shalt beat some of it very small, and put of it before the testimony in the tabernacle of the congregation, ^awhere I will meet with thee: ^bit shall be unto you most holy.

37 And as for the perfume which thou shalt make, ^aye shall not make to yourselves according to ¹the composition thereof: it shall be unto thee holy for the LORD.

38 ^aWhosoever shall make like unto that, to smell thereto, shall even be cut off from his people.

Keep the Sabbath Holy

12 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

13 Speak thou also unto the children of Israel, saying, ^aVerily my sabbaths ye shall keep: for it is a sign between me and you throughout your generations; that ye may know that I am the LORD that doth ^bsanctify¹ you.

16 Wherefore the children of Israel shall keep the sabbath, to observe the sabbath throughout their generations, for a perpetual covenant.

17 It is ^aa sign between me and the children of Israel for ever: for ^b*in* six days the LORD made heaven and earth, and on the seventh day he rested, and was refreshed.

Two Stone Tables

18 And he gave unto Moses, when he had made an end of communing with him upon mount Sinai, ^atwo tables of testimony, tables of stone, written with the finger of God.

31:3. And I have filled him with the spirit of God, in wisdom: The basic idea behind the Hebrew word for wisdom is skill. To gain wisdom means to develop the ability to live life skillfully and produce something of quality. This is the use here and in Exodus 36:1: "In whom the LORD put wisdom and understanding to know how to work all manner of work for the service of the sanctuary." Psalm 107:23-29 provides a good illustration as it relates to skilled mariners who were unable to cope with a severe storm. The phrase in verse 27, "and are at their wit's end," is literally "their wisdom [chökmah] is swallowed up." Their "skill" or "ability" to get themselves to shore had been reduced.

Israel's Golden Calf

32 And when the people saw that Moses ^adelayed to come down out of the mount, the people ^bgathered themselves together unto Aaron, and said unto him, ^cUp, make us ¹gods, which shall ^dgo before us; for as for this Moses, the man that ^ebrought us up out of the land of Egypt, we ²wot not what is become of him.

2 And Aaron said unto them, Break off the ^agolden earrings, which are in the ears of your wives, of your sons, and of your daughters, and bring them unto me.

3 And all the people brake off the golden earrings which were in their ears, and brought them unto Aaron.

4 ^aAnd he received them at their hand, and fashioned it with a graving tool, after he had made it a molten calf: and they said, These be thy gods, O Israel, which ^bbrought thee up out of the land of Egypt.

5 And when Aaron saw it, he built an altar before it; and Aaron made ^aproclamation, and said, To morrow is a feast to the LORD.

6 And they rose up early on the morrow, and offered burnt offerings, and brought peace offerings; and the people ^asat down to eat and to drink, and rose up to play.

Moses Intercedes for the People

11 ^aAnd Moses besought ¹the LORD his God, and said, LORD, why doth thy wrath wax hot against thy people, which thou hast brought forth out of the land of Egypt with great power, and with a mighty hand?

12 ^aWherefore should the Egyptians speak, and say, For ¹mischievous did he bring them out, to slay them in the mountains, and to consume them from the face of the earth? Turn from thy fierce wrath, and ^brepent² of this evil against thy people.

Stone Tables Broken by Moses

32:6. Rose up to play: The verb suggests illicit and immoral sexual activity in relation to those practices normally accompanying the fertility rites found among the Canaanites who worshiped the god Baal and his consort Ashtoreth. The same verb is used in Genesis 26:8 where it is said, "Abimelech ... saw ... Isaac was sporting with [caressing] Rebekah his wife." Most feel this involved conjugal caresses. The nakedness of the people in verse 25 seems to support further the conclusion that this included the sensuous fertility practices common to the peoples all around Israel. Note 1 Corinthians 10:7, 8, 13, and 14 for present-day application of these ancient teachings.

32:8. Molten calf: The people were unable to wait for Moses, and they broke the second commandment by persuading Aaron to make an image of God to satisfy their idolatrous lusts. Aaron sinfully submitted to their demand, and not only produced a replica of the familiar Egyptian god Apis (god of nature), but called for a feast to the LORD (v. 5), which was really turned into the abominable orgy mentioned above.

32:10. I will make of thee a great nation: Even as our Lord tested the devotion of two of His disciples (Luke 24:28), so here God tested Moses' singleness of purpose.

16 And the ^atables were the work of God, and the writing was the writing of God, graven upon the tables.

17 And when Joshua heard the noise of the people as they shouted, he said unto Moses, There is a noise of war in the camp.

18 And he said, It is not the voice of them that shout for mastery, neither is it the voice of them that cry for being overcome: but the ¹noise of them that sing do I hear.

19 And it came to pass, as soon as he came nigh unto the camp, that ^ahe saw the calf, and the dancing: and Moses' anger waxed hot, and he cast the tables out of his hands, and brake them beneath the mount.

Idolaters Slain by Sons of Levi

25 And when Moses saw that the people were ^anaked; (for Aaron ^bhad made them naked unto their shame among their enemies:)

26 Then Moses stood in the gate of the camp, and said, Who is on the LORD's side? let him come unto me. And all the sons of Levi gathered themselves together unto him.

27 And he said unto them, Thus saith the LORD God of Israel, Put every man his sword by his side, and go in and out from gate to gate throughout the camp, and ^aslay every man his brother, and every man his companion, and every man his neighbour.

28 And the children of Levi did according to the word of Moses: and there fell of the people that day about three thousand men.

29 ^aFor Moses had said, ¹Consecrate yourselves to day to the LORD, even every man upon his son, and upon his brother; that he may bestow upon you a blessing this day.

Moses Pleads for Israel

30 And it came to pass on the morrow, that Moses said unto the people, ^aYe have sinned a great sin: and now I will go up unto the LORD; ^bperadventure¹ I shall ^cmake an atonement for your sin.

31 And Moses ^areturned unto the LORD, and said, Oh, this people have sinned a great sin, and have ^bmade them gods of gold.

32 Yet now, if thou wilt forgive their sin—; and if not, ^ablot me, I pray thee, ^bout of thy book which thou hast written.

32:32. Blot me, I pray thee, out of thy book which thou hast written: The identity of this book has been the subject of considerable debate. Some take it as a reference to the Book of Life in which the names of believers are recorded. Others see it as a register of living men, with reference to only earthly life. Thus, to be blotted out would entail an untimely death, to die prematurely. A third view is that it refers to those who would enter the Promised Land. Some see Paul's reference in Romans 9:3, 4 as being similar to Moses' request, that is, to be separated from God forever for the sake of his Israelite countrymen. Note that in Romans 9:3 the phrase "I could wish" faithfully brings out the idiomatic construction used here for stating an impossible wish. Paul could not actually become anathema from Christ, since chapter 8 of Romans proclaims that impossible. The statement by God in verse 33 would seem to indicate that the reference is to temporal life and not eternal, in addition to the context in which three thousand men fell in that day. Note: "Whosoever hath sinned against me, him will I blot out of my book."

33 And the LORD said unto Moses, *a*Whosoever hath sinned against me, him will I *b*blot out of my book.

34 Therefore now go, lead the people unto the place of which I have *a*spoken unto thee: *b*behold, mine Angel shall go before thee: nevertheless *c*in the day when I *d*visit¹ I will *2*visit their sin upon them.

35 And the LORD plagued the people, because *a*they made the calf, which Aaron made.

Israel to Resume Their Journey

33 And the LORD said unto Moses, Depart, and go up hence, thou *a*and the people which thou hast brought up out of the land of Egypt, unto the land which I swear unto Abraham, to Isaac, and to Jacob, saying, *b*Unto thy seed will I give it:

2 *a*And I will send an angel before thee; *b*and I will drive out the Canaanite, and the Amorite, and the Hittite, and the Perizzite, the Hivite, and the Jebusite:

3 *a*Unto a land flowing with milk and honey: for I will not go up in the midst of thee; for thou art a *b*stiff-necked¹ people: lest *c*I *2*consume thee in the way.

4 And when the people heard these evil tidings, *a*they mourned: *b*and no man did put on him his ornaments.

5 For the LORD had said unto Moses, Say unto the children of Israel, Ye are a stiffnecked people: I will come up into the midst of thee in a moment, and consume thee: therefore now put off thy *1*ornaments from thee, that I may *a*know what to do unto thee.

20 And he said, Thou canst not see my face: for ^athere shall no man see me, and live.

21 And the LORD said, Behold, there is a place by me, and thou shalt stand upon a rock:

22 And it shall come to pass, while my glory passeth by, that I will put thee ^ain a cliff of the rock, and will ^bcover thee with my hand while I pass by:

23 And I will take away mine hand, and thou shalt see my back parts: but my face shall ^anot be seen.

The Second Tables of Stone

34 And the LORD said unto Moses, ^a"Hew¹ thee two tables of stone like unto the first: and ^bI will write upon these tables the words that were in the first tables, which thou brakest.

2 And be ready in the morning, and come up in the morning unto mount Sinai, and present thyself there to me ^ain the top of the mount.

3 And no man shall ^acome up with thee, neither let any man be seen throughout all the mount; neither let the flocks nor herds feed before that mount.

4 And he hewed two tables of stone like unto the first; and Moses rose up early in the morning, and went up unto mount Sinai, as the LORD had commanded him, and took in his hand the two tables of stone.

Recording the Covenant

27 And the LORD said unto Moses, Write thou ^athese words: for ¹after the tenor of these words I have made a covenant with thee and with Israel.

28 ^aAnd he was there with the LORD forty days and forty nights; he did neither eat bread, nor drink water. And ^bhe wrote upon the tables the words of the covenant, the ¹ten commandments.

Moses' Face Shines

29 And it came to pass, when Moses came down from mount Sinai with the ^atwo tables of testimony in Moses' hand, when he came down from the mount, that Moses ¹wist not that ^bthe skin of his face shone while he talked with him.

30 And when Aaron and all the children of Israel saw Moses, behold, the skin of his face shone; and they were afraid to come nigh him.

31 And Moses called unto them; and Aaron and all the rulers of the congregation returned unto him: and Moses talked with them.

32 And afterward all the children of Israel came nigh: ^aand he gave them in commandment all that the LORD had spoken with him in mount Sinai.

34:33. And till Moses had done speaking with them, he put a veil on his face: From this time onward the veil became part of his ordinary dress. Only two occasions were exceptions: (1) When he was alone with God, and (2) when he had a message for the people from God. According to Paul in 2 Corinthians 3:13, the reason for this veil was so that the Israelites could not see "the end of that which is abolished," or "the end of what was passing away." Three important truths are taught by the veil: (1) The veil typified the veiled glory of the Old Covenant in contrast to the unveiled and abiding glory of the New Covenant. The full and majestic revelation of God's glory was to be witnessed in the New Testament period (2 Cor. 3:13). (2) It represented the veil that was on the heart of the Hebrews of his day, symbolizing their spiritual blindness (2 Cor. 3:14-16). (3) The final reference to the veil is found in 2 Corinthians 3:18, and applies to the unveiled vision given to the believer by the ministry of the Holy Spirit. Every believer is in the process of being changed into the image of his Lord as a result of the new life within him.

33 And till Moses had done speaking with them, he put ^aa veil on his face.

34 But ^awhen Moses went in before the LORD to speak with him, he took the veil off, until he came out. And he came out, and spake unto the children of Israel that which he was commanded.

35 And the children of Israel saw the face of Moses, that the skin of Moses' face shone: and Moses put the veil upon his face again, until he went in to speak with him.

Sabbath Observance

35 And Moses gathered all the congregation of the children of Israel together, and said unto them, ^aThese are the words which the LORD hath commanded, that ye should do them.

2 ^aSix days shall work be done, but on the seventh day there shall be to you an holy day, a sabbath of rest to the LORD: whosoever doeth work therein shall be put to ^bdeath.

3 ^aYe shall kindle no fire throughout your habitations upon the sabbath day.

The People Bring Their Offerings

20 And all the congregation of the children of Israel departed from the presence of Moses.

21 And they came, every one ^awhose heart ¹stirred him up, and every one whom his spirit made willing, and they ^bbrought the LORD's offering to the work of the tabernacle of the congregation, and for all his service, and for the holy garments.

22 And they came, both men and women, as many as were willing hearted, and brought bracelets, and ^aearrings, and rings, and tablets, all ^bjewels of gold: and every man that offered offered an offering of gold unto the LORD.

23 And ^aevery man, with whom was found blue, and purple, and scarlet, and fine linen, and goats' hair, and red skins of rams, and badgers' skins, brought them.

24 Every one that did offer an offering of silver and brass brought the LORD's offering: and every man, with whom was found shittim wood for any work of the service, brought it.

25 And all the women that were ^awise¹ hearted did spin with their hands, and brought that which they had spun, both of blue, and of purple, and of scarlet, and of fine linen.

26 And all the women whose heart ¹stirred them up in wisdom spun goats' hair.

27 And ^athe rulers brought onyx stones, and stones to be set, for the ephod, and for the breastplate;

28 And ^aspice, and oil for the light, and for the anointing oil, and for the sweet incense.

29 The children of Israel brought a ^awilling¹ offering unto the LORD, every man and woman, whose heart made them willing to bring for all manner of work, which the LORD had commanded to be made by the hand of Moses.

Workmen Receive Offerings

36 Then wrought Bezaleel and Aholiab, and every ^awise hearted man, in whom the LORD put wisdom and understanding to know how to work all manner of work for the service of the ^bsanctuary,¹ according to all that the LORD had commanded.

2 And Moses called Bezaleel and Aholiab, and every wise hearted man, in whose heart the LORD had put wisdom, even every one ^awhose heart ¹stirred him up to come unto the work to do it:

3 And they received of Moses all the ^aoffering, which the children of Israel ^bhad brought for the work of the service of the sanctuary, to make it withal. And they brought yet unto him free offerings every morning.

4 And all the wise men, that wrought all the work of the sanctuary, came every man from his work which they made;

An Abundance of Offerings

5 And they spake unto Moses, saying, ^aThe people bring much more than enough for the service of the work, which the LORD commanded to make.

6 And Moses gave commandment, and they caused it to be proclaimed throughout the camp, saying, Let neither man nor woman make any more work for the offering of the sanctuary. So the people were restrained from bringing.

7 For the stuff they had was sufficient for all the work to make it, and too ^amuch.

The Curtains of Fine Linen

8 ^aAnd every ¹wise hearted man among them that wrought the work of the tabernacle made ten curtains of fine twined linen, and blue, and purple, and scarlet: with cherubims of ²cunning work made he them.

9 The length of one curtain was twenty and eight cubits, and the breadth of one curtain four cubits: the curtains were all of one size.

10 And he coupled the five curtains one unto another: and the other five curtains he coupled one unto another.

11 And he made loops of blue on the edge of one curtain ¹from the selvedge in the coupling: likewise he made in the uttermost side of another curtain, in the coupling of the second.

12 ^aFifty loops made he in one curtain, and fifty loops made he in the edge of the curtain which was in the coupling of the second: the loops held one curtain to another.

13 And he made fifty ¹taches of gold, and coupled the curtains one unto another with the taches: so it became one tabernacle.

The Curtains of Goats' Hair

14 ^aAnd he made curtains of goats' hair for the tent over the tabernacle: eleven curtains he made them.

15 The length of one curtain was thirty cubits, and four cubits was the breadth of one curtain: the eleven curtains were of one size.

16 And he coupled five curtains by themselves, and six curtains by themselves.

17 And he made fifty loops upon the uttermost edge of the curtain in the ¹coupling, and fifty loops made he upon the edge of the curtain which coupleth the second.

18 And he made fifty taches of brass to couple the tent together, that it might be one.

The Covering and the Boards

19 ^aAnd he made a covering for the tent of rams' skins dyed red, and a covering of ¹badgers' skins above that.

20 ^aAnd he made boards for the tabernacle of shittim wood, standing up.

21 The length of a board was ten cubits, and the breadth of a board one cubit and a half.

22 One board had two ¹tenons, ^aequally distant one from another: thus did he make for all the boards of the tabernacle.

26 And their forty sockets of silver; two sockets under one board, and two sockets under another board.

27 And for the sides of the tabernacle westward he made six boards.

28 And two boards made he for the corners of the tabernacle in the two sides.

29 And they were ¹coupled beneath, and coupled together at the head thereof, to one ring: thus he did to both of them in both the corners.

30 And there were eight boards; and their sockets were sixteen sockets of silver, under every board two sockets.

The Bars of Shittim Wood

31 And he made ^abars of shittim wood; five for the boards of the one side of the tabernacle,

32 And five bars for the boards of the other side of the tabernacle, and five bars for the boards of the tabernacle for the sides westward.

33 And he made the middle bar to ¹shoot through the boards from the one end to the other.

34 And he overlaid the boards with gold, and made their rings of gold to be places for the bars, and overlaid the bars with gold.

12 Also he made thereunto a border of an handbreadth round about; and made a crown of gold for the border thereof round about.

13 And he cast for it four rings of gold, and put the rings upon the four corners that were in the four feet thereof.

14 Over against the border were the rings, the places for the staves to bear the table.

15 And he made the staves of shittim wood, and overlaid them with gold, to bear the table.

16 And he made the vessels which were upon the table, his ^adishes, and his spoons, and his bowls, and his covers to cover ¹withal, of pure gold.

The Candlestick of Gold

17 And he made the ^acandlestick of pure gold: of beaten work made he the candlestick; his shaft, and his branch, his bowls, his knops, and his flowers, were of the same:

18 And six branches going out of the sides thereof; three branches of the candlestick out of the one side thereof, and three branches of the candlestick out of the other side thereof:

19 Three bowls made after the fashion of almonds in one branch, 37:17-24. The golden candlestick (lit., lampstand) was one of the most ornate objects in the Holy Place. It was made of pure gold and consisted of an upright shaft. From each side three branches extended upward in pairs. This type of lampstand is to be seen on the famous arch of Titus in Rome, built almost 14 centuries later. Similarly, pottery lamps with seven places for wicks are attested from various sites dating from the early Iron Age (1200-900 B.C.). The lamps of the lampstand were to be trimmed every evening at sunset and again in the morning (27:20, 21; 30:7, 8; Lev. 24:3, 4). All were never to be extinguished at one time.

A special ordinance was established to keep it supplied with pure olive oil (27:20; Lev. 24:2). The lampstand's practical function was to provide light for the priests who were serving in the Holy Place. But from a symbolic perspective, it quite clearly typifies the Lord Jesus Christ, who is the true Light (John 1:6-9; 8:12). Believers in this age are "the light of the world" (Matt. 5:14). In the Book of Revelation the church is symbolized by the golden lampstand (Rev. 1:10-20). Many have found the oil to be a representation of the Holy Spirit and the gold to symbolize the deity of Christ. Some have estimated its worth to be around $34,000.

20 And in the candlestick were four bowls made like almonds, his knops, and his flowers:

21 And a knop under two branches of the same, and a knop under two branches of the same, and a knop under two branches of the same, according to the six branches going out of it.

22 Their knops and their branches were of the same: all of it was one beaten work of pure gold.

23 And he made his seven lamps, and his ^asnuffers, and his snuff-dishes, of pure gold.

24 Of a talent of pure gold made he it, and all the vessels thereof.

The Altar of Incense

25 ^aAnd he made the incense altar of shittim wood: the length of it was a cubit, and the breadth of it a cubit; it was foursquare; and two cubits was the height of it; the horns thereof were of the same.

26 And he overlaid it with pure gold, both the top of it, and the sides thereof round about, and the horns of it: also he made unto it a crown of gold round about.

27 And he made two rings of gold for it under the crown thereof, by the two corners of it, upon the two sides thereof, to be places for the staves to bear it ¹withal.

28 And he ^amade the staves of shittim wood, and overlaid them with gold.

29 And he made ^athe holy anointing oil, and the pure incense of sweet spices, according to the work of the ¹apothecary.

The Altar of Burnt Offering

38 And ^ahe made the altar of burnt offering of shittim wood: five cubits was the length thereof, and five cubits the breadth thereof; it was foursquare; and three cubits the height thereof.

4 And he made for the altar a brasen grate of network under the compass thereof beneath unto the midst of it.

5 And he cast four rings for the four ends of the grate of brass, to be places for the staves.

6 And he made the staves of shittim wood, and overlaid them with brass.

7 And he put the staves into the rings on the sides of the altar, to bear it withal; he made the altar hollow with boards.

The Brass Laver

8 And he made ^athe laver of brass, and the foot of it of brass, of the ¹lookingglasses of the women assembling, which assembled at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation.

The Court

9 And he made ^athe court: on the south side southward the hangings of the court were of fine twined linen, an hundred cubits:

10 Their pillars were twenty, and their brasen sockets twenty; the hooks of the pillars and their fillets were of silver.

11 And for the north side the hangings were an hundred cubits, their pillars were twenty, and their sockets of brass twenty; the hooks of the pillars and their fillets of silver.

12 And for the west side were hangings of fifty cubits, their pillars ten, and their sockets ten; the hooks of the pillars and their fillets of silver.

13 And for the east side eastward fifty cubits.

14 The hangings of the one side of the gate were fifteen cubits; their pillars three, and their sockets three.

27 And of the hundred talents of silver were cast ^athe sockets of the sanctuary, and the sockets of the vail; an hundred sockets of the hundred talents, a talent for a socket.

28 And of the thousand seven hundred seventy and five shekels he made hooks for the pillars, and overlaid their ¹chapters, and ^afilleted them.

29 And the brass of the offering was seventy talents, and two thousand and four hundred shekels.

30 And therewith he made the sockets to the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, and the brasen altar, and the brasen grate for it, and all the vessels of the altar,

31 And the sockets of the court round about, and the sockets of the court gate, and all the pins of the tabernacle, and all the pins of the court round about.

38:21. Tabernacle of testimony: This is the Hebrew phrase mishkan ha'edut, translated "the tabernacle of testimony" (cf. Num. 17:7). In Numbers 9:15 it is "tent of the testimony." These designations came as a result of the two tables that were placed in the ark which stood in the innermost sanctuary (cf. 25:21, 22 and discussion). Thus the whole tabernacle was appropriately called the tabernacle or tent of the testimony.

38:24-31. Someone has calculated that the amount of gold listed here, 29 talents, 730 shekels, is about 40,940 ounces. At $500 per ounce that would be about $20,470,000, an enormous sum in that day. The silver, amounting to about 141,000 ounces, would be valued at about $4,230,000, figuring silver at $30 per ounce.

The Ephod

2 ^aAnd he made the ^bephod of gold, blue, and purple, and scarlet, and fine twined linen.

3 And they did beat the gold into thin plates, and cut it into wires, to work it in the blue, and in the purple, and in the scarlet, and in the fine linen, with ¹cunning work.

4 They made shoulderpieces for it, to couple it together: by the two edges was it coupled together.

The Girdle

5 And the curious girdle of his ephod, that was upon it, was of the same, according to the work thereof; of gold, blue, and purple, and scarlet, and fine twined linen; as the LORD commanded Moses.

6 ^aAnd they wrought onyx stones inclosed in ¹ouches of gold, graven, as signets are graven, with the names of the children of Israel.

7 And he put them on the shoulders of the ephod, that they should be stones for a ^amemorial to the children of Israel; as the LORD commanded Moses.

The Breastplate

8 ^aAnd he made the breastplate of cunning work, like the work of the ephod; of gold, blue, and purple, and scarlet, and fine twined linen.

9 It was foursquare; they made the breastplate double: a span was the length thereof, and a span the breadth thereof, being doubled.

10 ^aAnd they set in it four rows of stones: the first row was a ¹sardius, a topaz, and a carbuncle: this was the first row.

11 And the second row, an emerald, a sapphire, and a diamond.

12 And the third row, a figure, an agate, and an amethyst.

13 And the fourth row, a beryl, an onyx, and a jasper: they were inclosed in ¹ouches of gold in their inclosings.

14 And the stones were according to the names of the children of Israel, ^atwelve, according to their names, like the engravings of a signet, every one with his name, according to the twelve tribes.

Instructions for the Tabernacle

40 And the LORD ^aspoke unto Moses, saying,

2 On the first day of the ^afirst month shalt thou set up ^bthe tabernacle of the tent of the congregation.

3 And ^athou shalt put therein the ark of the testimony, and ¹cover the ark with the vail.

4 And ^athou shalt bring in the table, and ^bset in order the things that are to be set in order upon it; ^cand thou shalt bring in the candlestick, and ¹light the lamps thereof.

5 ^aAnd thou shalt set the altar of gold for the incense before the ark of the testimony, and put the hanging of the door to the tabernacle.

6 And thou shalt set the ^aaltar of the burnt offering before the door of the tabernacle of the tent of the congregation.

7 And ^athou shalt set the laver between the tent of the congregation and the altar, and shalt put water therein.

8 And thou shalt set up the court round about, and hang up the hanging at the court gate.

Anointing the Tabernacle

9 And thou shalt take the anointing oil, and ^aanoint the tabernacle, and all that is therein, and shalt hallow it, and all the vessels thereof: and it shall be holy.

10 And thou shalt ^aanoint the altar of the burnt offering, and all his vessels, and ^bsanctify the altar: and ^bit shall be an altar most holy.

11 And thou shalt anoint the laver and his foot, and sanctify it.

Aaron and Sons Anointed

12 ^aAnd thou shalt bring Aaron and his sons unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, and wash them with water.

13 And thou shalt put upon Aaron the holy ^agarments, ^band anoint him, and sanctify him; that he may minister unto me in the priest's office.

14 And thou shalt bring his sons, and clothe them with coats:

15 And thou shalt anoint them, as thou didst anoint their father, that they may minister unto me in the priest's office: for their anointing shall surely be ^aan everlasting priesthood throughout their generations.

16 Thus did Moses: according to all that the LORD commanded him, so did he.

Setting Up the Tabernacle

17 And it came to pass in the first month in the second year, on the first day of the month, that the ^atabernacle was ^areared up.

18 And Moses reared up the tabernacle, and fastened his sockets, and set up the boards thereof, and put in the bars thereof, and reared up his pillars.

19 And he spread abroad the tent over the tabernacle, and put the covering of the tent above upon it; as the LORD commanded Moses.

20 And he took and put ^athe testimony into the ark, and set the staves on the ark, and put the mercy seat above upon the ark:

40:17. The tabernacle was set up one year after the Exodus from Egypt (cf. 12:2) and nine months after Israel's arrival at Sinai (19:1).

40:34-38. The cloud of God's glory and presence showed His approval of the completed tabernacle. He was now dwelling with His people just as He had promised in 33:14. That is still His desire today, because our bodies can be transformed into His holy temples by means of the New Birth (John 14:23; 1 Cor. 6:19, 20). The Book of Revelation ends on this theme when it says, "Behold, the tabernacle of God is with men, and he will dwell with them, and they shall be his people, and God himself shall be with them, and be their God" (Rev. 21:3). The cloud led Israel during all their journeys through the wilderness, and apparently into Canaan itself.

The Glory of the Lord

34 ^aThen a ^bcloud covered the tent of the congregation, and the ^cglory of the LORD filled the tabernacle.

The Third Book of Moses Called LEVITICUS

Leviticus 1:1 says that “the LORD called unto Moses, and spake unto him out of the tabernacle of the congregation” (or “tent of meeting”) which reminds one that Leviticus is the sequel to Exodus. Exodus ended with the erection of the tabernacle and God appearing in a cloud over the tent of meeting, the tent at the center of the tabernacle housing the ark and other sacred furniture (Ex. 40:16–38). The laws in Leviticus form part of a historical narrative. They are recorded to show how Israel became the nation it did. They show what was involved in being called to be the people of God. They illustrate how God’s covenant purpose to make them “a kingdom of priests, and an holy nation” (Ex. 19:6) was worked out in an all-embracing system of religious services and social law.

At least four important themes appear in this book that directly relate to the Book of Exodus, its recording of the Sinai covenant, and the erection of the tabernacle. The first concept is the presence of God in Israelite worship, as repeatedly the ceremonies take place “before the LORD,” and the food offerings make “a sweet savour unto the LORD” (e.g., 1:9, 13, 17; 2:9; 3:5). This concept extends to all times, even in the mundane duties of life.

Second, the concept of holiness is the motto of Leviticus: “Be holy, for I am holy” (11:44, 45; 19:2; 20:26). Holy (qadōsh) and its cognate terms—for example, sanctify, holiness—occur 152 times in Leviticus or about 20 percent of the total occurrences in the Old Testament. Unclean (tamē) and its cognates occur 132 times, or more than 50 percent of the total Old Testament occurrences. Clean (tahōr) and related terms occur 74 times, or about 35 percent of the total Old Testament occurrences. Profane (ehilēl) occurs 14 times in Leviticus out of 66 references in the Old Testament. In addition to these statistics, the language of sacrifice pervades the book. The word sacrifice occurs about 40 times, priest is found about 190 times, blood about 85 times, and atonement about 45 times.

The third major concept emphasized is the role of sacrifice as Hebrews 9:22 says, “Almost all things are by the law purged with blood; and without shedding of blood is no remission.” The first 17 chapters in Leviticus are devoted to explaining the occasions for and the correct procedures to be followed in sacrifice.

The fourth area is that of the idea of the covenant. It is one of the fundamental presuppositions informing the theology of Leviticus. Leviticus is the sequel to Exodus. At the heart of Exodus (chs. 19–26) is the Sinai covenant. All that follows in Exodus is a working out of the covenant. Leviticus explains how covenant worship should be conducted (chs. 1–17), then how the covenant people should behave (chs. 18–25), and closes with a section of blessings and curses, which is entirely appropriate to a covenant document (ch. 26). Indeed the last verse of chapter 26 connects all that precedes with Sinai, where the covenant was concluded. “These are the statutes and judgments and laws, which the LORD made between him and the children of Israel in mount Sinai by the hand of Moses” (26:46).

Historical Setting. The Book of Exodus concludes with the erection of the tabernacle, which was constructed according to the pattern God gave to Moses. How was Israel to use the tabernacle? The instructions in Leviticus answer that question, and were given to Moses during the month and 20 days between the setting up of the tabernacle (Ex. 40:17) and the departure of the people from Sinai (Num. 10:11).

Authorship. It is recorded in the book that God revealed His instructions to Moses, but it never states that Moses wrote down what he heard. Thus the book's lack of explicitness about its literary origin is one reason for the great diversity of views among modern scholars. Some liberal scholars want to date the book in the fifth century, about a thousand years after the conservative date for Moses. Four strong arguments support a Mosaic authorship for the book. The first argument is that the book always presupposes that the laws were given to Moses in the wilderness. Time and again it is said, "The LORD spake unto Moses." The wilderness setting is not only referred to in the introduction to each group of laws, but it is often alluded to in the laws themselves. The sacrifices are offered in the tabernacle, and not in the temple (chs. 1–17); lepers must live outside the camp, not outside the city (13:46); and 17:1–9 presupposes that every Israelite is within easy reach of the tabernacle. Also, the land of Canaan is viewed as a future reality where laws are depicted that would apply only to a settled people (14:34; 18:3; 23:10; 25:2). Second, there is nothing in the book that could not date from the Mosaic period relating to sacrificial systems and elaborate rituals. Many of Israel's neighbors even used the same terms for sacrifice in the fifteenth century B.C. (cf. contemporary Ugarit documents from that area). Third, the book is unsuited to the needs of the postexilic age. Chapters 18 and 20 deal at length with the question of marriage, but nothing is said about intermarriage with Canaanites, which was the burning issue in Ezra and Nehemiah's time (Ezra 9, 10; Neh. 13:23–25). The priests of Nehemiah's day seem opposed to reform, whereas Leviticus magnifies the office of high priest. Also the tithe laws indicate about a ratio of 10 Levites to one priest in Leviticus, but Ezra 8:15 reveals that after the exile there was a great shortage of Levites. The lists in Ezra 2:36–61 and Nehemiah 7:39–45 suggest a ratio of 12 priests to one Levite among the returning exiles. Finally, the Book of Ezekiel quotes or alludes to Leviticus many times (cf. 10:10 with Ezek. 22:26; cf. 18:5 with Ezek. 20:11; cf. ch. 26 with Ezek. 34).

Burnt Offerings

1:1-9. And the LORD called unto Moses: The and connects Leviticus with the Book of Exodus, thus forming a continuous narrative. The expression is used in practically the same form 56 times in the 27 chapters. Yahweh, the covenant God, is now “summoning” Moses as in Exodus 24:16, since God is instructing Moses in connection with the sacrificial rituals and is not calling him in the sense in which Christ called His disciples (Matt. 4:19-21; Mark 1:17-20). God spoke to Moses out of the tabernacle of the congregation, which was the place where God appeared in the cloud and spoke to Moses as “a man speaketh unto his friend” (Ex. 33:11; Num. 12:8). Yahweh’s meeting Moses and Israel is often for the purpose of revelation (Ex. 29:42; 33:11; Num. 7:89).

The word mō’ed, “congregation,” designates an “assembly” in such a phrase as “princes of the assembly” (Num. 16:2). It is also the worshiping assembly of God’s people, hence Yahweh’s foes roar in the midst of His assemblies (Ps. 74:4). The same word has been discovered in an Egyptian source dated about 1100

B.C., referring to an assembly of the people of Byblus.

From the perspective of the “holy place,” God is revealing how Moses and the people are to approach Him. To bring an offering involves the Hebrew word qorban and is used here comprehensively of “that which is brought near.” It can be used of any offering, even of the Passover lamb (Num. 9:7, 13). It has also a limited, technical meaning as a gift brought or dedicated (Matt. 15:5; Mark 7:11) for use in the temple, in contrast with the holy gift, which was for the maintenance of the priesthood. It is that with which one draws near to God. It appears 80 times and only in Leviticus, Numbers, and Ezekiel (20:28; 40:43). God can be approached, and has always made a way possible for sinful man to approach Him formally.

The concept of a burnt sacrifice is presented first for significant reasons. It expressed “dedication.” The term means “that which ascends,” that is, to Yahweh. The entire sacrifice was consumed by fire on the altar, so that it was also described as the “whole burnt offering.” Of the other sacrifices, part was burned and part

CHRIST IN THE SACRIFICES

1:2. The sacrifice of Christ on Calvary is typologically portrayed in the five major sacrifices offered in the Old Testament. The whole burnt offering emphasizes Christ’s offering of Himself without spot to God in complete obedience to the will of God. The meal offering (meat in the archaic sense: food) emphasizes the balance, fragrance, and purity of that life which was offered. The peace offering emphasizes the reconciliation that was accomplished on the Cross. The sin and trespass offerings emphasize the atoning nature of Christ’s sacrifice, saving men from all sin—past, present, and future. Application: As we think of the complete sacrifice of Christ for our sin, we are reminded of our responsibility to give ourselves as living sacrifices to God. Meat Offerings

2 And when any will offer ^aa ¹meat offering unto the LORD, his offering shall be of fine flour; and he shall pour oil upon it, and put ^bfrankincense thereon:

was eaten by the priests or even by the offerer himself; but all the burnt offering ascended to God in flame and smoke. Thus, the Israelite was taught that entire consecration is essential to true worship.

The offerings were graded in value so that even the poorest worshipers who were conscious of their spiritual need might find access to God by coming in complete devotion. The offering was to be a male without blemish, indicating we are to bring the best we have to Him. The phrase of his own voluntary will is best translated "that he may be accepted." The proper place to offer the sacrifice was at the door of the tabernacle, that is, in the court near the brazen altar, not at home or elsewhere.

The act of putting his hand upon the head of the burnt offering expressed the surrender of the gift to God, the identification of the gift with the giver, and the transfer to the sacrifice of all that the worshiper owed to God. This offering would be accepted for him to make atonement for him. The word for "atonement" can mean "to cover over," and might even relate to the covering God provided for Adam and Eve through the shedding of the animal's blood in Genesis 3:21. This offering would "cover over" the worshiper's sin. It is not to be taken, as some do, in reference to atoning for unintentional sin in general or for original sin in particular. The dominant idea of this offering is not expiation, but dedication.

The offering was of a sweet savour unto the LORD, since this was what He had desired; therefore it was literally a "pleasing odor." In 6:8-13, this type of offering is to be presented for the people every morning and evening. The consecration God requires of His people is not merely once for all, but continuous, yet renewed consciously at the opening and the closing of each day. Note Psalm 40:6-8 and Romans 12:1, 2.

2:1-16. The meaning of a word changes in the course of time, and we have just such an instance here. The meat offering unto the LORD was the one offering that did not consist of "meat." It was the "meal offering," an offering of grain or cereals made of fine flour. The word translated "meat" means in Hebrew simply a "present." The primary idea of this offering is that of a gift presented to God as an act of worship. Yet, because this offering was the product of the soil and the result of human labor, it symbolized the consecration to God of the fruit of one's labor. This was in the form of food, and indicated that all our toil or our activities should be dedicated to God (cf. Eccl. 2:24, 25; 1 Cor. 10:31).

Offerings Seasoned with Salt

13 And every oblation of thy meat offering ^ashalt thou season with salt; neither shalt thou suffer ^bthe salt of the covenant of thy God to be lacking from thy meat offering: ^cwith all thine offerings thou shalt offer salt.

The ingredients included are significant. The oil was not only a usual constituent of daily food, but has been recognized as a symbol of the Holy Spirit. People who are dedicated to God can expect the power of His Spirit to guide, aid, and empower them on a daily basis. Frankincense was incense of high quality. It was white like the manna (Ex. 16:14; Num. 11:8) and symbolized prayer and praise. As one offered to God the work of his hands, it was sanctified by continual petition and thanksgiving. The memorial of it was burned before the Lord; the remainder was given to the priest as his support. His ministry was absolutely necessary if offerings were to be made. In 6:14-23, it is prescribed that a meal offering shall be presented by the priest for the whole people of Israel every morning and every evening. The reference to salt indicates that the act of sacrifice was a reminder of the eternal covenant relationship between the worshiper and his God. A "covenant of salt" was indissoluble (Num. 18:19). It began as necessary to a proper meal, but became an emblem of fidelity in the Near East, and thus the "salt of the covenant."

LEAVEN

2:11. Leaven is used throughout the Old Testament to represent sin, probably because of its degenerative influence. In the New Testament it usually signifies malice and wickedness, in contrast to sincerity and truth (1 Cor. 5:6-8). Illustration: Jesus identified three forms of leaven during His ministry. The leaven of the Pharisees was an unhealthy emphasis on the externalism (legalism) of religion (Matt. 23:14-16). The leaven of the Sadducees was their denial of the supernatural (Matt. 22:23, 29). The leaven of the Herodians was worldliness (Mark 3:6). Application: The corruptive influence of a little leaven emphasizes the need for churches to practice church discipline when sin becomes rampant in the lives of members of a congregation (1 Cor. 5:6, 7). (First Reference, Ex. 12:15; Primary Reference, Lev. 2:11; cf. 2 Thess. 2:3.)

3:1-17. The sacrifice of peace offering had as its essential feature the concept of "fellowship." This concept is indicated as part of the offering was laid on the altar and burned as a gift to the Lord, part was given to the priests, and the remainder was eaten by the worshiper. This seems to have been the supreme significance, for it expressed not only joy, peace, and gratitude, but also "sharing," joint participation, fellowship, and friendship. Such are the characteristics of true worship. The most valuable part of the animal, the fat, is the LORD's. This interpretation is based on a metaphorical sense of the term as signifying a particularly choice portion (Gen. 4:4; Deut. 32:14), and therefore in the sacrificial rituals the fat belonged by right to God alone.

The whole rump is the broad fat tail of a species of Palestinian sheep, esteemed a great delicacy, and so heavy that it needed support in a little wicker cart on wheels, attached to the sheep. Blood was certainly forbidden since it symbolized the life of the flesh (17:11).

Some see in the burning of the two kidneys, and the fat ... and the caul above the liver, a reference to the seat of emotions (Job 19:27; Ps. 16:7; Jer. 4:14; 12:2). This would symbolize the dedication of the worshiper's best and deepest emotions to God. These types of offerings were made quite frequently in emotional situations, when one made vows or found himself seeking God's deliverance or praising Him for His mercy.

flanks, and the caul above the liver, with the kidneys, it shall he take away.

16 And the priest shall burn them upon the altar: it is the food of the offering made by fire for a sweet savour: all the fat is the LORD's.

17 It shall be a "perpetual" statute for your generations throughout all your dwellings, that ye eat neither fat nor ^bblood.

Sin Offerings

4:1-35. The sin offering was not a voluntary sacrifice, as were the three sweet savor oblations in chapters 1-3. This offering was required of all—priests (vv. 3-12), the congregation as a whole (vv. 13-21), rulers (vv. 22-26), and common individuals (vv. 27-35). It made atonement for sins done through ignorance (bish-gagah) or unintentionally or inadvertently. A sin of this type may result from two causes: negligence or ignorance. Either the perpetrator knows the law but unintentionally violates it, as in the case of accidental homicide (Num. 35:22-28; Deut. 19:4-10; Josh. 20:2-6, 9); or he acts without knowing he has done wrong. Some illustrations of these sins would be: Genesis 20:9 (Abimelech's complaint to Abraham) and Numbers 22:34 (Balaam: "I have sinned; for I knew not that thou stoodest in the way against me"). In opposition to these sins are those committed with a "high hand" (Num. 15:30), for which there is no atonement by any means of sacrifice (Heb. 10:28).

The justice of God was shown, in that degrees of guilt were thus recognized. Not all sins were equally heinous. The sin offerings were of different kinds, according to the rank and responsibility of the offender. The priest that is anointed must bring a young bullock without blemish unto the LORD, which was the same for the whole congregation. A ruler was to bring a kid of the goats and one of the common people was to bring a kid or lamb. This did not indicate different standards of morality, but that there were degrees of responsibility corresponding with the rank and position of the people concerned. The sin of a ruler, because of his wide influence, might create a greater scandal and bring more reproach on the name of God than the sin of a private individual (2 Sam. 12:14; Ps. 51).

The act of "sprinkling the blood" also distinguished the different classes of offenders. When the high priest had sinned, the Holy Place needed to be cleansed by the sprinkled blood; so too for the congregation. When a ruler or one of the common people sinned, the blood of sacrifice was placed upon the horns of the altar of burnt offering which stood in the outer court of the tabernacle, where ruler and people worshiped. The disposal of the bodies marked another great difference in the classes of sin offerings. The fat and the most valuable portions were always burned on the brazen altar as an offering of "sweet savour" to God; but the flesh of sacrifices presented by rulers or members of the congregation was given to be eaten by priests, and the bodies of the other sin offerings were burned outside the camp.

15 And the elders of the congregation ^ashall lay their hands upon the head of the bullock before the LORD: and the bullock shall be killed before the LORD.

16 ^aAnd the priest that is anointed shall bring of the bullock's blood to the tabernacle of the congregation:

When an Individual Sins

27 And ^aif ¹any one of the ²common people sin through ignorance, while he doeth somewhat against any of the commandments of the LORD concerning things which ought not to be done, and be guilty;

The act of carrying forth without the camp unto a clean place and then being burned with fire seems to distinguish it from the burnt offering. Both were holy, but their meaning might have been confused. One symbolized dedication, the other expiation. Both were acceptable to God. Three examples of offenses that required a sin offering are given in 5:1-13. The first is that of one who withholds evidence by failing to "utter it." He had to "confess that he hath sinned" and then make appropriate restitution (6:5). The second offense involved contact with either unclean animals or persons (cf. ch. 11). The third example was one in which someone pronounced aloud ("with his lips") any kind of rash oath, perhaps without realizing fully the implications of what was being said. The combination of "evil ... good" is an ancient expression denoting totality. Hence the phrase could be translated "a rash oath to do anything at all" (cf. Eccl. 5:1-7).

28 Or ^aif his sin, which he hath sinned, come to his knowledge: then he shall bring his offering, a kid of the goats, a female without blemish, for his sin which he hath sinned.

29 ^aAnd he shall lay his hand upon the head of the sin offering, and ¹slay the sin offering in the place of the burnt offering.

30 And the priest shall take of the blood thereof with his finger, and put it upon the horns of the altar of burnt offering, and shall pour out all the blood thereof at the bottom of the altar.

31 And ^ahe shall take away all the fat thereof, ^bas the fat is taken away from off the sacrifice of peace offerings; and the priest shall burn it upon the altar for a ^csweet savour unto the LORD; ^dand the priest shall make an atonement for him, and it shall be forgiven him.

32 And if he bring a lamb for a sin offering, ^ahe shall bring it a female without blemish.

33 And he shall ^alay his hand upon the head of the sin offering, and slay it for a sin offering in the place where they kill the burnt offering.

34 And the priest shall take of the blood of the sin offering with his finger, and put it upon the horns of the altar of burnt offering, and shall pour out all the blood thereof at the bottom of the altar:

35 And he shall take away all the fat thereof, as the fat of the lamb is taken away from the sacrifice of the peace offerings; and the priest shall burn them upon the altar, ^aaccording to the offerings made by fire unto the LORD: ^band the priest shall make an atonement for his sin that he hath committed, and it shall be forgiven him.

Committing Sins Knowingly

6 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

2 If a ¹soul sin, and ^acommit a trespass against the LORD, and ^blie ²unto his neighbour in that ^cwhich was delivered him to keep, ³or in fellowship, ⁴or in a thing taken away by violence, ^aor hath ^ddeceived his neighbour;

3 Or ^ahave found that which was lost, and lieth concerning it, and ^bswareth falsely; in any of all these that a man doeth, sinning therein:

Making Restitution

4 Then it shall be, because he hath sinned, and is guilty, that he shall ¹restore ^athat which he took violently away, or the thing which he hath deceitfully gotten, or that which was delivered him to keep, or the lost thing which he found,

5 Or all that about which he hath sworn falsely; he shall even ^arestore it in the principal, and shall add the fifth part more thereto, and give it unto him to whom it ¹appertaineth, in the day of his trespass offering.

6 And he shall bring his trespass offering unto the LORD, ^aa ram without blemish out of the flock, with thy ¹estimation, for a trespass offering, unto the priest:

7 ^aAnd the priest shall make an atonement for him before the LORD: and it shall be forgiven him for any thing of all that he hath done in trespassing therein.

5:14–6:7. The trespass offering may be rendered “guilt offering,” and it symbolized satisfaction or restitution. It may be regarded as a particular kind of sin offering, or even as an offering for a particular kind of sin. It related to invading or disregarding the property rights of another person. In every case and for all people, the offering was in the form of a ram. This was different from the sin offering, which had a gradation according to the degree of guilt and responsibility, and wealth or poverty, of the offender. Also required was full reparation for the trespass and an additional fine of the fifth part of the whole amount involved. This seems to be the essential characteristic of the “guilt” or “trespass” offering. Leviticus 5:14-19 relates to the holy things of the LORD, whereas 6:1-7 deals with the property rights of men. The “holy things” included tithes and offerings and property given in vows.

The Law of the Burnt Offering

8 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

9 Command Aaron and his sons, saying, This is the ^alaw of the burnt offering: It is the burnt offering, because of the burning upon the altar all night unto the morning, and the fire of the altar shall be burning in it.

10 ^aAnd the priest shall put on his linen garment, and his linen breeches shall he put upon his flesh, and take up the ashes which the fire hath consumed with the burnt offering on the altar, and he shall put them ^bbeside the altar.

11 And ^ahe shall put off his garments, and put on other garments, and carry forth the ashes ¹without the camp ^bunto a clean place.

12 And the fire upon the altar shall be burning in it; it shall not be put out: and the priest shall burn wood on it every morning, and lay the burnt offering in order upon it; and he shall burn thereon ^athe fat of the peace offerings.

13 The fire shall ever be burning upon the ^aaltar; it shall never go out.

The Law of the Meat Offering

14 And this is the law of the ¹meat offering: the sons of Aaron shall offer it before the LORD, before the altar.

The Law of the Peace Offering

11 And ^athis is the law of the sacrifice of peace offerings, which he shall offer unto the LORD.

12 If he offer it for a thanksgiving, then he shall offer with the sacrifice of thanksgiving unleavened cakes mingled with oil, and unleavened wafers ^aanointed with oil, and cakes mingled with oil, of fine flour, fried.

13 Besides the cakes, he shall offer for his offering ^aleavened bread with the sacrifice of thanksgiving of his peace offerings.

14 And of it he shall offer ¹one out of the whole oblation for an heave offering unto the LORD, ^aand it shall be the priest's that sprinkleth the blood of the peace offerings.

15 ^aAnd the flesh of the sacrifice of his peace offerings for thanksgiving shall be eaten the same day that it is offered; he shall not leave any of it until the morning.

16 But ^aif the sacrifice of his offering be a vow, or a voluntary offering, it shall be eaten the same day that he offereth his sacrifice: and on the morrow also the remainder of it shall be eaten:

7:11–21. This portion relates to the “peace offerings” of 3:1–17 and relates the sacrifice of thanksgiving ... a vow, or a voluntary offering. The first sacrifice, labeled “thanksgiving” (tōdah), has the primary meaning of “to acknowledge or confess sin, God’s character and works, or man’s character.” Here it is employed to express one’s public proclamation or declaration (confession) of God’s attributes and His works during the “peace offering” or “fellowship meal.” Praise of Yahweh was public, found among the nations (2 Sam. 22:50) and in the great assembly of the people of Israel (Ps. 35:18). When an individual or a people came to praise Yahweh, they gave praise orally by word or song (Ps. 28:7; 109:30), often accompanied with musical instruments (2 Chr. 5:13; Ps. 33:2; 43:4). Such praise was normally given in the tabernacle or temple (Ps. 100:4; 122:4), under the direction of those Levites appointed by David, strictly for the ministry of celebration through praise and confession of Yahweh’s person (1 Chr. 16:4).

The second item, “a vow” (neder), is something promised to God verbally (Num. 30:4). It is a species of “peace offering” (made even by Gentiles, Nah. 1:15) vowed (Ps. 116:14, 18) in return for God’s favor (Num. 21:1–3) or as an expression of godly zeal and devotion, and in praise for answered prayer (Ps. 22:25). Happiness results when a vow is properly fulfilled (Job 22:27). Vows were acts of devotion and love beyond the legal requirements, and were contracted either preceding (Ps. 50:14) or following divine blessing (Ps. 116:17, 18). They were accompanied by joy (Nah. 1:15) and singing (Ps. 61:8), and were acceptable only if iniquity was not cherished in the offerer’s heart (Ps. 66:18; Prov. 7:14). The Messiah is also bound by vow to offer Himself a sacrifice for sin (Ps. 22:25; cf. Lev. 27:2–8).

17 But the remainder of the flesh of the sacrifice on the third day shall be burnt with fire.

Unacceptable Offerings

18 And if any of the flesh of the sacrifice of his peace offerings be eaten at all on the third day, it shall not be ¹accepted, neither shall it be ^aimputed unto him that offereth it: it shall be an ^babomination, and the soul that eateth of it shall bear his ²iniquity.

19 And the flesh that toucheth any unclean thing shall not be eaten; it shall be burnt with fire: and as for the flesh, all that be ¹clean shall eat thereof.

20 But the soul that eateth of the flesh of the sacrifice of peace offerings, that pertain unto the ^aLORD, ^bhaving his uncleanness upon him, even that soul ^cshall be cut off from his people.

21 Moreover the soul that shall touch any unclean thing, as ^athe uncleanness of man, or any ^bunclean beast, or any ^cabominable unclean thing, and eat of the flesh of the sacrifice of peace offerings, which pertain unto the LORD, even that soul ^ashall be cut off from his people.

Eating Fat or Blood Forbidden

22 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

23 Speak unto the children of Israel, saying, ^aYe shall eat no manner of fat, of ox, or of sheep, or of goat.

24 And the fat of the beast that dieth of itself, and the fat of that which is torn with beasts, may be used in any other use: but ye shall in no wise eat of it.

25 For whosoever eateth the fat of the beast, of which men offer an offering made by fire unto the LORD, even the ¹soul that eateth it shall be cut off from his people.

26 ^aMoreover ye shall eat no manner of blood, whether it be of fowl or of beast, in any of your dwellings.

The Priests Given a Portion

28 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

29 Speak unto the children of Israel, saying, ^aHe that offereth the sacrifice of his peace offerings unto the LORD shall bring his ¹oblation unto the LORD of the sacrifice of his peace offerings.

30 ^aHis own hands shall bring the offerings of the LORD made by fire, the fat with the breast, it shall he bring, that the ^bbreast may be waved for a wave offering before the LORD.

31 ^aAnd the priest shall burn the fat upon the altar: but the ^bbreast shall be Aaron's and his sons'.

32 And ^athe right shoulder shall ye give unto the priest for an heave offering of the sacrifices of your peace offerings.

33 He among the sons of Aaron, that offereth the blood of the peace offerings, and the fat, shall have the right shoulder for his part.

34 For ^athe wave breast and the heave shoulder have I taken of the children of Israel from off the sacrifices of their peace offerings, and have given them unto Aaron the priest and unto his sons by a statute for ever from among the children of Israel.

35 This is the portion of the anointing of Aaron, and of the anointing of his sons, out of the offerings of the LORD made by fire, in the day when he presented them to ¹minister unto the LORD in the priest's office;

The third type is the "voluntary" or "freewill offering." This was given to express general thankfulness and love toward God without regard to specific blessings. It was an expression of love to God in a tangible way among other believers in the congregation of Israel (Ps. 119:108; Ezek. 46:12; Amos 4:5).

Anointing the Tabernacle

10 ^aAnd Moses took the anointing oil, and anointed the tabernacle and all that was therein, and sanctified them.

11 And he sprinkled thereof upon the altar seven times, and anointed the altar and all his vessels, both the laver and his foot, to ¹sanctify them.

12 And he ^apoured of the anointing oil upon Aaron's head, and anointed him, to sanctify him.

13 ^aAnd Moses brought Aaron's sons, and put coats upon them, and girded them with girdles, and put ¹bonnets upon them; as the LORD commanded Moses.

The Sin Offering

14 ^aAnd he brought the bullock for the sin offering: and Aaron and his sons ^blaid their hands upon the head of the bullock for the sin offering.

15 And he slew it; ^aand Moses took the blood, and put it upon the horns of the altar round about with his finger, and purified the altar, and poured the blood at the bottom of the altar, and sanctified it, to make ¹reconciliation upon it.

16 ^aAnd he took all the fat that was upon the inwards, and the caul above the liver, and the two kidneys, and their fat, and Moses burned it upon the altar.

17 But the bullock, and his hide, his flesh, and his dung, he burnt with fire ¹without the camp; as the LORD ^acommanded Moses.

8:1-36. Moses was now to carry out the instructions given in Exodus 28 and 29 for the consecration of the priests. Chapters 8-10 of Leviticus form the only historical section of the book, except for the few verses in 24:10-23. Chapter 9 contains the account of the inauguration of the tabernacle service, and chapter 10 includes the solemn warning as to the sanctity of the divinely appointed worship.

The ceremony was held at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation in the presence of the people. Aaron and his sons were divinely chosen: take Aaron and his sons with him (v. 2). They were then cleansed by washing. They were then clothed with the robe and given the ephod and the breastplate with the Urim and the Thummim. Aaron and his sons, as well as the tabernacle, were then anointed with oil and thus sanctified.

Not only the priests but the very place where they ministered was consecrated to God. The oil symbolized the presence and the power of the Holy Spirit of God in the actual worship of Israel.

Moses first presented a sin offering, then a burnt offering. The "sin offering" indicated the need of pardon and expiation for guilt for all who were part of the priestly service. The "burnt offering" symbolized the fact that Aaron and his sons were completely dedicated to the Lord.

In the ceremony of the "peace offering" a unique

The Burnt Offering

18 ^aAnd he brought the ram for the burnt offering: and Aaron and his sons laid their hands upon the head of the ram.

19 And he killed it; and Moses sprinkled the blood upon the altar round about.

20 And he cut the ram into pieces; and Moses ^aburnt the head, and the pieces, and the fat.

21 And he washed the inwards and the legs in water; and Moses burnt the whole ram upon the altar: it was a burnt sacrifice for a ¹sweet savour, and an offering made by fire unto the LORD; ^aas the LORD commanded Moses.

The Ram of Consecration

22 And ^ahe brought the other ram, the ram of consecration: and Aaron and his sons laid their hands upon the head of the ram.

30 And ^aMoses took of the anointing oil, and of the blood which was upon the altar, and sprinkled it upon Aaron, and upon his garments, and upon his sons, and upon his sons' garments with him; and sanctified Aaron, and his garments, and his sons, and his sons' garments with him.

feature was introduced with the use of the blood. A portion was placed upon the tip of Aaron's right ear, and upon the thumb of his right hand, and upon the great toe of his right foot. Likewise, this was done to each of his sons. This indicated that in view of the blood that had been shed, one who is truly serving God must be ready to hear His word, to undertake His work, and to move at His command. God was to consecrate them for seven days in which they were not to go out of the door of the tabernacle of the congregation. It probably indicated not only the importance of the ceremonies, but that the very essence of consecration consists in separation. Aaron and his sons were thus confined, lest they be rendered ceremonially unclean by contact with the unclean and become unfit for service. Note Hebrews 10:19–23 as it relates to Christ.

2 And he said unto Aaron, Take thee a young ^acalf for a sin offering, and a ram for a burnt offering, without blemish, and offer them before the LORD.

3 And unto the children of Israel thou shalt speak, saying, ^aTake ye a kid of the goats for a sin offering; and a calf and a lamb, both of the first year, without blemish, for a burnt offering;

9:1-24. This chapter relates the inauguration of the tabernacle service. Aaron first offered a young calf for a sin offering and a ram for a burnt offering for himself. He had already been washed, clothed, and anointed for service; thus it might seem surprising that he is so soon to offer up a sin offering. Yet this is a reminder of our need of daily cleansing from sin due to its defilement. The "young calf" was absolutely unique; for no other person at any time was such a sacrifice needed. It is possible that the connection is with his preparing a golden calf in Exodus 32. The burnt offering symbolized his need for consecration wholly to God. For the people, in addition to a sin offering and a burnt offering, there were to be presented a meat [grain] offering and a sacrifice of peace offerings. The "grain offering" symbolized the consecration to God of the fruit of one's labor. It indicated that all of their toil or activities should be dedicated to God. And the "peace offerings" conveyed the concept of fellowship and communion with God.

20 And they put the fat upon the breasts, ^aand he burnt the fat upon the altar:

21 And the breasts and the right shoulder Aaron waved ^afor a wave offering before the LORD; as Moses commanded.

22 And Aaron lifted up his hand toward the people, and ^ablessed them, and came down from offering of the sin offering, and the burnt offering, and peace offerings.

23 And Moses and Aaron went into the tabernacle of the congregation, and came out, and blessed the people: and the glory of the LORD appeared unto all the people.

24 And ^athere came a fire out from before the LORD, and consumed upon the altar the burnt offering and the fat: which when all the people saw, they ^bshouted, and fell on their ^cfaces.

Nadab and Abihu Killed

10 And ^aNadab and Abihu, the sons of Aaron, ^btook either of them his censer, and put fire therein, and put incense thereon, and offered ^cstrange fire before the LORD, which he commanded them not.

2 And there ^awent out fire from the LORD, and devoured them, and they died before the LORD.

God Will Be Glorified

3 Then Moses said unto Aaron, This is it that the LORD spake, saying, I will be sanctified in them ^athat come nigh me, and before all the people I will be glorified. And Aaron held his peace.

5 So they went near, and carried them in their coats out of the camp; as Moses had said.

6 And Moses said unto Aaron, and unto Eleazar and unto Ithamar, his sons, ¹Uncover not your heads, neither rend your clothes; lest ye die, and ^alest wrath come upon all the people: but let your brethren, the whole house of Israel, ²bewail the burning which the LORD hath kindled.

7 ^aAnd ye shall not go out from the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, lest ye die: ^bfor the anointing oil of the LORD is upon you. And they did according to the word of Moses.

Priests Are Not to Drink Wine

8 And the LORD spake unto Aaron, saying,

9 ^aDo not drink wine nor strong drink, thou, nor thy sons with thee, when ye go into the tabernacle of the congregation, lest ye die: it shall be a statute for ever throughout your generations:

10 And that ye may ^aput difference between holy and unholy, and between unclean and clean;

11 ^aAnd that ye may teach the children of Israel all the statutes which the LORD hath spoken unto them by the hand of Moses.

Eating in the Holy Place

12 And Moses spake unto Aaron, and unto Eleazar and unto Ithamar,

10:1-7. Nadab and Abihu ... his censer: The censers were fairly flat pans in which burning coals were carried. The strange fire has many different interpretations: (1) coals that were not taken from the altar as required in 16:12; (2) offering it at the wrong time of day (cf. Ex. 30:7-9 which prohibits "strange incense"); (3) apparently no one except the high priest himself should place incense on a censer of coals and present it to God; or (4) that Nadab and Abihu were even intoxicated, thus making the prohibition of verse 9 significant.

Whatever the case may have been, it is clear that it was strange fire which he commanded them not; they certainly knew that it was in violation of God's Word. God's words I will be sanctified in them that come nigh me, and before all the people I will be glorified set the theme for the whole book. The whole nation was called to be holy (19:2). A clearer translation would be, "Among those who approach Me I will show Myself holy; in the sight of all the people I will be honored." Any disobedience of God's commands detracted from His glory! Those who begin to approach God must know that He is "separate from everyone else" and must approach Him on His terms. Even in a time of great calamity, the priests of the Lord must set an example to the nation of strict obedience to the will of God: and ye shall not go out from the door of the tabernacle ... lest ye die (v. 7). Nothing must be allowed to interfere with the work of the ministry.

his sons that were left, Take ^athe ¹meat offering that remaineth of the offerings of the LORD made by fire, and eat it without leaven beside the altar: for ^bit is most holy:

13 And ye shall eat it in the ^aholy place, because it is ¹thy due, and thy sons' due, of the sacrifices of the LORD made by fire: for ^bso I am commanded.

14 And ^athe wave breast and heave shoulder shall ye eat in a clean place; thou, and thy sons, and thy ^bdaughters with thee: for they be thy due, and thy sons' ^cdue, which are given out of the sacrifices of peace offerings of the children of Israel.

15 ^aThe heave shoulder and the wave breast shall they bring with the offerings made by fire of the fat, to wave it for a wave offering before the LORD; and it shall be thine, and thy sons' with thee, by a statute for ever; as the LORD hath commanded.

Moses Angry with Aaron's Sons

16 And Moses diligently sought ^athe goat of the sin offering, and, behold, it was burnt: and he was angry with Eleazar and Ithamar, the sons of Aaron which were left alive, saying,

17 ^aWherefore have ye not eaten the sin offering in the holy place, seeing it is most holy, and God hath given it you to bear ^athe ¹iniquity of the congregation, to make atonement for them before the LORD?

10:16–20. Chapter 9 had mentioned two purification offerings, one for Aaron (9:8–14) and one for the people, namely, a goat (9:15). Moses' anger is aroused because they have not followed the rules with the second offering. They have burned the meat instead of eating it themselves as they were entitled to (vv. 16–18). Since (the behold of v. 18) the blood was not brought into the holy place, that is, the outer part of the tent of meeting, ye should indeed have eaten it in the holy place, as I commanded. The such things that have befallen me, refer to the sorrowful events of verses 2–7. Given the circumstances, Moses was content.

11:1–47. The reason for the rules concerning clean and unclean flesh has been a topic of discussion for many centuries. Clean and unclean animals as such were distinguished even before the Flood (Gen. 7:2, 3, 8, 9), but only in Leviticus 11 and Deuteronomy 14 were the various kinds specified. Four explanations have been offered for these laws: (1) The distinctions were arbitrary, and the rationale was

Clean and Unclean Meats

11 And the LORD spake unto Moses and to Aaron, saying unto them,

2 Speak unto the children of Israel, saying, ^aThese are the beasts which ye shall eat among all the beasts that are on the earth.

3 Whatsoever parteth the hoof, and is clovenfooted, and cheweth the cud, among the beasts, that shall ye eat.

4 Nevertheless these shall ye ^anot eat of them that chew the cud, or of them that divide the hoof: as the camel, because he cheweth the cud, but divideth not the hoof; he is ¹unclean unto you.

known only to God, who revealed them to man as a test of obedience. (2) The cultic explanation holds that the unclean animals were either those used in pagan worship or those associated with particular non-Israelite deities, so they were to be shunned. (3) The hygienic interpretation holds that the unclean creatures were unfit to eat because they were carriers of disease. The clean animals were relatively safe to eat. (4) The symbolic interpretation of the food laws views the behavior and habits of the clean animals as living illustrations of how the righteous Israelite was required to behave, while the unclean represented sinful men. It seems best to recognize that these restrictions were adapted to a people dwelling for 40 years in a wilderness and afterward located in a tropical climate. Thus, the health of the Israelites must be considered, and now was the time to reinforce the principle that God did make distinctions in every area of their lives: "Whether therefore ye eat, or drink, or whatsoever ye do, do all to the glory of God" (1 Cor. 10:31).

7 And the swine, though he divide the hoof, and be clovenfooted, yet he cheweth not the cud; ^ahe is unclean to you.

8 Of their flesh shall ye not eat, and their carcase shall ye not touch; ^athey are unclean to you.

Water Creatures

9 ^aThese shall ye eat of all that are in the waters: whatsoever hath fins and scales in the waters, in the seas, and in the rivers, them shall ye eat.

10 And all that have not fins and scales in the seas, and in the rivers, of all that move in the waters, and of any living thing which is in the waters, they shall be an ^aabomination¹ unto you:

11 They shall be even an abomination unto you; ye shall not eat of their flesh, but ye shall have their carcases in abomination.

12 Whatsoever hath no fins nor scales in the waters, that shall be an abomination unto you.

Purification Time for Women

12 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

2 Speak unto the children of Israel, saying, If a ^awoman have conceived seed, and born a man child: then ^bshe shall be ¹unclean seven days; ^aaccording to the days of the separation for her infirmity shall she be unclean.

4 And she shall then continue in the blood of her purifying three and thirty days; she shall touch no ¹hallowed thing, nor come into the sanctuary, until the days of her purifying be fulfilled.

5 But if she bear a maid child, then she shall be unclean two weeks, as in her separation: and she shall continue in the blood of her purifying threescore and six days.

Atonement Offerings for Women

6 And ^awhen the days of her purifying are fulfilled, for a son, or for a daughter, she shall bring a ^blamb ¹of the first year for a burnt offering, and a young pigeon, or a turtledove, for a ^csin offering, unto the door of 12:1–8. This chapter involves purification after childbirth, for the mother was considered to be unclean seven days; according to the days of the separation for her infirmity. The “separation for her infirmity” is a reference to her menstrual period (v. 5). This is more fully explained in 15:19–24. This legislation deals with the secretions that occur when giving birth, which made the mother unclean. So chapter 15, the tabernacle of the congregation, unto the priest:

7 Who shall offer it before the LORD, and make ¹an atonement for her; and she shall be cleansed from the issue of her blood. This is the law for her that hath born a male or a female.

8 ^aAnd if she be not able to bring a lamb, then she shall bring two turtles, or two young pigeons; the one for the burnt offering, and the other for a sin offering: ^band the priest shall make an atonement for her, and she shall be ¹clean.

8 And if the priest see that, behold, the scab spreadeth in the skin, then the priest shall pronounce him ¹unclean: it is a leprosy.

The Plague of Leprosy

9 When the plague of leprosy is in a man, then he shall be brought unto the priest; dealing with bodily secretions, provides the context for chapter 12. Verse 7 says she will be cleansed from the issue of her blood. This is the third mention. Why should a woman become unclean by bearing children? Reproduction is essential to the survival of the human race, yet intercourse made both Israelite man and wife ceremonially unclean (15:18).

Why should any discharge make a person unclean? The Bible gives no explicit answer. Some say it was a reminder that sin is transmitted to each person at birth. Others say that every bodily discharge is a reminder of sin and death. It is also suggested that a bleeding or discharging body lacks wholeness and is therefore unclean. Loss of blood can lead to death, the antithesis of normal, healthy life. Anyone losing blood is at least in danger of becoming less than perfect and therefore unclean. In any case, the woman was to bring a burnt offering and a sin offering indicating her total dedication and surrender to God and the admission of her sin and need for a covering.

13:1-59. Actually chapters 13 and 14 go together. They have a threefold division, each introduced by "The LORD spake unto Moses [and Aaron]" (13:1; 14:1, 33) and closed by "This is the law for ..." (13:59; 14:32, 54). Serious skin disease in men and clothing is dealt with in 13:1-59: It details its diagnosis and treatment. Ritual cleansing after the cure of serious skin disease is described in 14:1-32. And 14:33-57 relates to serious skin disease in houses: diagnosis, treatment, and cleansing. The Hebrew word translated "leprosy" comes from a root meaning "to become diseased in the skin," and is a generic term for severe skin disorders, including Hansen's disease, rather than a specific description. In Old Testament usage it was extended to include mold or mildew in fabrics, as well as mineral eruptions on the walls of buildings, and possibly dry rot in the fabric of such structures. The Hebrew is technical in character, and the passing of time has obliterated the original meaning of the terms used. The individual under consideration was to be brought unto Aaron the priest, and if indeed infected he was to be pronounced unclean. A man pronounced unclean by the priest then began a terrible separation, for he would dwell alone; without the camp (cf. 2 Kin. 7:3), which was actually a living death. He was cut off from spiritual fellowship with the covenant people, and in a real sense would be without hope and without God in the world.

11 It is an old leprosy in the skin of his flesh, and the priest shall pronounce him ¹unclean, and shall not shut him up: for he is unclean.

12 And if a leprosy break out abroad in the skin, and the leprosy cover all the skin of him that hath the plague from his head even to his foot, wheresoever the priest looketh;

13 Then the priest shall consider: and, behold, if the leprosy have covered all his flesh, he shall pronounce him clean that hath the plague: it is all turned ^awhite: he is clean.

14 But when raw flesh appeareth in him, he shall be unclean.

15 And the priest shall see the raw flesh, and pronounce him to be unclean: for the raw flesh is unclean: it is a leprosy.

16 Or if the raw flesh turn again, and be changed unto white, he shall come unto the priest;

17 And the priest shall see him: and, behold, if the plague be turned into white; then the priest shall pronounce him clean that hath the plague: he is clean.

A Boil

18 The flesh also, in which, even in the skin thereof, was a ^aboil, and is healed,

19 And in the place of the boil there be a white ¹rising, or a bright spot, white, and somewhat reddish, and it be shewed to the priest;

20 And if, when the priest seeth it, behold, it be in sight ¹lower than the skin, and the hair thereof be turned white; the priest shall pronounce him unclean: it is a plague of leprosy broken out of the boil.

21 But if the priest look on it, and, behold, there be no white hairs therein, and if it be not lower than the skin, but be somewhat dark; then the priest shall ¹shut him up seven days:

22 And if it spread much abroad in the skin, then the priest shall pronounce him unclean: it is a ¹plague.

23 But if the bright spot ¹stay in his place, and spread not, it is a burning boil; and the priest shall pronounce him clean.

A Hot Burning

24 Or if there be any flesh, in the skin whereof there is a ¹hot ^aburning, and the ²quick flesh that burneth have a white bright spot, somewhat reddish, or white;

25 Then the priest shall look upon it: and, behold, if the hair in the bright spot be turned white, and it be in sight deeper than the skin; it is a leprosy broken out of the burning: wherefore the priest shall pronounce him unclean: it is the ¹plague of leprosy.

26 But if the priest look on it, and, behold, there be no white hair in the bright spot, and it be no ¹lower than the other skin, but be somewhat dark; then the priest shall ²shut him up seven days:

27 And the priest shall look upon him the seventh day: and if it be spread much abroad in the skin, then the priest shall pronounce him unclean: it is the plague of leprosy.

28 And if the bright spot stay in his place, and spread not in the skin, but it be somewhat dark; it is a rising of the burning, and the priest shall pronounce him clean: for it is an inflammation of the burning.

A Plague on the Head or Beard

29 If a man or woman have a plague upon the head or the beard;

30 Then the priest shall see the plague: and, behold, if it be in sight deeper than the skin; and there be in it a yellow thin hair; then the priest shall pronounce him unclean: it is a dry scall, even a leprosy upon the head or beard.

31 And if the priest look on the plague of the scall, and, behold, it be not in sight deeper than the skin, and that there is no black hair in it; then the priest shall shut up him that hath the plague of the scall seven days:

32 And in the seventh day the priest shall look on the plague: and, behold, if the scall spread not, and there be in it no yellow hair, and the scall be not in sight deeper than the skin;

37 But if the scall be in his sight at a stay, and that there is black hair grown up therein; the scall is healed, he is clean: and the priest shall pronounce him clean.

39 Then the priest shall look: and, behold, if the bright spots in the skin of their flesh be darkish white; it is a freckled spot that groweth in the skin; he is clean.

40 And the man whose hair is fallen off his head, he is bald; yet is he clean.

41 And he that hath his hair fallen off from the part of his head toward his face, he is forehead bald; yet is he clean.

42 And if there be in the bald head, or bald ^aforehead, a white reddish sore; it is a leprosy sprung up in his bald head, or his bald forehead.

43 Then the priest shall look upon it: and, behold, if the rising of the sore be white reddish in his bald head, or in his bald forehead, as the leprosy appeareth in the skin of the flesh;

44 He is a leprous man, he is unclean: the priest shall pronounce him ¹utterly unclean; his plague is in his ^ahead.

51 And he shall look on the plague on the seventh day: if the plague be spread in the garment, either in the warp, or in the woof, or in a skin, or in any work that is made of skin; the plague is ^aa ¹fretting leprosy; it is unclean.

52 He shall therefore burn that garment, whether warp or woof, in woollen or in linen, or any thing of skin, wherein the plague is: for it is a fretting leprosy; it shall be burnt in the fire.

53 And if the priest shall look, and, behold, the plague be not spread in the garment, either in the warp, or in the woof, or in any thing of skin;

54 Then the priest shall command that they wash the thing wherein the plague is, and he shall shut it up seven days more:

55 And the priest shall look on the plague, after that it is washed: and, behold, if the plague have not changed his colour, and the plague be not spread; it is unclean; thou shalt burn it in the fire; it is fret inward, whether it be bare within or without.

The Eighth Day of Cleansing

10 And on the eighth day ^ahe shall take two he lambs without blemish, and one ewe lamb ¹of the first year without blemish, and three tenth deals of fine flour for ^ba meat offering, mingled with oil, and one log of oil.

13 And he shall slay the lamb ^ain the place where he shall kill the sin offering and the burnt offering, in the holy place: for ^bas the sin offering is the priest's, so is the trespass offering: ^cit is most holy:

14 And the priest shall take some of the blood of the trespass offering, and the priest shall put it ^aupon the tip of the right ear of him that is to be cleansed, and upon the thumb of his right hand, and upon the great toe of his right foot:

14:1-57. The occasion on which a person was cured of his skin disease or leprosy was of considerable significance. It marked his unexpected restoration to fellowship with his family and the community as a whole, and brought him back into a relationship with God's sanctuary.

The reference to two birds alive and clean typified the renewed state of cleanness in the healed person. Clean animals were characteristic of the holy Israelites, who were exhorted continually to remain in this condition of body and mind. One of the birds [should] be killed ... and he shall let the living bird loose into the open field is symbolic of the new life for the cleansed leper.

15 And the priest shall take some of the log of oil, and pour it into the palm of his own left hand:

16 And the priest shall dip his right finger in the oil that is in his left hand, and shall ^asprinkle of the oil with his finger seven times before the LORD:

18 And the remnant of the oil that is in the priest's hand he shall pour upon the head of him that is to be cleansed: ^aand the priest shall make ¹an atonement for him before the LORD.

The Plague of Leprosy in a House

33 And the LORD spake unto Moses and unto Aaron, saying,

He was to offer three unblemished lambs successively as a guilt offering, a sin offering, and a burnt offering. He now had to renew his relationship with the God of the covenant. The smearing of blood by the priest on the right ear, thumb, and great toe was the same action taken in 8:24 for the consecration of Aaron and his sons. The cleansed man should hear God's voice, should perform works of righteousness with his hands, and should walk in God's ways.

The tragedy of leprosy lay not so much in personal sin as in isolation from community life and worship. The real message of the legislation is that any type of uncleanness separates the believer from God. Leprosy is symbolic.

34 ^aWhen ye be come into the land of Canaan, which I give to you for a possession, and ^bI put the ¹plague of leprosy in a house of the land of your possession;

35 And he that owneth the house shall come and tell the priest, saying, It seemeth to me there is as it were ^aa plague in the house:

36 Then the priest shall command that they empty the house, before the priest go into it to see the plague, that all that is in the house be not made unclean: and afterward the priest shall go in to see the house:

37 And he shall look on the plague, and, behold, if the plague be in the walls of the house with hollow strakes, greenish or reddish, which in sight are ¹lower than the wall;

38 Then the priest shall go out of the house to the door of the house, and ¹shut up the house seven days:

39 And the priest shall come again the seventh day, and shall look: and, behold, if the plague be spread in the walls of the house;

40 Then the priest shall command that they take away the stones in which the plague is, and they shall cast them into an unclean place without the city:

41 And he shall cause the house to be scraped within round about, and they shall pour out the dust that they scrape off without the city into an unclean place:

42 And they shall take other stones, and put them in the place of those stones; and he shall take other mortar, and shall plaster the house.

The Fate of an Unclean House

43 And if the plague come again, and break out in the house, after that he hath taken away the stones, and after he hath scraped the house, and after it is plastered;

44 Then the priest shall come and look, and, behold, if the plague be spread in the house, it is ^aa ¹fretting leprosy in the house: it is unclean.

The Cleansing of a Clean House

48 And if the priest shall come in, and look upon it, and, behold, the plague hath not spread in the house, after the house was plastered: then the priest shall pronounce the house clean, because the plague is healed.

49 And ^ahe shall take to cleanse the house two birds, and cedar wood, and scarlet, and hyssop:

50 And he shall kill the one of the birds in an earthen vessel over running water:

51 And he shall take the cedar wood, and the hyssop, and the scarlet, and the living bird, and dip them in the blood of the slain bird, and in the running water, and sprinkle the house seven times:

52 And he shall ¹cleanse the house with the blood of the bird, and with the running water, and with the living bird, and with the cedar wood, and with the hyssop, and with the scarlet:

53 But he shall let go the living bird out of the city into the open fields, and ^amake an atonement for the house: and it shall be clean.

15:1-33. The literary structure of this chapter balances two types of discharge, chronic and intermittent, dealing with both sexes, making four specific cases. Verses 2-15 relate to a chronic discharge in the male, a running issue out of his flesh. The verb means "to flow" and is taken to mean from the organs of generation, although the exact nature of the disease is not known. Some suggestions have been hemorrhoids or gonorrhoea. The latter is based upon the Greek version of the Old Testament (Septuagint) and most commentators accept this diagnosis. The striking thing about the uncleanness associated with these discharges is that not only the affected person became unclean, but also people and objects that came in contact with him, and these in their turn could become secondary sources of uncleanness.

Thus it was much more "infectious" than the uncleanness of skin diseases dealt with in chapters 13 and 14, or unclean animals in chapter 11. For example, any bed (vv. 4, 5), chair (v. 6), or saddle (v. 9) became unclean and also a source of secondary pollution. The phrase under him (v. 10) indicates something he has sat upon. Spit (v. 8) also polluted. It seems he was still able to live at home and was not driven out into the wilderness like those afflicted with serious skin disease in 13:45, 46, nor did he have to undergo the elaborate cleansing rituals described in chapter 14. When he recovered, he simply had to wait seven days ... wash ... and ... offer the two cheapest sacrifices, one for a sin offering, and the other for a burnt offering. Verses 16-18 contain regulations governing an occasional emission of semen. This seed of copulation (lit. "outpouring of seed"), in intercourse (v. 18) or at other times (vv. 16, 17), also caused pollution (cf. Ex. 19:15; Lev. 22:4; Deut. 23:10, 11; 1 Sam. 21:5; 2 Sam. 11:11). No sacrifice was required, but days: and whosoever toucheth her shall be unclean until the even.

20 And every thing that she lieth upon in her separation shall be unclean: every thing also that she sitteth upon shall be unclean.

21 And whosoever toucheth her bed shall wash his clothes, and bathe himself in water, and be unclean until the even.

22 And whosoever toucheth any thing that she sat upon shall wash his clothes, and bathe himself in water, and be unclean until the even.

Atonement for Israel

16 And the LORD spake unto Moses after the death of the two sons of Aaron, when they offered before the LORD, and died;

2 And the LORD said unto Moses, Speak unto Aaron thy brother, that he ^acome not at ¹all times into the holy place within the vail before the mercy seat, which is upon the ark;

the man and woman had simply to wash and wait until evening (vv. 16–18). The practical effect of this legislation was that when a man had religious duties to perform, whether this involved worship or participation in God's holy wars, sexual intercourse was not permitted. Verses 19–24 relate to women and the intermittent discharges associated with menstruation. Then certain rules governing a chronic emission are dealt with in verses 25–30.

The last section relates to a discharge of blood outside the normal period of menstruation (v. 25), such as that which the woman mentioned in the Gospels suffered (Mark 5:25; Luke 8:43). Sacrifices are required here because, like childbirth (ch. 12), skin disease (chs. 13, 14), and gonorrhoea (15:2–12), the uncleanness lasted more than a week. The purpose is cited in verse 31: "Thus shall ye separate the children of Israel from their uncleanness." The precise verb form used here occurs only five other times, each referring to the vows of the Nazarite (Num. 6:2, 3, 5, 6, 12). Those who were unclean could not participate in divine worship in the tabernacle (cf. Ex. 19:10, 12, 15, 21; Lev. 10; 17:16; 19:8; 20:18; 22:9).

16:1–34. This chapter comprises the ceremonial and theological pivot on which the entire Book of Leviticus turns. Even though today the temple and sacrificial systems have disappeared, the Day of Atonement (Yom Kippur) remains the holiest day in the Jewish year. The introduction to the chapter is given in verses 1 and 2, with an emphasis on safeguarding the sanctity of the Most Holy Place, as Aaron was forbidden that he come not at all times into the

that he die not: for ^bI will appear in the cloud upon the mercy seat.

Instructions for Aaron

3 ¹Thus shall Aaron ^acome into the holy place: ^bwith a young bullock for a sin offering, and a ram for a burnt offering.

4 He shall put on the ^aholy linen coat, and he shall have the linen breeches upon his flesh, and shall be girded with a linen girdle, and with the linen ¹mitre shall he be attired: these are holy garments; therefore ^bshall he wash his flesh in water, and so put them on.

5 And he shall take of ^athe congregation of the children of Israel two kids of the goats for a sin offering, and one ram for a burnt offering.

6 And Aaron shall offer his bullock of the sin offering, which is for himself, and ^amake an atonement for himself, and for his house.

7 And he shall take the two goats, and present them before the LORD at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation.

8 And Aaron shall cast lots upon the two goats; one lot for the LORD, and the other lot for the scapegoat.

9 And Aaron shall bring the goat upon which the LORD's lot fell, and offer him for a sin offering.

A Sin Offering for Aaron

11 And Aaron shall bring the bullock of the sin offering, which is for ^ahimself, and shall make an atonement for himself, and for his house, and shall kill the bullock of the sin offering which is for himself:

12 And he shall take ^aa censer full of burning coals of fire from off the altar before the LORD, and his hands full of ^bsweet incense beaten small, and bring it within the veil:

13 ^aAnd he shall put the incense upon the fire before the LORD, that the cloud of the incense may cover the ^bmercy seat that is upon the testimony, that he ^cdie not:

14 And ^ahe shall take of the blood of the bullock, and ^bsprinkle it with his finger upon the mercy seat eastward; and before the mercy seat shall he sprinkle of the blood with his finger seven times.

A Sin Offering for Israel

15 ^aThen shall he kill the goat of the sin offering, that is for the people, and bring his blood ^bwithin the holy place ... before the mercy seat. The Hebrew phrase translated here “come not at all times” could imply a total prohibition against entry, but the context makes it clear that with proper precautions the high priest may enter the Holy Place once a year. The translation “not to come whenever he chooses” gives the meaning clearly. The reason Aaron could not enter the Holy Place is that it housed the ark on which the mercy seat was found. This was where God came to His people, in the heart of the tabernacle, hidden in a cloud (Ex. 40:34, 35). The mercy seat likely means “lid” or “cover.” The notion of a seat was derived presumably from Psalm 99:1, which speaks of God sitting between the cherubim as on a throne. The lid with its surmounting cherubim served as a cover for the ark. (See discussion of the “mercy seat,” Ex. 25:17.) If Aaron did not enter only when God prescribed, he would die. First, Aaron made atonement for himself, and for his house. The Hebrew word (kiper) has at least three possible meanings that are held among conservative scholars. The first, coming from the Akkadian verb kuppuru, is “to cleanse” or “wipe.” This fits those contexts where the altar or the sanctuary is the direct object of the verb and the action involved smearing

ATONEMENT

16:6. Though theologians tend to use the term atonement to summarize Christ's work on the Cross, it occurs only in the Old Testament (Rom. 5:11 is better translated “reconciliation”), and only relates to one part of what was accomplished for us, that is, the cover of our sins. This word probably means “cover,” and is first used where Noah is commanded to cover the ark with pitch (Gen. 6:14).

Illustration: Just as the ark was a “type” of Christ in saving His people from judgment (Heb. 11:7), the “cover” within and without emphasized the means whereby our salvation is secure—that is, our sins are covered by the blood of Christ. This covering of sin is an expression of God's love for mankind (Prov. 10:12). Application: When a Christian hears about another's failings, he should both forgive and forget the event. All believers should follow Christ's example and seek to build up the fallen one, rather than follow the natural inclination to engage in gossip (Prov. 17:9). (First Reference, Gen. 6:14; Primary Reference, Lev. 16; cf. Lev. 16:30.)

vail, and do with that blood as he did with the blood of the bullock, and sprinkle it upon the mercy seat, and before the mercy seat:

Sanctifying the Tabernacle

16 And he shall ^amake an atonement for the holy place, because of the uncleanness of the children of Israel, and because of their transgressions in all their sins: and so shall he do for the tabernacle of the congregation, that remaineth among them in the midst of their uncleanness.

17 And there shall be ^ano man in the tabernacle of the congregation when he goeth in to make an atonement in the holy place, until he come out, and have made an atonement for himself, and for his household, and for all the congregation of Israel.

18 And he shall go out unto the altar that is before the LORD, and make an atonement for ^ait; and shall take of the blood of the bullock, and of the blood of the goat, and put it upon the horns of the altar round about.

19 And he shall sprinkle of the blood upon it with his finger seven times, and cleanse it, and ^ahallow¹ it from the uncleanness of the children of Israel.

A Scapegoat for Israel's Sins

20 And when he hath made an end of ¹reconciling the holy place, and the tabernacle of the congregation, and the altar, he shall bring the live goat:

The Burnt Offerings

23 And Aaron shall come into the tabernacle of the congregation, ^aand shall put off the linen garments, which he put on when he went into the holy place, and shall leave them there:

24 And he shall wash his flesh with water in the holy place, and put on his garments, and come forth, and offer his burnt offering, and the burnt offering of the people, and make ¹an atonement for himself, and for the people.

25 And ^athe fat of the sin offering shall he burn upon the altar.

26 And he that let go the goat for the scapegoat shall wash his clothes, ^aand bathe his flesh in water, and afterward come into the camp.

27 ^aAnd the bullock for the sin offering, and the goat for the sin offering, whose blood was brought in to make atonement in the holy place, shall one carry forth ¹without the camp; and they shall burn in the fire their skins, and their flesh, and their dung.

28 And he that burneth them shall wash his clothes, and bathe his the altar with blood (v. 33). The second meaning is "to make atonement" and would be derived from the Hebrew köper meaning "ransom price." A köper is the money a man condemned to death could pay to escape the death penalty (Ex. 21:30; Prov. 6:35). The third possibility is that it means "to cover," so as to "appease" (cf. Gen. 32:20). The verb appears 16 times in the 34 verses. Aaron is said to "make an atonement for himself, and for his house" (v. 6); and also for the holy sanctuary ... the tabernacle of the congregation ... for the altar ... the priests ... and for all the people of the congregation.

The meaning and significance of the word scapegoat (used in vv. 8, 10, 26) has caused much speculation. The Hebrew is la'aza'el, which is "to, for Azazel." While some scholars have viewed Azazel as a desert demon, following nonbiblical Jewish literature, others have taken it to mean "Complete Destruction" or "Rocky Precipice." However, its common meaning, "Goat of Departure," best fits the context. Just as the two birds represent death and cleansing, so the two goats have the same symbolism here. One represents substitutionary death and the other ('aza'el) represents the carrying away of sins. Thus, man is justified and his sins are expiated. This principle of vicarious atonement and newness of life finds its fullest expression in Christ, the divine Lamb, who takes away human sin by His death (cf. John 1:29). From Levitical usage, the term scapegoat is still employed to describe a person who takes the blame for some misdeed committed by another individual or group.

Bring Offerings to the Tabernacle

17 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

2 Speak unto Aaron, and unto his sons, and unto all the children of Israel, and say unto them; This is the thing which the LORD hath commanded, saying,

3 What man soever there be of the house of Israel, ^athat killeth an ox, or lamb, or goat, in the camp, or that killeth it ¹out of the camp,

4 And bringeth it not unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, to offer an offering unto the LORD before the tabernacle of the LORD; blood shall be ^aimputed unto that man; he hath shed blood; and that man shall be ¹cut off from among his people:

5 To the end that the children of Israel may bring their sacrifices, ^awhich they offer in the open field, even that they may bring them unto the LORD, unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, unto the priest, and offer them for peace offerings unto the LORD.

6 And the priest ^ashall sprinkle the blood upon the altar of the LORD at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, and ^bburn the fat for a sweet savour unto the LORD.

17:1-9. The laws in this chapter deal with various problems connected with sacrifice and eating meat (cf. 7:26, 27 and 11:39, 40). In particular, they explain the special significance of blood in the sacrifices (especially vv. 11-14). This situation involves the prohibition of killing animals without offering them to the Lord as the words bringeth it not unto the door of the tabernacle ... to offer it unto the LORD clearly show. The penalty for such an offense was for that man to be cut off from among his people. The phrase to be cut off seems to indicate he will be punished by God directly (Ex. 30:33; Lev. 7:20-27; 20:17, 18). The motive underlying this severe law is given in verses 5-7: to prevent sacrifices to the devils (demons). The Hebrew term se'irim is problematic, but usually means "goats." The word referred to demons that were supposed to haunt areas of the wilderness (Is. 13:21; 34:14). The allusion here is to the kind of goat worship practiced in Lower Egypt, a form of idolatry with which the Israelites had evidently had some contact (cf. Josh. 24:14). The cult had flourished in the eastern delta region, and part of its abhorrent rituals involved goats copulating with women devotees. No offerings were to be offered outside of the tabernacle either (vv. 8, 9).

DAY OF ATONEMENT

16:30. More than half of the occurrences of the word atonement in Scripture are found in Leviticus 16, which describes the most important day on the Hebrew calendar, Yom Kippur (Day of Atonement). This annual holy day celebrated the covering of national sins by the offering of two goats to God, one killed and the other driven into the wilderness. In the ceremony, the priest entered the Holy of Holies to present the blood of the slain goat to God. When he came out, the nation knew their sins had been covered for another year. Christ fulfilled this "type" in that He offered His own blood to God (Heb. 9:14). Illustration: The type of the priest returning from the Holy Place to those whose sins were covered will be fulfilled when Christ returns for those who have been redeemed by His blood. Application: For the Christian, this is a blessed and purifying hope (Titus 2:12, 13; 1 John 3:3). (First Reference, Lev. 16:30; Primary Reference, Lev. 16; cf. Lev. 23:2.)

7 And they shall no more offer their sacrifices ^aunto ¹devils, after whom they ^bhave gone a whoring. This shall be a statute for ever unto them throughout their generations.

8 And thou shalt say unto them, Whatsoever man there be of the house of Israel, or of the strangers which sojourn among you, ^athat offereth a burnt offering or sacrifice, 9 And bringeth it not unto the door of the tabernacle of the ^acongregation, to offer it unto the LORD; even that man shall be ¹cut off from among his people.

10 ^aAnd whatsoever man there be of the house of Israel, or of the strangers that sojourn among you, that eateth ¹any manner of blood; ^{b1}I will even set my face against that ²soul that eateth blood, and will cut him off from among his people.

17:10–16. As a direct consequence of limiting the slaughter of animals to the tabernacle, the blood of these animals could not be “eaten,” that is, drunk or eaten in meat which had not been drained of blood. This principle results in what the Jews called kosher meat. The importance is underscored emphatically, the prohibition occurring six times in five verses (vv. 10–14). Noah was to avoid the blood in Genesis 9:4. Violation of this law involved the guilty in being cut ... off from among his people, presumably by a divinely initiated act (v. 4). For the life of the flesh is in the blood: Most translations and commentators regard the preposition in in this phrase as expressing essence and therefore they omit it in translation. Thus, “the life of the flesh is the blood.” So construed, verse 11 virtually identifies the life of an animal with its blood.

At a basic level this is obvious: when an animal loses its blood, it dies. Its blood, therefore, gives it life. By refraining from eating flesh with blood in it, man is honoring life. To eat blood is to despise life (cf. Gen. 9:4–6). The sanctity of human life is associated with not eating blood. Thus one purpose of this law is to teach respect for all life. Shed blood constituted visible evidence that life had indeed been offered up in sacrifice. Only as atonement is linked with death, represented by shed blood, and not life set free, would it appear to become efficacious in the covering of human sin. Thus, the second reason for the ban is given as I have given it to you upon the altar to make an atonement for your souls: for it is the blood that maketh an atonement for the soul (v. 11).

18:1–5. Attention now shifts from the matter of ceremonial defilement and its removal to the question of moral impurity and its consequences. The literary structure is interesting in that it resembles the basic form of the vassal or suzerainty treaties of the kings of the ancient Near East. The vassal treaties were made between a great king and a people whom he wished to bring under his rule. He usually identified himself in the preamble; thus here, I am the LORD your God (vv. 2, 4, 5; and Ex. 3:15; 6:2–4). Then he stated his generosity to previous vassals in a passage dealing with historical retrospect (cf. v. 3). After the doings of the land of Egypt, wherein ye dwelt would remind them that He had redeemed them from bondage. Then the basic stipulation(s) that comprised the agreement would be cited as in do my judgments, and keep mine ordinances, to walk therein (v. 4), followed by the detailed stipulations (cf. vv. 6–23). A section of blessings and cursings was then given. The blessings occur in the shortened form in verse 5 (which if a man do, he shall live in them), while the curses appear in verses 24–30, starting with defile not ye yourselves in any of these things ... that the land spue not you out also ... as it spued out the nations that were before you.

18:6–20. This section contains a warning against incestuous and illicit sexual unions. Shall approach is a euphemism for sexual intercourse (cf. Gen. 20:4; Is. 8:3). It is explained by “to lie with” (20:11) and “to take” as a wife (20:21) and “to uncover the nakedness” (v. 14). All four phrases mean the same thing. Any that is near of kin to him is literally, “to all [any] remainder of his flesh.” Thus the parties were so close, that one was the remainder of the other. To uncover their nakedness is a phrase describing intercourse within marriage and outside of it. Because the husband and wife are “one,” (Gen. 2:24), to uncover the nakedness of one partner was equivalent to exposing the other partner.

The following cases of incest are enumerated: sex with one’s mother (v. 7), stepmother (cf. Reuben with Bilhah, Gen. 35:22; Absalom with David’s wives, 2 Sam. 16:21, 22) (v. 8), sister (v. 9), granddaughter (v. 10), half sister on the father’s side (v. 11), paternal aunt (v. 12), maternal aunt (v. 13), paternal uncle’s wife (v. 14), daughter-in-law (v. 15), brother’s wife (v. 16), stepdaughter or step-granddaughter (v. 17), or a wife’s sister (v. 18). The last situation (v. 18) seems to forbid marriage to a second sister while the first is alive.

To have sexual relations during the menstrual period (v. 19) was forbidden. Perhaps this was due to the sacredness of the blood (ch. 17) and also that God is total Lord, so that no man can claim total rights to a woman without limitations.

18:21–23. This section deals with a warning against Canaanite deviations. The Canaanites freely engaged in human sacrifice, profanation, homosexuality, and

Laws Concerning Personal Conduct

2 Speak unto all the congregation of the children of Israel, and say unto them, ^aYe shall be holy: for I the LORD your God am holy.

3 ^aYe shall ¹fear every man his mother, and his father, and ^bkeep my sabbaths: I am the LORD your God.

bestiality. Child sacrifice was continually condemned (20:2–5; 1 Kin. 11:7; 2 Kin. 23:10; Jer. 32:35). Finally Josiah ordered the Molech installation razed, and the place was later renamed Gehenna, the awful symbol of hell.

Homosexuality was known and practiced in the ancient Near East from very early times. It was condemned as “an abomination” in 20:13. The punishment was death. The term dog appears to have been applied in Deuteronomy 23:18 to male cultic prostitutes or to homosexuality in general, and this may also be the sense of the allusion to “dogs” in Revelation 22:15 (note the labeling in this chapter, 22, 26, 27, 29, 30). Bestiality was also practiced intermittently among the Hittites, Babylonians, Egyptians, and Canaanites. For a man to indulge in such behavior was defiling, but for a woman it was regarded as confusion, from the verb “to mix” (cf. 20:12). The penalty was death in Exodus 22:19 and Leviticus 20:15, 16. See also Numbers 35:16–21; Deuteronomy 27:21.

18:24–30. To violate these prohibitions would entail being “vomited out” of the land, which happened when they were led into their captivities.

19:2. Chapter 18 dealt with holiness in sexual behavior: this chapter deals with holiness in social ethics. Ye shall be holy: for I the LORD your God am holy: This certainly could be termed the motto of Leviticus. “Holy” (qadōsh) and its cognate terms, for example, sanctify and holiness, occur 152 times in Leviticus (about 20 percent of the total occurrences in the Old Testament). Israel’s fundamental calling was to be a “holy nation” (Ex. 19:6). They were to be “separated from sin” and “to cling unto the Lord.” God’s holiness served as the model for all the congregation. Jewish scholars have seen in the material of this chapter a counterpart of the Ten Commandments, the precepts of which are recapitulated as follows: the first and second in verse 4; the third in verse 12; the fourth and fifth in verse 3; the sixth in verse 16; the seventh in verse 29; the eighth and ninth in verses 11–16; and the tenth in verse 18.

19:3–8. Four injunctions are given: (1) to respect mother and father, who are God’s representatives (v. 3); (2) to observe God’s sabbaths, since He is the Lord of time (v. 3); (3) not to turn to idols, since He is

HOLINESS OF GOD

19:2. The Hebrew word translated “holiness” comes from a root meaning “to separate or cut off.” The primary meaning of holiness implies God’s positive quality of self-affirming purity; the secondary meaning implies separation, particularly separation from sin. The holiness of God means He is absolutely pure and absolutely separate from (and above) all His creatures, and also separate from sin and evil. Illustration: Because God is holy, all sin is offensive to Him. For this reason He had to break fellowship with His own Son when Jesus became our sin-bearer (cf. Matt. 27:46). Only through the identification of Christ with our sin as our sacrifice can we be reconciled to God. Application: When the Scriptures mention the holiness of God, they also stress the personal holiness of His people. (First Reference, Gen. 1:4; Primary Reference, Lev. 19:2; cf. John 14:6.)

5 And ^aif ye offer a sacrifice of peace offerings unto the LORD, ye shall offer it at your own will.

6 It shall be eaten the same day ye offer it, and on the morrow: and if ought remain until the third day, it shall be burnt in the fire.

7 And if it be eaten at all on the third day, it is abominable; it shall not be accepted.

8 Therefore every one that eateth it shall bear his iniquity, because he hath profaned the hallowed thing of the LORD: and that soul shall be cut off from among his people.

9 And ^awhen ye reap the harvest of your land, thou shalt not wholly reap the corners of thy field, neither shalt thou gather the gleanings of thy harvest.

Keep Strains Pure

19 Ye shall keep my statutes. Thou shalt not let thy ¹cattle gender with a diverse kind: thou shalt not sow thy field with mingled seed: neither shall a garment mingled of linen and woollen come upon thee.

Lord alone (v. 4); and (4) to bring the peace or fellowship offerings and keep His services (vv. 5-8).

19:9-18. This contains five sections with five precepts relating to holiness in everyday affairs: (1) regard for the poor (vv. 9, 10); (2) regard for the truth (vv. 11, 12); (3) regard for the employee and the helpless (vv. 13, 14); (4) regard for the rich (v. 15); (5) regard for one's neighbor (vv. 16-18).

19:19-29. This section addresses nine areas. The first warns against mixing cattle (Gen. 30:37-40, selective mating), the breeding of different kinds of cattle to enrich the bloodline and produce hybrid species, seed, or materials in garments (v. 19). Perhaps this prohibition was given to instill reverence for the order of nature set by God, or to prevent sterility that comes with hybrids, or due to the fear that the Israelites might imitate abnormal sexual unions and ultimately indulge in the orgiastic rites of Canaanite religion. Second, slavery and concubinage were regulated in the case of an engaged girl (vv. 20-22). The third law reminded the Israelite that he was to serve God before he was to serve himself (vv. 23-25). God has the power to cause fruit to appear on the trees in their season. Then follow six commands referring to various heathen practices that holy men and women were to avoid. They include: (1) eating blood (v. 26); (2) practicing divination (v. 26, see Deut. 18:10-14); (3) sorcery (v. 26); (4) cutting the hair and beard in connection with pagan mourning rites (v. 27); (5) cutting or tattooing the flesh for the dead (v. 28); and (6) hiring one's daughter out as a prostitute (v. 29). Offerings of hair were presented in the Astarte-Tammuz religion of Syria and among various Arabian tribes. The unceasing growth of hair was thought to result from the presence of a mysterious vital force within it, and it was thus considered an effective means for influencing the will of the deity. Making bodily incisions also occurred apart from the context of mourning in the attempt to procure the favor of the deity by means of an offering of blood (cf. 1 Kin. 18:28).

21 And he shall bring his trespass offering unto the LORD, unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, even a ram for a trespass offering.

22 And the priest shall make ¹an atonement for him with the ram of the trespass offering before the LORD for his sin which he hath done: and the sin which he hath done shall be forgiven him.

Penalties for Sinning

20 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

2 ^aAgain, thou shalt say to the children of Israel, ^bWhosoever he be of the children of Israel, or of the strangers that ¹sojourn in Israel, that giveth any of his seed unto Molech; he shall surely be put to death: the people of the land shall ^cstone him with stones.

4 And if the people of the land do any ways ¹hide their eyes from the man, when he giveth of his seed unto Molech, and kill him not:

19:30-37. Four new injunctions are added in this section: The children are cautioned (1) to avoid consulting mediums and spiritists (v. 31); (2) to have respect for the aged (v. 32); (3) never to oppress the stranger (vv. 33, 34); and (4) to always use honest scales and weights (vv. 35, 36). All four have the refrain I am the LORD. Verse 37 summarizes the whole chapter.

20:1-27. This chapter deals with holiness in worship (vv. 1-8, 27) and holiness in family relations (vv. 9-26).

20:2-8, 27. The death penalty was prescribed for those who fell into Molech worship, which was forbidden in 18:21. Death by stoning was also required for goring oxen (Ex. 21:28-31), necromancers (v. 27), blasphemers (24:16; 1 Kin. 21:10-13), sabbath breakers (Num. 15:35, 36), idolaters (Deut. 13:10; 17:5), intransigent children (Deut. 21:21), and adulterous

5 Then I will set my face against that man, and against his family, and will cut him off, and all that go a whoring after him, to commit whoredom with Molech, from among their people.

6 And ^athe ¹soul that turneth after such as have familiar spirits, and after wizards, to go a whoring after them, I will even set my face against that soul, and will cut him off from among his people.

abomination: they shall surely be put to death; their blood shall be upon them.

14 And if a man take a wife and her ^amother, it is wickedness: they shall be burnt with fire, both he and they; that there be no wickedness among you.

15 And if a man lie with a ^abeast, he shall surely be put to death: and ye shall slay the beast.

16 And if a woman approach unto any beast, and lie down thereto, thou shalt kill the woman, and the beast: they shall surely be put to death; their blood shall be upon them.

17 And if a man shall take his ^asister, his father's daughter, or his mother's daughter, and see her nakedness, and she see his nakedness; it is a wicked thing; and they shall be ¹cut off in the sight of their people: he hath uncovered his sister's nakedness; he shall ²bear his iniquity.

18 ^aAnd if a man shall lie with a woman ¹having her sickness, and shall uncover her nakedness; he hath ²discovered her fountain, and she hath uncovered the fountain of her blood: and both of them shall be ³cut off from among their people.

19 And thou shalt not uncover the nakedness of thy ^amother's sister, nor of thy ^bfather's sister: for he uncovereth his near kin: they shall bear their iniquity.

20 And if a man shall lie with his ^auncle's wife, he hath uncovered his uncle's nakedness: they shall bear their sin; they shall die childless.

21 And if a man shall take his ^abrother's wife, it is an ¹unclean thing; he hath uncovered his brother's nakedness; they shall be childless.

brides (Deut. 22:21, 24). Turning to familiar spirits and wizards would incur similar judgment. God's people were to sanctify themselves (set themselves apart from the world) and be ... holy, because He was the One "sanctifying them."

20:9-26. The death penalty was also required for the following: (1) adultery (v. 10); (2) incest with a mother, stepmother, daughter-in-law, or mother-in-law (vv. 11, 12, 14); (3) homosexuality and sodomy (v. 13); (4) bestiality (vv. 15, 16); (5) incest with a sister or half sister (v. 17); and (6) relations with a woman during her menstrual cycle (v. 18). A lesser penalty was attached to an alliance with an aunt by blood (vv. 19-21) for they shall bear their sin, or "be held responsible." Every one of these issues strikes at the heart of the family and its very existence. The section closes (vv. 22-26) with a strong invitation to holiness of life. The Israelites were not to walk in the manners of the nation that had been cast out before Israel had come into the land; but they were to make a difference between clean beasts and unclean, according to what God had separated from them as unclean. The Israelites were to be God's people—ye should be mine.

Israel to Follow the Lord

22 Ye shall therefore keep all my ^astatutes, and all my judgments, and do them: that the land, whither I bring you to dwell therein, ^bspue you not out.

23 ^aAnd ye shall not walk in the manners of the nation, which I cast out before you: for they committed all these things, and ^btherefore I abhorred them.

24 But ^aI have said unto you, Ye shall inherit their land, and I will give it unto you to possess it, a land that floweth with milk and honey: I am the LORD your God, ^bwhich have ¹separated you from other people.

25 ^aYe shall therefore ¹put difference between clean beasts and unclean, and between unclean fowls and clean: ^band ye shall not make your souls ²abominable by beast, or by fowl, or by any manner of living thing that creepeth on the ground, which I have separated from you as ³unclean.

26 And ye shall be holy unto me: ^afor I the LORD am holy, and have severed you from other people, that ye should be mine.

27 ^aA man also or woman that hath a familiar spirit, or that is a wizard, shall surely be put to death: they shall stone them with stones: their blood shall be upon them.

21:1-24. This section is concerned with the standards of holiness expected of the priests as indicated by the LORD said unto Moses, Speak unto the priests of the sons of Aaron (v. 1) and speak unto Aaron (v. 17). The phrase for I the LORD, which sanctify you, am holy appears in verse 8 and also ends the next two sections at verses 15 and 23. The chapter is thus divided into three sections: (1) restrictions on mourning and marriage for ordinary priests; (2) restrictions on mourning and marriage for the high priest; and (3) physical impediments to the exercise of priestly office.

21:6. The bread of their God is an ancient sacrificial term for "flesh" (cf. Lev. 3:11, 16; 21:21).

21:7. The priests were forbidden to take a wife who was a prostitute, that is, one who had been involved in illicit heterosexual intercourse. The word profane describes the woman as being "dishonored" or "defiled" and not indicating another type of woman. This word appears 14 times in Leviticus out of the 66 times it occurs in the Old Testament. Neither could they marry a divorced woman, one put away from her husband.

Marriages of Priests

13 And he shall take a wife in her virginity.

14 A widow, or a divorced woman, or profane, or an harlot, these shall he not take: but he shall take a virgin of his own people to wife.

15 Neither shall he profane his seed among his people: for I the LORD do sanctify him.

16 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

18 For whatsoever man he be that hath a ^ablemish, he shall not approach: a blind man, or a lame, or he that hath a flat nose, or any thing ^bsuperfluous,

19 Or a man that is brokenfooted, or brokenhanded,

20 Or ¹crookbackt, or a dwarf, or that hath a blemish in his eye, or be scurvy, or scabbed, or hath his stones broken;

21 No man that hath a blemish of the seed of Aaron the priest shall come nigh to offer the offerings of the LORD made by fire: he hath a blemish; he shall not come nigh to offer the bread of his God.

22 He shall eat the bread of his God, both of the most holy, and of the holy.

24 And Moses told it unto Aaron, and to his sons, and unto all the children of Israel.

Priests to Be Pure

22 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

2 Speak unto Aaron and to his sons, that they ^aseparate¹ themselves from the holy things of the children of Israel, and that they ^bprofane not my holy name in those things which they ^challow unto me: I am the LORD.

3 Say unto them, Whosoever he be of all your seed among your generations, that ¹goeth unto the holy things, which the children of Israel hallow unto the LORD, ^ahaving² his uncleanness upon him, that soul shall be cut off from my presence: I am the LORD.

4 What man soever of the seed of Aaron is a ^aleper, or hath ^ba running issue; he shall not eat of the holy things, ^cuntil he be clean. And ^dwhoso toucheth anything that is unclean by the dead, or ^ea man whose seed goeth from him;

5 Or ^awhosoever toucheth any creeping thing, whereby he may be made unclean, or ^ba man of whom he may take uncleanness, whatsoever uncleanness he hath;

6 The ¹soul which hath touched any such shall be unclean until even, and shall not eat of the holy things, unless he ^awash his flesh with water.

7 And when the sun is down, he shall be clean, and shall afterward eat of the holy things; because it is his food.

8 That which dieth of itself, or is torn with beasts, he shall not eat to defile himself therewith: I am the LORD.

21:18-20. Twelve defects that would bar a person from carrying out the priestly duties are enumerated (later Judaism expanded the list to 142). A flat nose most likely means "split" as it is a passive participle and has this idea in Isaiah 11:15. Crookbackt has been interpreted to mean "brow or forehead." Others take it as "hunchback" and make it a reference to spinal tuberculosis, citing a model suffering like this from an ancient Egyptian tomb (2700-2200 B.C.) of Mitri at Saqqara. Dwarf actually means "thin, small," used of incense (16:12) or cows (Gen. 41:3, 4). Its association with "crookbacked" may not be accidental if related to tuberculosis. The reference to stones broken seems to refer to an ailment of the testicles. 22:1-33. This chapter continues the emphasis from chapter 21. The concept of the Lord as the sanctifier is continued in 22:9, 16, and 32, marking off three distinct sections: (1) impediments to eating priestly food; (2) the relatives' right to priestly food; and (3) physical impediments to sacrificial use of animals. The Aaronites are reminded that they, too, can become defiled ceremonially, just like any other member of the congregation. Purity is mandatory for those officiating at the sacrifices. If a priest approaches having his uncleanness upon him, that soul shall be cut off from my presence (v. 3).

9 They shall therefore keep ^amine ordinance, ^blest they bear sin for it, and die therefore, if they profane it: I the LORD do sanctify them.

Eating of Priests' Food

10 ^aThere shall no stranger eat of ¹the holy thing: a sojourner of the priest, or an hired servant, shall not eat of the holy thing.

11 But if the priest ^abuy any soul with his money, he shall eat of it, and he that is born in his house: they shall eat of his meat.

12 If the priest's daughter also be married unto a stranger, she may not eat of an offering of the holy things.

13 But if the priest's daughter be a widow, or divorced, and have no child, and is returned unto her father's house, as in her youth, she shall eat of her father's meat: but there shall no stranger eat thereof.

14 And if a man eat of the holy thing ¹unwittingly, then he shall put the fifth part thereof unto it, and shall give it unto the priest with the holy thing.

15 And they shall not profane the ^aholy things of the children of Israel, which they offer unto the LORD;

16 Or ¹suffer them to bear the iniquity of trespass, when they eat their holy things: for I the LORD do sanctify them.

21 And ^awhosoever offereth a sacrifice of peace offerings unto the LORD ^bto accomplish his vow, or a freewill offering in beeves or sheep, it shall be perfect to be accepted; there shall be no blemish therein.

22 ^aBlind, or broken, or maimed, or having ¹a wen, or scurvy, or scabbed, ye shall not offer these unto the LORD, nor make ^ban offering by fire of them upon the altar unto the LORD.

25 Neither ^afrom a stranger's hand shall ye offer ^bthe bread of your God of any of these; because their ^ccorruption is in them, and blemishes be in them: they shall not be accepted for you.

26 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

27 ^aWhen a bullock, or a sheep, or a goat, is brought forth, then it shall be seven days ¹under the dam; and from the eighth day and thenceforth it shall be accepted for an offering made by fire unto the LORD.

22:10. Stranger: No "outsider," that is, one who was not of priestly stock, might eat the holy food, unless he had been incorporated into the priest's family. Simply to live with the priest or to work for him (v. 10) was not enough, but the slave could be bought, in which case he was considered a member of the family (v. 11).

22:24, 25. Castration of animals was not to be practiced in Israel, and no castrated animals were to be offered under any circumstances, even those brought from foreigners (v. 25). Men in similar condition were forbidden even to worship with the congregation in ancient Israel (Deut. 23:1). Castration damaged God's good creation. Holiness was symbolized in wholeness (Gen. 1:22, 28; 8:17).

22:27, 28. No animals younger than eight days were to be offered in sacrifice (cf. Ex. 22:30), nor was a cow or a ewe to be killed with her young on the same day, whether for sacrificial purposes, as in some pagan cults, or for ordinary food consumption. This was in harmony with laws prohibiting such wasteful practices as taking a bird as well as its eggs (Deut. 22:6, 7), or the indiscriminate destruction of trees (Deut. 20:19, 20). In all these matters the main purpose was that God's name should be hallowed (Matt. 6:9; Luke 11:2) by His elect people.

28 And whether it be cow or ¹ewe, ye shall not kill it ^aand her young both in one day.

29 And when ye will ^aoffer a sacrifice of thanksgiving unto the LORD, offer it ¹at your own will.

30 On the same day it shall be eaten up; ye shall leave ^anone of it until the morrow: I am the LORD.

32 ^aNeither shall ye profane my holy name; but ^bI will be ¹hallowed among the children of Israel: I am the LORD which ¹hallow you,

Passover and Unleavened Bread

5 ^aIn the fourteenth day of the first month at even is the LORD's passover.

6 And on the fifteenth day of the same month is the feast of unleavened bread unto the LORD: seven days ye must eat unleavened bread.

7 ^aIn the first day ye shall have an holy convocation: ye shall do no ¹servile work therein.

23:1–44. This section comprises a list of the holy seasons in the Israelite religious calendar, including the three great celebrations of Passover, Pentecost, and Tabernacles. Beginning with Sabbath observance, the list concluded with the joyous Feast of Tabernacles, with its emphasis on God's deliverance of captive Israel from Egypt.

23:2. Feasts of the LORD is the term used in the expression "tent of meeting" (mō'ed); thus they are assemblies of the people taking place at set times, and as holy convocations they are celebrated at the tabernacle. The description of these events as feasts (hag, which means "pilgrim feast" or simply "holiday," i.e., a day or season of religious joy) indicates their joyful character, and demonstrates that not all the gatherings within the sanctuary precincts were necessarily solemn or filled with foreboding.

23:3. The sabbath followed the pattern of God's rest from creative activity (Gen. 2:3) and it was to be set apart (Ex. 20:11). This sanctity was reinforced in the manner of giving manna in the wilderness (Ex. 16:5, 23–30). Two lambs were sacrificed on the Sabbath, as opposed to one on the other days of the week (Num 28:9, 19). In the New Testament, the "first day of the week" (Matt. 28:1; Mark 16:2; Acts 20:7; Rev. 1:10), commemorating Christ's resurrection, replaced the Jewish Sabbath as a regular period for Christian worship.

23:5. The passover goes back to Exodus 12:1–28 and commemorated the deliverance of the enslaved Israelites from Egypt by a mighty act of divine redemption. The event served as a wonderful illustration of the redemption Christ accomplished at Calvary (John 1:29; 1 Cor. 5:7): He was the offering without blemish (Ex. 12:5; 1 Pet. 1:19), the Lamb who had to be killed (Ex. 12:6; John 12:24, 27), whose blood had to be applied (Ex. 12:7; Heb. 9:22).

23:6. The feast of unleavened bread began on the evening of Passover (Ex. 12:6, 8) and lasted for seven days. On the first day, homes were to be cleared of leaven and a "holy convocation" was to be called (Ex. 12:16). This week was concluded with another convocation. The rituals are described in Numbers 28:16–25. This, along with the Feasts of Pentecost (Weeks) and Tabernacles, had the character of pilgrimage cele-

CHRIST IN THE FEASTS OF ISRAEL

23:2. The seven feasts or "holy convocations" listed in this chapter find their typological fulfillment in Christ. The first four feasts are already fulfilled, and the latter three will be fulfilled at the coming of Christ: (1) The Passover speaks of our redemption, which was accomplished on the Cross (1 Pet. 1:18, 19) and is followed by (2) The Feast of Unleavened Bread, typical of our justification (2 Cor. 5:21) and sanctification (1 Cor. 5:7), also accomplished by Christ on the Cross. (3) The Feast of Firstfruits was fulfilled in the resurrection of Christ (1 Cor. 15:20). (4) Pentecost was fulfilled when Christ sent the Holy Spirit to begin the harvest of the church (Acts 2:1–41). (5) The Feast of Trumpets will be fulfilled at the rapture of the church (1 Cor. 15:52; 1 Thess. 4:16, 17). (6) The Day of Atonement will be completed seven years later when Christ returns (Zech. 12:10; 13:1). (7) The Feast of Tabernacles will find its final fulfillment in Christ's thousand-year kingdom on earth (Zech. 14:16). Application: All of the feasts include a Sabbath, reminding Christians of their rest in Christ (Matt. 11:28, 29). (First Reference, Ex. 12; Primary Reference, Lev. 23; cf. John 7.)

8 But ye shall offer an offering made by fire unto the LORD seven days: in the seventh day is an holy convocation: ye shall do no servile work therein.

Firstfruits

9 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

10 Speak unto the children of Israel, and say unto them, *“*When ye be come into the land which I give unto you, and shall reap the harvest thereof, then ye shall bring a sheaf of the firstfruits of your harvest unto the priest:

11 And he shall *“*wave the sheaf before the LORD, to be accepted for you: on the morrow after the sabbath the priest shall wave it.

12 And ye shall offer that day when ye wave the sheaf an he lamb without blemish of the first year for a burnt offering unto the LORD.

13 And the ¹meat offering thereof shall be two tenth deals of fine flour mingled with oil, an offering made by fire unto the LORD for a ²sweet savour: and the drink offering thereof shall be of wine, the fourth part of an hin.

brations. All adult males in Israel were required to observe these three great feasts (Ex. 23:17; Deut. 16:16). Unleavened Bread and Passover are usually considered as one feast. By this feast, Israel not only expressed heartfelt joy for the Lord's deliverance, but was reminded of its devotion to the Law (Ex. 13:9) and the implications of covenant relationship.

23:10–14. Sheaf of the firstfruits: A “sheaf” was actually an “omer,” about two quarts, presented to the Lord on the second day of the Feast of Unleavened Bread. The “waving” by the priest before the Lord may have involved making the sign of the cross. This token offering was accompanied by burnt, grain, and drink offerings. The ceremony acknowledged God as the real author of all the land's crops by making a representative presentation of the crops to Him, thereby consecrating them. The concept of firstfruits is popular in the New Testament: referring to the earliest converts as the firstfruits of the Spirit (Rom. 8:23); to the Jews as precursors of the Christian church (Rom. 11:16); to individual believers (Rom. 16:5); to Christ as the firstfruits of resurrection (1 Cor. 15:20); to believers born again by the Word of God (James 1:18); and to the group that had been redeemed as firstfruits (Rev. 14:4).

23:15–22. The Feast of Pentecost occurred 50 days after the Feast of Firstfruits (thus Pentecost in Greek) and was regarded by later Jewish authorities as the complement or conclusion of the Passover celebrations, since it followed the latter by seven weeks. It lasted for only one day (Deut. 16:9–12), and was a joyous occasion when the entire nation gave thanks to a gracious heavenly Father for His abundant gifts of food. This was symbolized by two loaves baked with leaven (v. 17) and presented to the Lord, along with sacrificial animals, cereal gifts, and drink offerings. The feast reminded the Israelites that God's care and control reached into every area of life, making no distinctions between material and spiritual blessings. Pentecost symbolized the thankfulness of a people who were not only grateful for the firstfruits of the grain harvest but who looked forward to the culmination of the harvest season in the fall. On the Feast of Pentecost the Holy Spirit was first poured out on the apostles (Acts 2:1–4).

23:23-25. The Feast of Trumpets was one of three festivals that occurred in the seventh month (Tishri, September/October). It was to be a sabbath, or day of rest, when trumpets were blown to assemble the congregation (Num. 10:10). It signaled the beginning of the civil new year, Rosh Hashanah. In the postexilic period, the Torah was generally read in public in an atmosphere of rejoicing and celebration. The people were reminded of God's mercies, which would sustain them through the new year if they obeyed His covenant.

23:33-44. The feast of tabernacles was also referred to as "The Feast of Booths." It was seven days in length and concluded with a holy convocation (v. 36). During the week the people lived in booths or huts made of boughs (Neh. 8:14-18), or branches of palms, willows, or other native trees. It served as a reminder of the way in which the Israelites wandered about in the wilderness after the Exodus, living in tents and temporary shelters. God had provided for them in bringing them out of Egypt and through the wilderness (23:43). There were 189 animals sacrificed (Num. 29:12-38). It also celebrated the autumn harvest of fruits, when ye have gathered in the fruit of the land (v. 39) and olives (Ex. 23:16). According to Zechariah 14:16, it will be observed during the Millennium. Thus, the Feast of Tabernacles marked the climax of the religious year when a thankful people entered fully into the anticipated promises, resting fully in the God who had supplied their needs.

39 Also in the fifteenth day of the seventh month, when ye have ^agathered in the fruit of the land, ye shall keep a feast unto the LORD seven days: on the first day shall be a sabbath, and on the eighth day shall be a sabbath.

40 And ^aye shall take you on the first day the ¹boughs of goodly trees, branches of palm trees, and the boughs of thick trees, and willows of the brook; ^band ye shall rejoice before the LORD your God seven days.

The Penalty for Blasphemy

10 And the son of an Israelitish woman, whose father was an Egyptian, went out among the children of Israel: and this son of the Israelitish woman and a man of Israel ¹strove together in the camp;

11 And the Israelitish woman's son ^ablasphemed the name of the LORD, and ^bcursed. And they ^cbrought him unto Moses: (and his mother's name was Shelomith, the daughter of Dibri, of the tribe of Dan:)

24:1–23. The material in the chapter centers on two points: (1) laws of the Holy Place in relation to the lampstand (vv. 2–4) and the bread of the presence (vv. 5–9); and (2) laws concerning blasphemy—including the offense (vv. 10–12), the judgment of God (vv. 13–22), and the execution by the people (v. 23).

24:4. Pure candlestick: Actually, it was a “lampstand” (Ex. 27:20, 21) that was put in the Holy Place, which otherwise would have been completely dark. Some have seen the lampstand as typical of Israel, which, in God's purpose, was meant to be a light to the ancient Near Eastern nations. But the true light for revelation to the Gentiles, and for glory to His people Israel, is Jesus Christ (Luke 2:32; cf. Matt. 5:16; Eph. 5:8; Phil. 2:15).

24:5. Twelve cakes: These represented the 12 tribes of Israel, in the same way as the two onyx stones, each engraved with six names, served as “stones of memorial unto the children of Israel” (Ex. 28:9–12). Like circumcision (Gen. 17:13, 19) and the Sabbath (Ex. 31:16), the bread of the presence symbolized the “everlasting covenant” (v. 8) between God and Israel (Ps. 105:10; Rom. 11:26–29).

24:11. Blasphemed the name of the LORD, and cursed: The verb translated “blasphemed” actually means “to pierce” with the intent of debilitating a person. The word cursed means to declare someone to be “contentless” or without significance, and thus to deny that he has any power. The guilty person here did not pronounce a curse in our sense of the word, but rather attacked the Lord's holy nature and declared Him to be without content or significance. He was apparently one of the “mixed multitude” (Ex. 12:38; Num. 11:4).

12 And they ^aput him ¹in ward, ^bthat ²the mind of the LORD might be shewed them.

13 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

14 Bring forth him that hath cursed without the camp; and let all that heard him ^alay their hands upon his head, and let all the congregation stone him.

15 And thou shalt speak unto the children of Israel, saying, Whosoever curseth his God ^ashall ¹bear his sin.

16 And he that ^ablasphemeth the name of the LORD, he shall surely be put to death, and all the congregation shall certainly stone him: as well the stranger, as he that is born in the land, when he blasphemeth the name of the LORD, shall be put to death.

The Seventh Year Sabbath of Rest

25 And the LORD spake unto Moses in mount ^aSinai, saying,

2 Speak unto the children of Israel, and say unto them, When ye come into the land which I give you, then shall the land ^akeep a sabbath unto the LORD.

3 Six years thou shalt sow thy field, and six years thou shalt prune thy vineyard, and gather in the fruit thereof;

4 But in the ^aseventh year shall be a sabbath of ^brest unto the land, a sabbath for the LORD: thou shalt neither sow thy field, nor prune thy vineyard.

5 ^aThat which groweth of its own accord of thy harvest thou shalt not reap, neither gather the grapes of thy vine undressed: for it is a year of rest ¹unto the land.

6 And the sabbath of the land shall be meat for you; for thee, and for thy servant, and for thy maid, and for thy hired servant, and for thy stranger that sojourneth with thee,

7 And for thy cattle, and for the beast that are in thy land, shall all the increase thereof be meat.

The Fiftieth Year: Jubile

8 And thou shalt number seven sabbaths of years unto thee, seven times seven years; and the space of the seven sabbaths of years shall be unto thee forty and nine years.

24:14. Lay their hands upon his head: By this act, the people transferred to him whatever guilt might have accrued to the community. His subsequent death then atoned for his own and his hearers' sin. The sinner bears full personal responsibility (v. 15).

24:20. Eye for eye, tooth for tooth: This is one of three passages in the Old Testament setting out the so-called lex talionis (cf. Ex. 21:23-25; Deut. 19:21), a fundamental principle of biblical and Near Eastern law. It means that punishment must be proportionate to the offense. This phrase seems to have been just a formula. If a slave lost an eye, he was given his freedom (Ex. 21:26). The man who killed an ox had to pay its owner enough for him to buy another (v. 18). Only in the case of premeditated murder was such compensation forbidden (Num. 35:16-21). Then the principle of "life for life" must be literally enforced, because man is made in the image of God (Gen. 9:5, 6).

25:1-18. The phrase I am the LORD your God closes each of the three sections of this chapter (vv. 17, 38, 55). After the introduction (v. 1) the Jubilee is discussed as it relates to: (1) a sabbath for the land (vv. 2-22); (2) the redemption of property (vv. 23-38); (3) and the redemption of slaves (vv. 39-55). The major concerns of the chapter are related in the words and phrases such as jubile, return ... unto his possession, "thy brother be waxen poor" (v. 25), and fear thy God. The main purpose of these laws was to prevent the utter ruin of debtors. The basic theme was the liberation of that which was bound.

9 Then shalt thou cause the trumpet of the jubile to sound on the tenth day of the seventh month, ^ain the day of atonement shall ye make the trumpet sound throughout all your land.

10 And ye shall hallow the fiftieth year, and ^aproclaim liberty throughout all the land unto all the inhabitants thereof: it shall be a jubile unto you; ^band ye shall return every man unto his possession, and ye shall return every man unto his family.

11 A jubile shall that fiftieth year be unto you: ^aye shall not sow, neither reap that which groweth of itself in it, nor gather the grapes in it of thy vine undressed.

12 For it is the jubile; it shall be holy unto you: ^aye shall eat the increase thereof out of the field.

13 ^aIn the year of this jubile ye shall return every man unto his possession.

14 And if thou sell ought unto thy neighbour, or buyest ought of thy neighbour's hand, ye shall not ^aoppress one another:

15 ^aAccording to the number of years after the jubile thou shalt buy of thy neighbour, and according unto the number of years of the fruits he shall sell unto thee:

16 According to the multitude of years thou shalt increase the price thereof, and according to the fewness of years thou shalt diminish the price of it: for according to the number of the years of the fruits doth he sell unto thee.

17 ^aYe shall not therefore ¹oppress one another; ^bbut thou shalt fear thy God: for I am the LORD your God.

25:10. Proclaim liberty is the Hebrew derōr, and is related to the Akkadian anduraru—"freedom, liberty." It is a technical expression referring to the release of Hebrew slaves and of property every 50 years in the Year of Jubilee. This verse is inscribed on the American Liberty Bell. God owned the land, "for the land is mine; for ye are strangers and sojourners with me" (v. 23) and thus Israel was not to build up a landed aristocracy. The land would be distributed to Israel by lot, which depicted that God apportioned it according to His will. Chapter 25 prohibits anyone from selling himself or his land permanently. Isaiah

5:8 and Amos 2:6 depict violations of this law. Isaiah uses the term release in the famous passage (Is. 61:1) announcing good news to the afflicted, including a proclamation of "liberty" to captives. This text, anciently portraying the reversal of Jerusalem's material and spiritual fortunes, was quoted by Christ in the synagogue in Nazareth with reference to His own ministry (Luke 4:18, 19).

The only reference to such a release in Israel's history occurred during the reign of Zedekiah, when Jerusalem was under Babylonian siege (c. 587 B.C.).

jubile: "and in the jubile it shall go out, and he shall return unto his possession.

29 And if a man sell a dwelling house in a walled city, then he may redeem it within a whole year after it is sold; within a full year may he redeem it.

30 And if it be not redeemed within the space of a full year, then the house that is in the walled city shall be established for ever to him that bought it throughout his generations: it shall not go out in the jubile.

31 But the houses of the villages which have no wall round about them shall be counted as the fields of the country: they may be redeemed, and they shall go out in the jubile.

32 Notwithstanding "the cities of the Levites, and the houses of the cities of their possession, may the Levites redeem at any time.

33 And if a man ¹purchase of the Levites, then the house that was sold, and the city of his possession, shall go out in the year of jubile: for the houses of the cities of the Levites are their possession among the children of Israel.

34 But "the field of the suburbs of their cities may not be ^bsold; for it is their perpetual possession.

Redemption of the Poor

35 And if thy brother be waxen poor, and ¹fallen in decay with thee; then thou shalt ^arelieve² him: yea, though he be a stranger, or a sojourner; that he may live with thee.

36 "Take thou no ¹usury of him, or increase: but ^bfear thy God; that thy brother may live with thee.

37 Thou shalt not give him thy money upon usury, nor lend him thy victuals for increase.

38 "I am the LORD your God, which brought you forth out of the land of Egypt, to give you the land of Canaan, and to be your God.

26:1-46. This chapter is a collection of blessings on those who keep the law and of curses on those who do not. A collection of such blessings and curses was the usual way to close a major legal text in biblical times. The main section of Deuteronomy ends with a similar series of blessings and curses (Deut. 28). We also find this pattern in Exodus 23:25-33 and Joshua 24:20. It is a pattern that occurs outside the Bible in literature spanning the first three millennia B.C. Legal collections (such as the laws of Ur-Nammu, Lipit-Ishtar, and Hammurapi); Babylonian boundary stones; and Hittite, Aramean, and Assyrian treaties typically conclude with a section of blessings and curses. Such threats could be implemented as part of the superstitious belief of people in the ancient Near East. But for Israel, there was no doubt that the God who wrought the mighty act of deliverance at the Red Sea and judged the Egyptians and Pharaoh, could carry out such ominous threats or blessings.

26:1, 2. Certain prohibitions precede the blessings proper (vv. 3-13). Idols: The Hebrew term conveys the idea of "to be weak, deficient" and then is used primarily in Scripture to describe vain objects of worship, that is, the gods of this world, whether literal idols, riches, or deceitful men. Graven image: This was forbidden in Exodus 20:4 and was a cultic representation of deity such as has been found at several sites in Canaan. Standing image: It was apparently made of stone and probably intended to comprise a tangible indication of the presence of El or Baal, the two principal deities of Canaanite religion. The image of stone, or "figured stone," would no doubt have contained some carved picture of a Canaanite deity. There was one unearthed at Ugarit (Ras Shamra) depicting Baal hurling thunderbolts, which dates about 1800 B.C. The "keeping of the sabbath" and reverence for my sanctuary would be the best means of forestalling the corruptions of Canaanite religion.

26:3-13. There are three divisions of blessings (vv. 4, 6, 11) and each is prefaced with I will give. They include material prosperity (vv. 3-5), victory over the nation's enemies (vv. 6-9), the assurance of God's presence in the land (vv. 11, 12), and the dignity of personal freedom (v. 13). The mention of God's deliverance of Israel from Egypt would be a guarantee that the great King who initiated the covenant with His people would be able to perform all that He promised. The assurance of God's presence encouraged Moses in Exodus 3 and 6 and was a source of strength for many generations (Is. 11:1-16; Ezek. 36:28; 37:24-27). See Matthew 28:20 and Hebrews 13:8.

10 And ye shall eat ^aold store, and bring forth the old because of the new.

11 ^aAnd I will set my ¹tabernacle among you: and my soul shall not abhor you.

22 ^aI will also send wild beasts among you, which shall rob you of your children, and destroy your cattle, and make you few in number; and ^byour high ways shall be desolate.

23 And if ye ^awill not be reformed by me by these things, but will walk contrary unto me;

24 ^aThen will I also walk contrary unto you, and will punish you yet seven times for your sins.

25 And ^aI will bring a sword upon you, that shall avenge the quarrel of my covenant: and when ye are gathered together within your cities, ^bI will send the pestilence among you; and ye shall be delivered into the hand of the enemy.

26 ^aAnd when I have broken the staff of your bread, ten women shall bake your bread in one oven, and they shall deliver you your bread again by weight: and ^bye shall eat, and not be satisfied.

26:14-39. This section of curses follows the pattern of the ancient Near Eastern treaties, in that it was much larger in number than the enumerated blessings. The target would consist of consumption, a general term that might include dysentery, cholera, typhoid fever, typhus fever, malaria, tuberculosis, and various types of cancer. The burning ague, that shall consume the eyes, and cause sorrow of heart (causes life to wane), may be a reference to gonorrhoeal blindness. Then I will punish you seven times more for your sins indicates that these judgments are looked upon as God's discipline (Deut. 8:5; Ps. 38:1; 94:12; Prov. 3:11, 12; Jer. 30:11; 31:18; Zeph. 3:2, 7; Heb. 12:5-11).

Amos laments that, despite judgments of famine and drought, disease and defeat, "Yet have ye not returned unto me" (Amos 4:6, 8-11). The reference to "seven times" (vv. 18, 21, 24, 28) seems to be a round number for repeated punishments (cf. Ps. 79:12; Prov. 24:16; Is. 4:1).

The Book of Revelation portrays a series of seven-fold judgments overtaking the world in the last days (Rev. 5-16). And I will break the pride of your power indicates that quite often prosperity leads to pride and self-confidence (Deut. 8:11-19; 32:15).

Judgment cuts a man down to size and reminds him that his well-being really depends on God. The heaven as iron indicates no rain and earth as brass (bronze) indicates no crops (cf. Hag. 1:9-11). All of these curses were sent by God as a sword upon you, that shall avenge the quarrel of my covenant, which is best interpreted, "And I will bring the sword upon you to avenge the breaking of the covenant" (Judg. 2:11-15; 2 Kin. 17:7-23; Is. 10:5-19; Luke 19:42-44).

In verses 33-39, the exile of the people is predicted. In 722 B.C. the 10 northern tribes went into captivity to be followed by Judah in 587 B.C. (cf. 2 Chr. 36:20, 21).

Abandonment for Disobedience

27 And if ye will not for all this hearken unto me, but walk contrary unto me;

28 Then I will walk contrary unto you also in fury; and I, even I, will chastise you seven times for your sins.

29 ^aAnd ye shall ¹eat the flesh of your sons, and the flesh of your daughters shall ye eat.

30 And ^aI will destroy your high places, and cut down your images, and cast your carcases upon the carcases of your idols, and my soul shall abhor you.

31 And I will make your ^acities waste, and ^bbring your sanctuaries unto desolation, and I will not ^csmell the ¹savour of your sweet odours.

32 ^aAnd I will bring the land into desolation: and your enemies which dwell therein shall be astonished at it.

33 And ^aI will scatter you among the heathen, and will draw out a sword after you: and your land shall be desolate, and your cities waste.

34 ^aThen shall the land enjoy her sabbaths, as long as it lieth desolate, and ye be in your enemies' land; even then shall the land rest, and enjoy her sabbaths.

35 As long as it lieth desolate it shall rest; because it did not rest in your ^asabbaths, when ye dwelt upon it.

36 And upon them that are left alive of you I will ¹send a ^afaintness into their hearts in the lands of their enemies; and the sound of a shaken leaf shall chase them; and they shall flee, as fleeing from a sword; and they shall fall when none pursueth.

God Will Remember His Covenant

40 ^aIf they shall confess their iniquity, and the iniquity of their fathers, with their trespass which they trespassed against me, and that also they have walked contrary unto me;

41 And that I also have walked contrary unto them, and have brought them into the land of their enemies; if then their ^auncircumcised hearts be ^bhumbled, and they then ^caccept of the punishment of their iniquity:

42 Then will I ^aremember my covenant with Jacob, and also my covenant with Isaac, and also my covenant with Abraham will I remember; and I will ^bremember the land.

43 ^aThe land also shall be left of them, and shall enjoy her sabbaths, while she lieth desolate without them: and they shall accept of the punishment of their iniquity: because, even because they ^bdespised my judgments, and because their soul abhorred my statutes.

44 And yet for all that, when they be in the land of their enemies, ^aI will not cast them away, neither will I abhor them, to destroy them utterly, and to break my covenant with them: for I am the LORD their God.

45 But I will ^afor their sakes remember the covenant of their ancestors, ^bwhom I brought forth out of the land of Egypt ^cin the sight of the heathen, that I might be their God: I am the LORD.

26:40-46. The promise of punishment is given as "discipline" and its goal is restoration. Judgment does not prove that God has rejected His people. Rather He punishes them because they are His own (Amos 3:2). Thus, if they shall confess their iniquity ... if then their uncircumcised hearts be humbled, and they then accept of the punishment of their iniquity, God promises to remember my covenant with Jacob ... Isaac ... and ... Abraham.

What this remembering will mean in practice is not spelled out here, but Deuteronomy 30 explains that it will mean restoration to the Land of Promise and prosperity. The land and the covenant were all a vital part of the covenant in Exodus 6:8. "And I will bring you in unto the land, concerning the which I did swear to give it to Abraham, to Isaac, and to Jacob; and I will give it you for an heritage" (a possession or inheritance).

46 ^aThese are the statutes and judgments and laws, which the LORD made between him and the children of Israel ^bin mount Sinai by the hand of Moses.

Laws Regarding Vows

27 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

2 Speak unto the children of Israel, and say unto them, ^aWhen a man shall make a ¹singular vow, the persons shall be for the LORD by thy ²estimation.

3 And thy estimation shall be of the male from twenty years old even unto sixty years old, even thy ¹estimation shall be fifty shekels of silver, ^aafter the shekel of the sanctuary.

4 And if it be a female, then thy estimation shall be thirty shekels.

5 And if it be from five years old even unto twenty years old, then thy estimation shall be of the male twenty shekels, and for the female ten shekels.

6 And if it be from a month old even unto five years old, then thy estimation shall be of the male five shekels of silver, and for the female thy estimation shall be three shekels of silver.

7 And if it be from sixty years old and above; if it be a male, then thy estimation shall be fifteen shekels, and for the female ten shekels.

27:1-34. The final chapter deals in detail with vows, dedications, and tithes. The major sections are: (1) vows involving people and animals (vv. 2-13); (2) the dedication of houses and lands (vv. 14-24); and (3) miscellaneous regulations about vows including the standard payment (v. 25), the treatment of the firstborn (vv. 26, 27), the ban (vv. 28, 29), and then tithes (vv. 30-33). The vows could consist of offering service at the tabernacle of: (1) persons, (2) cattle, (3) houses, and (4) fields.

27:3-8. The most basic kind of vow was to dedicate oneself to the service of God as Absalom did in exile (2 Sam. 15:8), or as the psalmist (Ps. 116:14-18). The present verses merely state the rules in accordance with which a person dedicated by vow could be redeemed. This involved a special tariff similar to that paid for the redemption of the firstborn offspring of animals and human beings (Ex. 13:13; 34:20; Num. 18:15). The basis for the difference in the valuation of men and women in the special vows in this chapter was simply the value of their services

13 ^aBut if he will at all redeem it, then he shall add a fifth part thereof unto thy estimation.

14 And when a man shall ¹sanctify his house to be holy unto the LORD, then the priest shall estimate it, whether it be good or bad: as the priest shall estimate it, so shall it stand.

15 And if he that sanctified it will ¹redeem his house, then he shall add the fifth part of the money of thy estimation unto it, and it shall be his.

in the tabernacle. People who had been “vowed” to serve in the tabernacle could be “redeemed” from fulfilling this vow at certain rates. It had no relationship to intrinsic worth. One of the chief occupations of the sanctuary was the slaughtering and offering of animals, and in the wilderness, of disassembling and transporting the tabernacle. Thus it is easy to see that the service involving heavy manual work made the value of the service of men in the prime of their life much more costly to replace once they had been vowed to this work. This is clearly stated in verse 8 as according to his ability that vowed shall the priest value him.

27:13. Unclean animals could be vowed into service, even though they could not be sacrificed. If, however, the man preferred to keep his animal, he could redeem it for 20 percent more than the priest’s valuation.

27:14, 15. Houses were subject to a penalty of one-fifth the evaluation price if the original owner decided to redeem what he had vowed.

16 And if a man shall ¹sanctify unto the LORD some part of a field of his possession, then thy estimation shall be according to the seed thereof: an homer of barley seed shall be valued at fifty shekels of silver.

17 If he sanctify his field from the year of jubile, according to thy estimation it shall stand.

18 But if he sanctify his field after the jubile, then the priest shall reckon unto him the money according to the years that remain, even unto the year of the jubile, and it shall be ¹abated from thy estimation.

19 And if he that sanctified the field will in any wise redeem it, then he shall add the fifth part of the money of thy estimation unto it, and it shall be assured to him.

20 And if he will not redeem the field, or if he have sold the field to another man, it shall not be redeemed any more.

21 But the field, when it goeth out in the jubile, shall be holy unto the LORD, as a field ^bdevoted; ^cthe possession thereof shall be the priest's.

22 And if a man sanctify unto the LORD a field which he hath bought, which is not of the fields of ^ahis possession;

23 Then the priest shall reckon unto him the worth of thy estimation, even unto the year of the jubile: and he shall give thine estimation in that day, as a holy thing unto the LORD.

field shall return unto him of whom it was bought, even to him to whom the possession of the land did belong.

25 And all thy estimations shall be according to the shekel of the sanctuary: twenty gerahs shall be the shekel.

Things Devoted to the Lord

26 Only the ^afirstling¹ of the beasts, which should be the LORD's firstling, no man shall sanctify it; whether it be ox, or sheep: it is the LORD's.

27 And if it be of an unclean beast, then he shall redeem it according to thine estimation, and ^ashall add a fifth part of it thereto: or if it be not redeemed, then it shall be sold according to thy estimation.

28 ^aNotwithstanding¹ no ²devoted thing, that a man shall devote unto the LORD of all that he hath, both of man and beast, and of the field of his possession, shall be sold or redeemed: every devoted thing is most holy unto the LORD.

29 ^aNone devoted, which shall be devoted of men, shall be redeemed; but shall surely be put to death.

Vows Regarding Tithes

30 And ^aall the tithe of the land, whether of the seed of the land, or of the fruit of the tree, is the LORD's: it is holy unto the LORD.

31 ^aAnd if a man will at all redeem ought of his tithes, he shall add thereto the fifth part thereof.

27:16-29. The dedication of land was complex, since under the Year of Jubilee legislation such property reverted to the original owner at that time. The owner could redeem it by adding 20 percent to its value in relation to the approaching Year of Jubilee. If he failed to redeem it, or sold it in secret after having devoted it to the Lord, it would actually become the property of the priests at the Year of Jubilee. The firstlings of clean animals belonged to God in any event (Ex. 13:2), and therefore could not be vowed to the sanctuary (v. 26). Blemished ("unclean") animals could be redeemed by paying the usual 20 percent premium. Exodus 34:20 prescribed that the firstborn unclean animals should either be ransomed by a lamb or be killed. The devoted thing was a more solemn and irreversible vow than an ordinary dedication. Anyone or anything devoted to the Lord could not be ransomed. This would certainly discourage irresponsible acts of piety, as these sacrifices were regarded as the exclusive property of the Lord. This same word was the usual one to invoke the ban in wars against the native inhabitants of Canaan. In divine judgment, all of Israel's enemies and their property were devoted to the Lord (Num. 21:2; Deut. 7:2; 1 Sam. 15). It was also applied as a judicial sentence against idolaters (Ex. 22:20; Deut. 13:15). See Joshua 7 and the sin of Achan in taking the devoted thing.

27:30-33. The tithe, comprising 10 percent of all the produce, is regarded as the offering due from the people to the true owner of the land (25:23). If the tithe were to be redeemed, the normal 20 percent premium was to be paid to the priests. This chapter points out that holiness is more than a matter of divine call and correct ritual. It actually requires the total consecration of a man's life to God's service. It involves giving oneself, one's family, and all of one's possessions to God.

32 And concerning the tithing of the herd, or of the flock, even of whatsoever ^apasseth under the rod, the tenth shall be holy unto the LORD.

33 He shall not search whether it be good or bad, ^aneither shall he change it: and if he change it at all,

The Fourth Book of Moses Called NUMBERS

The Hebrew title for this book is “In the Wilderness,” which is quite descriptive of the contents. The English title has its origin in the Greek version of the Old Testament (Septuagint), where, by way of the Latin Vulgate, we get the English name. Only a few chapters (chs. 1–4, 26) are given over to numbering (census-taking), while the major portion of the book deals with the laws, regulations, and experiences of Israel in the wilderness. The two censuses break the book into its two logical divisions. Chapters 1–21 begin with a census and cover the years in the wilderness, while chapters 26–36 begin with a census of the new generation and tell of the months before entrance into Canaan. The Balaam story separates these two sections and forms a literary hinge connecting them.

Exodus concentrates on the deliverance from Egypt, the covenant at Sinai, and the erection of the tabernacle. Leviticus highlights the nature of true worship and holiness. Numbers focuses on the Land of Promise and Israel’s journey toward it. Leviticus emphasizes the importance of holiness and cleanliness. Numbers reiterates the value of faith and obedience. Leviticus stresses the role of sacrifice in creating and maintaining right relations between God and man, whereas Numbers accentuates the indispensability of the priesthood for preserving the nation’s spiritual health.

At least three theological strains run through the Book of Numbers: (1) the character of God, especially as He reveals Himself in punishing the wicked (11:25, 33; 12:5, 10; 14:10; 16:19, 42; 20:6); (2) the land as it had been given to Israel by the Lord (32:7, 9)—to be a holy land (35:34) and Israel’s permanent possession (36:9); and (3) Israel’s being the people of God who reflect God’s holiness and faithfulness in their lives.

Historical Setting. Numbers should be read in connection with Exodus, Leviticus, and Deuteronomy. Exodus 19:1 tells of Israel’s arrival in the wilderness of Sinai in the third month after the Hebrews left the land of Egypt. From the third to the twelfth months they received the Decalogue, instructions for building the tabernacle, and directions concerning the many details of the sacrificial system set forth in Leviticus. Then in Numbers, the people of Israel are taught how to function as a camp. Their religious, civil, and military economies are set in order in preparation for their journeying, worshiping, and conquering as a nation.

The sequence of events in the book is as follows. From Sinai, Israel journeyed north to the wilderness of Paran. There the spies who brought back an “evil report” instigated a rebellion, so the people refused to enter the land. Then, through foolish presumption, they suffered defeat at the hands of the Hittites. They were turned back to wander in the wilderness 38 more years. At the end of this period, they traveled to the plains of Moab, east of the Jordan, and defeated and occupied all of Trans-Jordan north of the river Arnon. Here they fell into sin with the Moabite and Midianite women and worshiped their gods. A new generation of Israel was numbered, and at the command of God destroyed the Midianites who had so harassed them. Gad and Reuben and the half-tribe of Manasseh were given possessions east of the Jordan, and Moses appointed Joshua as his successor. From chapter 20 through chapter 36, the book deals with events of the fortieth year (36:13). Numbers has much in common with Deuteronomy because of its many laws and regulations.

Authorship. Liberal scholars hold that much of what is related in the Book of Numbers is unhistorical. They may make some concessions that some of the material is factual, but they basically have proposed that the book is a composite of several documents. Such scholars designate most of the book as the P (Priestly) document, which they claim was written not earlier than the sixth or fifth century B.C., chiefly by priests of postexilic times. They do allow that some of Numbers is from J and E, two documents not older than the ninth and eighth centuries B.C. Even these earlier documents, they say, were far separated from Moses' time, and their traditions are so confused that they tell us little about the Mosaic period.

The Bible attests that Moses compiled the book during the wilderness wanderings (1447-1407 B.C.). The phrase "the LORD spake unto Moses" appears more than 80 times in the book, along with the statement "Moses wrote their goings out" (33:2). The chief arguments in favor of this view are statements within the Pentateuch that Moses did write some of it down (Ex. 24:4; Num. 33:2; Deut. 31:9, 22), the constant claim that the laws were revealed to him (Ex. 25:1; Lev. 1:1; Num. 1:1), and the New Testament record of Mosaic authorship (Matt. 8:4; 19:7; Luke 24:44; John 1:45). There are several indications of a second millennium B.C. dating for the book: (1) Parallels to the census lists (chs. 1, 26) are found in the Mari tablets (eighteenth century B.C.) from Mesopotamia, and in Old Kingdom Egyptian documents. (2) The names of the tribal leaders (1:5-15) are characteristically second millennium in form. (3) So was their mode of encampment, the tribes of Israel camping in a square with the tent of their divine King at the center (ch. 2); this arrangement was followed by Rameses II (thirteenth century B.C.) on his campaigns, whereas first millennium Assyrian royal tent enclosures were circular. (4) The role of the priests and Levites in guarding the tabernacle (ch. 4) finds parallels in second millennium B.C. Hittite texts. (5) The design of the lampstand (ch. 8) shows that it comes from the Late Bronze Age (sixteenth to thirteenth centuries B.C.). (6) Trumpets were used during the Egyptian New Kingdom (1570-1585 B.C.) to summon to war and worship (ch. 10). (7) The tasseled garments (ch. 15) are attested among Israel's neighbors from the mid-second millennium onward. (8) In style and form, the letter to Edom (ch. 20) resembles second-millennium diplomatic notes. (9) A bronze serpent (ch. 21) and a tent shrine used by Midianites in the twelfth century B.C. have been found at Timna. (10) The laws on sacrifice in chapters 28 and 29 resemble a fourteenth-century ritual calendar from Ugarit. And (11) the boundaries of Canaan as defined in chapter 34 correspond to those of the Egyptian province of Canaan in texts of the fifteenth to thirteenth centuries B.C.

their fathers, with the number of their names, every male ^bby their polls;

3 From ^atwenty years old and upward, all that are able to go forth to war in Israel: thou and Aaron shall number them by their armies.

Heads of Tribes of Israel

4 And with you there shall be a man of every tribe; every one head of the house of his fathers.

1:1-4. The LORD spake: A common phrase indicating that saving history begins with God speaking (Gen. 1:3; Lev. 1:1). Revelation is the foundation for a true belief. Here He speaks in the tabernacle, as in Leviticus He spoke "out of the tabernacle."

The phrase in the wilderness constitutes the Hebrew title to the book (bemidbar). Taken from the first few words, as was the custom in early writings (Genesis, Exodus, Leviticus, and Deuteronomy), this literary device indicates the antiquity of the works. The thought closely associated is the almost 40 years spent in the wilderness as a result of Israel's unbelief. On the first day of the second month, in the second year after they were come out of the land of Egypt indicates there is a break of just one month between the erecting of the tabernacle, at the end of Exodus, and the start of Numbers. It was one year and two weeks since the Exodus from Egypt, and 10½ months since their arrival in Sinai.

The command Take ye the sum was given one month after the tabernacle was set up (cf. Ex. 40:2, 17) and is probably the same as the command mentioned in Exodus 30:12 and 38:21. There the men were counted in connection with the atonement money, that is, from that day forward, to pay for the daily offerings of the community. Since Exodus 30 does not state that the census was carried out, it makes sense to assume this census is the implementation of the payment. Also, the figures mentioned in Exodus 38:26 and in Numbers 1:46 are identical (603,550 males from 20 years old and upward). This is the first of five Israelite censuses taken in the Old Testament. For the others see chapters 3, 4, 26, and 2 Samuel 24. Every male by their polls is an expression indicating the "skull, head, or person." It is usually used for counting people (Ex. 16:16; 38:26; Num. 3:47; 1 Chr. 23:3, 24).

Able to go forth to war is a phrase that occurs repeatedly in this chapter (vv. 3, 20, 22, 24) and stresses that the nation was being organized to invade the Promised Land. To opt out through doubt or fear was a great sin (ch. 14; Deut. 20). Twenty years old and upward indicates the prime of life, for Leviticus 27:3, 4 gave the highest valuation of people at this bracket. Deuteronomy 20:7 and 24:5 provide that those recently engaged or married were exempt from duty.

5 And these are the names of the men that shall stand with you: of the tribe of Reuben; Elizur the son of Shedeur.

6 Of Simeon; Shelumiel the son of Zurishaddai.

1:46. It is tragic that of these 603,550 men, 603,548 would later perish in the wilderness (14:29). The only two men who would eventually enter Canaan were Joshua and Caleb. The generation in 26:51 numbered 601,730 nearly 40 years later. The theological message of the numbering is clear. Every man in Israel must prepare himself to fight in God's army. All the elect people of God are recorded in the Book of Life; but they have to identify themselves with this people by proving their pedigree and registering themselves on the roll (Ex. 32:32, 33; Ps. 87:6; Is. 4:3; Dan. 12:1; Mal. 3:16).

Levites Are Not Numbered

47 But ^athe Levites after the tribe of their fathers were not numbered among them.

Tribes on the East Side of Camp

3 And on the ^aeast side toward the rising of the sun shall they of the standard of the camp of Judah ¹pitch throughout their armies: and ^bNahshon the son of Amminadab shall be captain of the children of Judah.

4 And his host, and those that were numbered of them, were three-score and fourteen thousand and six hundred.

5 And those that do ¹pitch next unto him shall be the tribe of Issachar: and Nethaneel the son of Zuar shall be captain of the children of Issachar.

6 And his host, and those that were numbered thereof, were fifty and four thousand and four hundred.

Some find problems with this number—603,550—for at least four reasons: (1) It is difficult to imagine so many people surviving in the wilderness for 40 years. (2) The numbers appear internally inconsistent, especially the ratio of firstborn sons to fathers, 1 to 27. (3) Some texts indicate there were too few Israelites to occupy Canaan all at once, yet there must have been over two million if these figures are taken. (4) There is a mathematical oddity, in that the numbers are rounded off to the nearest hundred.

There are four possible solutions set forth by different scholars: (1) The numbers are symbolic and related to astronomical periods. (2) They have suffered textual corruption by copyists, and the original figures were much smaller. (3) These figures are correct, but record the population of a later age in Israel's history, perhaps that of David. (4) These figures are accurate. This seems the best approach, and certainly God could have provided miraculously in the wilderness for such a large number of people.

1:47. The nonmilitary tribe of Levi had a separate census and did not receive a tribal allotment of land.

They were to transport, erect, and guard the tabernacle. They had to camp around it to prevent ordinary laymen from approaching it unprepared, so that “no wrath upon the congregation” (v. 53) from the Lord would come upon them. If someone approached wrongfully, he was to “be put to death.” This drastic measure certainly would express the reality of God's presence with His people (Ex. 19:11–13, 21–24). Even today men must approach God with reverent fear (Matt. 5:23–26; Acts 5:1–5; 1 Cor. 11:27–32; Heb. 12:18–29).

2:1–31. It is repeatedly said the Israelites were to encamp according to their armies (vv. 9, 10, 16, 18, 24, 25, 32) and each company was the leader's host (vv. 4, 6, 8, etc.). Host and company are the same Hebrew word (saba', cf. Lord of Sabaoth), which could be rendered “army.” The people were organized and marching to the Promised Land. The Egyptian army under Rameses II (thirteenth century B.C.) adopted this same type of formation in camp. Standard: The Hebrew (degel, vv. 2, 3, 10, 18, 25, 31, 34) refers to the group encamped around each standard. It would be more appropriately translated "company." The ensign (v. 2) by which each tribe camped was another piece of military equipment pictured in ancient inscriptions. Far off about the tabernacle of the congregation shall they pitch: Joshua 3:4 stipulates that a distance of two thousand cubits (one thousand yards) should separate the ark from the secular tribes. From 1:52, 53; 2:17, and chapter 3 we learn that the Levites were to encamp between the secular tribes and the tent of meeting.

The Levites Set Apart by God

11 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

12 And I, behold, ^aI have taken the Levites from among the children of Israel instead of all the firstborn that

2:34. Up to this time, the children of Israel did according to all that the LORD commanded Moses, contrasted to later events recorded in this book.

3:1-51. Chapters 3 and 4 record two censuses of the Levites. In chapter 3 all male Levites more than a month old are counted, whereas chapter 4 numbers all male Levites between 30 and 50 years of age. The tribe of Levi took the place of all the firstborn men in Israel. The result of the census showed that the number of male Levites fell short of the number of firstborn Israelites. So the extra Israelites had to be redeemed in a different way, by paying money.

3:1-4. The sons of Aaron, the priests: The family of Aaron did belong to the tribe of Levi (1 Chr. 6:1-15), but in the capacity of priests they possessed superior status to the rest of the tribe. They alone could handle the sacrificial blood, touch the altar, and enter the tent of meeting. They were the authoritative teachers in Israel (Lev. 10:11; Deut. 24:8), and the official mediators between God and Israel. Along with such a great privilege came an immense responsibility, one that Nadab and Abihu did not meet. Therefore they died before the LORD, offering strange fire. They were not punctilious in obeying God's Word, as He had not commanded them to do what they did (Lev. 10:1). This reference explains why only Eleazar and Ithamar are mentioned as being in charge of the Levites in 3:32; 4:16, 28, 33. Also, it sets forth the mortal danger men face in dealing with God, and thereby sets the tone for chapters 3 and 4 (vv. 10, 13, 38; 4:15, 18-20; cf. Acts 5:1-11; 12:22, 23; 1 Cor. 10:6-11; 11:29, 30).

Redemption of the Firstborn

44 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

45 ^aTake the Levites instead of all the firstborn among the children of Israel, and the cattle of the Levites instead of their cattle; and the Levites shall be mine: I am the LORD.

46 And for those that are to be ^aredeemed of the two hundred and threescore and thirteen of the firstborn of the children of Israel, ^bwhich are more than the Levites;

47 Thou shalt even take ^afive shekels apiece ^bby the poll, after the shekel of the sanctuary shalt thou take them: (^cthe shekel is twenty gerahs:)

48 And thou shalt give the money, wherewith the odd number of them is to be redeemed, unto Aaron and to his sons.

49 And Moses took the redemption money of them that were over and above them that were redeemed by the Levites:

50 Of the firstborn of the children of Israel took he the money; ^aa thousand three hundred and threescore and five shekels, after the shekel of the sanctuary:

51 And Moses ^agave the money of them that were redeemed unto Aaron and to his sons, according to the word of the LORD, as the LORD commanded Moses.

The Sons of Kohath

4 And the LORD spake unto Moses and unto Aaron, saying,

2 ¹Take the sum of the sons of ^aKohath from among the sons of Levi, after their families, by the house of their fathers,

3 ^aFrom thirty years old and upward even until fifty years old, all that enter into the host, to do the work in the tabernacle of the congregation.

4 ^aThis shall be the service of the sons of Kohath in the tabernacle of the congregation, about ^bthe most holy things:

Duties of Aaron and His Sons

5 And when the camp setteth forward, Aaron shall come, and his

7 And upon the ^atable of shewbread they shall spread a cloth of blue, and put thereon the dishes, and the spoons, and the bowls, and ¹covers to cover withal: and the ^bcontinual² bread shall be thereon:

8 And they shall spread upon them a cloth of scarlet, and cover the same with a covering of badgers' skins, and shall put in the staves thereof.

9 And they shall take a cloth of blue, and cover the ^acandlestick of the light, ^band his lamps, and his tongs, and his snuffdishes, and all the oil vessels thereof, wherewith they minister unto it:

10 And they shall put it and all the vessels thereof within a covering of badgers' skins, and shall put it upon a bar.

11 And upon ^athe golden altar they shall spread a cloth of blue, and cover it with a covering of badgers' skins, and shall put to the staves thereof:

Duties of the Sons of Kohath

15 And when Aaron and his sons have made an end of covering the sanctuary, and all the vessels of the sanctuary, as the camp is to set forward; after that, ^athe sons of Kohath shall come to bear it: ^bbut they shall not touch any holy thing, lest they die. ^cThese things are the burden of the sons of Kohath in the tabernacle of the congregation.

Kohathites Set Apart for Service

17 And the LORD spake unto Moses and unto Aaron, saying,

4:1-49. This chapter's census serves quite a different purpose from that in chapter 3. It is designed to distribute the work of dismantling, transporting, and erecting the tabernacle among the different Levitical clans. The work was dangerous, because it involved handling sacred equipment, which was heavy. Therefore it was restricted to men who were of sober outlook and physically strong. Men between the ages of 30 and 50 were chosen.

4:1-20. The Kohathites were entrusted with the care of the most holy things. These included the two altars (Ex. 29:37; 30:10) and the ark, the table, the lampstand, and all their utensils (Ex. 30:26-28). But they were not allowed to pack and unpack these items. Aaron and his sons had to do this, because if the Kohathites had looked upon these holy things, or uncovered them, they would have died (vv. 5-20; cf. 1 Sam. 6:19-21; 2 Sam. 6:6, 7). Implied in these two censuses are two principles: (1) Every member of the people of God had his part to play (1 Cor. 12:4-6). (2) Israel was a hierarchy and a theocracy with God at the top, followed by Moses and Aaron, who passed God's words on to the people. The priests, Aaron's sons, obeyed their father and so on with the Levites on down. Note the New Testament exhortation in Hebrews 13:17 to "obey them that have the rule over you, and submit yourselves" (cf. 1 Cor. 16:16; 1 Thess. 5:12, 13; and 1 Pet. 5:5). Then note the admonitions to leaders to "command" (1 Tim. 4:11) and "rebuke with all authority" (Titus 2:15), for by adhering to scriptural teaching "thou shalt both save thyself, and them that hear thee" (1 Tim. 4:16).

Moses to Number the Sons of Gershon

21 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

22 Take also the sum of the sons of ^aGershon, throughout the houses of their fathers, by their families;

23 ^aFrom thirty years old and upward until fifty years old shalt thou number them; all that enter in to perform the service, to do the work in the tabernacle of the congregation.

Duties of the Sons of Gershon

24 This is the ^aservice of the families of the Gershonites, to serve, and ¹for burdens:

25 ^aAnd they shall bear the ^bcurtains of the tabernacle, and the tabernacle of the congregation, his covering, and the covering of the ^c'badgers' skins that is above upon it, and the hanging for the door of the tabernacle of the congregation,

26 And the hangings of the court, and the hanging for the door of the gate of the court, which is by the tabernacle and by the altar round about, and their cords, and all the instruments of their service, and all that is made for them: so shall they serve.

27 At the ¹appointment of Aaron and his sons shall be all the service of the sons of the Gershonites, in all their burdens, and in all their service: and ye shall ²appoint unto them in charge all their burdens.

28 This is the service of the families of the sons of Gershon in the tabernacle of the congregation: and their ¹charge shall be ^aunder the hand of Ithamar the son of Aaron the priest.

The Command to Cleanse the Camps

5 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

2 Command the children of Israel, that they put out of the camp every ^aleper, and every one that hath ¹an ^bissue, and whosoever is ^cdefiled ²by the dead:

3 Both male and female shall ye put out, ¹without the camp shall ye put them; that they defile not their camps, ^ain the midst whereof I dwell.

Laws Regarding Restitution

5 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

6 Speak unto the children of Israel, ^aWhen a man or woman shall commit any sin that men commit, ¹to do a trespass against the LORD, and that person be guilty;

7 ^aThen they shall confess their sin which they have done: and he shall ¹recompense his trespass ^bwith the principal thereof, and add unto it the fifth part thereof, and give it unto him against whom he hath trespassed.

8 But if the man have no ¹kinsman to recompense the trespass unto, let the trespass be recompensed unto the LORD, even to the priest; beside ^athe ram of the atonement, whereby

5:1-31. Chapters 5-10 describe the setting-apart of the people of God in certain areas: (1) by separation from defiling things (ch. 5); (2) in the taking of a Nazarite vow (ch. 6); (3) by the offerings of the princes (ch. 7); (4) by the setting apart of the Levites (ch. 8); (5) by observing the first annual Passover (9:1-14); and (6) by being led by God Himself (9:15-10:10).

5:1-4. Lepers, those with discharges, and those who had come in contact with the dead were to be put out of the camp. These items were addressed in Leviticus 13, 15, and 21:2 and 3. The reason was that God dwelt there, in the midst of the camp. See 1 Corinthians 5; 2 Corinthians 6:14-7:13; 2 Thessalonians 3:14; Titus 3:10, 11; 2 John 10, 11; and Revelation 21:3, 4, 27.

13 And a man ^alie with her carnally, and it be hid from the eyes of her husband, and be kept close, and she be defiled, and there be no witness against her, neither she be ^btaken with the manner;

14 And the spirit of jealousy come upon him, and he be ^ajealous of his wife, and she be defiled: or if the spirit of jealousy come upon him, and he be jealous of his wife, and she be not defiled:

The Test of Bitter Water

16 And the priest shall bring her near, and set her before the LORD:

17 And the priest shall take holy water in an earthen vessel; and of the dust that is in the floor of the tabernacle the priest shall take, and put it into the water:

18 And the priest shall set the woman before the ^aLORD, and uncover the woman's head, and put the offering of memorial in her hands, which is the jealousy offering: and the priest shall have in his hand the bitter water that causeth the curse:

19 And the priest shall charge her by an oath, and say unto the woman, If no man have lain with thee, and if thou hast not gone aside to uncleanness with another instead of thy husband, be thou free from this bitter water that causeth the curse:

20 But if thou hast gone aside to another instead of thy husband, and if thou be defiled, and some man have lain with thee beside thine husband:

21 Then the priest shall ^acharge the woman with an oath of cursing, and the priest shall say unto the woman, ^bThe LORD make thee a curse and an oath among thy

5:5-10. There are three matters Israel must make right before they enter the Promised Land, so as not to squabble among themselves and neglect God's plan for them as a nation. The first two items are an invitation to all who had stolen things or otherwise defrauded their neighbors. These things must be made right (Lev. 6:1-5). Then, details are given in the event of that person's death. If he has died, restitution must be made to his near relatives; if they are all dead, restitution must be made to the priest. Sin must be paid for.

5:11-14. Adulterous wives are picked out for special attention because this act pollutes those involved, making them unclean (vv. 13, 19, 28; Lev. 18:20, 25, 27).

5:15-18. She is to be brought unto the priest, who in turn will set her before the LORD. God will be the judge in this case, as the man has only suspicions, a "spirit of jealousy," but no witnesses (that is, earthly witnesses) are available. But an omniscient God saw it all. The last part of verse 15 could be rendered "a reminder offering to draw attention to guilt," indicating this offering will draw the Lord's attention (1 Kin. 17:18; Ezek. 21:23, 24; 29:16). Holy water appears only here in the Old Testament. Water symbolizes life and fertility (Ps. 1:3; Jer. 17:13) and occasionally life is a figure of speech for male semen (Prov. 5:16; cf. 9:17). Dust refers to Abraham's seed, the food the serpent ate, and what man was created from. Bitter water likely refers to the effect rather than the taste.

5:19-28. This relates the decision. Thy thigh to rot and thy belly to swell: In adultery the woman sinned with her thigh and conceived in her belly. What it means medically is uncertain. But the contrast with the innocent wife indicates that she would be childless, and be "a curse among her people." Genesis 20:17 mentions that Abimelech's wives became sterile as a result of his intention to commit adultery with Sarah, and Leviticus 20:20 and 21 predict the same will befall couples guilty of incestuous relationships. God would thus come to the aid of a "jealous" husband if he had no other proof. The importance of purity in marriage is also underscored, for marriage was a picture of the relationship between God and His people (cf. Jer. 2:1-3:5).

people, when the LORD doth make thy thigh to ¹rot, and thy belly to swell;

22 And this water that causeth the curse ^ashall go into thy bowels, to make thy belly to swell, and thy thigh to rot: ^bAnd the woman shall say, Amen, amen.

23 And the priest shall write these curses in a book, and he shall blot them out with the bitter water:

24 And he shall cause the woman to drink the bitter water that causeth the curse: and the water that causeth the curse shall enter into her, and become bitter.

25 ^aThen the priest shall take the jealousy offering out of the woman's hand, and shall ^bwave the offering before the LORD, and offer it upon the altar:

26 And the priest shall take an handful of the offering, ^aeven the memorial thereof, and burn it upon the altar, and afterward shall cause the woman to drink the water.

27 And when he hath made her to drink the water, then it shall come to pass, that, if she be defiled, and have done trespass against her husband, that the water that causeth the ^acurse shall enter into her, and become bitter, and her belly shall swell, and her thigh shall rot: and the woman ^bshall be a curse among her people.

28 And if the woman be not defiled, but be clean; then she shall be free, and shall conceive seed.

Laws Regarding a Nazarite

6 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

2 Speak unto the children of Israel, and say unto them, When either man or woman shall ^aseparate¹ themselves to vow a vow of a ²Nazarite, to separate themselves unto the LORD:

3 ^aHe shall separate himself from wine and strong drink, and shall drink no vinegar of wine, or vinegar of strong drink, neither shall he drink any liquor of grapes, nor eat moist grapes, or dried.

4 All the days of his ¹separation shall he eat nothing that is made of the ²vine tree, from the kernels even to the husk.

5 All the days of the vow of his separation there shall no ^arazor come upon his head: until the days be fulfilled, in the which he separateth himself unto the LORD, he shall be holy, and shall let the locks of the hair of his head grow.

6:2. Nazarite means “to be set apart” and is explained as a separation unto the LORD. The vow was taken by men or women who desired to consecrate themselves in an outstanding or unusual manner. It was a total consecration to the service of the Lord, usually for a specific period of time (though more rarely for life—Samson, Samuel, and John the Baptist). The nation was to be a “kingdom of priests” (Ex. 19:6) and the rules voluntarily assumed by the Nazarites resembled those governing the behavior of priests. Actually, the restrictions placed on Nazarites suggest that their sanctity exceeded that of ordinary priests and resembled that of the high priest. Priests were prohibited from drinking alcohol only before going on duty in the tabernacle (Lev. 10:9); but Nazarites were forbidden to consume any products of the vine at any time (vv. 3, 4). Ordinary priests could mourn their closest relatives, but high priests and Nazarites could not (v. 7; cf. Lev. 21:2, 3). At the completion of his vow the Nazarite had to offer the same range of sacrifices (burnt, cereal, peace, and sin) as Aaron did at his ordination (vv. 13–20; Lev. 8). The Nazarite's long hair and the high priest's diadem and anointing oil are all called nezer, for in both cases these were outward symbols of the holiness expected of them (Lev. 8:9; 21:12; 2 Kin. 11:12). A Nazarite was to be separated from wine, grape products, and dead bodies. Ultimately, he was to be separated “unto the LORD” (vv. 2, 5, 6, 12). He was “holy unto the LORD” (v. 8). The same root nezer translated “consecration” (v. 7) or “head of his consecration” (v. 9) denotes the characteristic mark of the Nazarite, his uncut hair (Judg. 16:17, 22), which had to be returned to God in the sacrificial fire when the vow was completed (v. 18). Marriage symbolized the relationship between God and Israel (ch. 5). The Nazarites symbolized the holy calling of the nation (Jer. 7:29). Pollution through dead bodies demanded the expulsion of ordinary laymen from the camp (5:2, 3), but it had an even more drastic effect on the Nazarites, who were the epitome of sanctity (vv. 9–12).

6 All the days that he separateth himself unto the LORD ^ahe shall ¹come at no dead body.

7 ^aHe shall not ¹make himself unclean for his father, or for his mother, for his brother, or for his sister, when they die: because the ²consecration of his God is upon his head.

8 ^aAll the days of his separation he is holy unto the LORD.

9 And if any man die very suddenly by him, and he hath defiled the head of his consecration; then he shall ^ashave his head in the day of his cleansing, on the seventh day shall he shave it.

10 And ^aon the eighth day he shall bring two turtles, or two young pigeons, to the priest, to the door of the tabernacle of the congregation:

11 And the priest shall offer the one for a sin offering, and the other for a burnt offering, and make an atonement for him, for that he sinned by the dead, and shall hallow his head that same day.

12 And he shall consecrate unto the LORD the days of his separation, and shall bring a lamb of the first year ^afor a trespass offering: but the days that were before shall be ¹lost, because his separation was defiled.

Days of Separation Fulfilled

13 And this is the law of the Nazarite, ^awhen the days of his separation are fulfilled: he shall be brought unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation:

Offerings by the Tribal Princes

7 And it came to pass on the day that Moses had fully ^aset up the tabernacle, and had ^banointed it, and sanctified it, and all the instruments thereof, both the altar and all the vessels thereof, and had anointed them, and sanctified them;

2 That ^athe princes of Israel, heads of the house of their fathers, who were the princes of the tribes, and ^bwere over them that were numbered, offered:

3 And they brought their offering before the LORD, six covered wagons, and twelve oxen; a wagon for two of the princes, and for each one an ox: and they brought them before the tabernacle.

Twelve Days of Offerings

10 And the princes offered ¹for ^adedicating of the altar in the day that it was anointed, even the princes offered their offering before the altar.

11 And the LORD said unto Moses, They shall offer their offering, each prince on his day, for the dedicating of the altar.

First Day: The Prince of Judah

12 And he that offered his offering the first day was ^aNahshon the son of Amminadab, of the tribe of Judah:

13 And his offering was one silver charger, the weight thereof was an hundred and thirty shekels, one silver bowl of seventy shekels, after ^athe shekel of the sanctuary; both of them were full of fine flour mingled with oil for a ^bmeat offering:

7:1-89. Numbers 7-9 records events whose beginning and end are marked by the inclusion of on the day that Moses had fully set up the tabernacle (7:1; 9:15). Chapter 7 records the princes of Israel and their gifts for the altar. It serves a theological purpose in that it follows the Aaronic blessing in 6:22-27 and associates the priesthood and the altar, since they belong together. The princes ("leaders") are depicted as responding to the grace of God shown in the establishment of the tabernacle and priesthood. Their generous response in giving leads to a greater blessing, God's continued presence among them as God spoke to Moses from off the mercy seat that was upon the ark of testimony, from between the two cherubims (v. 89). The tabernacle was no empty shrine but was the palace of the living God. This chapter emphasizes that sacrifice and ministry are essential to the life of God's people.

AARONIC BLESSING

6:22-26. The special blessing of the Lord upon His people was pronounced by Aaron, the high priest, and by subsequent priests of the Lord. Known as the "priestly blessings" or "Aaronic blessing," it was pronounced with hands lifted up (Lev. 9:22). In later Jewish tradition, the blessing was pronounced at the conclusion of the morning and evening sacrifices. The form of the blessing consists of three sentences of two parts each:

The Lord bless you, and keep you.

The Lord make His face to shine upon you, and be gracious to you.

The Lord lift up His countenance upon you, and give you peace.

Illustration: The early church fathers viewed the blessing as a reflection of the Trinity. The first part the work of the Father, the second part the work of the Son, and the third part the work of the Holy Spirit.

Application: The significance of the blessing indicates the special relationship between God and His people which is mediated by the one pronouncing the blessing, as can be seen in Jesus' Beatitudes of blessing (Matt. 5:3-12; cf. Deut. 9:1).

85 Each charger of silver weighing an hundred and thirty shekels, each bowl seventy: all the silver vessels weighed two thousand and four hundred shekels, after the shekel of the sanctuary:

86 The golden spoons were twelve, full of incense, weighing ten shekels apiece, after the shekel of the sanctuary: all the gold of the spoons was an hundred and twenty shekels.

Burnt Offerings by the Princes

87 All the oxen for the burnt offering were twelve bullocks, the rams twelve, the lambs of the first year twelve, with their meat offering: and the kids of the goats for sin offering twelve.

Peace Offerings by the Princes

88 And all the oxen for the sacrifice of the peace offerings were twenty and four bullocks, the rams sixty, the he goats sixty, the lambs of the first year sixty. This was the dedication of the altar, after that it was ^aanointed.

God Speaks to Moses

89 And when Moses was gone into the tabernacle of the congregation ^ato speak with ¹him, then he heard ^bthe voice of one speaking unto him from off the mercy seat that was upon the ark of testimony, from ^cbetween the two cherubims: and he spake unto him.

8:1–4. The andlestick was a seven-branched flowering lampstand, which symbolized the life-giving power of God. In shape it is closely related to Late Bronze Age designs (sixteenth to thirteenth centuries B.C.). Aaron was to position the seven oil lamps placed at the end of each branch of the lampstand so that they give light over [they are to light the area in front of the lampstand] against the candlestick. When one understands the design of the Holy Place, this becomes significant. The light would shine over the table of showbread, where the 12 loaves of bread, symbolizing the 12 tribes of Israel, were located (Lev. 24:5–9). Light and fire represent the continuous life-giving presence and blessing on God's people.

Aaron to Light the Lamps

8 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

2 Speak unto Aaron, and say unto him, When thou ^alightest the lamps, the seven ^blamps shall give light over against the candlestick.

3 And Aaron did so; he lighted the lamps thereof over against the candlestick, as the LORD commanded Moses.

4 ^aAnd this work of the candlestick was of beaten gold, unto the shaft thereof, unto the flowers thereof, was ^bbeaten work: ^caccording unto the pattern which the LORD had shewed Moses, so he made the candlestick.

Cleansing Rituals for Levites

7 And thus shalt thou do unto them, to cleanse them: Sprinkle ^awater of purifying upon them, and ^blet them ¹shave all their flesh, and let them wash their clothes, and so make themselves clean.

8:5-22. The dedication of the Levites was to take the place of the firstborn (vv. 16, 17; Ex. 13:2). The sin offering and the burnt offering make an atonement for the Levites, whereas they in turn make an atonement for the children of Israel. The Levites were to do the service of the tabernacle of the congregation (v. 15) and are said to be wholly given unto me from among the children of Israel (vv. 16, 18), that is, to the Lord. Israel would be protected from the plague through the ministry of the Levites. Mass death often was the result when men provoked God's anger (Ex. 12:13; 30:12; Num. 16:46, 48; Josh. 22:17; cf. Num. 25:9), because men who are defiled by sin dare not approach the holy God lest judgment break forth (Ex. 19:10-24).

21 ^aAnd the Levites ¹were purified, and they washed their clothes; and Aaron offered them as an offering before the LORD; and Aaron made an atonement for them to cleanse them.

22 ^aAnd after that went the Levites in to do their service in the tabernacle of the congregation before Aaron, and before his sons: ^bas the LORD had commanded Moses concerning the Levites, so did they unto them.

Age Limits for Service

23 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

Passover Observed

4 And Moses spake unto the children of Israel, that they should keep the passover.

5 And ^athey kept the passover on the fourteenth day of the first month at even in the wilderness of Sinai: according to all that the LORD commanded Moses, so did the children of Israel.

The Defiled Can Observe Passover Later

6 And there were certain men, who were ^adefiled by the dead body of a man, that they could not keep the passover on that day: ^band they came before Moses and before Aaron on that day:

7 And those men said unto him, We are defiled by the dead body of a man: wherefore are we ¹kept back, that we may not offer an offering of the LORD in his appointed season among the children of Israel?

8 And Moses said unto them, Stand still, and ^aI will hear what the LORD will command concerning you.

9 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

10 Speak unto the children of Israel, saying, If any man of you or of your ¹posterity shall be unclean by reason of a dead body, or be in a journey afar off, yet he shall keep the passover unto the LORD.

11 ^aThe fourteenth day of the second month at even they shall keep it, and ^beat it with unleavened bread and bitter herbs.

12 ^aThey shall leave none of it unto the morning, ^bnor break any bone of it: ^caccording to all the ¹ordinances of the passover they shall keep it.

9:1-14. This episode concludes the section (7:1—9:14) relating events that took place before the census of 1:1. The issue at stake was what to do with certain men, who were defiled by the dead body of a man. Could they celebrate passover? The answer is “yes,” but one month later. But it is added that if the man ...

is clean, and is not in a journey, and forbearth to keep the passover, he shall be cut off. It is a threat of sudden death at the hands of God (Lev. 17:4, 9; 20:6, 18; 23:29; Num. 15:30, 31; 19:13). Note in the New Testament the need for observing Christ’s Passover as the true paschal lamb (John 6:53).

to keep the passover, even the same soul ^ashall be cut off from among his people: because he ^bbrought not the offering of the LORD ¹in his appointed season, that man shall ^cbear his sin.

14 And if a stranger shall ¹sojourn among you, and will keep the passover unto the LORD; according to the ordinance of the passover, and according to the manner thereof, so shall he do: ^aye shall have one ²ordinance, both for the stranger, and for him that was born in the land.

The Cloud by Day; Fire by Night

15 And ^aon the day that the tabernacle was reared up the cloud ^bcovered the tabernacle, namely, the tent of the testimony: and ^cat even there was upon the tabernacle as it were the appearance of fire, until the morning.

16 So it was always: the cloud covered it by day, and the appearance of fire by night.

The Cloud Leads Israel on Their Journey

17 And when the cloud ^awas ¹taken up from the tabernacle, then after that the children of Israel journeyed: and in the place where the cloud abode, there the children of Israel pitched their tents.

18 At the ¹commandment of the LORD the children of Israel journeyed, and at the commandment of the LORD they ²pitched: ^aas long as the cloud abode upon the tabernacle they rested in their tents.

19 And when the cloud ¹tarried long upon the tabernacle many days, then the children of Israel ^akept the charge of the LORD, and journeyed not.

20 And so it was, when the cloud was a few days upon the tabernacle; according to the commandment of the LORD they abode in their tents, and according to the commandment of the LORD they journeyed.

The Two Silver Trumpets

10 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

2 Make thee two trumpets of silver; of a whole piece shalt thou make them: that thou mayest use them for the ^acalling of the assembly, and for the journeying of the camps.

Various Trumpet Calls

3 And when ^athey shall blow with them, all the assembly shall assemble themselves to thee at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation.

4 And if they blow but with one trumpet, then the princes, which are ^aheads of the thousands of Israel, shall gather themselves unto thee.

5 When ye blow an ^aalarm, then ^bthe camps that lie on the east parts shall go forward.

6 When ye blow an alarm the second time, then the camps that lie ^aon the south side shall ¹take their journey: they shall blow an alarm for their journeys.

7 But when the congregation is to be gathered together, ^aye shall blow, but ye shall not ^bsound an alarm.

9:15–23. This event goes back to the first day of the second year (Ex. 40:2). This passage elaborates and develops Exodus 40:34–38 in a poetic fashion. God would perfectly guide and lead them into the Promised Land; at the commandment of the LORD they pitched ... and according to the commandment of the LORD they journeyed (vv. 18, 20). Up to this point they kept the charge of the LORD, at the commandment of the LORD by the hand of Moses (v. 23).

8 ^aAnd the sons of Aaron, the priests, shall blow with the trumpets; and they shall be to you for an ¹ordinance for ever throughout your generations.

9 And ^aif ye go to war in your land against the enemy that ^boppresseth you, then ye shall blow an alarm with the trumpets; and ye shall be ^cremembered before the LORD your God, and ye shall be saved from your enemies.

Trumpets Blown for All Feast Days

10 Also ^ain the day of your gladness, and in your ¹solemn days, and in the beginnings of your months, ye shall blow with the trumpets over your burnt offerings, and over the sacrifices of your peace offerings; that they may be to you ^bfor a memorial before your God: I am the LORD your God.

12 And the children of Israel took ^atheir journeys out of the ^bwilderness of Sinai; and the cloud rested in the ^cwilderness of Paran.

25 And ^athe standard of the camp

10:1-10. Two trumpets of silver were used to coordinate the movements of the tribes on their march through the wilderness. The cloud would guide them, but the trumpets would give more precise means of control. They actually complete and complement the means of divine guidance given in 9:15-23. Trumpets like these were used in ancient Egypt from the sixteenth to the eleventh centuries B.C. in warfare and to summon people to worship. With the tabernacle in the middle of the camp, and the tribes situated in battle formation, the silver trumpets declared that God's people were in the army of the great King, preparing for a holy war of conquest. The trumpets are pictured on the arch of Titus in Rome.

10:11-36. This portion begins the stage of the journey from Sinai to Kadesh-barnea (10:11-12:16). They left after spending 11 months in the wilderness of Sinai. Paran covered much of the northern Sinai peninsula, some of the southern Sinai peninsula (Negeb), and Arabah (Gen. 21:21, Num. 13:26; 1 Kin. 11:18). They journeyed according to the commandment of the LORD by the hand of Moses (v. 13; 9:23). Moses asked Hobab, the son of Raguel (Moses' father-in-law, Reuel or Jethro), who had earlier given him valuable advice about organizing the people (Ex. 18), to function as eyes for the Israelites. Judges 1:16 indicates he did as Moses requested. The Midianites were a group of tribes living in the desert area surrounding Canaan. Elsewhere Hobab's descendants are called Kenites, evidently a subgroup of the Midianites (Judg. 1:16; 4:11). Divine guidance does not exclude human help. Moses' faith stands in direct contrast to the people's murmuring in 11:1. Note his words, Rise up, LORD, and let thine enemies be scattered (cf. Ps. 68:1) as he started out in the morning, and then in the evening his words Return, O LORD, unto the many thousands of Israel.

of the children of Dan set forward, *which*¹ was the rereward of all the camps throughout their hosts: and over his host was Ahiezer the son of Ammishaddai.

26 And over the host of the tribe of the children of Asher was Pagiel the son of Ocran.

27 And over the host of the tribe of the children of Naphtali was Ahira the son of Enan.

28 ^aThus ¹were the journeyings of the children of Israel according to their armies, when they set forward.

Moses' Father in Law

29 And Moses said unto "Hobab, the son of ^bRaguel¹ the Midianite, Moses' father in law, We are journeying unto the place of which the LORD said, ^cI will give it you: come thou with us, and ^dwe will do thee good: for ^ethe LORD hath ²spoken good concerning Israel.

The People Complain

11 And ^awhen the people complained, it displeased the LORD: and the LORD heard it; ^band his anger was ¹kindled; and the ^cfire of the LORD burnt among them, and consumed them that were in the ²utmost parts of the camp.

2 And the people ^acried unto Moses; and when Moses ^bprayed unto the LORD, the fire was ¹quenched.

3 And he called the name of the place ¹Taberah: because the fire of the LORD burnt among them.

4 And the ^amixt multitude that was among them ¹fell a ^blusting; and the children of Israel also wept again, and said, ^c"Who shall give us flesh to eat?"

6 But now ^aour ¹soul is dried away: there is nothing at all, beside this manna, before our eyes.

11:1-3. These verses contain the first of three complaints in this section. Taberah: The fire of the LORD left an impression upon the people, so much so that Moses named the site "Place of Burning." They start to grumble and complain (Ex. 15:24; 16:2; 17:3; Num. 11:4; 14:2; 16:3; 20:3; 21:5). Verse 1 literally says, "The people are as those who complain about evil." We are not told what actually burned, whether it was just shrubs near the tents or some tents themselves.

11:4-35. Kibroth-hattaavah means "Graves of Craving." Much of the discontent among the Israelites centered around the supply of food and water and their discontent with God's provision (Ex. 16:2; Num. 20). Mixt multitude is translated "rabble" by some commentators. It must refer to the non-Israelites who joined the Exodus (Ex. 12:38; Lev. 24:10).

They are the ones who began to complain and stir up Israel. They longed for the fresh vegetables, fish, and meat they had eaten in Egypt. Actually they were expressing their opposition to God's purpose that they should settle in Canaan (vv. 18, 20; 14:2ff.; 20:5; Ex. 14:11ff.; 16:3; 17:3). And they were certainly displeased with God's provision of manna for food.

Two cubits high upon the face of the earth: The quails may not have covered the ground to a depth of two cubits (three feet), but, as the Vulgate, the Targums, and Rashi agree, they may have kept flying around the camp at a height of about three feet so the people could knock them down easily. The psalmist remarks concerning this episode: "And he gave them their request; but sent leanness into their soul" (Ps. 106:15).

7 And ^athe manna was as coriander seed, and the colour thereof as the colour of bdellium.

8 And the people went about, and gathered it, and ground it in mills, or beat it in a mortar, and baked it in pans, and made cakes of it: and ^athe taste of it was as the taste of fresh oil.

9 And ^awhen the dew fell upon the camp in the night, the manna fell upon it.

Moses Complains to God

10 Then Moses heard the people weep throughout their families, every man in the door of his tent: and ^athe anger of the LORD was ¹kindled greatly; Moses also was displeased.

11 ^aAnd Moses said unto the LORD, Wherefore hast thou afflicted thy servant? and wherefore have I not found favour in thy sight, that thou layest the ¹burden of all this people upon me?

12 Have I conceived all this people? have I begotten them, that thou shouldst say unto me, ^aCarry them in thy bosom, as a ^bnursing father beareth the sucking child, unto the land which thou ^cswarest¹ unto their fathers?

13 ^aWhence should I have ¹flesh to give unto all this people? for they weep unto me, saying, Give us flesh, that we may eat.

14 ^aI am not able to bear all this people alone, because it is too heavy for me.

15 And if thou ¹deal thus with me, kill me, I pray thee, ²out of hand, if I have found favour in thy sight; and let me not ^asee my wretchedness.

God's Spirit Rests on Elders

24 And Moses went out, and told the people the words of the LORD, and ^agathered the seventy men of the elders of the people, and set them round about the tabernacle.

25 And the LORD came down in a cloud, and spake unto him, and took of the spirit that was upon him, and gave it unto the seventy elders: and it came to pass, that, a when the spirit rested upon them, ^bthey prophesied, and did not ¹cease.

God Sends a Plague on Israel

33 And while the “flesh¹ was yet between their teeth, ere it was chewed, ²the wrath of the LORD was kindled against the people, and the LORD ³smote the people with a very great plague.

34 And he called the name of that place ¹Kibroth-hattaavah: because there they buried the people that ²lusted.

35 *a*And the people journeyed from Kibroth-hattaavah unto Hazeroth; and abode at Hazeroth.

God’s Anger Toward Miriam and Aaron

12 And *a*Miriam and Aaron ¹spake ^bagainst Moses because of the ²Ethiopian woman whom he had married: for ^che had married an Ethiopian woman.

2 And they said, Hath the LORD indeed spoken only by *a*Moses? ^bhath he not spoken also by us? And the LORD ^cheard it.

3 (Now the man Moses was very meek, above all the men which were upon the face of the earth.)

4 *a*And the LORD spake suddenly unto Moses, and unto Aaron, and unto Miriam, Come out ye three unto the tabernacle of the congregation. And they three came out.

5 *a*And the LORD came down in the pillar of the cloud, and stood in the door of the tabernacle, and called Aaron and Miriam: and they both came forth.

12:1–16. Here is the third complaint in this section. This has elements similar to the previous two complaints in that it has: (1) the phrase “spake against” (vv. 1, 4–6); (2) “the LORD heard” (11:1); (3) “anger of the LORD” (11:1, 10, 33); (4) judgment (11:1, 33); (5) an appeal for mercy (11:2); (6) Moses’ intercession (11:2); and (7) the journeying (11:35). This complaint constitutes an important challenge to the authority of Moses, because the priest and a prophetess have instigated a challenge against his high position of being the sole mediator between God and Israel. Ethiopian woman: Cush normally refers to Ethiopia (Gen. 10:6), and thus Moses was probably married a second time. The verb spake is feminine singular in Hebrew, possibly indicating she took the lead. Thus Aaron is once again giving evidence of weak character (Ex. 32:2–4, 22–25; Num. 16:11). Zipporah was a non-Israelite woman. These types of marriages were not uncommon in Israel (1 Chr. 2:34, 35). So this was just an excuse for the real reason: Hath the LORD indeed spoken only by Moses? The title my servant Moses is a very special distinction that he shares only with Abraham (Gen. 26:24), with Caleb (14:24), with Israel as a whole (Is. 43:10; 44:21), and with the coming Son of David (Is. 42:1; 53:11). The reason given is that he is faithful in all mine house. Moses saw the Lord’s form in a similitude, which Israel did not see at Sinai (Deut. 4:12, 15). The Lord would speak with Moses “mouth to mouth” (Jer. 32:4), as in a normal conversation between two people. This is synonymous with “face to face” in Exodus 33:11 and Deuteronomy 34:10 (cf. 7:89). Leprous: What Miriam did was to become a permanent part of Israel’s memory (Deut. 24:9). If her father had but spit in her face is a reference to the rebuke a father might administer to his daughter, which would result in a period of shame to follow (Deut. 25:9; Is. 50:6); how much more Miriam should be shamed seven days for flouting God’s authority. The public nature of her sin called for public punishment (1 Tim. 5:20).

6 And he said, Hear now my words: If there be a prophet among you, I the LORD will make myself known unto him ^ain a vision, and will speak unto him ^bin a dream.

7 ^aMy servant Moses is not so, ^bwho is faithful in all ^cmine house.

8 With him will I speak ^amouth to mouth, even ^bapparently,¹ and not in ²dark speeches; and ^cthe similitude of the LORD shall he behold: wherefore then ^dwere ye not afraid to speak against my servant Moses?

9 And the anger of the LORD was kindled against them; and he departed.

10 And the cloud departed from off the tabernacle; and, ^abehold, Miriam became ^bleprous, white as snow: and Aaron looked upon Miriam, and, behold, she was leprous.

11 And Aaron said unto Moses, Alas, my lord, I beseech thee, ^alay¹ not the sin upon us, wherein we have done foolishly, and wherein we have sinned.

Moses Pleads for Miriam's Healing

13 And Moses cried unto the LORD, saying, ^aHeal her now, O God, I beseech thee.

14 And the LORD said unto Moses, If her father had but ^aspit in her face, should she not be ashamed seven days? let her be ^bshut¹ out from the camp seven days, and after that let her be received in again.

15 ^aAnd Miriam was shut out from the camp seven days: and the people journeyed not till Miriam was brought in again.

16 And afterward the people removed from ^aHazereth, and pitched in the wilderness of Paran.

Twelve Men Chosen as Spies

13 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

2 ^aSend thou men, that they may ^bsearch the land of Canaan, which I give unto the children of Israel: of every tribe of their fathers shall ye send a man, every one a ruler among them.

13:1–33. This begins another major section (13:1–19:22) depicting the 40 years near Kadesh. The first portion (13:1–14) refers to the rebellion of the spies.

13:2. Deuteronomy 1:22 indicates the request was initially brought by the people to spy out the land, only to determine “by what way we must go, and into what cities we shall come.”

RACIAL PREJUDICE

12:1–10. A crisis of leadership arose in Moses' family when his brother Aaron and sister Miriam objected to his marriage to an Ethiopian woman (Heb. chushite). This term generally applies to a person of African descent. Rabbinical scholars are divided on how to identify her. Three suggestions have generally been offered: (1) This was Moses' Midianite wife, Zipporah; (2) this was a second wife in addition to Zipporah; (3) this wife replaced Zipporah whom some believe may have died by this time. Whichever view one holds, it is clearly an issue of racial prejudice on the part of Miriam, who was struck with leprosy as a result. Application: God is the creator of all human beings of every racial type. All are equal in His sight, and we should show respect for one another as members of the human family each created in God's image. God is “no respecter of persons” (Acts 10:34). He calls all people of every race to worship Him. Even within the context of Old Testament Israel, God used people, especially women of several races: Joseph married Asenath, an Egyptian (Gen. 41:45); Judah fathered sons by Tamar, a Canaanite (Gen. 38:2–26); Moses married Zipporah, a Midianite (Ex. 2:15–21); Boaz married Ruth, a Moabite (Ruth 1–4; cf. Rom. 3:23).

PRINCIPLES OF LEADERSHIP

13:1. The account of the twelve spies illustrates the importance of leadership. Only two spies, Joshua (from Ephraim) and Caleb (from Judah) believed God could enable the Israelites to conquer the Promised Land. The other ten spies failed utterly. Notice the difference in their perspectives. The ten spies focused on the obstacles (walled cities, strong people, giants) and viewed themselves as “grasshoppers” (13:33). Therefore, they brought back an “evil [or negative] report” (v. 32) which frightened and discouraged the people who then turned back in unbelief. Only Joshua and Caleb, as true leaders, expressed faith and confidence in God (14:6–9). In the end, they were the only ones allowed by God to enter the Promised Land (v. 30; cf. Job 4:2).

3 And Moses by the commandment of the LORD sent them “from the wilderness of Paran: all those men were heads of the children of Israel.

7 Of the tribe of Issachar, Igal the son of Joseph.

8 Of the tribe of Ephraim, ¹Oshea the son of Nun.

9 Of the tribe of Benjamin, Palti the son of Raphu.

10 Of the tribe of Zebulun, Gad-diel the son of Sodi.

11 Of the tribe of Joseph, namely, of the tribe of Manasseh, Gaddi the son of Susi.

12 Of the tribe of Dan, Ammiel the son of Gemalli.

13 Of the tribe of Asher, Sethur the son of Michael.

14 Of the tribe of Naphtali, Nahbi the son of Vophsi.

15 Of the tribe of Gad, Geuel the son of Machi.

16 These are the names of the men which Moses sent to ¹spy out the land. And Moses called “Oshea² the son of Nun Jehoshua.

Men Ordered to Spy Out the Land

17 And Moses sent them to spy out the land of Canaan, and said unto them, Get you up this way southward, and go up into “the mountain:

18 And see ¹the land, what it is; and the people that dwelleth therein, whether they be strong or weak, few or many;

19 And what the land is that they dwell in, whether it be good or bad; and what cities they be that they dwell in, whether in tents, or in strong holds;

20 And what the land is, whether it be ¹fat or lean, whether there be wood therein, or not. And “be ye of good courage, and bring of the fruit of the land. Now the time was the time of the firstripe grapes.

Forty Days of Searching

21 So they went up, and searched the land “from the wilderness of Zin unto ^bRehob, as men come to “Hammath.

22 And they ascended by the south, and came unto “Hebron; where Ahiman, Sheshai, and Talmai, the children of ^bAnak, were. (Now Hebron was built seven years before Zoan in Egypt.)

23 “And they came unto the ¹brook of Eshcol, and cut down from thence a branch with one cluster of grapes, and they bare it between two upon a staff; and they brought of the pomegranates, and of the figs.

13:16. Oshea (cf. v. 8 and Deut. 32:44) probably means “[God] Is Salvation,” or “[God] Saves.” His name was later changed to Jehoshua (Joshua, “The LORD Is Salvation,” or “The LORD Saves”). Interestingly, none of the previous names from verses 4–15 has the name of Yahweh in it. Oshea expresses the conviction that Israel’s salvation depends only on the Lord.

13:22. Children of Anak: It is possible that the gigantic structures that have been found in Palestine were made in part by the “sons of Anak,” who are called a “strong, numerous, and tall people” in Deuteronomy 2:21. Some say Anakim means “Tall Ones,” and thus it would be a common rather than a proper noun. In verse 33 the descendants of Anak are said to belong to the Nephilim, who are mentioned in Genesis 6:4 and in Ezekiel 32:27.

13:23. Brook of Eshcol was later called the Valley of Eshcol (“Valley of the Cluster,” 32:9; Deut. 1:24). It is still noted for its grapes.

13:17 Canaan was the ancient name of the land of Israel. Canaan was the grandson of Noah and the son of Ham (Gen. 10:6). In the Amarna Letters, the Phoenician coast is described as the “land of Canaan.” In the Old Testament Canaan is the designation for all of Palestine west of the Jordan River (34:3–5) from Mount Hermon to Beer-sheba. Evidence of the Canaanite language was found at Ras Shamra (ancient Ugarit) written in alphabetic cuneiform script. At the time of the Israelite conquest under Joshua, Canaanite culture had reached great heights. Excavations at several sites reveal a semi-agrarian culture dominated by immoral, religious fertility cults honoring Baal, Asherah, and Ishtar. High places, sacred trees, and idolatry were common forms of worship. The overt paganism and gross immorality of the Canaanite religion were in direct contrast to the divinely revealed religion of Israel.

24 The place was called the brook ¹Eshcol, because of the cluster of grapes which the children of Israel cut down from thence.

25 And they returned from searching of the land after forty days.

The Spies Report to Israel

26 And they went and came to Moses, and to Aaron, and to all the congregation of the children of Israel, unto the wilderness of Paran, to ^aKadesh; and brought back word unto them, and unto all the congregation, and shewed them the fruit of the land.

27 And they told him, and said, We came unto the land whither thou sentest us, and ¹surely ²it floweth with ^amilk and honey; ^band this is the fruit of it.

28 Nevertheless the ^apeople be strong that dwell in the land, and the cities are walled, and very great: and moreover we saw the children of ^bAnak there.

29 ^aThe Amalekites dwell in the land of the south: and the Hittites, and the Jebusites, and the Amorites, dwell in the mountains: and the Canaanites dwell by the sea, and by the coast of Jordan.

30 And ^aCaleb stilled the people before Moses, and said, Let us go up at once, and ¹possess it; for we are well able to overcome it.

A Negative Report

31 ^aBut the men that went up with him said, We be not able to go up against the people; for they are stronger than we.

32 And they ^abrought up an ¹evil report of the land which they had searched unto the children of Israel, saying, The land, through which we have gone to search it, is a land that ²eateth up the inhabitants thereof; and ^ball the people that we saw in it are men of a great stature.

Israel Refuses to Enter Canaan

14 And all the congregation lifted up their voice, and cried; and the people ^awept that night.

2 ^aAnd all the children of Israel ¹murmured against Moses and against Aaron: and the whole congregation said unto them, Would God that we had died in the land of Egypt! or would God we had died in this wilderness!

3 And wherefore hath the LORD brought us unto this land, to ¹fall by the sword, that our wives and our ^achildren should be a prey? were it not better for us to return into Egypt?

4 And they said one to another,

13:27. It floweth with milk and honey depicts the fertility of the soil (Ex. 3:8, 17; 13:5; 33:3; Lev. 20:24; Num. 14:8; 16:14; Deut. 6:3; 11:9; 26:9, 15; 27:3; 31:20). It is usually understood to refer to the cattle-raising and agriculture in the land of Canaan. It could be understood in another sense: To the Oriental, milk and honey are the drink and food of the gods; they speak of the garden of the gods, where both are found in abundance. The expression then compares Canaan to a kind of paradise (cf. 16:13, where Egypt is said to be "a land that floweth with milk and honey").

13:27-29. The report of the spies was factual: the land was fruitful, the people were strong, the cities were walled and very great, and the giants dwelt in the land. But they had left God out. Only Joshua and Caleb had faith (Heb. 3:19).

13:32. Many people had fought over the land, a land that eateth up the inhabitants thereof, because it was so fruitful.

14:1-4. The rebellion reached a climax when the people said, Let us make a captain, and let us return into Egypt (cf. 11:5, 18, 20).

13:26 Kadesh-barnea is an oasis in the Negev about 50 miles southwest of Beer-sheba. The site contained a spring of water and served as a stopping place for Abraham on his journeys to and from Egypt (Gen. 20:1). In this general vicinity God appeared to Hagar (Gen. 16:7-14). Kadesh-barnea was normally an 11-day journey from Mount Sinai, and bordered the territory of Edom in the days of Moses (20:16). From this site the 12 spies entered the land of Canaan (Deut. 1:20). Also, from Kadesh-barnea the Israelites turned back in unbelief to wander in the wilderness for nearly 40 years. Joshua later listed it as a part of the Promised Land (Josh. 10:41), but thereafter it disappears from the biblical record. Archaeological excavations by M. Dothan in 1965 revealed a ninth-century B.C. Judean fortress. No remains were found from the time of Moses, which agrees with the biblical description of Kadesh-barnea as an unpopulated desert oasis.

14:12. God now promises or offers a second time to make of Moses a new nation in the place of this one (Ex. 32:10).

14:18. Of great mercy is a citation from Exodus 20:6 and 34:7, both given in a covenant setting. The word mercy (chesed) indicates God's faithfulness to Israel in light of His promises made through the covenant. Mercy, then, is His faithful love. This "faithful love" (chesed) led Israel through the Red Sea (Ex. 15:13). In Lamentations 3:22 and 23 it is used with the phrase "great is thy faithfulness." Verse 19 uses the term like 1 John 1:9, "If we confess our sins, he is faithful because He has promised to do so, Ex. 20:6; 34:7] and just to forgive us our sins."

14:22. Ten times: The Talmud tract Arachin (15a, b) takes this as an arithmetical statement and cites the wilderness, and have ¹tempted me now ^bthese ten times, and have not hearkened to my voice;

23 Surely they shall not ^asee the land which I ¹sware unto their fathers, neither shall any of them that provoked me see it:

24 But my servant ^aCaleb, because he had another spirit with him, and ^bhath followed me fully, him will I bring into the land whereto he went; and his seed shall possess it.

25 (Now the Amalekites and the Canaanites dwelt in the valley.) To morrow turn you, and ^aget you into the wilderness by the way of the Red sea.

God's Punishment on Israel

26 And the LORD spake unto Moses and unto Aaron, saying,

27 ^aHow long shall I bear with this evil congregation, which ¹murmur against me? ^bI have heard the murmurings of the children of Israel, which they murmur against me.

28 Say unto them, ^aAs truly as I live, saith the LORD, as ye have spoken in mine ears, so will I do to you:

Israel Tries to Enter the Land

39 And Moses told these sayings unto all the children of Israel: ^aand the people mourned greatly.

40 And they rose up early in the morning, and gat them up into the top of the mountain, saying, Lo, ^awe be here, and will go up unto the place which the LORD hath promised: for we have sinned.

41 And Moses said, Wherefore now do ye ¹transgress the commandment of the LORD? but ²it shall not prosper.

42 ^aGo not up, for the LORD is not among you; that ye be not ¹smitten before your enemies.

10 instances (Ex. 14:11, 12, at the Red Sea; 15:23, 24, at Marah; 16:2, in the wilderness of Sin; 16:20 and 16:26–28, with the manna; 17:2, at Rephidim; 32:1–7, at Horeb; Num. 11:1, at Taberah; 11:4, the complaint of the mixed multitude; and 14, at Kadesh-barnea). Others take it as a figure of speech, conveying the idea of “many times” as in, “If I have told you once, I have told you 50 times.”

14:29. Your carcasses shall fall in this wilderness: They had said, “Would God we had died in this wilderness!” (v. 2). Now four times they are warned, “Your dead bodies shall fall in this wilderness” (vv. 29, 32, 33, 35). Their children, who they said would perish in Canaan, would eventually arrive there and take possession of it (vv. 3, 31, 33). God killed all those who brought the evil report (v. 37). The message of this story reverberates throughout Scripture (Num. 32; Deut. 1:20–40; 8:2; Ps. 95:10; 106:24–26; Amos 2:10; 5:25; 1 Cor. 10; Heb. 3:7–4:13).

43 For the Amalekites and the Canaanites are there before you, and ye shall fall by the sword: ^abecause ye are turned away from the LORD, therefore the LORD will not be with you.

44 ^aBut they presumed to go up unto the hill top: nevertheless the ark of the covenant of the LORD, and Moses, departed not out of the camp.

45 Then the Amalekites came down, and the Canaanites which dwelt in that hill, and smote them, and ¹discomfited them, even unto ^aHormah.

17 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

15:2. God will still bring His people into the land in spite of the events of chapter 14 and their tragic results. Note verse 18 and relate it to Genesis 15:18-21 and the promises made to Abraham.

15:5. This is the first time it has been made clear that they must present a libation of wine with every burnt offering and peace offering, especially in light of the fact the spies had brought back a huge cluster of grapes (13:23).

A Penalty for the Sabbath Offender

32 And while the children of Israel were in the wilderness, ^athey found a man that gathered sticks upon the sabbath day.

33 And they that found him gathering sticks brought him unto Moses and Aaron, and unto all the congregation.

34 And they put him ^ain ¹ward, because it was not ²declared what should be done to him.

35 And the LORD said unto Moses, ^aThe man shall be surely put to death: all the congregation shall ^bstone him with stones without the camp.

36 And all the congregation brought him without the camp, and stoned him with stones, and he died; as the LORD commanded Moses.

Fringe on Garments as a Reminder

37 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying, every crop must be given to God (Ex. 22:29, 30; 23:19). Paul said, "For if the firstfruit be holy, the lump is also holy" (Rom. 11:16).

15:30, 31. Presumptuously literally means "with a high hand," such as a raised or clenched fist in defiance of God and His commands. This seems to be illustrated in verses 32-36 by the gathering of sticks on the Sabbath. Note Hebrews 10:26-31, referring to Deuteronomy 17:2-6; cf. Mark 3:29; 1 John 1:7; 5:16.

38 Speak unto the children of Israel, and bid ^athem that they make them fringes in the borders of their garments throughout their generations, and that they put upon the fringe of the borders a ribband of blue:

God to Show His Chosen One

4 And when Moses heard it, he ^afell upon his face:

5 And he spake unto Korah and unto all his company, saying, Even to morrow the LORD will shew who are ^ahis, and who is ^bholy; and will cause him to come near unto him: even him whom he hath chosen will he cause to ^ccome near unto him.

6 This do; Take you censers, Korah, and all his company;

7 And put fire therein, and put incense in them before the LORD to morrow: and it shall be that the man whom the LORD doth choose, he shall be holy: ye take too much upon you, ye sons of Levi.

8 And Moses said unto Korah, Hear, I pray you, ye sons of Levi:

9 Seemeth it but ^aa small thing unto you, that the God of Israel hath ^bseparated¹ you from the congregation of Israel, to bring you near to himself to do the service of the tabernacle of the LORD, and to stand before the congregation to minister unto them?

10 And he hath brought thee near to him, and all thy brethren the sons of Levi with thee: and seek ye the priesthood also?

11 For which cause both thou and all thy company are gathered together against the LORD: ^aand what is Aaron, that ye ¹murmur against him?

12 And Moses sent to call Dathan and Abiram, the sons of Eliab: which said, We will not come up:

16:1—17:13. This portion contains a group of stories that establish Aaron's role as high priest: 16:1-35, the rebellion of Korah; 16:36-50, Aaron halts the plague; 17:1-13, Aaron's rod budded.

16:1, 2. The leaders of the rebellion included a group headed by Korah and composed principally of Levites who were offended by the setting apart of the family of Aaron for the duties and privileges of the priesthood (v. 10). The other group, headed by Abiram and Dathan, felt that they, rather than Moses, should have the preeminence in the nation, since they are leaders of the tribe descended from the firstborn son of Jacob (Reuben). Thus a rebellion against religious authority and another against political authority were associated, and the strength of each was greatly enhanced by cooperation with the other. Korah was a member of the Kohathite branch of the tribe of Levi, the branch to which Moses and Aaron belonged. With him were three outstanding members of the tribe of Reuben and 250 leaders of the congregation.

16:3. They asserted that all members of the congregation were holy, and therefore that Moses and Aaron had no right to take supremacy over them.

16:4-11. Moses called upon Korah and his followers to appear before the LORD to morrow, together with Aaron, in order that God Himself might decide who was in the right.

16:12-14. Moses summoned Dathan and Abiram, but, filled with bitter hatred, they reviled him and refused to appear.

13 Is it a small thing that thou hast brought us up out of a ^aland that floweth with milk and honey, to kill us in the wilderness, except thou ^bmake thyself altogether a prince over us?

14 Moreover ^athou hast not brought us into ^ba land that floweth with milk and honey, or given us inheritance of fields and vineyards: wilt thou put out the eyes of these men? we will not come up.

God's Judgment Against the Rebels

15 And Moses was very ¹wroth, and said unto the LORD, ^aRespect² not thou their offering: ^bI have not taken one ass from them, neither have I hurt one of them.

16 And Moses said unto Korah, Be thou and all thy company ^abefore the LORD, thou, and they, and Aaron, to morrow:

17 And take every man his censer, and put incense in them, and bring ye before the LORD every man his censer, two hundred and fifty censers; thou also, and Aaron, each of you his censer.

18 And they took every man his censer, and put fire in them, and laid incense thereon, and stood in the door of the tabernacle of the congregation with Moses and Aaron.

19 And Korah gathered all the congregation against them unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation: and ^athe glory of the LORD appeared unto all the congregation.

28 And Moses said, ^aHereby ye shall know that the LORD hath sent me to do all these works; for I have not done them ^bof mine own ¹mind.

29 If these men die ¹the common death of all men, or if they be ^avisited ²after the visitation of all men; then the LORD hath not sent me.

30 But if the LORD ¹make ^aa new thing, and the earth open her mouth, and swallow them up, with all that appertain unto them, and they ^bgo down ²quick into the pit; then ye shall understand that these men have provoked the LORD.

God's Punishment

31 ^aAnd it came to pass, as he had made an end of speaking all these words, that the ground clave asunder that was under them:

32 And the earth opened her mouth, and swallowed them up, and their houses, and ^aall the men that appertained unto Korah, and all their goods.

33 They, and all that appertained to them, went down alive into the pit, and the earth closed upon them: and they perished from among the congregation.

34 And all Israel that were round about them fled at the cry of them: for they said, Lest the earth swallow us up also.

35 And there ^acame out a fire from the LORD, and consumed the two hundred and fifty men that offered incense.

36 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

37 Speak unto Eleazar the son of Aaron the priest, that he take up the censers out of the burning, and scatter thou the fire yonder; for ^athey are ¹hallowed.

38 The censers of these ^asinners¹ against their own souls, let them make them broad plates for a covering of the altar: for they offered them before the LORD, therefore they are hallowed: ^band they shall be a sign unto the children of Israel.

39 And Eleazar the priest took the brasen censers, wherewith they that were burnt had offered; and they were made broad plates for a covering of the altar:

God Sends a Plague on Israel

44 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

45 Get you up from among this congregation, that I may consume them as in a moment. And they fell upon their faces.

46 And Moses said unto Aaron, Take a censer, and put fire therein from off the altar, and put on incense, and go quickly unto the congregation, and make ¹an atonement for them: ^afor there is wrath gone out from the LORD; the plague is begun.

47 And Aaron took as Moses commanded, and ran into the midst of the congregation; and, behold, the plague was begun among the people: and he put on incense, and made an atonement for the people.

48 And he stood between the dead and the living; and ^athe plague was ¹stayed.

49 Now they that died in the plague were fourteen thousand and seven hundred, beside them that died about the matter of Korah.

50 And Aaron returned unto Moses unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation: and the plague was stayed.

The Budding Rod to Be a Symbol

16:36-40. Israel's next high priest was instructed to gather all the holy censers used illegally by these would-be priests. They were then beaten into metal covering plates for the altar, as a constant reminder of the fearful cost of rebellion.

16:41-44. Ye have killed the people of the LORD: This statement is possibly the high-water mark of brazen and blasphemous insolence on the part of Israel. After witnessing the supernatural, terrifying sight of the ground opening, the dreadful flames belching forth, and hearing the screams of the doomed troublemakers, they now uttered pious nonsense and accused Moses, a mere man, of doing all of this.

16:45-47. I may consume them as in a moment: Again God prepared to destroy the nation, but again Israel was saved by the intercession of Moses. Nevertheless, 14,700 people died in a divine plague before Moses' prayers became effective.

4 And thou shalt lay them up in the tabernacle of the congregation before the ^atestimony, ^bwhere I will meet with you.

5 And it shall come to pass, that the man's rod, ^awhom I shall choose, shall blossom: and I will ¹make to cease from me the ²murmurings of the children of Israel, ^bwhereby they murmur against you.

6 And Moses spake unto the children of Israel, and every one of their princes gave him a rod apiece, for each prince one, according to their fathers' houses, even twelve rods: and the rod of Aaron was among their rods.

7 And Moses laid up the rods before the LORD in ^athe tabernacle of witness.

Aaron's Charge: The Tabernacle

17:1-13. The fact that the rod of the tribe of Levi budded, bloomed, and yielded almonds proved that Moses and Aaron were not wrong in asserting divine appointment to leadership over the nation. And the budding of a rod that bore the name of Aaron gave added denial to the claims of Korah and his Levitical followers that they had as much right to the priesthood as the family of Aaron (16:8-11). Aaron's rod was to be kept for a memorial before the testimony. The last two verses seem to indicate the people still pitied themselves rather than praising God for His power and deliverance.

18:1-7. This portion contains God's reply to the frightened call of the people in 17:12, 13. It is given directly to Aaron, as opposed to Moses previously (6:22; 8:1). God provided the priests and the Levites to guard the tabernacle against unauthorized persons trespassing. The phrase bear the iniquity of the sanctuary indicates the Levites' responsibility to guard against any misuse of the tabernacle or its furnishings, on penalty of God's severe punishment.

No Inheritance for Aaron

20 And the LORD spake unto Aaron, Thou shalt have ^ano inheritance in their land, neither shalt thou have any part among them: ^bI am thy part and thine inheritance among the children of Israel.

18:8-20. In recognition of their altar service, the priests were to receive parts of the sacrifices, firstfruits of the harvest, and firstborn animals (cf. Lev. 6:14-7:36; 27:26-33). The priests' families could also eat from these offerings as long as they were "clean." Their inheritance would be God Himself, who provided for their needs through His people's gifts (v. 20).

18:21-24. Tithing was now provided for the tribe of Levi (Gen. 14:20; 28:22; Lev. 27:30-33). The tithe was a payment for their service which they serve, even the service of the tabernacle of the congregation (v. 21; cf. 31). It also compensated for their lack of an inheritance in the land. Later they were given 48 villages which were scattered throughout the land (34:16-35:8).

19:1–22. This chapter deals with the provision of a means to cure the uncleanness of death (vv. 11, 13) because whosoever toucheth ... any man that is dead ... defileth the tabernacle of the LORD and would be in danger of being cut off from Israel (v. 13). Leviticus gives two methods of dealing with uncleanness: either washing in water and waiting until evening (11:28, 39, 40; 15:16–18); or in more serious cases, waiting seven days and then offering a sacrifice (Lev. 14:10–31; 15:13–15, 28–30). Since sacrificing was a difficult and expensive procedure, and added to the distress of the family involved, this chapter provides an alternative method, without the cost and inconvenience of sacrifice. (1) Eleazar was to slaughter an unblemished red heifer outside the camp (vv. 2, 3); (2) its blood was to be sprinkled toward the tabernacle seven times (v. 4); (3) the red heifer was to be burned along with cedar wood, hyssop, and some scarlet cloth material (vv. 5, 6); and (4) water was to be added to the ashes of the heifer and sprinkled upon the defiled Israelite (vv. 17–19). The animal was sacrificed outside the camp, which the New Testament pictures in relation to the crucifixion of Christ outside Jerusalem for our cleansing by His blood (cf. Heb. 13:11–12).

7 ^aThen the priest shall wash his clothes, and he shall bathe his flesh in water, and afterward he shall come into the camp, and the priest shall be unclean until the even.

8 And he that burneth her shall wash his clothes in water, and bathe his flesh in water, and shall be unclean until the even.

9 And a man that is clean shall gather up ^athe ashes of the heifer, and lay them up ¹without the camp in a clean place, and it shall be kept for the congregation of the children of Israel ^bfor a water of ²separation: it is a purification for sin.

10 And he that gathereth the ashes of the heifer shall wash his clothes, and be unclean until the even: and it shall be unto the children of Israel, and unto the stranger that sojourneth among them, for a statute for ever.

20:1—22:1. This passage deals with the march from Kadesh to the plains of Moab. This is the third and last travel narrative in Exodus through Numbers. (The first was from the Red Sea to Sinai, Ex. 13-19; and the second from Sinai to Kadesh, Num. 11, 12.)

20:1. Then: It was now in the fortieth year after the Exodus. Aaron died in the fortieth year according to Numbers 33:38, and his death is recorded in this chapter (vv. 22-29). There is no mention of mourning following Miriam's death, in contrast to the death of Aaron (v. 29) or Moses (Deut. 34:8).

Water from a Rock

2 ^aAnd there was no water for the congregation: ^band they gathered themselves together against Moses and against Aaron.

3 And the people ^achode¹ with Moses, and spake, saying, Would God that we had died ^bwhen our brethren died before the LORD!

4 And ^awhy have ye brought up the congregation of the LORD into this wilderness, that we and our cattle should die there?

5 And wherefore have ye made us to come up out of Egypt, to bring us in unto this evil place? it is no place of seed, or of figs, or of vines, or of pomegranates; neither is there any water to drink.

6 And Moses and Aaron went from the presence of the assembly unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, and ^athey ¹fell upon their faces: and ^bthe glory of the LORD appeared unto them.

7 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

8 ^aTake the rod, and gather thou the assembly together, thou, and Aaron thy brother, and speak ye unto the rock before their eyes; and it shall give forth his water, and ^bthou shalt bring forth to them water out of the rock: so thou shalt give the congregation and their beasts drink.

9 And Moses took the rod ^afrom before the LORD, as he commanded him.

10 And Moses and Aaron gathered the congregation together before the rock, and he said unto them, ^aHear now, ye rebels; must we fetch you water out of this rock?

Refusal for Passage Through Edom

14 ^aAnd Moses sent messengers from Kadesh unto the king of ^bEdom, ^cThus saith thy brother Israel, Thou knowest all the ¹travail that hath befallen us:

15 ^aHow our fathers went down into Egypt, ^band we have dwelt in Egypt a long time; ^cand the Egyptians ¹vexed us, and our fathers:

16 And ^awhen we cried unto the LORD, he heard our voice, and ^bsent an angel, and hath brought us forth out of Egypt: and, behold, we are in Kadesh, a city in the uttermost of thy border:

17 ^aLet us pass, I pray thee, through thy country: we will not pass through the fields, or through the vineyards, neither will we drink of the water of the wells: we will go by the king's high way, we will not turn to the right hand nor to the left, until we have passed thy borders.

20:2-13. This incident resembles the first occasion when Israel complained about a total lack of water (Ex. 17:1-7). Both times the people chode with Moses and asked, Wherefore have ye made us to come up out of Egypt? Both times Moses is told take the rod (the same rod with which he had performed miracles, Ex. 7:20; 14:16), and use it to bring water out of the rock. And both places are called Meribah, meaning "To Strive." The verb in the command of verse 8 is plural, indicating that Aaron was to be involved. In Exodus, Moses was commanded to strike the rock, whereas this action constitutes the essence of his disobedience. God told them to take the rod ... gather thou the assembly together and speak ye unto the rock. But instead Moses took the rod ... gathered the congregation together, and spoke to them in anger, calling them rebels, and then smote the rock twice. Moses' unbelief was evident by his disobedience in not carrying out God's instructions precisely. By not doing so he did not sanctify me [that is, set God apart, elevate Him as sovereign] in the eyes of the children of Israel, and forfeited his privilege to bring the people into the Promised Land (v. 12). Aaron was also included in the prohibition.

20:14-22. Edom was Israel's brother and was handled gently (Deut. 23:7). They were descended from Esau, the brother of Jacob (Israel, Gen. 32:28). Israel was confronted with force (Gen. 32:6-8) and not allowed to pass through.

18 And ^aEdom said unto him, Thou shalt not pass by me, lest I come out against thee with the sword.

19 And the children of Israel said unto him, We will go by the high way: and if I and my cattle drink of thy water, ^athen I will pay for it: I will only, without doing any thing else, ¹go through on my feet.

20 And he said, ^aThou shalt not go through. And Edom came out against him with much people, and with a strong hand.

21 Thus Edom ^arefused to give Israel passage through his border: wherefore Israel ^bturned away from him.

22 And the children of Israel, even the whole congregation, journeyed from ^aKadesh, ^band came unto mount Hor.

Eleazar Becomes High Priest

23 And the LORD spake unto Moses and Aaron in mount Hor, by the coast of the land of Edom, saying, 24 Aaron shall ¹be ^agathered unto his people: for he shall not enter into the land which I have given unto the children of Israel, because ye rebelled against my word at the water of Meribah.

25 ^aTake Aaron and Eleazar his son, and bring them up unto mount Hor:

26 And strip Aaron of his garments, and put them upon Eleazar his son: and Aaron shall be gathered unto his people, and shall die there.

27 And Moses did as the LORD commanded: and they went up into mount Hor in the sight of all the congregation.

The Death of Aaron

28 And ^aMoses stripped Aaron of his garments, and put them upon Eleazar his son; and ^bAaron died there in the top of the mount: and Moses and Eleazar came down from the mount.

29 And when all the congregation saw that Aaron was dead, they mourned for Aaron ^athirty days, even all the house of Israel.

Israel's Destruction of the Canaanites

21 And when ^aking Arad the Canaanite, which dwelt in the south, heard tell that Israel came by the way of the spies; then he fought against Israel, and took some of them prisoners.

2 ^aAnd Israel ¹vowed a vow unto the LORD, and said, If thou wilt indeed deliver this people into my hand, then ^bI will utterly destroy their cities.

3 And the LORD hearkened to the voice of Israel, and delivered up the Canaanites; and they utterly destroyed them and their cities: and he called the name of the place ¹Hormah.

4 And they journeyed from mount Hor by the way of the Red sea, to ^acompass the land of Edom: and the soul of the people was much ¹discouraged because of the way.

5 And the people ^aspake against God, and against Moses, Wherefore have ye brought us up out of Egypt to die in the wilderness? for there is no bread, neither is there any water; and our soul ¹loatheth this light bread.

20:23-29. The death of Aaron, the high priest, stands in sharp contrast to the eternal priesthood of Christ (cf. Heb. 7:23, 24). Gathered unto his people is the usual phrase to describe the death of a righteous man (Abraham, Ishmael, Isaac, Jacob, and Moses in Gen. 25:8, 17; 35:29; 49:33). It was a fearful mark of divine judgment to be left unburied and not “be gathered” (Jer. 8:2; 25:33; Ezek. 29:5). Some take the phrase to indicate the belief in a continued existence in the realm of the dead, and that people will be reunited with other members of their family. Moses and Aaron died outside of the Promised Land, but in death they are on a par with the patriarchs and other saints of the Old Covenant.

21:1-3. Israel vowed a vow unto the LORD, to utterly destroy their cities: The word translated “utterly destroy” (cherem) appears as “ban” or “devoted thing” elsewhere in the Old Testament in reference to whatever is devoted to the Lord, whether man, animal, or property. Here, and in many other instances, it refers to the cities that Israel was to destroy, especially in Joshua’s day (Jericho, Josh. 6:21; Ai, Josh. 8:26; Makkedah, Josh. 10:28; Hazor, Josh. 11:11). In Deuteronomy 7:2-6 the reason for this manner of destruction is given: these cities would entice the Israelites to depart from the Lord.

21:4-9. Fiery serpents: Bronze serpents have been found at a variety of sites in the Near East: one in-

6 And ^athe LORD sent ^bfiery serpents among the people, and they bit the people; and much people of Israel died.

7 ^aTherefore the people came to Moses, and said, We have ^bsinned, for we have spoken against the LORD, and against thee; ^cpray unto the LORD, that he take away the serpents from us. And Moses prayed for the people.

The Brass Serpent

8 And the LORD said unto Moses, ^aMake thee a ^bfiery serpent, and set it upon a pole: and it shall come to pass, that every one that is bitten, when he looketh upon it, shall live.

9 And ^aMoses made a serpent of brass, and put it upon a pole, and it came to pass, that if a serpent had bitten any man, when he ¹beheld the serpent of brass, he lived.

teresting bronze serpent is from Timna. Only those who believed God and looked on the bronze serpent lived. The New Testament uses this incident as an illustration of Christ's vicarious death on the cross and of the necessity of personal faith for salvation (John 3:14, 15). Later the bronze snake played a large role in Israel's religious life, even until the days of Hezekiah (2 Kin. 18:4), during which Israel fell back into the ancient pagan way of thinking, and worshiped the bronze snake as the bearer of life.

21:10-20. The book of the wars of the LORD: Apparently, this was a collection of war songs dealing with Israel's struggle for the possession of Canaan (cf. 1 Sam. 18:17; 25:28). It had indeed been a long time since the people of God had sung a song of praise (Ex. 15).

21:21-30. The victory over Sihon is mentioned a number of times in the Old Testament (Num. 32:33; Deut. 1:4; 2:24-36; 3:2, 6; 4:46; 29:7; 31:4; Josh. 2:10; 9:10; 12:2; Judg. 11:19; Ps. 135:11; 136:19). It was Israel's first victory over an organized state. As such, it contained an unmistakable promise for the coming conquest of Canaan. The door was now open. Verse 25 is applied some three hundred years later by Jephthah in Judges 11:26 which, in addition to 1 Kings 6:1, provides a strong argument for the early date of the Exodus. Verses 27-30 contain the so-called song of Heshbon, justifying Israel's right to the land. Because Israel had defeated Sihon, the conqueror of Moab, Moab had no right to claim the land back from Israel (cf. Judg. 11:26).

Israel Captures the Land of the Amorites

24 And ^aIsrael smote him with the edge of the sword, and ¹possessed his land from Arnon unto Jabbok, even unto the children of Ammon: for the border of the children of Ammon was strong.

25 And Israel took all these cities: and Israel ^adwelt in all the cities of the Amorites, in Heshbon, and in all the villages thereof.

26 For Heshbon was the city of Sihon the king of the Amorites, who had fought against the former king of Moab, and taken all his land out of his hand, even unto Arnon.

27 Wherefore they that speak in ¹proverbs say, Come into Heshbon, let the city of Sihon be built and prepared:

28 For there is ^aa fire gone out of Heshbon, a flame from the city of Sihon: it hath consumed ^bAr of Moab, and the lords of the ^chigh places of Arnon.

29 Woe to thee, ^aMoab! thou art undone, O people of ^bChemosh: he hath given his ^csons that escaped, and his ^ddaughters, into captivity unto Sihon king of the Amorites.

30 We have shot at them; Heshbon is perished even ^aunto Dibon, and we have laid them waste even unto Nophah, which reacheth unto ^bMedeba.

2 And ^aBalak the son of Zippor saw all that Israel had done to the Amorites.

3 And ^aMoab was ¹sore afraid of the people, because they were many: and Moab was ²distressed because of the children of Israel.

4 And Moab said unto ^athe elders of Midian, Now shall this company ¹lick up all that are round about us, as the ox licketh up the grass of the field. And Balak the son of Zippor was king of the Moabites at that time.

5 ^aHe sent messengers therefore unto Balaam the son of Beor to ^bPethor, which is by the ¹river of the land of the ²children of his people, to call him, saying, Behold, there is a people come out from Egypt: behold, they cover the face of the earth, and they ³abide over against me:

21:31-35. This was another conquest that was both historically and symbolically significant to Israel. Deuteronomy 3:11 mentions Og as being one of the "giants" with his bed being 13½ feet long and six feet wide.

22:5. Balaam, in the original form of the name, likely meant "The [Divine] Uncle Brings Forth." Yet, as the word is transcribed in the Hebrew text, it receives the Hebrew connotation of "Devourer of the People."

On first reading, Balaam appears to be portrayed in a positive light, and is thus often presented as a "saint" out of God's perfect will. But other passages of Scripture paint Balaam in a very different light, portraying him as an opponent of Israel who would have cursed

Israel had not a sovereign God intervened and as a man who preferred money to serving God. In 2 Peter 2:1, 15, he is in the context of false prophets, "which have forsaken the right way, and are gone astray, following the way of Balaam the son of Bosor, who loved the wages of unrighteousness." Jude describes the "error" of Balaam (thinking he might be able to curse those whom God had not cursed) and connects it with "reward," in the context again of those who had "crept in unawares ... ungodly men" (v. 4). Revelation 2:14 refers to the "doctrine of Balaam." After the formal encounter with Israel, he then counseled the women of Baal-peor to invite the men of Israel to their religious orgies and "to eat things sacrificed unto 13 And Balaam rose up in the morning, and said unto the princes of Balak, Get you into your land: for the LORD refuseth to give me ¹leave to go with you.

14 And the princes of Moab rose up, and they went unto Balak, and said, Balaam refuseth to come with us.

idols, and to commit fornication.” He did this for no pay and was killed by the Israelites (Num. 31:8). Deuteronomy 23:5 indicates that God actually changed Balaam’s words as they came out of his mouth, for it says, “Nevertheless the LORD thy God would not hearken unto Balaam; but the LORD thy God turned the curse into a blessing unto thee, because the LORD thy God loved thee.” Actually, the deeds of Balaam, which many commentators construe so positively, might just have a more sinister meaning, especially in the light of the New Testament verses and their contexts.

The constant mention of money matters suggests that Balaam’s apparent indifference was really an oblique demand for a huge fee, as Ephron the Hittite was doing (cf. Gen. 23:11–15). Also the repeated statements that Balaam would declare only the word that God put in his mouth may have been intended to emphasize the inspiration of his oracles rather than the holiness of his character. Balaam was offered “rewards of divination” (v. 7) and resorted to “enchantments” (24:1), abominable practices that were not permitted in Israel (23:23; Deut. 18:10; 1 Sam. 15:23; 2 Kin. 17:17).

The conduct of the donkey figured that of Balaam. Just as Balaam drove his donkey until brought up short by the Angel of the Lord, so Balak would push Balaam to curse Israel until he was stopped by his encounter with God. The fact that God talked through the donkey suggested God’s ability to declare His word, not necessarily through a holy man, but through anyone He chose to be His spokesman. There are several instances where this was the case in the Old Testament and New Testament, and certainly this fact was observed by Jesus (Matt. 7:21–23; Mark 9:38, 39; John 11:51, 52).

In light of this, note that the corrupted nature of Balaam “left no scratch” on the record of the Word of God. Also, it is sometimes said that God never uses an unclean vessel. But remember Balaam. Perhaps it might better be said that God rarely uses unclean vessels (also Jonah before and after his preaching still had a bad attitude, Jon. 4). This factor may indicate that our success syndrome is wrongly directed. A certain minister of God’s Word may have blessing and success simply because God is honoring His Word, not because He is honoring the man.

Pethor is usually identified with Pitru of the Assyrian inscriptions, a town on the Euphrates some 12 miles south of Carchemish.

22:12. Note God’s clear command and expressed will, Thou shalt not go, and from verse 13 he knew it!

22:5 Balaam was the false prophet hired by the king of Moab to curse the Israelites during their wilderness journey. His name appears 50 times in Numbers 22–24. He is also mentioned in Deuteronomy 23:4, 5; Joshua 13:22; 24:9, 10; Nehemiah 13:2; and Micah 6:5. He is classified as a “soothsayer” (Josh. 13:22) who cooperated with both the Midianites and Moabites against Israel. Balaam is the epitome of a false prophet and a hireling (2 Pet. 2:15; Jude 11). He tried unsuccessfully to lure the Israelites into the cult of Baal-peor (25:1–5; 31:16). Balaam was later killed by the Israelites (31:8). In the New Testament he is the symbol of avarice and false religion (Rev. 2:14, 15). (First Reference, Num. 22:5; Primary References, 2 Pet. 2:15; Jude 11; Rev. 2:14, 15.)

17 For I will ^apromote thee unto very great honour, and I will do whatsoever thou sayest unto me: ^bcome therefore, I pray thee, curse me this people.

18 And Balaam answered and said unto the servants of Balak, ^aIf Balak would give me his house full of silver and gold, ^bI cannot go beyond the word of the LORD my God, to do less or more.

19 Now therefore, I pray you, ^atarry ye also here this night, that I may know what the LORD will say unto me more.

angel of the LORD, she thrust herself unto the wall, and crushed Balaam's foot against the wall: and he smote her again.

26 And the angel of the LORD went further, and stood in a narrow place, where was no way to turn either to the right hand or to the left.

27 And when the ass saw the angel of the LORD, she fell down under Balaam: and Balaam's anger was kindled, and he smote the ass with a staff.

The Ass Speaks to Balaam

28 And the LORD ^aopened the mouth of the ass, and she said unto Balaam, What have I done unto thee, that thou hast smitten me these three times?

29 And Balaam said unto the ass, Because thou hast ¹mocked me: I would there were a sword in mine hand, ^afor now would I kill thee.

30 ^aAnd the ass said unto Balaam, Am not I thine ass, upon which thou hast ridden ever since I was thine unto this day? was I ever ¹wont to do so unto thee? And he said, Nay.

31 Then the LORD ^aopened the eyes of Balaam, and he saw the angel of the LORD standing in the way, and his sword drawn in his hand: and he bowed down his head, and fell flat on his face.

32 And the angel of the LORD said unto him, Wherefore hast thou smitten thine ass these three times? behold, I went out ¹to withstand thee, because thy way is ^aperverse² before me:

33 And the ass saw me, and turned from me these three times: unless she had turned from me, surely now also I had slain thee, and saved her alive.

22:20. This text must be read in light of the above verses and verse 22, "and God's anger was kindled because he went," and verse 32, "thy way is perverse before me." The Hebrew conveys the idea of "rushing headlong or rapidly onward with great haste as that done without due deliberation." This conveys Balaam's inner desire to get money, wealth, and fame; he had no desire to really know God's will in the matter (cf. Job 16:11).

22:22. The angel of the LORD ... for an adversary against him: Here Balaam's spiritual blindness was really accentuated and his powerlessness exposed. He could not see the Angel of the Lord "presenting himself in battle array," standing in his path, though his donkey could! He saw no significance in the donkey's actions, even though strange actions by animals were considered omens in Mesopotamia. As a specialist in this sort of divination, he ought to have realized that the deity had a message for him. The situation was so grave that the pre-incarnate Christ Himself appeared before Balaam.

34 And Balaam said unto the angel of the LORD, “I have sinned; for I knew not that thou stoodest in the way against me: now therefore, if it ¹displease thee, I will get me back again.

35 And the angel of the LORD said unto Balaam, Go with the men: ^abut only the word that I shall speak unto thee, that thou shalt speak. So Balaam went with the princes of Balak.

Balak Greets Balaam

36 And when Balak heard that Balaam was come, ^ahe went out to meet him unto a city of Moab, ^bwhich is in the border of Arnon, which is in the utmost coast.

37 And Balak said unto Balaam, Did I not earnestly send unto thee to call thee? wherefore camest thou not unto me? am I not able indeed ^ato promote thee to honour?

38 And Balaam said unto Balak, Lo, I am come unto thee: have I now any power at all to say any thing? ^athe word that God putteth in my mouth, that shall I speak.

39 And Balaam went with Balak, and they came unto Kirjath-huzoth.

40 And Balak offered oxen and sheep, and sent to Balaam, and to the princes that were with him.

41 And it came to pass on the morrow, that Balak took Balaam, and brought him up into the ^ahigh places of Baal, that thence he might see the ¹utmost part of the people.

22:38. The word that God putteth in my mouth, that shall I speak: He would certainly learn this the hard way (cf. Deut. 23:5 and his frustration in Num. 24:1).

23:8–10. God had told Balaam this in 22:12. The fact of Israel's blessing by Yahweh is the major theme of this section. Israel is blessed by Yahweh from of old (see Gen. 12:1–3 in the Abrahamic covenant). This episode is a test case for the Abrahamic covenant in its most elemental and fundamental level. Balaam was called by Balak to put God to the test. The people shall dwell alone, and shall not be reckoned among the nations: Israel had no respect among the nations, but the difference was that they had been chosen by Him as His “firstborn son” (Ex. 4:22; Amos 3:1, 2). Verse 10 recalls the thoughts of Genesis 13:16.

Israel Favoured and Blessed by God

24 And when Balaam saw that it pleased the LORD to bless Israel, he went not, as at ^aother times, ¹to seek for enchantments,

23:19. The immutability of God is stated. The word repent is parallel to lie and is colored in tone by this very association. Here his repenting is related to falsehood. The concept of the truth of Yahweh is related to immutability. Since God is truth, He does not lie; in fact, He cannot lie. He is unchanging. God is utterly different from man. Something that comes far too easily for many men is impossible for almighty God: He cannot lie (cf. Is. 31:2; 51:6, 8; Jer. 4:28; Mal. 3:6).

23:21. Two views are possible: (1) He hath not beheld iniquity or perverseness in that God has won all their victories. They have not toiled in vain; or (2) He has not observed any "iniquity" of "perverseness" as it relates to Israel's standing before God. They have been "declared righteous" by His choice of them. The latter might relate to the "error" of Balaam mentioned in Jude 11. Perhaps Balaam thought that someone could curse those (Israel) whom the Lord has not cursed. The natural man cannot understand the believer's position in God, or "in Christ." Israel is not merely blessed, but the LORD his God is with him functioning as a king, "shouting" as in battle or in religious festivals (Lev. 23:24; Num. 10:5, 6; 1 Sam. 4:6).

23:23. The preposition be may mean "in" or "against." If there is no enchantment in Jacob, it would mean Israel does not use these means for obtaining God's will (cf. Deut. 18:10-14). If taken as "against" it implies that such practices as Balaam's were powerless against Israel. The context favors "against." Certainly God is omnipotent, and 24:1 indicates that Balaam was learning this the hard way, along with Balak.

24:1. Saw that it pleased ... went not, as at other but he set his face toward the wilderness.

2 And Balaam lifted up his eyes, and he saw Israel ^aabiding in his tents according to their tribes; and ^bthe spirit of God came upon him.

Balak's Anger

10 And Balak's anger was kindled against Balaam, and he ^asmote his hands together: and Balak said unto Balaam, ^bI called thee to curse mine enemies, and, behold, thou hast altogether blessed them these three times.

11 Therefore now flee thou to thy place: ^aI thought to promote thee unto great honour; but, lo, the LORD hath kept thee back from honour.

12 And Balaam said unto Balak, Spake I not also to thy messengers which thou sentest unto me, saying, 13 If Balak would give me his house full of silver and gold, I cannot go beyond the commandment of the LORD, to do either good or bad of mine own mind; but what the LORD saith, that will I speak?

14 And now, behold, I go unto my people: come therefore, and ^aI will advertise thee what this people shall do to thy people in the ^blatter days.

15 And he took up his parable, and said, Balaam the son of Beor hath said, and the man whose eyes are open hath said:

times, to seek for enchantments: He had not perceived the "angel of the LORD" standing in the way, but he now perceived his enchantments were of no avail. At other times expresses what had been his habit, which extends to his life-style, not just the first two times in this account.

24:2. And the spirit of God came upon him: Previously God had put a word in Balaam's mouth (23:5, 16). This phase in verse 2 is not just a stylistic variation, but suggests that this time Balaam fell into a trance as verses 3 and 4 indicate.

24:3. This parable is actually an "oracle." With a different division of the Hebrew letters translated here as open, the translation "whose eye is perfect" (i.e., true) may be read.

24:4. The falling indicates a supernaturally induced state with his "eyes uncovered." The Spirit was mentioned in verse 2, indicating the source of his revelation. The first two oracles were theological statements about God's relationship to Israel and what He has done for them already, but now the subsequent oracles include visionary predictions of Israel's future settlement in Canaan, the rise of the monarchy, and victories over specific foes.

24:5-9. Their future settlement is compared to that of trees, even cedar trees, which do not grow by rivers. Water is symbolic of fruitfulness, either fertility of the land from rain, or the growing population as the result of accelerated birth rate. They will multiply further (Gen. 17:5, 6). The theme of a king is introduced (Gen. 17:6, 16; 35:11). Agag was a king of the Amalekites (cf. Ex. 17:14-16; 1 Sam. 15:8).

24:14-19. Balaam's last four oracles (vv. 15-24) really continue the third (vv. 3-9). Verse 15 is like verses 3 and 4. This concerns the distant future as the latter days indicates. It may mean simply "the future" (Jer. 23:20), but also the "final days" (Is. 2:2; Dan. 8:19). Primarily these oracles refer to the royal triumphs in the period of the early monarchy, but these victories prefigure the greater conquests of Christ at His first and second advents. A Star: This can be used metaphorically for a king (Rev. 22:16). That a king is meant is confirmed by a Scepter shall rise out of Israel, a scepter being part of the royal insignia (Gen. 49:10; Ps. 45:6; Amos 1:5, 8). Shall smite the corners of Moab: The word corners is best understood as "the head" or "skull" (Jer. 48:45 and Samaritan Pentateuch). The king of Israel would conquer the neighboring countries, Moab, Sheth (most likely Shut), Edom, Seir, Amalek, and the Kenites (vv. 20, 21).

16 He hath said, which heard the words of God, and knew the knowledge of the most High, which saw the vision of the Almighty, falling into a trance, but having his eyes open:

17 ^aI shall see him, but not now: I shall behold him, but not nigh: there shall come ^ba Star out of Jacob, and ^ca Sceptre shall rise out of Israel, and shall ¹smite the corners of Moab, and destroy all the ²children of Sheth.

18 And ^aEdom shall be a possession, Seir also shall be a possession for his enemies; and Israel shall do ¹valiantly.

19 ^aOut of Jacob shall come he that ¹shall have dominion, and shall destroy him that remaineth of the city.

20 And when he looked on Amalek, he took up his parable, and said, Amalek was the first ¹of the nations; but his latter end shall be that he perish for ever.

21 And he looked on the Kenites, and took up his parable, and said, Strong is thy dwellingplace, and thou puttest thy nest in a rock.

22 Nevertheless the Kenite shall be wasted, until Asshur shall carry thee away captive.

23 And he took up his parable, and said, Alas, who shall live when God doeth this!

24 And ships shall come from the coast of ^aChittim,¹ and shall afflict Asshur, and shall afflict ^bEber, and ²he also shall perish for ever.

25 And Balaam rose up, and went and ^areturned to his place: and Balaam also went his way.

25 And Israel ¹abode in ^aShittim,² and the ^bpeople began to commit ³whoredom with the daughters of Moab.

2 And ^athey called the people unto ^bthe sacrifices of their gods: and the people did eat, and ^cbowed down to their gods.

3 And Israel joined himself unto Baal-peor: and ^athe anger of the LORD was ¹kindled against Israel.

God's Wrath and Plague

4 And the LORD said unto Moses, ^aTake all the heads of the people, and hang them up before the LORD against the sun, ^bthat the fierce anger of the LORD may be turned away from Israel.

5 And Moses said unto ^athe judges of Israel, ^bSlay ye every one his men that were joined unto Baal-peor.

6 And, behold, one of the children of Israel came and brought unto his brethren a Midianitish woman in the sight of Moses, and in the sight of all the congregation of the children of Israel, ^awho were weeping before the door of the tabernacle of the congregation.

7 And ^awhen Phinehas, ^bthe son of Eleazar, the son of Aaron the priest, saw it, he rose up from among the congregation, and took a javelin in his hand;

8 And he went after the man of Israel into the tent, and thrust both of them through, the man of Israel, and the woman through her belly. So ^athe plague was ^bstayed from the children of Israel.

24:23, 24. Beginning in verse 20, Balaam adds three short cryptic oracles dealing with the fate of other nations. They bring the total number to seven. If Israel's enemies were destroyed, her future would be secure. David subdued the Moabites, Edomites, Amalekites, and the Philistines (2 Sam. 8), but the subjugation was only temporary; thus many of the later prophets contain oracles against these same countries. And the great royal Psalm 110 contains many verbal parallels with Numbers 24:15-19, indicating the latter's importance.

25:1-5. Shittim was the last encampment of Israel before crossing the Jordan (Josh. 2:1). Commit whoredom: This has both a physical and a spiritual sense. Prostitution was a common feature of Canaanite religion; through it some of the Israelites were allured to participate in pagan sacrifices and bowed down to their gods. They called: The verb is feminine, referring to the women of Moab. Balaam advised this (31:16) in order to compromise Israel, whom he could not curse (Rev. 2:14). Baal-peor: This shrine was dedicated to Baal of Peor and may have been the place where Balaam delivered his final oracle (23:28). Baal was the Canaanite fertility god, whose worship consistently caused problems in Israel (Judg. 2:13; 1 Kin. 18; 2 Kin. 17:16; Jer. 2:8). By participating in this cult, they flagrantly repudiated the essential heart of the covenant, total and exclusive allegiance to the Lord. Thus a severe plague broke out, killing 24,000 people (v. 9; cf. Ex. 32:35).

9 And ^athose that died in the plague were twenty and four thousand.

God's Approval of Phinehas

10 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

11 ^aPhinehas, the son of Eleazar, the son of Aaron the priest, hath turned my wrath away from the children of Israel, while he was zealous for my sake among them, that I consumed not the children of Israel in ^bmy jealousy.

12 Wherefore say, ^aBehold, I give unto him my ^bcovenant of peace:

13 And he shall have it, and ^ahis seed after him, even the covenant of ^ban everlasting priesthood; because he was ^czealous for his God, and ^dmade ¹an atonement for the children of Israel.

14 Now the name of the Israelite that was slain, even that was slain with the Midianitish woman, was Zimri, the son of Salu, a prince of a chief house among the Simeonites.

15 And the name of the Midianitish woman that was slain was Cozbi, the daughter of ^aZur; he was head over a people, and of a chief house in Midian.

Israel to Smite Midianites

16 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

17 ^aVex¹ the Midianites, and smite them:

18 For they vex you with their ^awives,¹ wherewith they have ²beguiled you in the matter of Peor, and in the matter of Cozbi, the daughter of a prince of Midian, their sister, which was slain in the day of the plague for Peor's sake.

Moses to Take a Second Census

26 ^aAnd it came to pass after the plague, that the LORD spake unto Moses and unto Eleazar the son of Aaron the priest, saying,

2 ^aTake ¹the sum of all the congregation of the children of Israel, ^bfrom twenty years old and upward, throughout their fathers' house, all that are able to go to war in Israel.

3 And Moses and Eleazar the priest spake with them ^ain the plains of Moab by Jordan near Jericho, saying,

4 Take the sum of the people, from twenty years old and upward; as the LORD ^acommanded Moses and the children of Israel, which went forth out of the land of Egypt.

The Tribe of Reuben Numbered

5 ^aReuben, the eldest son of Israel: the children of Reuben; Hanoth, of whom cometh the family of the Hanothites: of Pallu, the family of the Palluites:

6 Of Hezron, the family of the Hezronites: of Carmi, the family of the Carmites.

7 These are the families of the Reubenites: and they that were numbered of them were forty and three thousand and seven hundred and thirty.

8 And the sons of Pallu; Eliab.

9 And the sons of Eliab; Nemuel, and Dathan, and Abiram. This is that Dathan and Abiram, which were ^afamous in the congregation, who ¹strove against Moses and against Aaron in the company of Korah, when they strove against the LORD:

25:10-15. He was zealous for my sake: Phinehas executed the sinner, expressing so clearly and visibly God's own anger through his deed that God's wrath was turned away. He made an atonement for the children of Israel: He was rewarded with the promise that the high priesthood would always remain in his family (1 Chr. 6:4ff.).

26:1-65. The previous census had a military purpose: to record all those men aged 20 or over who were fit for military service (1:3), and so does this census (26:2). This was appropriate since a campaign against Midian had just been announced (25:16-18), and the conquest of Canaan was imminent. But there was a more important reason for this census: to determine the relative size of the tribes, so they should each receive a proportionate share of territory in the Promised Land (vv. 52-56).

Chapters 1 and 3 give the total number of men in each tribe, whereas chapter 26 gives these totals and also lists the families or clans that make up each tribe. There are extra details supplied in this census about the clans and their forefathers to help serve as a reminder that the cause of the great multiplication of the children of Israel goes back to the promise to the patriarchs in Genesis 12:2; 26:24; and 46:3. In verse 33 the daughters of Zelophehad are mentioned, and their legal problems are dealt with in chapters 27 and 36.

10 ^aAnd the earth opened her mouth, and swallowed them up together with Korah, when that company died, what time the fire devoured two hundred and fifty men: ^band they became a sign.

11 Notwithstanding ^athe children of Korah died not.

The Total Number of Israelites

51 ^aThese were the numbered of the children of Israel, six hundred thousand and a thousand seven hundred and thirty.

The Land Divided by Size of Tribe

52 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

53 ^aUnto these the land shall be ^bdivided for an inheritance according to the number of names.

54 ^aTo many thou shalt give the ¹more inheritance, and to few thou shalt give the ²less inheritance: to every one shall his inheritance be given according to those that were numbered of him.

55 Notwithstanding the land shall be ^adivided by lot: according to the names of the tribes of their fathers they shall inherit.

56 According to the lot shall the possession thereof be divided between many and few.

57 ^aAnd these are they that were numbered of the Levites after their families: of Gershon, the family of the Gershonites: of Kohath, the family of the Kohathites: of Merari, the family of the Merarites.

58 These are the families of the Levites: the family of the Libnites, the family of the Hebronites, the family of the Mahlites, the family of the Mushites, the family of the Korathites. And Kohath begat Amram.

59 And the name of Amram's wife was ^aJochebed, the daughter of Levi, whom her mother bare to Levi in Egypt: and she bare unto Amram Aaron and Moses, and Miriam their sister.

60 ^aAnd unto Aaron was born Nadab, and Abihu, Eleazar, and Ithamar.

61 And ^aNadab and Abihu died, when they offered ¹strange fire before the LORD.

The Total Number of Levites

62 ^aAnd those that were numbered of them were twenty and three thousand, all males from a month old and upward: ^bfor they were not numbered among the children of Israel, because there was ^cno inheritance given them among the children of Israel.

A New Generation

63 These are they that were numbered by Moses and Eleazar the priest, who numbered the children of Israel ^ain the plains of Moab by Jordan near Jericho.

64 ^aBut among these there was not a man of them whom Moses and Aaron the priest numbered, when they numbered the children of Israel in the ^bwilderness of Sinai.

65 For the LORD had said of them, They ^ashall surely die in the wilderness. And there was not left a man of them, ^bsave Caleb the son of Jephunneh, and Joshua the son of Nun.

God's Laws on Inheritances

6 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

7 The daughters of Zelophehad speak right: ^athou shalt surely give them a possession of an inheritance among their father's brethren; and thou shalt cause the inheritance of their father to pass unto them.

8 And thou shalt speak unto the children of Israel, saying, If a man die, and have no son, then ye shall cause his inheritance to pass unto his daughter.

9 And if he have no daughter, then ye shall give his inheritance unto his brethren.

10 And if he have no brethren, then ye shall give his inheritance unto his father's brethren.

11 And if his father have no brethren, then ye shall give his inheritance unto his kinsman that is next to him of his family, and he shall possess it: and it shall be unto the children of Israel ^aa statute of judgment, as the LORD commanded Moses.

Moses Sees the Promised Land

12 And the LORD said unto Moses, ^aGet thee up into this mount Abarim,

27:1-11. Zelophehad had no sons, and under the traditional law his inheritance would, on his death, be transferred to his nearest relative, and thus the land would be kept within the family. The order of closeness is given in verses 9 and 10 (cf. Lev. 25:48, 49). His daughters challenged this accepted practice, pleading it would lead to their father's name being forgotten (v. 4), and their plea was accepted (vv. 7, 8). But this would also cause problems, for if they married they would take the family land with them under a new name, thus destroying their father's estate. So chapter 36 deals with this issue. Their request demonstrated their faith in the divine promises of inheriting the land and occupying it very soon. They were not like their father, who evidently had sided with the skeptical spies, but died in his own sin (v. 3; cf. 26:64, 65).

15 And Moses spake unto the LORD, saying,

16 Let the LORD, ^athe God of the spirits of all flesh, set a man over the congregation, 17 ^aWhich may go out before them, and which may go in before them, and which may lead them out, and which may bring them in; that the congregation of the LORD be not ^bas sheep which have no shepherd.

Observance of Daily Offerings

28 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

2 Command the children of Israel, and say unto them, My offering, and ^amy bread for my sacrifices made by fire, for a sweet savour unto me, shall ye observe to offer unto me ^bin their due season.

3 And thou shalt say unto them, ^aThis is the offering made by fire which ye shall offer unto the LORD; two lambs of the first year without spot day by day, for a continual burnt offering.

6 It is ^aa continual burnt offering, which was ordained in mount Sinai for a sweet savour, a sacrifice made by fire unto the LORD.

7 And the drink offering thereof shall be the fourth part of an hin for the one lamb: ^ain the holy place shalt thou cause the strong wine to be poured unto the LORD for a drink offering.

27:21. Urim: Joshua discovered God's will through these means, as opposed to Moses who spoke to God "face to face."

28:1-29:40. Some of the material discussed here has already been dealt with earlier, such as the daily morning and evening sacrifices (Ex. 29:38-41); and how they are to be performed (Lev. 1-7); the different festivals (Lev. 23); the cereal offerings and libations that accompany animal sacrifices (ch. 15). In Numbers 28 and 29, the type and number of sacrifices that must be offered on every day of the year by the priests for the nation as a whole are presented. Actually these chapters list the minimum number of sacrifices that could be offered in a year; sacrifices initiated by laymen due to sin, impurity, vows, or any other reason were additional to those listed here (29:39). Here again the giving of these laws acted as a strong affirmation of the promise to Joshua and the rest of the people—getting into the Promised Land.

The sacrifices were arranged according to their frequency: first came the daily burnt offerings (28:2-8); second, the weekly Sabbath offering (28:9, 10); third, the monthly offerings (28:11-15); finally, the annual offerings arranged in chronological sequence (28:16-29:38).

8 And the other lamb shalt thou offer at even: as the ¹meat offering of the morning, and as the drink offering thereof, thou shalt offer it, a sacrifice made by fire, of a ²sweet savour unto the LORD.

Sabbath Offerings

9 And on the sabbath day two lambs of the first year without spot, and two tenth deals of flour for a meat offering, mingled with oil, and the drink offering thereof:

10 This is ^athe burnt offering of every sabbath, beside the continual burnt offering, and his drink offering.

Observance of Monthly Offerings

11 And ^ain the beginnings of your months ye shall offer a burnt offering unto the LORD; two young bullocks, and one ram, seven lambs of the first year without spot;

12 And ^athree tenth deals of flour for a meat offering, mingled with oil, for one bullock; and two tenth deals of flour for a meat offering, mingled with oil, for one ram;

13 And a several tenth deal of flour mingled with oil for a meat offering unto one lamb; for a burnt offering of a sweet savour, a sacrifice made by fire unto the LORD.

14 And their drink offerings shall be half an hin of wine unto a bullock, and the third part of an hin unto a ram, and a fourth part of an hin unto a lamb: this is the burnt offering of every month throughout the months of the year.

15 And ^aone kid of the goats for a sin offering unto the LORD shall be offered, beside the continual burnt offering, and his drink offering.

The Passover Feast

16 ^aAnd in the fourteenth day of the first month is the passover of the LORD.

17 ^aAnd in the fifteenth day of this month is the feast: seven days shall unleavened bread be eaten.

Laws Regarding Vows

30 And Moses spake unto the heads of the tribes concerning the children of Israel, saying, This is the thing which the LORD hath commanded.

2 ^aIf a man vow a vow unto the LORD, or ^bswear an oath ¹to bind his soul with a bond; he shall not break his word, he shall ^cdo according to all that proceedeth out of his mouth.

3 If a woman also vow a vow unto the LORD, and bind herself by a bond, being in her father's house in her youth;

4 And her father hear her vow, and her bond wherewith she hath bound her soul, and her father ¹shall hold his peace at her: then all her vows shall stand, and every bond wherewith she hath bound her soul shall stand.

5 But if her father ¹disallow her in the day that he heareth; not any of her vows, or of her bonds wherewith she hath bound her soul, shall stand: and the LORD shall forgive her, because her father disallowed her.

30:1-16. Vows were often uttered in times of crisis: Genesis 28:20-22; Numbers 21:2; Judges 11:30, 31; 1 Samuel 1:11; 14:24; Jonah 1:16; 2:9; Acts 18:18; 21:23; 23:12-14. But when the crisis passed and the prayer was answered, there was the temptation for a man to forget the vow (Deut. 23:21-23 and Eccl. 5:4 warn against this).

30:1, 2. The principle is that he cannot break his word. The law mentions two types of vow: the vow (neder) and the bond ('issār). The former term is the more common, and here at least means a vow to do something positive such as offering a sacrifice, whereas 'issār is a vow of abstinence, a self-imposed fast (cf. 1 Sam. 14:24; Ps. 132:2-5).

30:3-16. A vow made by a woman could be invalidated by her father (in the case of an unmarried daughter) or by her husband (in the case of a wife). A widow or divorced woman was responsible for her own vows (v. 9). If the husband holds his peace (keeps silent), then this indicates consent. The clear

8 But if her husband ^adisallowed¹ her on the day that he heard it; then he shall make her vow which she vowed, and that which she uttered with her lips, wherewith she bound her soul, of none effect: and the LORD shall forgive her.

The Vow of a Widow

9 But every vow of a widow, and of her that is divorced, wherewith they have bound their souls, shall stand against her.

10 And if she vowed in her husband's house, or bound her soul by a bond with an oath;

11 And her husband heard it, and held his peace at her, and disallowed her not: then all her vows shall stand, and every bond wherewith she bound her soul shall stand.

12 But if her husband hath utterly made them void on the day he heard them; then whatsoever proceeded out of her lips concerning her vows, or concerning the bond of her soul, shall not stand: her husband hath made them ¹void; and the LORD shall forgive her.

Israel Wars with the Midianites

31 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

2 ^aAvenge¹ the children of Israel ²of the Midianites: afterward shalt thou ^bbe gathered unto thy people.

3 And Moses spake unto the people, saying, Arm some of yourselves unto the war, and let them go against the Midianites, and avenge the LORD of ^aMidian.

4 Of every tribe a thousand, throughout all the tribes of Israel, shall ye send to the war.

5 So there were delivered out of the thousands of Israel, a thousand of every tribe, twelve thousand armed for war.

6 And Moses sent them to the war, a thousand of every tribe, them and Phinehas the son of Eleazar the priest, to the war, with the holy instruments, and ^athe trumpets to blow in his hand.

7 And they warred against the Midianites, as the LORD commanded Moses; and ^athey slew all the ^bmales.

8 And they slew the kings of Midian, beside the rest of them that were implication of these laws is that a wife's duty to submit to her husband was comparable to the child's duty to obey his parents (cf. vv. 3-5). Neither wives nor children could substitute self-imposed religious obligations for God-given duties.

31:1-54. Midianites comprised a part of a large confederation of tribes and were often associated with many smaller groups of people like the Ishmaelites, Moabites, Amalekites, and Ephah. Here the reference is to those associated with Moab (vv. 8, 16; cf. chs. 22 and 25), not the whole group. The decimation of the Midianites fulfilled the divine command given in 25:16-18 and cited again in 31:2. It also looks forward to the conquest of the Canaanites, who were to be treated in like manner (21:2-4, 32). Also the distribution of the spoils among warriors, people, priests, and Levites served as a model for the big campaign to Palestine (v. 54).

31:1-12. This is pictured as the Lord's day of vengeance for the Midianites' seduction of Israel in 25:1-13. Adultery carried the death penalty (Lev. 20:10; Deut. 22:22); and that is what they had caused in relation to Israel, spiritual and physical adultery from Yahweh. Balaam was killed with the sword.

slain; namely, ^aEvi, and Rekem, and ^bZur, and Hur, and Reba, five kings of Midian: ^cBalaam also the son of Beor they slew with the sword.

Captives Brought to Moses

9 And the children of Israel took all the women of Midian captives, and their little ones, and took the spoil of all their cattle, and all their flocks, and all their goods.

10 And they burnt all their cities wherein they dwelt, and all their goodly castles, with fire.

11 And ^athey took all the spoil, and all the prey, both of men and of beasts.

12 And they brought the captives, and the prey, and the spoil, unto Moses, and Eleazar the priest, and unto the congregation of the children of Israel, unto the camp at the plains of Moab, which are by Jordan near Jericho.

13 And Moses, and Eleazar the priest, and all the princes of the congregation, went forth to meet them without the camp.

14 And Moses was ¹wroth with the officers of the host, with the captains over thousands, and captains over hundreds, which came from the battle.

15 And Moses said unto them, Have ye saved ^aall the women alive?

16 Behold, ^athese caused the children of Israel, through the ^bcounsel of Balaam, to commit trespass against the LORD in the matter of Peor, and ^cthere was a plague among the congregation of the LORD.

17 Now therefore ^akill every male among the little ones, and kill every woman that hath known man ¹by lying with him.

or that it was due to their participation in war, or that it was the census in verse 49 (cf. Ex. 30:11-16) that prompted them to make atonement. Perhaps it was due to their gratitude for God's signal blessing, and they wanted to stay in a right relationship with Him.

Reuben and Gad's Inheritance

32 Now the children of Reuben and the children of Gad had a very great multitude of cattle: and when they saw the land of ^aJazer, and the land of ^bGilead, that, behold, the place was a place for cattle;

2 The children of Gad and the children of Reuben came and spake unto Moses, and to Eleazar the priest, and unto the princes of the congregation, saying,

Do Not Bring God's Wrath

6 And Moses said unto the children of Gad and to the children of Reuben, Shall your brethren go to war, and shall ye sit here?

7 And wherefore ^adiscourage ye the heart of the children of Israel from going over into the land which the LORD hath given them?

8 Thus did your fathers, ^awhen I sent them from Kadesh-barnea ^bto see the land.

9 For ^awhen they went up unto the valley of Eshcol, and saw the land, they discouraged the heart of the children of Israel, that they should not go into the land which the LORD had given them.

Fight Until the Land Is Conquered

16 And they came near unto him, and said, We will build sheepfolds here for our cattle, and cities for our little ones:

17 But ^awe ourselves will go ready armed before the children of Israel, until we have brought them unto 32:1. Reuben was Jacob's firstborn (Gen. 29:32), and is mentioned first due to his seniority. Elsewhere the Gadites are mentioned first, no doubt due to their being the leaders in the drive to settle Trans-Jordan. This was a very good place for raising cattle.

32:2–5. This was the country which the LORD smote, whose defeat is recorded in 21:21–31. Israel had not planned on fighting with Sihon, but because he blocked their path to the Jordan, the battle was fought.

32:6–15. Moses feared that the proposal of the sons of Gad and the sons of Reuben would cause the other tribes not to proceed to conquer the land west of the Jordan. He said it would be the defection at Kadesh (14:1–10) all over again, and that they would destroy all this people.

32:16–19. They responded that they would go ready armed and would not return until the children of Israel have inherited every man his inheritance. Some scholars believe that the presence of the two-and-one-half tribes in the area of the Trans-Jordan was in opposition to the will of God. They say their reasons were purely selfish, and that Moses merely accommodated himself to their wishes. However, a study of Joshua 22 does not give this impression. At least three things are evident: (1) It appears that the eastern boundary of the Promised Land was not the Jordan Valley, but the mountain range of Gilead. (2) Joshua blessed the tribes and indicated that they indeed did have a right to settlement in Trans-Jordan. (3) The fact that God delivered the land of Sihon and Og to Israel seems to imply that someone was to possess it (Josh. 24:8).

their place: and our little ones shall dwell in the fenced cities because of the inhabitants of the land.

18 ^aWe will not return unto our houses, until the children of Israel have ¹inherited every man his inheritance.

19 For we will not inherit with them on yonder side Jordan, or forward; ^abecause our inheritance is fallen to us on this side Jordan eastward.

Moses Lists Conditions

20 And ^aMoses said unto them, If ye will do this thing, if ye will go armed before the LORD to war,

21 And will go all of you armed over Jordan before the LORD, until he hath driven out his enemies from before him, 22 And ^athe land be subdued before the LORD: then afterward ^bye shall return, and be ¹guiltless before the LORD, and before Israel; and ^cthis land shall be your possession before the LORD.

23 But if ye will not do so, behold, ye have sinned against the LORD: and be sure ^ayour sin will find you out.

24 ^aBuild you cities for your little ones, and folds for your sheep; and do that which ¹hath proceeded out of your mouth.

Conditions Are Accepted

25 And the children of Gad and the children of Reuben spake unto Moses, saying, Thy servants will do as my lord commandeth.

26 ^aOur little ones, our wives, our flocks, and all our cattle, shall be there in the cities of Gilead:

27 ^aBut thy servants will pass over, every man armed for war, before the LORD to battle, as my lord saith.

Two and a Half Tribes Inherit Land

33 And ^aMoses gave unto them, even to the children of Gad, and to the children of Reuben, and unto half the tribe of Manasseh the son of Joseph, ^bthe kingdom of Sihon king of the Amorites, and the kingdom of Og king of Bashan, the land, with the cities thereof in the coasts, even the cities of the country round about.

32:23. This warning related to the condition of going into Palestine and fulfilling their obligations of fighting. It is interesting that in the ancient Near East the "great king" owned crown land which he distributed "free of charge" to fighting men and their families, with the requirement that they go to battle when needed. In Israel God was the "great King." He owned the land (Lev. 25:23) and distributed to the tribes by lot. One of His requirements was for all of the tribes to enter into battle and then settle in their prescribed locations.

32:38. The act of changing the names of these cities indicates the Israelites' superiority over them (cf. Dan. 1 and the change of names for Daniel and his friends; and the naming of things by God in Gen. 1 and Adam in naming the animals in Gen. 2).

32:39. Manasseh: Deuteronomy 3:13 and Joshua 13:29–31 and 17:1, 2 assume the settlement of part of Manasseh in Trans-Jordan. Joshua 22:7 indicates this tribe had a share on the west side, too.

33:1–56. This chapter lists 40 places where Israel encamped between their departure from Rameses in Egypt and their arrival in the plains of Moab. Verses 3–18 not only list the camps, but also some of the most important events that occurred at some of them. These verses reflect the geographical material contained in Exodus 12—Numbers 12. The central section (vv. 18–36) simply lists the campsites. There are no parallels in Numbers, even though verses 31–33 seem to relate to Deuteronomy 10:6, 7. The final section (vv. 37–49) contains historical events as well as place-names as in the first section. This list may serve as an obituary for Moses, but it also summarizes the main themes of Exodus and Numbers. It records events that reveal God's enabling the nation to overcome great obstacles in the past. Thus He would certainly lead them into the Promised Land. This chapter sets the background for the laws in 33:50–36:13 which clearly deal with the land of Canaan. God's past faithfulness and leading are a guarantee that Israel will soon be in a position to implement these laws in the land promised to the patriarchs.

Order to Drive Out the Canaanites

50 And the LORD spake unto Moses in the plains of Moab by Jordan near Jericho, saying,

51 Speak unto the children of Israel, and say unto them, ^aWhen ye are passed over Jordan into the land of Canaan;

52 ^aThen ye shall drive out all the inhabitants of the land from before you, and destroy all their pictures, and destroy all their molten images, and quite pluck down all their ¹high places:

33:50-56. This section deals with the command to exterminate the Canaanites and their religion. This is a familiar theme in the Pentateuch (cf. Ex. 23:24; 34:11-13; Lev. 20; Deut. 7). The warning in verses 55 and 56 became a reality, because they failed to exterminate the Canaanites (Judg. 1, 2), and the Canaanites caused Israel to become like them and be spewed out. This resulted in the Assyrian captivity of Israel (722 B.C.) and the Babylonian captivity of Judah (605 B.C.). See Leviticus 26:31-33; Deuteronomy 28:64-66; and Joshua 23:13.

9 And the border shall go on to Ziphron, and the goings out of it shall be at ^aHazar-enan: this shall be your north border.

10 And ye shall point out your east border from Hazar-enan to Shepham:

11 And the coast shall go down from Shepham ^ato Riblah, on the east side of Ain; and the border shall descend, and shall reach unto the ¹side of the sea ^bof Chinnereth eastward:

12 And the border shall go down to Jordan, and the goings out of it shall be at ^athe salt sea: this shall be your land with the coasts thereof round about.

Nine and a Half Tribes' Land

13 And Moses commanded the children of Israel, saying, ^aThis is the land which ye shall inherit by lot, which the LORD commanded to give unto the nine tribes, and to the half tribe:

14 ^aFor the tribe of the children of Reuben according to the house of their fathers, and the tribe of the children of Gad according to the house of their fathers, have received their inheritance; and half the tribe of Manasseh have received their inheritance:

15 The two tribes and the half tribe have received their inheritance on this side Jordan near Jericho eastward, toward the sunrising.

Inheritance Dividers Chosen

16 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

17 These are the names of the men which shall divide the land unto you: ^aEleazar the priest, and Joshua the son of Nun.

18 And ye shall take one ^aprince of every tribe, to divide the land by inheritance.

34:1-15. This section fixes the boundaries of the Promised Land.

34:16-29. The allotment of the land was to be supervised by Eleazar, Joshua, and one leader from each of the tribes. They were named directly by God, showing the importance of the task. Only 10 tribal leaders are mentioned here, since Gad and Reuben had already settled in Trans-Jordan. They basically began in the south with Judah and Simeon, and ended in the north with Asher and Naphtali.

19 And the names of the men are these: Of the tribe of Judah, Caleb the son of Jephunneh.

20 And of the tribe of the children of Simeon, Shemuel the son of Amihud.

21 Of the tribe of Benjamin, Eliad the son of Chislon.

22 And the prince of the tribe of the children of Dan, Bukki the son of Jogli.

23 The prince of the children of Joseph, for the tribe of the children of Manasseh, Hanniel the son of Ephod.

24 And the prince of the tribe of the children of Ephraim, Kemuel the son of Shiphtan.

25 And the prince of the tribe of the children of Zebulun, Elizaphan the son of Parnach.

26 And the prince of the tribe of the children of Issachar, Paltiel the son of Azzan.

27 And the prince of the tribe of the children of Asher, Ahihud the son of Shelomi.

28 And the prince of the tribe of the children of Naphtali, Pedahel the son of Amihud.

29 These are they whom the LORD commanded to ¹divide the inheritance unto the children of Israel in the land of Canaan.

Cities for the Levites

35 And the LORD spake unto Moses in ^athe plains of Moab by Jordan ^{near} Jericho, saying,

2 ^aCommand the children of Israel, that they give unto the Levites of the inheritance of their possession cities to dwell in; and ye shall give also unto the Levites ^bsuburbs for the cities round about them.

3 And the cities shall they have to dwell in; and the suburbs of them shall be for their cattle, and for their goods, and for all their beasts.

5 And ye shall measure from without the city on the east side two thousand cubits, and on the south side two thousand cubits, and on the west side two thousand cubits, and on the north side two thousand cubits; and the city shall be in the midst: this shall be to them the suburbs of the cities.

Cities for Refuge

6 And among the cities which ye shall give unto the Levites there shall be ^asix cities for refuge, which ye shall appoint for the manslayer, that he may flee thither: and to ¹them ye shall add forty and two cities.

7 So all the cities which ye shall give to the Levites shall be ^aforty and eight cities: them shall ye give with their suburbs.

8 And the cities which ye shall give shall be ^aof the possession of the children of Israel: ^bfrom them that have many ye shall give many; but from them that have few ye shall give few: every one shall give of his cities unto the Levites according to his inheritance which ¹he inheriteth.

Laws Regarding Murder

In a society where farmland was at a premium, this small fraction of the land meant they certainly had to depend on the generosity of the other tribes among whom they lived for their well-being. They received 48 cities listed in Joshua 21.

35:9-34. Avenger: When a man was killed, it was the duty of his nearest male relative, "the avenger of blood" (vv. 12, 19, 21, 24, 25, 27), to kill the man responsible. The Hebrew word is gō'el and is translated "redeemer" or "kinsman." He was the one who should "buy" his relative out of trouble (5:8; Lev. 25:25, 26; Ruth 3:12; 4:1, 6, 8; Job 19:25; Is. 59:20). 31 Moreover ye shall take no ¹satisfaction for the life of a murderer, which is guilty of death: but he shall be surely put to death.

the deed was deliberate. Murderers must be executed, and manslaughterers must dwell in a city of refuge until the death of the high priest (v. 28). This law's primary concern was the provision of cities of refuge for manslaughterers (v. 15). The law also considered who was qualified for admission (vv. 16–25), and then what might happen if he left the city before the death of the high priest (vv. 26–28). It prescribed the evidence required for a conviction of murder (v. 30), and it prohibited ransom (vv. 31, 32). The Levites were the permanent inhabitants of the cities of refuge and took responsibility for admitting the manslaughterers. The death of the high priest atoned for the manslaughterer and allowed the guilty man to return home. The function of the high priest anticipated the ministry of our Lord, not only in His life of offering sacrifice and prayer on behalf of the people, but also in His death (cf. Heb. 4–9).

32 And ye shall take no satisfaction for him that is fled to the city of his refuge, that he should come again to dwell in the land, until the death of the priest.

33 So ye shall not pollute the land wherein ye are: for blood ^ait defileth the land: and ¹the land cannot be cleansed of the blood that is shed therein, but ^bby the blood of him that shed it.

34 ^aDefile not therefore the land which ye shall inhabit, wherein I dwell: for ^b¹I the LORD dwell among the children of Israel.

3 And if they be married to any of the sons of the other tribes of the children of Israel, then shall their inheritance be ^ataken from the inheritance of our fathers, and shall be put to the inheritance of the tribe ¹whereunto they are received: so shall it be taken from the lot of our inheritance.

4 And when ^athe jubile of the children of Israel shall be, then shall their inheritance be put unto the inheritance of the tribe whereunto they are received: so shall their inheritance be taken away from the inheritance of the tribe of our fathers.

Female Heirs to Marry Within the Tribe

5 And Moses commanded the children of Israel according to the word of the LORD, saying, The tribe of the sons of Joseph ^ahath said well.

6 This is the thing which the LORD doth command concerning the daughters of Zelophehad, saying, Let them ¹marry to whom they think best; ^aonly to the family of the tribe of their father shall they marry.

7 So shall not the inheritance of the children of Israel remove from tribe to tribe: for every one of the children of Israel shall ^akeep¹ himself to the inheritance of the tribe of his fathers.

8 And ^aevery daughter, that possesseth an inheritance in any tribe of the children of Israel, shall be wife unto one of the family of the tribe of her father, that the children of Israel may enjoy every man the inheritance of his fathers.

9 Neither shall the inheritance remove from one tribe to another tribe; but every one of the tribes of the children of Israel shall keep himself to his own inheritance.

10 Even as the LORD commanded Moses, so did the daughters of Zelophehad:

11 ^aFor Mahlah, Tirzah, and Hoglah, and Milcah, and Noah, the daughters of Zelophehad, were married unto their father's brothers' sons:

12 And they were married into the families of the sons of Manasseh the son of Joseph, and their inheritance remained in the tribe of the family of their father.

13 These are the commandments and the judgments, which the LORD commanded by the hand of Moses unto the children of Israel ^ain the plains of Moab by Jordan near Jericho.

36:1-13. Chapter 27 raised the question of the father's name dying out with his death, since he had no sons. Therefore his land would pass to other members of his family. The rules of inheritance were altered for the daughters of Zelophehad so that they might inherit, because they had no brothers. But another problem arose concerning the right of daughters to inherit their fathers' land if they were to marry someone from another tribe. Then their land would eventually become the property of that other tribe, and permanently so after the Year of Jubilee (cf. Lev. 25:10). To prevent this, Moses commanded that an heiress should marry within her father's tribe (v. 8). This would eliminate land transfers between tribes, and assure that every one of the children of Israel shall keep himself to the inheritance of the tribe of his fathers.

The last chapters of the Book of Numbers deal with the land, its distribution, its extent, and its holiness. Thus Numbers anticipates the entrance into the Promised Land.

DEUTERONOMY

Deuteronomy is one of the most significant books in the Old Testament. Judging from the number of quotations or citations of Deuteronomy in the New Testament, its influence has been extremely great. According to the United Bible Societies' Greek New Testament, Deuteronomy is quoted or cited 195 times in the New Testament, exceeded only by references to Psalms, Isaiah, Genesis, and Exodus, in that order. Based on the number of manuscripts of the individual Old Testament books found among the Dead Sea Scrolls, Deuteronomy was one of the five most influential works at Qumran (thus far there are 27 manuscripts of Psalms, 24 of Deuteronomy, 18 of Isaiah, and 15 each of Genesis and Exodus). Three times Jesus found strength in Deuteronomy to turn back Satan's tempting (Matt. 4:1-11; cf. Deut. 6:13, 16; 8:3). When asked which commandment was greatest (Matt. 22:36, 37), He quoted Deuteronomy 6:5 in reply.

Deuteronomy is also a treasure chest of theological concepts that have influenced the religious thought and life of ancient Israel, Jews, and Christians down through the ages. These concepts include: (1) The concept of creed; Deuteronomy 6:4, 5 is the "creed" of Israel, known as the Shema ("Hear"). The words were to be upon the hearts of the Israelites, who were to teach them diligently to their children. The words were to be bound "for a sign" on the hand and "as frontlets" between the eyes. They were to be written on the doorposts of the house and on the gates. Jesus took the words of 6:5 as the first and greatest commandment (Matt. 22:37). (2) The concept of the God who acts permeates the book. The historical acts of Yahweh become a basic part of the book's viewpoint, particularly as these acts relate to the claims Yahweh makes on the Israelites, both at that moment and after they entered the Land of Promise. Moses reminds them of "what the LORD did because of Baal-peor" (4:3), which is to instruct future behavior in the Promised Land (v. 5). (3) The election of Israel is based in the call of Abraham (Gen. 12:1-3; 15:1-6), where God's promise is directed to the "seed" or descendants of Abraham. The word most often used to set forth the doctrine of election in the Old Testament is the verb bachar, "to choose." It occurs quite frequently in Deuteronomy (30 times). (4) Another major thought is that of the covenant relationship. A people redeemed from slavery and bound to their God by a covenant needed some guidelines for a happy life in fellowship with God and with one another. The Sinai covenant was cast in the shape of an ancient Near Eastern treaty that listed obligations laid on the vassal (Israel) by the great King (Yahweh). These were the natural consequence of the King's protection and care for His vassal. (5) Another concept, that of sin, is expressed in Deuteronomy in a unique way, in that it is seen against the background of the covenant relationship. The redemptive act by which the Lord brought the Israelites out of Egypt is mentioned in connection with the commandments (6:20-25). The obligation of the Israelites to keep and do His ordinances stemmed from the fact that they were chosen to be His possession

(7:6). When they entered the land, they were to remember these facts and keep His commandments (8:1-10). However, they were in danger of forgetting this relationship and turning to other gods (vv. 11-18) for which they would “surely perish” (v. 19). Loving God and keeping His commandments are set side by side (11:13), and blessing in the land is to follow from such obedience (vv. 8-12). Disobedience would bring the withholding of blessing.

Historical Setting. For 38 years after they had refused to enter Canaan, the Israelites remained in the wilderness of Paran and at Kadesh-barnea, until the old generation died off. Then they resumed their journey by a long detour around Edom. Finally, they were encamped in Moab, awaiting final instructions to go over and possess the land God had promised to their fathers. It was a most exciting and momentous occasion.

According to the Book of Deuteronomy, Moses took this occasion to deliver three addresses to the people of Israel, all of them farewell addresses, because he had been told that he could not enter the land with the people. The substance of the addresses is found in Deuteronomy, with the first being delivered “on this side Jordan, in the land of Moab” (1:5). The second one, if the words of 4:44-49 are intended as a heading for the second portion and not as a summary of the first, was given “on this side Jordan, in the valley over against Bethpeor, in the land of Sihon king of the Amorites” (4:46). The third was simply “in the land of Moab” (29:1). Quite possibly the same location is intended for all three messages.

Authorship. The view that Deuteronomy was substantially Mosaic in origin was, with few exceptions, held by both Jews and Christians until the rise of the modern critical discussions in the late eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries A.D. Certain European scholars denied the Mosaic authorship of Deuteronomy and ascribed it to an author or authors who lived approximately at the time of Josiah. The theories of the dates range from Moses’ time (1447-1407 B.C.) to as late as 400 B.C. In the past few years, liberal scholars have been willing to acknowledge that a great deal of Deuteronomy rests on ancient materials, but say that the material has been worked and reworked by different scribes and put into its final form much later.

On conservative presuppositions, a very strong case for the Mosaic authorship of Deuteronomy can be established. By the test of agreement with known historical conditions, and by careful literary analysis, it is possible to demonstrate that only the pre-Davidic period can successfully be reconciled with the data of the Hebrew text. In fact, the unity and authenticity of the book as a Mosaic product are confirmed by the remarkable conformity of its structure to that of the suzerainty (overlordship) type of covenant or treaty in its classic, mid-second millennium B.C. form. Actually, Deuteronomy 31:9 and 24 state that Moses wrote, as well as spoke, “the words of this law.” Joshua, or some theocratic officer, in all likelihood, completed the document by recording Moses’ death (ch. 34) and probably Moses’ witness song (ch. 34) and testament (ch. 33).

1:1-5. These be the words: These verses form a preamble to the entire book, much like that of preambles in ancient Near Eastern treaties. In this case, they are the words of Moses (cf. Ex. 20:2a). They identify the suzerain or "great king" in terms to inspire awe and fear. Horeb is another name for Mount Sinai (Ex. 3:1, 12; cf. Ex. 19:1). The journey would normally have taken 11 days, but it has taken them almost 40 years! Kadesh-barnea was the place where rebellion seized the camp and they refused to enter the Promised Land (Num. 13, 14). Verse 4 relates some victories which had been granted by God supernaturally, and thus anticipates further victories in the future (2:26-37 over Sihon and 3:1-22 over Og). Declare has the sense of making something absolutely clear or plain. The same verb is used in 27:8 to indicate the clarity or legibility with which the words of the law were to be inscribed in stone (Hab. 2:2). On this side Jordan: "East of the Jordan" or "across" occurs 18 times in Deuteronomy and Joshua. It refers 12 times to the eastern and 6 times to the western side of the Jordan. Law comes from the word meaning "to direct," "to teach," and so is rendered "instruction" (Torah). Here it refers to the discourses that follow, the exposition and application of God's Word to the people.

1:6. This verse begins the historical prologue which extends through 4:43. The historical prologue in the ancient Near Eastern treaties (and in Deuteronomy and Exodus) surveys the "great King's" relationship, and especially his benefactions, to the vassal king (God and Israel). So in Deuteronomy the covenant tradition of promise, from Abraham to Moses, is rehearsed. Then there is the experience of observing God in history, working out the events of the promise (1:6-3:29).

1:8. The patriarchal promises to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob: God chose Abraham, and then promised him a land, posterity, and that he would be a blessing (Gen. 12:1-3). Note its use in Deuteronomy 1:35; 4:31; 6:10, 18, 23; 7:8, 12; 8:1, 18; 9:5; 10:11; 11:9, 21; 13:17; 19:8; 26:3, 15; 28:11; 29:13; 30:20; 31:7, 20, 21, 23; 34:4. All of these references to the land are based on God's grace, which the LORD sware unto your fathers.

1:10. The multitude fulfilled the promises of Genesis 15:5 and 22:17.

1:11. Of your fathers emphasizes the continuity of relationship, stressing the theme of the covenant with the patriarchs.

1:12-18. This relates to Exodus 18:13-27. The necessary organization of the Israelites was dictated by God's blessing the people and multiplying them, so he includes this portion of their history.

1:21. Go up and possess it is the characteristic phrase relating to the Hebrew entry into the Promised

7 For the LORD thy God hath blessed thee in all the works of thy hand: he knoweth thy ¹walking through this great wilderness: ^athese forty years the LORD thy God hath been with thee; thou hast lacked nothing.

8 And when we passed by from our brethren the children of Esau, which dwelt in Seir, through the way of the plain from ^aElath, and from Ezion-gaber, we ^bturned and passed by the way of the wilderness of Moab.

Do Not War with Moabites

9 And the LORD said unto me, ¹Distress not the Moabites, neither

2:1–8. This portion relates activities at Mount Seir. Your brethren the children of Esau: The settling of this land by Esau is mentioned in Genesis 36:1–8. The command meddle not with them is literally “do not engage in strife with them,” as used in 2:19. In verse 24 they are commanded to engage Sihon in battle. The Edomites, Moabites, and Ammonites were all related to Israel. The Edomites had refused Israel passage in Numbers 20:14–22.

2:9–25. The accounts relating to Moab and Ammon contend with them in battle: for I will not give thee of their land for a possession; because I have given ^aAr unto ^bthe children of Lot for a possession.

10 ^aThe Emims dwelt therein in times past, a people great, and many, and tall, as ^bthe Anakims;

11 Which also were accounted ¹giants, as the Anakims; but the Moabites call them Emims.

12 ^aThe ¹Horims also dwelt in Seir beforetime; but the children of Esau ²succeeded them, when they had destroyed them from before them, and dwelt in their ³stead; as Israel did unto the land of his possession, which the LORD gave unto them.

The Conquest Begins

24 Rise ye up, take your journey, and ^apass over the river Arnon: behold, I have given into thine hand ^bSihon the Amorite, king of Heshbon, and his land: ¹begin to possess it, and contend with him in battle.

are given. As with Edom (v. 5), God had already given Moab their territory for a possession. The Emims (v. 10) were the “dreaded ones” of Genesis 14:5, the early inhabitants of Moab conquered by Chedorlaomer. The Horims (v. 12) were the ancient inhabitants of Edom defeated by Chedorlaomer (Gen. 14:6), said to be descended from Seir the Horite (Gen. 36:20). The non-Semitic Hurrians, known in the Old Testament as Horites, formed part of the indigenous population of Alalakh (Syria) in the eighteenth century B.C. The huge stature and formidable appearance of the Anakims became proverbial (Deut. 2:10).

2:26-37. This section records the conquest of Heshbon. For the LORD thy God hardened his spirit, and made his heart obstinate, that he might deliver him into thy hand: God had hardened the heart of Pharaoh and now “the iniquity of the Amorites” was full (Gen. 15:16), and judgment was being administered (Josh. 11:20). This was actually a “Holy War,” with Israel as God’s instrument of judgment. Utterly destroyed the men, and the women, and the little ones, of every city: The Hebrew word is chërem and was a “ban of extermination,” used in Deuteronomy in connection with people (20:17, 18) or objects (7:26) dedicated to the worship of false gods. For the Hebrews, people and objects associated with pagan cultic rites were to be regarded with abhorrence, as sin should always be—as corrupt and corrupting, and as fit for nothing but complete destruction—lest the “ban” should subsequently fall on those who spared them (Josh. 6:17, “city accursed,” 18; 7:1, 11-13, 15).

Israel Requests Safe Passage

26 And I ^asent messengers out of the wilderness of Kedemoth unto Sihon king of Heshbon ^bwith words of peace, saying, 27 ^aLet me pass through thy land: I will go along by the high way, I will neither turn unto the right hand nor to the left.

28 Thou shalt sell me meat for money, that I may eat; and give me water for money, that I may drink: ^aonly I will pass through on my feet;

29 (^aAs the children of Esau which dwell in Seir, and the Moabites which dwell in Ar, did unto me;) until I shall pass over Jordan into the land which the LORD our God giveth us.

30 ^aBut Sihon king of Heshbon would not let us pass by him: for ^bthe LORD thy God ^chardened his spirit, and made his heart obstinate, that he might deliver him into thy hand, as appeareth this day.

31 And the LORD said unto me, Behold, I have begun to ^agive Sihon and his land before thee: begin to possess, that thou mayest inherit his land.

3:1–11. The conquest of Bashan is described. Bashan was the fertile area east of the Jordan and north of Gilead, separated from the latter by the river Yarmuk. Bashan means “Fertile” (32:14). Edrei was an important stronghold in the Amorite kingdom of Og. The bedstead was 13½ feet long and six feet wide, belonging to the last of the giants (repa'im) (cf. Gen. 14:5) in Abraham’s day. It may have been an iron-trimmed stone coffin, or an iron-decorated couch, to be placed in his tomb, or as a monument made of basalt.

10 ^aAll the cities of the plain, and all Gilead, and ^ball Bashan, unto Salchah and Edrei, cities of the kingdom of Og in Bashan.

11 ^aFor only Og king of Bashan remained of the remnant of ^bgiants;¹ behold, his bedstead was a bedstead of iron; is it not in ^aRabbath of the children of Ammon? nine cubits was the length thereof, and four cubits the breadth of it, after the cubit of a man.

12 And this ^aland, which we possessed at that time, ^bfrom Aroer, which is by the river Arnon, and half mount Gilead, and ^cthe cities thereof, gave I unto the Reubenites and to the Gadites.

13 ^aAnd the rest of Gilead, and all Bashan, being the kingdom of Og, gave I unto the half tribe of Manasseh; all the region of Argob, with all Bashan, which was called the land of ¹giants.

14 ^aJair the son of Manasseh took all the country of Argob ^bunto the coasts of Geshuri and Maachathi; and ^ccalled¹ them after his own name, Bashan-havoth-jair, unto this day.

15 And I gave ^aGilead unto Machir.

16 And unto the Reubenites ^aand unto the Gadites I gave from Gilead even unto the river Arnon half the valley, and the border even unto the river Jabbok, ^bwhich is the border of the children of Ammon;

Joshua Assured of God's Presence

21 And ^aI commanded Joshua at that time, saying, Thine eyes have seen all that the LORD your God hath done unto these two kings: so shall the LORD do unto all the kingdoms whither thou passest.

22 Ye shall not fear them: for ^athe LORD your God he shall fight for you.

3:12-22. The allocation of the land east of the Jordan. Verse 12 may indicate the territory that had been Sihon's kingdom (2:36). Six of the seven families comprising the tribe of Manasseh occupied land in Gilead. Rest was one of the foremost blessings promised in the land, and is one of the privileges of God's people (Deut. 12:10, the promise; Josh. 21:44, the fulfillment; cf. Heb. 3:7-4:13) in Hebrews 4:9. The word includes peace of spirit and freedom from all oppression by one's enemies as well as the usual meanings, and is given the highest expression in Christ (Matt. 11:28). Joshua is first seen as an army officer (Ex. 17:9), then as Moses' minister (Ex. 24:13) and a devoted adherent (Num. 11:28). Moses' love for him appears in Numbers 27:18-23; Deuteronomy 1:38; 31:3. This command is not mentioned in Numbers 32, since it was not relevant to the situation related there, but now it forms the foundation for future victory. What He hath done ... so shall the LORD do ... for the LORD your God he shall fight for you.

3:23-29. Speak no more: The Hebrew of Moses' request and its refusal implies that Moses had been extremely persistent in his request: literally, "Do not continue [Luke 18:5, 7] to speak to me again of this matter" For the Israelites he had sought and obtained pardon. For himself he sought the Lord's own presence and a vision of His glory. What God is there in heaven or in earth? is a rhetorical question with no bearing on any belief in the real existence of false gods. In fact, alien deities were considered nonentities (5:7). Beth-peor is literally, "The House [Temple] of Peor." Here the people had committed grave sin (Num. 25; Ps. 106:28-30), and Moses was buried nearby (34:6).

25 I pray thee, let me go over, and see ^athe good land that is beyond Jordan, that goodly mountain, and Lebanon.

26 But the LORD ^awas ¹wroth with me ²for your sakes, and would not hear me: and the LORD said unto me, Let it suffice thee; speak no more unto me of this matter.

27 ^aGet thee up into the top of Pisgah, and lift up thine eyes westward, and northward, and southward, and eastward, and behold it with thine eyes: for thou shalt not go over this Jordan.

4:1-8. This begins a new section (4:1-40) which is a call for obedience to God's law. The purpose and value of the law are presented. Hearken shows the need for implicit obedience in 4:39, 40; 8:20; 9:23; 13:4, 18; 15:5; 26:14, 17; 27:10; 28:1, 2, 15, 45, 62; 30:2, 8, 10, 20. Teach you literally means, "which I am about to teach you." First Chronicles 25:8 uses this word as "scholar," and refers to the 24 divisions of priests. In rabbinical times, the teacher of the law was called the talmid rabbi, and his pupils were known as talmidim, that is, apprentices. Yet in another sense, all Israel were talmidim, apprenticed to the tōrah (teaching) of God. The Jewish Talmud gets its name from this root. The purpose is, literally, "in order that you may live and that you may go in and possess the land"—not that they may obtain salvation life, but may physically live to possess the land. Ye shall not add: Ancient suzerainty (overlordship) treaties frequently contained some such prohibition as this. Here the command makes a sharp distinction between the Word of God and the word of man (Matt. 5:17-19; 15:6).

Idolatry Forbidden

14 And ^athe LORD commanded me at that time to teach you statutes and judgments, that ye might ¹do them in the land whither ye go over to possess it.

15 ^aTake ye therefore good heed unto yourselves; for ye saw no ¹manner of ^bsimilitude on the day that the LORD spake unto you in Horeb out of the midst of the fire:

16 Lest ye ^acorrupt ¹*yourselves*, and ^bmake you a graven image, the ²similitude of any figure, ^cthe likeness of male or female,

17 The likeness of any beast that is on the earth, the likeness of any winged fowl that flieth in the air,

18 The likeness of any thing that creepeth on the ground, the likeness of any fish that is in the waters beneath the earth:

19 And lest thou ^alift up thine eyes unto heaven, and when thou seest the sun, and the moon, and the stars, even ^ball the host of heaven, shouldest be driven to ^cworship them, and serve them, which the LORD thy God hath ¹divided unto all nations under the whole heaven.

Moses Will Not Enter Canaan

21 Furthermore ^athe LORD was angry with me for your sakes, and swore that ^bI should not go over Jordan, and that I should not go in unto that good land, which the LORD thy God giveth thee for an inheritance:

22 But ^aI must die in this land, ^bI must not go over Jordan: but ye shall go over, and ¹possess ^cthat good land.

23 Take heed unto yourselves, lest ye forget the covenant of the LORD your God, which he made with you, ^aand make you a graven image, or the likeness of any thing, which the LORD thy God hath forbidden thee.

24 For ^athe LORD thy God is a consuming fire, even ^ba jealous God.

25 When thou shalt beget children, and children's children, and ye shall have remained long in the land, and shall ¹corrupt yourselves, and make a graven image, or the likeness of any thing, and ^ashall do evil in the sight of the LORD thy God, to provoke him to anger:

26 ^aI call heaven and earth to witness against you this day, that ye shall soon utterly perish from off the land whereunto ye go over Jordan to possess it; ye shall not ¹prolong your days upon it, but shall utterly be destroyed.

27 And the LORD ^ashall scatter you among the nations, and ye shall be left few in number among the heathen, whither the LORD shall lead you.

28 And ^athere ye shall serve gods, the work of men's hands, wood and stone, ^bwhich neither see, nor hear, nor eat, nor smell.

4:13. His covenant is the first of 27 recurrences in Deuteronomy of this important theme. We think of the "law," but actually it was a covenant. Two tables of stone: Near Eastern suzerainty (overlordship) treaties were generally made in duplicate form. One copy was deposited with the vassal for periodic reference. The other was kept by the "great King." Both copies were placed in the ark of the covenant, in Israel's possession, where the Lord lived.

4:25-31. The law and judgment: Heaven and earth speaks of summoning witnesses to the agreement, which was a regular part of the Near Eastern treaties. Normally, gods were summoned since they would supposedly be able to enforce the contents of the treaty. Note its use in Deuteronomy 30:19; Isaiah 1:2; Jeremiah 6:19; Micah 1:2; 6:1, 2, where the covenant has been broken and God is calling His witnesses to court. Scatter you is the language of Moses' first prophecy of Israel's removal from the land if she did not obey God. If she would turn to God, He would be merciful and restore her. Israel's 10 northern tribes were deported in 722 B.C. by the Assyrians, and the southern tribes were taken by the Babylonians, beginning with Daniel, in 605 B.C. They were later dispersed in the days of the early church (A.D. 70). The latter days refers to the time after Moses' message and culminates in the final restoration of Israel at the second coming of Christ.

God Will Hear If Israel Repents

29 ^aBut if from thence thou shalt seek the LORD thy God, thou shalt find him, if thou seek him with all thy heart and with all thy soul.

30 When thou art in ¹tribulation, and all these things are come upon thee, even in the ^alatter days, if thou ^bturn to the LORD thy God, and shalt be obedient unto his voice;

31 (For the LORD thy God is a merciful God;) he will not forsake thee, neither ^adestroy thee, nor forget the covenant of thy fathers which he sware unto them.

47 And they possessed his land,

4:37. Because he loved thy fathers, therefore he chose their seed: Here is electing love, the spontaneous expression of grace, bestowed apart from any merit in its object (9:6). This appeal is based on God's love manifested to the patriarchs.

4:45. The law is identified as testimonies ... statutes ... judgments. The "testimonies" denoted the covenant stipulations; the "statutes" were laws written down or inscribed on some suitable medium; and the "judgments" were the decisions of a judge (cf. Ps. 19:7–9).

4:49. Pisgah always appears with the definite article, showing that it is not meant to designate a single location, but is a common noun. It describes any ridge crowning a hill or mountain, and this is true of the southern slopes of Jebel Osha, overlooking the Dead Sea, to which this verse likely refers.

5:1–5. The summons to obey the law begins the section called “covenant stipulations” in an ancient Near Eastern suzerainty (overlordship) treaty. Hear, O Israel is repeated in 4:1; 6:3, 4; 9:1; 20:3; 27:9—to mark the beginning of a new appeal for obedience on the part of Israel. The verb carries the sense of “obey.” The full implications of a proper hearing is that ye may learn them, and keep, and do them. Knowledge is a prerequisite to performance.

5:6–10. This section contains the first and second commandments and relates to the worship of God. I am the LORD thy God, which brought thee out of the land of Egypt, from the house of bondage is a phrase that appears over 125 times in the Old Testament. Usually this reminder went along with a command or ethical demand. The context or environment of law and obligation in the Old Testament period was the redemption of Israel from Egypt. The Lawgiver and His gracious act of redemption provide the context against which the commandments are given. Before me: The highest duty of man is given in the first commandment. Image: There are 14 Hebrew words for idols or images; this probably refers to “gods of silver or gods of gold” (Ex. 20:23), as well as those carved from stone, wood, and those later made from metal. Likeness: “Resemblance” or “form” applies to any real or imagined pictorial representation of deities. This is not intended to stifle artistic talent, for the command has reference to religious worship: God Himself commanded Moses to make many artistic representations on the curtains in the tabernacle. Jealous: This must not be construed to mean that God is naturally suspicious, wrongfully envious of the success of others, or distrustful. When used of God it refers to (1) the quality in His character that demands exclusive devotion; (2) the attribute of anger that He directs against all who oppose Him; and (3) the energy that He expends on vindicating His people. Mercy (chesed) implies an unfailing love that is grounded in the covenant and is used both of God’s attitude toward His people and of the response He desires from them (cf. 1 John 4:11, 19), the latter occurring especially in Hosea. It is always closely connected with the two concepts of covenant and faithfulness.

5:11. This verse relates to the third commandment. The meaning is to “misuse” the name of God, or to use it for no real purpose. Examples may be: (1) to affirm something that is false and untrue; (2) to express mild surprise; and (3) to use His name when there is no clear goal, purpose, or reason for its use in the context, such as in a prayer or other religious context.

5:12–15. These verses relate to the fourth commandment. It was given for the liberation, not the bondage, of the individual. It was for “rest.” Another

13 ^aSix days thou shalt labour, and do all thy work:

15 ^aAnd remember that thou wast a servant in the land of Egypt, and that the LORD thy God brought thee out thence ^bthrough a mighty hand and by a stretched out arm: therefore the LORD thy God commanded thee to ¹keep the sabbath day.

16 ^aHonour thy father and thy mother, as the LORD thy God hath commanded thee; ^bthat thy days may be prolonged, and that it may go well with ^cthee, in the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee.

Israel Fears God's Glory

22 These words the LORD spake unto all your assembly in the mount out of the midst of the fire, of the cloud, and of the thick darkness, with a great voice: and he added no more. And ^ahe wrote them in two tables of stone, and delivered them unto me.

23 ^aAnd it came to pass, when ye heard the voice out of the midst of the darkness, (for the mountain did burn with fire,) that ye came near unto me, even all the heads of your tribes, and your elders;

24 And ye said, Behold, the LORD our God hath shewed us his glory and his greatness, and ^awe have heard his voice out of the midst of the fire: we have seen this day that God doth talk with man, and he ^bliveth.¹

reason is given here, relating to the creation of the nation when they were redeemed from Egypt. Because of this new work of redemption, they are to rest.

5:16. This verse relates to authority, with the sanctity of the family in mind. Honor involves: (1) prizing them highly (Prov. 4:8); (2) caring and showing affection to them (Ps. 91:15); and (3) showing them respect, reverence, and deference (Lev. 19:3). Ephesians 6:1 says that "obedience" is to be "in the Lord." Parents are to be honored, but never should their wishes or words become a rival or substitute for the will or Word of God.

5:17. This verse relates to the sanctity of life. The Hebrew language has seven words related to "kill." This word is almost always used of killing a personal enemy (ratsah), but is not confined to intentional and premeditated murder. The prohibition applies to: (1) suicide; (2) to all accessories to the murder (2 Sam. 12:9); and (3) to all those who have the authority of a magistrate or governor, but who fail to use it to punish known and convicted murderers (1 Kin. 21:19). There were at least 16 crimes calling for the death penalty in the Old Testament: premeditated murder, kidnapping, adultery, homosexuality, incest, bestiality, incorrigible delinquency and persistent disobedience to parents and authorities, striking or cursing parents, offering human sacrifice, false prophecy, blasphemy, profaning the Sabbath, sacrificing to false gods, magic and divination, unchastity, and rape of a betrothed virgin. Only for the first crime, premeditated murder, was there no ransom or substitute acceptable (Num. 35:31).

5:18. This verse relates to adultery and the sanctity of marriage. It was punishable by death and was distinguished from fornication (Ex. 22:16; Deut. 22:28, 29).

5:19. This verse relates to theft and the sanctity of property. The Old Testament taught that God owned everything in heaven and on earth (Ps. 24:1; 115:16), and that He has only entrusted it to others. Thus, theft was actually stealing from God as well as from man.

5:20. This ninth commandment related to false charges and the sanctity of truth. It applied to all areas of life, even though the terminology used reflects the legal process in Israel, "false witness." To despise the truth was to despise God whose very being was truth. "Lying" in Hosea 4:2 shows the commandment had a broad application.

5:21. The sanctity of motives is presented in the final commandment. It relates to an inner quality of contentment. Desire (chamad), "to desire earnestly," "to long after," "to covet," is used in Genesis 3:6 as it relates to the tree and its ability to make one wise. The word covet ('awah) also means to set one's desire on something, such as food. This relates to the inner instinct that lies behind all acts, thoughts, and words (cf. Matt. 15:19; Mark 7:21; Luke 12:15; Rom. 1:24; 2 Cor. 9:5; Eph. 5:3; and 1 Tim. 6:6: "Godliness with contentment is great gain").

25 Now therefore why should we die? for this great fire will consume us: “if we hear the voice of the LORD our God any more, then we shall die.

26 “For who is there of all flesh, that hath heard the voice of the living God speaking out of the midst of the fire, as we have, and lived?

27 Go thou near, and hear all that the LORD our God shall say: and “speak thou unto us all that the LORD our God shall speak unto thee; and we will hear it, and do it.

Israel to Keep God's Commandments

6 Now these are ^athe commandments, the statutes, and the judgments, which the LORD your God commanded to teach you, that ye might do them in the land whither ye go to possess it:

2 ^aThat thou mightest ¹fear the LORD thy God, to keep all his statutes and his commandments, which I command thee, thou, and thy son, and thy son's son, all the days of thy life; ^band that thy days may be prolonged.

3 Hear therefore, O Israel, and ¹observe to do it; that it may be well with thee, and that ye may ^aincrease² mightily, ^bas the LORD God of thy fathers hath promised thee, in ^cthe land that floweth with milk and honey.

6:1–9. The content of chapters 6–11 relates to the first two commandments. This portion deals with the principal commandment: to love God. Hear, O Israel: This small section (vv. 4–9) has been known to the Jews for many centuries as the Shema (“Hear”) and has been recited along with 11:13–21 and Numbers 15:37–41 as a daily prayer. One LORD: Usually translated “Yahweh our God, Yahweh is one.” Yahweh was to be the sole object of Israel’s worship, allegiance, and affection. The word one (alone, or unique) implies monotheism. The word expresses the “uniqueness” and the “unity” of God. There was no one like Him (Ex. 15:11), and there was no other to contradict Him when He spoke. Love is reminiscent both of treaty language in the Near East and of the analogy of the father-son relationship. This love was based on the precedent of God’s love (4:37) in the Exodus and in the calling of Abraham. Heart: See 4:29; 10:12; 11:13; 13:3; 26:16; and 30:2, 6, and 10 for the same expression. The heart was the seat of the mind and will, as well as of a wide range of emotions. Soul seems to refer to the source of life and vitality, or even of one’s being. In Genesis 2:7 and 19 man and animals are described as living beings. It can also refer to “appetite” or “desire” in the sense of one’s spiritual/volitional desire (2 Sam.

3:21; 1 Kin. 11:37; Job 23:13; Prov. 21:10; Is. 26:8, 9; cf. Ps. 119:20). Might literally means “strength” which is well illustrated by Josiah when he implemented his reforms very forcibly and quoted this verse (2 Kin. 23:25). In thine heart: God wanted His law in their minds and not just on tablets of stone. Teach them diligently: The phrase means, “You shall repeat them to your children.” The words sittest, walkest, liest, and risest indicate that in every waking moment we are to teach God’s principles in our homes and to our children, by our words and actions. Bind them: Years later the Jews literally enclosed written portions of the law in small cases, called phylacteries, and bound them on their hands and foreheads (Matt. 23:5). Thou shalt write: The Jews have taken this literally, too, for the word translated posts, mezuzot, has become a noun, mezuzah. The mezuzah is a small box containing a parchment. (A mezuzah discovered in one of the Qumran caves contained the text of Deut. 10:12—11:21.) Whether taken literally or metaphorically, the signs described in verses 8 and 9 indicate that the individual (v. 8), his home, and his community (v. 9) were to be distinguished in their character by obedience to the commandments as a response of love for God.

4 ^aHear, O Israel: The LORD our God is one LORD:

5 And ^athou shalt love the LORD thy God with all thine heart, and ^bwith all thy soul, and with all thy might.

6 And ^athese words, which I command thee this day, shall be in thine heart:

7 And ^athou shalt teach them diligently unto thy children, and shalt talk of them when thou sittest in thine house, and when thou walkest by the way, and when thou liest down, and when thou risest up.

8 ^aAnd thou shalt bind them for a sign upon thine hand, and they shall be as frontlets between thine eyes.

9 ^aAnd thou shalt write them upon the posts of thy house, and on thy gates.

Israel to Serve the Lord

10 And it shall be, when the LORD thy God shall have brought thee into the land which he ¹sware unto thy fathers, to Abraham, to Isaac, and to Jacob, to give thee great and goodly cities, ^awhich thou buildest not,

11 And houses full of all good things, which thou filledst not, and wells digged, which thou diggedst not, vineyards and olive trees, which thou plantedst not; ^awhen thou shalt have eaten and be full;

12 Then beware lest thou forget the ^aLORD, which brought thee forth out of the land of Egypt, from the house of bondage.

23 And he brought us out from thence, that he might bring us in, to give us the land which he ¹sware unto our fathers.

6:13–19. They were to fear ... serve ... and ... swear by His name: The swearing would be taking an oath of allegiance to God, and not to go after other gods, which is repeated in 7:4; 13:6, 13; 17:3; 28:36, 64; 29:26; 30:17; and 31:20. Actually, the “other gods” were the work of men's hands (4:28). Massah means “Testing” or “Proving” (Ex. 17:7; Deut. 9:22). Man is forbidden to test God by questioning His power or protection (Matt. 4:7; Luke 4:12).

UNITY OF GOD

6:4. The fundamental concept of the Shema (the name of this passage, which is the first word in Hebrew: Hear!) is that God is one and not many gods. By definition, there can be only one all-powerful, infinite, limitless God. Illustration: To speak of more than one supreme, absolute, perfect, and almighty Being is to say something contradictory. There cannot be two absolutes, for then there would be no absolute. Application: By revelation, we know that only Yahweh is that one God. Therefore, nothing in your life should come between you and God. (First Reference, Gen. 1:1; Primary Reference, Deut. 6:4.)

24 And the LORD commanded us to ¹do all these ²statutes, ^ato fear the LORD our God, ^bfor our good always, that ^che might preserve us alive, as it is ³at this day.

25 And ^ait shall be our righteousness, if we ¹observe to do all these commandments before the LORD our God, as he hath commanded us.

2 And when the LORD thy God shall deliver ^athem before thee; thou shalt smite them, and utterly destroy them; ^bthou shalt make no covenant with them, nor shew mercy unto them:

3 ^aNeither shalt thou make marriages with them; thy daughter thou shalt not give unto his son, nor his daughter shalt thou take unto thy son.

4 For they will turn away thy son from following me, that they may serve other gods: ^aso will the anger of the LORD be kindled against you, and destroy thee suddenly.

7:6-26. Special people: The word segulah originally applied to ownership of property, and here to Israel as God's very own possession (cf. 14:2; 26:18; Titus 2:14; 1 Pet. 2:9). In the Akkadian language, it is used to describe the king as a "treasured possession" of his god. Thus Israel's character as a holy people gave them no ground for pride, but imposed on them the responsibility of their calling. Redeemed: The verb means "to ransom," "to redeem." In ancient Israel both property and life could be redeemed by making the appropriate payment. In the New Testament, human redemption is achieved solely by the sacrificial death of Christ (Mark 10:45; Luke 1:68; 1 Pet. 1:18, 19). Here the emphasis is on the result rather than on the price paid—that is, the liberation of the people. God keepeth covenant and mercy: The word mercy is chesed and appears about 250 times in the Old Testament (cf. discussion on 5:6-10). The hornet (cf. Ex. 23:28; Josh. 24:12) is a figure for the terror of God that descended on Israel's foes, producing panic and rout (cf. v. 23). The fact that certain species of hornets in Palestine build nests underground and in rock crevices suggests the appropriateness of the figure with regard to the destruction of Canaanites in hiding.

8 All the commandments which I command thee this day ^ashall ye ¹observe to do, that ye may live, and ^bmultiply,² and go in and possess the land which the LORD ³swore unto your fathers.

2 And thou shalt remember all the way which the LORD thy God ^aled thee these forty years in the wilderness, to humble thee, and ^bto ¹prove thee, ^cto know what was in thine heart, whether thou wouldest keep his commandments, or no.

3 And he humbled thee, and ^asuffered thee to hunger, and ^bfed thee with manna, which thou knewest not, neither did thy fathers know; that he might make thee know that man doth ^cnot live by bread only, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of the LORD doth man live.

God Has Provided a Good Land

7 For the LORD thy God bringeth thee into a good land, ^aa land of brooks of water, of fountains and depths that spring out of valleys and hills;

Israel to Possess the Land

9 Hear, O Israel: Thou art to pass over Jordan this day, to go in to possess nations greater and mightier than thyself, cities great and ¹fenced up to heaven,

2 A people great and tall, the ^achildren of the Anakims, whom thou knowest, and of whom thou hast heard say, Who can stand before the children of Anak!

3 Understand therefore this day, that the LORD thy God is he which ^agoeth over before thee; as a ^bconsuming fire ^che shall destroy them, and he shall bring them down before thy face: ^dso shalt thou drive them out, and destroy them quickly, as the LORD hath said unto thee.

4 ^aSpeak not thou in thine heart, after that the LORD thy God hath cast them out from before thee, saying,

8:16. To do thee good at thy latter end: The ultimate purpose of God's discipline and testing is expressed in this phrase. After it was all over, they would enter the Promised Land if they lived by faith and trusted God.

8:18. God ... he that giveth thee power to get wealth, that he may establish his covenant: Yahweh alone gave Israel the ability to get wealth, and the blessing the nation enjoyed was the result of His covenant with the people and was the outcome of His promise to their forefathers.

9:1-6. The conquest will be accomplished because of Yahweh's will, not because of Israel's righteousness. The wickedness of these nations served as the basis for Israel's victories (Gen. 15:16). Stiffnecked people: Literally, the word is "hard of neck"; the figure may be taken from a stubborn ox that refuses to submit to the yoke.

¹For my righteousness the LORD hath brought me in to possess this land: but ^bfor² the wickedness of these nations the LORD doth drive them out from before thee.

5 ^aNot for thy righteousness, or for the uprightness of thine heart, dost thou go to possess their land: but for the wickedness of these nations the LORD thy God doth drive them out from before thee, and that he may ¹perform the ^bword which the LORD swear unto thy fathers, Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob.

6 Understand therefore, that the LORD thy God giveth thee not this good land to possess it for thy righteousness; for thou art a ^astiff-necked¹ people.

Israel's Rebellion Remembered

8 Also ^ain Horeb ye provoked the LORD to wrath, so that the LORD was angry with you to have destroyed you.

God Gives Moses Two Stone Tables

The Golden Calf

12 And the LORD said unto me, ^aArise, get thee down quickly from hence; for thy people which thou hast brought forth out of Egypt have ¹corrupted themselves; they are ^bquickly turned aside out of the way which I commanded them; they have made them a ²molten image.

9:7–29. There are many parallels between this narrative and the one in Exodus 24:12–18; 32; and 34. The intercession of Moses (vv. 18–20, 25–29) is set against the rebellion of Israel (vv. 7–17, 21–24). In this way, the love and mercy of Yahweh for Israel are emphasized. They had been rebellious against the LORD from the day that I knew you. Before they crossed the Red Sea they were in unbelief, and all the way to Sinai they murmured and tested God. Then He knew them, that is, He made a covenant with them. Even then they were involved in idolatry, as when Moses came down the mountain with the tablets of stone.

DIVINE WARFARE

9:1. God authorized the Israelites to exterminate the Canaanites as an act of divine judgment against their evil culture. God had already given them more than 400 years to repent of their idolatry, cult prostitution, child sacrifices, and immoral lifestyle (Gen. 15:13–16). A similar call would go out later against the Amalekites whom Saul failed to exterminate; Saul later dying at the hand of an Amalekite (cf. 1 Sam. 15:3; 2 Sam. 1:1–16). Even the Israelites themselves would often be judged by God for their evil ways as He would use the Assyrians and Babylonians to inflict judgment on both the northern and southern kingdoms of Israel in the future. Application: God claims divine sovereignty over all nations and holds them responsible and accountable for their behavior. No nation can continually violate His principles of justice and escape divine judgment (cf. 2 Sam. 7:12–16).

Moses Breaks Tables of Stone

17 And I took the two tables, and cast them out of my two hands, and ^abrake them before your eyes.

18 And I ^afell¹ down before the LORD, as at the first, forty days and forty nights: I did neither eat bread, nor drink water, because of all your sins which ye sinned, in doing wickedly in the sight of the LORD, to provoke him to anger.

19 ^aFor I was afraid of the anger and hot displeasure, wherewith the LORD was wroth against you to destroy you. ^bBut the LORD ¹hearkened unto me at that time also.

20 And the LORD was very angry with Aaron to have destroyed him: and I prayed for Aaron also the same time.

21 And I took your sin, the calf which ye had made, and burnt it with fire, and stamped it, and ground it very small, even until it was as small as dust: and I ^acast the dust thereof into the brook that descended out of the mount.

Times of Rebellion Remembered

22 And at ^aTaberah, and at ^bMas-sah, and at ^cKibroth-hattaavah, ye ¹provoked the LORD to wrath.

23 Likewise ^awhen the LORD sent you from Kadesh-barnea, saying, Go up and possess the land which I have given you; then ye rebelled against the commandment of the LORD your God, and ^bye believed him not, nor hearkened to his voice.

24 ^aYe have been rebellious against the LORD from the day that I knew you.

25 ^aThus I ¹fell down before the LORD forty days and forty nights, as I fell down at the first; because the LORD had said he would destroy you.

26 I prayed therefore unto the LORD, and said, O Lord GOD, destroy not thy people and ^athine inheritance, which thou hast redeemed through thy greatness, which thou hast brought forth out of Egypt with a mighty hand.

The Second Set of Tables of Stone

10 At that time the LORD said unto me, ¹Hew thee two tables of stone like unto the first, and come up unto me into the mount, and make thee an ^aark of wood.

2 And I will write on the tables the words that were in the first tables which thou brakest, and ^athou shalt put them in the ark.

10:12-22. God's requirement of Israel was Circumcise therefore the foreskin of your heart, and be no more stiffnecked. An uncircumcised heart is one that is closed and impervious to God's incoming, just as an uncircumcised ear (Jer. 6:10) is one that hears imperfectly, being covered over; and uncircumcised lips (Ex. 6:12, 30) are lips that speak incoherently because they are sealed wholly or in part. If that which hinders is cut away, there will be a submission to the will of God and the end of stubbornness. Certainly the Old Testament went beyond the physical to the spiritual (cf. Rom. 2:29; Phil. 3:3; Col. 2:11) in the same sense as the New Testament. Fatherless: The items mentioned are not unique to Israel's God. Mesopotamian literature has examples of kings who expressed concern for the welfare of widows and orphans. But in Deuteronomy, and other parts of the Old Testament, Israel is urged to show kindness to such people (1:16; 10:19; 24:14, 17; 27:19; Ex. 23:9). Note James 1:27 in the New Testament.

11:1-32. This section continues the portion of God's requirement of Israel with an appeal to the past, depicting the relation of obedience to blessing in verses 1-9 and then conveying the thought that Yahweh's blessing in the Promised Land is only for obedient people (vv. 10-25). Charge occurs only here in Deuteronomy and means that which is to be guarded or observed in relation to God. In other Pentateuch books it is frequently used of the charge of the tabernacle (Lev. 8:35; 18:30; 22:9; Num. 9:19, 23), or more generally to any demand Yahweh may make (Gen. 26:5; Josh. 22:3; 1 Kin. 2:3). Chastisement is the Hebrew word mūsār. In Proverbs it occurs 36 times, and conveys the ideas of chastening, correcting, instructing, and providing (Prov. 1:7, 8; 3:11, 12; 8:10; 15:5, 32; 22:15). The therefore of verse 8 emphasizes the fact that Yahweh's claim to Israel's obedience rests on what He has done for them. The conjunction that (in Heb. "in order that") adds a strong contingency. The fulfillment of the promise was not automatic. That is why, beginning in verse 26, there is laid before you [them] this day a blessing and a curse—they must choose what it will be. This topic is dealt with in chapter 27. Gerizim ... Ebal were the two most prominent hills in the natural center of Palestine used to represent symbolically the blessing and the curse. Gerizim was on the south, or right-hand side as one looked east. This was considered the side of favor, and therefore the side of blessing. Ebal was on the north.

31 For ye shall pass over Jordan to go in to possess the land which the LORD your God giveth you, and ye shall possess it, and dwell therein.

32 And ye shall observe to do all the statutes and judgments which I set before you this day.

Destroy Places of Idol Worship

12 These ^aare the statutes and judgments, which ye shall observe to do in the land, which the LORD God of thy fathers giveth thee to possess it, ^ball¹ the days that ye live upon the earth.

2 ^aYe shall utterly destroy all the places, wherein the nations which ye shall ¹possess served their gods, ^bupon the high mountains, and upon the hills, and under every green tree:

3 And ^aye shall ¹overthrow their altars, and break their pillars, and burn their ²groves with fire; and ye shall ³hew down the graven images of their gods, and destroy the names of them out of that place.

4 Ye shall not do ^aso unto the LORD your God.

Sacrifice in a Place Chosen by God

5 But unto the ^aplace which the LORD your God shall choose out of all your tribes to put his name there, even ¹unto his ^bhabitation shall ye seek, and thither thou shalt come:

6 And ^athither ye shall bring your burnt offerings, and your sacrifices, and your tithes, and heave offerings of your hand, and your vows, and your freewill offerings, and the ^bfirstlings of your herds and of your flocks:

12:1-32. This portion corresponds to 5:6-10 and the concept of worship as it relates to the first two commandments. Involved in this discussion is the intermingling of instructions on correct ways to worship and the prohibition against false worship. There are five main parts in the content of the chapter: (1) the title or preface (v. 1); (2) the destruction of pagan altars (vv. 2, 3); (3) the establishment of the true place for worship (vv. 4-12); (4) the provision for sacrifices in this place (vv. 13-28); and (5) the prohibition against false gods (vv. 29-31). Each of the subsections enlarges on the fact that there is no other God besides the Lord God.

12:1. In the land: The immediate entry to the land of Canaan governs all that follows (12:10; 26:1).

12:2. Utterly destroy: The land must be cleansed from all idolatry so it can be holy to the Lord (Lev.

11:44, 45). This duty is implicit in the first two commandments. Hills: Worship at these places was accompanied by depraved rites. The god was thought to live in the mountain or on the hill. By ascending the mountain, the worshiper was in some symbolic sense closer to the deity. Under every green tree: Certain trees were considered to be sacred and symbolized fertility, a dominant theme in Canaanite religion.

12:5. The place is opposite in meaning to the places of verse 2 where the Canaanites worshiped. This legislation does not either prohibit or permit other sanctuaries. Though there was only one tabernacle, it would be moved from place to place. There would be many places over the course of time, but only one place at a time. Gilgal, Bethel, and Shiloh were temporary centers before the temple was built in Jerusalem.

7 And ^athere ye shall eat before the LORD your God, and ^bye shall rejoice in all that ye ¹put your hand unto, ye and your households, wherein the LORD thy God hath blessed thee.

8 Ye shall not do ¹after all the things that we do here this day, ^aevery man whatsoever is right in his own eyes.

9 For ye are not as yet come to the ^arest¹ and to the inheritance, which the LORD your God giveth you.

10 But when ye go over Jordan, and dwell in the land which the LORD your God giveth you to inherit, and when he giveth you ^arest from all your enemies round about, so that ye dwell in safety;

11 Then there shall be a place which the LORD your God shall choose to cause his name to dwell there; thither shall ye bring all that I command you; your burnt offerings, and your sacrifices, your tithes, and the heave offering of your hand, and all your choice ¹vows which ye vow unto the LORD:

12 And ^aye shall rejoice before the LORD your God, ye, and your sons, and your daughters, and your menservants, and your maidservants, and the ^bLevite that is within your gates; forasmuch as he hath no part nor inheritance with you.

13 Take heed to thyself that thou offer not thy burnt offerings in every place that thou seest:

14 But in the place which the LORD shall choose in one of thy tribes, there thou shalt offer thy burnt offerings, and there thou shalt do all that I command thee.

15 ¹Notwithstanding ^athou mayest kill and eat flesh in all thy gates, whatsoever thy ²soul lusteth after, according to the blessing of the LORD thy God which he hath given thee: ^bthe unclean and the clean may eat thereof, ^cas of the roebuck, and as of the hart.

False Prophets to Be Destroyed

13 If there arise among you a prophet, or a ^adreamer of dreams, ^band giveth thee a sign or a wonder,

2 And ^athe sign or the wonder come to pass, whereof he spake unto thee, saying, Let us go after other gods, which thou hast not known, and let us serve them;

4 Ye shall ^awalk¹ after the LORD your God, and fear him, and keep his commandments, and obey his voice, and ye shall serve him, and ^bcleave² unto him.

5 And ^athat prophet, or that dreamer of dreams, shall be put to death; because he hath spoken to turn you away from the LORD your God, which brought you out of the land of Egypt, and redeemed you out of the house of bondage, to ¹thrust thee out of the way which the LORD thy God commanded thee to walk in. ^bSo shalt thou ²put the evil away from the midst of thee.

6 ^aIf thy brother, the son of thy mother, or thy son, or thy daughter, or ^bthe wife ¹of thy bosom, or thy friend, ^cwhich is as thine own soul, entice thee secretly, saying, Let us go and serve other gods, which thou hast not known, thou, nor thy fathers;

12:31. Burnt in the fire: This practice was forbidden in Israel's law (Lev. 18:21; 20:2–5), since it was tantamount to murder regardless of the supposedly religious reason for it. Both Ahaz (2 Chr. 28:3) and Manasseh (2 Kin. 21:6) were guilty of child sacrifice. As verse 30 depicts, this could lead to expulsion from the land, as in fact it did in the case of the northern kingdom (2 Kin. 17:17, 18). See further, the note on 2 Kings 16:3, 4.

13:1–18. Deuteronomy 13:1–14:27 are expansions of the injunction not to take the name of the Lord God in vain, which is the third commandment. Chapter 13 teaches the sanctity of God's name by warning Israel against three persons: (1) the word of apostasy from a prophet (vv. 2–5); (2) the word of apostasy from a brother (vv. 6–11); and (3) the word of apostasy from a scoundrel (vv. 12–18).

13:2. Sign or the wonder come to pass: The fact that the predicted sign or wonder came to pass would normally be one indication of the validity of the prophet (18:22). However, false prophets also had these powers (Ex. 7:10–12; Matt. 7:22; 24:24; Rev. 19:20).

13:6–11. Any close relative who might entice one secretly to go after other gods is to be stoned with stones (v. 10). It is a capital offense.

It is also used of drunkenness (1 Sam. 1:16), rebellion (1 Sam. 2:12), unbelief, and sodomy (Judg. 19:22). The concept of Belial became a proper name for the prince of evil, Satan, in the pseudepigraphic literature, the Zadokite Document, and the War Scroll of the Dead Sea Scrolls. Belial is virtually synonymous with Satan in the New Testament (2 Cor. 6:15; 2 Thess. 2:3).

14:1-29. This chapter continues the condemnation of apostasy with an emphasis on holiness. It applies the third commandment and its restrictions. The contents of the chapter are: (1) a prohibition of pagan rites (vv. 1, 2); (2) a prohibition against eating unclean flesh, which is called an abomination (vv. 3-20); and (3) some transitional laws against pagan customs of the Canaanites (vv. 21-29).

14:1, 2. Two things are evident as to the practices in verse 1: (1) The laceration of the body with the consequent flow of blood was a part of the mourning customs employed in religions outside of Israel. (2) Laceration may have been part of a seasonal rite within the Canaanite fertility cult. In this context, the rite may have been a type of imitative magic, designed to revitalize the god Baal on whom the fertility of the land was believed to depend (cf. 1 Kin. 18:28).

14:3. Any abominable thing: The term is used in the Old Testament for something impure, unclean, and totally devoid of holiness (7:25, 26; 14:3; 17:1, 4; 18:9; 20:18). In 7:25 and 12:31, it is employed in association with pagan religious rites. Perhaps part of the reason for the prohibition against eating certain types of meat was the association existing between those animals and foreign, pagan religions.

7 Nevertheless these ye shall not eat of them that chew the cud, or of them that divide the cloven hoof; as the camel, and the hare, and the coney: for they chew the cud, but divide not the hoof; therefore they are unclean unto you.

8 And the swine, because it divideth the hoof, yet cheweth not the cud, it is unclean unto you: ye shall not eat of their flesh, ^anor touch their dead carcase.

Laws Regarding Tithing

22 ^aThou shalt truly tithe all the increase of thy seed, that the field bringeth forth year by year.

23 ^aAnd thou shalt eat before the LORD thy God, in the place which he shall choose to place his name there, the tithe of thy corn, of thy wine, and of thine oil, and ^bthe firstlings of thy herds and of thy flocks; that thou mayest learn to ¹fear the LORD thy God always.

24 And if the ¹way be too long for thee, so that thou art not able to carry it; or ^aif the place be too far from thee, which the LORD thy God shall choose to set his name there, when the LORD thy God hath blessed thee:

25 Then shalt thou ¹turn it into money, and bind up the money in thine hand, and shalt go unto the place which the LORD thy God shall choose:

26 And thou shalt ¹bestow that money for whatsoever ²thy soul lusteth after, for oxen, or for sheep, or for wine, or for strong drink, or for whatsoever thy soul desireth: and thou shalt eat there before the LORD thy God, and thou shalt ^arejoice, thou, and thine household,

27 And the ^aLevite that is within thy gates; thou shalt not ¹forsake him; for he hath no part nor inheritance with thee.

14:21. See the a kid in his mother's milk: Most take this as a prohibition directed against a Canaanite practice. No one seems certain of what it actually involved, but it does appear at the end of the laws on festivals in the covenant code (cf. Ex. 23:19; 34:26). Some think the unnatural custom might have been practiced superstitiously, perhaps to promote fertility.

14:22-29. The rabbis suggested that, in addition to the normal tithe given to the Levites and priests, there was a second tithe consisting of a festal meal eaten by the offerer and his guests at the sanctuary (vv. 22-27), and that there was a third tithe gathered in the third and sixth years of a sabbatical period (vv. 28, 29). Some scholars suggest that the tithe of verses 28 and 29 is the only additional one and hence is the second tithe. Still others contend that there was but one tithe, which varied in accordance with the dictates of the sacred times and circumstances.

28 ^aAt the end of three years thou shalt bring forth all the ^btithe of thine increase the same year, and shalt ¹lay it up within thy gates:

29 And the Levite, (because he hath no part nor inheritance with thee,) and the stranger, and the fatherless, and the widow, which are within thy gates, shall come, and shall eat and be satisfied; that the LORD thy God may bless thee in all the work of thine hand which thou doest.

The Year of Release

15 At the end of ^aevery seven years thou shalt make a ¹release.

2 And this is the manner of the release: Every creditor that lendeth ought unto his neighbour shall ¹release it; he shall not ²exact it of his neighbour, or of his brother; because it is called the LORD's release.

3 Of a foreigner thou mayest exact it again: but that which is thine with thy brother thine hand shall release;

4 ¹Save when there shall be no poor among you; for the LORD shall greatly ^abless thee in the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee for an inheritance to possess it:

Help for the Poor Man

7 If there be among you a poor man of one of thy brethren within any of thy ¹gates in thy land which the LORD thy God giveth thee, ^athou shalt not harden thine heart, nor shut thine hand from thy poor brother:

8 But ^athou shalt open thine hand ¹wide unto him, and shalt surely lend him sufficient for his need, in that which he wanteth.

9 Beware that there be not a thought in thy wicked heart, saying, The seventh year, the year of release, is at hand; and thine ^aeye be evil against thy poor brother, and thou givest him nought; and ^bhe cry unto the LORD against thee, and ^cit be sin unto thee.

10 Thou shalt surely give him, and ^athine heart shall not be grieved when thou givest unto him: because that ^bfor this thing the LORD thy God shall bless thee in all thy works, and in all that thou puttest thine hand unto.

11 For ^athe poor shall never cease out of the land: therefore I command thee, saying, Thou shalt open thine hand ¹wide unto thy brother, to thy poor, and to thy needy, in thy land.

15:1—16:17. Actually 14:28 begins a new section which extends through 16:17. This portion is related to the fourth commandment, dealing with the Sabbath day observance. Exodus 23:10-14, the covenant code, and Leviticus 23 and 25:3-8 concerning the law of holiness, have both already connected the Sabbath law and the seventh year of sabbatical rest (or the great pilgrimage festivals). There are five points in this section: (1) 14:28, 29 has the triennial tithe for the Levite, alien, orphan, and widow, and is identical in form to the sabbatical year regulations of 15:1-11; (2) the sabbatical year regulations (15:1-11); (3) the release of all Hebrew slaves in the sabbatical year (15:12-18); (4) the law of firstlings that are not to be worked (15:19-23); and (5) the Passover festivals (16:1-8), the Feasts of Weeks (16:9-12), and the Feast of Booths (16:13-17). There is a principle of priority repeated in 16:11 and 14 of son and daughter, male or female servant, Levite, stranger, fatherless, and widow.

15:2, 3. The LORD's release: Scholars differ as to whether the release meant the total remission of the indebtedness or merely the suspension of it for that year. The following verses suggest that a total cancellation of the debt was intended, since the seventh year of release and the jubilee year of liberty together belonged to one symbolic unit. This pointed prophetically to the future redemptive action of God, anticipating the messianic reign of mercy to the poor and helpless (Ps. 72). Foreigners still had to pay, for unlike sojourners who were permanent members of the community, foreigners were temporary and commercial visitors. This would have certainly helped to keep poverty out of the nation.

15:9. A potential creditor might be unwilling to make a loan to a poor man because the proximity of the year of release would in effect make it a gift.

15:12. Sold: The release is extended to bondservant and bondmaid alike, thus enlarging the provisions of Exodus 21:1-6.

The Hebrew Servant

12 And ^aif thy brother, an Hebrew man, or an Hebrew woman, be ^bsold unto thee, and serve thee six years; then in the seventh year thou shalt let him go free from thee.

13 And when thou ¹sendest him out free from thee, thou shalt not let him go away ²empty:

14 Thou shalt furnish him liberally out of thy flock, and out of thy floor, and out of thy winepress: of that wherewith the LORD thy God hath ^ablessed thee thou shalt give unto him.

15 And ^athou shalt remember that thou wast a ¹bondman in the land of Egypt, and the LORD thy God redeemed thee: therefore I command thee this thing to day.

16 And it shall be, ^aif he say unto thee, I will not go away from thee; because he loveth thee and thine house, because he is well with thee;

17 Then thou shalt take an aul, and thrust it through his ear unto the door, and he shall be thy servant for ever. And also unto thy maidservant thou shalt do likewise.

18 It shall not seem hard unto thee, when thou sendest him away free from thee; for he hath been worth ^aa double hired servant to thee, in serving thee six years: and the LORD thy God shall bless thee in all that thou doest.

Herds and Flocks

19 ^aAll the firstling males that come of thy herd and of thy flock thou shalt ¹sanctify unto the LORD thy God: thou shalt do no work with the firstling of thy bullock, nor shear the firstling of thy sheep.

20 ^aThou shalt eat it before the LORD thy God year by year in the place which the LORD shall choose, thou and thy household.

Observing the Passover

16 Observe the ^amonth of Abib, and keep the passover unto the LORD thy God: for ^bin the month of Abib the LORD thy God brought thee forth out of Egypt by night.

2 Thou shalt therefore sacrifice the passover unto the LORD thy God, of the flock and ^athe herd, in the ^bplace which the LORD shall choose to place his name there.

3 Thou shalt eat no leavened bread with it; ^aseven days shalt thou eat unleavened bread therewith, even the bread of affliction; for thou camest forth out of the land of Egypt in haste: that thou mayest ^bremember the day when thou camest forth out of the land of Egypt all the days of thy life.

4 ^aAnd there shall be no leavened bread seen with thee in all thy coast seven days; neither shall there any thing of the flesh, which thou sacrificedst the first day at even, remain ¹all night until the ^bmorning.

5 Thou mayest not sacrifice the passover within any of thy gates, which the LORD thy God giveth thee:

6 But at the place which the LORD thy God shall choose to place his name in, there thou shalt sacrifice the passover ^aat even, at the going down of the sun, ¹at the season that thou camest forth out of Egypt.

7 And thou shalt roast and eat it ^ain the place which the LORD thy God shall choose: and thou shalt turn in the morning, and go unto thy tents.

15:15. Remember that thou wast a bondman: Similar words are used in Deuteronomy to encourage the people to the proper behavior expected of them (5:15; 10:19; 16:12; and 24:18, 22). As “children of the LORD” (14:1) they should bear His character.

15:19-23. The firstborn of animals belonged to the Lord, but they had to be without blemish (Mal. 1:8, no lame, torn, blind, or blemished) in order to be accepted by God (cf. Ex. 22:29; Num. 18:17, 18).

16:1. Abib is Hebrew for “fresh ears of corn.” The month was later renamed Nisan.

8 Six days thou shalt eat unleavened bread: and ^aon the seventh day shall be ^aa solemn assembly to the LORD thy God: thou shalt do no work therein.

Observing the Feast of Weeks

9 Seven weeks shalt thou number unto thee: begin to number the seven weeks from such time as thou beginnest to put the sickle to the ¹corn.

10 And thou shalt keep the ^afeast of weeks unto the LORD thy God with a tribute of a freewill offering of thine hand, which thou shalt give unto the LORD thy God, ^baccording as the LORD thy God hath blessed thee:

11 And ^athou shalt rejoice before the LORD thy God, thou, and thy son, and thy daughter, and thy manservant, and thy maidservant, and the Levite that is within thy gates, and the stranger, and the fatherless, and the widow, that are among you, in the place which the LORD thy God hath chosen to place his name there.

Certain Abominations of Worship

17 Thou ^ashalt not sacrifice unto the LORD thy God any bull-ock, or sheep, wherein is blemish, or any ¹evilfavouredness: for that is an ²abomination unto the LORD thy God.

16:16. All males were to appear before the LORD thy God each year. And they were not to appear before Him empty-handed, since the festival celebrated the provision of the Lord in the harvest. Each one was to give as he was able and as God had blessed him (1 Cor. 16:2; 2 Cor. 8:12; 9:7, 8).

16:18—18:22. This portion relates to the fifth commandment and broadens the scope of authority beyond that of the parents to include: (1) the judges (17:2-13); (2) the king (17:14-20); (3) the priesthood (18:1-8); and (4) the prophets (18:9-22).

16:18—17:1. Deuteronomy 16:18-20 is an introductory call for the appointment of judges and officials who will exercise impartial justice. Deuteronomy 16:21, 22 contains a prohibition against planting Asheroth and erecting a pillar, and 17:1 contains a prohibition against sacrificing to God a defective or flawed ox or sheep. These laws introduce the need for the judicial procedures dealt with in 17:2-13.

2 ^aIf there be found among you, within any of thy ¹gates which the LORD thy God giveth thee, man or woman, that hath wrought wickedness in the sight of the LORD thy God, ^bin transgressing his covenant,

3 And hath gone and served other gods, and worshipped them, either ^athe sun, or moon, or any of the host of heaven, ^bwhich I have not commanded;

4 ^aAnd it be told thee, and thou hast heard of it, and enquired diligently, and, behold, it be true, and the thing certain, that such ¹abomination is wrought in Israel:

5 Then shalt thou bring forth that man or that woman, which have committed that wicked thing, unto thy gates, even that man or that woman, and ^ashalt stone them with stones, till they ^bdie.

7 The hands of the witnesses shall be first upon him to put him to death, and afterward the hands of all the people. So thou shalt put the evil away from among ^ayou.

The Levites' Judgment Shall Stand

8 ^aIf there arise a matter too hard for thee in judgment, between blood and blood, between plea and plea, and between stroke and stroke, being matters of controversy within thy gates: then shalt thou arise, and get thee up into the ^bplace which the LORD thy God shall choose;

17:8. Too hard connotes something wonderful or miraculous, for example, the mighty acts of God's deliverance in Egypt (Ex. 3:20; 15:11; 34:10). The case in question was, then, one that had some very unusual features. Three illustrations of the kind of case are given: (1) different cases of homicide (lit., "between blood and blood"), where it was difficult to decide between manslaughter and premeditated murder (cf. 19:1–13; Ex. 21:12–14); (2) different cases of "rights at law," where a decision about the rights of the two parties was difficult (cf. Ex. 22:1–15); and (3) different kinds of assault or personal injury (lit., "between smiting and smiting"; cf. Ex. 21:12–34).

The Priests' and Levites' Portion

18 The priests the Levites, and all the tribe of Levi, shall have no ¹part nor ^ainheritance with Israel: they shall eat the offerings of the LORD made by fire, and his inheritance.

2 Therefore shall they have no inheritance among their brethren: the LORD is their inheritance, as he hath said unto them.

3 And this shall be the priest's ^adue¹ from the people, from them that offer a sacrifice, whether it be ox or sheep; and they shall give unto the priest the shoulder, and the two cheeks, and the maw.

12 For all that do these things are

18:1–8. The priests, the Levites, and all the tribe of Levi need to be distinguished in that all the priests were descended from Levi, but only Aaronite Levites were priests. In general, they had no part nor inheritance with Israel, that is, they possessed no unified tribal territory (10:9; 12:12; 14:27, 29).

The LORD is their inheritance (v. 2): He had chosen the Levites as His firstborn consecration portion of Israel (v. 5) and then gave Himself to them as their portion. Their portion of the offerings is assigned in verses 3–5. Verses 6–8 state an important principle in that the rights of all Levites are guaranteed against any possible restrictions imposed by vested interests at the central sanctuary. The priests were to be treated generously, and they could keep anything received from the sale of property as they came to the sanctuary.

18:9–14. Pass through the fire: This section contains some stern admonitions against any indulgence in sorcery. The exact nature of this practice seems to have been a kind of trial by ordeal. The context indicates that the offering of a child is for the particular purpose of determining or discerning the course of events. This probably was the motivation behind the Moabite king's sacrifice of his son in 2 Kings 3:26, 27.

Divination (qesem) was used of Balaam in Numbers 22:7 and Joshua 13:22. Saul asked the witch of Endor to “divine unto me” in 1 Samuel 28:8. The same word in Ezekiel 21:21 refers to the practice of whirling arrows in a quiver and deciding the answer to the question by the first arrow thrown out.

Observer of times (me’onen) may be a reference to divination by reading clouds.

Enchanter (menachesh): In Genesis 44:5, 15 it refers to Joseph's divination by means of a cup, and may point to a kind of hydromancy, in which reflections on the water in a cup are observed.

Witch (mekashep) denotes a form of magic. The root means “to cut up,” and thus may refer to one who cuts up herbs and brews them for magical purposes (Gr. pharmaka, drug). The term is used in Micah 5:12 for some such material as drugs or herbs used superstitiously to produce magical effects. The noun therefore means enchanter or sorcerer (Ex. 7:11; 22:18; 2 Chr. 33:6; Dan. 2:2; Mal. 3:5).

Wizard (yide oni): This term is related to the verb “to know,” or “to consult” a familiar spirit.

Necromancer: The Hebrew for this term means “one who asks of the dead.” All these practices are clearly condemned.

Cities of Refuge

19 When the LORD thy God ^ahath cut off the nations, whose land the LORD thy God giveth thee, and thou ¹succeedest them, and dwellest in their cities, and in their houses;

2 ^aThou shalt separate three cities for thee in the midst of thy land, which the LORD thy God giveth thee to possess it.

3 Thou shalt prepare ¹thee a way, and divide the ²coasts of thy land, which the LORD thy God giveth thee to inherit, into three parts, that every slayer may flee thither.

Accidental Killings

4 And ^athis is the case of the slayer, which shall flee thither, that he may live: Whoso killeth his neighbour ¹ignorantly, whom he hated not in time past;

5 As when a man goeth into the wood with his neighbour to ¹hew wood, and his hand ²fetcheth a stroke with the ax to cut down the tree, and the head slippeth from the ³helve, and ⁴lighteth upon his neighbour, that he die; he shall flee unto one of those cities, and live:

18:15–19. By contrast, Yahweh would raise up a line of prophets. The will of God was to be discovered through a prophet and not through a diviner, a magic worker, or a spiritist. He was to be from the midst of thee, of thy brethren and like unto me. Verses 16–18 indicate he was to be a mediator between God and man, like Moses. The use of the singular noun led some Jewish expositors to seek to identify the prophet with some individual, such as Joshua or Jeremiah (but vv. 21, 22 exclude such an interpretation). He was to be like Jesus in that He was faithful (Heb. 3:2), full of compassion and love (Num. 27:17; Matt. 9:36), a powerful intercessor for his people (9:18; Heb. 7:25), speaking with God face-to-face and reflecting the divine glory (2 Cor. 3:7). Like Christ, he was to be a mighty prophet in word and deed (Luke 24:19), a revealer of God's will and purpose (cf. 6:1; Rev. 1:1); a mediator of the covenant (29:1; Heb. 8:6, 7), and a leader of the people (Is. 55:4).

18:20–22. False prophets had to die (13:1–11). How shall we know the word which the LORD hath not spoken? They would be exposed if their prophecies failed to come to pass (v. 22). However, the fulfillment of a prophet's prediction did not prove he was necessarily of God (cf. 13:2, 3, notes). True prophets will honor the written Word of God (Is. 8:20) and will not lead anyone to follow false gods (13:2).

19:1–22:8. This is a separate section relating to the sixth commandment which pertains to homicide. There are 13 subunits within this topic.

19:1–13. Accidental or intentional homicide and cities of refuge: These three cities of refuge were in addition to those set aside on the east side of the Jordan (cf. 4:41–43; all were mentioned in Num. 35:9–15).

6 ^aLest the avenger of the blood pursue the slayer, while his heart is hot, and overtake him, because the way is long, and slay him; whereas he was not worthy of death, inasmuch as he hated him not in time past.

7 Wherefore I command thee, saying, Thou shalt separate three cities for thee.

8 And if the LORD thy God ^aenlarge thy coast, as he hath sworn unto thy ^bfathers, and give thee all the land which he promised to give unto thy fathers;

9 If thou shalt keep all these commandments to do them, which I command thee this day, to love the LORD thy God, and to walk ever in his ways; ^athen shalt thou add three cities more for thee, beside these three:

10 That ^ainnocent blood be not shed in thy land, which the LORD thy God giveth thee for an inheritance, and so blood be upon thee.

Killings Punishable by Death

11 But ^aif any man hate his neighbour, and lie in wait for him, and rise up against him, and smite him mortally that he die, and fleeth into one of these cities:

12 Then the elders of his city shall send and fetch him thence, and deliver him into the hand of the avenger of blood, that he may die.

Law Regarding Witnesses

15 ^aOne witness shall not rise up against a man for any iniquity, or for any sin, in any sin that he sinneth: at the mouth of two witnesses, or at the mouth of three witnesses, shall the matter be established.

16 If a false witness ^arise up against any man to testify against him that which is wrong;

17 Then both the men, between whom the controversy is, shall stand before the LORD, ^abefore the priests and the judges, which shall be in those days;

18 And the judges shall make diligent inquisition: and, behold, if the witness be a false witness, and hath testified falsely against his brother;

19 ^aThen shall ye do unto him, as he had thought to have done unto his brother: so ^bshalt thou put the evil away from among you.

20 ^aAnd those which remain shall hear, and fear, and shall henceforth commit no more any such evil among you.

21 ^aAnd thine eye shall not pity; but ^blife shall go for life, eye for eye, tooth for tooth, hand for hand, foot for foot.

Priests Prepare Israel for Battle

20 When thou goest out to battle against thine enemies, and seest ^ahorses, and chariots, and a people more than thou, be not

The avenger was the nearest relative of the deceased (gō'el, Num. 35:12). A typical case of unintentional killing is given—death caused by an axhead that flies from the handle (v. 5). Verse 11 and following relates the case of deliberate slaying and treats it differently. The three cities more of verse 9 seem to look beyond the near future and the selection of the three western cities to a more remote future when Israelite expansion in accordance with the divine promise (1:7; 11:24; 12:20) would necessitate nine instead of six cities of refuge. There is no historical notice of compliance with this command.

19:14. The second subsection is this verse relating to the respect for a neighbor's boundaries. Landmark: In many societies the limits of a man's land are still marked by a boundary stone or a heap of stones. Boundary stones were removed by those who sought to defraud their neighbors (Job 24:2; Is. 5:8; Hos. 5:10).

Centuries later the Israelites widely violated this law (1 Kin. 21; Is. 5:8; Mic. 2:2).

19:15-21. This third subsection relates to evidence and testimony given at civil trials. The practice of false witness is forbidden in the Decalogue (5:20). However, in order to discourage false witnesses, certain judicial measures were devised. God would work through the priests and the judges who would make a diligent investigation of the case. If the witness was false he must suffer the punishment intended for the accused. In that way the evil would be put ... away (lit., "burnt out") from among the Israelites. The concept of lex talionis does not encourage vengeance, but limits it and stands as a guide for a judge as he fixes a penalty suited to the crime.

20:1-20. The fourth subsection relates to war. 20:1. Moses often used the deliverance from Egypt ^bafraid of them: for the LORD thy God is ^cwith thee, which brought thee up out of the land of Egypt.

2 And it shall be, when ye are come nigh unto the battle, that the priest shall approach and speak unto the people,

3 And shall say unto them, Hear, O Israel, ye approach this day unto battle against your enemies: let not your hearts faint, fear not, and do not tremble, neither be ye terrified because of them;

4 For the LORD your God is he that goeth with you, ^ato fight for you against your enemies, to save you.

Reasons for Exemption from Battle

5 And the officers shall speak unto the people, saying, What man is there that hath built a new house, and hath not ^adedicated it? let him go and return to his house, lest he die in the battle, and another man dedicate it.

6 And what man is he that hath planted a vineyard, and hath not yet eaten of it? let him also go and return unto his house, lest he die in the battle, and another man eat of it.

7 ^aAnd what man is there that hath betrothed a wife, and hath not taken her? let him go and return unto his house, lest he die in the battle, and another man take her.

8 And the officers shall speak further unto the people, and they shall say, ^aWhat man is there that is fearful and fainthearted? let him go and return unto his house, lest his brethren's heart faint as well as his heart.

9 And it shall be, when the officers have made an end of speaking unto the people, that they shall make captains of the armies to lead the people.

fainthearted (lit., “soft of heart”), compare Judges 7:2, 3, who posed a threat to the whole army.

20:16–18. Canaanite cities had to be utterly destroyed. The emphasis is provided by a Hebrew construction indicating the thoroughness of their destruction. Joshua 7:21–26; 11:10–15; Judges 7:25; and 1 Samuel 15 provide examples of this injunction being carried out.

11 And seest among the captives a beautiful woman, and hast a desire unto her, that thou wouldest have her to thy ^awife;

12 Then thou shalt bring her home to thine house; and she shall ^ashave her head, and ¹pare her nails;

13 And she shall put the raiment of her captivity from off her, and shall remain in thine house, and ^abewail¹ her father and her mother a full month: and after that thou shalt go in unto her, and be her husband, and she shall be thy wife.

14 And it shall be, if thou have no delight in her, then thou shalt let her go whither she will; but thou shalt not sell her at all for money, thou shalt not make merchandise of her, because thou hast ^ahumbled her.

The Firstborn's Inheritance

15 If a man have two wives, one beloved, ^aand another hated, and they have born him children, both the beloved and the hated; and if the firstborn son be hers that was hated:

21:1-9. This is the fifth subsection relating to the sixth commandment and depicts untraced homicide. In the event of undetected homicide in the open countryside, the elders of the nearest city had to make atonement according to this prescribed ritual, under the guidance of the priests. Forgiven in verse 8 is the word used for "atonement" (kippur) which likely means "to cover." It could be translated, "and the bloodshed will be covered for them." Some think the city incurred guilt by not making nearby roads safe for travel.

21:10-14. The sixth subsection relates to a wife captured in war. The first words, When thou goest forth to war, relate to the "Holy War" like 20:1. This could not be a Canaanite woman (7:3). Thou shalt let her go whither she will: The verb form is the same as in Exodus for "Let my people go" or "Send them away," and may have the technical sense of "divorce" (see 22:19, 29). Her rights were that she could go anywhere she wanted to. The man could not sell her as a slave for money or treat her as merchandise. That is, she could not be given in exchange for some other person or goods.

21:15-17. This section gives the law of the loved and hated wives and their sons; it is the seventh subsection relating to the sixth commandment. The 16 Then it shall be, ^awhen he maketh his sons to inherit that which he hath, that he may not make the son of the beloved firstborn before the son of the hated, which is indeed the firstborn:

17 But he shall acknowledge the son of the hated for the firstborn, ^aby giving him a double portion of all that he hath: for he ^bis the beginning of his strength; ^cthe right of the firstborn is his.

Punishment for Rebellious Children

18 If a man have a stubborn and rebellious son, which will not obey the voice of his father, or the voice of his mother, and that, when they have chastened him, will not hear-ken unto them:

19 Then shall his father and his mother lay hold on him, and bring him out unto the elders of his city, and unto the gate of his place;

20 And they shall say unto the elders of his city, This our son is stubborn and rebellious, he will not obey our voice; he is a glutton, and a drunkard.

21 And all the men of his city shall stone him with stones, that he die: ^aso shalt thou put ¹evil away from among you; ^band all Israel shall hear, and fear.

Laws Regarding Death by Hanging

22 And if a man have committed a sin ^aworthy of death, and he ¹be to be put to death, and thou hang him on a tree:

23 ^aHis body shall not remain all night upon the tree, but thou shalt in any wise bury him that day; (for ^bhe that is hanged is accursed of God;) that ^cthy land be not defiled, which the LORD thy God giveth thee for an inheritance.

Various Laws

22 Thou ^ashalt not see thy brother's ox or his sheep go astray, and ¹hide thyself from them: thou shalt in any case bring them ²again unto thy brother.

2 And if thy brother be not nigh unto thee, or if thou know him not, then thou shalt bring it unto thine own house, and it shall be with thee until thy brother seek after it, and thou shalt restore it to him again.

3 In like manner shalt thou do with his ass; and so shalt thou do with his raiment; and with all lost thing of thy brother's, which he hath lost, and thou hast found, shalt thou do likewise: thou ¹mayest not hide thyself.

4 ^aThou shalt not see thy brother's ass or his ox fall down by the way, and hide thyself from them: thou shalt surely help him to lift them up again.

terms employed are relative, comparing one wife to the other (Gen. 29:30, 31; 1 Sam. 1:5). If, in such circumstances, the firstborn son happened to be the son of the less-loved woman, he was not to be at any disadvantage. The firstborn received a double share of the father's estate in Israel (Gen. 48:22; 1 Chr. 5:1) as is attested in the Middle Assyrian Laws and the Laws of Hammurapi. Elsewhere the percentage varied.

21:18-21. The eighth subsection relates to the law of the rebellious son. An example of rebellion was cited in 13:6-11. The parents could discipline, but the complaint had to be decided by impartial judges (elders). Both parents were to be involved and be in agreement on such a drastic move. It was a community offense. If guilty, the death penalty was to be inflicted by stoning. Mark 7:10 may refer to this law. Anarchy in the home breeds anarchy in society.

21:22, 23. This is the law of public display of executed criminals. Stoning was the approved means of execution, whereas hanging was imposed as an additional disgrace after death (cf. John 19:31; Gal. 3:13). There are several examples in the Old Testament (Josh. 8:29; 10:26, 27; 2 Sam. 4:12; 21:8, 9). The practice was known among the Philistines (1 Sam.

31:10) and was very common among the Assyrians. This law limits the period of exposure. The Hebrew syntax is strongly emphatic: "You shall certainly bury him that day." The reason was that the corpse of an executed man was an object accursed of God and would defile the land (Lev. 18:24-27; Num. 35:33, 34).

22:1-4. This tenth subsection regards the law of respect for the property of one's fellowman. The relation of this subject to homicide may be that this law sought to prevent the unnecessary loss of life through intentional oversight.

22:5. This is the eleventh subsection, the law of transvestism. This passage clearly teaches the importance of maintaining a proper distinction between the sexes, the lack of which is an abomination unto the LORD thy God. This warning does not refer merely to clothing styles but to that which pertaineth unto a man, that is, "a man's things." This prohibition included clothing that was distinctively masculine in ornamentation, as well as other ornaments, weapons, or items distinctively associated with men. The prohibition is against transvestism which was often associated with homosexuality and fertility rites.

5 The woman shall not wear that which pertaineth unto a man, neither shall a man put on a woman's garment: for all that do so are ¹abomination unto the LORD thy God.

6 If a bird's nest chance to be before thee in the way in any tree, or on the ground, whether they be young ones, or eggs, and the ¹dam sitting upon the young, or upon the eggs, ^athou shalt not take the dam with the young:

7 But thou shalt in any wise let the dam go, and take the young to thee; ^athat it may be well with thee, and that thou mayest prolong thy days.

8 When thou buildest a new house, then thou shalt make a battlement for thy roof, that thou bring not ¹blood upon thine house, if any man fall from thence.

Laws Against Sexual Immorality

22 ^aIf a man be found lying with a woman married to an husband, then they shall both of them die, both the man that lay with the woman, and the woman: so shalt thou put away evil from Israel.

22:6, 7. The twelfth subsection: the law of protecting bird's nests. This prohibition forbids taking both the mother bird and her young (or eggs) from the nest. This law was designed to protect the food supply for God's people.

22:8. The thirteenth subsection: the law of requiring parapets on homes. A battlement was a wall around the flat roof to keep anyone on the roof from falling off.

22:9—23:18. This section gives seven subsections in defining the prohibition against improper mixing of dissimilar things. This was done to preserve order and distinction in society and had definite utilitarian value.

22:12. Clothing was to be made of the same kind of cloth and mixed fabrics were forbidden. Fringes were to be worn for symbolic meaning (cf. Num. 15:37-41) and served to remind the people of their obligation to the commandments of the Lord.

22:13—23:2. This section deals with the laws of proper sexual conduct. Six laws of chastity are given as basic to family integrity. Violations were punishable by stoning the violators to death. Tokens of the damsel's virginity refer to those means by which a betrothed woman's family proved her virginity to her husband to be. Failure to produce these "tokens" could lead to the girl's execution for "playing the whore." Adultery was punishable by death for both

23 If a damsel that is a virgin be betrothed unto an husband, and a man find her in the city, and lie with her;

24 Then ye shall bring them both out unto the gate of that city, and ye shall stone them with stones that they die; the damsel, because she cried not, being in the city; and the man, because he hath humbled his neighbour's wife: *b*so thou shalt put away evil from among you.

25 But if a man find a betrothed damsel in the field, and the man force her, and lie with her: then the man only that lay with her shall die:

26 But unto the damsel thou shalt do nothing; there is in the damsel no sin worthy of death: for as when a man riseth against his neighbour, and slayeth him, even so is this matter:

27 For he found her in the field, and the betrothed damsel cried, and there was none to save her.

28 *a*If a man find a damsel that is a virgin, which is not betrothed, and lay hold on her, and lie with her, and they be found;

11 But it shall be, when evening cometh on, *a*he shall wash himself with water: and when the sun is down, he shall come into the camp again.

partners involved as a violation of the sacrosanct nature of the family. The passage clearly explains the various rules that applied to women who consented to adultery and those who were raped. Verses 28 and 29 relate the situation of the seduction of an unbetrothed girl. In this case the man was forced to pay the normal bride-price (mohar, “dowry”) and marry the girl, if her father consented (cf. Ex. 22:16, 17). Further examples refer to prohibitions against incest, eunuchs, and bastards (illegitimate children).

Note that a bastard (23:2) could not stand in Israel until the tenth generation. See Ruth 4:18–22 for the 10-generation genealogy from Judah's illegitimate son Pharez to David.

23:3–6. Ammonites and Moabites were permanently prohibited from access to the assembly of the Lord. The masculine forms indicate the prohibition was limited to males. Female proselytes, like Ruth of Moab, were allowed to marry Israelite males and be received into the covenant community of Israel.

12 Thou shalt have a place also ¹without the camp, whither thou shalt go forth abroad:

13 And thou shalt have a paddle upon thy weapon; and it shall be, when thou wilt ease thyself abroad, thou shalt dig therewith, and shalt turn back and cover that which cometh from thee:

Laws Concerning Domestic Relations

24 When a ^aman hath taken a wife, and married her, and it come to pass that she find no favour in his eyes, because he hath found

23:17, 18. The seventh subsection: laws about cult prostitutes. The first law prohibited Israelite men and women from becoming cult prostitutes. The second law prohibited the payment of a vow to God with "dirty money." The price of a dog refers to the wages acquired from male prostitution. Since the activities that provided these funds were an abomination, the money could not be brought into the house of God.

23:19-25. This portion deals with matters related to the eighth commandment. Both stealing and withholding another's property are condemned. Other commands in this section prohibit usury (money-lending) and define the reasonable limits of hospitality.

24:1-4. The law of divorce is defined and described. When is best translated "if" and begins the conditional sentence. Then let him should be translated "and he writes her." It continues the conditional element of the sentence and is not a command. Uncleanness seems to be a technical term (lit., "nakedness") but the meaning is no longer clear. In 23:14 the same word is used to designate something "unclean." However, other usage may mean "inadequate." Whatever the problem, it was not adultery, since this was punishable by death (22:22). That the couple in view is married, not merely betrothed, is clear from the context, as is the possibility of divorce and remarriage. If the wife was sent out ("divorced") by her husband she was free to marry another man, but was not permitted to divorce her second husband in order to return to her first one. To take her back would be an abomination before the LORD. Such unchastity would then cause the land to sin (Lev. 18:25, 28; 19:29). The purpose of this law was to prevent hasty divorce, discourage adultery, and preserve marriage. The people of Jesus' day took this permission to divorce as a promotion of divorce but Jesus reminded them that such was not God's original plan (Matt. 19:4-6), and that divorce was allowed by Moses only because of the "hardness of your hearts" (Matt. 19:8).

17 ^aThou shalt not pervert the ¹judgment of the stranger, nor of the fatherless; ^bnor take a widow's raiment to pledge:

18 ^aBut ^athou shalt remember that thou wast a ¹bondman in Egypt, and the LORD thy God redeemed thee thence: therefore I command thee to do this thing.

19 ^aWhen thou cuttest down thine harvest in thy field, and hast forgot a sheaf in the field, thou shalt not go again to fetch it: it shall be for the stranger, for the fatherless, and for the widow: that the LORD thy God may ^bbless thee in all the work of thine hands.

20 When thou beatest thine olive tree, thou shalt not go over the boughs again: it shall be for the stranger, for the fatherless, and for the widow.

24:8—25:4. This section relates to the ninth commandment. The concept of fairness is emphasized and all forms of mockery or belittling people are prohibited.

24:17-22. The stranger, orphan, and widow were to be dispensed justice and charity alike. The key phrase is remember that thou wast a bondman in Egypt, and the LORD thy God redeemed thee. The Old Testament insists that the protection of the weak is a duty not only of kings (Ps. 72:12-14) but also of the whole of society (10:18; 27:19; Ex. 22:22; 23:6-9; Lev. 19:33; Prov. 22:22).

21 When thou gatherest the grapes of thy vineyard, thou shalt not glean it afterward: it shall be for the stranger, for the fatherless, and for the widow.

22 And thou shalt remember that thou wast a bondman in the land of Egypt: therefore I command thee to do this thing.

Laws Concerning Human Relations

25 If there be a ^acontroversy¹ between men, and they come unto ²judgment, that the judges may judge them; then they ^bshall justify the righteous, and condemn the wicked.

2 And it shall be, if the wicked man be ^aworthy to be beaten, that the judge shall cause him to lie down, ^band to be beaten ^bbefore his face, according to his fault, by a certain number.

3 ^aForty stripes he may give him, and not exceed: lest, if he should exceed, and beat him above these with many stripes, then thy brother ¹should ^bseem vile unto thee.

4 ^aThou shalt not muzzle the ox when he ¹treadeth out the corn.

Duty of a Husband's Brother

5 ^aIf brethren dwell together, and one of them die, and have no child, the wife of the dead shall not marry without unto a stranger: her husband's brother shall go in unto her, and take her to him to wife, and perform the duty of an husband's brother unto her.

Immodest Women

11 When men strive together one with another, and the wife of the one draweth near for to deliver her husband out of the hand of him that smiteth him, and putteth forth her hand, and taketh him by the secrets:

12 Then thou shalt cut off her hand, ^athine eye shall not pity her.

Just Weights

13 ^aThou shalt not have in thy bag ¹divers weights, a great and a small.

14 Thou shalt not have in thine house ¹divers measures, a great and a small.

25:1-3. These verses guarantee the proper exercise of justice to convicted criminals in cases demanding corporal punishment. Excessive beating would humiliate a man to the level of a beast and thus his dignity would be offended. Forty blows was the maximum number, a figure that occurs also in the Assyrian Code and suggests a widespread custom.

25:4. Animals were to be treated mercifully. Paul used this verse to demonstrate that the human laborer is also worthy of his hire (1 Cor. 9:9, 10; 1 Tim. 5:18). Love and kindness were to be shown to all God's creatures (22:6, 7; Prov. 12:10).

25:5-16. This section relates to the tenth commandment, and three issues dealing with coveting are covered.

25:5-10. These verses deal with levirate marriage.

Levirate is from the Latin meaning "brother-in-law" or "husband's brother." This was not unique with Israel, for the Hittites and Assyrians observed the practice. The Assyrians extended the practice to a betrothed person. (Note Gen. 38:1-10 for the ancient practice in Israel.) In Jesus' day the Sadducees used this law in their attempt to prove the absurdity of the belief in the Resurrection (Matt. 22:23-33; Mark 12:18-27). This custom was designed to prevent extinction of the family name and property (cf. Num. 27 and 36 with the daughters of Zelophehad). Loose his shoe (cf. Ruth 4:7, 8); When the woman did this to the man it indicated that the brother had abandoned his responsibility, and therefore deserved the shame symbolized by the spitting (Num. 12:14; Job 30:10; Is. 50:6 relate to spitting as a shameful act).

15 But thou shalt have a perfect and just weight, a perfect and just measure shalt thou have: ^athat thy days may be lengthened in the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee.

16 For ^aall that do such things, and all that do unrighteously, are ¹an abomination unto the LORD thy God.

18 How he met thee by the way, and smote ¹the hindmost of thee, even all that were feeble behind thee, when thou wast faint and weary; and he ^afeared not God.

19 Therefore it shall be, ^awhen the LORD thy God hath given thee rest from all thine enemies round about, in the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee for an inheritance to possess it, that thou shalt ^bblot out the remembrance of Amalek from under heaven; thou shalt not forget it.

3 And thou shalt go unto the priest that shall be in those days, and say unto him, I ¹profess this day unto the LORD thy God, that I am come unto the country which the LORD sware unto our fathers for to give us.

25:13-16. A just weight is a "righteous one," a weight that conforms to the norm. A similar law appears in Leviticus 19:35, 36. Amos 8:5 gives evidence that this law was broken. Not only does the law prohibit the use of all dishonest weights and measures, but it even prohibits their possession. Israel was urged to avoid tempting situations as well as the actual acts themselves.

26:1-11. The presentation of firstfruits (cf. Lev. 23:10-14) was not only a pledge of the full harvest to come, but also a reminder of the rise of the nation from its meager beginnings. Syrian: The Hebrew word means Aramean and probably refers to Jacob, although it might go back to Abraham. Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob all had links with Aram-naharaim where the tribe of Terah lived. The term Aram appears in Genesis 25:20; 28:5, 7; 31:20, 24. In Genesis 22:21, a certain Aram is mentioned as the grandson of Nahor, Abraham's brother.

13 Then thou shalt say before the LORD thy God, I have brought away the ¹hallowed things out of mine house, and also have given them unto the Levite, and unto the stranger, to the fatherless, and to the widow, according to all thy commandments which thou hast commanded me: I have not transgressed thy commandments, ^aneither have I forgotten them:

Israel to Build an Altar

27 And Moses with the elders of Israel commanded the people, saying, Keep all the commandments which I command you this day.

2 And it shall be on the day ^awhen ye shall pass over Jordan unto the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee, that ^bthou shalt set thee up great stones, and plaister them with plaister:

3 And thou shalt write upon them all the words of this law, when thou art passed over, that thou mayest go in unto the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee, ^aa land that floweth with milk and honey; as the LORD God of thy fathers hath promised thee.

4 Therefore it shall be when ye be gone over Jordan, that ye shall set up these stones, which I command you this day, ^ain mount Ebal, and thou shalt plaister them with plaister.

5 And there shalt thou build an altar unto the LORD thy God, an altar of stones: ^athou shalt not ¹lift up any iron tool upon them.

6 Thou shalt build the altar of the LORD thy God of ¹whole stones: and thou shalt offer burnt offerings thereon unto the LORD thy God:

7 And thou shalt offer peace offerings, and shalt eat there, and ^arejoice before the LORD thy God.

8 And thou shalt ^awrite upon the stones all the words of this law very plainly.

9 And Moses and the priests the Levites spake unto all Israel, saying, Take heed, and hearken, O Israel; ^athis day thou art become the people of the LORD thy God.

26:16–19. These verses provide the conclusion to the declaration of the law. Verses 17–19 relate to a part of the covenant renewal ceremony.

27:1–10. These verses begin the address of Moses; the blessings and curses extend through 28:68. In 27:1–26 the renewal of the covenant is commanded. This particular section (vv. 1–10) relates to the writing of the law and the offering of sacrifices. Plaister them with plaister meant to coat the stones with lime or gypsum, in order to secure a surface on which the writing inscribed might be clearly legible. This practice was quite common in Egypt. Not lift up any iron tool upon them: Since Israel did not have iron at an early time (1 Sam. 13:19–23), this prohibition perhaps was given so they would not show any dependence on Gentiles, a thing discouraged by the exclusive nature of the covenant relationship.

10 Thou shalt therefore obey the voice of the LORD thy God, and do his commandments and his statutes, which I command thee this day.

Blessings from Mount Gerizim

Curses from Mount Ebal

13 And ^athese shall stand upon mount Ebal to curse; Reuben, Gad, and Asher, and Zebulun, Dan, and Naphtali.

God Will Bless Israel

28 And it shall come to pass, ^aif thou shalt hearken diligently unto the voice of the LORD thy God, to observe and to do all his commandments which I command thee this day, that the LORD thy God ^bwill set thee on high above all nations of the earth:

2 And all these blessings shall come on thee, and ^aovertake thee, if thou shalt hearken unto the voice of the LORD thy God.

4 Blessed shall be ^athe ¹fruit of thy body, and the fruit of thy ground, and the fruit of thy cattle, the increase of thy ²kine, and the flocks of thy sheep.

27:11-26. These verses deal with the blessings and curses that were pronounced at a ceremony of covenant renewal. Six tribes stood on Gerizim and six on Ebal, with the Levites in the valley between. The Levites spoke the 12 curses and, after each one, all the people responded with Amen. Amen is the customary formula of assent (Num. 5:22; 1 Kin. 1:36; Neh. 5:13; 8:6; Ps. 72:19; Jer. 28:6). By affirming Amen, the representatives were agreeing to a self-malediction, calling a curse upon themselves and their tribe if they offended in reference to the particular law that was implied in the formula. This list of curses consists of a prohibition of images (v. 15), four breaches of filial or social duty (vv. 16-19), four cases of sexual irregularity

(vv. 20-23), two cases of bodily injury (vv. 24, 25), and a concluding comprehensive demand that this law should be kept.

28:1-68. This portion includes the blessings and curses pronounced in Moab. This is done in the standard Near Eastern treaty pattern following the completion of the treaty stipulations (vv. 5-26). The blessings are in verses 1-14, whereas the curses comprise verses 15-68. This is probably due to human nature. The threat of a severe judgment on the covenant-breaker seems to act as a stronger stimulus to correct behavior than any promise of blessing.

28:3-6. These verses contain six blessings that extend to every sphere of life.

5 Blessed shall be thy basket and thy ¹store.

6 ^aBlessed shalt thou be when thou comest in, and blessed shalt thou be when thou goest out.

7 The LORD ^ashall cause thine enemies that rise up against thee to be ¹smitten before thy face: they shall come out against thee one way, and flee before thee seven ways.

8 The LORD shall ^acommand the blessing upon thee in thy storehouses, and in all that thou ^bsettest thine hand unto; and he shall bless thee in the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee.

9 ^aThe LORD shall establish thee an holy people unto himself, as he hath sworn unto thee, if thou shalt keep the commandments of the LORD thy God, and walk in his ways.

10 And all people of the earth shall see that thou art ^acalled by the name of the LORD; and they shall be ^bafraid of thee.

A Land of Plenty

11 And ^athe LORD shall ¹make thee plenteous in goods, in the fruit of thy body, and in the fruit of thy cattle, and in the fruit of thy ground, in the land which the LORD ²sware unto thy fathers to give thee.

12 The LORD shall open unto thee his good ¹treasure, the heaven ^ato give the rain unto thy land in his season, and ^bto bless all the work of thine hand: and ^cthou shalt lend unto many nations, and thou shalt not borrow.

13 And the LORD shall make ^athee the head, and not the tail; and thou shalt be above only, and thou shalt not be beneath; if that thou ¹hearken unto the commandments of the LORD thy God, which I command thee this day, ²to observe and to do them:

14 ^aAnd thou shalt not ¹go aside from any of the words which I command thee this day, to the right hand, or to the left, to go after other gods to serve them.

Curses for Disobeying God

15 But it shall come to pass, ^aif thou wilt not ¹hearken unto the voice of the LORD thy God, to ²observe to do all his commandments and his statutes which I command thee this day; that all these curses shall come upon thee, and overtake thee:

16 Cursed shalt thou be in the city, and cursed shalt thou be in the field.

17 Cursed shall be thy basket and thy ¹store.

18 Cursed shall be the ¹fruit of thy body, and the fruit of thy land, the increase of thy ²kine, and the flocks of thy sheep.

19 Cursed shalt thou be when thou comest in, and cursed shalt thou be when thou goest out.

20 The LORD shall send upon thee ^acursing, ^bvexation, ¹and ^crebuke, in all that thou settest thine hand unto for to do, until thou be destroyed, and until thou perish quickly; because of the wickedness of thy doings, whereby thou hast forsaken me.

21 The LORD shall make the ¹pestilence cleave unto thee, until he have consumed thee from off the land, whither thou goest to possess it.

22 ^aThe LORD shall smite thee with a consumption, and with a fever, and with an inflammation, and with an extreme burning, and with the sword, and with ^bblasting, ¹and with mildew; and they shall pursue thee until thou perish.

23 And ^athy heaven that is over thy head shall be ¹brass, and the earth that is under thee shall be iron.

24 The LORD shall make the rain of thy land powder and dust: from heaven shall it come down upon thee, until thou be destroyed.

Captivity and Plagues

25 ^aThe LORD shall cause thee to be ¹smitten before thine enemies:

28:20–68. Three groups of punishment for disobedience are prescribed: (1) internal calamities, such as death, despair, disease, and decline (vv. 20–46); (2) external judgments, such as defeat before the enemy (vv. 47–57); and (3) the transmission of judgment to Israel's descendants (vv. 58–68).

thou shalt go out one way against them, and flee seven ways before them: and shalt be ²removed into all the kingdoms of the earth.

26 And ^athy carcass shall be meat unto all fowls of the air, and unto the beasts of the earth, and no man shall ¹fray them away.

27 The LORD will smite thee with ^athe ¹botch of Egypt, and with ^bthe ²emerods, and with the scab, and with the itch, whereof thou canst not be healed.

28 The LORD shall smite thee with madness, and blindness, and ^aastonishment¹ of heart:

29 And thou shalt ^agrope at noon-day, as the blind gropeth in darkness, and thou shalt not prosper in thy ways: and thou shalt be only oppressed and ¹spoiled evermore, and no man shall save thee.

30 ^aThou shalt betroth a wife, and another man shall lie with her: ^bthou shalt build an house, and thou shalt not dwell therein: ^cthou shalt plant a vineyard, and shalt not gather the grapes thereof.

31 Thine ox shall be slain before thine eyes, and thou shalt not eat thereof: thine ass shall be violently taken away from before thy face, and shall not be restored to thee: thy sheep shall be given unto thine enemies, and thou shalt have none to rescue them.

32 Thy sons and thy daughters shall be given unto ^aanother people, and thine eyes shall look, and ^bfail with longing for them all the day long: and there shall be ¹no might in thine ^chand.

33 ^aThe fruit of thy land, and all thy labours, shall a nation which thou knowest not eat up; and thou shalt be only oppressed and crushed always:

34 So that thou shalt be ¹mad for the sight of thine eyes which thou shalt see.

35 The LORD shall smite thee in the knees, and in the legs, with a sore ¹botch that cannot be healed, from the sole of thy foot unto the top of thy head.

38 ^aThou shalt carry much seed out into the field, and shalt gather but little in; for ^bthe locust shall ¹consume it.

39 Thou shalt plant vineyards, and dress them, but shalt neither drink of the ^awine, nor gather the grapes; for the worms shall eat them.

40 Thou shalt have olive trees throughout all thy coasts, but thou shalt not anoint thyself with the oil; for thine ¹olive shall cast his fruit.

41 Thou shalt beget sons and daughters, but thou shalt not enjoy them; for ^athey shall go into captivity.

42 All thy trees and fruit of thy land shall the locust ¹consume.

43 The stranger that is within thee shall get up above thee very high; and thou shalt come down very low.

44 He shall lend to thee, and thou shalt not lend to him: he shall be the head, and thou shalt be the tail.

45 Moreover all these curses shall come upon thee, and shall pursue thee, and overtake thee, till thou be destroyed; because thou ¹hearkenest not unto the voice of the LORD thy God, to keep his commandments and his statutes which he commanded thee:

46 And they shall be upon ^athee for a sign and for a wonder, and upon thy seed for ever.

Israel Will Be Enslaved

47 ^aBecause thou servedst not the LORD thy God with joyfulness, and with gladness of heart, ^bfor the abundance of all things;

48 Therefore shalt thou serve thine enemies which the LORD shall send against thee, in ^ahunger, and in thirst, and in nakedness, and in want of all things: and he ^bshall put a yoke of iron upon thy neck, until he have destroyed thee.

49 ^aThe LORD shall bring a nation against thee from far, from the end of the earth, ^bas swift as the eagle flieth; a nation whose ¹tongue thou shalt not understand;

50 A nation of fierce countenance, ^awhich shall not ¹regard the person of the old, nor shew favour to the young:

52 And he shall ^abesiege thee in all thy gates, until thy high and ¹fenced walls come down, wherein thou trustedst, throughout all thy land: and he shall besiege thee in all thy gates throughout all thy land, which the LORD thy God hath given thee.

53 And ^athou shalt eat the ¹fruit of thine own body, the flesh of thy sons and of thy daughters, which the LORD thy God hath given thee, in the siege, and in the ²straitness, wherewith thine enemies shall distress thee:

54 So that the man that is ¹tender among you, and very ²delicate, ^ahis³ eye shall be evil toward his brother, and toward ^bthe wife of his bosom, and toward the remnant of his children which he shall leave:

55 So that he will not give to any of them of the flesh of his children whom he shall eat: because he hath nothing left him in the siege, and in the straitness, wherewith thine enemies shall distress thee in all thy gates.

Plagues for Disobeying

58 If thou wilt not observe to do all the words of this law that are written in this book, that thou mayest fear ^athis glorious and fearful name, THE LORD THY GOD;

59 Then the LORD will make thy plagues ^awonderful,¹ and the plagues of thy seed, even great plagues, and of long continuance, and sore sicknesses, and of long continuance.

60 Moreover he will bring upon thee all ^athe diseases of Egypt, which thou wast afraid of; and they shall cleave unto thee.

61 Also every sickness, and every plague, which is not written in the book of this law, them will the LORD bring upon thee, until thou be destroyed.

62 And ye ^ashall be left few in number, whereas ye were ^bas the stars of heaven for multitude; because thou wouldest not obey the voice of the LORD thy God.

Israel Will Be Scattered

63 And it shall come to pass, that as the LORD ^arejoiced over you to do you good, and to multiply you; so the LORD ^bwill rejoice over you to destroy you, and to bring you to ¹nought; and ye shall be ^cplucked² from off the land whither thou goest to possess it.

64 And the LORD ^ashall scatter thee among all people, from the one end of the earth even unto the other; and ^bthere thou shalt serve other gods, which neither thou nor thy fathers have known, even wood and stone.

No Ease or Rest for Israel

65 And ^aamong these nations shalt thou find no ¹ease, neither shall the sole of thy foot have rest: ^bbut the LORD shall give thee there

^{2a} a trembling heart, and failing of eyes, and ^c sorrow of mind:

66 And thy life shall hang in doubt before thee; and thou shalt fear day and night, and shalt have none assurance of thy life:

67 ^a In the morning thou shalt say, Would God it were even! and at even thou shalt say, Would God it were morning! for the fear of thine heart wherewith thou shalt fear, and ^b for the sight of thine eyes which thou shalt see.

68 And the LORD ^a shall bring thee into Egypt again with ships, by the way whereof I spake unto thee, ^b Thou shalt see it no more again: and there ye shall be sold unto your enemies for ^b bondmen and bondwomen, and no man shall buy you.

God's Covenant with Israel

29 These are the words of the covenant, which the LORD commanded Moses to make with the children of Israel in the land of Moab, beside the ^a covenant which he made with them in Horeb.

2 And Moses called unto all Israel, and said unto them, ^a Ye have seen all that the LORD did before your eyes in the land of Egypt unto Pharaoh, and unto all his servants, and unto all his land;

3 ^a The great ¹ temptations which thine eyes have seen, the signs, and those great miracles:

4 Yet ^a the LORD hath not given you an heart to ¹ perceive, and eyes to see, and ears to hear, unto this day.

5 ^a And I have led you forty years in the wilderness: ^b your clothes are not waxen old upon you, and thy shoe is not waxen old upon thy foot.

6 ^a Ye have not eaten bread, neither have ye drunk wine or strong drink: that ye might know that I am the LORD your God.

7 And when ye came unto this place, ^a Sihon the king of Heshbon, and Og the king of Bashan, came out against us unto battle, and we smote them:

Israel Enters into Covenant with God

10 Ye stand this day all of you before the LORD your God; your captains of your tribes, your elders, and your officers, with all the men of Israel,

11 Your little ones, your wives, and thy stranger that is in thy camp, from ^a the hewer of thy wood unto the drawer of thy water:

12 That thou shouldst enter into covenant with the LORD thy God, and ^a into his oath, which the LORD thy God maketh with thee this day:

13 That he may ^a establish thee to day for a people unto himself, and that he may be unto thee a God, ^b as he hath said unto thee, and ^c as he hath sworn unto thy fathers, to Abraham, to Isaac, and to Jacob.

Cursed If Covenant Disobeyed

14 Neither with you only ^a do I make this covenant and this oath;

15 But with him that standeth here with us this day before the LORD our God, ^a and also with him that is not here with us this day:

16 (For ye know how we have dwelt in the land of Egypt; and how we came through the nations which ye passed by;

17 And ye have seen their ¹ abominations, and their idols, wood and stone, silver and gold, which were among them:)

18 Lest there should be among you man, or woman, or family, or tribe, ^a whose heart turneth away this day from the LORD our God, to go and serve the gods of these nations; ^b lest there should be among you a root that beareth ^c gall and wormwood;

29:1–29. This chapter and chapter 30 form Moses' third address and constitute a recapitulation of the covenant demand.

29:18. Gall and wormwood: Idolatry is described as a plant that takes root and issues in a harvest of poison weed and wormwood. The same kind of classical imagery is found in 32:32; Hosea 10:4; and Amos 6:12.

19 And it come to pass, when he heareth the words of this curse, that he bless himself in his heart, saying, I shall have peace, though I walk ^ain the ¹imagination of mine heart, ^bto add drunkenness to thirst:

20 ^aThe LORD will not spare him, but then ^bthe anger of the LORD and ^chis jealousy shall ¹smoke against that man, and all the curses that are written in this book shall lie upon him, and the LORD ^dshall blot out his name from under heaven.

21 And the LORD ^ashall separate him unto evil out of all the tribes of Israel, according to all the curses of the covenant that are written in this book of the ^blaw:

22 So that the generation to come of your children that shall rise up after you, and the stranger that shall come from a far land, shall say, when they ^asee the plagues of that land, and the sicknesses which the LORD hath laid upon it;

23 And that the whole land thereof is brimstone, ^aand salt, and burning, that it is not sown, nor beareth, nor any grass groweth therein, ^blike the overthrow of Sodom, and Gomorrah, Admah, and Zeboim, which the LORD overthrew in his anger, and in his wrath:

The Reason for God's Anger

25 Then men shall say, Because they have forsaken the covenant of the LORD God of their fathers, which he made with them when he brought them forth out of the land of Egypt:

26 For they went and served other gods, and worshipped them, gods whom they knew not, and whom he had not given unto them:

27 And the anger of the LORD was kindled against this land, ^ato bring upon it all the curses that are written in this book:

28 And the LORD ^arooted¹ them out of their land in anger, and in wrath, and in great indignation, and cast them into another land, as it is this day.

29 The secret things belong unto the LORD our God: but those things which are revealed belong unto us and to our children for ever, that we may do all the words of this law.

God's Mercy Toward Israel

30 And ^ait shall come to pass, when ^ball these things are come upon thee, the blessing and the ^ccurse, which I have set before thee, and ^dthou shalt ¹call them to mind among all the nations, whither the LORD thy God hath driven thee,

2 And shalt ^areturn unto the LORD thy God, and shalt obey his voice according to all that I command thee this day, thou and thy children, with all thine heart, and with all thy soul;

30:1–20. This chapter contains a call to decision: Life and blessing or death and cursing (vv. 15–18).

30:1–10. Repentance and forgiveness. Israel had been driven away by the Lord (28:64), and now if the people shalt return unto the LORD, God will turn thy captivity, and have compassion ... and will return and gather thee from all the nations.

This will occur at the second coming of Christ (Ezek. 36:24–36; 37:23–28; Mark 13:26, 27; Rom. 11:25–27 are of interest). They will be restored to the land (v. 5); and God will do a work of grace in their hearts (v. 6), will judge Israel's enemies (v. 7; Joel 3:1, 2), and will produce prosperity in the land (v. 9; Amos 9:11–15).

REVELATION

29:29. Revelation is the act by which God gave men knowledge about Himself and His Creation, which man could not otherwise have known. The Scriptures speak of God's self-revelation in a general way in nature (Ps. 19:1; Rom. 1:18), but especially in the Scriptures (v. 29; Heb. 1:1).

While the Scriptures do not reveal everything, they do reveal all we need to know about God. Illustration: The relationship between God's revelation in nature and in the Scriptures is best seen in the visit of the Magi. God used the star to show them the King of the Jews had been born, but they were directed to Bethlehem by the revealed Word of God. When they arrived they saw the complete revelation of Jesus Christ (Matt. 2:1–11). Application: While we can appreciate God's Creation and be impressed by what it reveals concerning Him, our most complete record of what God is like is the Bible. (First Reference, Gen. 1:14; Primary Reference, Deut. 29:29; cf. Heb. 1:1.)

3 ^aThat then the LORD thy God will ¹turn thy captivity, and have compassion upon thee, and will return and ^bgather thee from all the nations, whither the LORD thy God hath scattered thee.

4 ^aIf any of thine be driven out unto the outmost parts of heaven, from thence will the LORD thy God gather thee, and from thence will he fetch thee:

5 And the LORD thy God will bring thee into the land which thy fathers possessed, and thou shalt possess it; and he will do thee good, and multiply thee above thy fathers.

6 And ^athe LORD thy God will circumcise thine heart, and the heart of thy seed, to love the LORD thy God with all thine heart, and with all thy soul, that thou mayest live.

7 And the LORD thy God will put all these ^acurse upon thine enemies, and on them that hate thee, which persecuted thee.

8 And thou shalt ^areturn and obey the voice of the LORD, and do all his commandments which I command thee this day.

9 ^aAnd the LORD thy God will make thee ¹plenteous in every work of thine hand, in the ²fruit of thy body, and in the fruit of thy cattle, and in the fruit of thy land, for good: for the LORD will again ^brejoice over thee for good, as he rejoiced over thy fathers:

10 If thou shalt hearken unto the voice of the LORD thy God, to keep his commandments and his statutes which are written in this book of the law, and if thou turn unto the LORD thy God with all thine heart, and with all thy soul.

Israel to Choose Good or Evil

15 See, ^aI have set before thee this day life and good, and death and evil;

16 In that I command thee this day to love the LORD thy God, to walk in his ways, and to keep his commandments and his statutes and his judgments, that thou mayest live and multiply: and the LORD thy God shall bless thee in the land whither thou goest to possess it.

17 But if thine heart turn away, so that thou wilt not hear, but shalt be drawn away, and worship other gods, and serve them;

18 ^aI ¹denounce unto you this day, that ye shall surely perish, and that ye shall not prolong your days upon the land, whither thou passest over Jordan to go to possess it.

19 ^aI call heaven and earth ¹to record this day against you, that ^bI have set before you life and death, blessing and cursing: therefore choose life, that both thou and thy seed may live:

20 That thou mayest love the LORD thy God, and that thou mayest obey his voice, and that thou mayest cleave unto him: for he is thy ^alife, and the length of thy days: that thou mayest dwell in the land which the LORD swore unto thy fathers, to Abraham, to Isaac, and to Jacob, to give them.

30:11-20. This section is a solemn appeal to choose life. The people are called upon to make a decision (Josh. 24:15). Deuteronomy 29:29 mentioned that some things are known only to God, but the commands to Israel were not hidden (v. 11). They were written down for all to read. Neither were they far off. They were available. (See Rom. 10:6-10 and Paul's use of this passage.) The law lay at everyone's door. Heaven and earth are invoked as God's witnesses (4:26; Mic. 6:1, 2), which was a regular formula of the secular treaties.

Moses Encourages Israel

31 And Moses went and spake these words unto all Israel.

2 And he said unto them, I ^aam an hundred and twenty years old this day; I can no more ^bgo out and come in: also the LORD hath said unto me, ^cThou shalt not go over this Jordan.

3 The LORD thy God, ^ahe will go over before thee, ^{and} he will destroy these nations from before thee, and thou shalt ¹possess them: ^{and} ^bJoshua, he shall go over before thee, ^cas the LORD hath said.

4 ^aAnd the LORD shall do unto them ^bas he did to Sihon and to Og, kings of the Amorites, and unto the land of them, whom he destroyed.

5 And ^athe LORD shall give them up before your face, that ye may do unto them according unto all the commandments which I have commanded you.

6 ^aBe strong and of a good courage, ^bfear not, nor be afraid of them: for the LORD thy God, ^{he it is} that doth go with thee; ^ahe will not fail thee, nor forsake thee.

Assurance of God's Presence

7 And Moses called unto Joshua, and said unto him in the sight of all Israel, ^aBe strong and of a good courage: for thou must go with this people unto the land which the LORD hath sworn unto their fathers to give them; and thou shalt cause them to inherit it.

8 And the LORD, ^ahe it is that doth go before thee; ^bhe will be with thee, 31:1—34:12. These chapters record the last acts of Moses and his death. There are more features of the suzerainty treaty pattern here, such as an instruction to deposit the covenant document in the ark (31:24–29), a reference to the appointment of Joshua as the visible head of the covenant community (31:1–8, 14–23), and a promise of the blessings to be enjoyed by the tribes (ch. 33). Chapter 32 is very much like the standard indictment document issued to a wayward vassal. Chapter 34 concludes with the account of Moses' death.

31:1–8. Moses gives a series of charges to the people in verses 1–6 and to Joshua in verses 7 and 8. God had forbidden Moses to cross over the Jordan (3:23–29; 32:50–52; Num. 20:11, 12). But the Lord would go over before thee, and destroy these nations. Thus, the Lord Himself would continue to lead them through Joshua who had already been designated by Moses in the presence of Eleazar and the congrega-

9 And Moses wrote this law, ^aand delivered it unto the priests the sons of Levi, ^bwhich bare the ark of the covenant of the LORD, and unto all the elders of Israel.

10 And Moses commanded them, saying, At the end of every seven years, in the ¹solemnity of the ^ayear of release, ^bin the feast of tabernacles, 11 When all Israel is come to ^aappear before the LORD thy God in the ^bplace which he shall choose, ^cthou shalt read this law before all Israel in their hearing.

12 ^aGather the people together, men, and women, and children, and thy stranger that is within thy gates, that they may hear, and that they may learn, and fear the LORD your God, and observe to do all the words of this law:

13 And that their children, ^awhich have not known any thing, ^bmay hear, and learn to fear the LORD your God, as long as ye live in the land whither ye go over Jordan to possess it.

Moses and Joshua Appear Before God

14 And the LORD said unto Moses, ^aBehold, thy days approach that thou must die: call Joshua, and present yourselves in the tabernacle of the congregation, that ^bI may give him a ¹charge. And Moses and Joshua went, and presented themselves in the tabernacle of the congregation.

tion to assume the leadership after his death (1:38; Num. 27:18–23).

31:9–13. Moses gives a charge to the priests in this section. The deposit of a written copy with the priests (v. 9, symbolizing the transfer of responsibility for enforcement to the priests), and the regulation for reading the covenant periodically (v. 10, at the feast of tabernacles) were the typical conditions of royal treaties of this time. The purpose was for all the people to hear ... learn ... fear ... and observe to do all the words of this law.

31:14–23. This portion contains two themes: the formal commissioning of Joshua by God at the tent of meeting (vv. 14, 15, 23) and an introduction to the song of Moses which is given in the next chapter. In verse 19 Moses and Joshua are commissioned to write a song that would help the people remember the demands of the covenant.

15 And ^athe LORD appeared in the tabernacle in a pillar of a cloud: and the pillar of the cloud stood over the door of the tabernacle.

16 And the LORD said unto Moses, Behold, thou shalt ¹sleep with thy fathers; and this people will ^arise up, and ^bgo ²a whoring after the gods of the strangers of the land, whither they go to be among them, and will ^cforsake me, and ^dbreak my covenant which I have made with them.

17 Then my anger shall be ^akindled against them in that day, and ^bI will forsake them, and I will ^chide my face from them, and they shall be ¹devoured, and many evils and troubles shall befall them; so that they will say in that day, ^dAre not these evils come upon us, because our God is ^enot among us?

18 And ^aI will surely hide my face in that day for all the evils which they shall have wrought, in that they are turned unto other gods.

A Song for Israel

19 Now therefore write ye this song for you, and teach it the children of Israel: put it in their mouths, that this song may be ^aa witness for me against the children of Israel.

20 For when I shall have brought them into the land which I swear unto their fathers, that floweth with milk and honey; and they shall have eaten and filled themselves, ^aand ¹waxen fat; ^bthen will they turn unto other gods, and serve them, and provoke me, and break my covenant.

21 And it shall come to pass, ^awhen many evils and troubles are befallen them, that this song shall testify against them as a witness; for it shall not be forgotten out of the mouths of their seed: for ^bI know ¹their imagination ^cwhich they go about, even now, before I have brought them into the land which I swear.

22 Moses therefore wrote this song the same day, and taught it the children of Israel.

Levites in Charge of the Book of the Law

24 And it came to pass, when Moses had made an end of writing the words of this law in a book, until they were finished,

25 That Moses commanded the Levites, which bare the ark of the covenant of the LORD, saying, 26 Take this book of the law, ^aand put it in the side of the ark of the covenant of the LORD your God, that it may be there ^bfor a witness against thee.

27 ^aFor I know thy rebellion, and thy ^bstiff neck: behold, while I am yet alive with you this day, ye have been rebellious against the LORD; and how much more after my death?

Israel Gathers to Hear Moses

28 Gather unto me all the elders of your tribes, and your officers, that I may speak these words in their ¹ears, ^aand call heaven and earth to ²record against them.

29 For I know that after my death ye will utterly ^acorrupt yourselves, and turn aside from the way which I have commanded you; and ^bevil will befall you ^cin the latter days; because ye will do evil in the sight of the LORD, to provoke him to anger through the work of your hands.

30 And Moses spake in the ears of all the congregation of Israel the words of this song, until they were ended.

32:1-3. The introduction to the song. Heavens, and... earth (See 4:26; 30:19; 31:28.): The song functions as a part of the witness to the renewal of the covenant. My doctrine ... my speech: This refers to the content of the song, which follows. Doctrine is one of several words in the song that is also used in wisdom literature (Prov. 1:5). Name of the LORD has various implications in Deuteronomy (5:11; 12:5), and here it gathers together the various attributes of God indicated by His name, which will be set forth in the verses that follow.

32:4-9. A faithful God and a faithless people are pictured. The Rock: The word is placed first in the Hebrew for emphasis. It emphasizes the stability and permanence of the God of Israel. His unchanging nature is contrasted with the fickleness of the covenant people. Most High is a title that emphasizes God's sovereignty and authority over all nations, whereas in relation to His own people He is called the LORD (Yahweh) as in Exodus 3 and 6. In Genesis 10, He allotted to the nations their inheritance (portion) of the earth as their home, and fixed the boundaries of peoples in relation to Israel's numbers.

32:10-14. The goodness of God is depicted. He is pictured as a Father-figure, caring for His people in every dimension of their lives, bringing them out of the land, and guiding and providing for them during their travels.

32:34–38. The possibility of compassion is implied as the poet turns his attention to the “impending doom” which would come upon those enemies of Israel whom God would employ as His instruments of judgment (vv. 34, 35). God could use the foreign nations to execute judgment on His own people (Is. 10:5; 39:6, 7; 44:28); yet they would remain responsible for their acts. Verse 35 is quoted in Romans 12:19 and Hebrews 10:30.

32:39–44. These verses contain the vindication and vengeance of God. There is no god with me (“beside Me”). The false gods are impotent; only Yahweh can kill, and ... make alive ... wound, and ... heal, I lift up my hand to heaven symbolizes the making of an oath, which is introduced by the formula that follows. God declares that He will render vengeance to mine enemies, and will reward them that hate me. Even though Israel’s enemies had been instrumental in the execution of God’s judgment on Israel, they themselves would eventually experience the wrath of God for their evil acts.

A God of Mercy

43 ^aRejoice, O ye nations, with his people: for he will ^bavenge the blood of his servants, and will render vengeance to his adversaries, and ^cwill be merciful unto his land, and to his people.

44 And Moses came and spake all the words of this song in the ears of the people, he, and ¹Hoshea the son of Nun.

45 And Moses made an end of speaking all these words to all Israel:

46 And he said unto them, ^aSet your hearts unto all the words which I testify among you this day, which ye shall command your ^bchildren to observe to do, all the words of this law.

Israel Blessed by Moses

33 And this is ^athe blessing, wherewith Moses ^bthe man of God blessed the children of Israel before his death.

8 And of ^aLevi he said, ^bLet thy ¹Thummim and thy Urim be with thy holy one, ^cwhom thou didst prove at 33:1-29. This chapter contains the blessing of Moses and has many features of ancient war hymns, such as are found in Judges 5, Psalm 68, and Habakkuk 3. The poem commences with an emphasis on the majesty of God (vv. 2-5). Then there is a lengthy section relating the blessings on the various tribes (vv. 6-25), although the tribe of Simeon is not mentioned. The poem closes with a section of praise to Yahweh accompanied by reflections on the favor bestowed on Israel (vv. 26-29).

33:2. The activity of Yahweh as He led His people from Sinai is here recalled (cf. Judg. 5:4, 5; Hab. 3:3 for identical terms). One may perhaps translate saints as “myriads of holy ones” and the last sentence, “at his right hand were warriors of God.” Note Paul’s reference to angels who mediated the law in Acts 7:53 and Galatians 3:19. See also Hebrews 2:2.

33:6. Reuben (cf. Gen. 49:3, 4): Moses may have discerned some weakness in him and referred to it; he was “unstable as water,” and later the tribe was criticized for its lack of participation in Israel’s battles (Judg. 5:5-15).

33:7. The phrase bring him unto his people may indicate when he goes to battle, bring him back in peace. According to Numbers 2:9, Judah was to march at the head of the army as the vanguard.

33:8-11. Levi's blessing indicates the priestly role of the tribe, in contrast to the more secular tone of Genesis 49:5-7. The tribe is characterized representatively in Moses and Aaron in verse 8 and then collectively in verse 9. They were to be responsible for the Thummim and Urim (v. 8); they were to have an educational role in teaching (v. 10a); and they were to be responsible for Israel's formal system of worship (v. 10b).

33:12. Benjamin, in Genesis 49:27, is given a very warlike and fierce character (Judg. 5:14). Beloved of the LORD may reflect that he had been especially loved by his father (Gen. 44:20). They would dwell in safety due to God's presence.

33:13-17. Joseph's blessing relates to two spheres: to his people's material prosperity from the produce of the land (vv. 13-16) and to their military might. The firstborn was Manasseh, but because of Jacob's reversal in blessing (Gen. 48:8-20), Ephraim took precedence. This is depicted in dramatic poetic form in the last two lines of verse 17.

33:18, 19. Zebulun was assured prosperity in the seas (in fishing, maritime commerce, etc.) and at the seashores (in shellfish; purple dye, made from shellfish; and glass, made from sand).

33:20, 21. The Gadites were to play an important role in the battle. Even though they had already possessed their portion of the land east of the Jordan, they would nevertheless cooperate faithfully along with the rest of Israel in the completion of the conquest.

33:22. The phrase lion's whelp is applied to Judah in Genesis 49:9. It implies the timidity of youthfulness, but also indicates that the tribe of Dan would have great strength in the future, when it had grown to maturity.

The Death and Burial of Moses

5 ^aSo Moses the servant of the LORD died there in the land of Moab, according to the word of the LORD.

6 And he buried him in a valley in the land of Moab, over against Beth-peor: but ^ano man knoweth ¹of his sepulchre unto this day.

The Greatness of Moses

10 And there ^aarose not a prophet since in Israel like unto Moses, ^bwhom the LORD knew face to face,

11 In all ^athe signs and the wonders, which the LORD sent him to do in the land of Egypt to Pharaoh, and to all his servants, and to all his land, 12 And in all that mighty hand, and in all the great terror which Moses shewed in the sight of all Israel.

33:24, 25. Asher takes the form of an exposition of the name of the tribe, which means "Happy, Blessed." They would be the most blessed (the most happy) among the tribes. They would be secure from their enemies, thus blessed by God with strength to live life to its fullest throughout their lifetime.

34:1–12. Moses is permitted to see the land, but not to enter it. God was fulfilling His promises to Abraham from Genesis 12:1–3 (3:27; 4:21, 22; 32:52). Moses was buried in the vicinity of Beth-peor, which was about 10 miles east of the Jordan at its mouth (3:29; 4:46). Again reference is made to Moses as the servant of the LORD, like Paul in Romans 1:1, and so on. Joshua was then filled with the spirit of wisdom to carry on Moses' task as the leader under God in Israel.

The Book of JOSHUA

The Book of Joshua stands at the beginning of the Jewish scriptural collection known as the Former Prophets. It is named after its most important character, Moses' personal aide and military commander. Joshua's name means "The Lord Is Salvation." In the Septuagint, the Greek translation of the Old Testament, his name takes the form Iēsous, the same name borne by our Lord, Jesus. The Book of Joshua is considered the first of the Historical Books of the English Bible, because it traces the record of the children of Israel from the shores of the Jordan River to the conquest and division of the land of Canaan. It closes with an account of the aged Joshua's farewell speeches.

Historical Setting. The events of the Book of Joshua span some 40 years (c. 1405–1365 B.C.). This dating reflects the facts drawn from the chronological anchor point of 1 Kings 6:1. According to that text, Solomon's fourth year of rule was also the 480th year since the children of Israel had left Egypt, or 1445 B.C. Israel's 40 years of wandering in the wilderness before reaching the Jordan would therefore take the details of the Book of Joshua to the date adopted here.

Accordingly, the Book of Joshua is set in a changing international scene. The virtual domination of Syro-Palestine and the area of the eastern shores of the Mediterranean Sea by the Egyptians was to be relaxed due to the rising power of the Hittites to the north under the great king Suppiluliumas (c. 1380–1346 B.C.). To the south, Egypt's great Pharaoh, Amenhotep III (c. 1410–1372 B.C.) was replaced by his son Akhen-aton (c. 1372–1355 B.C.), under whom the Egyptian fortunes in Syro-Palestine greatly deteriorated, as reflected in the famous Tell El-Amarna Tablets. In the Amarna Period, Canaan itself became politically divided into several small states that were often at war with one another and which at times reported to the Egyptian Pharaoh that, because of the hostilities, they faced possible extermination at the hands of a strong enemy. God had arranged the details of history in such a way that human conditions would be just right for the Israelites' conquest of Canaan!

Authorship. The traditional view that Joshua is the author of almost the entire book is supported by several factors. (1) Certain portions bear the mark of an eyewitness to the events described, such as the remark that "the LORD had dried up the waters of Jordan from before the children of Israel, until we were passed over" (5:1). (2) The use of the ancient names of Canaanite cities points to an early date (e.g., 15:9, 13, 49, 54). (3) The list of boundaries drawn for the various tribes (chs. 13–19) accurately reflects the known situation of Canaan before the Jewish monarchy, as do the facts that Jerusalem was still a Jebusite city (15:63), Gezer was still a Canaanite city (16:10), and the Gibeonites were Israel's vassals (cf. 9:18–27 with 2 Sam. 21:1–9). (4) The failure to mention the Phoenician city of Tyre, while mentioning Sidon, reflects earlier times before Tyre became the more important port city and strategic stronghold of the Phoenicians. (5) The author cites the ancient book of Jasher as source material for his writing (10:13).

(6) The rehearsal of the wickedness of the Canaanites, for which God commanded their execution, is shown to be accurate in the well-known Ras Shamra Tablets, written in Joshua's time. (7) The farewell speeches of Joshua (chs. 23, 24) bear the marks of the author's own affirmation (24:26, 27). All of these facts argue for an early date of the book at a time when Joshua actually lived. No one else is the logical author of the book that bears his name.

Although certain portions must have been added by a later hand, such as the account of Joshua's death (24:29, 30), the conditions after his day (24:31), and certain historical events that took place in the time of the Judges (cf. 15:13-17 with Judg. 1:9-13; cf. 19:47 with Judg. 18:27-29), as well as the inclusion of the later names of the earlier cities mentioned above, nevertheless nearly all the material recorded in the book was likely written by Joshua himself.

Liberal attempts to suggest that Joshua was composed by a later author as part of a Hexateuch (or six books) associated with Moses have failed to achieve scholarly consensus. Moreover, it falls against the evidence of the Samaritan Bible, which, in adopting only Mosaic material, includes only the five books of the Pentateuch.

The Book of Joshua is a record of God's faithfulness to His covenant people. It underscores the need of the believer to be obedient if he would appropriate all that God has designed for him. It is throughout a testimony to the might and grace of a sovereign and holy God.

Joshua Assured of God's Presence

1 Now after the death of Moses the servant of the LORD it came to pass, that the LORD spake unto Joshua the son of Nun, Moses' minister, saying,

2 "Moses my servant is dead; now therefore arise, go over this Jordan, thou, and all this people, unto the land which I do give to them, even to the children of Israel.

3 "Every place that the sole of your foot shall tread upon, that have I given unto you, as I said unto Moses.

4 "From the wilderness and this Lebanon even unto the great river, the river Euphrates, all the land of the Hittites, and unto the great sea toward the going down of the sun, shall be your coast.

1:1. Joshua the son of Nun had apparently been born Hoshea (Num. 13:8) but was renamed Joshua by Moses (Num. 13:16). His long years of service as Moses' field commander (Ex. 17:9-16) and personal aide (Ex. 24:13) had prepared him well for this time when he would succeed his master. Joshua had served well (Ex. 24:13; Num. 14:6-10; 27:15-23), and as one who was full of the Holy Spirit (Num. 27:18; Deut. 34:9), was God's choice to succeed Moses (Num. 34:17; Deut. 1:38; 3:28; 31:7; 34:9), to conquer the land (Deut. 3:21; 31:7), and to see to its proper apportionment (Num. 34:17). He who would lead well must first learn how to serve well (1 Kin. 19:21).

1:2. The chronological anchor point of 1 Kings 6:1 necessitates a date for the death of Moses near the end of the fifteenth century B.C. (see further, the Introduction). Because of unbelief, Moses had forfeited his opportunity to lead the people into Canaan (cf. Num. 20:12 with Deut. 31:7).

1:2, 3. The land was Israel's in accordance with God's promise in both the Mosaic (Deut. 11:24) and Abrahamic covenants (Gen. 13:14-17). Israel's prophesied return after a four-hundred-year exile lay at hand (Gen. 15:13, 14).

1:4. The boundaries of the land are given as the wilderness (i.e., the area south and east of Canaan) on the south, Lebanon on the north, the Euphrates to the northeast, and the great sea (Mediterranean) on the west. All the land of the Hittites meant the regions of Canaan and Syria, considered in both ancient Egyptian and Mediterranean inscriptions as a buffer state between the two great powers. Because the Hittites were one of the large ethnic groups that inhabited Canaan before the Israelite conquest (cf. 3:10; 9:1; 11:3; 12:8; 24:11), and because they were a traditional power (occupying what is now Turkey and modern Syria) with whom the ancient Assyrians and Egyptians were forced to deal, the land was called Hatti (Hittite) land in international correspondence.

1:6-9. The Lord's charge to Joshua is repeated from Deuteronomy 31:6, 7, 23. The divine call is not only for manly courage but for a courageous faith centered in the word of God (cf. 1 Chr. 22:11-13; 28:20; Ps. 27:13, 14; 31:23, 24). As the psalmist would later point out, true success comes from meditating deeply on God's Word (cf. Ps. 1:2, 3; 119:72, 97, 147, 148). Paul likewise encourages all believers to "quit you like men, be strong" (1 Cor. 16:13).

1:8. This verse indicates both the existence of the law by the time of Joshua and its Mosaic authorship (cf. 8:31-35).

1:1 Joshua was Moses' assistant/servant (Ex. 24:13) and successor (Num. 27:15-23). He served as a military field commander (Ex. 17:9-13), was a spiritual disciple of Moses when he accompanied him up the mountain to receive the Torah (Ex. 24:13), and acted as a believing, courageous spy along with Caleb (Num. 14:6-10, 30). As Israel's new leader after Moses, he functioned as a military commander in taking the land of Canaan (vv. 2-5) and as an administrator in allotting the land (vv. 6-9; 13:7; 14:1, 2). Joshua served as a model for all of Israel's future kings. He was a leader possessing the Lord's spirit and having prophetic sanction (Num. 27:18, 22). He was both a military genius and a spiritual giant. He stirred up the faith of his army by ceremony (4:1-7), word (10:25), and life (24:15). He demanded of them exact obedience to the Lord's Word (8:35; 23:6). Joshua died at 110 years of age (24:29-31). The New Testament mentions his leading the Israelites into the Promised Land (Acts 7:45). (First Reference, Ex. 17:9; Primary Reference, Josh. 1:1-9.)

9 ^aHave not I commanded thee? Be strong and of a good courage; ^bbe not afraid, neither be thou dismayed: for the LORD thy God is with thee whithersoever thou goest.

Israel to Cross the Jordan

11 Pass through the host, and command the people, saying, Prepare you victuals; for ^awithin three days ye shall pass over this Jordan, to go in to possess the land, which the LORD your God giveth you to possess it.

12 And to the Reubenites, and to the Gadites, and to half the tribe of Manasseh, spake Joshua, saying, 13 Remember ^athe word which Moses the servant of the LORD commanded you, saying, The LORD your God hath given you rest, and hath given you this land.

14 Your wives, your little ones, and your cattle, shall remain in the land which Moses gave you on this side Jordan; but ye shall ¹pass before your brethren armed, all the mighty men of valour, and help them;

LORD's servant gave you on this side Jordan toward the sunrising.

16 And they answered Joshua, saying, All that thou commandest us we will do, and whithersoever thou sendest us, we will go.

17 According as we hearkened unto Moses in all things, so will we hearken unto thee: only the LORD thy God ^abe with thee, as he was with Moses.

18 Whosoever he be that doth rebel against thy commandment, and will not hearken unto thy words in all that thou commandest him, he shall be put to death: only be strong and of a good courage.

Spies Enter the Land

2 And Joshua the son of Nun sent ^aout of ¹Shittim two men to spy secretly, saying, Go view the land, even Jericho. And they went, and ^bcame into an harlot's house, named ^cRahab, and ²lodged there.

2 And ^ait was told the king of Jericho, saying, Behold, there came men in ¹hither to night of the children of Israel to search out the country.

Rahab Hides the Two Spies

3 And the king of Jericho sent unto Rahab, saying, Bring forth the men that are come to thee, which are entered into thine house: for they be come to search out all the country.

1:11. Some imagine a contradiction between the details of this verse and those of 2:22 and 3:1. 2. Actually the texts are supplementary. (1) In Shittim, Joshua gives the command to make ready for breaking camp (vv. 10, 11). (2) As well, he sends spies to Jericho from which, after spending a night, they flee their pursuers and take refuge in the mountains for three days (2:15-22). (3) Subsequently they return to Joshua, who leads the camp from Shittim to the Jordan River, where they linger another three days. The prominence of three days in the accounts may be in harmony with a recurrent emphasis in the Scriptures on the third day as the day of special activity, spiritual decision, and newness of life and service (cf. Gen. 22:4; Ex. 19:15; 2 Kin. 20:5, 8; Ezra 6:15; Esth. 5:1; Matt. 16:21; 17:23; Luke 13:32; 24:5-7, 21, 44-49; Acts 10:40; 1 Cor. 15:4).

2:1. Shittim, formerly a place of spiritual failure (cf. Num. 25:1-13), became here a springboard for spiritual victory. Joel (Joel 3:18) reports that one day the Valley of Shittim will be reinvigorated by waters from the house of the Lord. Places and occasions of spiritual defeat and barrenness can be transformed into areas of spiritual victory and blessing by the life-giving power of God. Rahab is not promised deliverance (cf. vv. 17-21; 6:23) simply because of her shrewd evaluation of the situation (vv. 9-13) or her efforts on behalf of the spies (vv. 3-7, 21), but on the basis of her faith (Heb. 11:31). Neither her harlotry nor her lying is approved of. In His gracious providence, God had prepared her heart to receive both the messengers and their God (vv. 10, 11). Though she acted out of her old habits in hiding and delivering the spies, her newly found faith was being tested at the risk of her life (cf. v. 14). God's further grace toward Rahab may be seen in her subsequent marriage to Salmon, through whom was born Boaz, Ruth's husband (Ruth 4:21), so that she thus became an ancestress of David (1 Chr. 2:11, 12), and hence of Christ Himself (Matt. 1:5, 6, 17). God's sovereign grace is sufficient for the vilest of sinners (cf. Rom. 5:8; Eph. 2:1-10; 1 Tim. 1:15). Archaeological excavations from 1907-1909 revealed both an upper and lower wall system with houses built in between. A portion of the lower wall (Rahab's house?) was still intact.

7 And the men pursued after them the way to Jordan unto the fords: and as soon as they which pursued after them were gone out, they shut the gate.

8 And before they were laid down, she came up unto them upon the roof;

12 Now therefore, I pray you, ^aswear unto me by the LORD, since I have shewed you kindness, that ye will also shew kindness unto ^bmy father's house, and ^cgive me ¹a true token:

2:6. These stalks of flax, which had been soaked in water, would have been laid out in short piles on the roof to dry. The use of flax in ancient Canaan is confirmed by its mention in the famous Gezer Calendar, variously dated between the eleventh and ninth centuries B.C.

2:15. The existence of houses on the thick walls of ancient cities in the Near East has been confirmed by

2:1 Rahab was a harlot of Jericho, at whose house two spies stayed just before Joshua conquered Palestine around 1407 B.C. (vv. 1–21). She believed that the God of Israel was the true God (vv. 10–13), and her faith is commended in the New Testament in Hebrews 11:31 and in James 2:25 (her demonstration of faith by good works). At the fall of Jericho, Joshua spared Rahab and her relatives (6:17, 22, 25). Rahab's son, Boaz, married Ruth and became the father of Obed, the grandfather of Jesse, and the great-grandfather of David. Thus, a Canaanite harlot became part of the lineage of King David, from whom the Messiah descended (Ruth 4:20, 21; Matt. 1:4, 5; Luke 3:32). This demonstrates that God's grace and forgiveness is extended to all, and is not limited by nationality or by the nature of a person's sins. (First and Primary Reference, Josh. 2:1–21.)

2:1 Jericho is one of the oldest inhabited cities of the world. It is situated in the wide plain of the Jordan Valley (Deut. 34:1, 3) at the foot of the ascent to the Judean mountains. Jericho is about eight miles northwest of the site where the Jordan River flows into the Dead Sea. The city is about eight hundred feet below sea level and has a tropical climate that is at times very hot. Even though only a few inches of rainfall are recorded each year, the city is a wonderful oasis. Known as "the city of palm trees" (Deut. 34:3; Judg. 3:13), Jericho has many date palms, banana trees, balsams, sycamores, and henna (Song 1:14; Luke 19:4). Old Testament Jericho first appears in the biblical record when the Israelites encamped at Shittim on the east side of the Jordan River (Num. 22:1; 26:3). Joshua sent spies to examine the city (vv. 1–24). Then he placed a curse on anyone who would attempt to rebuild Jericho after the Israelites took it (6:26; 1 Kin. 16:34). Jericho was awarded to the tribe of Benjamin (16:1, 7). During the days of Elijah and Elisha, Jericho was a community of the prophets (2 Kin. 2:5; Ezra 2:34; Neh. 3:2; Jer. 39:5). New Testament Jericho lay about a mile south of the Old Testament site.

16 And she said unto them, Get you to the mountain, lest the pursuers meet you; and hide yourselves there three days, until the pursuers be returned: and afterward may ye go your way.

17 And the men said unto her, We will be ^a'blameless' of this thine oath which thou hast made us swear.

Preparing to Cross the Jordan

3 And Joshua rose early in the morning; and they removed ^afrom ¹Shittim, and came to Jordan, he and all the children of Israel, and lodged there before they passed over.

2 And it came to pass ^aafter three days, that the officers went through the host;

3 And they commanded the people, saying, ^a'When ye see the ark of the covenant of the LORD your God, ^band the priests the Levites ¹bearing it, then ye shall remove from your place, and go after it.

4 ^a'Yet there shall be a space between you and it, about two thousand cubits by measure: come not near unto it, that ye may know the way by which ye must go: for ye have not passed ^{this} way ¹heretofore.

archaeology. Mountainous cliffs reaching some 1,500 feet above the plain lay west of the city, so Rahab's house was probably perched on Jericho's western wall, from which escape directly to the mountain might be accomplished without observation. Further, Rahab had sent the king's pursuers eastward toward the Jordan River (v. 7), where several known fording places existed.

2:18. Rahab's scarlet thread, bound to the window of her house, made the house easily identifiable by the Israelite troops. The incident is reminiscent of the protection accorded the Israelites in Egypt at the first Passover (Ex. 12:7, 21, 23). The scarlet may also contain an indication of Rahab's sin, covered by the blood (cf. Is. 1:18; 1 Cor. 5:7; Heb. 9:22).

3:1. Early in the morning: The phrase is characteristic of Joshua's habit of life (cf. 6:12; 7:16; 8:10). The similar report concerning our Lord's rising early to pray (Mark 1:35) and the frequent mention of those who spent the early morning in that spiritual exercise (Job 1:5; Ps. 88:13; 119:147) may point to the content of Joshua's early morning activities.

3:3, 4. The ark symbolized the presence of the Holy One of Israel (cf. Num. 7:89). Because God was due His proper reverence, no careless handling of the ark could be permitted (cf. 1 Sam. 6:19; 2 Sam. 6:6, 7). As the priests had carried the ark into the Most Holy Place of the tabernacle (Ex. 40:3; cf. Num. 4:5-15; Deut. 10:8; 1 Sam. 6:15) they would one day carry it into the Holy of Holies in the temple (1 Kin. 8:6).

7 And the LORD said unto Joshua, This day will I begin to ^amagnify¹ thee in the sight of all Israel, that they may know that, ^bas I was with Moses, so I will be with thee.

3:10. The Canaanite nations mentioned here comprise one of several such lists detailing the peoples who made up the early settlers of Canaan (Gen. 10:15-18; 15:19-21; Ex. 3:8, 17; 23:23; 33:2; 34:11; Deut. 7:1; 20:17; Josh. 9:1; 11:3; 12:8; 24:11; Judg. 3:5). Due to their religious and moral perversity, the Canaanites were to be driven out of the land. Not only did these nations deserve judgment, but Israel's own faith must not become compromised by contact with the corruptions of the Canaanites. The extreme dangers involved in any coexistence with the Canaanites are illustrated by the archaeological findings of Tell Ras Shamra, Ugarit, which detail the gross immorality and social wickedness of early Syro-Palestine.

3:16. The damming up of the waters at Adam and Zaretan, some 16 miles above Jericho (which was four miles above the Dead Sea), would leave some 20 miles for the Israelites to cross the Jordan River. Apparently God's presence was felt by all in a gigantic earthquake (cf. Judg. 5:4; Ps. 114:3, 4) which caused the high banks of the Jordan to topple into the river, thus stopping its flow. Similar blockings of the Jordan occurred in A.D. 1267 and as recently as 1927. Nevertheless, an earthquake does not account for all the miraculous details relative to the Israelites' crossing of the Jordan at high tide (v. 15) on dry ground (v. 17).

4:4-11. Some suggest a contradiction here with Joshua 3:17, where the Israelites are reported to have already crossed the Jordan. Actually verses 4 and 5 simply report that twelve men, one from each tribe, were commanded to go back where the priests remained standing in the midst of the dry bed of the Jordan. Once there, they were to take up twelve stones and carry them to the west bank of the Jordan and build a cairn commemorating this event. Verse 9 records that Joshua had another set of stones set up to mark the place where the priests stood in the midst of Jordan. Only after all of this had been done and all the people had passed over did the priests leave their post and finish crossing the river (vv. 10, 11).

4:21. These words (cf. vv. 6, 7) are part of a catechetical exercise designed so that parents might educate their children as to their national and spiritual heritage (cf. Ex. 12:26, 27; Deut. 6:20-23). The proper parental training of children is a God-given privilege and responsibility (cf. Prov. 1:8, 9; 22:6; 28:7; 29:15, 17).

6 For the children of Israel walked “forty years in the wilderness, till all the people that were men of war, which came out of Egypt, were ¹consumed, because they obeyed not the voice of the LORD: unto whom the LORD swore that ^bhe would not shew them the land, which the LORD swore unto their fathers that he would give us, ^ca land that ²floweth with milk and honey.

7 And ^atheir children, whom he raised up in their ¹stead, them Joshua circumcised: for they were uncircumcised, because they had not circumcised them by the way.

8 And it came to pass, when they had done circumcising all the people, that they abode in their places in the camp, “till they were ¹whole.

9 And the LORD said unto Joshua, This day have I rolled away ^athe reproach of Egypt from off you. Wherefore the name of the place is called ^bGilgal¹ unto this day.

Passover Observed at Gilgal

10 And the children of Israel encamped in Gilgal, and kept the passover “on the fourteenth day of the month at even in the plains of Jericho.

11 And they did eat of the ¹old corn of the land on the morrow after the passover, unleavened cakes, and ²parched corn in the selfsame day.

12 And ^athe manna ceased on the morrow after they had eaten of the old corn of the land; neither had the children of Israel manna any more; but they did eat of the fruit of the land of Canaan that year.

5:2. Circumcision was the sign of the Abrahamic covenant (cf. Gen. 12:1–3; 17:10–14). As Moses circumcised his sons before the first Passover (Ex. 4:24–26) and led a circumcised people out of Egypt (v. 5), so Joshua would lead a circumcised army into Canaan. Apparently the rite had been neglected during the years in the wilderness (vv. 6, 7). The incapacity of the army for fighting would demand their total faith and reliance upon God. Moreover, the proper observance of the Passover, held before the campaign for Jericho (v. 10), demanded that it be observed by those who were duly circumcised (Ex. 12:44, 48). With the renewal of circumcision and the Passover, a sanctified people were ready for God to lead them into the holy warfare that lay ahead (cf. Deut. 20:1–4).

5:9. A play on words occurs here. Gilgal (“Rolling Away”) marks the place where God rolled away the reproach of Egypt. Israel’s era of shameful captivity now came officially to an end. The inheritance of Canaan lay ahead (cf. 1:6; 21:43–45). The same verbal root marks the New Testament site of Golgotha, the place where mankind’s captivity by sin was ended. There man’s sins were rolled away and rolled onto the person of Jesus Christ, so believers might enter God’s spiritual inheritance (Col. 1:12–14, 20).

5:12. The manna, which had been given first some 40 years before (Ex. 16:15) and had been designed to sustain a humble and grateful people (Deut. 8:1–3), now ceased.

The Captain of the Host of the Lord

13 And it came to pass, when Joshua was by Jericho, that he lifted up his eyes and looked, and, behold, there stood ^aa man ¹over against him ^bwith his sword drawn in his hand: and Joshua went unto him, and said unto him, Art thou for us, or for our adversaries?

14 And he said, Nay; but as captain of the host of the LORD am I now come. And Joshua ^afell on his face to the earth, and did ^bworship, and said unto him, What saith my Lord unto his servant?

15 And the captain of the LORD's host said unto Joshua, ^aLoose thy shoe from off thy foot; for the place whereon thou standest is holy. And Joshua did so.

The Siege of Jericho

6 Now ^aJericho was ¹straitly shut up because of the children of Israel: none went out, and none came in.

6 And Joshua the son of Nun called the priests, and said unto them, Take up the ark of the covenant, and let seven priests bear seven trumpets of rams' horns before the ark of the LORD.

7 And he said unto the people, Pass on, and compass the city, and let him that is armed pass on before the ark of the LORD.

Israel Follows Joshua's Instructions

8 And it came to pass, when Joshua had spoken unto the people, that the seven priests bearing the seven trumpets of rams' horns passed on before the LORD, and blew with the trumpets: and the ark of the covenant of the LORD followed them.

9 And the armed men went before the priests that blew with the trumpets, ^aand the ¹rereward came after the ark, the priests going on, and blowing with the trumpets.

10 And Joshua had commanded the people, saying, Ye shall not shout, nor make any noise with your voice, neither shall any word proceed out of your mouth, until the day I bid you shout; then shall ye shout.

11 So the ^aark of the LORD compassed the city, going about it once: and they came into the camp, and ¹lodged in the camp.

5:13–15. Joshua's worship of the captain of the host of the LORD and the instructions of verse 15 (cf. Ex. 3:5) show clearly that Joshua stood before the divine presence (cf. Ex. 33:14). Many believe that the divine captain with sword drawn was none other than Jesus Christ in a pre-incarnate appearance. If so, it may anticipate a later appearance of our Lord at the head of the heavenly armies, out of whose mouth "goeth a sharp sword, that with it he should smite the nations: and he shall rule them with a rod of iron" (Rev. 19:15). For the drawn sword, see the note at 1 Chronicles 21:16; compare Genesis 3:24 and Numbers 22:23.

6:2–7. The strange battle strategy must have seemed ridiculous to the inhabitants of Jericho, but Israel was to learn from the outset that the campaign for Canaan would be successful only if fought at God's direction. It was to be a spiritual experience. Victory could come only on the basis of spiritual obedience. Jericho was a strategic Canaanite stronghold. Archaeological excavations reveal that Jericho was the oldest known city in ancient Canaan. Its age and location made it the most prominent city in that region. Its fall would open up the whole center of the land to the invaders.

seven trumpets of rams' horns before the ark of the LORD went on continually, and blew with the trumpets: and the armed men went before them; but the ¹rereward came after the ark of the LORD, the priests going on, and blowing with the trumpets.

14 And the second day they compassed the city once, and returned into the camp: so they did six days.

15 And it came to pass on the seventh day, that they rose early about the dawning of the day, and compassed the city after the same manner seven times: only on that day they compassed the city seven times.

16 And it came to pass at the seventh time, when the priests blew with the trumpets, Joshua said unto the people, Shout; for the LORD hath given you the city.

17 And the city shall be ^aaccursed,¹ even it, and all that are therein, to the LORD: only ^bRahab the harlot shall live, she and all that are with her in the house, because ^cshe hid the messengers that we sent.

Instructions About Plunder

18 And ye, ^ain any wise keep yourselves from the accursed thing, lest ye make yourselves accursed, when ye take of the accursed thing, and make the camp of Israel a curse, ^band trouble it.

19 But all the silver, and gold, and vessels of brass and iron, are ¹consecrated unto the LORD: they ²shall come into the treasury of the LORD.

6:17. Jericho was put under a divine ban. Accursed translates the Hebrew chērem a "consecrated/devoted thing" so that the city and all that are therein were under divine disposition. None was to be left alive except Rahab and those in her house, and nothing was to be taken as a spoil of war (cf. 7:1, 11). Some have questioned the propriety of such a near total extermination of the populace. However, the complete degradation of the Canaanites had received divine condemnation previously (cf. Num. 21:1-3; Deut. 7:1, 2; 12:29-32; 13:15-17; 20:17, 18). Because the time for their judgment had come (cf. Gen. 15:16) and because such wickedness could only spell spiritual disaster for the Israelites (cf. Deut. 7:23-26), nothing short of a total extermination could suffice. As such Jericho serves as a reminder and prelude of God's final annihilation of evil.

20 So the people shouted when the priests blew with the trumpets: and it came to pass, when the people heard the sound of the trumpet, and the people shouted with a great shout, that ^athe wall fell down flat, so that the people went up into the city, every man straight before him, and they took the city.

21 And they ^autterly destroyed all that was in the city, both man and woman, young and old, and ox, and sheep, and ass, with the edge of the sword.

6:21-25. The general details of Jericho's fall have been illustrated by various archaeological excavations. Although the archaeological data relative to Jericho and the date of its conquest have undergone divergent interpretations at the hands of archaeologists and biblical scholars, recent examinations of the evidence have increasingly confirmed the accuracy of a fifteenth century B.C. date for the fall of Jericho, as necessitated by the biblical chronological framework given in 1 Kings 6:1. Adequate evidence exists for the destruction of Jericho in Joshua's time.

6:26. The curse was designed to keep Jericho from again becoming a walled stronghold. Although Jericho's environs were subsequently occupied to some extent (cf. 18:21; Judg. 3:13; 2 Sam. 10:5), the full weight of the curse was literally carried out against those who attempted to build it as a fortified city (1 Kin. 16:34).

Joshua Grieves Over Israel’s Loss

6 And Joshua ^arent ¹his clothes, and fell to the earth upon his face before the ark of the LORD until the eventide, he and the elders of Israel, and ^bput dust upon their heads.

7 And Joshua said, Alas, O Lord ¹GOD, “wherefore hast thou at all brought this people over Jordan, to deliver us into the hand of the Amorites, to destroy us? would to God we had been content, and dwelt on the other side Jordan!

7:1. Achan’s trespass (lit., “treacherous-secret act”), while personally condemnable (vv. 20, 21), also compromised the holiness of the entire nation. As a covenant nation, Israel functioned under the twin mandates of corporate solidarity (cf. Deut. 6:18) and individual responsibility (Deut. 24:16). Accordingly, Israel had committed a trespass (cf. v. 11) in Achan’s sin. The incident was serious because such transgressions bring the holy name and reputation of God into disrepute (cf. Deut. 9:26–29).

7:2. The location of Ai has been disputed. The most commonly held theory that Ai was to be identified with Et-Tell ran into the problem that this site was not occupied during the time of the conquest. However, recent archaeological evidence convincingly suggests that Et-Tell is not the site of ancient Ai. Rather, the biblical location is to be identified with Khirbet Nisya, an identification that not only accords with the biblical data but is in harmony with the location of Ai given by the early historian Eusebius. Ai was also famous as one of the geographical places for the spot where Abram first pitched his tent and built an altar to the Lord (Gen. 12:8; 13:3, 4).

7:1 Achan is referred to as “Achar, the troubler of Israel, who transgressed in the thing accursed” (1 Chr. 2:7). He was stoned to death for violating the “ban” during the conquest of Jericho (v. 1). Achan stole 200 shekels of silver, a Babylonian garment, and a wedge of gold weighing 50 shekels and hid them in the earthen floor of his tent (v. 21). The sin of Achan was imputed to the whole nation (vv. 11, 12), and thus they were soundly defeated in the battle of Ai (vv. 4, 5). Israel learned the hard way that what one person does could affect the well-being of the whole nation. He was buried in the valley of Achor (“trouble,” v. 26). Achor is used in a figurative sense in Isaiah 65:10 and Hosea 2:15 to describe the messianic age or the time of restoration that would result for the nation of Israel only after they passed through trouble. (First Reference, Josh. 7:1; Primary Reference, Josh. 7:1–26.)

7:2 Ai was a Canaanite city of Palestine (Gen. 12:8; Josh. 10:1), east of Beth-el (Gen. 12:8), beside Beth-aven, and north of Michmash (Is. 10:28). Abraham pitched his tent here before journeying to Egypt (Gen. 12:8). Ai figured prominently in Israel’s conquest of Palestine (chs. 7, 8). After the Israelites conquered Jericho, they were soundly defeated at Ai due to Achan’s sin. Then Joshua sent 30,000 soldiers against Ai and captured the city by a clever military tactic. Although Ai was previously identified with Et-Tell, a mound situated southeast of Beth-el, recent archaeological discoveries at Khirbet Nisya, 10 miles north of Jerusalem, suggest strongly that it is the proper location. Ai is also called Aiath (Is. 10:28), Aija (Neh. 11:31), and Hai (Gen. 12:8; 13:3).

8 O Lord, what shall I say, when Israel turneth their ¹backs before their enemies!

9 For the Canaanites and all the inhabitants of the land shall hear of it, and shall ¹environ us round, and ^acut off our name from the earth: and ^bwhat wilt thou do unto thy great name?

10 And the LORD said unto Joshua, Get thee up; wherefore liest thou thus upon thy face?

11 Israel hath sinned, and they have also transgressed my covenant which I commanded them: ^afor they have even taken of the ¹accursed thing, and have also stolen, and ^bdissembled² also, and they have put it even among their own stuff.

12 ^aTherefore the children of Israel could not stand before their enemies, but turned their backs before their enemies, because ^bthey were ¹accursed: neither will I be with you any more, except ye destroy the accursed from among you.

Sanctify the People

13 Up, ^asanctify¹ the people, and say, ^bSanctify yourselves against to-morrow: for thus saith the LORD God of Israel, There is an accursed thing in the midst of thee, O Israel: thou canst not stand before thine enemies, until ye take away the accursed thing from among you.

14 In the morning therefore ye shall be brought according to your tribes: and it shall be, that the tribe which ^athe LORD taketh shall come according to the families thereof; and the family which the LORD shall take shall come by households; and the household which the LORD shall take shall come man by man.

15 ^aAnd it shall be, that he that is taken with the accursed thing shall be burnt with fire, he and all that he hath: because he hath ^btransgressed¹ the covenant of the LORD, and

Achan's Guilt

16 So Joshua rose up early in the morning, and brought Israel by their tribes; and the tribe of Judah was taken:

17 And he brought the family of Judah; and he took the family of the Zarahites: and he brought the family of the Zarahites man by man; and Zabdi was taken:

18 And he brought his household man by man; and Achan, the son of Carmi, the son of Zabdi, the son of Zerah, of the tribe of Judah, ^awas taken.

19 And Joshua said unto Achan, My son, ^agive, I pray thee, glory to the LORD God of Israel, ^band make confession unto him; and ^ctell me now what thou hast done; hide it not from me.

20 And Achan answered Joshua, and said, Indeed ^aI have sinned against the LORD God of Israel, and thus and thus have I done:

23 And they took them out of the midst of the tent, and brought them unto Joshua, and unto all the children of Israel, and laid them out before the LORD.

capital punishment; saqal (v. 25b) emphasizes that the resultant heap of stones (v. 26) would serve as a grim memorial of the fruits of selfish lust and willful disobedience. Achan means "Trouble." Achan's name is rendered Achar in 1 Chronicles 2:7.

Ai Will Be Conquered

8 And the LORD said unto Joshua, ^aFear not, neither be thou dismayed: take all the people of war with thee, and arise, go up to Ai: see, ^bI have given into thy hand the king of Ai, and his people, and his city, and his land:

The Battle Plan Unfolds

9 Joshua therefore sent them forth: and they went to lie in ambush, and abode between Beth-el and Ai, on the west side of Ai: but Joshua lodged that night among the people.

10 And Joshua rose up early in the morning, and ¹numbered the people, and went up, he and the elders of Israel, before the people to Ai.

11 ^aAnd all the people, even the people of war that were with him, went up, and drew nigh, and came before the city, and ¹pitched on the north side of Ai: now there was a valley between them and Ai.

12 And he took about five thousand men, and set them to lie in ambush between Beth-el and Ai, on the west side of ¹the city.

13 And when they had set the people, even all the host that was on the north of the city, and ¹their liers in wait on the west of the city, Joshua went that night into the midst of the valley.

8:2. Possibly as a reward for collective obedience, the ban is not applied strictly to Ai as it had been to Jericho, but the more customary war regulations are (cf. Deut. 2:34, 35; 3:6, 7).

8:3-12. The variance in numbers of the men assigned to the ambush as well as the difficulty in determining the precise chronology of the details of the campaign caused some doubt as to the trustworthiness of the scriptural record. Assuming that the figures in verses 3 and 12 refer to the same group, since Ai's casualty figures are a mere "twelve thousand" (v.

25), a force in ambush of thirty thousand men seems disproportionate. The word translated "thousand" may also be understood in the sense of "leaders" or even "contingents." Thus, there could be 30 leaders or contingents that made up the five thousand men in ambush. The logistics of concealing five thousand men also seems difficult. Accordingly, some have suggested that the force was still smaller, being made up of 30 commandos, constituting a first-rate military force divided into five units. No textual change is necessary with either solution.

The Battle Begins

14 And it came to pass, when the king of Ai saw it, that they ¹hasted and rose up early, and the men of the city went out against Israel to battle, he and all his people, at a time appointed, before the plain; but he ^awist² not that there were liers in ambush against him behind the city.

15 And Joshua and all Israel ^amade as if they were beaten before them, and fled by the way of the wilderness.

16 And all the people that were in Ai were called together to pursue after them: and they pursued after Joshua, and were drawn away from the city.

17 And there was not a man left in Ai or Beth-el, that went not out after Israel: and they left the city open, and pursued after Israel.

The Ambush

18 And the LORD said unto Joshua, Stretch out the spear that is in thy hand toward Ai; for I will give it into thine hand. And Joshua stretched out the spear that he had in his hand toward the city.

19 And the ambush arose quickly out of their place, and they ran as soon as he had stretched out his hand: and they entered into the city, and took it, and ¹hasted and set the city on fire.

20 And when the men of Ai looked behind them, they saw, and, behold, the smoke of the city ascended up to heaven, and they had no power to flee this way or that way: and the people that fled to the wilderness turned back upon the pursuers.

21 And when Joshua and all Israel saw that the ambush had taken the city, and that the smoke of the city ascended, then they turned again, and slew the men of Ai.

22 And the other issued out of the city against them; so they were in the midst of Israel, some on this side, and some on that side: and they ¹smote them, so that they ^alet none of them remain or escape.

23 And the king of Ai they took alive, and brought him to Joshua.

All Inhabitants of Ai Killed

24 And it came to pass, when Israel had made an end of slaying all the inhabitants of Ai in the field, in the wilderness wherein they chased them, and when they were all fallen ¹on the edge of the sword, until they were consumed, that all the Israelites returned unto Ai, and ²smote it with the edge of the sword.

25 And so it was, that all that fell that day, both of men and women, were twelve thousand, even all the men of Ai.

26 For Joshua drew not his hand back, wherewith he stretched out the spear, until he had ^autterly destroyed all the inhabitants of Ai.

27 ^aOnly the cattle and the spoil of that city Israel took for a prey unto themselves, according unto the word of the LORD which he ^bcommanded Joshua.

28 And Joshua burnt Ai, and made it ^aan heap for ever, even a desolation unto this day.

29 ^aAnd the king of Ai he hanged on a tree until eventide: ^band as soon as the sun was down, Joshua commanded that they should take his carcase down from the tree, and cast it at the entering of the gate of the city, and ^craise thereon a great heap of stones, that remaineth unto this day.

8:30. The erection of the altar on mount Ebal, as the initial phase of the conquest ends, may be a conscious repetition of Abraham's earlier practices as he entered Canaan (cf. Gen. 12:7, 8). In any case, it was in clear obedience to the Mosaic command (cf. Ex. 20:24, 25; Deut. 27:2-6). The building of the altar, the offering of sacrifices, the inscribing of the law, and the reading of what Moses had ordered all

Kings Join Forces

9 And it came to pass, when ^aall the kings which were on this side Jordan, in the hills, and in the valleys, and in all the coasts of ^bthe great sea over against Lebanon, ^cthe Hittite, and the Amorite, the Canaanite, the Perizzite, the Hivite, and the Jebusite, heard thereof;

2 That they ^agathered themselves together, to fight with Joshua and with Israel, with one ¹accord.

Gibeon's Deceit

3 And when the inhabitants of ^aGibeon ^bheard what Joshua had done unto Jericho and to Ai,

4 They did work ¹wilily, and went point to a ceremony of covenant renewal at this time. Having come into the Land of Promise, the people were entering a new phase of existence that called for worship and obedience to their God and King. In a distinctive way they were to consider themselves on active duty in His service.

9:3, 4. Although Israel was commanded to destroy the Canaanite cities, she could enter into a peace treaty with more distant people (Deut. 7:1, 2; 20:10-17). Hence, Gibeon, which lay close at hand, hoped to preserve its existence by sending ambassadors of peace who feigned their arrival as being after a long journey. The Gibeonites' wily tactics were successful because the Israelites failed to ask counsel of the Lord (v. 14). Israel's failure to seek divine guidance in the matter led to a formal treaty with the Gibeonites (v. 15). Although they had been tricked, since Joshua and the leaders had sealed the covenant with a solemn oath, the Israelites were obliged to keep its terms (cf. 11:19). The ill-advised alliance was to be a source of constant trouble for Israel (cf. 10:1-15; 2 Sam. 21:1-14).

8:30 Mount Ebal is about 3,109 feet above sea level, forming the north side of the Shechem pass opposite Mount Gerizim in the Samaritan hills (Deut. 11:29). Moses gave instructions to the Israelites concerning a religious ceremony they should observe after they crossed the Jordan River into the Promised Land. The people were to whitewash stones with lime, set them on Mount Ebal, and build an altar to the Lord (Deut. 27:4, 5). Later on, Joshua and the leaders did all of these things as Moses had commanded (vv. 30-35). When Joshua read the blessings of the law, the people on Mount Gerizim responded with an "Amen"; when he read the curses of the law, the people on Mount Ebal responded with an "Amen." Thus, Mount Ebal became known as the Mount of Cursing. The tops of the two mountains are about two miles distant from each other. Jebel Eslamiyeh is the modern name of Mount Ebal.

9:3 Gibeon was a city in the territory of Benjamin about six miles northwest of Jerusalem. The first reference to Gibeon in the Bible is Joshua 9:3. The inhabitants established a covenant with the Israelites through deceit and were made slaves. They were protected by Joshua from the alliance of five Amorite kings. In Israel's battle with the kings the sun stood still (10:1-13). Because Saul broke the treaty with the Gibeonites, seven of his sons were impaled there during a famine in David's reign (2 Sam. 21:1-15). In the time of King David young warriors led by Joab and Abner fought on the edge of a pool at Gibeon (2 Sam. 2:2-17). The prophet Jeremiah also mentions "great waters that are in Gibeon" (Jer. 41:12). Confirmation of the biblical data came when archaeologists discovered a large open pit about 36 feet in diameter and 36 feet deep. Cut along its edge is a stairway that spirals down to the bottom of the shaft to an elaborate water system.

Gibeon's Deceit Discovered

16 And it came to pass at the end of three days after they had made a league with them, that they heard that they were their neighbours, and that they dwelt among them.

People Become Bondservants

23 Now therefore ye are ^acursed, and there shall none of you be freed from being bondmen, and hewers of wood and drawers of water for the house of my God.

9:7. Hivites (probably means Horites as read in the Septuagint) are to be associated with the ancient Hurrians. Note that in Genesis 36:2, 20, Zibeon, the son of the Horite Seir, is called a Hivite.

9:21. Although the Gibeonites' lives are spared, they are reduced to the status of virtual servitude (cf. Deut. 29:11).

24 And they answered Joshua, and said, Because it was certainly told thy servants, how that the LORD thy God ^acommanded his servant Moses to give you all the land, and to destroy all the inhabitants of the land from before you, therefore ^bwe were sore afraid of our lives because of you, and have done this thing.

26 And so did he unto them, and delivered them out of the hand of the children of Israel, that they slew them not.

27 And Joshua made them that day ^ahewers of wood and drawers of water for the congregation, and for the altar of the LORD, even unto this day, ^bin the place which he should choose.

5 Therefore the five kings of the ^aAmorites, the king of Jerusalem, the king of Hebron, the king of Jarmuth, the king of Lachish, the king of Eglon, ^bgathered themselves together, and went up, they and all their hosts, and encamped before Gibeon, and made war against it.

Gibeon Asks for Israel's Protection

6 And the men of Gibeon sent unto Joshua to the camp ^ato Gilgal, saying, ¹Slack not thy hand from thy servants; come up to us quickly, and save us, and help us: for all the kings of the Amorites that dwell in the mountains are gathered together against us.

7 So Joshua ascended from Gilgal, he, and ^aall the people of war with him, and all the mighty men of valour.

8 And the LORD said unto Joshua, ^aFear them not: for I have delivered them into thine hand; ^bthere shall not a man of them ^cstand before thee.

9 Joshua therefore came unto them suddenly, and went up from Gilgal all night.

10:5. The league with Gibeon was to be the compelling cause that opened the southern campaign for Canaan. Repulsing the Amorite thrust into Canaan's center at Gibeon, the follow-up battles would take Israel into Canaan's southland.

10:9. Armed with the Lord's promise of victory, even an all-night march up from Gilgal to Gibeon would not leave Joshua's forces too fatigued for fighting (v. 10). The miraculous arrival of great hailstones that killed a majority of the enemy was evidence of the Lord's intervention (v. 11; cf. Job 38:22, 23).

10:3 Hebron was one of the "central" cities in the southern hill country of Judah some 20 miles south-southwest of Jerusalem on the road to Beer-sheba. It is situated at one of the highest points (c. 3,040 feet above sea level) on the central mountainous ridge and is one of the oldest continually inhabited cities in Palestine. Originally Hebron was called Kirjath-arba (Gen. 23:2). Numbers 13:22 speaks of Hebron being built seven years before Zoan (Tanis) in Egypt. This probably refers to the rebuilding of the city by the Hyksos rulers of Egypt (c. 1710–1570 B.C.). The 12 Hebrew spies viewed Hebron on their mission (Num. 13:22). Earlier, Abram spent much time in Mamre in the area of Hebron (Gen. 13:18; 14:1–13; 18:1–15). Later, Sarah died at Hebron (Gen. 23:2). During the period of the conquest, Joshua killed the king of Hebron (vv. 3–27). Later, Caleb drove out the Anakim and claimed Hebron for an inheritance (14:12–15). Hebron was one of the cities of refuge (20:7). David ruled from Hebron during the first seven years of his reign (2 Sam. 2:11). Absalom made Hebron his headquarters when he rebelled against his father, David (2 Sam. 15:7–12). The city was a key storage city for rations of Uzziah's army (2 Chr. 26:10).

Joshua Commands the Sun to Stand Still

12 Then spake Joshua to the LORD in the day when the LORD delivered up the Amorites before the children of Israel, and he said in the sight of Israel, “Sun, stand thou still upon Gibeon; and thou, Moon, in the valley of ^bAjalon.”

13 And the sun stood still, and the moon stayed, until the people had

10:12-15. Clearly Israel’s “long day,” by which Joshua’s forces were able to defeat the enemy fully, was something miraculous and an answer to prayer. Various scientific and literary explanations have been proposed, such as the slowing or stopping of the earth on its axis, the prolonging of daylight by a special refraction of the sun’s ray, or the prolonging of darkness (e.g., by a solar eclipse or by the hailstorm), so the battle might be fought in the shade. But the best explanation is simply that the event was a miracle, just as the Bible presents it. Joshua’s poetical exclamation and the report of the miraculous victory were preserved in the book of Jasher, apparently an early collection of poetic songs commemorating Israel’s heroic deeds (cf. 2 Sam. 1:18).

avenged themselves upon their enemies. ^aIs not this written in the book of Jasher? So the sun stood still in the midst of heaven, and ¹hasted not to go down about a whole day.

14 And there was ^ano day like that before it or after it, that the LORD ¹hearkened unto the voice of a man: for ^bthe LORD fought for Israel.

15 ^aAnd Joshua returned, and all Israel with him, unto the camp to Gilgal.

16 But these five kings fled, and hid themselves in a cave at Makkedah.

17 And it was told Joshua, saying, The five kings are found hid in a cave at Makkedah.

18 And Joshua said, Roll great stones upon the mouth of the cave, and set men by it for to ¹keep them:

19 And ¹stay ye not, but pursue after your enemies, and ²smite the hindmost of them; ³suffer them not to enter into their cities: for the LORD your God hath delivered them into your hand.

20 And it came to pass, when Joshua and the children of Israel had made an end of slaying them with a very great slaughter, till they ¹were consumed, that the rest which remained of them entered into ²fenced cities.

21 And all the people returned to the camp to Joshua at Makkedah in peace: ^anone ¹moved his tongue against any of the children of Israel.

Joshua's Conquests

28 And that day Joshua took Makkedah, and ¹smote it with the edge of the sword, and the king thereof he utterly ^adestroyed, them, and all the souls that were therein; he let none remain: and he did to the king of Makkedah ^bas he did unto the king of Jericho.

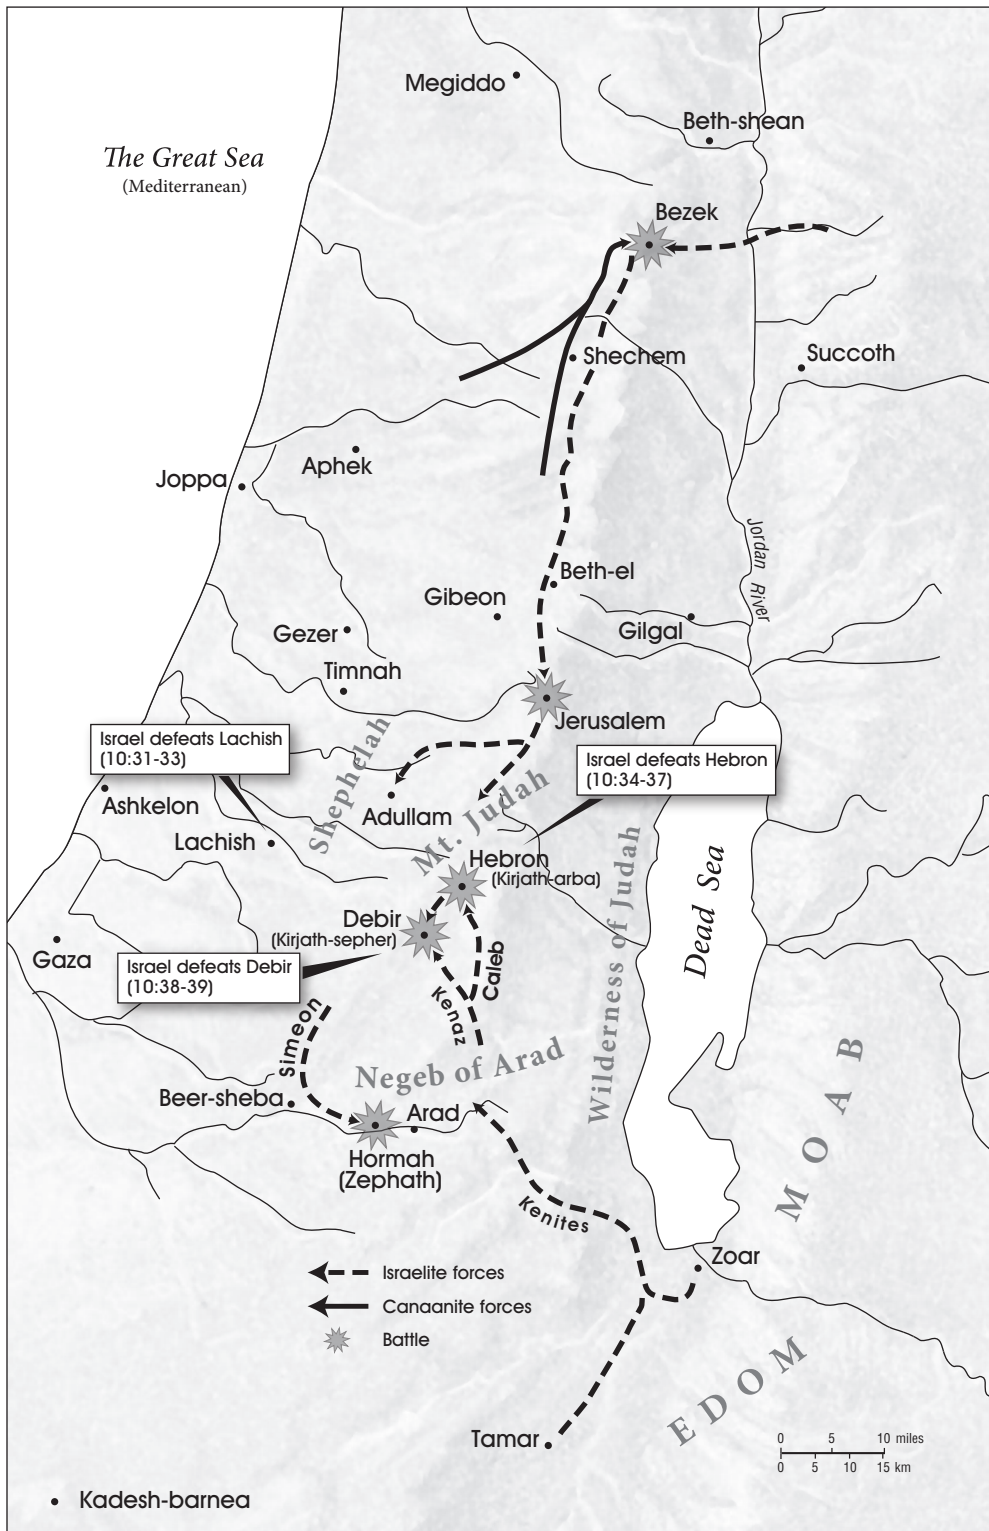

29 Then Joshua passed from Makkedah, and all Israel with him, unto ^aLibnah, and fought against Libnah:

30 And the LORD delivered it also, and the king thereof, into the hand of Israel; and he smote it with the edge of the sword, and all the ¹souls that were therein; he let none remain in it; but did unto the king thereof as he did unto the king of Jericho.

31 And Joshua passed from Libnah, and all Israel with him, unto Lachish, and encamped against it, and fought against it:

10:26, 27. Compare the note at 8:29.
 10:28. After the final defeat of the five Amorite kings at Makkedah, Joshua pushed still further south and west in a great expedition that took him into lower Canaan. He took strategic cities far to the south and west of Jerusalem (vv. 29–42), before returning to the field headquarters in Gilgal (v. 43).

THE INVASION OF JUDAH AND THE SOUTHERN TRIBES

32 And the LORD delivered Lachish into the hand of Israel, which took it on the second day, and smote it with the edge of the sword, and all the souls that were therein, according to all that he had done to Libnah.

33 Then Horem king of Gezer came up to help Lachish; and Joshua smote him and his people, until he had left him none remaining.

34 And from Lachish Joshua passed unto Eglon, and all Israel with him; and they encamped against it, and fought against it:

35 And they took it on that day, and smote it with the edge of the sword, and all the souls that were therein he utterly destroyed that day, according to all that he had done to Lachish.

36 And Joshua went up from Eglon, and all Israel with him, unto ^aHebron; and they fought against it:

37 And they took it, and smote it with the edge of the sword, and the king thereof, and all the cities thereof, and all the souls that were therein; he left none remaining, according to all that he had done to Eglon; but destroyed it utterly, and all the souls that were therein.

38 And Joshua returned, and all Israel with him, to ^aDebir; and fought against it:

10:36 ^aNum. 13:22; Josh. 14:13–15; 15:13; Judg. 1:10, 20; 2 Sam. 5:1, 3, 5, 13; 2 Chr. 11:10
10:38 ^aJosh. 15:15; Judg. 1:11; 1 Chr. 6:58

39 And he took it, and the king thereof, and all the cities thereof; and they smote them with the edge of the sword, and utterly destroyed all the souls that were therein; he left none remaining: as he had done to Hebron, so he did to Debir, and to the king thereof; as he had done also to Libnah, and to her king.

40 So Joshua ¹smote all the ^acountry of the hills, and of the south, and of the vale, and of the springs, and ^ball their kings: he left none remaining, but ^cutterly destroyed all that breathed, as the LORD God of Israel commanded.

41 And Joshua smote them from ^aKadesh–barnea even unto ^bGaza, ^cand all the country of Goshen, even unto Gibeon.

42 And all these kings and their land did Joshua take at one time, ^abecause the LORD God of Israel fought for Israel.

43 And Joshua returned, and all Israel with him, unto the camp to Gilgal.

11:1. Jabin is apparently a hereditary throne name used by successive kings of Hazor (cf. Judg. 4:2).

10:41 Gaza was one of the five principal cities of the Philistines. It was about three miles from the Mediterranean coast, marking the southern border of Canaan. Situated on the great caravan route between Mesopotamia and Egypt, at the junction of the trade route from Arabia, the city was an ideal rest stop and commercial center for merchants and travelers. It was allotted to the tribe of Judah (15:47); but it was not immediately occupied (Judg. 1:18), because the Anakim were still present in the city (11:22; 13:3). Soon afterward the Philistines recovered Gaza (Judg. 13:1). Samson was humiliated in this city (Judg. 16:21), but in his last heroic act he destroyed many Philistines (Judg. 16:23–31). Hezekiah dealt the decisive blow to the Philistines (2 Kin. 18:8). Amos’s prophecy concerning Gaza (Amos 1:6, 7) was fulfilled by Alexander the Great in 332 B.C. In Acts 8:26 the Ethiopian eunuch was converted and baptized on the road from Jerusalem to the ruins of old Gaza. Excavations by Trude Dothan at Deirel-Ballah uncovered numerous anthropoid clay coffins from the Philistine period.

11:1 Hazor was an ancient Canaanite fortress city in northern Palestine located four miles southwest of Lake Huleh and 10 miles northwest of the Sea of Galilee. Hazor was one of the most important fortresses in the land when Joshua and the Israelites invaded Palestine (v. 10). Hazor was enormous. It had a large population and a strategic location on the main road between Egypt and Mesopotamia. Jabin, the king of Hazor, was defeated by Joshua and the city was burned (vv. 1–14). Later, during the judges’ period, God allowed the armies of Hazor to oppress Israel for 20 years (Judg. 4:1–3). Deborah and Barak defeated Sisera, the captain of the armies of Hazor, and his nine hundred chariots (Judg. 4:4–24). The city was allotted to the territory of Naphtali (19:32, 36). During the united monarchy, Hazor assumed a major role as one of Solomon’s chief fortified cities (1 Kin. 9:15) along with Gezer and Megiddo. Around 733 B.C. Tiglath-pileser III of Assyria invaded Galilee and captured Hazor (2 Kin. 15:29) about 10 years before the collapse of the northern kingdom in 722 B.C.

Joshua's Conquest of Lands

15 *a*As the LORD commanded Moses his servant, so^bdid Moses command Joshua, and^cso did Joshua; ¹he left nothing undone of all that the LORD commanded Moses.

16 So Joshua took all that land, *a*the hills, and all the south country, ^band all the land of Goshen, and the valley, and the¹plain, and the mountain of Israel, and the valley of the same;

11:2-5. While the coalition of Canaanite kings is headed by Jabin of Hazor, the call for a climactic showdown against the Israelite invaders went out to the remaining Canaanite people. The assembled Canaanite forces gathered together and camped at Merom, northwest of the Sea of Galilee and southwest of Hazor. The campaign for the north was about to be engaged.

11:9. Joshua's hamstringing (houghing) of the Canaanite horses after the victory and the burning of the vaunted Canaanite chariots would signify Israel's trust in God alone and lack of reliance on pure military strength. The burning of Hazor was an exception to the Israelite military strategy.

11:13. Archaeological excavations at Hazor have yielded destruction layers at three levels: around 1400 B.C., around 1300 B.C., and around 1230 B.C. Because the latter two dates are probably to be associated with the campaigns of Egyptian Pharaohs of the Nineteenth Dynasty, the 1400 B.C. date must reflect Joshua's campaign, a date that further supports the biblical chronology favoring an early Exodus.

11:15. Joshua's faithfulness to the Lord's will and Moses' directions is constantly underscored (cf. vv. 12, 20, 23). Joshua's own farewell testimony emphasizes the faithfulness and goodness of God (cf. 23:15).

11:23. The chief resistance of the entire land was now broken. Further conflict with the Canaanites would yet continue for some time (cf. Ex. 23:29, 30; Deut. 7:22; Judg. 2:20–23). The land resting periodically from war will form a major theme in the Book of Judges.

12:1. The list of conquered kings in chapter 12 forms a logical expansion of the closing verses of chapter 11.

11:22 Gath (Tell es-Safi) was one of the five chief cities of the Philistines (Judg. 3:3) located on the coastal plain in southern Palestine (13:3). Like Ashdod, it was one of the remaining homes of the Anakim (giants; cf. v. 22; 2 Sam. 21:22). Its precise location remains uncertain. The city is mentioned twice in stories about the ark of the covenant (1 Sam. 4—6; 2 Sam. 6). The Philistine inhabitants of Ashdod sent the ark to Gath (1 Sam. 5:8; 6:17; 7:14). Gath was also the home of Goliath the Philistine (1 Sam. 17:4, 23). David befriended Achish, the king of Gath, during the days when he fled from King Saul (1 Sam. 27:2–12). David captured Gath (1 Chr. 18:1; 2 Chr. 26:6) during his reign. The residents of Gath, known as Gittites, were still subject to Israel during Solomon's reign, although they had their own king (1 Kin. 2:39, 42). Solomon's son, Rehoboam, fortified Gath (2 Chr. 11:8), but the city returned to the hands of the Philistines. Later, Hazael recaptured Gath (2 Kin. 12:17), and Uzziah broke down its walls (2 Chr. 26:6). In 2006, the oldest Philistine inscription yet discovered was found at Gath by Aren Maier which includes the name "Goliath."

11:22 Ashdod was one of the five principal Philistine cities (1 Sam. 6:17), situated three miles from the Mediterranean coast and 18 miles northeast of Gaza. The city's military and economic significance was enhanced by its location on the main highway between Egypt and Syria. Some of the Anakim were found there in the days of Joshua (v. 22), and the inhabitants were too strong for the Israelites at that time. It was among the towns assigned to Judah, but was not occupied by them (13:3; 15:46ff.). Ashdod was still independent in the days of Samuel, when, after the defeat of the Israelites, the ark was taken to the house of Dagon in Ashdod (1 Sam. 5:1ff.). There is no report that it was occupied by David, although he defeated the Philistines many times. Likewise, no definite knowledge exists that it was ever subdued by Judah before the time of Uzziah (2 Chr. 26:6). The prophet Amos predicted the destruction of the city because of its inhumane treatment of the Israelites (Amos 1:8; 3:9). Zephaniah (Zeph. 2:4) refers to the desolation of Ashdod, and Zechariah (Zech. 9:6) to its degraded condition. It continued to be inhabited, however, for Jews intermarried with women of Ashdod after the return from Babylon (Neh. 13:23ff.).

Lands Still to Be Conquered

12:24. The mention of numerous kinglets in Canaan at this time is confirmed by the Amarna Tablets, in which many of the same names occur.

13:1. Chapters 13–19 deal with the careful allotment of land to the tribes of Israel. The division was to be carried out on spiritual grounds (cf. v. 6; 14:2; 18:6), as well as on the basis of the needs of the tribes. The whole process was presided over by Joshua, Eleazer the priest, and by the heads of the tribes (14:1). It was carried out carefully by a committee of men specially selected to study the land and determine its boundaries (18:4–9).

13:2–6. This is a detailed list of allotted land yet to be conquered by the Israelites. The names proceed from south to north, covering the area between the shores of the Mediterranean Sea and the coastal mountains.

13:2, 3. The mention of the Philistines and the five lords of their principal cities has been considered anachronistic by some due to the omission of the Philistines from the inheritance list of 12:8, and the state-

13:3 Ekron (Tel Miqne) was one of the five cities ruled by a Philistine “tyrant” (v. 3; 1 Sam 6:17). The city was near the Mediterranean Sea about 22 miles west of Jerusalem. Its territorial boundary marked the northern extension of the coastal area not taken in the Israelites’ initial invasion of the land (v. 3; Judg. 1:18, 19). In the tribal allotments Ekron was assigned to the Danites (19:43), leaving their coastal territory to be absorbed by Judah (15:45, 46). Thus, the border of Judah passed along the ridge to the north of Ekron (15:11). After David killed Goliath, the Israelites pursued the Philistines to the very gates of the fortified stronghold of Ekron (1 Sam. 17:52). Still later, according to the Assyrian Annals, Hezekiah held as prisoner Padi, the king of Ekron, against whom he and the city’s nobility had rebelled. Elijah was called to challenge the authority of Ekron’s god, Baal-zebub, to indicate Israelite King Amaziah’s fate (2 Kin. 1:2–16). Amos (Amos 1:8), Jeremiah (Jer. 25:20), Zephaniah (Zeph. 2:4), and Zechariah (Zech. 9:5–7) denounced Ekron as a symbol of evil power to be destroyed. In 1996 a dedicatory inscription was found in a Philistine temple at Ekron, referring to Achish as the ruler of Ekron. His name derives from Akhayus, similar to Achaean, pointing to the Greek origin of the Philistines.

25 ^aAnd their coast was Jazer, and ment in 11:21, 22 that the Anakim were still the chief force in southwestern Canaan. However, the presence of small numbers of Philistines in the area was noted as early as the patriarchal period (Gen. 21:32; cf. Ex. 13:17), so that some Philistine presence was already known by Joshua's day. The precision regarding the discussion concerning the Philistines here may be an editorial updating, detailing the conditions of the territory that would be dominated by the Philistines after Joshua's time. Indeed, the Philistines would become a source of increasing irritation to Israel during the era of the Judges (cf. Judg. 3:3, 4, 31). By the time of Samson (a century-and-a-half later), they became a distinct threat (Judg. 13-16).

Land to Be Divided by Lot

14 And these are the countries which the children of Israel inherited in the land of Canaan, ^awhich Eleazar the priest, and Joshua the son of Nun, and the heads of the fathers of the tribes of the children of Israel, distributed for inheritance to them.

2 ^aBy lot was their inheritance, as the LORD commanded by the hand of Moses, for the nine tribes, and for the half tribe.

3 ^aFor Moses had given the inheritance of two tribes and an half tribe on the other side Jordan: but unto the Levites he gave none inheritance among them.

4 For ^athe children of Joseph were two tribes, Manasseh and Ephraim: therefore they gave no part unto the Levites in the land, save ^bcities to dwell in, with their suburbs for their cattle and for their substance.

5 ^aAs the LORD commanded Moses, so the children of Israel did, and they divided the land.

Caleb's Request

6 Then the children of Judah came unto Joshua in Gilgal: and Caleb the son of Jephunneh the ^aKenezite said unto him, Thou knowest ^bthe thing that the LORD said unto Moses the man of God concerning me and ^cthee in Kadesh-barnea.

7 Forty years old was I when Moses the servant of the LORD ^asent me from Kadesh-barnea to ¹espout the land; and I brought him word again as it was in mine heart.

8 Nevertheless ^amy brethren that went up with me made the ¹heart of the people melt: but I ²wholly ^bfollowed the LORD my God.

14:6 Caleb was chosen by Moses as Judah's representative to evaluate the land of Canaan (Num. 13:6). Among the 12 spies only he and Joshua returned with a favorable report. Accordingly, only Caleb and Joshua were permitted to survive (v. 38), because they "followed the LORD" (Num. 32:12; Deut. 1:36; Josh. 14:9). Still living for God at the age of 85, he asked for and received the city of Hebron as his special inheritance based on the promise of God and Moses (vv. 6–14). He drove out from there the three sons of Anak (the giants of Num. 13:33, who had terrorized the Israelites) and later gave up Hebron to the Levites and lived in the suburbs (15:13–19; 21:12, 13). (First Reference, Num. 13:6; Primary Reference, Num. 13:30–14:24.)

9 And Moses swore on that day, saying, "Surely the land ^bwhereon thy feet have trodden shall be thine inheritance, and thy children's for ever, because thou hast wholly followed the LORD my God.

10 And now, behold, the LORD hath kept me ^aalive, ^bas he said, these forty and five years, even since the LORD spake this word unto Moses, while the children of Israel ¹wandered in the wilderness: and now, lo, I am this day fourscore and five years old.

11 ^aAs yet I am as strong this day as I was in the day that Moses sent me: as my strength was then, even so is my strength now, for war, both ^bto go out, and to come in.

12 Now therefore give me this mountain, whereof the LORD spake in that day; for thou hearest in that day how ^athe Anakims were there, and that the cities were great and fenced: ^bif so be the LORD will be with me, then ^cI shall be able to drive them out, as the LORD said.

13 And Joshua ^ablessed him, ^band gave unto Caleb the son of Jephunneh Hebron for an inheritance.

14 ^aHebron therefore became the inheritance of Caleb the son of Jephunneh the Kenezite unto this day, because that he ^bwholly followed the LORD God of Israel.

15 And ^athe name of Hebron before was Kirjath-arba; which Arba was a great man among the Anakims. ^bAnd the land had rest from war.

southward was the uttermost part of the south coast.

2 And their ^asouth border was from the shore of the salt sea, from the bay that looketh southward:

3 And it went out to the south side ^ato ¹Maaleh-acrabbim, and passed along to Zin, and ascended up on the south side unto Kadesh-barnea, and passed along to Hezron, and went up to Adar, and fetched a compass to Karkaa:

4 From thence it passed ^atoward Azmon, and went out unto the river of Egypt; and the goings out of that coast were at the sea: this shall be your south coast.

5 And the east border was the salt sea, even unto the end of Jordan. And their ^aborder in the north quarter was from the bay of the sea at the uttermost part of Jordan:

6 And the border went up to ^aBeth-hogla, and passed along by the north of Beth-arabah; and the border went up ^bto the stone of Bohan the son of Reuben:

7 And the border went up toward ^aDebir from ^bthe valley of Achor, and so northward, looking toward Gilgal, that is before the going up to Adummim, which is on the south side of the river: and the border passed toward the waters of En-shemesh, and the goings out thereof were at ^cEn-rogel:

8 And the border went up ^aby the valley of the son of Hinnom unto the south side of the ^bJebusite; the same is Jerusalem: and the border went up to the top of the mountain that lieth before the valley of Hinnom westward, which is at the end of the valley ^cof the ¹giants northward:

14:14. In the incident of sending the spies into Canaan, faithful Caleb had been the only one to support Joshua's conviction that God would give the land to Israel (Num. 14:6-10). Accordingly, when he asks for Hebron as the portion of his inheritance, it is readily granted (cf. v. 9 with Num. 14:24). Caleb's confidence is still the same; by God's help the Canaanites will be driven out (cf. vv. 10-12; 15:13, 14; Judg. 1:20). Caleb's spiritual fiber is seen further in that he later relinquished Hebron to the control of the Levites (21:11-13).

15:8. The border between Judah and Benjamin ran just south of Jerusalem; the city itself lay in Benjamite territory (cf. Deut. 33:12; Josh. 18:16). However, the city apparently became a sort of border town between the two, which although attacked by the Benjamites (Judg. 1:21) and burned by the tribe of Judah (Judg. 1:8), had not been thoroughly subdued (v. 63), hence could not be held securely by the tribe of Benjamin (Judg. 1:21). Jerusalem remained a source of difficulty (cf. Judg. 19:10-12; 1 Sam. 17:54) until its conquest by David (2 Sam. 5:6-9).

9 And the border was drawn from the top of the hill unto ^athe fountain of the water of Nephtoah, and went out to the cities of mount Ephron; and the border was drawn ^bto Baalah, which is ^cKirjath-jearim:

10 And the border ¹compassed from Baalah westward unto mount Seir, and passed along unto the side of mount Jearim, which is Chesalon, on the north side, and went down to Beth-shemesh, and passed on to ^aTimnah:

11 And the border went out unto the side of ^aEkron northward: and the border was drawn to Shicron, and passed along to mount Baalah, and went out unto Jabneel; and the ¹goings out of the border were at the sea.

12 And the west border was ^ato the great sea, and the coast ^{thereof}. This is the coast of the children of Judah round about according to their families.

Inheritance of Caleb

13 ^aAnd unto Caleb the son of Jephunneh he gave a part among the children of ^bJudah, according to the commandment of the LORD to Joshua, ^{even} ^cthe ¹city of Arba the father of Anak, which ^{city} is Hebron.

14 And Caleb drove thence ^athe three sons of Anak, ^bSheshai, and Ahiman, and Talmai, the children of Anak.

15 And ^ahe went up thence to the inhabitants of Debir: and the name of Debir before was Kirjath-sepher.

16 ^aAnd Caleb said, He that ¹smiteth Kirjath-sepher, and taketh it, to him will I give Achsah my daughter to wife.

17 And ^aOthniel the ^bson of Kenaz, the brother of Caleb, took it: and he gave him ^cAchsah his daughter to wife.

18 ^aAnd it came to pass, as she came ^{unto} him, that she moved him to ask of her father a field: and ^bshe lighted off ^{her} ass; and Caleb said unto her, What wouldest thou?

Cities of Judah

20 This is the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Judah according to their families.

21 And the uttermost cities of the tribe of the children of Judah toward the coast of Edom southward were Kabzeel, and ^a Eder, and Jagur,

38 And Dilean, and Mizpeh, ^a and Joktheel,

39 ^a Lachish, and Bozkath, and Eglon,

40 And Cabbon, and ¹ Lahmam, and Kithlish,

15:17-19. The city of Debir had been taken in the earlier campaigning (10:38, 39). Accordingly, Othniel's victory must be viewed as a recapturing of the town so as to occupy it permanently. Othniel, Caleb's nephew and son-in-law, would later become Israel's first judge (cf. Judg. 3:9-11 with 1 Chr. 4:13-15).

6 And the border went out toward the sea to ^aMichmethah on the north side; and the border went about eastward unto Taanath-shiloh, and passed by it on the east to Janohah;

7 And it went down from Janohah to Ataroth, and to ¹Naarath, and came to Jericho, and went out at Jordan.

8 The border went out from ^aTappuah westward unto the ^briver

15:32. Actually, several more cities than the total of 29 are listed here. However, the figure may represent a final total, the "overage" being accounted for by towns that formerly belonged to Judah but later fell under Simeon's control (cf. 19:9). However, in time Simeon's importance dwindled and some of the cities are once again reckoned as belonging to Judah (cf. v. 28; 19:3 with 1 Kin. 19:3).

15:35. The district of Adullam will figure promi-nently in the adventures of David (1 Sam. 22:1; 1 Chr. 11:15).

16:5. The inheritance of Joseph's son Ephraim is mentioned before that of his firstborn, Manasseh, because he was the son who had received the chief blessing (cf. Gen. 48:13-20). Ephraim's territory lay south of Manasseh's, whose inheritance lay on both sides of the Jordan (cf. 13:8-33; 17; with Num. 32:33-42; Deut. 3:13-15).

9 And ^athe separate cities for the children of Ephraim were among the inheritance of the children of Manasseh, all the cities with their villages.

10 ^aAnd they drove not out the Canaanites that dwelt in Gezer: but the Canaanites dwell among the Ephraimites unto this day, and ¹serve under tribute.

Inheritance of Manasseh

17 There was also a lot for the tribe of Manasseh; for he was the ^afirstborn of Joseph; to wit, for ^bMachir the firstborn of Manasseh, the father of Gilead: because he was a man of war, therefore he had ^cGilead and Bashan.

2 There was also a lot for ^athe rest of the children of Manasseh by their families; ^bfor the children of Abiezer, and for the children of Helek, ^cand for the children of Asriel, and for the children of Shechem, ^dand for the children of Hephher, and for the children of Shemida: these were the male children of Manasseh the son of Joseph by their families.

3 But ^aZelophehad, the son of Hephher, the son of Gilead, the son of Machir, the son of Manasseh, had no sons, but daughters: and these are the names of his daughters, Mahlah, and Noah, Hoglah, Milcah, and Tirzah.

5 And there fell ten portions to ^aManasseh, beside the land of Gilead and Bashan, which were on the other side Jordan;

17:3. The background for the inheritance of the daughters of Zelophehad is found in Numbers 26:33; 27:1–11.

15:57 Timnah (alternately Timnath, Thimnathah) refers to two different cities in the Old Testament. One city is on the northern border of Judah between Beth-shemesh and Ekron (vv. 10, 11), now generally identified with modern Tell-el-Batashi in the Sorek Valley in the western part of south central Palestine. Once assigned to Dan (19:43), it was Philistine territory at the time Samson married a woman from there (Judg. 14:1–5). It fell again to the Philistines in the time of Ahaz (2 Chr. 28:18) and was captured by Sennacherib in 701 B.C. The second city by this name is located in the southern hill country of Judah (v. 57) where Judah pastured sheep and met Tamar (Gen. 38:12–14). It was in the seventh district of Judah (v. 57).

13 Yet it came to pass, when the children of Israel ¹were waxen strong, that they put the Canaanites to ^atribute;² but did not utterly drive them out.

15 And Joshua answered them, If thou be a great people, then get thee up to the wood country, and cut down for thyself there in the land of the Perizzites and of the giants, if mount Ephraim be too ¹narrow for thee.

16 And the children of Joseph said, The hill is not enough for us: and all the Canaanites that dwell in the land of the valley have ^achariots of iron, both they who are of Bethshean and her towns, and they who are^b of the valley of Jezreel.

17 And Joshua spake unto the house of Joseph, even to Ephraim and to Manasseh, saying, Thou art a great people, and hast great power: thou shalt not have one ¹lot only:

The Tabernacle Rests at Shiloh

18 And the whole congregation of the children of Israel assembled together ^aat Shiloh, and ^bset up the tabernacle of the congregation there. And the land was subdued before them.

2 And there remained among the children of Israel seven tribes, which had not yet received their inheritance.

3 And Joshua said unto the children of Israel, ^aHow long ¹are ye slack to go to possess the land, which the LORD God of your fathers hath given you?

4 Give out from among you three men for each tribe: and I will send them, and they shall rise, and go through the land, and ¹describe it according to the inheritance of them; and they shall come again to me.

5 And they shall divide it into seven parts: ^aJudah shall abide in their ¹coast on the south, and the ^bhouse of Joseph shall abide in their ¹coasts on the north.

6 Ye shall therefore ¹describe the land into seven parts, and bring the description hither to me, ^athat I may cast lots for you here before the LORD our God.

7 ^aBut the Levites have no part among you; for the priesthood of the LORD is their inheritance: ^band Gad, the remaining seven tribes were to be made (18:2–10; 19:51), as well as the assignments for the six cities of refuge and the Levitical towns (20:1—21:3). Shiloh was from here on to be the center of Israelite worship throughout the period of the Judges. The tabernacle was to remain there until its overthrow by the Philistines (1 Sam. 4:1—6:1).

18:1 Shiloh, a town in the territory of Ephraim, served as Israel's religious center during the days before the establishment of the united kingdom. It was located about 10 miles northeast of Beth-el to the east of the Jerusalem-Nablus road (Judg. 21:19). Shiloh was the administrative and religious center for the Israelite tribes during the early settlement period. There the tabernacle was set up (v. 1), the distribution of the land by lots took place (chs. 18, 19), the Levites were assigned their cities (Judg. 21), and the 10 tribes gathered to consider the plight of the tribes on the east side of the Jordan (ch. 22). Hannah prayed for a son at Shiloh (1 Sam. 1:3, 11). The tabernacle, with the ark of the covenant, was still located in Shiloh during Samuel's early years as priest and prophet (1 Sam. 1:9; 4:3, 4). However, during the battle with the Philistines, the ark was captured because God had forsaken Shiloh (Ps. 78:60). When the ark was returned, it was not returned to Shiloh (2 Sam. 6:2–17). Shiloh was in ruins in the days of Jeremiah (Jer. 7:12, 14).

and Reuben, and half the tribe of Manasseh, have received their inheritance beyond Jordan on the east, which Moses the servant of the LORD gave them.

8 And the men arose, and went away: and Joshua charged them that went to ¹describe the land, saying, Go and walk ^athrough the land, and describe it, and come again to me, that I may here cast lots for you before the LORD in Shiloh.

9 And the men went and passed through the land, and ¹described it by cities into seven parts in a book, and came again to Joshua to the host at Shiloh.

10 And Joshua cast ^alots for them in Shiloh before the LORD: and there ^bJoshua divided the land unto the children of Israel according to their ¹divisions.

47 And the ^acoast of the children of Dan went out too little for them: therefore the children of Dan went up to fight against Leshem, and took it, and ¹smote it with the edge of the sword, and ²possessed it, and dwelt therein, and called Leshem, ^bDan, after the name of Dan their father.

48 This is the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Dan according to their families, these cities with their villages.

Inheritance of Joshua

49 When they had ¹made an end of dividing the land for inheritance by their coasts, the children of Israel gave an inheritance to Joshua the son of Nun among them:

50 According to the word of the LORD they gave him the city which he asked, even ^aTimnath—^bserah in mount Ephraim: and he built the city, and dwelt therein.

51 ^aThese are the inheritances, which Eleazar the priest, and Joshua the son of Nun, and the heads of the fathers of the tribes of the children of Israel, divided for an inheritance by lot ^bin Shiloh before the LORD, at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation. So they made an end of dividing the country.

19:49, 50. Last of all, Joshua, Israel's great leader, is assigned a city in Ephraim. Timnath-serah (called also Timnath-heres, Judg. 2:9) lay some 16 miles southwest of Shechem. Thus, the west bank assignments that began with Caleb (14:6–15) are completed and the two heroes of the faith (cf. Num. 14:30) have received a just reward for their labors. Their territorial assignments form "literary bookends" to the intervening "volumes" relative to the allotments west of the Jordan.

The Need for Cities of Refuge

20 The LORD also spake unto Joshua, saying,

2 Speak to the children of Israel, saying, "Appoint¹ out for you cities of refuge, whereof I spake unto you by the hand of Moses:

3 That the slayer that killeth any person ¹unawares and ²unwittingly may flee thither: and they shall be your refuge from the avenger of blood.

4 And when he that doth flee unto one of those cities shall stand at the entering of the gate of the city, and shall ¹declare his cause in the ears of the elders of that city, they shall take him into the city unto them, and give him a place, that he may dwell among them.

5 "And if the avenger of blood pursue after him, then they shall not deliver the slayer up into his hand; because he smote his neighbour ¹unwittingly, and hated him not beforetime.

6 And he shall dwell in that city, "until he stand before the congregation for judgment, and until the death of the high priest that shall be in those days: then shall the slayer return, and come unto his own city, and unto his own house, unto the city from whence he fled.

^aBezer in the wilderness upon the plain out of the tribe of Reuben, and ^bRamoth in Gilead out of the tribe of Gad, and ^cGolan in Bashan out of the tribe of Manasseh.

9 "These were the cities appointed for all the children of Israel, and for the stranger that ¹sojourneth among them, that whosoever killeth any person ²at unawares might flee thither, and not die by the hand of the avenger of blood, ^buntil he stood before the congregation.

Cities for the Tribe of Levi

21 Then came near the heads of the fathers of the "Levites unto ^bEleazar the priest, and unto Joshua the son of Nun, and unto the heads of the fathers of the tribes of the children of Israel;

2 And they spake unto them at "Shiloh in the land of Canaan, saying, ^bThe LORD commanded by the hand of Moses to give us cities to dwell in, with the suburbs thereof for our cattle.

3 And the children of Israel gave unto the Levites out of their inheritance, at the commandment of the LORD, these cities and their suburbs.

4 And the lot came out for the families of the Kohathites: and ^athe children of Aaron the priest, which were of the Levites, ^bhad by lot out of the tribe of Judah, and out of the tribe of Simeon, and out of the tribe of Benjamin, thirteen cities.

5 And ^athe rest of the children of Kohath had by lot out of the families of the tribe of Ephraim, and out of the tribe of Dan, and out of the half tribe of Manasseh, ten cities.

20:2-9. It was the duty of the avenger of blood to punish the murderer of his nearest relative (Deut. 19:12). If the homicide was unintentional, the killer could flee to a city of refuge to await a fair trial. Six such cities, all of them Levitical towns, are so designated (cf. Num. 35:10-15). There were three on each side of the Jordan, conveniently distributed throughout the areas for easy access (cf. Deut. 4:41-43; 19:1-6). After a preliminary inquiry in the city of refuge, the man who had committed the homicide would be granted a trial before the congregation of the city in or closest to where the slaying took place (cf. Num. 35:24, 25; Deut. 19:12). If he was found innocent, the defendant could then reside in the city of refuge until the death of the high priest (v. 6; cf. Ex. 21:13). The manslayer was protected only within the precincts of the city of refuge (Num. 35:26-28). After the death of the high priest, the innocent slayer was free to reside in his own city (v. 6; cf. Num. 35:24, 25). If convicted of his crime, the slayer was to be punished by death (cf. Ex. 20:13; 21:12; Lev. 24:17; Num. 35:31). As formally given here, the law of asylum for unintentional homicide applied equally to the stranger and to the native Israelite (v. 9).

21:2, 3. The designation of special Levitical cities, together with their surrounding suburbs (or pastureland), carries out the previous Mosaic provisions (cf. Num. 35:1-8). Since some 48 of these were established throughout the land, spiritual help would be near and available to all Israelites.

6 And ^athe children of Gershon had by lot out of the families of the tribe of Issachar, and out of the tribe of Asher, and out of the tribe of Naphtali, and out of the half tribe of Manasseh in Bashan, thirteen cities.

7 ^aThe children of Merari by their families had out of the tribe of Reuben, and out of the tribe of Gad, and out of the tribe of Zebulun, twelve cities.

8 ^aAnd the children of Israel gave by lot unto the Levites these cities with their suburbs, ^bas the LORD commanded by the hand of Moses.

Cities Given to Aaron

9 And they gave out of the tribe of the children of Judah, and out of the tribe of the children of Simeon, these cities which are here ¹mentioned by name,

10 Which the children of Aaron, being of the families of the Kohathites, who were of the children of Levi, had: for theirs was the first lot.

11 ^aAnd they gave them ¹the city of Arba the father of ^bAnak, ^cwhich city is Hebron, in the hill country of Judah, with the suburbs thereof round about it.

12 But ^athe fields of the city, and the villages thereof, gave they to Caleb the son of Jephunneh for his possession.

13 Thus ^athey gave to the children of Aaron the priest ^bHebron with her suburbs, to be a city of refuge for the slayer; ^cand Libnah with her suburbs,

14 And ^aJattir with her suburbs, ^band Eshtemoa with her suburbs,

15 And ^aHolon with her suburbs, ^band Debir with her suburbs,

16 And ^aAin with her suburbs, ^band Juttah with her suburbs, and ^cBeth-shemesh with her suburbs; nine cities out of those two tribes.

17 And out of the tribe of Benjamin, ^aGibeon with her suburbs, ^bGeba with her suburbs,

19 All the cities of the children of Aaron, the priests, were thirteen cities with their suburbs.

Cities Given to Kohath

20 ^aAnd the families of the children of Kohath, the Levites which remained of the children of Kohath, even they had the cities of their ¹lot out of the tribe of Ephraim.

21 For they gave them ^aShechem with her suburbs in mount Ephraim, to be a city of refuge for the slayer; and ^bGezer with her suburbs, 22 And Kibzaim with her suburbs, and Beth-horon with her suburbs; four cities.

25 And out of the half tribe of Manasseh, Tanach with her suburbs, and Gath-rimmon with her suburbs; two cities.

26 All the cities were ten with their suburbs for the families of the children of Kohath that remained.

Cities Given to Gershon

27 ^aAnd unto the children of Gershon, of the families of the Levites, out of the other half tribe of Manasseh they gave ^bGolan in Bashan with her suburbs, to be a city of refuge for the slayer; and Beesh-terah with her suburbs; two cities.

28 And out of the tribe of Issachar, Kishon with her suburbs, Dabareh with her suburbs, 29 Jarmuth with her suburbs, Engannim with her suburbs; four cities.

30 And out of the tribe of Asher, Mishal with her suburbs, Abdon with her suburbs, 32 And out of the tribe of Naphtali, ^aKedesh in Galilee with her suburbs, to be a city of refuge for the slayer; and Hammoth-dor with her suburbs, and Kartan with her suburbs; three cities.

Eastern Tribes Return to Their Land

22 Then Joshua called the Reubenites, and the Gadites, and the half tribe of Manasseh,

2 And said unto them, Ye have kept ^aall that Moses the servant of the LORD commanded you, ^band have obeyed my voice in all that I commanded you:

3 Ye have not ¹left your brethren these many days unto this day, but have kept the charge of the commandment of the LORD your God.

4 And now the LORD your God hath given ^arest unto your brethren, as he promised them: therefore now return ye, and get you unto your tents, and unto the land of your possession, ^bwhich Moses the servant of the LORD gave you on the other side Jordan.

5 But ^atake¹ diligent heed to do the commandment and the law, which Moses the servant of the LORD charged you, ^bto love the LORD your God, and to walk in all his ways, and to keep his commandments, and to ²cleave unto him, and to serve him with all your heart and with all your soul.

6 So Joshua ^ablessed them, and sent them away: and they went unto their tents.

7 Now to the one half of the tribe of Manasseh Moses had given possession in Bashan: ^abut unto the other half thereof gave Joshua among their brethren on this side Jordan westward. And when Joshua sent them away also unto their tents, then he blessed them,

8 And he spake unto them, saying, Return with much riches unto your tents, and with very much cattle, with silver, and with gold, and with brass, and with iron, and with very much raiment: ^adivide the ¹spoil of your enemies with your brethren.

21:43-45. God's promise to Abraham (Gen. 15:13, 14, 18-21) had been realized, but only in accordance with the terms that God had stipulated—that the Israelites would by faith take possession of their own inheritance (cf. 14:12-15). These verses do not, as some suggest, exhaust God's pledge to Abraham. The promise of the land is part and parcel of God's unconditional covenant with Abraham (cf. Gen. 13:14-17; 15:18-21; 17:8; 24:7; 26:3; 28:4; 50:24), but realization of the promise in any one era depended on an active appropriation of it by faith (cf. 1:5-9; 13:1-6; 17:12-18; 23:3-13).

9 And the children of Reuben and the children of Gad and the half tribe of Manasseh returned, and departed from the children of Israel out of Shiloh, which is in the land of Canaan, to go unto ^athe country of Gilead, to the land of their possession, whereof they were possessed, according to the word of the LORD by the hand of Moses.

Eastern Tribes Build an Altar by Jordan

10 And when they came unto the borders of Jordan, that are in the land of Canaan, the children of Reuben and the children of Gad and the half tribe of Manasseh built there an altar by Jordan, a great ¹altar to see to.

11 And the children of Israel ^aheard say, Behold, the children of Reuben and the children of Gad and the half tribe of Manasseh have built an altar ¹over against the land of Canaan, in the ²borders of Jordan, at the passage of the children of Israel.

12 And when the children of Israel heard of it, ^athe whole congregation of the children of Israel gathered themselves together at Shiloh, to go up to war against them.

13 And the children of Israel ^asent unto the children of Reuben, and to the children of Gad, and to the half tribe of Manasseh, into the land of Gilead, ^bPhinehas the son of Eleazar the priest, 14 And with him ten princes, of each chief house a prince throughout all the tribes of Israel; and ^aeach one was an head of the house of their fathers among the ¹thousands of Israel.

The Eastern Tribes' Answer

21 Then the children of Reuben and the children of Gad and the half tribe of Manasseh answered, and said unto the heads of the ¹thousands of Israel,

22 The LORD ^aGod of gods, the LORD God of gods, he ^bknoweth, and Israel he shall know; if it be in rebellion, or if in transgression against the LORD, (save us not this day,)

22:10-14. The erection of a second, unauthorized altar, however innocently intended, would violate the principles laid down in the Mosaic legislation (cf. Lev. 17:8, 9; Deut. 12:1-14; 13:12-15). The situation carried with it an apparent danger of political disunity and apostasy (vv. 16-20). Only by the assurance of the two-and-one-half tribes east of the Jordan that their altar was not intended to be used as a sacrificial altar, but only as a witness to their right to the Lord's established altar (cf. Ex. 23:17; Deut. 16:16, 17) west of the Jordan, was the threat of civil war dispelled.

24 And if we have not rather done it ¹for fear of this thing, saying, In time to come your children might speak unto our children, saying, What have ye to do with the LORD God of Israel?

25 For the LORD hath made Jordan a border between us and you, ye children of Reuben and children of Gad; ye have no part in the LORD: so shall your children make our children ¹cease from fearing the LORD.

26 Therefore we said, Let us now prepare to build us an altar, not for burnt offering, nor for sacrifice:

27 But that it may be ^aa ¹witness between us, and you, and our generations after us, that we might ^bdo the service of the LORD before him with our burnt offerings, and with our sacrifices, and with our peace offerings; that your children may not say to our children in time to come, Ye have no part in the LORD.

28 Therefore said we, that it shall be, when they should so say to us or to our generations in time to come, that we may say again, Behold the pattern of the altar of the LORD, which our fathers made, not for burnt offerings, nor for sacrifices; but it is a witness between us and you.

29 God forbid that we should rebel against the LORD, and turn this day from following the LORD, ^ato build an altar for burnt offerings, for meat offerings, or for sacrifices, ¹beside the altar of the LORD our God that is before his tabernacle.

32 And Phinehas the son of Eleazar the priest, and the princes, returned from the children of Reuben, and from the children of Gad, out of the land of Gilead, unto the land of Canaan, to the children of Israel, and brought them word again.

33 And the thing pleased the children of Israel; and the children of Israel ^ablessed God, and did not intend to go up against them in battle, to destroy the land wherein the children of Reuben and Gad dwelt.

faithfully (vv. 8-10); and (3) to love God supremely (vv. 11-13). In 24:14, 15 all of these will be included under the basic Old Testament charge to fear the Lord and serve Him willingly.

16 When ye have transgressed the covenant of the LORD your God, which he commanded you, and have gone and served other gods, and bowed yourselves to them; then shall the ^aanger of the LORD be kindled against you, and ye shall perish quickly from off the good land which he hath given unto you.

The People Summoned to Shechem

24 And Joshua gathered all the tribes of Israel to ^aShechem, and ^bcalled for the elders of Israel, and for their heads, and for their judges, and for their officers; and they ^cpresented themselves before God.

2 And Joshua said unto all the people, Thus saith the LORD God of Israel, ^aYour fathers dwelt on the other side of ¹the flood in old time, even Terah, the father of Abraham, and the father of Nachor: and ^bthey served other gods.

3 And ^aI took your father Abraham from the other side of the 24:1. Joshua's public farewell takes place at Shechem. Probably the choice of Shechem was motivated by its important covenantal associations with Abraham (Gen. 12:1–7), rich spiritual heritage (cf. Gen. 33:18–20; 37:12–14; Deut. 27:11—28:68 with Josh. 8:30–35), and social prominence (20:7). Joshua's call for the heads of Israel is essentially a challenge for Israel to renew its basic covenant with God (cf. v. 25).

24:2–27. The essential trustworthiness of the scriptural account has been reinforced in recent years by the suggestion that as to its literary form the chapter bears the marks of a second millennium B.C. treaty between a lord and his vassal: (1) preamble (v. 2); (2) historical prologue (vv. 2, 3); (3) covenant stipulations (vv. 14, 15); (4) covenant ratification (vv. 16–25); (5) covenant deposition (v. 26); (6) covenantal witnesses (v. 27); and (7) covenant sanctions (implicit in vv. 19, 20).

¹flood, and led him throughout all the land of Canaan, and multiplied his ²seed, and ^bgave him Isaac.

4 And I gave unto Isaac ^aJacob and Esau: and I gave unto ^bEsau mount Seir, to possess it; ^cbut Jacob and his children went down into Egypt.

5 ^aI sent Moses also and Aaron, and ^bI plagued Egypt, according to that which I did among them: and afterward I brought you out.

6 And I ^abrought your fathers out of Egypt: and ye came unto the sea; and the Egyptians pursued after your fathers with chariots and horsemen unto the Red sea.

7 And when they cried unto the LORD, he put ^adarkness between you and the Egyptians, and brought the sea upon them, and covered them; and ^byour eyes have seen what I have done in Egypt: and ye dwelt in the wilderness ^a1 long season.

Enemies Driven from the Land

8 And I brought you into the land of the Amorites, which dwelt on the other side Jordan; ^aand they fought with you: and I gave them into your hand, that ye might possess their land; and I destroyed them from before you.

9 Then ^aBalak the son of Zippor, king of Moab, arose and warred against Israel, and ^bsent and called Balaam the son of Beor to curse you:

10 ^aBut I would not hearken unto Balaam; ^btherefore he blessed you still: so I delivered you out of his hand.

11 And ^aye went over Jordan, and came unto Jericho: and ^bthe men of Jericho fought against you, the Amorites, and the Perizzites, and the Canaanites, and the Hittites, and the Girgashites, the Hivites, and the Jebusites; and I delivered them into your hand.

you, which drove them out from before you, even the two kings of the Amorites; but ^bnot with thy sword, nor with thy bow.

13 And I have given you a land for which ye did not labour, and ^acities which ye built not, and ye dwell in them; of the vineyards and oliveyards which ye planted not do ye eat.

Fear the Lord

14 ^aNow therefore fear the LORD, and serve him in ^bsincerity and in truth: and ^cput away the gods which your fathers served on the other side of the ¹flood, and ^din Egypt; and serve ye the LORD.

15 And if it seem evil unto you to serve the LORD, ^achoose you this day whom ye will serve; whether ^bthe gods which your fathers served that were on the other side of the ¹flood, or ^cthe gods of the Amorites, in whose land ye dwell: ^dbut as for me and my house, we will serve the LORD.

16 And the people answered and said, God forbid that we should forsake the LORD, to serve other gods;

17 For the LORD our God, he it is that brought us up and our fathers out of the land of Egypt, from the house of bondage, and which did those great signs in our sight, and preserved us in all the way wherein we went, and among all the people through whom we passed:

18 And the LORD drove out from before us all the people, even the Amorites which dwelt in the land: ^atherefore will we also serve the LORD; for he is our God.

19 And Joshua said unto the people, ^aYe cannot serve the LORD: for he is an ^bholy God; he is ^ca jealous God; ^dhe will not forgive your transgressions nor your sins.

20 ^aIf ye forsake the LORD, and serve strange gods, ^bthen he will turn and do you ¹hurt, and consume you, after that he hath done you good.

24:12. Although some take it literally, hornet is probably a figurative term referring to the terrifying panic that gripped the hearts of the Canaanites who awaited with fear the arrival of the invading Israelites (cf. Ex. 23:27, 28; Deut. 2:25; 7:20-23; Josh. 2:9, 11; 5:1).

24:15. Joshua's closing testimony demonstrates that he is yet faithful to his divine call and charge (1:6-9).

24:19. Joshua's reminder is that no man or people serves God solely in his own strength, for God demands the believer's total commitment to Him.

21 And the people said unto Joshua, Nay; but we will serve the LORD.

22 And Joshua said unto the people, Ye are witnesses against yourselves that ^aye have chosen you the LORD, to serve him. And they said, We are witnesses.

23 Now therefore ^aput away, said he, the strange gods which are among you, and ^bincline your heart unto the LORD God of Israel.

A Covenant at Shechem

24 And the people ^asaid unto Joshua, The LORD our God will we serve, and his voice will we obey.

25 So Joshua ^amade¹ a covenant with the people that day, and ²set them a statute and an ordinance ^bin Shechem.

26 And Joshua ^awrote these words in the book of the law of God, and took ^ba great stone, and ^cset it up there ^dunder an oak, that was by the sanctuary of the LORD.

27 And Joshua said unto all the people, Behold, this stone shall be ^aa witness unto us; for ^bit hath heard all the words of the LORD which he spake unto us: it shall be therefore a witness unto you, lest ye deny your God.

erection of a stone (Gen. 28:18; 1 Sam. 7:12) or heap of stones (4:5-9).

The Book of JUDGES

The Book of Judges takes its name from the gifted leaders (Heb. shō-petīm) who guided the fortunes of Israel from the death of Joshua to the days of Samuel, Israel's last judge. These leaders were men especially raised up by God not only for their military prowess, but for their administrative abilities and spiritual discernment.

Historical Setting. The Book of Judges covers a period of about three hundred years, stretching from the death of Joshua in 1367 B.C. until the time of Samuel (c. 1064–1044 B.C.). The events of the period of the judges took place in a time when Syro-Palestine formed a ground of contest between the expansionist empires of the Hittites to the north and the Egyptians to the south. Much of Israel's history in the period is linked to the person of the Egyptian Pharaoh, particularly the strong Pharaohs of the Nineteenth and Twentieth Dynasties. When a strong Egyptian Pharaoh was on the throne of Egypt, he would bring stability to the coastal plains and key areas of Canaan; hence, Israel would enjoy a period of "rest." At other times, because of Israel's repeated apostasy, God would bring oppressors to them who would afflict the people greatly. Significantly, no "rest periods" occurred after the middle of the twelfth century B.C., a condition that reflected not only the unsettled nature of the times and the widespread upheaval of the entire eastern Mediterranean world, but also the growing spiritual and moral degeneracy of the Israelite people.

Authorship. The author of Judges is unknown. The author has been identified traditionally with Samuel or one of his disciples. The essential integrity of the book as a trustworthy account of conditions before the rise of the Hebrew monarchy can be seen in the following data. (1) The Jebusites are mentioned as still occupying Jerusalem (1:21). (2) Gezer was not yet conquered (1:29), a feat that was not accomplished until the days of Solomon (cf. 1 Kin. 9:16). (3) Several portions of the book are linked closely with Joshua's day (e.g., 2:6–10; cf. 1:9–13 with Josh. 15:13–17; cf. 18:27–29 with Josh. 19:47). (4) The Phoenician city of Sidon, not the later Tyre, is still the chief port city of Phoenicia (3:3). Accordingly, the book must have been composed largely before the time of Israel's monarchy under David and Solomon. Certain literary phrases point to the fact that the work was originally that of one author (e.g., "And the children of Israel did evil again in the sight of the LORD," "And the land had rest," "The Spirit of the LORD came upon him," and "Every man did that which was right in his own eyes"). However, the remarks in 18:1 and 19:1 indicate that although the material covered in these passages is early, some editorial revision took place in the early period of the United Monarchy.

The Book of Judges is an action-packed account of the failure of the children of Israel to maintain the high spiritual standards laid down by Moses and Joshua. They not only failed to conquer the land of Canaan as God had challenged them to do (cf. 2:1–3, 20–23) but they also fell into the idolatry and sinful practices of the Canaanites (cf. 3:7). Their growing disobedience and spiritual apostasy brought on a progressive moral degeneration, seen repeatedly in the various accounts of their oppression and in the historical appendixes that make up the closing portion of the book (chs. 17–21). God would teach His people through this period that “rest” was fully available and provided for by Himself, but must be entered into by an obedient people.

Judah’s Conquest of Canaan

1 Now after the ^adeath of Joshua it came to pass, that the children of Israel ^basked the LORD, saying, Who shall go up for us against the ^cCanaanites first, to fight against them?

2 And the LORD said, “Judah shall go up: behold, I have delivered the land into his hand.

3 And Judah said unto ^aSimeon his brother, Come up with me into my ¹lot, that we may fight against the Canaanites; and ^bI likewise will go with thee into thy lot. So Simeon went with him.

4 And Judah went up; and the LORD delivered the Canaanites and the Perizzites into their hand: and they slew of them in ^aBezek ten thousand men.

5 And they found Adoni-bezek in Bezek: and they fought against him, and they slew the Canaanites and the Perizzites.

6 But Adoni-bezek fled; and they pursued after him, and caught him, and cut off his thumbs and his great toes.

7 And Adoni-bezek said, Three-score and ten kings, having their thumbs and their great toes cut off, gathered their meat under my table: ^aas I have done, so God hath requited me. And they brought him to Jerusalem, and there he died.

Jerusalem Captured

8 Now ^athe children of Judah had fought against Jerusalem, and had taken it, and smitten it with the edge of the sword, and set the city on fire.

1:3. From the first days in the land, the relationship of the tribes of Simeon and Judah were very close. See the note on Joshua 19:9.

1:4. The Perizzites are part of a list of six groups of early inhabitants of Canaan (cf. Ex. 3:8, 17; 23:23; 33:2; Deut. 20:17; Josh. 9:1; 11:3; 12:8). They are mentioned with the Canaanites as early as Genesis 13:7 (cf. 3:5).

1:6, 7. Adoni-bezek’s actions humiliated his captives and incapacitated them for fighting. To Adoni-bezek justice is meted out in accordance with the principle of lex talionis, or proportionate retribution (cf. Ex. 21:24–26; Lev. 24:17–20; Deut. 19:19–21). While the New Testament recognizes that the punishment of the guilty should be proportionate to the crime (cf. Matt. 25:46; Luke 12:45–48), nevertheless, the believer’s attitude must rise above the strict application of the law, renouncing especially any thought of selfish advantage (Matt. 5:38–42; 1 Pet. 2:13–16, 20).

1:8. See the note on Joshua 15:8.

Further Conquests Over Canaan

17 ^aAnd Judah went with Simeon his brother, and they slew the Canaanites that inhabited Zephath, and utterly destroyed it. And the name of the city was called ^bHormah.

18 Also Judah took ^aGaza with ¹the coast thereof, and Askelon with the coast thereof, and Ekron with the coast thereof.

19 And the LORD was with Judah; and he drave out the inhabitants of the mountain; but could not drive out the inhabitants of the valley, because they had ^achariots of iron.

20 ^aAnd they gave Hebron unto Caleb, as Moses said: and he ¹expelled thence the ^bthree sons of Anak.

21 ^aAnd the children of Benjamin did not drive out the Jebusites that inhabited Jerusalem; but the Jebusites dwell with the children of Benjamin in Jerusalem unto this day.

22 And the ¹house of Joseph, they also went up against Beth-el: ^aand the LORD was with them.

1:12, 13. See the note on Joshua 15:17-19.

1:16. The term children of the Kenite, Moses' father-in-law, is strange. Some ancient versions suggest the addition of the name Jethro or Hobab. The Kenites were noted for their ferocity and yet (usually) for their kindly treatment of the Israelites (cf. 4:11, 17-24; 5:24-27 with Ex. 2:16-22; 3:1; Num. 10:29-32). The city of palm trees (Deut. 34:3; 2 Chr. 28:15) is usually identified as Jericho. See further the note on 6:1.

1:18. See the note on Joshua 13:2, 3.

1:19. The Canaanite's advantage in chariots of iron proved to be a strong deterrent to the Israelites' desire to occupy all of Canaan, particularly the broad valley areas (cf. Josh. 17:16; Judg. 4:3). A similar advantage in chariots was later held by the Philistines (1 Sam. 13:5), who enjoyed a monopoly in the use of iron (1 Sam. 13:19-22). The miraculous nature of the Israelite conquest and subsequent victories in Canaan is thus further emphasized.

1:20. See the note on Joshua 14:14.

1:21, 27-36. The incompleteness of the conquest is repeatedly emphasized. While some natural conditions may have made the conquest difficult (cf. v. 19; Josh. 17:16), the scriptural record attributes the basic cause to spiritual failure (cf. 2:1-5, 11-23; 3:1-7). See the note on Joshua 21:43-45.

1:13 Othniel is remembered for two significant events, both military. Caleb had promised his daughter Achsah as a wife to whoever would smite Debir (Josh. 15:16; Judg. 1:12). Othniel rose to the challenge and captured the city. At the urging of Achsah, Caleb gave her and Othniel the "upper and lower springs" as land for their use (Josh. 15:19; Judg. 1:15). They were both willing to trust God and hold their possessions in the land of Canaan even though many other tribes did not trust God (v. 21, 27, 29-31, 33). Secondly, Othniel became the first judge and deliverer of Israel following Joshua's death (3:7-11). The "spirit of the LORD" (3:10) came upon him, equipping him for his task, as it would for his successors, Gideon (6:34), Jephthah (11:29), and Samson (14:6). He defeated the king of Mesopotamia, and a period of "rest" ensued for 40 years (3:11), a characteristic refrain in the Book of Judges. He probably was Caleb's nephew (v. 13; 3:9) and perhaps his family later provided an officer under David (1 Chr. 27:15). (First Reference, Josh. 15:17; Primary Reference, Judg. 1:13; 3:7-11.)

23 And the ¹house of Joseph ^asent to ²descry Beth-el. (Now the name of the city before was ^bLuz.)

24 And the spies saw a man come forth out of the city, and they said unto him, Shew us, we pray thee, the entrance into the city, and ^awe will shew thee mercy.

25 And when he shewed them the entrance into the city, they ¹smote the city with the edge of the sword; but they let go the man and all his family.

26 And the man went into the land of the Hittites, and built a city, and called the name thereof Luz: which is the name thereof unto this day.

27 ^aNeither did Manasseh drive out the inhabitants of Beth-shean and her towns, nor ^bTaanach and her towns, nor the inhabitants of ^cDor and her towns, nor the inhabitants of Ibleam and her towns, nor the inhabitants of Megiddo and her towns: but the Canaanites ¹would dwell in that land.

Canaanites Pay Tribute

28 And it came to pass, when Israel was strong, that they put the Canaanites to ¹tribute, and did not utterly drive them out.

29 ^aNeither did Ephraim drive out the Canaanites that dwelt in Gezer; but the Canaanites dwelt in Gezer among them.

32 But the Asherites ^adwelt among the Canaanites, the inhabitants of the land: for they did not drive them out.

Israel Rebuked by an Angel

2 And an angel of the LORD came up from Gilgal to Bochim, and said, ^aI made you to go up out of Egypt, and ^bhave brought you unto the land which I swear unto your fathers; and ^cI said, I will never break my covenant with you.

2 And ^aye shall make no ¹league with the inhabitants of this land; ^bye shall throw down their altars: ^cbut ye have not obeyed my voice: why have ye done this?

3 Wherefore I also said, I will not drive them out from before you; but they shall be ^aas thorns in your sides, and ^btheir gods shall ¹be a ^csnare unto you.

4 And it came to pass, when the angel of the LORD spake these words unto all the children of Israel, that the people lifted up their voice, and wept.

5 And they called the name of that place ¹Bochim: and they sacrificed there unto the LORD.

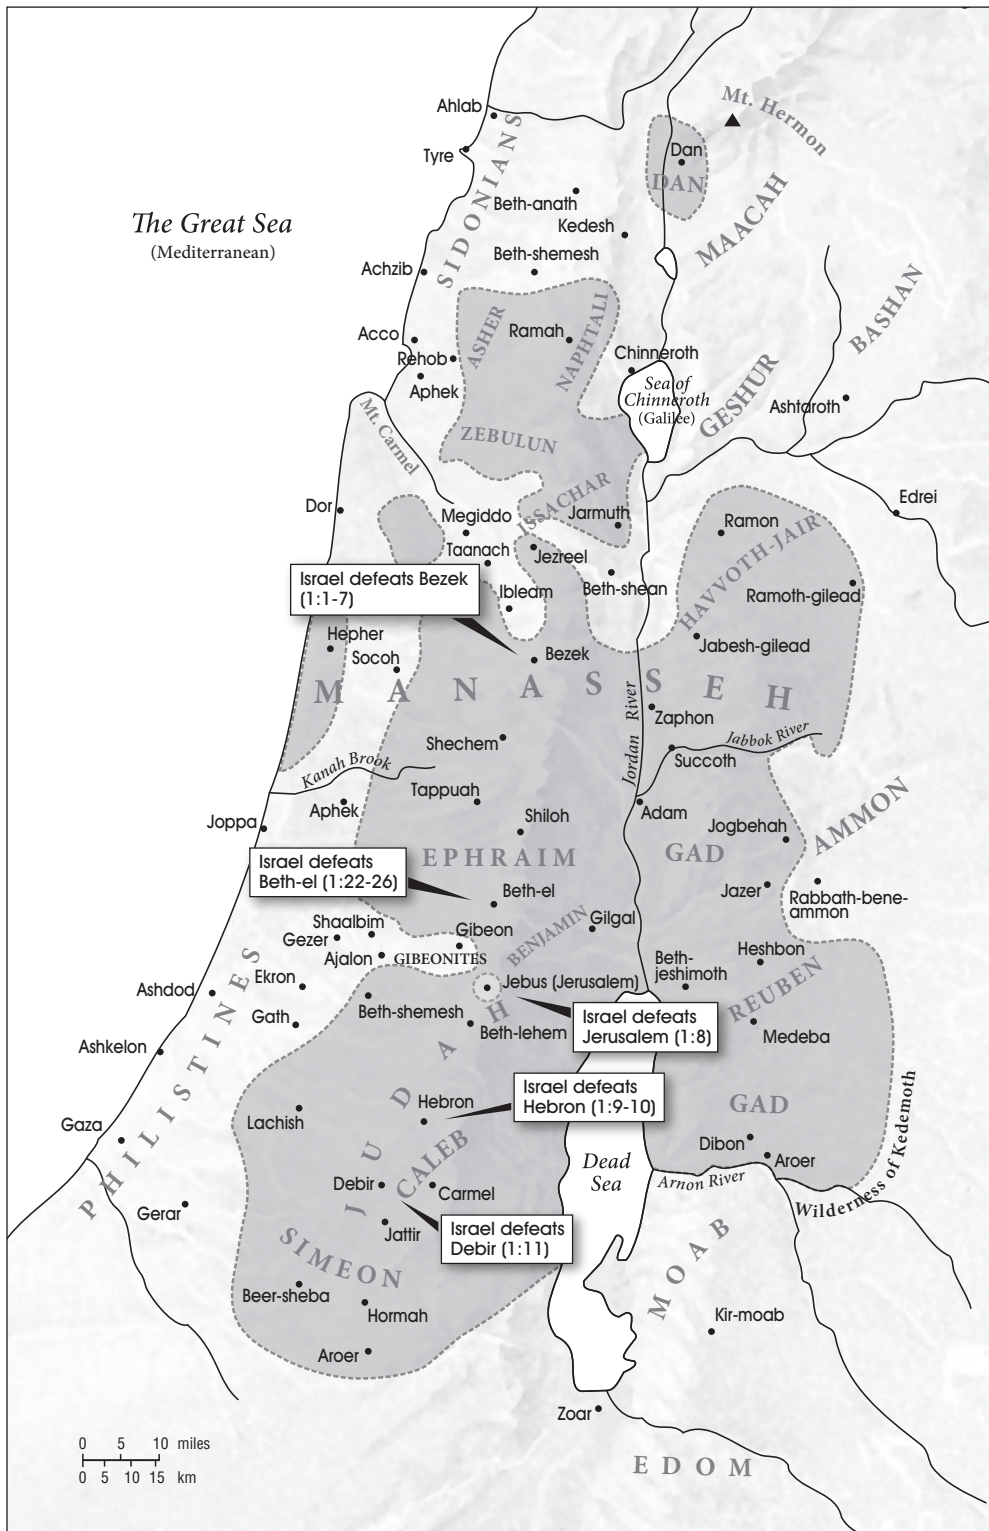

Israel Serves God

6 And when ^aJoshua had let the people go, the children of Israel went every man unto his inheritance to possess the land.

7 ^aAnd the people served the LORD all the days of Joshua, and all

2:1-5. The angel of the LORD was God's self-manifestation to Israel, as His message and rebuke clearly indicate, and as the people's reactions in repentance and worship demonstrate. Most conservative scholars believe this was the pre-incarnate Christ who appeared in the Old Testament as a theophany.

Israel Incurs God's Anger

11 And the children of Israel did ^aevil in the sight of the LORD, and served Baalim:

12 And they ^aforsook the LORD God of their fathers, which brought them out of the land of Egypt, and followed ^bother gods, of the gods of the people that were round about them, and ^cbowed themselves unto them, and provoked the LORD to anger.

13 And they forsook the LORD, ^aand served ¹Baal and ²Ashtaroth.

2:8. See the note on Joshua 19:49, 50. The term used here of Israel's great leader is simple, yet the key to his greatness; he was the servant of the LORD.

2:11–15. Baal was the chief deity of ancient Canaan. His exploits and licentious worship practices are well documented in the literature of ancient Ugarit. The son of El, Baal was both a heroic figure as a storm god, and a fertility deity who was worshiped in many cult centers under various forms and emphases, hence, Baalim (pl. of Baal). Ashtaroth (or Ashtoreth, 1 Kin. 11:5), known also from the literature of Ugarit and of Phoenicia, was a goddess of erotic love and war. She was known elsewhere in the ancient Near East as Ishtar or Astarte (cf. 1 Kin. 11:5, 33; 2 Kin. 23:13). The veneration of this goddess entered the Mediterranean world under the name Astarte, and the practices associated with her cult became associated with the Greek goddess of love, Aphrodite. She was called Atargatis at Ashkelon. The Canaanite worship rites were carried out not only in temples (2 Kin. 10:21–27) but on “every high hill, and under every green tree” (2 Kin. 17:10, 11). These rites were accompanied by such things as frenzied dances (1 Kin. 18:26–28), cult prostitution (both male and female), and, at times, even by human sacrifice (cf. Jer. 19:5–7 with 2 Kin. 23:10; Jer. 7:30–32; 32:30–35). Israel's attraction to the debased fertility rites and idolatrous worship practices, as well as the loathsome life-style of Canaan, was to be a long ened unto their judges, but they ^awent ¹a whoring after other gods, and bowed themselves unto them: they turned quickly out of the way which their fathers walked in, obeying the commandments of the LORD; but they did not so.

18 And when the LORD raised them up judges, then ^athe LORD was with the judge, and delivered them out of the hand of their enemies all one, despite repeated divine warnings and chastisements (cf. Lev. 20; Num. 25:1–9; Deut. 18:9–14; 23:17, 18; 1 Kin. 21:25, 26; 2 Kin. 17:7–18; Jer. 2:1–3:5; Ezek. 8:5–18; 16; 23; Hos. 4:6–19; etc.).

2:16. The judges were God's men who served as leaders of the people, not only militarily, but in matters of civil administration and legal matters. Although it was said specifically of four men (Othniel, 3:9, 10; Gideon, 6:34; Jephthah, 11:29; and Samson, 13:24, 25; 14:6, 19; 15:14), doubtless all of the judges were men upon whom “the spirit of the LORD” came. Although some are given brief notice, perhaps because their influence was purely local (e.g., Shamgar, 3:31; Tola and Jair, 10:1–3; Ibzan, Elon, and Abdon, 12:8–15), others received rather extensive notice (e.g., Deborah and Barak, 4:1–5:31; Gideon, 6:11–16; Jephthah, 11:1–11; and Samson, 13:2–5, 24, 25). Eli and Samuel are likewise considered judges, even though their stories are contained in 1 Samuel.

2:17–19. The recurring cycle of Israel's apostasy, oppression, repentance, and deliverance by heaven-sent deliverers forms the key theme of the Book of Judges. It was a period of repeated spiritual apostasy, growing immorality, social degradation, and political instability. Israel's “second generation” had forgotten the spiritual victories of the generation of the conquest. Only the mercy of a gracious God kept Israel from disappearing as a nation.

19 And it came to pass, ^awhen the judge was dead, that they returned, and ¹corrupted themselves more than their fathers, in following other gods to serve them, and to bow down unto them; they ceased not from their own doings, nor from their stubborn way.

20 And the anger of the LORD was hot against Israel; and he said, Because that this people hath ^atransgressed my covenant which I commanded their fathers, and have not hearkened unto my voice;

21 I also will not henceforth drive out any from before them of the nations which Joshua ^aleft when he died:

3:1, 2. The nations left unconquered in the Israelite invasion became a challenge and a test of Israel's faithfulness. However, God in His grace allowed Israel to learn from them more advanced forms of warfare. See the note on 1:21, 27-36.

3:3. See the note on Joshua 13:2, 3.

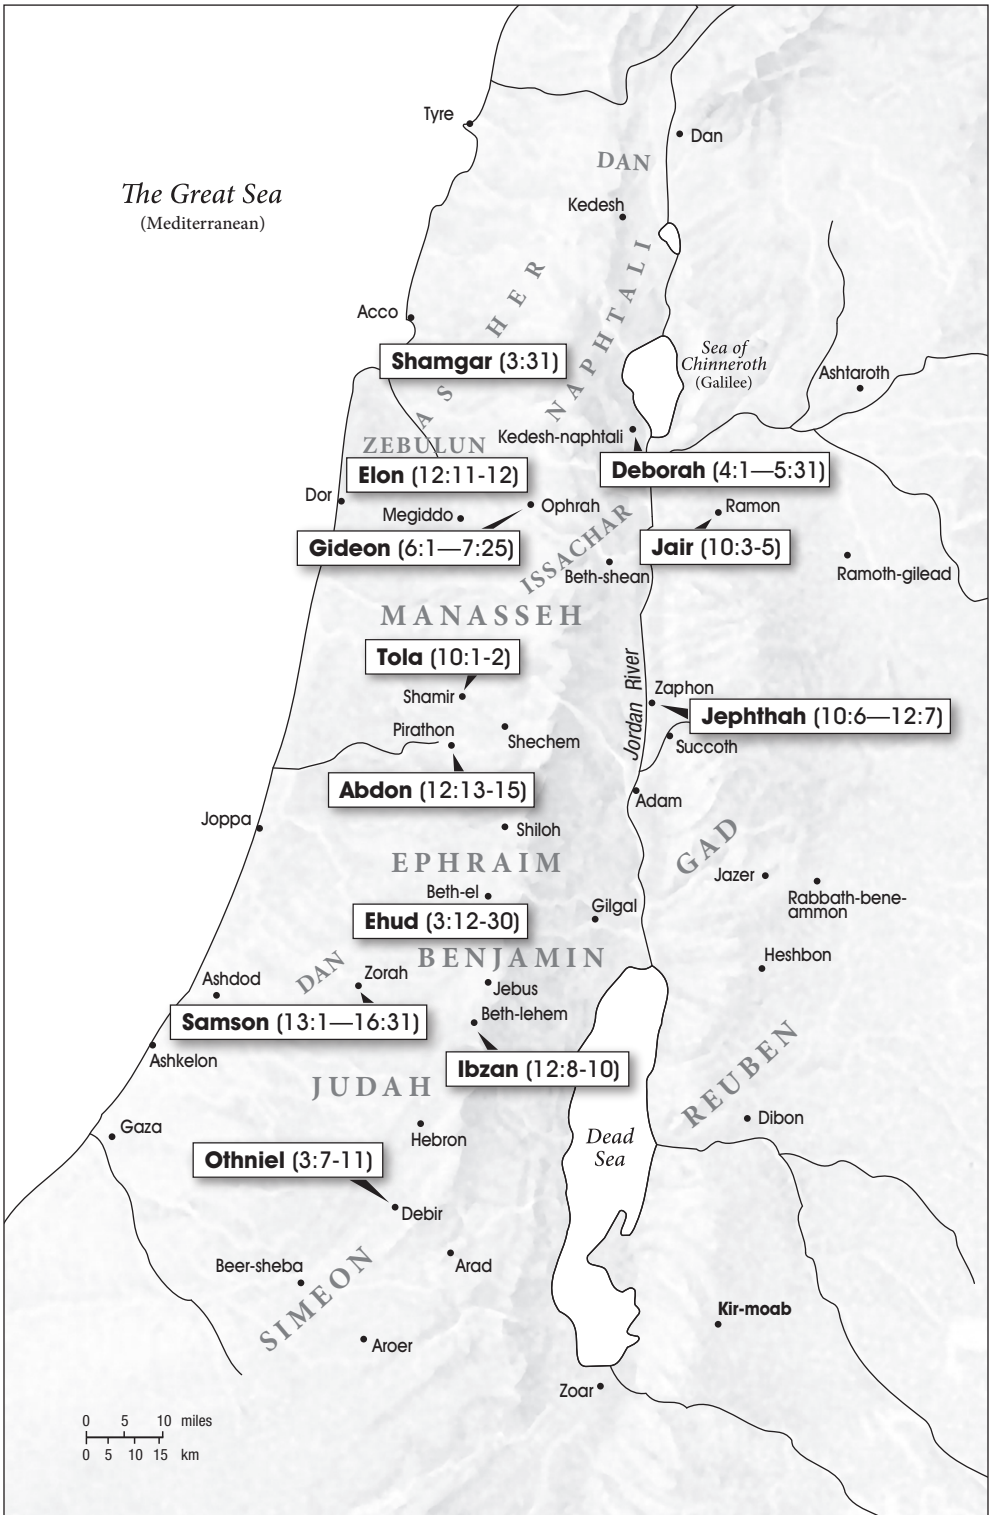

3:5. See the note on 1:4.

3:6, 7. Moses had warned the nation of the danger of an incomplete conquest, with the resultant intercourse with the unbelieving pagan peoples of Canaan (Ex. 34:11-16; Deut. 7:1-5). Moses' fears had already become a reality. The problem would continue to plague Israel (cf. 1 Kin. 11:4-8). The groves were the detestable sacred trees or poles used in Canaanite worship centers as symbols of life and fertility. These were sacred to the worship of the Canaanite fertility goddess Asherah. Moses had warned against their use and given instructions to Israel to destroy them when they entered the land of Canaan (cf. Ex. 34:13; Deut. 7:5; 12:3; 16:21, 22). Unfortunately, the use of such poles would prove to be a continuing fascination for Israel and a source of deepening apostasy (cf. 2 Kin. 17:9-11). For Baalim, see the note on 2:11-15.

3:8. The source of the first Israelite oppression has been much debated. It is perhaps best viewed as an attack by Arameans from the western districts of Mesopotamia. Although the attack was from the north, Othniel's relationship to Caleb (cf. Josh. 15:17-19; Judg. 1:11-15) would probably make him the most prominent figure among the Israelites, hence, the logical deliverer.

3:10. In Old Testament times the spirit of the LORD empowered certain individuals for a particular service. Such phrases as came upon, along with "rested

Ehud Kills Eglon

20 And Ehud came unto him; and he was sitting in a summer parlour, which he had for himself alone. And Ehud said, I have a message from God unto thee. And he arose out of his seat.

22 And the ¹haft also went in after the blade; and the fat closed upon the blade, so that he could not draw the dagger out of his belly; and the dirt came out.

23 Then Ehud went forth through the porch, and shut the doors of the parlour upon him, and locked them.

upon,” “is upon,” “was upon,” “put upon,” and “made willing” illustrate the Holy Spirit’s employment of an individual for a particular task. Certain selected leaders were said to be “filled” by the spirit or that the spirit “was in” them (Gen. 41:38; Ex. 28:3; Num. 27:18; Deut. 34:9; Dan. 4:8; 5:14; 6:3), perhaps indicating the spirit’s use of them over extended periods of time. God’s leaders in Old Testament times gave witness to the power of the Holy Spirit in their lives (Gen. 6:3; Ezek. 3:12, 14; Hag. 2:5; Zech. 4:6; 7:12). However, the Holy Spirit did not deal with Old Testament believers in precisely the same way as with New Testament saints. This is seen from such phrases as “departed from” (1 Sam. 16:14) and “take not” (Ps. 51:11) with regard to the Holy Spirit. With Pentecost (Acts 2), the “Age of the Spirit,” in which the Holy Spirit permanently indwells all believers, was inaugurated. Indeed, New Testament believers enjoy a foretaste of the complete salvation that God intends for them throughout all eternity (cf. 2 Cor. 1:20–22; 5:1–5; Eph. 1:13, 14 with Rom. 8:14–23).

3:11. The periods of rest have a distinct historical correlation with the times of Egyptian presence during the reigns of strong Pharaohs of the Nineteenth and Twentieth Dynasties.

3:12, 13. The Moabites and Ammonites were both descended from Lot (cf. Gen. 19:30–38). The Moabites opposed Israel during its years in the wilderness (Num. 22:1–6, 9–11), and both peoples were to be a source of constant irritation to the Israelites throughout their history (cf. Amos 1:13–2:3). The Amalekites were descended from the line of Esau (cf. Gen. 36:10–12) and were among Israel’s bitterest enemies (cf. Ex. 17:8–16; Deut. 25:17, 18; 1 Sam. 15:2, 3).

3:15 Ehud was the second judge over Israel and was a member of the tribe of Benjamin. Israel had lapsed into idolatry (v. 12), so the Lord reinforced Eglon, king of Moab, against them. Eglon captured Jericho with the aid of the Ammonites and the Amalekites (vv. 12, 13), and subjugated Israel under tribute 18 years (v. 14). Ehud, a left-handed man, gained a private interview with Eglon under the pretense of a secret errand connected with payment of Israel’s tribute. Ehud slew Eglon and then killed 10,000 Moabites at the fords of the Jordan. So the land had rest for 80 years (vv. 20–30). During his leadership, Israel remained faithful to God. (First Reference, Judg. 3:15; Primary Reference, Judg. 3:12–4:1.)

24 When he was gone out, ¹his servants came; and when they saw that, behold, the doors of the parlour were locked, they said, ²Surely he covereth his feet in his summer chamber.

25 And they ¹tarried till they were ashamed: and, behold, he opened not the doors of the parlour; therefore they took a key, and opened them: and, behold, their lord was fallen down dead on the earth.

26 And Ehud escaped while they tarried, and passed beyond the ¹quarries, and escaped unto Seirath.

4:2, 3. This third oppression of Israel took place toward the end of the thirteenth century B.C. (c. 1221–1201). Hazor had recovered from its earlier defeat at the hands of Joshua and was again an important center of Canaanite concentration (cf. 4:4 Deborah and Barak led an Israelite coalition to victory over the militarily superior Canaanite forces of Sisera in the plain of Esdraelon. This was a strategic battle in the struggle for control of central and northern Palestine, after 20 years' oppression by Jabin, king of Canaan, who reigned in Hazor. Deborah and Barak's army consisted of only 10,000, while Sisera had a multitude of fighters and nine hundred iron chariots. But God fought for Israel and they routed the enemy (vv. 14, 15, 23, 24). Deborah performed legal and military duties in addition to being a prophetess (v. 4). She was one of only four Old Testament women identified as a prophetess, and was the only female judge. After Barak refused to go into battle without Deborah, she gave a prophecy that another woman, Jael, fulfilled (vv. 9, 21). The prose account is given in chapter 4 and the poetical version in chapter 5. Hebrews 11:32 lists Barak among the faithful. (First Reference, Judg. 4:4; Primary References, Judg. 4, 5.)

Heber the Kenite: for there was peace between Jabin the king of Hazor and the house of Heber the Kenite.

Sisera Killed by Jael

18 And Jael went out to meet Sisera, and said unto him, Turn in, my lord, turn in to me; fear not. And when he had turned in unto her into the tent, she covered him with a ¹mantle.

19 And he said unto her, Give me, I pray thee, a little water to drink; for I am thirsty. And she opened ^aa bottle of milk, and gave him drink, and covered him.

20 Again he said unto her, Stand in the door of the tent, and it shall be, when any man doth come and enquire of thee, and say, Is there any man here? that thou shalt say, No.

21 Then Jael Heber's wife ^atook a ¹nail of the tent, and took an hammer in her hand, and went softly unto him, and ²smote the nail into his temples, and fastened it into the ground: for he was fast asleep and weary. So he died.

22 And, behold, as Barak pursued Sisera, Jael came out to meet him, and said unto him, Come, and I will shew thee the man whom thou seekest. And when he came into her tent, behold, Sisera lay dead, and the nail was in his temples.

Jabin Destroyed by Israel

23 So God subdued on that day Jabin the king of Canaan before the children of Israel.

24 And the hand of the children of Israel prospered, and prevailed against Jabin the king of Canaan, until they had destroyed Jabin king of Canaan.

Deborah and Barak's Song

5 Then ^asang Deborah and Barak the son of Abinoam on that day, saying,

2 Praise ye the LORD ¹for the ^aavenging of Israel, ^bwhen the people willingly ²offered themselves.

3 ^aHear, O ye kings; give ear, O ye princes; I, even ^bI, will sing unto the LORD; I will sing praise to the LORD God of Israel.

4 LORD, ^awhen thou wentest out of Seir, when thou marchedst out of ^bthe field of Edom, the earth trembled, and the heavens dropped, the clouds also dropped water.

5 ^aThe mountains ¹melted from before the LORD, even ^bthat Sinai from before the LORD God of Israel.

6 In the days of ^aShamgar the son of Anath, in the days of ^bJael, ^cthe highways were ¹unoccupied, and the travellers walked through byways.

7 ¹The inhabitants of the villages ceased, they ceased in Israel, until that I Deborah arose, that I arose a mother in Israel.

8 They chose ^anew gods; then was war in the gates: was there a shield or spear seen among forty thousand in Israel?

9 My heart is ¹toward the governors of Israel, that offered themselves willingly among the people. Bless ye the LORD.

10 Speak, ye that ride on white ^aasses, ye that sit in judgment, and walk by the way.

11 They that are delivered from the noise of archers in the places of drawing water, there shall they ¹rehearse the righteous acts of the LORD, even the righteous acts toward the inhabitants of his villages in Israel: then shall the people of the LORD go down to the gates.

4:24. The battle was a crucial one; Israel's very existence was at stake.

5:1. This chapter gives an expanded poetic account of the prose narrative in chapter 4.

5:2. For the avenging of Israel is a difficult phrase in the Hebrew text. It may anticipate the thought in the parallel line when the people willingly offered themselves, and be translated "when volunteers enlisted willingly." A merciful God always has His ear tuned to the needs of those who willingly yield themselves to Him.

5:4, 5. These verses recall the Lord's triumphant march from Sinai to the Jordan River (cf. Deut. 33:1, 2a; 2 Sam. 22:8; Ps. 18:7; 68:8; 144:5, 6; Hab. 3:3, 10).

5:11. The gates, the scene of legal and business activity, would also be the logical places for a muster of local troops. See the note on Ruth 4:1.

12 ^aAwake, awake, Deborah: awake, awake, utter a song; arise, Barak, and lead thy captivity captive, thou son of Abinoam.

13 Then ¹he made him that remaineth have dominion over the nobles among the people: the LORD made me have dominion over the mighty.

Jael Shall Be Blessed

24 Blessed above women shall Jael the wife of Heber the Kenite be, ^ablessed shall she be above women in the tent.

25 He asked water, and she gave him milk; she brought forth butter in a lordly dish.

26 She put her hand to the nail, and her right hand to the workmen's hammer; and with the hammer she smote Sisera, she smote off his head, when she had pierced and stricken through his temples.

27 At her feet he bowed, he fell, he lay down: at her feet he bowed, he fell: where he bowed, there he fell down ^adead.

31 So let all thine enemies ^aperish, O LORD: but let them that love him be ^bas the ^csun when he goeth

5:14-18. These verses tell of the roll call and battle assignments of the various participating tribes, as well as the report concerning the tribes that did not respond to Deborah's call to arms.

5:19-21. The Canaanites' military superiority in iron chariots proved to be their greatest liability. Soggy ground and a well-timed cloudburst immobilized Sisera's forces. The thunderstorm forms part of God's battle weaponry (cf. Ps. 18:7-15; 77:16-18; 144:4-6; Hab. 3:10, 11).

5:24. For Kenites, see the note on 1:16.

5:25-27. A contradiction has been imagined between the poetic account here of Sisera's death and the prose account (cf. 4:17-22). The details are supplementary: (1) Jael receives the fleeing Sisera into her tent; (2) Sisera receives the offered refreshment and falls heavily asleep on the tent floor (cf. 4:21); (3) as he sleeps, Jael drives the iron tent stake through his temples (v. 26; 4:21); (4) subsequently, Sisera's pursuer, Barak, arrives and is shown the grisly deed (4:22).

Seven Years of Oppression

6 And the children of Israel did ^aevil in the sight of the LORD: and the LORD delivered them into the hand of ^bMidian seven years.

2 And the hand of Midian prevailed against Israel: and because of the Midianites the children of Israel made them the dens which are in the mountains, and ^acaves, and strong holds.

Gideon to Deliver Israel

14 And the LORD looked upon him, and said, ^aGo in this ¹thy might,

5:31. Victory songs such as Deborah's are paralleled in the ancient Near Eastern literature of the same era.

6:1, 2. The Midianites were descended from Midian, one of the several children born to Abraham and Keturah, who had been sent away to the east so that Isaac might be Abraham's uncontested heir (Gen. 25:1-6). Joseph was later sold into Egypt by Midianite merchants (Gen. 37:23-28). Moses fled to the land of Midian, where he married Zipporah, a Kenite princess (cf. Ex. 2:15-22). The Midianites provided opposition to the Israelites as they journeyed toward the Promised Land, being found in league with the Moabites (Num. 22-25) and the Amorites (Josh. 13:21). Known primarily as prosperous traders, the various groups of Midianites tended to merge with the Ishmaelites (cf. Gen. 37:25-28; Judg. 8:24).

6:3. For the Amalekites, see the note on 3:12, 13.

6:11 Gideon was a reluctant military and spiritual leader who delivered Israel from seven years' oppression by the Midianites (v. 1). The Angel of the Lord appeared to him with strong words of encouragement (vv. 12, 16). Gideon destroyed his father's altar to Baal (v. 25) and erected an altar to the Lord (vv. 27, 28). Then at the command of God, he reduced his army from 32,000 to three hundred, to face the 135,000 Midianites. The Midianites outnumbered Gideon's band 450 to one. Nevertheless, God gave the victory to Gideon and his dedicated men (7:9-25). After the victory, Gideon was invited to become king, but he declined (8:22, 23). After Gideon retired to his home (8:28), Israel was blessed with 40 years of peace. Gideon is included in Hebrews 11:32 for his faithful deeds. (First Reference, Judg. 6:11; Primary References, Judg. 6-8.)

18 ^aDepart not hence, I pray thee, until I come unto thee, and bring forth my ¹present, and set it before thee. And he said, I will tarry until thou come again.

19 ^aAnd Gideon went in, and made ready a kid, and unleavened cakes of an ephah of flour: the flesh he put in a basket, and he put the broth in a pot, and brought it out unto him under the oak, and presented it.

20 And the angel of God said unto him, Take the flesh and the unleavened cakes, and ^alay them upon this rock, and ^bpour out the broth. And he did so.

Gideon's Death Demanded

28 And when the men of the city arose early in the morning, behold, the altar of Baal was cast down, and the grove was cut down that was by it, and the second bullock was offered upon the altar that was built.

29 And they said one to another, Who hath done this thing? And when they enquired and asked, they said, Gideon the son of Joash hath done this thing.

30 Then the men of the city said unto Joash, Bring out thy son, that he may die: because he hath ¹cast down the altar of Baal, and because he hath cut down the grove that was by it.

31 And Joash said unto all that stood against him, Will ye ¹plead for Baal? will ye save him? he that will plead for him, let him be put to death ²whilst it is yet morning: if he be a god, let him plead for himself, because one hath cast down his altar.

6:21. Fire is often a sign of the divine presence (cf. Ex. 3:2-4; 13:21, 22; 19:18; Is. 4:4; Ezek. 1:27; Dan. 7:9; Zech. 2:5; Acts 2:3; Heb. 12:18; Rev. 1:14).

6:22. Gideon feared immediate death for having seen an angel of the LORD face to face (cf. Ex. 20:19; 33:20; Judg. 13:22 with Gen. 32:30; Ex. 24:10, 11; Is.

6:1-5; 1 Tim. 6:16; 1 John 4:12; Rev. 22:4). Although mortal man has not looked on the essential being of God, God has often appeared to men, especially in Jesus Christ, His Son (John 1:18; 14:8, 9).

6:25. For grove, see the note on 3:6, 7.

32 Therefore on that day he called him ^aJerub-baal,¹ saying, Let Baal plead against him, because he hath thrown down his altar.

Gideon Gathers His Army

33 Then all ^athe Midianites and the Amalekites and the children of the east were gathered together, and went over, and ¹pitched in ^bthe valley of Jezreel.

34 But ^athe Spirit of the LORD came upon Gideon, and he ^bblew a trumpet; and ¹Abiezer was gathered after him.

38 And it was so: for he rose up early on the morrow, and thrust the fleece together, and wringed the dew out of the fleece, a bowl full of water.

39 And Gideon said unto God, ^aLet not thine anger be hot against me, and I will speak but this once: let me prove, I pray thee, but this once with the fleece; let it now be dry only upon the fleece, and upon all the ground let there be dew.

40 And God did so that night: for it was dry upon the fleece only, and there was dew on all the ground.

7 Then ^aJerub-baal, who is Gideon, and all the people that were with him, rose up early, and ¹pitched beside the well of Harod: so that the ²host of the Midianites were on the north side of them, by the hill of Moreh, in the valley.

2 And the LORD said unto Gideon, The people that are with thee are too many for me to give the Midianites into their hands, lest Israel ^avaunt themselves against me, saying, Mine own hand hath saved me.

3 Now therefore go to, proclaim in the ears of the people, saying, ^aWhosoever is fearful and afraid, let him return and depart early from mount Gilead. And there returned of the people twenty and two thousand; and there remained ten thousand.

God Selects an Army

4 And the LORD said unto Gideon, The people are yet too many; bring them down unto the water, and I will ¹try them for thee there: and it shall be, that of whom I say unto thee, This shall go with thee, the same shall go with thee; and of whomsoever I say unto thee, This shall not go with thee, the same shall not go.

5 So he brought down the people unto the water: and the LORD said unto Gideon, Every one that lappeth of the water with his tongue, as a dog lappeth, him shalt thou set by himself; likewise every one that boweth down upon his knees to drink.

6 And the number of them that lapped, putting their hand to their mouth, were three hundred men: but all the rest of the people bowed down upon their knees to drink water.

7 And the LORD said unto Gideon, the well-known Mount Gilead, which was located east of the Jordan River.

7:3-8. Gideon's strange mobilization strategy had both scriptural precedent and a practical principle: (1) The fears of some can infect the rest (cf. Deut. 20:8). (2) The practical wisdom to be alert to battle conditions must take precedence over the gratification of personal needs. The selection of the three hundred men who lapped the water may also have eliminated those who were still fearful.

6:34. See the note on 3:10.

6:39. Gideon asks for a still greater miracle, for the fleece would more naturally retain a heavy dew. However one views Gideon's fleece, the tender and patient dealings of a gracious God are surely to be noted.

7:1-3. Gideon's forces were assembled at the foot of Mount Gilboa; the Midianites were encamped about five miles northwest across the valley of Jezreel by the hill of Moreh. Accordingly, mount Gilead cannot be

“By the three hundred men that lapped will I save you, and deliver the Midianites into thine hand: and let all the other people go every man unto his ¹place.

8 So the people took victuals in their hand, and their trumpets: and he sent all the rest of Israel every man unto his tent, and retained those three hundred men: and the ¹host of Midian was beneath him in the valley.

A Man Tells a Dream

9 And it came to pass the same “night, that the LORD said unto him, Arise, get thee down unto the host; for I have delivered it into thine hand.

10 But if thou fear to go down, go thou with Phurah thy servant down to the host:

12 And the Midianites and the Amalekites and ^aall the children of the east lay along in the valley like grasshoppers for ^bmultitude; and their camels were ¹without number, as the sand by the sea side for multitude.

13 And when Gideon was come, behold, there was a man that told a dream unto his fellow, and said, Behold, I dreamed a dream, and lo, a cake of barley bread tumbled into the host of Midian, and came unto a tent, and smote it that it fell, and overturned it, that the tent lay along.

14 And his fellow answered and said, This is nothing else save the sword of Gideon the son of Joash, a man of Israel: for into his hand hath ^aGod delivered Midian, and all the host.

Trumpets, Pitchers, and Lamps

15 And it was so, when Gideon heard the telling of the dream, and the interpretation thereof, that he worshipped, and returned into the ¹host of Israel, and said, Arise; for the LORD hath delivered into your hand the host of Midian.

16 And he divided the three hundred men into three companies, and he put a trumpet in every man's hand, with empty pitchers, and ¹lamps within the pitchers.

17 And he said unto them, Look on me, and do likewise: and, behold, when I come to the outside of the camp, it shall be that, as I do, so shall ye do.

18 When I blow with a trumpet, I and all that are with me, then blow ye the trumpets also on every side of all the camp, and say, The sword of the LORD, and of Gideon.

19 So Gideon, and the hundred men that were with him, came unto the outside of the camp in the beginning of the middle watch; and they had but newly set the watch: and they blew the trumpets, and brake the pitchers that were in their hands.

20 And the three companies blew the trumpets, and brake the pitchers, and held the lamps in their left hands, and the trumpets in their right hands to blow withal: and they cried, The sword of the LORD, and of Gideon.

21 And they ^astood every man in his place round about the camp: ^band all the ¹host ran, and cried, and fled.

7:16–22. Gideon's strange battle strategy counted on the elements of surprise, confusion, and the enemy's mistaken assumption that they had fallen prey to an innumerable attacking force. The divinely conceived plan worked better than any man could have dared to hope (cf. 2 Chr. 20:22, 23). 7:24, 25. Gideon counted on the Ephraimites to cut off the remnants of the Midianite army. Gideon's army was not designed for the mopping up phase of the battle or for the extended pursuit of the enemy army.

Israel Turns to Idolatry

33 And it came to pass, ^aas soon as Gideon was dead, that the children of Israel turned again, and ^bwent¹ a whoring after Baalim, ^cand made Baal-berith their god.

34 And the children of Israel ^aremembered not the LORD their God, who had delivered them out of the hands of all their enemies on every side:

35 ^aNeither shewed they kindness to the house of Jerub-baal, namely, Gideon, according to all the goodness which he had shewed unto Israel.

Abimelech's Plan

9 And Abimelech the son of Jerub-baal went to Shechem unto ^ahis mother's brethren, and ¹conmuned with them, and with all the family of the house of his mother's father, saying,

2 Speak, I pray you, in the ¹ears of all the men of Shechem, ²Whether is better for you, either that all the sons of Jerub-baal, which are ^athreescore and ten persons, reign over you, or that one reign over you? remember also that I am your ^bbone³ and your flesh.

3 And his mother's brethren spake of him in the ears of all the men of Shechem all these words: and their hearts inclined to follow Abimelech; for they said, He is our ^abrother.

4 And they gave him threescore and ten pieces of silver out of the 8:27. The exact nature and form of the ephod are unknown. Perhaps Gideon intended it as a means whereby the Israelites might know the will of God (cf. Ex. 28:30; Lev. 8:8). How often religious objects become a means of idolatry rather than of spiritual perception! (cf. Ex. 32:4; 1 Kin. 12:28).

9:1. Abimelech's ambition to be a king in Israel, an honor Gideon had refused (cf. 8:22, 23), was first put to the test in Shechem, because his mother, a concubine of Gideon, came from there. Accordingly, the citizens of Shechem were invited to make one of their own, and a son of Gideon at that, to be their king. His murder of all but one of his brothers enabled him to assume the throne in Shechem where he ruled for three troublesome years.

8:31 Abimelech was the ruler of the city of Shechem during the period of the judges (8:30—10:1). He was the son of Gideon by a concubine from Shechem. Abimelech tried to become king, and managed to reign three years in Shechem (9:22). To eliminate all possible rivals, he killed the 70 sons of Gideon, his own brothers and half brothers, who were potential successors to his father (9:5). Only the youngest son of Gideon, Jotham, escaped this massacre. Ultimately, Abimelech was killed in a battle when he went too close to the city's walls and a woman dropped a millstone on his head. He commanded his armor-bearer to kill him, so no one could say that he died at the hands of a woman (9:50—54). (First Reference, Judg. 8:31; Primary Reference, Judg. 9.)

house of ^aBaal-berith, wherewith Abimelech hired ^bvain¹ and light persons, which followed him.

Abimelech Kills Gideon's Sons

5 And he went unto his father's house ^aat Ophrah, and ^bslew his brethren the sons of Jerub-baal, being threescore and ten persons, upon one stone: notwithstanding yet Jotham the youngest son of Jerub-baal was left; for he hid himself.

6 And all the men of Shechem gathered together, and all the house of Millo, and went, and made Abimelech king, by the plain of the pillar that was in Shechem.

Jotham's Parable

7 And when they told it to Jotham, he went and stood in the top of ^amount Gerizim, and lifted up his voice, and cried, and said unto them, ¹Hearken unto me, ye men of Shechem, that God may hearken unto you.

9:8–15. Jotham's address begins with a fable (a fictitious tale designed around a central moral) suggesting that the choice of Abimelech as king is a poor one, since not God's man, but a worthless scoundrel, has been selected as a ruler. Accordingly, they have brought on their own destruction. The conclusion to the fable also becomes the point for Jotham's curse (v. 20) which truly comes to pass (vv. 56, 57). For other parabolic fables in the Old Testament, see 2 Samuel 12:1–4 and 2 Kings 14:9, 10.

25 And the men of Shechem set ¹liers in wait for him in the top of the mountains, and they robbed all that came along that way by them: and it was told Abimelech.

The Conspiracy of Gaal

26 And Gaal the son of Ebed came with his brethren, and went over to Shechem: and the men of Shechem put their confidence in him.

27 And they went out into the fields, and gathered their vineyards, and trode the grapes, and ¹made merry, and went into ^athe house of their god, and did eat and drink, and cursed Abimelech.

28 And Gaal the son of Ebed said, Who is Abimelech, and who is Shechem, that we should serve him? is not he the son of Jerub-baal? and Zebul his officer? serve the men of Hamor the father of Shechem: for why should we serve him?

29 And ^awould to God this people were under my hand! then would I remove Abimelech. And he said to Abimelech, Increase thine army, and come out.

Zebul's Loyalty

30 And when Zebul the ruler of the city heard the words of Gaal the son of Ebed, his anger was ¹kindled.

31 And he sent messengers unto Abimelech ¹privily, saying, Behold, Gaal the son of Ebed and his brethren be come to Shechem; and, behold, they fortify the city against thee.

39 And Gaal went out before the men of Shechem, and fought with Abimelech.

40 And Abimelech chased him, and he fled before him, and many were overthrown and wounded, even unto the ¹entering of the gate.

41 And Abimelech dwelt at Arumah: and Zebul ¹thrust out Gaal and his brethren, that they should not dwell in Shechem.

42 And it came to pass on the morrow, that the people went out into the field; and they told Abimelech.

43 And he took the people, and divided them into three companies, and ¹laid wait in the field, and looked, and, behold, the people were come forth out of the city; and he rose up against them, and ²smote them.

44 And Abimelech, and the company that was with him, rushed forward, and stood ¹in the entering of the gate of the city: and the two other companies ran upon all the people that were in the fields, and slew them.

45 And Abimelech fought against the city all that day; and ^ahe took the

The Death of the Men of Shechem

46 And when all the men of the tower of Shechem heard that, they entered into ¹an hold of the house ^aof the god Berith.

47 And it was told Abimelech, that all the men of the tower of Shechem were gathered together.

48 And Abimelech gat him up to mount ^aZalmon, he and all the people that were with him; and Abimelech took an ax in his hand, and cut down a bough from the trees, and took it, and laid it on his shoulder, and said unto the people that were with him, What ye have seen me do, make haste, and do as I have done.

49 And all the people likewise cut down every man his bough, and followed Abimelech, and put them to the ¹hold, and set the hold on fire upon them; so that all the men of the tower of Shechem died also, about a thousand men and women.

The Death of Abimelech

50 Then went Abimelech to Thebez, and ¹encamped against Thebez, and took it.

51 But there was a strong tower within the city, and thither fled all the men and women, and all they of the city, and shut it to them, and ¹gat them up to the top of the tower.

52 And Abimelech came unto the tower, and fought against it, and went hard unto the door of the tower to burn it with fire.

53 And a certain woman ^acast a piece of a millstone upon Abimelech's head, and ¹all to brake his skull.

54 Then ^ahe called hastily unto the young man his armourbearer, and said unto him, Draw thy sword, and slay me, that men say not of me, A woman slew him. And his young man thrust him through, and he died.

8 And that year they ¹vexed and oppressed the children of Israel:

10:1, 3. Tola and Jair are usually considered minor judges, along with Shamgar (3:31) and Ibzan, Elon, and Abdon (12:8–15). "Minor" simply means that the scriptural record concerning these six judges is brief and contains no record of a military deliverance from any of Israel's oppressors.

Israel Prepares for Battle

17 Then the children of Ammon were gathered together, and encamped in Gilead. And the children of Israel assembled themselves together, and encamped in ^aMizpeh.

18 And the people and princes of Gilead said one to another, What man is he that will begin to fight against the children of Ammon? he shall ^abe head over all the inhabitants of Gilead.

Jephthah Made Head of Israel

11 Now ^aJephthah the Gileadite was ^ba mighty man of valour, and he was the son of an harlot: and Gilead begat Jephthah.

2 And Gilead's wife bare him sons; and his wife's sons grew up, and they ¹thrust out Jephthah, and said unto him, Thou shalt ^anot inherit in our father's house; for thou art the son of a strange woman.

3 Then Jephthah fled from his brethren, and dwelt in the land of ^aTob: and there were gathered ^bvain¹ men to Jephthah, and went out with him.

4 And it came to pass in process of time, that the ^achildren of Ammon made war against Israel.

5 And it was so, that when the children of Ammon made war against Israel, the elders of Gilead went to fetch Jephthah out of the land of Tob:

6 And they said unto Jephthah, Come, and be our captain, that we may fight with the children of Ammon.

7 And Jephthah said unto the elders of Gilead, ^aDid not ye hate me, 11:5,6, 11. Jephthah, the illegitimate son of Gilead, was called to be the captain of the forces and deliverer of the people who had rejected him. Though not directly parallel, his story reminds one of Jesus, who was accused of being born of fornication (John 8:41) and who was rejected (cf. Acts 4:11), but became the captain of man's salvation (Heb. 2:10).

11:1 Jephthah was the ninth judge of Israel, who delivered God's people from 18 years of oppression by the Ammonites. He was an illegitimate child and was cast out of the family by his half brothers to prevent him from sharing in the inheritance. He fled to "the land of Tob" and engaged in clandestine activities with a group of "vain men." He was later summoned back to free his people, the Gileadites, from oppression. He defeated the Ammonites "with a very great slaughter" (v. 33). Jephthah is well known for his vow involving his daughter in verse 31. Later he killed 42,000 Ephraimites when they challenged him for not including them in the battle against the Ammonites. Jephthah's testimony in verse 26 strongly favors an early date for the Exodus from Egypt, about 1445–1447 B.C. He is included in Hebrews 11:32 for his mighty act of deliverance. (First Reference, Judg. 11:1; Primary References, Judg. 11:1–12:7.) and expel me out of my father's house? and why are ye come unto me now when ye are in ¹distress?

8 ^aAnd the elders of Gilead said unto Jephthah, Therefore we ^bturn¹ again to thee now, that thou mayest go with us, and fight against the children of Ammon, and be ^cour head over all the inhabitants of Gilead.

9 And Jephthah said unto the elders of Gilead, If ye bring me home again to fight against the children of Ammon, and the LORD deliver them before me, shall I be your head?

10 And the elders of Gilead said unto Jephthah, ^aThe LORD be witness between us, if we do not so according to thy words.

11 Then Jephthah went with the elders of Gilead, and the people made him ^ahead and captain over them: and Jephthah ¹uttered all his words ^bbefore the LORD in Mizpeh.

12 And Jephthah sent messengers unto the king of the children of Ammon, saying, ^aWhat hast thou to do with me, that thou art come against me to fight in my land?

Ammon Wants Land Restored

14 And Jephthah sent messengers again unto the king of the children of Ammon:

16 But when Israel came up from Egypt, and walked through the wilderness unto the Red sea, and ^acame to Kadesh;

18 Then they ^awent along through the wilderness, and ^bcompassed the land of Edom, and the land of Moab, and came by the east side of the land of Moab, and pitched on the other side of Arnon, but came not within the border of Moab: for Arnon was the border of Moab.

A Reminder of Sihon's Refusal

19 And ^aIsrael sent messengers unto Sihon king of the Amorites, the king of Heshbon; and Israel said unto him, ^bLet us pass, we pray thee, through thy land into my place.

20 ^aBut Sihon trusted not Israel to pass through his ¹coast: but Sihon gathered all his people together, and ²pitched in Jahaz, and fought against Israel.

21 And the LORD God of Israel ^adelivered Sihon and all his people into the hand of Israel, and they ^bsmote¹ them: so Israel possessed all the land of the Amorites, the inhabitants of that country.

22 And they possessed ^aall the ¹coasts of the Amorites, from Arnon even unto Jabbok, and from the wilderness even unto Jordan.

Dispossession of the Amorites

23 So now the LORD God of Israel hath ¹dispossessed the Amorites from before his people Israel, and shouldst thou possess it?

24 Wilt not thou possess that which ^aChemosh thy god giveth thee to possess? So whomsoever ^bthe LORD our God shall drive out from before us, them will we possess.

25 And now art thou any thing better than ^aBalak the son of Zippor, king of Moab? did he ever strive against Israel, or did he ever fight against them, 26 While Israel dwelt in ^aHeshbon and her towns, and in ^bAroer and her towns, and in all the cities that be along by the ¹coasts of Arnon, three hundred years? why therefore did ye not recover them within that time?

27 Wherefore I have not sinned against thee, but thou doest me wrong to war against me: the LORD ^a“the Judge ^bbe judge this day between the children of Israel and the children of Ammon.

28 Howbeit the king of the children of Ammon ¹hearkened not unto the words of Jephthah which he sent him.

Jephthah's Vow

29 Then ^athe Spirit of the LORD came upon Jephthah, and he passed over Gilead, and Manasseh, and passed over Mizpeh of Gilead, and from Mizpeh of Gilead he passed over unto the children of Ammon.

30 And Jephthah ^avowed a vow unto the LORD, and said, If thou shalt without fail deliver the children of Ammon into mine hands, 31 Then it shall be, that whatsoever cometh forth of the doors of my house to meet me, when I return in peace from the children of Ammon, ^ashall surely be the LORD's, ^band I will offer it up for a burnt offering.

32 So Jephthah passed over unto the children of Ammon to fight against them; and the LORD delivered them into his hands.

33 And he ¹smote them from Aroer, even till thou come to ^aMinnith, even twenty cities, and unto the ²plain of the vineyards, with a very great slaughter. Thus the children of Ammon were subdued before the children of Israel.

Ephraim and Jephthah

12 And ^athe men of Ephraim gathered themselves together, and went northward, and said unto Jephthah, Wherefore

11:29-40. Christian scholars have been divided over whether Jephthah's vow dealt with human sacrifice. Those who favor the view that Jephthah actually sacrificed his daughter as a burnt offering point to early Jewish and Christian interpreters who held that he did so and maintain that human sacrifice, though not condoned by God, was actually practiced in early Israel (cf. 2 Kin. 16:3; 17:17; 2 Chr. 33:6; Jer. 7:31; 19:5; 32:35). However, proper interpretation does not depend merely on historical precedent, nor on instances of the practice of spiritual apostates or unbelievers. The plain reading of the text favors the view that since Jephthah was yet under the influence of the spirit of the LORD (vv. 29-31) when he made his vow, his vow must have dealt with the principle of dedication symbolized by the burnt offering. Accordingly, Jephthah's daughter was pledged to perpetual virginity (vv. 37-40). This view underscores the fact that for God to honor the terms of Jephthah's vow would make Him a participant in evil inasmuch as He would thereby violate the prohibition in His own revealed word (Lev. 18:21; 20:2-5; Deut. 12:31, 32; 18:10-12). Since the Scriptures record that Jephthah's daughter was his only child, and do not indicate that he ever had another, he is rightly commemorated in Hebrews 11:32-40 not only for his deliverance of Israel but for a full dedication to God that left his home destitute of any heir.

passedst thou over to fight against the children of Ammon, and didst not call us to go with thee? we will burn thine house upon thee with fire.

2 And Jephthah said unto them, I and my people were ¹at great strife with the children of Ammon; and when I called you, ye delivered me not out of their hands.

3 And when I saw that ye delivered me not, I ¹put¹ my life in my hands, and ²passed over against the children of Ammon, and the LORD delivered them into my hand: wherefore then are ye come up unto me this day, to fight against me?

Jephthah's Victory

4 Then Jephthah gathered together all the men of Gilead, and fought with Ephraim: and the men of Gilead smote Ephraim, because they said, Ye Gileadites ^aare fugitives of Ephraim among the Ephraimites, and among the Manassites.

5 And the Gileadites took the ^apassages of Jordan before the Ephraimites: and it was so, that when those Ephraimites which were escaped said, Let me go over; that the men of Gilead said unto him, Art thou an Ephraimite? If he said, Nay;

6 Then said they unto him, Say now ^aShibboleth:¹ and he said ²Sibboleth: for he could not ³frame to pronounce it right. Then they took him, and slew him at the passages of Jordan: and there fell at that time of the Ephraimites forty and two thousand.

5 For, lo, thou shalt conceive, and bear a son; and no ^arazor shall come on his head: for the child shall be ^ba Nazarite unto God from the womb:

12:5, 6. The linguistic test used to examine whether an individual was an Ephraimite revolved around a distinction in “s” sounds. The common Hebrew word Shibboleth, “ear of grain,” was pronounced sibboleth by the Ephraimites (perhaps with a bit of lisping sound); hence, a person’s tribal affiliation would be clearly identifiable.

13:1. By the time of Samson, the Philistines (“Sea Peoples”) had conquered and populated the coastal plain of Israel and were a major threat to the Israelites dwelling in the hill country. Their use of iron weapons and their policy of disarmament (cf. 1 Sam. 13:19–23) left Israel at great disadvantage. See the note on Joshua 13:2, 3.

13:5. The divinely promised child was to be a Nazarite, one separated from the world and consecrated to the Lord. In addition to the prohibition against cutting the hair mentioned here, the reg-

Manoah's Request

8 Then Manoah intreated the LORD, and said, O my LORD, let the man of God which thou didst send come again unto us, and teach us what we shall do unto the child that shall be born.

9 And God ¹hearkened to the voice of Manoah; and the angel of God came again unto the woman as she sat in the field: but Manoah her husband was not with her.

10 And the woman made haste, and ran, and ¹shewed her husband, and said unto him, Behold, the man hath appeared unto me, that came unto me the other day.

Manoah's Offering

15 And Manoah said unto the angel of the LORD, I pray thee, ^alet us detain thee, until we shall have made ready a kid for thee.

16 And the angel of the LORD said unto Manoah, Though thou detain me, I will not eat of thy bread: and if thou wilt offer a burnt offering, thou must offer it unto the LORD. For Manoah knew not that he was an angel of the LORD.

17 And Manoah said unto the angel of the LORD, What is thy name, that when thy sayings come to pass we may do thee honour?

18 And the angel of the LORD said unto him, ^a“Why askest thou thus after my name, seeing it is ¹secret?”

19 So Manoah took a kid with a meat offering, ^aand offered it upon a rock unto the LORD: and the angel did ¹wonderously; and Manoah and his wife looked on.

20 For it came to pass, when the flame went up toward heaven from off the altar, that the angel of the LORD ascended in the flame of the altar. And Manoah and his wife looked on it, and ^a“fell on their faces to the ground.

21 But the angel of the LORD did no more appear to Manoah and to his wife. ^a“Then Manoah knew that he was an angel of the LORD.

22 And Manoah said unto his wife, ^a“We shall surely die, because we have seen God.

23 But his wife said unto him, If the LORD were pleased to kill us, he would not have received a burnt offering and a meat offering at our hands, neither would he have shewed us all these things, nor would as at this time have told us such things as these.

ulations concerning the Nazarite vow detailed in Numbers 6:1-21 prohibited also using products of the vine and the touching of any dead body. Samson's actions violated all three of these regulations (cf. 14:8, 9, 17; 16:17). Because of the unique child she was to bear, Samson's mother was also commanded to share in the terms of the Nazarite vow (vv. 13, 14).

13:18. The secret name of the angel of the LORD comes from a root meaning “separate,” “surpassing,” or “beyond apprehension,” and hence is often translated “wonderful” (cf. Ex. 15:11; Is. 9:6).

Samson Wants a Philistine Woman

14 And Samson went down ^ato Timnath, and ^bsaw a woman in Timnath of the daughters of the Philistines.

2 And he came up, and told his father and his mother, and said, I have seen a woman in Timnath of the daughters of the Philistines: now therefore ^aget her for me ¹to wife.

3 Then his father and his mother said unto him, Is there never a woman among the daughters of ^athy brethren, or among all my people, that thou goest to take a wife of the ^buncircumcised Philistines? And Samson said unto his father, Get her for me; for she ¹pleaseth me well.

4 But his father and his mother knew not that it was ^aof the LORD, that he sought an occasion against the Philistines: for at that time ^bthe Philistines had dominion over Israel.

Timnath, and came to the vineyards of Timnath: and, behold, a young lion roared against him.

6 And ^athe Spirit of the LORD came mightily upon him, and he ¹rent him as he would have rent a kid, and he had nothing in his hand: but he told not his father or his mother what he had done.

7 And he went down, and talked with the woman; and she pleased Samson well.

8 And after a time he returned to take her, and he turned aside to see the carcase of the lion: and, behold, there was a swarm of bees and honey in the carcase of the lion.

9 And he took thereof in his hands, and went on eating, and came to his father and mother, and he gave them, and they did eat: but he told not them that he had taken the honey out of the ^acarcase of the lion.

10 So his father went down unto the woman: and Samson made there a feast; for so used the young men to do.

11 And it came to pass, when they saw him, that they brought thirty companions to be with him.

Samson's Riddle

12 And Samson said unto them, I will now ^aput forth a riddle unto you: if ye can certainly declare it me ^bwithin the seven days of the feast, and find it out, then I will give you thirty ¹sheets and thirty ^cchange of garments:

14:1–4. Samson's life becomes a lesson in the tragedy of self-will. His marriage was a clear violation of the Law (Ex. 34:16; Deut. 7:3). Nevertheless, God sovereignly overruled the defects in Samson's character to bring about His good purpose for Israel. The geographical boarder between Israel and the Philistines is known as the Shephelah (foothills).

14:12–14. The word translated riddle is translated elsewhere "hard questions" (1 Kin. 10:1), "dark sayings" (Ps. 49:4; 78:2; Prov. 1:6), or "dark sentences" (Dan. 8:23). The same word is used of Ezekiel's fable concerning the two eagles (Ezek. 17:2).

13:24 Samson was a hero of Israel known for his great physical strength as well as his moral weakness. The last of the "judges" or military leaders mentioned in the Book of Judges, Samson led his country in this role for about 20 years. He was a Nazarite from birth, like Samuel and John the Baptist later. This meant that Samson should have served as an example to Israel of commitment to God. Through most of his life, however, Samson fell far short of God's standard with his sin and disobedience. His life is a clear warning against the dangers of self-indulgence and lack of discipline. In spite of his heroic physical deeds—killing a young lion, killing a thousand Philistines with the jawbone of a donkey, and carrying away the massive gate of Gaza—he nevertheless violated all three aspects of the Nazarite vow: he touched a dead body, attended a drinking feast, and had his hair cut. Samson also violated God's Word by marrying a Philistine, then visiting a prostitute in Gaza, and finally living with Delilah. His last act, the killing of thousands of the enemy Philistines, won him a place among the heroes of faith (Heb. 11:32). (First Reference, Judg. 13:7; Primary References, Judg. 13–16.)

13 But if ye cannot declare it me, then shall ye give me thirty sheets and thirty change of garments. And they said unto him, ^aPut forth thy riddle, that we may hear it.

14 And he said unto them, Out of the eater came forth meat, and out of the strong came forth sweetness. And they could not in three days expound the riddle.

Samson's Wife Pleads for the Answer

15 And it came to pass on the seventh day, that they said unto Samson's wife, ^aEntice thy husband, that he may declare unto us the riddle, ^blest we burn thee and thy father's house with fire: have ye called us to take ¹that we have? is it not so?

16 And Samson's wife wept before him, and said, ^aThou dost but hate me, and lovest me not: thou hast put forth a riddle unto the children of my people, and hast not told it me. And he said unto her, Behold, I have not told it my father nor my mother, and shall I tell it thee?

17 And she wept before him the seven days, while their feast lasted: and it came to pass on the seventh day, that he told her, because she ¹lay sore upon him: and she told the riddle to the children of her people.

18 And the men of the city said unto him on the seventh day before the sun went down, What is sweeter than honey? And what is stronger than a lion? and he said unto them, ¹If ye had not plowed with my heifer, ye had not found out my riddle.

Samson's Strength Displayed

16 Then went Samson to ^aGaza, and saw there an harlot, and went in unto her.

2 And it was told the Gazites, saying, Samson is come hither. And they ^acompassed him in, and laid wait for him all night in the gate of the city, and were quiet all the night, saying, In the morning, when it is day, we shall kill him.

Delilah Recruited to Betray Samson

4 And it came to pass afterward, that he loved a woman in the valley of Sorek, whose name was Delilah.

5 And the ^alords of the Philistines came up unto her, and said unto her,

15:19. From a circular depression in Lehi God caused a spring to gush out of the ground to assuage Samson's thirst. Samson called it En-hakkore, "The Spring of the Caller." God's tender care of a weary Samson is reminiscent of His loving provision for Elijah (cf. 1 Kin. 17:2–6; 19:4–8).

16:3. The huge gate of the city in the ancient Near East was often covered with metal to prevent its being burned during an attack. The combined weight of the door posts and doors, bar and all, which Samson bore upon his shoulders some 38 miles mostly uphill to Hebron was, therefore, tremendous. Samson was a man of incredible strength!

16:4 Valley of Sorek was the scene of Samson's exploits. The valley runs west toward the Philistine territory (Ekron and Timnah) and east into the Judean hills (Beth-shemesh). Excavations at these locations between 1977–1989 revealed well-developed agriculture and fortified cities from this period of time.

^bEntice him, and see wherein his great strength lieth, and by what means we may prevail against him, that we may bind him to afflict him: and we will give thee every one of us eleven hundred pieces of silver.

7 And Samson said unto her, If they bind me with seven ¹green withs that were never dried, then shall I be weak, and be as another man.

8 Then the lords of the Philistines brought up to her seven green withs which had not been dried, and she bound him with them.

Samson Reveals His Source of Strength

15 And she said unto him, ^aHow canst thou say, I love thee, when thine heart is not with me? thou hast mocked me these three times, and hast not told me wherein thy great strength lieth.

16 And it came to pass, when she pressed him daily with her words, and urged him, so that his soul was ¹vexed unto death;

17 That he ^atold her all his heart, and said unto her, ^bThere hath not come a razor upon mine head; for I have been a Nazarite unto God from my mother's womb: if I be shaven, then my strength will go from me, and I shall become weak, and be like any other man.

18 And when Delilah saw that he had told her all his heart, she sent and called for the lords of the Philistines, saying, Come up this once, for he hath shewed me all his heart. Then the lords of the Philistines came up unto her, and brought money in their hand.

19 ^aAnd she made him sleep upon her knees; and she called for a man, and she caused him to shave off the seven locks of his head; and she began to afflict him, and his strength went from him.

20 And she said, The Philistines be upon thee, Samson. And he awoke out of his sleep, and said, I will go out as at other times before, and shake myself. And he ¹wist not that the LORD ^awas departed from him.

21 But the Philistines took him, and ¹put out his ^aeyes, and brought him down to Gaza, and bound him with fetters of brass; and he did grind in the prison house.

22 Howbeit the hair of his head began to grow again after he was shaven.

The Philistines' Celebration

23 Then the lords of the Philistines gathered them together for to offer a great sacrifice unto ^aDagon their god, and to rejoice: for they said, Our god hath delivered Samson our enemy into our hand.

24 And when the people saw him, they ^apraised their god: for they said, Our god hath delivered into our hands our enemy, and the destroyer of our country, which slew many of us.

25 And it came to pass, when their hearts were ^amerry, that they said, Call for Samson, that he may ¹make us sport. And they called for Samson out of the prison house; and he ²made them sport: and they set him between the pillars.

26 And Samson said unto the lad that held him by the hand, Suffer me that I may feel the pillars whereupon the house standeth, that I may lean upon them.

27 Now the house was full of men and women; and all the lords of the Philistines were there; and there were upon the ^aroof about three thousand men and women, that beheld while Samson ¹made sport.

16:23. Dagon is probably to be identified with Dagan, a principal grain god often mentioned in the inscriptions of ancient Mesopotamia. Since Dagan/Dagon is attested in the Canaanite literature of ancient Ugarit as an important grain god, he probably occupied a similar status with the Philistines. The common Hebrew word for grain (dagan) is possibly associated etymologically with the name of this pagan god.

16:24–30. The findings of archaeological excavations in the ancient Near East make certain the possibilities for such a large number of casualties. Also, excavations at Tell Qasile reveal a Philistine temple built in this very fashion. Not only would there be officials underneath the roofed patio, but a huge crowd would have been on its roof, doubtless gathered at one end to see the spectacle of Israel's hero, Samson. The collapse of the main supporting pillars would have killed large numbers instantly. Samson's final act was more than one of mere vengeance; it wiped out the key Philistine leadership, thereby setting back the Philistine threat against Israel considerably. For once Samson had performed a selfless act, justifying his being mentioned among the heroes of the faith in Hebrews 11:32.

17:1. Chapters 17–21 form an appendix to the narratives of chapters 1–16, which flow largely in chronological sequence. The precise time of the events of these last chapters is uncertain. The common thread running through them is the observation that in those days there was no king in Israel, but every man did that which was right in his own eyes (v. 6; 18:1; 19:1; 21:25). The events in chapters 17–21 indicate that spiritual compromise leads to moral corruption, which inevitably results in civil catastrophe.

17:2–5. Apparently the mother hoped to negate the force of the curse by using the many images and the silver restored by her son for "religious purposes."

Micah's Hired Priest

7 And there was a young man out of ^aBeth-lehem-judah of the family of Judah, who was a Levite, and he ^bsojourned¹ there.

8 And the man departed out of the city from Beth-lehem-judah to ¹sojourn where he could find a place: and he came to mount Ephraim to the house of Micah, as he journeyed.

9 And Micah said unto him, Whence comest thou? And he said unto him, I am a Levite of Beth-lehem-judah, and I go to ¹sojourn where I may find a place.

10 And Micah said unto him, Dwell with me, ^aand be unto me a ^bfather and a priest, and I will give thee ten shekels of silver by the year, and a suit of apparel, and thy victuals. So the Levite went in.

11 And the Levite was content to dwell with the man; and the young man was unto him as one of his sons.

12 And Micah ^aconsecrated¹ the Levite; and the young man ^bbecame his priest, and was in the house of Micah.

13 Then said Micah, Now know I that the LORD will do me good, seeing I have a Levite to my ^apriest.

unto that day all their inheritance had not fallen unto them among the tribes of Israel.

2 And the children of Dan sent of their family five men from their coasts, men of valour, from ^aZorah, and from Eshtaol, ^bto spy out the land, and to search it; and they said unto them, Go, search the land: who when they came to mount Ephraim, to the ^chouse of Micah, they lodged there.

3 When they were by the house of Micah, they knew the voice of the young man the Levite: and they turned in thither, and said unto him, Who brought thee hither? and what makest thou in this place? and what hast thou here?

4 And he said unto them, Thus and thus dealeth Micah with me, and hath ^ahired me, and I am his priest.

Men Ask Counsel of a Priest

5 And they said unto him, ^aAsk¹ counsel, we pray thee, ^bof God, that we may know whether our way which we go shall be prosperous.

6 And the priest said unto them, ^aGo in peace: ¹before the LORD is your way wherein ye go.

7 Then the five men departed, and came to ^aLaish, and saw the people that were therein, ^bhow they dwelt ¹careless, after the manner of the Zidonians, quiet and secure; and there was no ²magistrate in the land, that might put them to shame in any thing; and they were far from the ^cZidonians, and had no business with any man.

17:12, 13. With the arrival of the Levite, Micah attempted to clothe his apostate religion with an aura of authenticity.

18:1. Because the Danites were severely restricted by the Amorites (cf. 1:34), they sought an area that would give them adequate territory for their people. Having failed to possess their original tribal allotment (cf. Josh. 19:41-46; see the note on Josh. 14:14), the Danites compounded their sin by inaugurating their settlement in the newly won territory in the north by the institution of Micah's apostate religion!

18:7. Laish, formerly Leshem (Josh. 19:47), was situated in the far northern portion of the land. Renamed Dan (v. 29), its northerly location gives rise to the phrase "from Dan to Beer-sheba" to mark the northern and southern limits of the land of Israel.

10 When ye go, ye shall come unto a people ^asecure, and to a large land: for God hath given it into your hands; ^ba place where there is no want of any thing that is in the earth.

THE MIGRATION OF THE TRIBE OF DAN

Images and Priest Taken

14 ^aThen answered the five men that went to spy out the country of Laish, and said unto their brethren, Do ye know that ^bthere is in these houses an ephod, and teraphim, and a graven image, and a molten image? now therefore consider what ye have to do.

15 And they turned ¹thitherward, and came to the house of the young man the Levite, even unto the house of Micah, and ²saluted him.

16 And the ^asix hundred men appointed with their weapons of war, which were of the children of Dan, stood by the entering of the gate.

17 And ^athe five men that went to spy out the land went up, and came in thither, and took ^bthe graven image, and the ephod, and the teraphim, and the molten image: and the priest stood in the entering of the gate with the six hundred men that were appointed with weapons of war.

18 And these went into Micah's house, and fetched the carved image, the ephod, and the teraphim, and the molten image. Then said the priest unto them, What do ye?

19 And they said unto him, ¹Hold thy peace, ^alay thine hand upon thy mouth, and go with us, ^band be to us a father and a priest: is it better for thee to be a priest unto the house of one man, or that thou be a priest unto a tribe and a family in Israel?

20 And the priest's heart was glad, and he took the ephod, and the teraphim, and the graven image, and went in the midst of the people.

21 So they turned and departed, and put the little ones and the cattle and the carriage before them.

22 And when they were a good way from the house of Micah, the men that were in the houses near to Micah's house were gathered

Micah Returns Home

25 And the children of Dan said unto him, Let not thy voice be heard among us, lest ¹angry fellows run upon thee, and thou lose thy life, with the lives of thy household.

26 And the children of Dan went their way: and when Micah saw that they were too strong for him, he turned and went back unto his house.

27 And they took the things which Micah had made, and the priest which he had, and came unto Laish, unto a people that were at quiet and secure: ^aand they ¹smote them with the edge of the sword, and burnt the city with fire.

28 And there was no deliverer, because it was ^afar from Zidon, and they had ¹no business with any man; and it was in the valley that lieth ^bby Beth-rehob. And they built a city, and dwelt therein.

29 And ^athey called the name of the city ^bDan, after the name of Dan their father, who was born unto Israel: howbeit the name of the city was Laish at the first.

The Graven Image Set Up

30 And the children of Dan set up the graven image: and Jonathan, the son of Gershom, the son of ¹Manasseh, he and his sons were priests to the tribe of Dan ^auntil the day of the captivity of the land.

31 And they set them up Micah's graven image, which he made, ^aall

18:30. The unnamed priest of chapter 17 is now identified as Jonathan, a descendant of Gershom, Moses' son. The name Manasseh is a later scribal reading accomplished by introducing the letter n into the text after the initial M in Moses, possibly with the intention of protecting his name from being involved in the Danite apostasy.

18:31. For the importance of Shiloh as Israel's early religious center, see the notes on Joshua 18:1 and 1 Samuel 7:1, 2.

A Levite's Concubine

19 And it came to pass in those days, “when there was no king in Israel, that there was a certain Levite sojourning on the side of mount Ephraim, who took to him a concubine out of ^bBeth-lehem-judah.

2 And his concubine played the ¹whore against him, and went away from him unto her father's house to Beth-lehem-judah, and was there four whole months.

3 And her husband arose, and went after her, to “speak ¹friendly unto her, and to bring her again, having his servant with him, and a couple of asses: and she brought him into her father's house: and when the father of the damsel saw him, he rejoiced to meet him.

4 And his father in law, the damsel's father, retained him; and he abode with him three days: so they did eat and drink, and lodged there.

5 And it came to pass on the fourth day, when they arose early in the morning, that he rose up to depart: and the damsel's father said unto his son in law, “Comfort ¹ thine heart with a morsel of bread, and afterward go your way.

6 And they sat down, and did eat and drink both of them together: for the damsel's father had said unto the man, Be content, I pray thee, and tarry all night, and let thine heart be merry.

7 And when the man rose up to depart, his father in law urged him: therefore he lodged there again.

The Departure of the Levite

9 And when the man rose up to depart, he, and his concubine, and his servant, his father in law, the damsel's father, said unto him, Behold, now the day draweth toward evening, I pray you tarry all night: behold, the day groweth to an end, lodge here, that thine heart may be merry; and to morrow get you early on your way, that thou mayest go ¹home.

10 But the man would not tarry that night, but he rose up and departed, and came over against ^aJebus, which is Jerusalem; and there were with him two asses saddled, his concubine also was with him.

11 And when they were by Jebus, the day was far spent; and the servant said unto his master, Come, I pray thee, and let us turn in into this city ^aof the Jebusites, and lodge in it.

12 And his master said unto him, We will not turn aside hither into the city of a stranger, that is not of the children of Israel; we will pass over ^ato Gibeah.

13 And he said unto his servant, Come, and let us draw near to one of these places to ¹lodge all night, in Gibeah, or in ^aRamah.

14 And they passed on and went their way; and the sun went down upon them when they were by Gibeah, which belongeth to Benjamin.

15 And they turned aside thither, to go in and to ¹lodge in Gibeah: and when he went in, he sat him down
