18:29 Dan was a city near the southern foot of Mount Hermon, to which the Danites migrated (Judg. 18). It was the northernmost limit of ancient Israel, as indicated in the common phrase, “from Dan to Beer-sheba” (Judg. 20:1; 1 Sam. 3:20). Its ancient name was Laish or Leshem (Josh. 19:47; Judg. 18:7, 29). Dan had some connection with Sidon on the coast (Judg. 18:7). The tribe of Dan burned the city and rebuilt it when they migrated, giving it the name of their tribal ancestor (Judg. 18:29). Dan lay in the valley near Beth-rehob (Judg. 18:28). The Danites set up a graven image in the sanctuary they established (Judg. 18:30ff.). Jeroboam declared Bethel and Dan as centers of worship to replace Jerusalem when the kingdom was divided in 931 B.C. (1 Kin. 12:29). He made two golden calves and placed one at Bethel and the other at Dan (1 Kin. 12:27–29). This idolatrous shrine and the ritual at Dan continued till the conquest by Tiglath-pileser (2 Kin. 15:29). Recent excavations have revealed a gate from patriarchal times, the city gate from the time of the kings, and the pagan altar of Jeroboam.

A Place to Spend the Night

16 And, behold, there came an old man from ^ahis work out of the field at even, which was also of mount Ephraim; and he sojourned in Gibeah: but the men of the place were Benjamites.

17 And when he had lifted up his eyes, he saw a ¹wayfaring man in the street of the city: and the old man said, Whither goest thou? and whence comest thou?

18 And he said unto him, We are passing from Beth-lehem-judah toward the side of mount Ephraim; from thence am I: and I went to Beth-lehem-judah, but I am now going to ^athe house of the LORD; and there is no man that ¹receiveth me to house.

19 Yet there is both straw and provender for our asses; and there is bread and wine also for me, and for thy handmaid, and for the young man which is with thy servants: there is no want of any thing.

20 And the old man said, ^aPeace be with thee; howsoever let all thy wants lie upon me; ^bonly lodge not in the street.

21 ^aSo he brought him into his house, and gave ¹provender unto the asses: ^band they washed their feet, and did eat and drink.

The Sodomy of Gibeah

22 Now as they were ¹making their ^ahearts merry, behold, ^bthe men of the city, certain ^csons² of Belial, beset the house round about, and beat at the door, and spake to the master of the house, the old man, saying, ^aBring forth the man that came into thine house, that we may know him.

The Concubine Abused

25 But the men would not hear-ken to him: so the man took his concubine, and brought her forth unto them; and they ^aknew her, and abused her all the night until the morning: and when the day began to spring, they let her go.

26 Then came the woman in the dawning of the day, and fell down at the door of the man's house where her lord was, till it was light.

27 And her lord rose up in the morning, and opened the doors of the house, and went out to go his way: and, behold, the woman his concubine was fallen down at the door of the house, and her hands were upon the threshold.

28 And he said unto her, ¹Up, and let us be going. But ^anone answered. Then the man took her up upon an ass, and the man rose up, and gat him unto his place.

The Body Sent to the Tribes

29 And when he was come into his house, he took a knife, and laid hold on his concubine, and ^adivided¹ her, ²together with her bones, into twelve pieces, and sent her into all the coasts of Israel.

30 And it was so, that all that saw it said, There was no such deed done nor seen from the day that the children of Israel came up out of the land of Egypt unto this day: consider of it, ^atake¹ advice, and ²speak your minds.

19:22. The term sons of Belial (i.e., "worthless men") is used in the Old Testament of scoundrels (e.g., 1 Kin. 21:10) who commit various acts of wickedness such as: drunkenness (1 Sam. 1:16), hostility (1 Sam. 25:25), abuse of power (1 Sam. 2:12), idolatry (Deut. 13:13), rebelliousness (1 Sam. 10:27; 2 Sam. 16:7), lying and perverse speech (Prov. 6:12; 19:28), and sexual perversion (v. 22). Such people were utter reprobates. The term itself became used by later Jewish writers for Satan (cf. 2 Cor. 6:15).

19:29. The Levite's dismembering of his dead concubine and sending off the dozen parts, though a grisly deed, served as a bloody summons to all the tribes to come to his aid (cf. 1 Sam. 11:1-8).

Israel Gathers in Mizpeh

20 Then ^aall the children of Israel went out, and the congregation was gathered together as one man, from ^bDan even to ^cBeer-sheba, with the land of Gilead, unto the LORD ^din Mizpeh.

2 And the chief of all the people, even of all the tribes of Israel, presented themselves in the assembly of the people of God, four hundred thousand footmen ^athat drew sword.

3 (Now the children of Benjamin heard that the children of Israel were gone up to Mizpeh.) Then said the children of Israel, Tell us, ¹how was this wickedness?

4 And the Levite, the husband of the woman that was slain, answered and said, ^aI came into Gibeah that belongeth to Benjamin, I and my concubine, to ¹lodge.

5 ^aAnd the men of Gibeah rose against me, and beset the house round about upon me by night, and thought to have slain me: ^band my concubine have they ¹forced, that she is dead.

6 And ^aI took my concubine, and cut her in pieces, and sent her throughout all the country of the inheritance of Israel: for they ^bhave committed lewdness and ¹folly in Israel.

7 Behold, ye are all children of Israel; ^agive here your advice and counsel.

Israel Unites

8 And all the people arose as one man, saying, We will not any of us go to his tent, neither will we any of us turn into his house.

9 But now this shall be the thing which we will do to Gibeah; we will go up ^aby lot against it;

10 And we will take ten men of an hundred throughout all the tribes of Israel, and an hundred of a thousand, and a thousand out of ten thousand, to ¹fetch victual for the people, that they may do, when they come to Gibeah of Benjamin,

11 So all the men of Israel were gathered against the city, ¹knit together as one man.

12 ^aAnd the tribes of Israel sent men through all the tribe of Benjamin, saying, What wickedness is this that is done among you?

13 Now therefore deliver us the men, ^athe ¹children of Belial, which are in Gibeah, that we may put them to death, and ^bput away evil from Israel. But the children of Benjamin would not hearken to the voice of their brethren the children of Israel:

Benjamin Prepares for Battle

14 But the children of Benjamin gathered themselves together out of the cities unto Gibeah, to go out to battle against the children of Israel.

15 And the ^achildren of Benjamin were numbered at that time out of the cities twenty and six thousand men that drew sword, beside the inhabitants of Gibeah, which were numbered seven hundred chosen men.

16 Among all this people there were seven hundred chosen men ^alefthanded; every one could sling stones at an hair breadth, and not miss.

17 And the men of Israel, beside Benjamin, were numbered four hundred thousand men that drew sword: all these were men of war.

18 And the children of Israel arose, and ^awent up to ¹the house of God, and ^basked counsel of God, and said, Which of us shall go up first to the battle against the children of Benjamin? And the LORD said, ^cJudah shall go up first.

19 And the children of Israel rose up in the morning, and encamped against Gibeah.

20 And the men of Israel went out to battle against Benjamin; and the men of Israel put themselves in array to fight against them at Gibeah.

21 And ^athe children of Benjamin came forth out of Gibeah, and destroyed down to the ground of the Israelites that day twenty and two thousand men.

22 And the people the men of Israel encouraged themselves, and set their battle again in array in the place where they put themselves in array the first day.

23 (‘‘And the children of Israel went up and wept before the LORD until even, and asked counsel of the LORD, saying, Shall I go up again to battle against the children of Benjamin my brother? And the LORD said, Go up against him.)

24 And the children of Israel came near against the children of Benjamin the second day.

25 And ‘‘Benjamin went forth against them out of Gibeah the second day, and destroyed down to the ground of the children of Israel again eighteen thousand men; all these drew the sword.

Israel Seeks the Lord

26 Then all the children of Israel, and all the people, ‘‘went up, and came unto ¹the house of God, and wept, and sat there before the LORD, and fasted that day until even, and offered burnt offerings and peace offerings before the LORD.

27 And the children of Israel enquired of the LORD, (for ‘‘the ark of the covenant of God was there in those days, 28 ‘‘And Phinehas, the son of Eleazar, the son of Aaron, ^bstood before it in those days,) saying, Shall I yet again go out to battle against the children of Benjamin my brother, or shall I cease? And the LORD said, Go up; for to morrow I will deliver them into thine hand.

29 And Israel ‘‘set ¹liers in wait round about Gibeah.

30 And the children of Israel went up against the children of Benjamin on the third day, and put themselves in array against Gibeah, as at other times.

32 And the children of Benjamin said, They are smitten down before us, as at the first. But the children of Israel said, Let us flee, and draw them from the city unto the highways.

33 And all the men of Israel rose up out of their place, and put themselves in array at Baal-tamar: and the ¹liers in wait of Israel came forth out of their places, even out of the meadows of Gibeah.

34 And there came against Gibeah ten thousand chosen men out of all Israel, and the battle was ¹sore: ‘‘but they knew not that ²evil was near them.

35 And the LORD ¹smote Benjamin before Israel: and the children of Israel destroyed of the Benjamites that day twenty and five thousand and an hundred men: all these drew the sword.

36 So the children of Benjamin saw that they were smitten: ‘‘for the men of Israel gave place to the Benjamites, because they trusted unto the liers in wait which they had set beside Gibeah.

37 ‘‘And the ¹liers in wait hasted, and rushed upon Gibeah; and the ²liers in wait drew themselves along, and smote all the city with the edge of the sword.

Fire and Smoke in Gibeah

38 Now there was an appointed ¹sign between the men of Israel and the liers in wait, that they should make a great flame with ^asmoke rise up out of the city.

39 And when the men of Israel retired in the battle, Benjamin began ¹to smite and kill of the men of Israel about thirty persons: for they said, 20:37–42. The men of Gibeah were taken in a ruse reminiscent of Joshua’s victory at Ai (Josh. 8:4–29). The slaughter was enormous, with but a scant six hundred Benjaminite men having escaped (v. 47).

Surely they are smitten down before us, as in the first battle.

40 But when the flame began to arise up out of the city with a pillar of smoke, the Benjamites ^alooked behind them, and, behold, the flame of the city ascended up to heaven.

The Benjamites Destroyed

41 And when the men of Israel ¹turned again, the men of Benjamin were amazed: for they saw that ²evil was come upon them.

42 Therefore they ¹turned their backs before the men of Israel unto the way of the wilderness; but the battle overtook them; and them which came out of the cities they destroyed in the midst of them.

43 Thus they inclosed the Benjamites round about, and chased them, and ¹trode them down with ease over against Gibeah toward the ²sunrising.

44 And there fell of Benjamin eighteen thousand men; all these were men of valour.

45 And they turned and fled toward the wilderness unto the rock of ^aRimmon: and they ¹gleaned of them in the highways five thousand men; and pursued hard after them unto Gidom, and slew two thousand men of them.

46 So that all which fell that day of Benjamin were twenty and five thousand men that drew the sword; all these were ¹men of valour.

47 ^aBut six hundred men turned and fled to the wilderness unto the rock Rimmon, and abode in the rock Rimmon four months.

Wives for Benjamin

21 Now ^athe men of Israel had sworn in Mizpeh, saying, There shall not any of us give his daughter unto Benjamin to wife.

2 And the people came ^ato ¹the house of God, and abode there till even before God, and lifted up their voices, and wept ² sore;

3 And said, O LORD God of Israel, why is this come to pass in Israel, that there should be to day one tribe lacking in Israel?

4 And it came to pass on the morrow, that the people rose early, and ^abuilt there an altar, and offered burnt offerings and peace offerings.

5 And the children of Israel said, Who is there among all the tribes of Israel that came not up with the congregation unto the LORD? ^aFor they had made a great oath concerning him that came not up to the LORD to Mizpeh, saying, He shall surely be put to death.

6 And the children of Israel ¹repented them for Benjamin their brother, and said, There is one tribe cut off from Israel this day.

7 How shall we do for wives for them that remain, seeing we have sworn by the LORD that we will not give them of our daughters to wives?

Jabesh-gilead's Failure to Fight

8 And they said, What one is there of the tribes of Israel that came not up to Mizpeh to the LORD? And, behold, there came none to the camp from ^aJabesh-gilead to the assembly.

9 For the people were ¹numbered, and, behold, there were none of the inhabitants of Jabesh-gilead there.

21:1. Because only six hundred males were left to Benjamin from the previous warfare (cf. ch. 20), and because the other tribes had sworn not to allow their daughters to marry a Benjamite, the tribe faced possible extinction. The immoral solutions to the problem (vv. 11, 12, 23) demonstrate the closing observation of the book (v. 25). The following narratives concerning Ruth and Samuel, both set in the period of the Judges, thus form a welcome contrast to the widespread conditions of increasing national degeneracy in the era of the judges. Whenever God and His Word are not honored, the degenerate spiritual and moral standards, debased social conditions, and disordered civil authority pictured in these closing chapters are a likely result, a portrait often drawn by the Old Testament prophets. Had the tribe of Benjamin been totally wiped out, Saul (1 Sam. 9:1-2), Esther and Mordecai (Esth. 2:5), and the Apostle Paul (Phil. 3:5) would have never been born.

10 And the congregation sent thither twelve thousand men of the ¹valiantest, and commanded them, saying, “Go and smite the inhabitants of Jabesh-gilead with the edge of the sword, with the women and the children.

11 And this is the thing that ye shall do, ^aYe shall utterly destroy every male, and every woman that hath lain by man.

12 And they found among the inhabitants of Jabesh-gilead four hundred young virgins, that had known no man by lying with any male: and they brought them unto the camp to ^aShiloh, which is in the land of Canaan.

Peace with Benjamin

13 And the whole congregation sent some to speak to the children of Benjamin ^athat were in the rock Rimmon, and to ¹call peaceably unto them.

14 And Benjamin came again at that time; and they gave them wives which they had saved alive of the women of Jabesh-gilead: and yet ¹so they sufficed them not.

15 And the people ^arepented¹ them for Benjamin, because that the LORD had made a breach in the tribes of Israel.

16 Then the elders of the congregation said, How shall we do for wives for them that remain, seeing the women are destroyed out of Benjamin?

17 And they said, There must be an inheritance for them that be escaped of Benjamin, that a tribe be not destroyed out of Israel.

20 Therefore they commanded the children of Benjamin, saying, Go and lie in wait in the vineyards;

21 And see, and, behold, if the daughters of Shiloh come out ^ato dance in dances, then come ye out of the vineyards, and catch you every man his wife of the daughters of Shiloh, and go to the land of Benjamin.

22 And it shall be, when their fathers or their brethren come unto us to complain, that we will say unto them, ¹Be favourable unto them for our sakes: because we reserved not to each man his wife in the war: for ye did not give unto them at this time, that ye should be guilty.

Benjamites Rebuild Their Cities

23 And the children of Benjamin did so, and took them wives, according to their number, of them that danced, whom they caught: and they went and returned unto their inheritance, and ^arepaired¹ the cities, and dwelt in them.

24 And the children of Israel departed thence at that time, every man to his tribe and to his family, and they went out from thence every man to his inheritance.

The Book of RUTH

The Book of Ruth derives its name from its principal character. The biographical sketch of this godly young Moabitess contains much information concerning the customs of the ancient Near East and provides its readers with some valuable data regarding the ancestry of King David. It also demonstrates God's gracious concern for all mankind, Jew and Gentile alike. The book was read at the Feast of Pentecost.

Historical Setting. The opening verse places the book in the era of the judges, at a time of great famine. Such a condition existed in the days of the Midianite oppression (cf. Judg. 6:3–6). If this was the occasion spoken of in the Book of Ruth, a date in the middle of the twelfth century B.C. would be distinctly possible for the events narrated here. Besides the opening statement of the book, the internal evidence reveals an intimate acquaintance with ancient Hebrew and Near Eastern social customs (chs. 3, 4). These data argue strongly for an early date. Moreover, Jewish canonical tradition links Judges and Ruth together as one book, again pointing to an early date. Thus seen, the Book of Ruth provides its readers with a light of spiritual faithfulness in a period of otherwise spiritual darkness.

Authorship. The author of the Book of Ruth is not known, although several suggestions have been made, the most prominent of which is Samuel. Because some of the customs have to be explained to its readers (e.g., 4:7) and a genealogical sketch from Ruth's day down to King David is appended to the book, some portions of Ruth must have received a final editing in the early days of the United Monarchy.

The author has many purposes. (1) Historically, he provides information as to certain activities and customs in the period of the judges. (2) Theologically, the book emphasizes the sovereign activity of God's providential working in the affairs of man. Not only does God's promise to the seed of Abraham go on through the troubled time of the judges, but He so arranges the details of earth's history and the chosen line to include salvation for Gentiles as well. Ruth thus provides an important link in the unfolding messianic genealogy. (3) Devotionally, the book provides several analogies between the work of the kinsman-redeemer of ancient Israel and that of Jesus Christ, who serves as the saving Mediator for all men. It also assures the believer of God's continuing love for a helpless mankind and of His willingness to meet man's needs. An exciting story of true romance, the book also gives instruction in practical living in such things as personal morality, a genuine concern for the needs of others, and the necessity for personal godliness in the face of testing and adversity. A great deal of helpful information for today's Christian woman may also be found in the example of Ruth, whose virtues of godliness, purity, humility, honesty, fidelity, and thoughtfulness remain an exemplary standard for all. Similarly, Boaz becomes for the Christian man a model of God-given strength, honor, graciousness, courtesy, and compassion that can give encouragement for becoming a believing gentleman in the finest sense of the word.

Elimelech's Journey to Moab

1 Now it came to pass in the days when ^athe judges ¹ruled, that there was ^ba famine in the land. And a certain man of ^cBeth-lehem-judah went to ²sojourn in the country of ^aMoab, he, and his wife, and his two sons.

2 And the name of the man was Elimelech, and the name of his wife Naomi, and the name of his two sons Mahlon and Chilion, ^aEphrathites of Beth-lehem-judah. And they came ^binto the country of Moab, and ¹continued there.

3 And Elimelech Naomi's husband died; and she was left, and her two sons.

4 And they took them wives of the women of Moab; the name of the one was Orpah, and the name of the other Ruth: and they ¹dwelled there about ten years.

5 And Mahlon and Chilion died also both of them; and the woman was left of her two sons and her husband.

Naomi to Return to Judah

6 Then she arose with her daughters in law, that she might return from the country of Moab: for she had heard in the country of Moab how that the LORD had ^avisited¹ his people in ^bgiving them bread.

7 Wherefore she went forth out of the place where she was, and her two daughters in law with her; and they went on the way to return unto the land of Judah.

8 And Naomi said unto her two daughters in law, ^aGo, return each to her mother's house: ^bthe LORD deal kindly with you, as ye have dealt ^cwith the LORD, and with me.

9 The LORD grant you that ye may find ^arest, each ^{of you} in the house of her husband. Then she kissed them; and they lifted up their voice, and wept.

10 And they said unto her, Surely we will return with thee unto thy people.

11 And Naomi said, Turn again, my daughters: why will ye go with

1:1. Such a famine may have occurred in the days of Gideon (Judg. 6:3-6). Bethlehem (Gen. 35:19; 48:7; Ruth 4:11; 1 Sam. 17:12; 1 Chr. 2:19, 24; Mic. 5:2).

1:2. The term Ephrathite may refer to the traditional or aristocratic citizenry descended from the earlier inhabitants of Ephrath, which subsequently became the children of such unions (cf. Deut. 23:3).

1:1 Moab was situated along the eastern border of the Dead Sea, on the plateau between the Dead Sea and the Arabian Desert. It was about 35 miles long and 25 miles wide. Although primarily a high plateau, Moab also had mountainous areas and deep gorges. It was a fertile area for crops and herds. The nation of Edom was to the south and west of Moab, and to its north was Ammon. The tribe of Reuben displaced the Moabites from the northern part of their territory after the Israelites invaded the land of Canaan. The tribe of Gad pushed the Ammonites eastward into the desert. Moab, the founder of the Moabites, was a son of Lot by incest (Gen. 19:30-38). Balak, the king of the Moabites, joined with the Midianites in hiring Balaam to curse Israel (Num. 22:1-20). Eglon, a king of Moab, oppressed Israel in the judges' period (Judg. 3:12-30) and was killed by Ehud. Ruth was a Moabite and became an ancestor of King David and of Christ Himself (2:6; 4:13-22; Matt. 1:5-16). David conquered Moab (2 Sam. 8:2), and the Moabites remained subject to Israel until after Solomon's death. Isaiah and Jeremiah prophesied Moab's defeat and subsequent destruction (Is. 15, 16; Jer. 48). Some of the Jews fled to Moab when Jerusalem was destroyed in 586 B.C. (Jer. 40:11, 12).

13 Would ye tarry for them till they were grown? would ye ¹stay for them from having husbands? nay, my daughters; for it grieveth me much for your sakes that ^athe hand of the LORD is gone out against me.

14 And they lifted up their voice, and wept again: and Orpah kissed her mother in law; but Ruth ^aclave¹ unto her.

15 And she said, Behold, thy sister in law is gone back unto ^aher people, and unto her gods: ^breturn thou after thy sister in law.

Arrival in Beth-lehem

19 So they two went until they came to Beth-lehem. And it came to pass, when they were come to Beth-lehem, that ^aall the city was ¹moved about them, and they said, ^bIs this Naomi?

20 And she said unto them, Call me not ¹Naomi, call me ²Mara: for the Almighty hath dealt very bitterly with me.

21 I went out full, ^aand the LORD hath brought me home again empty: why then call ye me Naomi, seeing

1:11. The law of Moses provided for the custom of levirate marriage by which a childless widow would be married by her husband's brother so as to raise up an heir for the deceased (Deut. 25:5–10). Because both of her sons were dead and she was not then pregnant, Naomi could offer her daughters-in-law no hope of protection via this custom. She therefore advises the girls to return to their own people. Naomi's thoughtfulness is underscored throughout the book.

1:16, 17. Ruth's faith and faithfulness are in evidence throughout the book, as expressed here in her commitment to Naomi's God as her own. Ruth's own concern for Naomi is bound by a strong oath made before the LORD Himself.

1:20. The name Naomi carries with it the ideas of pleasantness and delight. Her great loss seemed to belie her name. Rather, her situation appeared to merit the name Mara, "Bitter." Naomi calls God by the well-known patriarchal name Shaddai, "The Almighty One" (cf. Gen. 17:1; Job 5:17). Despite her sorrow, she acknowledges the sovereignty of God over her life.

1:4 Ruth was a Moabite who married Mahlon of the Judahite family of Elimelech. Widowed and childless, she abandoned her family, country, and faith to accompany her mother-in-law, Naomi, to Bethlehem. Her radical actions continued as she secured food for herself and Naomi, and summoned the relative Boaz to be their redeemer according to God's Word (Deut. 25:5–10). Boaz married her. She bore a son who became the grandfather of Judah's greatest king, David. The women of Bethlehem exalted Ruth as the loving daughter-in-law who meant more to Naomi than seven sons, the ideal number, would have (4:15). Thus her name later appears in Matthew's genealogy of Jesus (Matt. 1:5). Her firm commitment—"Thy people shall be my people, and thy God my God" (v. 16)—brought a rich reward to the family, nation, and ultimately all mankind. All of this occurred against the dark background of the judges' period, when "every man did that which was right in his own eyes," and when so few individuals really lived committed, faithful, and godly lives. (First Reference, Ruth 1:4; Primary References, Ruth 1—4.)

1:19 Beth-lehem, Beth-lehem-judah, or Ephrath, or Ephrathah, is located on the edge of the desert of Judah about five miles south of Jerusalem. It is situated on a rocky spur of the mountains of Judah about 2,500 feet above sea level, just off the main road to Hebron and Egypt. Bethlehem is surrounded by fertile fields, fig and olive orchards, and vineyards. The city was the burial place of Rachel, the wife of Jacob (Gen. 35:19). It was also the setting for much of the Book of Ruth. Bethlehem was the ancestral home of King David (1 Sam. 17:12) and was rebuilt and fortified by King Rehoboam (2 Chr. 11:6). The prophet Micah predicted that Bethlehem would be the birthplace of the Messiah (Mic. 5:2), a prophecy quoted in Matthew 2:6. Jesus was born in "the city of David," Bethlehem. Christ, who is the Bread of Life, was cradled in a town whose name means "House of Bread."

the LORD hath testified against me, and ¹the Almighty hath afflicted me?

22 So Naomi returned, and Ruth the Moabite, her daughter in law, with her, which returned out of the country of Moab: and they came to Beth-lehem ^ain the beginning of barley harvest.

Ruth Gleans in the Fields

2 And Naomi had a ^akinsman of her husband's, a mighty man of wealth, of the family of ^bElimelech; and his name was ^cBoaz.

2 And Ruth the Moabite said unto Naomi, Let me now go to the ^afield, and glean ¹ears of corn after ^{him} in whose sight I shall find grace. And she said unto her, Go, my daughter.

3 And she went, and came, and gleaned in the field after the reapers: and ¹her hap was to light on a part of the field ^{belonging} unto Boaz, who ^{was} of the kindred of Elimelech.

2:1. Kinsman is the marginal reading of the Hebrew text. The consonantal text indicates that Boaz was a close acquaintance. The point of the verse appears to be that Elimelech's relative was well-known both to Naomi and her husband. Only because Naomi was Elimelech's wife could Boaz qualify to become the gō'el (see the note on 3:9) so that Naomi could seek his help in the matter of her husband's estate. Boaz was a man of substance, having both personal wealth and an impeccable reputation.

2:2. The right of the poor to pick up the grain left by the reapers was guaranteed by the law of Moses (Lev. 19:9, 10; 23:22; Deut. 24:19).

2:3. Ruth "happened" to come to the section of the field belonging to Boaz. Naomi later recognized that this was through the providence of a gracious God (v. 20).

2:12. Boaz's appreciation of Ruth's kindness strikes a similar chord in his own feelings. He recognizes his opportunity to give protection and provision as would

2:1 Boaz was a wealthy landowner in Bethlehem in Judah who lived "when the judges ruled" Israel (c. the twelfth century B.C.). He was kind to Ruth, a Moabite widow of his kinsman Mahlon, whose mother, Naomi, was the sole survivor of an Ephrathite family. Boaz ultimately married Ruth and redeemed Naomi's land. Boaz's first son by Ruth, Obed, was pledged as Mahlon's, thus perpetuating the memory of the deceased upon his estate (Deut. 25:5-10). Obed was also deemed Boaz's first son and thus served to link Boaz's ancestry in the tribe of Judah to Obed's grandson, David the king. Boaz appears in the seventh position of David's genealogy (4:18-22; 1 Chr. 2:9-15) and is thus related to Jesus Christ, David's greater son (Matt. 1:3-6; Luke 3:31-33). Boaz Shows Favor to Ruth

14 And Boaz said unto her, At mealtime come thou hither, and eat of the bread, and dip thy morsel in the vinegar. And she sat beside the reapers: and he reached her parched corn, and she did eat, and ^awas sufficed, and left.

15 And when she was risen up to ¹glean, Boaz commanded his young men, saying, Let her glean even among the sheaves, and ²reproach her not:

16 And let fall also some of the handfuls of purpose for her, and leave them, that she may glean them, and rebuke her not.

17 So she gleaned in the field until even, and beat out that she had gleaned: and it was about an ephah of ^abarley.

18 And she took it up, and went into the city: and her mother in law saw what she had gleaned: and she brought forth, and gave to her ^athat¹ she had reserved after she was sufficed.

2:16-19. Boaz's extraordinary goodness in seeing to it that Ruth had special privileges in the gleanings enabled her to gather several days' supply in complete safety. Her mother in law recognized that Ruth must have received distinct favor from someone and wanted to know his name.

3:9. Near kinsman (Heb. gō'ēl) designates one of the social institutions among the Hebrews. Two of his many family responsibilities are in evidence in the Book of Ruth. (1) He was charged with redeeming family property that had been lost or was about to be lost by sale (4:3; cf. Lev. 25:25-34). (2) He was obligated to marry the widow of the deceased near relative so as to raise up children to the name of the dead (4:5; cf. Deut. 25:5-10). The law of near kinsman operated on the principle of degree of closeness of relationship. Boaz brings both duties to bear as one issue in the case of Ruth (4:3-5). Naomi's instructions to Ruth to seek out Boaz are apparently in accordance with social propriety in that the widow could initiate proceedings relative to the securing of the gō'ēl. Ruth's request that Boaz spread his skirt over thine handmaid is a symbolic pledge of marriage (cf. Ezek. 16:8-14). It reflects a well-known custom in the ancient Near East that is still practiced in some quarters. The Lord had so moved in the lives of Boaz and Ruth that the duties of family institutions were reinforced by a genuine love for one another. Accordingly, Boaz took special measures to see that no impropriety would mark the occasion (vv. 11-14).

4:1. The city gate served as the place where public affairs were carried on, especially for the administration of justice (Deut. 21:19; 22:24; Josh. 20:4; 2 Kin. 10:8) or for the transaction of business arrangements (Gen. 23:10, 18; 2 Kin. 7:1).

Naomi, thou must buy it also of Ruth the Moabitess, the wife of the dead, ^ato raise up the name of the dead upon his inheritance.

6 ^aAnd the kinsman said, I cannot redeem it for myself, lest I ¹mar mine own inheritance: redeem thou my ²right to thyself; for I cannot redeem it.

7 ^aNow this was the manner in former time in Israel concerning redeeming and concerning ¹changing, for to confirm all things; a man plucked off his shoe, and gave it to his neighbour: and this was ²a testimony in Israel.

8 Therefore the kinsman said unto Boaz, Buy it for thee. So he drew off his shoe.

9 And Boaz said unto the elders, and unto all the people, Ye are witnesses this day, that I have bought all that was Elimelech's, and all that was Chilion's and Mahlon's, of the hand of Naomi.

The Birth of Obed

13 So Boaz ^atook Ruth, and she was his wife: and when he went in unto her, ^bthe LORD gave her conception, and she bare a son.

14 And ^athe women said unto Naomi, Blessed be the LORD, which hath not left thee this day without a ¹kinsman, that his name may be famous in Israel.

15 And he shall be unto thee a restorer of thy life, and a ¹nourisher of thine old age: for thy daughter in law, which loveth thee, which is ^abetter to thee than seven sons, hath born him.

16 And Naomi took the child, and laid it in her bosom, and became nurse unto it.

17 ^aAnd the women her neighbours gave it a name, saying, There is a son born to Naomi; and they called his name Obed: he is the father of Jesse, the father of David.

Generations to David

18 ^aNow these are the generations of Pharez: ^bPharez begat Hezron,

19 And Hezron begat Ram, and Ram begat Amminadab,

21 And Salmon begat Boaz, and Boaz begat Obed,

22 And Obed begat Jesse, and Jesse begat ^aDavid.

4:6. Although the nearer kinsman wanted to redeem the field that Naomi had up for sale, apparently the additional expense of providing for a wife, together with the probability of losing the property if a son should be born to the widow, caused the nearer kinsman to relinquish his rights to Boaz.

4:7. Since Boaz had arranged all the business details relative to acting as the near kinsman, no disgrace would attach to the nearer kinsman (cf. Deut. 25:9). The transfer of the shoe symbolized the relinquishing of his right to act as the nearest kinsman and the exchange of his authority in the matter to another.

4:9, 10. Boaz was able and willing to serve fully as the gō'ēl both in the redemption of the field and in marriage to Ruth. The story serves as a vivid reminder of the Son of Man who, being rich (2 Cor. 8:9), willingly died in behalf of a destitute mankind (Rom. 5:6-11; Heb. 12:1, 2), which He took into union with Himself as His beloved bride (2 Cor. 11:2; Rev. 19:6-9).

4:17-22. The list of 10 generations from Pharez, Judah's illegitimate son, to David seems to reflect the prohibition in Deuteronomy 23:2 (see note) and serves to legitimize David's claim to the throne of Israel. From the union of Boaz and Ruth was to come the line of descendants that gave birth to King David, through whom came Jesus Christ. Thus, through the union of Jew and Gentile would ultimately come the Savior of all men (Acts 4:12). The marriage of Boaz and Ruth may thus serve as a picture of Christ and His church through whom all believers become one (Eph. 2:11-22).

The First Book of
SAMUEL

The books of Samuel were originally one book in the Hebrew Canon. The single volume of Samuel was divided into two by the translators of the Greek Old Testament, the Septuagint, who viewed Samuel and Kings together as the “Books of the Kingdoms.” The Book of Kings of the Hebrew Scriptures was likewise divided into two books, and the four books then constituted the “Books of the Kingdoms.” Accordingly, 1 and 2 Samuel were called the First and Second Books of the Kingdoms in the Septuagint, and 1 and 2 Kings were termed the Third and Fourth Books of the Kingdoms. When the Old Testament was translated into the Latin Vulgate, the term “Books of the Kingdoms” was dropped and the present division of both Samuel and Kings became standard for the Western church. The books of Samuel bear the name of the principal character of its first portion.

Historical Setting. The narrative in 1 Samuel is centered around Israel’s last judge, Samuel, who also served the Lord as priest and prophet. The books of Samuel go on to sketch Israel’s cry for a king and the resultant selection of Saul as its first king, the failure of Saul, and the growing contest between Saul and David which was resolved with the establishment of the Davidic Kingdom. The period covers nearly a century of Israelite history (c. 1064–971 B.C.), tracing the fortunes of Israel from the depths of apostasy and political fragmentation in the closing era of the judges up to the growing triumphs of the united monarchy. In God’s providence, the possibility for Israel’s increasing grandeur lay in the collapse of the power of Egypt during its Twentieth and Twenty-first Dynasties, the disappearance of the once-mighty Hittite Empire by the onset of the twelfth century B.C., and the declining strength of the Assyrian and Babylonian nations in Mesopotamia. Events in Israel for the next several centuries would also be affected by the presence of numerous small but active Aramean kingdoms on Israel’s northern boundaries. Even Israel’s clamor for a king was somewhat conditioned by the regal fashion of the age.

Authorship. The author of the two books of Samuel is unknown. According to Jewish tradition, Samuel had written the earlier portions of 1 Samuel, and his work had been supported by the prophets Nathan and Gad (cf. 1 Chr. 29:29). Because 1 Samuel 27:6 indicates that the division of the kingdom had already taken place, the final edited form of the two books must have taken place after the death of Solomon in 931 B.C. Whatever the origin of the earlier material, apparently some prophet, probably from Judah, put it into its final form early in the days of the divided monarchy.

The books of Samuel have more than biographical and historical interest. The central theme of the books traces God’s gracious and overruling sovereignty in the sad state of affairs in Israel at the end of the period of judges by His providential selection of righteous men (i.e., Samuel and David) who would weld the nation into an instrument of His will and a people for Himself. Despite Israel’s rejection of God as King, He would prove faithful and eventually see to the appointment of a godly king, David. With this one He would enter into an everlasting covenant that would affect the destiny of both Israel and all the world. For through David would come Israel's King par excellence, Israel's Messiah and the Savior of the world, the Lord Jesus Christ.

1:1. Some have suggested a contradiction between the tribal background of Samuel as given here and that presented in 1 Chronicles 6:25, where Samuel's father is said to be a descendant of the priestly family of Kohath. Actually, this verse stresses Elkanah's residence among the Ephraimites, without calling particular attention to his Levitical descent. Variations between the names of the lineage of Samuel presented here and in 1 Chronicles 6:25 and 1 Chronicles 6:33-35 are simply matters of spelling conventions. Ramathaim-zophim is a longer name for the city of Ramah (cf. v. 19), which belonged to the descendants of Zuph.

1:2. Although he was a priest, Elkanah had a second wife because Hannah was barren (cf. Deut. 21:15-17). Multiple marriages were also allowed in the case of levirate marriage (Deut. 25:5-10; cf. the note on Ruth 3:9).

1:3. LORD of hosts, a military term that occurs about 260 more times in the Old Testament, stresses that the Lord is the ultimate Leader of Israel's armies (cf. 17:45). It also underscores His universal sovereignty over all nations (Is. 37:16), and over all creation (Amos 4:13). Thus, the term encompasses His universal rule over all forces whether in heaven or on earth, and anticipates His eventual subjugation of all those who oppose Him (cf. Is. 24:21-23; 34:1-10). Shiloh had served as the resting place of the tabernacle, hence was the religious center of Israel since the time of the conquest (cf. Josh. 18:1). The ark of the covenant rested there until its capture by the Philistines (4:3-11). Shiloh was about 20 miles north of Jerusalem.

1:3 Eli was a descendant of Ithamar, the fourth son of Aaron, who was the high priest in Shiloh when Samuel was born. For the first time in Israel, Eli embodied the functions of high priest and judge, judging Israel for 40 years (4:18). He was a deeply pious man whose service to the Lord was unblemished. However, he was a lax father who could not control his two sons, Phinehas and Hophni. They were both priests who took meat from sacrificial animals before they were dedicated to God and "lay with the women that assembled at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation" (1 Sam. 2:22). God killed these two sons. When Eli heard the news he fell backward and broke his neck. God's final judgment against Eli and his descendants occurred when Solomon removed Eli's descendant Abiathar as high priest, and replaced him with Zadok (1 Kin. 2:35). (First Reference, 1 Sam. 1:9; Primary References, 1 Sam. 1:9—4:18.)

when she went up to the house of the LORD, so she provoked her; therefore she wept, and did not eat.

8 Then said Elkanah her husband to her, Hannah, why weepest thou? and why eatest thou not? and why is thy heart grieved? am not I a better to thee than ten sons?

Hannah's Prayer and Vow

9 So Hannah rose up after they had eaten in Shiloh, and after they had drunk. Now Eli the priest sat upon a seat by a post of a the 1 temple of the LORD.

10 a And she was in bitterness of soul, and prayed unto the LORD, and wept 1 sore.

11 And she a vowed a vow, and said, O LORD of hosts, if thou wilt indeed b look on the affliction of thine handmaid, and c remember me, and not forget thine handmaid, but wilt give unto thine handmaid a man child, then I will give him unto the LORD all the days of his life, and there d shall no razor come upon his head.

12 And it came to pass, as she continued praying before the LORD, that Eli marked her mouth.

13 Now Hannah, she spake in her heart; only her lips moved, but her voice was not heard: therefore Eli thought she had been drunken.

14 And Eli said unto her, How long wilt thou be drunken? put away thy wine from thee.

Samuel's Birth

19 And they rose up in the morning early, and worshipped before the LORD, and returned, and came to their house to Ramah: and Elkanah a knew Hannah his wife; and the LORD b remembered her.

20 Wherefore it came to pass, when the time was come about after Hannah had conceived, that she bare a son, and called his name 1 Samuel, saying, Because I have asked him of the LORD.

21 And the man Elkanah, and all his house, a went up to offer unto the LORD the yearly sacrifice, and his vow.

22 But Hannah went not up; for she said unto her husband, I will not go up until the child be weaned, and

1:4–8. The scriptural record does not commend Elkanah's polygamy; it merely reports it. Jesus asserts that God's plan called for a man to have but one wife (Matt. 19:3–6; cf. Gen. 2:21–24; Prov. 5:18; Eccl. 9:9). The integrity of Elkanah may be seen in that he followed the stipulations of the law in providing for the needs of all his household, as demanded in cases where a man had more than one wife (cf. Deut.

21:15–17). Elkanah truly loved Hannah and treated her tenderly despite her infertility.

1:11. Hannah's vow was a serious one (cf. Eccl. 5:4, 5). Her pledge was that if God would grant her a son, he would be consecrated as a Nazirite for service to the LORD for his entire life. See the note on Judges 13:5.

1:16. The term daughter of Belial means a worthless or wicked woman. See the note on Judges 19:22.

1:20 Samuel was the earliest of the great Hebrew prophets (after Moses) and the last judge of Israel. Samuel is recognized as one of the greatest leaders of Israel (Jer. 15:1; Heb. 11:32). He first served with Eli the priest. Here Samuel heard the voice of God, calling him especially, to serve as a priest and prophet in Israel (3:1–20). After Eli's death, Samuel became the judge of Israel (ch. 7). Samuel led his people against their Philistine oppressors. When he was an old man, Samuel anointed Saul as the first king of Israel and later anointed David as Saul's successor. Although dead, Samuel appeared to Saul after Saul had gone to the witch of Endor (ch. 28). Even from the grave, Samuel still spoke the Word of God to Saul: "The LORD is departed from thee, and is become thine enemy" (28:16). (First Reference, 1 Sam. 1:20; Primary References, 1 Sam. 1:20—8:22.)

then I will ^abring him, that he may appear before the LORD, and there ^babide ^cfor ever.

23 And ^aElkanah her husband said unto her, Do what seemeth thee good; tarry until thou have weaned him; ¹only the LORD establish his word. So the woman abode, and ²gave her son suck until she weaned him.

Samuel Taken to Eli

24 And when she had weaned him, she ^atook him up with her, with three bullocks, and one ephah of flour, and a bottle of wine, and brought him unto ^bthe house of the LORD in Shiloh: and the child was young.

25 And they slew a bullock, and ^abrought the child to Eli.

26 And she said, Oh my lord, ^aas thy soul liveth, my lord, I am the woman that stood by thee here, praying unto the LORD.

27 ^aFor this child I prayed; and the LORD hath given me my petition which I asked of him:

1:24. Samuel would probably have been two or three years old when Hannah presented him to Eli in Shiloh.

1:27, 28. The various Hebrew words here contain a play on the word ask. Hannah had asked the LORD for a son (v. 20) and the Lord had granted her asking (v. 27). Accordingly, she on her part had granted an asking (dedicated)—she had given Samuel as a lifelong asked-for (consecrated) person to the Lord (v. 28).

2:1. The horn (cf. v. 10) was an ancient symbol of great strength (Num. 23:22; 24:8; Dan. 7:21). At times it was used of the successful establishment of a progeny (Deut. 33:16, 17; 1 Chr. 25:5; Ps. 132:17). Hannah owes her strength and newly found success to the Lord's provision for her. Her psalm (vv. 1-10) praises the LORD for giving her victory in the issues of life.

2:2. Rock is a frequent symbolic metaphor of God as a place of security and rest (Ps. 31:3; 71:3). Accordingly, it becomes easily applicable to the person of Christ (1 Cor. 10:4; 1 Pet. 2:6-8).

2:6. Hannah's declaration takes its place beside many other texts demonstrating that Old Testament believers clearly understood there was life after death (cf. Job 14:14; 19:25-27; Ps. 17:14, 15; 49:14, 15; 73:24-26; Is. 26:19; Dan. 12:1-3).

2:8. God is often portrayed as the Defender of the needy, such as the widow, the orphan, the poor, and the stranger (cf. Deut. 27:19; Ps. 68:1-5; 82:3, 4; Prov. 22:22, 23; Jer. 22:3). Hannah's reference to the pillars of the earth is not scientific language, but popular and poetic. The Creator and Sustainer of the earth is also the sovereign Controller of earth's history and mankind's destiny.

2:10. The Lord's presence in power is often associated with thunder (cf. Ps. 18:13; 29:3; 77:18). The mention of God's king, his anointed, is predictive of the messianic king of whom each king in the Davidic line was, ideally, an earthly representative (cf. Ps. 45:6, 7; Heb. 1:8, 9).

shall be ^abroken to pieces; ^bout of heaven shall he thunder upon them: ^cthe LORD shall judge the ends of the earth; and ^dhe shall give ^estrength unto his king, and ^fexalt the ¹horn of his anointed.

11 And Elkanah went to Ramah to his house. And the child did ¹minister unto the LORD before Eli the priest.

Misuse of Offerings

12 Now the sons of Eli were ^asons¹ of Belial; ^bthey knew not the LORD.

13 And the priest's custom with the people was, that, when any man offered sacrifice, the priest's servant came, while the flesh was in seething, with a fleshhook of three teeth in his hand;

14 And he struck it into the pan, or kettle, or caldron, or pot; all that the fleshhook brought up the priest took for himself. So they did in ^aShiloh unto all the Israelites that came thither.

15 Also before they ^aburnt the fat, the priest's servant came, and said to the man that sacrificed, Give flesh to roast for the priest; for he will not have ¹sodden flesh of thee, but raw.

16 And if any man said unto him, Let them not fail to burn the fat ¹presently, and then take as much as thy soul desireth; then he would answer him, Nay; but thou shalt give it me now: and if not, I will take it by force.

17 Wherefore the sin of the young men was very great ^abefore the LORD: for men ^babhorred¹ the offering of the LORD.

20 And Eli ^ablessed Elkanah and his wife, and said, The LORD give thee seed of this woman for the ¹loan which is ^blent² to the LORD. And they went unto their own home.

21 And the LORD ^avisited¹ Hannah, so that she conceived, and bare three sons and two daughters. And the child Samuel ^bgrew before the LORD.

Eli's Rebuke of His Sons

22 Now Eli was very old, and heard all that his sons did unto all Israel; and how they lay with ^athe women that assembled at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation.

23 And he said unto them, Why do ye such things? for I hear of your evil dealings by all this people.

24 Nay, my sons; for it is no good report that I hear: ye make the LORD's people to transgress.

25 If one man sin against another, ¹the ^ajudge shall judge him: but if a man ^bsin against the LORD, who shall intreat for him? Notwithstanding they hearkened not unto the voice of their father, ^abecause the LORD would slay them.

26 And the child Samuel ^agrew on, and was ^bin favour both with the LORD, and also with men.

Eli to Be Cut Off

27 And there came a ^aman of God unto Eli, and said unto him, Thus saith the LORD, ^bDid I plainly appear unto the house of thy father, when they were in Egypt in Pharaoh's house?

28 And did I ^achoose him out of all the tribes of Israel to be my priest, to offer upon mine altar, to burn incense, to wear an ephod before me?

2:12. For the sons of Belial, see the note on Judges 19:22.

2:18. Ephod (cf. v. 28 and the note on 23:6) means a linen covering worn customarily by those in priestly service.

2:25. The sins of Eli's sons were not only crimes against their fellowmen (vv. 13-17, 22), but against God Himself. Such conduct could only draw severe judgment (cf. v. 34 with 4:11). The case of Eli's sons demonstrates the need for firm parental instruction and supervision, especially in the home of one who ministers in the name of the LORD (v. 29; cf. 3:13; 1 Tim. 3:4, 5).

2:27. Man of God is one of several terms used in the Old Testament for a prophet. It stresses the nature of his relationship to God: he is, above all, God's man.

and ^bdid I give unto the house of thy father all the offerings made by fire of the children of Israel?

29 Wherefore ^akick ye at my sacrifice and at mine offering, which I have commanded in my ^bhabitation; and honourst thy sons above ^cme, to make yourselves fat with the ¹chiefest of all the offerings of Israel my people?

30 Wherefore the LORD God of Israel saith, ^aI said indeed that thy house, and the house of thy father, should walk before me for ever: but now the LORD saith, ^bBe it far from me; for them that honour me I will honour, and ^cthey that despise me shall be lightly esteemed.

31 Behold, ^athe days come, that I will cut off thine ¹arm, and the arm of thy father's house, that there shall not be an old man in thine house.

32 And thou shalt see an enemy in my habitation, in all the wealth which God shall give Israel: and there shall not be ^aan old man in thine house for ever.

33 And the man of thine, whom I shall not cut off from mine altar, shall be to consume thine eyes, and to grieve thine heart: and all ¹the increase of thine house shall die in the flower of their age.

34 And this shall be ^aa sign unto thee, that shall come upon thy two sons, on Hophni and Phinehas; ^bin one day they shall die both of them.

A Call from the Lord

3 And ^athe child Samuel ministered unto the LORD before Eli. And ^bthe word of the LORD was ¹precious in those days; there was no open vision.

2 And it came to pass at that time, when Eli was laid down in his place, and his eyes began to wax ^adim, that he could not see;

3 And ere ^athe lamp of God went out in the ¹temple of the LORD, where the ark of God was, and Samuel was laid down to sleep;

4 That the LORD called Samuel: and he answered, Here am I.

5 And he ran unto Eli, and said, Here am I; for thou calledst me. And he said, I called not; lie down again. And he went and lay down.

6 And the LORD called yet again, Samuel. And Samuel arose and went to Eli, and said, Here am I; for thou didst call me. And he answered, I called not, my son; lie down again.

7 Now Samuel ^adid not yet know the LORD, neither was the word of the LORD yet revealed unto him.

8 And the LORD called Samuel again the third time. And he arose and went to Eli, and said, Here am I; for thou didst call me. And Eli perceived that the LORD had called the child.

9 Therefore Eli said unto Samuel, Go, lie down: and it shall be, if he call thee, that thou shalt say, ^aSpeak, LORD; for thy servant heareth. So Samuel went and lay down in his place.

2:31-36. This prophetic denunciation declares that the family of Eli, from the high priestly house of Ithamar, would have its privilege removed and that the high priesthood would be given to another line. This apparently took place in the time of Solomon when the high priesthood was transferred back to Zadok of the line of Eleazar, where it had been before Eli's time (cf. Num. 20:22-28; 25:11-13 with 4:3; 1 Kin. 2:26, 27). To Zadok's house is promised a perpetual priesthood (Ezek. 44:15; 48:11).

3:1. The severity of Israel's apostasy (cf. Judg. 21:25) caused a dearth of God's revelatory work. The condition was perpetuating and self-defeating (cf. Prov. 29:18). By God's grace, the prophetic institution would receive renewed impetus and standardization in the person and work of Samuel (cf. 3:21; 19:20).

3:3. The ark at Shiloh apparently was housed in some type of permanent structure (cf. v. 15). The lamp was situated outside of the veil in the Holy Place and burned from evening until morning (Lev. 24:3).

God's Message to Samuel

10 And the LORD came, and stood, and called as at other times, Samuel, Samuel. Then Samuel answered, Speak; for thy servant heareth.

11 And the LORD said to Samuel, Behold, I will do a thing in Israel, ^aat which both the ears of every one that heareth it shall tingle.

12 In that day I will perform against Eli ^aall things which I have spoken concerning his house: when I begin, I will also make an end.

13 ^aFor I have told him that I will ^bjudge his house for ever for the iniquity which he knoweth; because ^chis sons made themselves vile, and he ^drestrained¹ them not.

14 And therefore I have sworn unto the house of Eli, that the iniquity of Eli's house ^ashall not be ¹purged with sacrifice nor offering for ever.

15 And Samuel lay until the morning, and opened the doors of the house of the LORD. And Samuel feared to shew Eli the vision.

16 Then Eli called Samuel, and said, Samuel, my son. And he answered, Here am I.

17 And he said, What is the thing that the LORD hath said unto thee? I pray thee hide it not from me: ^aGod do so to thee, and more also, if thou hide any thing from me of all the things that he said unto thee.

18 And Samuel told him ¹every whit, and hid nothing from him. And he said, ^aIt is the LORD: let him do what seemeth him good.

War with the Philistines

4 And the word of Samuel came to all Israel. Now Israel went out against the Philistines to battle, and ¹pitched beside ^aEben-ezer: and the Philistines pitched in Aphek.

2 And the ^aPhilistines put themselves in array against Israel: and when they joined battle, Israel was ¹smitten before the Philistines: and they slew of the army in the field about four thousand men.

The Ark of the Covenant

3 And when the people were come into the camp, the elders of Israel said, Wherefore hath the LORD smitten us to day before the Philistines? ^aLet us ¹fetch the ark of the covenant of the LORD out of Shiloh unto us, that, when it cometh among us, it may save us out of the hand of our enemies.

4 So the people sent to Shiloh, that they might bring from thence the ark of the covenant of the LORD of hosts, ^awhich dwelleth between ^bthe cherubims: and the ^ctwo sons of Eli, Hophni and Phinehas, were there with the ark of the covenant of God.

5 And when the ark of the covenant of the LORD came into the camp, all Israel shouted with a great shout, so that the earth rang again.

6 And when the Philistines heard the noise of the shout, they said, What meaneth the noise of this great shout in the camp of the Hebrews? And they understood that the ark of the LORD was come into the camp.

3:17. Eli's charge to Samuel is phrased in the familiar oath formula of the ancient Near East.

3:20. From Dan even to Beer-sheba serves as a familiar geographic description for all Israel from its northern to its southern limits.

4:1. For the Philistines, see the note on Joshua 13:2, 3.

4:3. The ark symbolized the ruling presence of God among His people. (See the note on 1 Kin. 8:10-12; cf.

2 Chr. 8:11.) The low spiritual condition of the Israelites here caused them to confuse the symbol with that which it symbolized so that they took the ark into battle. Although the ark had been present when they crossed the Jordan River (Josh. 3:11) and when they had gained the victory at Jericho (Josh. 6:7, 8, 13), it was God who had granted them guidance and victory. Israel's plan bordered on a superstitious fetishism, if not outright idolatry. As such, it was doomed to failure.

7 And the Philistines were afraid, for they said, God is come into the camp. And they said, "Woe unto us! for there hath not been such a thing heretofore.

8 Woe unto us! who shall deliver us out of the hand of these mighty ¹Gods? these are the ¹Gods that ²smote the Egyptians with all the plagues in the wilderness.

9 "Be strong, and ¹quit yourselves like men, O ye Philistines, that ye be not servants unto the Hebrews, ^bas they have been to you: ²quit yourselves like men, and fight.

Philistines Capture the Ark

10 And the Philistines fought, and "Israel was ¹smitten, and they fled every man into his tent: and there was a very great slaughter; for there fell of Israel thirty thousand footmen.

11 And ^athe ark of God was taken; and ^bthe two sons of Eli, Hophni and Phinehas, were slain.

12 And there ran a man of Benjamin out of the army, and ^acame to Shiloh the same day with his clothes ¹rent, and ^bwith earth upon his head.

13 And when he came, lo, Eli sat upon ^aa seat by the wayside watching: for his heart ¹trembled for the ark of God. And when the man came into the city, and told it, all the city cried out.

14 And when Eli heard the noise of the crying, he said, What meaneth the noise of this tumult? And the man came in hastily, and told Eli.

15 Now Eli was ninety and eight years old; and ^ahis eyes ¹were dim, that he could not see.

16 And the man said unto Eli, I am he that came out of the army, and I fled to day out of the army. And he said, "What ¹is there done, my son?"

17 And the messenger answered and said, Israel is fled before the Philistines, and there hath been also a great slaughter among the people, and thy two sons also, Hophni and Phinehas, are dead, and the ark of God is taken.

The Death of Eli

18 And it came to pass, when he made mention of the ark of God, that he fell from off the seat backward by the side of the gate, and his neck brake, and he died: for he was an old man, and heavy. And he had judged Israel forty years.

The Glory Departs

19 And his daughter in law, Phinehas' wife, was with child, near to be delivered: and when she heard the tidings that the ark of God was taken, and that her father in law and her husband were dead, she bowed herself and ¹travailed; for her pains came upon her.

20 And about the time of her death ^athe women that stood by her said unto her, Fear not; for thou hast born a son. But she answered not, neither did she ¹regard it.

21 And she named the child "I-chabod," ¹saying, ^bThe glory is departed from Israel: because the ark of God was taken, and because of her father in law and her husband.

22 And she said, The glory is departed from Israel: for the ark of God is taken.

Dagon Destroyed

5 And the Philistines took the ark of God, and brought it ^afrom Eben-ezer unto Ashdod.

2 When the Philistines took the ark of God, they brought it into the house of ^aDagon,¹ and set it by Dagon.

4:9. The Philistines' rallying cry to show themselves as real men was a familiar one in the ancient Near East (cf. Deut. 31:6, 7, 23; Josh. 1:6, 7, 9; 2 Chr. 32:7 with 1 Cor. 16:13, 14).

4:12. The messenger from the battle came with his clothes rent and with earth upon his head, traditional signs of mourning.

4:21. The name I-chabod means "Where Is the glory?" It takes its place among several Old Testament compound names that bear the common Semitic word ʾI as their first element, such as Job and Jezebel. The old tradition handed down since the days of Josephus that the ʾI had a negative force is doubtless incorrect.

5:1. Ashdod was one of the five principal Philistine cities (cf. the note at Josh. 13:2, 3). The other cities included: Gath (v. 8), Ekron (v. 10), Ashkelon (6:17), and Gaza (6:17), all of which were located in southwestern Canaan near the Mediterranean seacoast.

5:2. For Dagon, see the note on Judges 16:23.

3 And when they of Ashdod arose early on the morrow, behold, ¹Dagon was ^afallen upon his face to the earth before the ark of the LORD. And they took Dagon, and ^bset him in his place again.

4 And when they arose early on the morrow morning, behold, Dagon was fallen upon his face to the ground before the ark of the LORD; and ^athe head of Dagon and both the palms of his hands were cut off upon the threshold; ¹only the stump of Dagon was left to him.

5 Therefore neither the priests of Dagon, nor any that come into Dagon's house, ^atried on the threshold of Dagon in Ashdod unto this day.

Ashdod Afflicted

6 But the ^ahand of the LORD was heavy upon them of Ashdod, and he ^bdestroyed them, and ¹smote them with ^cemerods, even Ashdod and the ^dcoasts thereof.

8 They sent therefore and gathered all the ^alords of the Philistines unto them, and said, What shall we do with the ark of the God of Israel? And they answered, Let the ark of the God of Israel be carried about unto ^bGath. And they carried the ark of the God of Israel about thither.

Gath Afflicted

9 And it was so, that, after they had carried it about, ^athe hand of the LORD was against the city with a very great destruction: and he smote the men of the city, both small and great, and ¹they had emerods in their secret parts.

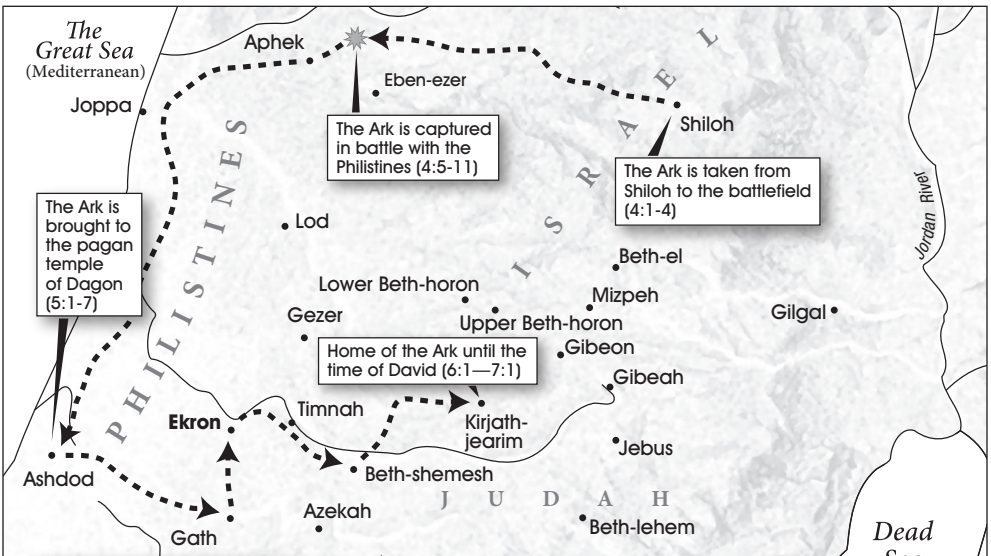

Ekron Afflicted

10 Therefore they sent the ark of God to Ekron. And it came to pass, as the ark of God came to Ekron, that the Ekronites cried out, saying, They have brought about the ark of the God of Israel to us, to slay us and our people.

5:6. Various conjectures have been made for the Hebrew word translated emerods. Josephus suggested that the problem stemmed from dysentery, a suggestion also made as a marginal reading in the Hebrew text. The consonantal text reads a word meaning “swellings,” “boils,” or “tumors.” Accordingly, most commentators since Martin Luther have held that the disease involved here was bubonic plague. See the note on 6:4, 5.

5:8. The precise location of Gath is still unknown.

THE WANDERINGS OF THE ARK OF THE COVENANT

11 So they sent and gathered together all the lords of the Philistines, and said, Send away the ark of the God of Israel, and let it go again to his own place, that it slay us not, and our people: for there was a deadly destruction throughout all the city; the hand of God was very heavy there.

12 And the men that died not were ¹smitten with the ²emerods: and the ^acry of the city went up to heaven.

The Philistines Return the Ark

6 And the ark of the LORD was in the country of the Philistines seven months.

2 And the Philistines ^acalled for the priests and the diviners, saying, What shall we do to the ark of the LORD? tell us wherewith we shall send it to his place.

3 And they said, If ye send away the ark of the God of Israel, send it not ^aempty; but in any wise return him ^ba trespass offering: then ye shall be healed, and it shall be known to you why his hand is not removed from you.

4 Then said they, What shall be the trespass offering which we shall return to him? They answered, ^aFive golden ¹emerods, and five golden mice, according to the number of the lords of the Philistines: for one plague was on ²you all, and on your images.

5 Wherefore ye shall make images of your emerods, and images of your mice that ^amar the land; and ye shall ^bgive glory unto the God of Israel: peradventure he will ^clighten¹ his hand from off you, and from off ^dyour gods, and from off your land.

A Cart for the Ark

7 Now therefore make ^aa new cart, and take two milch ¹kine, ^bon which there hath come no yoke, and tie the kine to the cart, and bring their calves home from them:

8 And take the ark of the LORD, and lay it upon the cart; and put ^athe jewels of gold, which ye return him for a trespass offering, in a coffer by the side thereof; and send it away, that it may go.

9 And see, if it goeth up by the way of his own coast to ^aBeth-shemesh, then he hath done ¹us this great evil: but if not, then ^bwe shall know that it is not his hand that smote us; it was a ²chance that happened to us.

10 And the men did so; and took two ¹milch kine, and tied them to the cart, and shut up their calves at home:

11 And they laid the ark of the LORD upon the cart, and the ¹coffer with the mice of gold and the images of their emerods.

12 And the ¹kine took the straight way to the way of Beth-shemesh, and went along the ^ahighway, lowing as they went, and turned not aside to the right hand or to the left; and the lords of the Philistines went after them unto the border of Beth-shemesh.

13 And they of Beth-shemesh were reaping their ^awheat harvest in the valley; and they lifted up their eyes, and saw the ark, and rejoiced to see it.

6:4, 5. Five golden emerods (or tumors) and five golden mice were made, one for each of the five lords of the five Philistine cities. Perhaps the Philistines thought that the making of the golden figures would heal the Philistines of the problems in the physical world that corresponded to them via sympathetic magic. They may also have constituted a compensatory payment to Israel's God. The linking of tumors and mice is significant and may point to the existence of bubonic plague in the area. If so, it attests to the careful observation of the whole problem by the people of ancient Canaan.

6:7. That cows should leave their suckling calves to go to Israelite territory would signify to the Philistines that their problems had come as a judgment from the God of Israel.

6:13 Beth-shemesh was a prominent site at the eastern end of the Valley of Sorek. Ugaritic, Hebrew, and Phoenician inscriptions were found there. A large village was found that dates from Iron Age I (the late Judges period).

Offerings to the Lord

14 And the cart came into the field of Joshua, a Beth-shemite, and stood there, where there was a great stone: and they clave the wood of the cart, and offered the kine a burnt offering unto the LORD.

15 And the Levites took down the ark of the LORD, and the coffer that was with it, wherein the jewels of gold were, and put them on the great stone: and the men of Beth-shemesh offered burnt offerings and sacrificed sacrifices the same day unto the LORD.

16 And when ^athe five lords of the Philistines had seen it, they returned to Ekron the same day.

17 ^aAnd these are the golden emeralds which the Philistines returned for a trespass offering unto the LORD; for Ashdod one, for Gaza one, for Askelon one, for ^bGath one, for Ekron one;

18 And the golden mice, according to the number of all the cities of the Philistines belonging to the five lords, both of fenced cities, and of country villages, even unto the great stone of Abel, whereon they set down the ark of the LORD: which stone remaineth unto this day in the field of Joshua, the Beth-shemite.

21 And they sent messengers to the inhabitants of ^aKirjath-jearim, saying, The Philistines have brought again the ark of the LORD; come ye down, and ¹fetch it up to you.

Abinadab's Care of the Ark

7 And the men of ^aKirjath-jearim came, and fetched up the ark of the LORD, and brought it into the house of ^bAbinadab in the hill, and ^csanctified Eleazar his son to keep the ark of the LORD.

2 And it came to pass, while the ark abode in Kirjath-jearim, that the time was long; for it was twenty years: and all the house of Israel lamented after the LORD.

3 And Samuel spake unto all the house of Israel, saying, If ye do ^areturn unto the LORD with all your hearts, then ^bput away the ¹strange gods and ^cAshtaroth² from among you, and ^dprepare your hearts unto the LORD, and ^eserve him only: and 6:19. The presumptuous mishandling of the ark was inexcusable for men from a priestly city (cf. Num. 4:5, 6, 15-20). The numbers here rest on doubtful textual authority. Josephus held that the correct number was 70, a total read by some Hebrew manuscripts and a more likely translation. To mishandle, abuse, or violate the sanctity of the ark was a grievous sin (cf. 2 Sam. 6:6-8).

7:1, 2. Significantly, the ark was not returned to Shiloh from which it had been taken into battle (cf. 4:4). Archaeological evidence suggests that Shiloh may have been destroyed in the campaigning, hence the ark was taken to Kirjath-jearim, situated northwest of Jerusalem, where it remained until David brought it to Jerusalem (2 Sam. 6).

7:3, 4. For Ashtaroth and Baalim, see the note on Judges 2:11-15.

6:21 Kirjath-jearim was a fortified city that originally belonged to the Gibeonites. It is first mentioned as a member of a Gibeonite confederation of four fortress cities which also included Gibeon, Chephirah, and Beeroth (Josh. 9:17). Kirjath-jearim was also known as Baalah (Josh. 15:9), Baale of Judah (2 Sam. 6:2), Kirjath-baal (Josh. 15:60), and Kirjath (Josh. 18:29). These names suggest it was an old Canaanite "high place," a place of idolatrous worship. The city was originally assigned to the tribe of Judah (Josh. 15:60), and later given to Benjamin (Josh. 18:14, 15, 28). Kirjath-jearim was on the western part of the boundary line between Judah and Benjamin (Josh. 15:9). When the ark of the covenant was returned by the Philistines it was brought to this city (7:1, 2). The ark remained here for 20 years, and it was from Kirjath-jearim that David transported the ark to Jerusalem (2 Sam. 6:2, 3). Kirjath-jearim has been tentatively identified with the area of Abu Ghosh about eight miles northwest of Jerusalem on the Jaffa Road.

7:6. The pouring out of water symbolized a repentant heart poured out in submission and personal trust before God (cf. Ps. 62:8).

7:10. For thunder as a sign of the divine presence, see the note on Judges 5:19–21; compare 1 Samuel 2:10.

7:12. Eben-ezer means “Stone of Help.” The Israelites recognized that their victory really came from God.

7:14–17. Amorites is used here as a general term for all the various groups of the native Canaanite population. The Israelites at last achieved peace with both the Canaanites and Philistines, due to the godly leadership of Samuel, Israel’s last judge.

7:5 Mizpeh (Mizpah) was a city of Benjamin in the region of Geba and Ramah about eight miles north of Jerusalem (1 Kin. 15:22). Samuel assembled the Israelites for prayer at Mizpeh after the ark of the covenant was returned from Kirjath-jearim (vv. 5, 6). Saul was first presented to Israel as king at this city (10:17, 24). Mizpeh was also one of the places that Samuel visited on his annual circuit to judge Israel (vv. 16, 17). Mizpah was one of the sites fortified against the kings of the northern tribes of Israel by King Asa (1 Kin. 15:22). After the destruction of Jerusalem in 586 B.C., Gedaliah was appointed governor and his residence was at Mizpah (2 Kin. 25:23, 25). At this time, Mizpah became the capital of the Babylonian province of Judah. After the Babylonian captivity, Mizpah was inhabited by Israelites (Neh. 3:7, 15, 19).

6 But the thing ^adispleased Samuel, when they said, Give us a king to judge us. And Samuel ^bprayed unto the LORD.

Israel Repeats the Demand for a King

19 Nevertheless the people ^arefused to obey the voice of Samuel; and they said, Nay; but we will have a king over us;

8:3. Like Eli before him, Samuel was too preoccupied with his ministry to properly oversee the spiritual upbringing of his own children.

8:5-18. Although God had made provision long before for His own anointed king (Gen. 17:7; 49:10; Num. 24:17) and had laid down specific regulations for the kingdom (Deut. 17:14-20), the people's request was for a kingdom patterned after the nations around them. Such a king, of course, was to serve under God as the earthly representative of the true sovereign of the nation and of the universe (Ps. 2:6-9; 110:1; 146:10; Dan. 4:25); but such a one they did not request. Accordingly, both God and Samuel were displeased, and the people were given solemn warning as to just what their choice entailed. Archaeological confirmation of the accuracy of the warnings spelled out in verses 11-18 comes from the excavations of ancient Alalakh and Ugarit.

7:17 Ramah was the name of several sites in ancient Israel, the most famous of which was known as Ramah of Ephraim. It may be identified with the Arimathaea of the New Testament (Matt. 27:57; John 19:38) and with modern Rentis, about 18 miles east of Joppa and northwest of Jerusalem. This Ramah was likely the birthplace, home, and burial place of the prophet Samuel (v. 17; 19:18-23; 28:3), elsewhere referred to as Ramathaim-zophim (1:1). At Ramah the elders of Israel demanded a king (8:4, 5), Saul first met Samuel (9:6, 10), and David sought refuge from Saul (19:18; 20:1).

20 That we also may be ^alike all the nations; and that our king may judge us, and go out before us, and fight our battles.

seer is truly called of God to pronounce His word to the people; and man of God, which underscores the messenger's relationship to God (see the note on 2:27). Other terms include: "messenger of the Lord," which reminds the prophet of his task of bearing God's word and "servant of the Lord," which underscores his task before God as called to serve.

9:2 Saul was the first king of Israel (9:2—31:13; 1 Chr. 5:10–26). He had several admirable qualities suitable for a king of Israel during such turbulent times. First, he was a tall, attractive man. Second, he was from the tribe of Benjamin, situated on the border of Ephraim and Judah, and so had credibility with both the northern and southern tribes. Third, he was a capable military leader, as his early victories demonstrate. But it was soon apparent that Saul had a rebellious nature and would not share his power and popularity. He failed to wait for Samuel at Gilgal and made several excuses (13:8–12). Saul then neglected the needs of his own men and swore a foolish oath that almost cost the life of his son Jonathan (ch. 14). Finally, he failed to kill all of the Amalekites (15:18, 19), and lied to Samuel about the events (15:13). Saul was then rejected as a king by God (15:26), and wasted the remainder of his years in fruitless attempts on David's life. (First Reference, 1 Sam. 9:2; Primary References, 1 Sam. 9—31.)

10:1. Samuel's anointing of Saul held spiritual significance. By it the king was set apart for service as God's earthly representative on the throne of Israel.

Negative critics have imagined a contradiction between Saul's anointing here and the reports at verses 17–24 and 11:14, 15. Actually, the three accounts are supplementary, Saul's private anointing by God through His prophet being reported here, the public anointed thee to be captain over ^ahis inheritance?

Samuel's Instructions to Saul

2 When thou art departed from me to day, then thou shalt find two men by ^aRachel's sepulchre in the border of Benjamin ^bat Zelzah; and they will say unto thee, The asses which thou wentest to seek are found: and, lo, thy father hath ¹left the care of the asses, and sorroweth for ^cyou, saying, What shall I do for my son?

3 Then shalt thou go on forward from thence, and thou shalt come to the plain of Tabor, and there shall meet thee three men going up ^ato God to Beth-el, one carrying three kids, and another carrying three loaves of bread, and another carrying a bottle of wine:

4 And they will ¹salute thee, and give thee two loaves of bread; which thou shalt receive of their hands.

5 After that thou shalt come to the hill of God, ^awhere is the garrison of the Philistines: and it shall come to pass, when thou art come thither to the city, that thou shalt meet a company of prophets coming down ^bfrom the high place with a psaltery, and a tabret, and a pipe, and a harp, before them; ^cand they shall prophesy:

6 And ^athe Spirit of the LORD will come upon thee, and ^bthou shalt prophesy with them, and shalt be turned into another man.

7 And let it be, when these ^asigns are come unto thee, that thou do as ¹occasion serve thee; for ^bGod is with thee.

The Signs Fulfilled

9 And it was so, that when he had turned his back to go from Samuel, God ¹gave him another heart: and all those signs came to pass that day.

10 And ^awhen they came thither to the hill, behold, ^ba company of prophets met him; and the Spirit of God came upon him, and he prophesied among them.

11 And it came to pass, when all that knew him beforetime saw that, behold, he prophesied among the prophets, then the people said one to another, What is this that is come unto the son of Kish? ^a*Is* Saul also among the prophets?

12 And one of the same place answered and said, But ^awho is their father? Therefore it became a proverb, Is Saul also among the prophets?

13 And when he had made an end of prophesying, he came to the high place.

14 And Saul's ^auncle said unto him and to his servant, Whither went ye? And he said, To seek the asses: and when we saw that they were no where, we came to Samuel.

15 And Saul's uncle said, Tell me, I pray thee, what Samuel said unto you.

16 And Saul said unto his uncle, He told us plainly that the asses were ^afound. But of the matter of the kingdom, whereof Samuel spake, he told him not.

identification of Saul through the casting of lots being detailed in verses 17–24, and the formal proclamation of Saul's kingship being recorded in 11:14, 15. Because Israel had no precedent of royal protocol and because interests were strongly divided in the country (cf. v. 27; 11:12, 13), care and time were needed for both the selection and the confirmation of Saul's leadership (cf. the note on 11:1).

10:2–6. As with Moses (Ex. 4:3–9) and Gideon (Judg. 6:36–40), God graciously gave confirmation of His will for Saul by means of outward signs. All three took place on the same day (v. 9).

10:6. The coming of the Spirit of the LORD upon

Saul would equip him to do the tasks for which he had been anointed. See the note on Judges 3:10. But this anointing did not result in his spiritual transformation, as is later evident by his life.

10:8. Samuel gives Saul instructions concerning further sacrifices at Gilgal, a command he was subsequently to disobey (13:8–10).

10:9. Although many believe that Saul had a valid conversion experience, the term another heart need not be construed as anything more than a divine equipping of Saul with inner abilities for performing the duties of the kingship for which he had been anointed.

Israel Gathers at Mizpeh

17 And Samuel called the people together ^aunto the LORD ^bto Mizpeh;

18 And said unto the children of Israel, ^aThus saith the LORD God of Israel, I brought up Israel out of Egypt, and delivered you out of the hand of the Egyptians, and out of the hand of all kingdoms, and of them that oppressed you:

19 ^aAnd ye have this day rejected your God, who himself saved you out of all your adversities and your tribulations; and ye have said unto him, Nay, but set a king over us. Now therefore present yourselves before the LORD by your tribes, and by your ¹thousands.

Saul Chosen by Lot

20 And when Samuel had ^acaused all the tribes of Israel to come near, the tribe of Benjamin was taken.

21 When he had caused the tribe of Benjamin to come near by their families, the family of Matri was taken, and Saul the son of Kish was taken: and when they sought him, he could not be found.

22 Therefore they ^aenquired of the LORD further, if the man should yet come thither. And the LORD answered, Behold, he hath hid himself among the stuff.

23 And they ran and ¹fetched him thence: and when he stood among the people, ^ahe was ²higher than any of the people from his shoulders and upward.

25 Then Samuel told the people ^athe manner of the kingdom, and wrote it in a book, and laid it up before the LORD. And Samuel sent all the people away, every man to his house.

26 And Saul also went home ^ato Gibeah; and there went with him a band of men, whose hearts God had touched.

27 ^aBut the ^bchildren¹ of Belial said, How shall this man save us? And they despised him, ^cand brought him no presents. But ²he held his peace.

The Ammonites' Covenant Conditions

11 Then ^aNahash the Ammonite came up, and ¹encamped against ^bJabesh-gilead: and all the men of Jabesh said unto Nahash, ^cMake a covenant with us, and we will serve thee.

2 And Nahash the Ammonite answered them, On this condition will I make a covenant with you, that I may thrust out all your right eyes, and ¹lay it for ^aa reproach upon all Israel.

3 And the elders of Jabesh said unto him, Give us seven days' respite, that we may send messengers unto all the coasts of Israel: and then, if there be no man to ¹save us, we will come out to thee.

10:17–24. See the note on verse 1.

10:25. As God's judge and prophet, Samuel put in writing the ordinances of the newly established kingdom and deposited the document in the sanctuary of the LORD.

10:27. See the note on Judges 19:22.

11:1. In God's providence, the renewed Ammon-

ite hostilities provided an occasion for Saul's newly established kingship to be tested.

11:2. Such barbarity would humiliate the Israelites and incapacitate them for further fighting. Severe cruelty is not without precedent in the warfare of the ancient Near East (cf. 2 Kin. 8:12; 25:7).

10:26 Gibeah (Gibeath) was a city belonging to Benjamin (Judg. 19:14). Gibeah has been excavated at the modern site of Tell-el-Ful, three miles north of Jerusalem. This city figured prominently in two separate periods of Old Testament history. It first appeared in Judges 19 and 20 as the site of a lewd and obscene crime. As the result of judgment, the city was destroyed (Judg. 20:40); apparently it was rebuilt after the fire. Later Gibeah was the home of Saul, first king of Israel (v. 26), who met a band of prophets at Gibeah after being anointed king (vv. 5, 10). From Gibeah, Saul summoned the tribes of Israel to deliver Jabesh-gilead (11:1–11). Gibeah was the site of Saul's war with the Philistines (13:2; 14:2, 16), apparently having become Saul's capital (15:34; 22:6; 23:19). In many passages, it is even called "Gibeah of Saul" (11:4; 1s. 10:29).

4 Then came the messengers ^ato Gibeah of Saul, and told the tidings in the ears of the people: and ^ball the people lifted up their voices, and wept.

5 And, behold, Saul came after the herd out of the field; and Saul said, What aieth the people that they weep? And they told him the tidings of the men of Jabesh.

6 ^aAnd the Spirit of God came upon Saul when he heard those tidings, and his anger was kindled greatly.

And the fear of the LORD fell on the people, and they came out ¹with one consent.

8 And when he numbered them in ^aBezek, the children ^bof Israel were three hundred thousand, and the men of Judah thirty thousand.

11:4. Gibeah, Saul's hometown, became his base of operations. Although Gibeah functioned as Israel's capital, the city failed to achieve prominence, a fact well illustrated by the archaeological excavations undertaken there.

THE SALVATION OF JABESH-GILEAD

9 And they said unto the messengers that came, Thus shall ye say unto the men of Jabesh-gilead, To morrow, by that time the sun be hot, ye shall have help. And the messengers came and shewed it to the men of Jabesh; and they were glad.

10 Therefore the men of Jabesh said, To morrow we will come out unto you, and ye shall do with us all that seemeth good unto you.

The Ammonites Defeated

11 And it was so on the morrow, that ^aSaul put the people ^bin three companies; and they came into the midst of the host in the morning watch, and slew the Ammonites until the heat of the day: and it came to pass, that they which remained were scattered, so that two of them were not left together.

Saul Made King

12 And the people said unto Samuel, Who is he that said, Shall Saul reign over us? ^bbring the men, that we may put them to death.

13 And Saul said, There shall not a man be put to death this day: for to day ^bthe LORD hath ¹wrought salvation in Israel.

14 Then said Samuel to the people, Come, and let us go ^ato Gilgal, and renew the kingdom there.

15 And all the people went to Gilgal; and there they made Saul king ^abefore the LORD in Gilgal; and ^bthere they sacrificed sacrifices of peace offerings before the LORD; and there Saul and all the men of Israel rejoiced greatly.

For the first watch (from sunset until 10:00 P.M.), see Lamentations 2:19; for the second watch (10:00 P.M. to 2:00 A.M.), see Judges 7:19. The division into three attacking companies was a common military tactic (cf. Judg. 7:16; 1 Sam. 13:17).

11:14, 15. See the note on 10:1.

12:1. Samuel's "farewell address" did not end his public ministry (cf. v. 23 with 15:1-3, 13-35; 16:1-13). He continued to minister in priestly and prophetic functions. (For the death of Samuel, see 25:1.) After his introductory remarks (vv. 1-5), the theme of Samuel's message becomes a sermonic warning: obedience brings God's blessings but disobedience merits only His reproof.

10 And they cried unto the LORD, and said, ^aWe have sinned, because we have forsaken the LORD, ^band have served ¹Baalim and ²Ashtaroth: but now deliver us out of the hand of our enemies, and we will serve thee.

12:10. See the note on Judges 2:11–15.

12:11. The identity of a judge named Bedan is not further known. The ancient Greek and Syriac versions and the Arabic version read Barak. Since it is unlikely that Samuel would cite an otherwise unknown judge, who was too insignificant to be mentioned at all in the Book of Judges alongside men like Gideon, Jephthah, and Samuel himself, and since Gideon and Barak are known to be linked together in praise elsewhere (cf. Heb. 11:32), probably Barak is the judge intended.

12:17, 18. For thunderstorms as a sign of the divine presence, see the note on 2:10. Coming during the wheat harvest of late spring, such an event would be a sure sign of divine condemnation.

12:22. The name of the LORD signifies His revealed character and reputation. Later, name came to be a term that could be substituted for God Himself (Dan. 9:8–19; Amos 2:7; 9:12), so that the pronunciation of the Hebrew word for the name (hashēm) could be utilized for the unutterable divine tetragrammaton YHWH. The name was thus God Himself in all that He had revealed Himself to be. In the New Testament the term became applied to Christ (Acts 4:12; 5:41; 3 John 7). For Israel as God's special people, see Exodus 19:5; Deuteronomy 7:6; 14:2; 26:18.

12:23. Despite Israel's sin, Samuel loved Israel and Saul (cf. 16:1) and pledged his continued help, especially in praying for them and teaching them the Lord's standards. His love for them, however, would not dim his perspective as to what ways were right or wrong in Israel. He would do his divine duty of speaking the truth in love (cf. Eph. 4:15).

Saul's Three Thousand Men

3 And Jonathan ¹smote ^athe garrison of the Philistines that was in ^bGeba, and the Philistines heard of it. And Saul blew the trumpet throughout all the land, saying, Let the Hebrews hear.

Saul's Burnt Offering

8 ^aAnd he tarried seven days, according to the set time that Samuel had appointed: but Samuel came not to Gilgal; and the people were scattered from him.

9 And Saul said, Bring hither a burnt offering to me, and peace offerings. And he offered the burnt offering.

10 And it came to pass, that as soon as he had made an end of offering the burnt offering, behold, Samuel came; and Saul went out to meet him, that he might ¹salute him.

11 And Samuel said, What hast thou done? And Saul said, Because I saw that the people were scattered from me, and that thou camest not within the days appointed, and that the Philistines gathered themselves together at Michmash;

12 Therefore said I, The Philistines will come down now upon me to Gilgal, and I have not made supplication unto the LORD: I ¹forced myself therefore, and offered a burnt offering.

Saul's Kingdom to End

13 And Samuel said to Saul, ^aThou hast done foolishly: ^bthou hast not kept the commandment of the LORD thy God, which he commanded thee: for now would the LORD have established thy kingdom upon Israel for ever.

14 ^aBut now thy kingdom shall not continue: ^bthe LORD hath sought him a man ^cafter his own heart, and the LORD hath commanded him to be captain over his people, because thou hast ^anot kept that which the LORD commanded thee.

13:5. The topography of the battle area would seem to preclude the use of thirty thousand chariots. Moreover, in similar descriptions of the ratio of charioteers and chariots, the number of chariots is always significantly smaller (2 Sam. 10:18; 1 Kin. 10:26). Such a sizeable force is unprecedented even among the major powers of the ancient Near East. Because of these facts the reading of “three thousand” in the ancient Syriac translation, as supported by some manuscripts of the Septuagint and the Arabic Bible, may well be correct.

13:8-12. Saul's self-will surfaces early in his reign. He has clearly disobeyed the previous command of Samu- el (cf. 10:8). Samuel's tarrying may have been designed as a test of Saul's character. The Hebrew verb in verse 9 may indicate that Saul did not personally offer the sacrifices, but merely had them made by the Levitical priests. Even if this were the case, his action was ill-advised and a violation of Samuel's instructions. Further, it was done with the full knowledge that Samuel himself intended to officiate at the sacrificial ceremony.

13:13. The prophetic promise of an eternal dominion in Israel for the house of Judah (Gen. 49:10) was made in the light of God's ordaining foreknowledge of Saul's self-will. Saul's disobedience illustrates well Samuel's previous warning (12:14, 15, 24, 25).

15 And Samuel arose, and gat him up from Gilgal unto Gibeah of Benjamin. And Saul numbered the people that were present with him, ^aabout six hundred men.

16 And Saul, and Jonathan his son, and the people that were present with them, abode in ¹Gibeah of Benjamin: but the Philistines encamped in Michmash.

17 And the ¹spoilers came out of the camp of the Philistines in three companies: one company turned unto the way that leadeth to ^aOphrah, unto the land of Shual:

18 And another company turned the way to ^aBeth-horon: and another company turned to the way of the border that looketh to the valley of ^bZeboim toward the wilderness.

19 Now ^athere was no smith found throughout all the land of Israel: for the Philistines said, Lest the Hebrews make them swords or spears:

20 But all the Israelites went down to the Philistines, to sharpen every man his share, and his coulter, and his ax, and his mattock.

21 ¹Yet they had a file for the mattocks, and for the coulters, and for the forks, and for the axes, and to sharpen the goads.

22 So it came to pass in the day of battle, that ^athere was neither sword nor spear found in the hand of any of the people that were with Saul and

Jonathan's Plan

14 Now it came to ¹pass upon a day, that Jonathan the son of Saul said unto the young man that ²bare his armour, Come, and let us go over to the Philistines' garrison, that is on the other side. But he told not his father.

2 And Saul tarried in the uttermost part of ^aGibeah under a pomegranate tree which is in Migron: and the people that were with him were about six hundred men;

4 And between the ¹passages, by which Jonathan sought to go over ^aunto the Philistines' garrison, there was a sharp rock on the one side, and a sharp rock on the other side: and the name of the one was Bozez, and the name of the other was Seneh.

5 The ¹forefront of the one was situate northward over against Michmash, and the other southward over against Gibeah.

13:19. At this time the Philistines enjoyed a monopoly on iron and the smith's craft, a condition that remained until David's day (1 Chr. 22:3).

13:21. The wording of the Hebrew text is difficult. Another possible translation of the verse is: "And the charge was two-thirds shekel for sharpening the plowshares and the mattocks, and one-third shekel for sharpening the forks and axes, and for fixing the goads."

14:1 Jonathan was the eldest son of Saul, the first king of Israel, of the tribe of Benjamin. Initially, Jonathan served as Saul's right-hand man and lieutenant (vv. 11, 13, 14; 13:2 where he commanded one thousand men). Later, Jonathan became such a close friend of David that he not only supported David against his father (chs. 18, 19), but relinquished his undoubted claim to become Saul's successor in favor of David (ch. 20). Finally Jonathan died at Gilboa during Saul's last campaign against the Philistines (ch. 31). Jonathan was a man of fine character, whose moral integrity was matched by resolution and endurance. He was athletic and brave (v. 13; 2 Sam. 1:22–27). Jonathan will always be remembered for befriending David. Jonathan and David represent the highest ideal of Hebrew friendship. Jonathan's descendants were famous soldiers who were, like their ancestors, skilled at shooting with the bow (1 Chr. 8:40). (First Reference, 1 Sam. 13:2; Primary References, 1 Sam. 13, 14, 18–20.)

14:5 Michmash includes extremely steep ravines (wadis) and cliffs running north and south. A mile-wide break, known as the "pass," paralleled the ridge providing access to the territory of Benjamin. Michmash is generally identified as the modern Arab village of Mukhmas, although other locations have been proposed.

8 Then said Jonathan, Behold, we will pass over unto these men, and we will ¹discover ourselves unto them.

9 If they say thus unto us, ¹Tarry until we come to you; then we will stand still in our place, and will not go up unto them.

10 But if they say thus, Come up unto us; then we will go up: for the LORD hath delivered them into our hand: and ^athis shall be a sign unto us.

Jonathan Enters the Garrison

11 And both of them ¹discovered themselves unto the garrison of the Philistines: and the Philistines said, Behold, the Hebrews come forth out of the holes where they had ^ahid themselves.

12 And the men of the garrison answered Jonathan and his armourbearer, and said, Come up to us, and we will ¹shew you a thing. And Jonathan said unto his armourbearer, Come up after me: for the LORD hath delivered them into the hand of Israel.

Philistines Slaughtered

13 And Jonathan climbed up upon his hands and upon his feet, and his armourbearer after him: and they ^afell before Jonathan; and his armourbearer slew after him.

46 Then Saul went up from following the Philistines: and the Philistines went to their own place.

Saul's Victorious Battles

47 So Saul took the kingdom over Israel, and fought against all his enemies on every side, against Moab, and against the children of ^aAmmon, and against Edom, and against the kings of ^bZobah, and against the Philistines: and whithersoever he turned himself, he ¹vexed them.

50 And the name of Saul's wife was Ahinoam, the daughter of Ahimaaz: and the name of the captain of his host was Abner, the son of Ner, Saul's ^auncle.

14:32. Such an act was in clear violation of the Levitical prohibition against eating meat with blood still in it (Lev. 17:10-14; 19:26). The pressures of warfare, as well as the added restrictions of Saul's foolish oath (vv. 24-30), may have contributed to the people's hunger and physical weakness, hence to the temptation to ignore the Levitical stipulations.

14:41, 42. The casting of lots was an accepted means of determining the Lord's will (cf. Prov. 16:33) in ancient Israel (cf. Lev. 16:7-10, 21, 22; Josh. 14:2; 18:6), including the establishing of guilt (Josh. 7:14).

51 ^aAnd Kish was the father of Saul; and Ner the father of Abner was the son of Abiel.

52 And there was ¹sore war against the Philistines all the days of Saul: and when Saul saw any strong man, or any valiant man, ^ahe took him unto him.

Saul Destroys the Amalekites

15 Samuel also said unto Saul, ^aThe LORD sent me to anoint thee to be king over his people, over Israel: now therefore hearken thou unto the voice of the words of the LORD.

2 Thus saith the LORD of hosts, I remember that which Amalek did to Israel, ^ahow he laid wait for him in the way, when he came up from Egypt.

3 Now go and ^asmite¹ Amalek, and ^butterly destroy all that they have, and spare them not; but slay both man and woman, infant and suckling, ox and sheep, camel and ass.

13 And Samuel came to Saul: and Saul said unto him, ^aBlessed be thou of the LORD: I have performed the commandment of the LORD.

14 And Samuel said, What meaneth then this bleating of the sheep in mine ears, and the lowing of the oxen which I hear?

16 Then Samuel said unto Saul, Stay, and I will tell thee what the LORD hath said to me this night. And he said unto him, Say on.

17 And Samuel said, ^aWhen thou wast little in thine own sight, wast thou not made the head of the tribes of Israel, and the LORD anointed thee king over Israel?

15:3. Total annihilation of the enemy is demanded here. See the note on Joshua 6:17.

15:6. The Kenites are spared because of their protracted kindness toward Israel. See the note on Judges 1:16.

15:8, 9. Saul's actions were in clear violation of the divine sanctions against Amalek. See the note on 1 Chronicles 10:13, 14.

15:11. God's regret is an expression drawn from human experience. Yet, the LORD was doubtless grieved because of Saul's disobedience. However, such anthropomorphisms do not indicate weakness or changeability in the divine will (cf. James 1:17). See the note on verse 29.

15:15. Once again Saul, the sinner, attempts to shift the blame to others (cf. 13:11, 12), or plead extenuating circumstances (cf. vv. 20, 21). The practices are as old as sin itself (cf. Gen. 3:12, 13).

18 And the LORD sent thee on a journey, and said, Go and utterly destroy the sinners the Amalekites, and fight against them until they be ¹consumed.

19 Wherefore then didst thou not obey the voice of the LORD, but didst ¹fly upon the spoil, and didst evil in the sight of the LORD?

20 And Saul said unto Samuel, Yea, ^aI have obeyed the voice of the LORD, and have gone the way which the LORD sent me, and have brought Agag the king of Amalek, and have utterly destroyed the Amalekites.

21 ^aBut the people took of the ¹spoil, sheep and oxen, the chief of the things which should have been utterly destroyed, to sacrifice unto the LORD thy God in Gilgal.

22 And Samuel said, ^aHath the LORD as great delight in burnt offerings and sacrifices, as in obeying the voice of the LORD? Behold, ^bto obey is better than sacrifice, and to hear-ken than the fat of rams.

23 For rebellion is as the sin of ¹witchcraft, and stubbornness is as iniquity and idolatry. Because thou hast rejected the word of the LORD, ^ahe hath also rejected thee from being king.

24 ^aAnd Saul said unto Samuel, I have sinned: for I have transgressed the commandment of the LORD, and thy words: because I ^bfeared the people, and obeyed their voice.

25 Now therefore, I pray thee, pardon my sin, and turn again with me, that I may worship the LORD.

15:22, 23. These verses reinforce the Old Testament viewpoint that religious ritual devoid of spiritual reality and of a life of total allegiance to a sovereign LORD is worthless (cf. Ps. 40:6-8; Is. 1:10-20; Mic. 6:8).

15:27, 28. In the customs of the ancient Near East seizing the edge of the robe was a symbolic gesture of submission or supplication. The symbol turns against Saul; as the robe has been torn, so the LORD has torn Saul's kingdom from him.

15:29. The word translated Strength carries with it the further ideas of preeminent brilliance and perpetuity. Therefore, the focus is on the Lord in all His magnificence and glory. This Glorious One is Israel's only Strength. (See the similar sentiment in Ps. 3:3.) Here the emphasis is on God's immutability, therefore serving to keep the statement in verse 11 in proper balance.

15:33. As the Lord's priest and prophet, Samuel carried out what the LORD had originally commanded Saul to do.

send thee to ^cJesse the Beth-lehemite: for ^aI have ¹provided me a king among his sons.

2 And Samuel said, How can I go? if Saul hear it, he will kill me. And the LORD said, Take an heifer with thee, and say, ^aI am come to sacrifice to the LORD.

3 And call Jesse to the sacrifice, and I will shew thee what thou shalt do: and thou shalt anoint unto me him whom I name unto thee.

4 And Samuel did that which the LORD spake, and came to Beth-lehem. And the elders of the town ^atrembled at his coming, and said, ^bComest thou peaceably?

5 And he said, Peaceably: I am come to sacrifice unto the LORD: ^asanctify¹ yourselves, and come with me to the sacrifice. And he sanctified Jesse and his sons, and called them to the sacrifice.

10 Again, Jesse made seven of his sons to pass before Samuel. And Samuel said unto Jesse, The LORD hath not chosen these.

Samuel Anoints David

13 Then Samuel took the horn of oil, and anointed him in the midst of his brethren: and ^athe Spirit of the LORD came upon David from that day forward. So Samuel rose up, and went to Ramah.

An Evil Spirit Troubles Saul

14 ^aBut the Spirit of the LORD departed from Saul, and ^ban evil spirit from the LORD troubled him.

15 And Saul's servants said unto him, Behold now, an evil spirit from God troubleth thee.

16 Let our lord now command thy servants, which are before thee, to seek out a man, who is a cunning player on an harp: and it shall come to pass, when the ¹evil spirit from God is upon thee, that he shall ^aplay with his hand, and thou shalt be well.

16:2-5. Despite fears for his own safety, Samuel carried out the will of the LORD. In turn, the Lord provided the proper circumstances that would facilitate the execution of His command.

16:9. Jesse's third son, Shammah, is called Shimma in 1 Chronicles 2:13 and Shimea in 2 Samuel 21:21. The variant spellings may reflect regional pronunciation differences or copyist problems.

16:10, 11. Although seven brothers of David are mentioned here, only six are named in 1 Chronicles 2:14, 15. Perhaps one had died either in infancy or without leaving any descendants; hence, his name was not recorded there.

16:13, 14. For the Spirit of the LORD, see the note on Judges 3:10. As Saul's confirmation as king assumed three stages (cf. the note on 10:1), so would that of David. David's private anointing by Samuel occurs here. Subsequently he would be anointed as king of Judah (2 Sam. 2:4) and then as king of all Israel (2 Sam. 5:3).

16:16-23. The evil spirit brought on Saul a demonic dementia that apparently was soothed by David's playing. Such musical therapy is well documented in the ancient Near East. The evil spirit is said to come from God because, although God is neither the author of evil nor tempts any man with evil (cf. James 1:13), all forces, natural and supernatural, are under His ultimate control. The whole episode is both an outgrowth of Saul's sinful nature and the departing of the Spirit of the Lord from Saul. It provided the circumstantial means for bringing the Lord's newly anointed man to the royal court and to eventual prominence.

17 And Saul said unto his servants, ¹Provide me now a man that can play well, and bring him to me.

18 Then answered one of the servants, and said, Behold, I have seen a son of Jesse the Beth-lehemite, that is ¹cunning in playing, and a mighty valiant man, and a man of war, and prudent in ²matters, and a ³comely person, and ^athe LORD is with him.

Saul Summons David

19 Wherefore Saul sent messengers unto Jesse, and said, Send me David thy son, which is with the sheep.

20 And Jesse ^atook an ass laden with bread, and a bottle of wine, and a kid, and sent them by David his son unto Saul.

21 And David came to Saul, and ^astood before him: and he loved him greatly; and he became his armour-bearer.

22 And Saul sent to Jesse, saying, Let David, I pray thee, stand before me; for he hath found favour in my sight.

23 And it came to pass, when the evil spirit from God was upon Saul, that David took an harp, and played with his hand: so Saul was refreshed, and was well, and the ¹evil spirit departed from him.

Goliath Challenges Israel

5 And he had an helmet of brass upon his head, and he was ¹armed with a coat of mail; and the weight of the coat was five thousand shekels of brass.

7 And the staff of his spear was like a weaver's beam; and his spear's head weighed six hundred shekels of iron: and one bearing a shield went before him.

8 And he stood and cried unto the armies of Israel, and said unto them, Why are ye come out ¹to set your battle in array? am not I a Philistine, and ye ^aservants to Saul? choose you a man for you, and let him come down to me.

17:8–10. The deciding of battles by individual combatants from each side is attested in the literature of the ancient Near East (cf. 2 Sam. 2:14–16).

17:2 Valley of Elah is the place in Judah where David killed Goliath (v. 2; 21:9). The location of this valley is established by reference to the towns in the former passage. Shochoh is to be identified with the large Khirbet 'Abād. The ancient ruin stands on the southern edge of Wādī es-Sant, which is a valley. Shochoh was about two miles south of Azekah. Azekah (Tell ez-Zakariyeh) was perched atop a prominent ridge of the Shephelah, around the foot of which the Wādī es-Sant was forced to twist northward before continuing its flow westward to the sea. Azekah lies a short distance northeast of Lachish. During the Israelite-Philistine military confrontation mentioned above, the Philistines encamped on the southern side of the valley, between Shochoh and Azekah. The contest between David and Goliath evidently took place in the broad valley on the southern side of the creek bed. When the Philistines retreated, they went in the direction of Ekron and Gath.

17:4–7 Goliath was well over nine feet tall. His armor and weaponry would weigh over 150 pounds. Accordingly, any opponent would face a formidable foe in the Philistine champion. The concept of Battle by Champions clearly indicates the Greek (Aegean) origin of the Philistines. A pottery sherd found at Gath (Tel es-Safi) in 2006 included the name "Goliath" in a Philistine inscription.

and to kill me, then will we be your servants: but if I prevail against him, and kill him, then shall ye be our servants, and ^aserve us.

10 And the Philistine said, I ^adefy the armies of Israel this day; give me a man, that we may fight together.

11 When Saul and all Israel heard those words of the Philistine, they were dismayed, and greatly afraid.

David Hears Goliath's Challenge

23 And as he talked with them, behold, there came up the champion, the Philistine of Gath, Goliath by name, out of the armies of the Philistines, and spake ^aaccording to the same words: and David heard them.

24 And all the men of Israel, when they saw the man, fled from him, and were sore afraid.

17:17. Since there is no indication that Saul had a professional standing army (cf. 11:1-11; 15:4; 17:2), there was a real need for those in military service to be supported actively by the citizenry at home.

17:12 David was the second and greatest king of Israel (1010-970 B.C.), whose dynasty ruled Judah for over four hundred years. He was an ancestor of Jesus Christ (Matt. 1:1). David belonged to the tribe of Judah and was born in Bethlehem to Jesse as the youngest of eight sons. He began as a shepherd, demonstrating his courage and faithfulness by killing a lion and a bear that had attacked the flock. David began his career by playing the harp in King Saul's court; he subsequently became his squire. But he became a national hero when he killed the Philistine giant Goliath. Due to Saul's animosity toward him, David became a fugitive. After Saul's death, the tribe of Judah elected David king of Judah and placed him on the throne in Hebron. Ultimately, David became king of all Israel in Jerusalem and moved the ark of the covenant into the city. His downfall was in committing adultery with Bathsheba and having her husband Uriah murdered (2 Sam. 11, 12). David's fondness for music is recorded in many places in the Bible. He played skillfully on the harp (16:18-23); he arranged worship services in the sanctuary (1 Chr. 6:31); and he composed psalms of lament over Saul and Jonathan (2 Sam. 1:17-27). The author of many Psalms (almost one-half are attributed to him in the titles of the KJV) he is remembered as the "sweet psalmist of Israel" (2 Sam. 23:1). God promised David a kingdom without end (2 Sam. 7:14-16). This prophecy would be fulfilled in Jesus (Matt. 1:1; Luke 1:32, 33). God's own high tribute to David came through Paul (Acts 13:22): "I have found David the son of Jesse, a man after mine own heart." (First Reference, 1 Sam. 16:12; Primary References, 1 Sam. 16; 1 Kin. 12:16.)

27 And the people answered him after this manner, saying, ^aSo shall it be done to the man that killeth him.

28 And Eliab his eldest brother heard when he spake unto the men; and Eliab's ^aanger was kindled against David, and he said, Why camest thou down hither? and with whom hast thou left those few sheep in the wilderness? I know thy pride, and the ¹naughtiness of thine heart; for thou art come down that thou mightest see the battle.

17:32-36. David's confidence was born out of the experience of the Lord's previous deliverances on his behalf. Further, since God would not allow His reputation to be damaged by this Philistine, David was certain that God would again deliver him in this trial by conflict.

The Lord Will Smite Goliath

45 Then said David to the Philistine, Thou comest to me with a sword, and with a spear, and with a shield: ^abut I come to thee in the name of the LORD of hosts, the God of the armies of Israel, whom thou hast ^bdefied.

46 This day will the LORD deliver thee into mine hand; and I will ¹smite thee, and take thine head from thee; and I will give ^athe carcasses of the host of the Philistines this day unto the fowls of the air, and to the wild beasts of the earth; ^bthat all the earth may know that there is a God in Israel.

47 And all this assembly shall know that the LORD ^asaveth not with sword and spear: for ^bthe battle is the LORD's, and he will give you into our hands.

The Slaying of Goliath

48 And it came to pass, when the Philistine arose, and came and drew nigh to meet David, that David ¹hasted, and ^aran toward the army to meet the Philistine.

49 And David put his hand in his bag, and took thence a stone, and slang it, and smote the Philistine in his forehead, that the stone sunk into his forehead; and he fell upon his face to the earth.

50 So David prevailed over the Philistine with a ^asling and with a stone, and smote the Philistine, and slew him; but there was no sword in the hand of David.

51 Therefore David ran, and stood upon the Philistine, and took his ^asword, and drew it out of the sheath thereof, and slew him, and cut off his head therewith. And when the Philistines saw their champion was dead, ^bthey fled.

52 And the men of Israel and of Judah arose, and shouted, and pursued the Philistines, ¹until thou come to the valley, and to the gates of Ekron. And the wounded of the Philistines fell down by the way to ^aShaaraim, even unto Gath, and unto Ekron.

53 And the children of Israel returned from chasing after the Philistines, and they ¹spoiled their tents.

54 And David took the head of the Philistine, and brought it to Jerusalem; but he put his armour in his tent.

Whose Son Is This?

55 And when Saul saw David go forth against the Philistine, he said unto ^aAbner, the captain of the host, Abner, ^bwhose son is this youth? And Abner said, As thy soul liveth, O king, I cannot tell.

56 And the king said, Enquire thou whose son the stripling is.

57 And as David returned from the slaughter of the Philistine, Abner took him, and brought him before Saul ^awith the head of the Philistine in his hand.

58 And Saul said to him, Whose son art thou, thou young man? And David answered, ^aI am the son of thy servant Jesse the Beth-lehemite.

A Covenant of Souls

18 And it came to pass, when he had made an end of speaking unto Saul, that ^athe ¹soul of Jonathan was knit with the soul of David, ^band Jonathan loved him as his own soul.

2 And Saul took him that day, ^aand would let him go no more home to his father's house.

17:50. A contradiction has been imagined between the various reports as to Goliath's slaying. In 2 Samuel 21:19, Elhanan appears to be the one who killed the Philistine giant. However, 1 Chronicles 20:5 reports that Elhanan actually slew Lahmi, Goliath's brother. The King James resolves the problem by adding the words in italics (the brother of) Goliath, to harmonize the three passages.

17:54. Some have questioned the accuracy of this statement, especially since Jerusalem did not fall to Israel until the days of David's kingship. Actually, no control of Jerusalem need be indicated here. David merely took Goliath's head to the gates of Jerusalem as a sign of David's own intentions for the city. Like the great Goliath, even Jerusalem would fall to God's armies.

17:55-58. Some have suggested a conflict here with the account in 16:18-23. This is not the case. Although Saul knew and loved David, his harpist, his question here concerns only the name of the family to which David belonged, so that proper recognition and reward might be given (cf. v. 25). The two accounts are supplementary, not contradictory.

3 Then Jonathan and David made a ^acovenant, because he loved him as his own soul.

4 And Jonathan ¹stripped himself of the robe that was upon him, and gave it to David, and his garments, even to his sword, and to his bow, and to his girdle.

Saul Jealous of David

5 And David went out whithersoever Saul sent him, and ¹behaved himself wisely: and Saul set him over the men of war, and he was accepted in the sight of all the people, and also in the sight of Saul's servants.

6 And it came to pass as they came, when David was returned from the slaughter of the ¹Philistine, that ^athe women came out of all cities of Israel, singing and dancing, to meet king Saul, with tabrets, with joy, and with ²instruments of musick.

7 And the women ^aanswered one another as they played, and said, ^bSaul hath slain his thousands, and David his ten thousands.

8 And Saul was very ¹wroth, and the saying ^adispleased him; and he said, They have ascribed unto David ten thousands, and to me they have ascribed but thousands: and what can he have more but ^bthe kingdom?

9 And Saul ^eeyed David from that day and forward.

Saul Tries to Kill David

10 And it came to pass on the morrow, that ^athe evil spirit from God came upon Saul, ^band he prophesied in the midst of the house: and David ^cplayed with his hand, as at other times: ^dand there was a javelin in Saul's hand.

11 And Saul ^acast the javelin; for he said, I will smite David even to the wall with it. And David ¹avoided out of his presence twice.

12 And Saul was ^aafraid of David, because ^bthe LORD was with him, and was ^cdeparted from Saul.

Saul's Daughter Given to David

17 And Saul said to David, Behold my elder daughter Merab, ^aher will I give thee to wife: only be thou valiant for me, and fight ^bthe LORD's battles. For Saul said, 'Let not mine hand be upon him, but let the hand of the Philistines be upon him.'

18:7. The meeting of victors returning from the battle with music and dancing was traditional in ancient Israel (cf. Ex. 15:20; Judg. 11:34). The use of ascending numbers in parallel lines of poetry (e.g., 1/2, 3/4, 20/30, 77/88, 1,000/10,000, etc.) was a common poetic device in Old Testament poetry and the literature of the ancient Near East (cf. Deut. 32:30; Job 5:19; Ps. 62:11; Prov. 30:15; Eccl. 11:2; Mic. 6:7).

26 And when his servants told David these words, it pleased David well to be the king's son in law: and ^athe days were not expired.

Two Hundred Philistines Slain

27 Wherefore David arose and went, he and ^ahis men, and slew of the Philistines two hundred men; and ^bDavid brought their foreskins, and they gave them in full ¹tale to the king, that he might be the king's son in law. And Saul gave him Michal his daughter to wife.

6 And Saul hearkened unto the voice of Jonathan: and Saul sware, As the LORD liveth, he shall not be slain.

7 And Jonathan called David, and Jonathan shewed him all those things. And Jonathan brought David to Saul, and he was in his presence, ^aas in times past.

8 And there was war again: and David went out, and fought with the Philistines, and ^aslew them with a great slaughter; and they fled from him.

Saul Tries to Kill David

9 And ^athe evil spirit from the LORD was upon Saul, as he sat in his house with his javelin in his hand: and David ¹played with his hand.

10 And Saul sought to ¹smite David even to the wall with the javelin; but he slipped away out of Saul's presence, and he smote the javelin into the wall: and David fled, and escaped that night.

11 ^aSaul also sent messengers unto David's house, to watch him, and to slay him in the morning: and Michal David's wife told him, saying, If thou save not thy life to night, to morrow thou shalt be slain.

Michal's Deception

12 So Michal ^alet David down through a window: and he went, and fled, and escaped.

18:30. Despite Saul's jealousy, trickery, and oppression, David's conduct remained exemplary. He supported properly constituted authority (cf. 1 Pet.

2:13-20) and behaved himself... wisely, not repaying evil for evil (cf. Rom. 12:17, 21; 1 Pet. 3:8-17).

13 And Michal took ¹an image, and laid it in the bed, and put a pillow of goats' hair for his bolster, and covered it with a cloth.

14 And when Saul sent messengers to take David, she said, He is sick.

15 And Saul sent the messengers again to see David, saying, Bring him up to me in the bed, that I may slay him.

16 And when the messengers were come in, behold, there was an image in the bed, with a pillow of goats' hair for his bolster.

17 And Saul said unto Michal, Why hast thou deceived me so, and sent away mine enemy, that he is escaped? And Michal answered Saul, He said unto me, Let me go; why should I kill thee?

18 So David fled, and escaped, and came to ^aSamuel to ^bRamah, and told him all that Saul had done to him. And he and Samuel went and dwelt in Naioth.

19 And it was told Saul, saying, Behold, David is at Naioth in Ramah.

21 And when it was told Saul, he sent other messengers, and they prophesied likewise. And Saul sent messengers again the third time, and they prophesied also.

Jonathan's Disbelief

20 And David fled from Naioth in Ramah, and came and said before Jonathan, What have I done? what is mine iniquity? and what is my sin before thy father, that he seeketh my life?

19:22-24. Like the men sent before him to find and apprehend David, Saul was overpowered by the Spirit of God so that he, too, joined in prophesying and praising God. Saul's actions do not give evidence that Israel's prophets were mere ecstasies, as charged by some. Saul alone behaved himself in this manner on this occasion. Rather, one must remember both Saul's unstable makeup and disturbed emotional state, and that Saul's conduct may reflect God's judgment upon him by allowing his dementia to bring on personal humiliation and shame.

7 ^aIf he say thus, It is well; thy servant shall have peace: but if he be very wroth, then be sure that ^bevil is determined by him.

8 Therefore thou shalt ^adeal kindly with thy servant; for ^bthou hast brought thy servant into a covenant of the LORD with thee: notwithstanding, ^cif there be in me iniquity, slay me thyself; for why shouldst thou bring me to thy father?

9 And Jonathan said, Far be it from thee: for if I knew certainly that evil were determined by my father to come upon thee, then would not I tell it thee?

10 Then said David to Jonathan, Who shall tell me? or what if thy father answer thee roughly?

11 And Jonathan said unto David, Come, and let us go out into the field. And they went out both of them into the field.

12 And Jonathan said unto David, O LORD God of Israel, when I have ¹sounded my father about to morrow any time, or the third day, and, behold, if there be good toward David, and I then send not unto thee, and shew it thee;

Saul Questions David's Absence

24 So David hid himself in the field: and when the new moon was come, the king sat him down to eat meat.

25 And the king sat upon his seat, as at other times, even upon a seat by the wall: and Jonathan arose, and Abner sat by Saul's side, and David's place was empty.

26 Nevertheless Saul spake not any thing that day: for he thought, Something hath befallen him, he is not clean; surely he is ^anot clean.

27 And it came to pass on the morrow, which was the second day of the month, that David's place was empty: and Saul said unto Jonathan

20:14–17. Kindness and love are essential ingredients in the covenant stipulations of the ancient Near East. They speak of a relationship whereby each party treats the other as a full family member, with loyalty, dignity, and devotion. Jonathan continues with recognition of David's divinely established pre-eminence (cf. v. 8; 18:3, 4). The everlasting covenant between Jonathan and David (cf. vv. 23, 42) will be remembered by David when he becomes king (cf. 2 Sam. 9).

28 And Jonathan ^aanswered Saul, David earnestly asked leave of me to go to Beth-lehem:

Saul's Anger

30 Then Saul's anger was kindled against Jonathan, and he said unto him, Thou son of the perverse rebellious woman, do not I know that thou hast chosen the son of Jesse to thine own ¹confusion, and unto the confusion of thy mother's nakedness?

31 For as long as the son of Jesse liveth upon the ground, thou shalt not be established, nor thy kingdom. Wherefore now send and fetch him unto me, for he ¹shall surely die.

33 And Saul ^acast a javelin at him to ¹smite him: ^bwhereby Jonathan knew that it was determined of his father to slay David.

34 So Jonathan arose from the table in fierce anger, and did eat no meat the second day of the month: for he was grieved for David, because his father had done him shame.

Matt. 12:3, 4; Mark 2:25-27).

21:10-15. David's actions are again accurately recorded, but without comment or commendation.

22:3-5. David began to attract a following that was disenchanted with Saul. Because David had family ties in Moab (cf. Ruth 4:21, 22), and because Moab was a traditional enemy and was even now hostile to the current Israelite throne (cf. 14:47), David sought a place of refuge for his family there. David may have left his followers behind in the forest of Hareth, to which he returned after placing his family in safekeeping in Moab. Gad is later called David's seer (1 Chr. 21:9). He subsequently collaborated in an account of the deeds of David (1 Chr. 29:29).

5 And it came to pass afterward, that ^aDavid's heart smote him, because he had cut off Saul's skirt.

6 And he said unto his men, ^aThe LORD forbid that I should do this thing unto my master, the LORD's anointed, to stretch forth mine hand against him, seeing he is the anointed of the LORD.

7 So David ^astayed¹ his servants with these words, and suffered them not to rise against Saul. But Saul rose up out of the cave, and went on his way.

8 David also arose afterward, and went out of the cave, and cried after Saul, saying, My lord the king. And when Saul looked behind him, David stooped with his face to the earth, and bowed himself.

David's Loyalty to Saul

9 And David said to Saul, ^aWherefore hearest thou men's words, saying, Behold, David seeketh thy hurt?

10 Behold, this day thine eyes have seen how that the LORD had delivered thee to day into mine hand in the cave: and some bade me kill thee: but mine eye spared thee; and I said, I will not put forth mine hand against my lord; for he is the LORD's anointed.

11 Moreover, my father, see, yea, see the ¹skirt of thy robe in my hand: for in that I cut off the ¹skirt of thy robe, and killed thee not, know thou and see that there is ^aneither evil nor ²transgression in mine hand, and I have not sinned against thee; yet thou ^bhuntest my ³soul to take it.

24:4-6. David, rather than seizing the hem of the king's robe (cf. the note at 15:27, 28), cut it off, usually a mark of insubordination. However, David probably intended it as a sign of his loyalty; he had refused the opportunity to slay the king (cf. vv. 10-12). Yet, because Saul was the properly constituted authority in Israel (v. 8), to touch the king's robe was to touch the king; hence, David was conscience-stricken.

23:29 En-gedi bears the name of a perennial spring that gushes from a small promontory about six hundred feet above the Dead Sea. The remarkable water supply in the midst of such a desolate region led to the creation of a small community at the site. En-gedi was on the barren western shore of the Dead Sea about 35 miles southeast of Jerusalem, 18 miles southeast of Hebron, and part of the allotment of Judah (Josh. 15:62). Because En-gedi lay on the eastern edge of the rugged wilderness of Judah, David hid himself in this area when he was fleeing from King Saul (23:29—24:1). It was watered by a hot spring that came forth about three or four hundred feet above the base of a large cliff and yielded an abundance of fresh water that created an oasis rich in semitropical vegetation and vineyards (Song 1:14). En-gedi is a modern-day tourist attraction.

12 ^aThe LORD judge between me and thee, and the LORD avenge me ¹of thee: but mine hand shall not be upon thee.

13 As saith the proverb of the ancients, ^aWickedness proceedeth from the wicked: but mine hand shall not be upon thee.

14 After whom is the king of Israel come out? after whom dost thou pursue? ^aafter a dead dog, after ^ba flea.

15 ^aThe LORD therefore be judge, and judge between me and thee, and ^bsee, and ^cplead my cause, and deliver me out of thine hand.

Saul Admits His Sin

16 And it came to pass, when David had made an end of speaking these words unto Saul, that Saul said, ^aIs this thy voice, my son David? And Saul lifted up his voice, and wept.

17 ^aAnd he said to David, Thou art ^bmore righteous than I: for ^cthou hast rewarded me good, whereas I have rewarded thee evil.

Samuel's Death and Burial

25 And ^aSamuel died; and all the Israelites were gathered together, and ^blamented him, and buried him in his house at Ramah. And David arose, and went down ^cto the wilderness of ¹Paran.

David's Request to Nabal

2 And there was a man ^ain Maon, whose ¹possessions were in ^bCarmel; and the man was very great, and he had three thousand sheep, and a thousand goats: and he was shearing his sheep in Carmel.

3 Now the name of the man was Nabal; and the name of his wife Abigail: and she was a woman of good understanding, and of a beautiful countenance: but the man was ¹churlish and evil in his doings; and he was of the house of ^aCaleb.

4 And David heard in the wilderness that Nabal did ^ashear his sheep.

5 And David sent out ten young men, and David said unto the young men, Get you up to Carmel, and go to Nabal, and greet him in my name:

6 And thus shall ye say to him that liveth in prosperity, ^aPeace be both to thee, and peace be to thine house, and peace be unto all that thou hast.

7 And now I have heard that thou hast shearers: now thy shepherds which were with us, we hurt them not, ^aneither was there ought missing unto them, all the while they were in Carmel.

8 Ask thy young men, and they will shew thee. Wherefore ¹let the young men find favour in thine eyes: for we come in ^aa good day: give, I pray thee, whatsoever cometh to thine hand unto thy servants, and to thy son David.

9 And when David's young men came, they spake to Nabal according to all those words in the name of David, and ceased.

10 And Nabal answered David's servants, and said, ^aWho is David?

24:14. Dead dog was often used in the ancient Near East as a symbol of self-abasement (cf. 2 Sam. 9:8) or contempt (cf. 2 Sam. 16:9).

24:16-22. Although Saul recognized the inevitability of David's kingship, and entered into a covenant with David concerning the treatment of Saul's family, Saul nevertheless resumed his persecution of David later (cf. ch. 26).

25:2. This Carmel lay south of Hebron.

and who is the son of Jesse? there be many servants now a days that break away every man from his master.

11 “Shall I then take my bread, and my water, and my ¹flesh that I have killed for my shearers, and give it unto men, whom I know not whence they be?

12 So David’s young men turned their way, and went again, and came and told him all those sayings.

David’s Anger

13 And David said unto his men, Gird ye on every man his sword. And they girded on every man his sword; and David also girded on his sword; and there went up after David about four hundred men; and two hundred ^aabode by the stuff.

14 But one of the young men told Abigail, Nabal’s wife, saying, Behold, David sent messengers out of the wilderness to ¹salute our master; and he ²railed on them.

15 But the men were very good unto us, and ^awe were not hurt, neither missed we any thing, as long as we ¹were conversant with them, when we were in the fields:

16 They were ^aa wall unto us both by night and day, all the while we were with them keeping the sheep.

17 Now therefore know and consider what thou wilt do; for ^aevil¹ is determined against our master, and against all his household: for he is such a ²son of ^bBelial, that a man cannot speak to him.

Abigail’s Peace Offering

18 Then Abigail made haste, and ^atook two hundred loaves, and two bottles of wine, and five sheep ready dressed, and five measures of ¹parched corn, and an hundred 19 And she said unto her servants, ^aGo on before me; behold, I come after you. But she told not her husband Nabal.

20 And it was so, as she rode on the ass, that she came down by the covert of the hill, and, behold, David and his men came down against her; and she met them.

21 Now David had said, Surely in vain have I kept all that this fellow hath in the wilderness, so that nothing was missed of all that pertained unto him: and he hath ^arequited¹ me evil for good.

22 ^aSo and more also do God unto the enemies of David, if I ^bleave of all that pertain to him by the morning light ^aany that pisseth against the wall.

23 And when Abigail saw David, she hasted, and ^alighted off the ass, and fell before David on her face, and bowed herself to the ground, 24 And fell at his feet, and said, Upon me, my lord, upon me let this iniquity be: and ¹let thine handmaid, I pray thee, speak in thine audience, and hear the words of thine handmaid.

25 Let not my lord, I pray thee, regard this man of Belial, even Nabal: for as his name is, so is he; ¹Nabal is his name, and folly is with him: but I thine handmaid saw not the young men of my lord, whom thou didst send.

26 Now therefore, my lord, ^aas the LORD liveth, and as thy soul liveth, seeing the LORD hath ^bwithholden¹ thee from coming to shed blood, and from ^cavenging² thyself with thine own hand, now ^dlet thine enemies,

25:14. Nabal not only refused to acknowledge David’s requests (vv. 10, 11) for compensation for guarding his flocks (vv. 15, 16, 21), but threw out insults at David’s messengers. Whatever his name was originally intended to signify, his actions betray the character of the name: Nabal means “Foolish.” The word is used of a person who is devoid of spiritual sensitivity or ethical standards (cf. v. 25). He was, as his servant recognized, a “son of Belial” (v. 17). For this latter term, see the note on Judges 19:22.

25:18 Abigail was the wife of Nabal the Carmelite, an ill-tempered, drunken man. By contrast, Abigail, a beautiful, intelligent, and decisive woman, showed great wisdom in pacifying David’s anger against her family because of Nabal’s disrespect. Her gifts of food and kindness were a blessing to Israel’s future king, who later married Abigail after her husband’s death. She later bore their son, Chileab (2 Sam. 3:3), also called Daniel (1 Chron. 3:1).

and they that seek ³evil to my lord, be as Nabal.

27 And now ^athis ¹blessing which thine handmaid hath brought unto my lord, let it even be given unto the young men that follow my lord.

Abigail's Request

28 I pray thee, forgive the trespass of thine handmaid: for ^athe LORD will certainly make my lord ¹a sure house; because my lord ^bfighteth the battles of the LORD, and ^cevil hath not been found in thee all thy days.

29 Yet a man is risen to pursue thee, and to seek thy soul: but the soul of my lord shall be ^abound ¹in the bundle of life with the LORD thy God; and the souls of thine enemies, them shall he ^bsling out, as out of the middle of a sling.

30 And it shall come to pass, when the LORD shall have done to my lord according to all the good that he hath spoken concerning thee, and shall have appointed thee ^aruler over Israel;

31 That this shall be no grief unto thee, nor offence of heart unto my lord, either that thou hast shed blood causeless, or that my lord hath avenged himself: but when the LORD shall have dealt well with my lord, then remember thine handmaid.

David Praises Abigail

32 And David said to Abigail, ^aBlessed be the LORD God of Israel, which sent thee this day to meet me:

33 And blessed be thy advice, and blessed be thou, which hast ^akept me this day from coming to shed blood, and from avenging myself with mine own hand.

35 So David received of her hand that which she had brought him, and said unto her, ^aGo up in peace to thine house; see, I have ¹heard to thy voice, and have ^baccepted thy person.

The Death of Nabal

36 And Abigail came to Nabal; and, behold, ^ahe held a feast in his house, like the feast of a king; and Nabal's heart was merry within him, for he was very drunken: wherefore she told him nothing, less or more, until the morning light.

37 But it came to pass in the morning, ²when the wine was gone out of Nabal, and his wife had told him these things, that his heart died within him, and he became as a stone.

38 And it came to pass about ten days after, that the LORD ^asmote Nabal, that he died.

39 And when David heard that Nabal was dead, he said, ^aBlessed be the LORD, that hath ^bpleaded the cause of my reproach from the hand of Nabal, and hath ^ckept his servant from evil: for the LORD hath ^dreturned the wickedness of Nabal upon his own head. And David sent and ¹communed with Abigail, to take her to him to wife.

40 And when the servants of David were come to Abigail to Carmel, they spake unto her, saying, David sent us unto thee, to take thee to him to wife.

41 And she arose, and bowed herself on her face to the earth, and said, Behold, let thine handmaid be a servant to ^awash the feet of the servants of my lord.

25:30–32. Abigail sensed the politically tragic results of her wicked husband's foolish actions. She was also sensitive to the Lord's good intentions for David and therefore submits herself to the Lord's appointed ruler (cf. v. 41).

25:37, 38. Nabal apparently suffered a stroke, to which he subsequently succumbed.

25:39–44. Because David recognized that Abigail was a godly and wise woman (cf. vv. 32–34), and because a marriage to a prominent Calebite would be advantageous to his future position as king in Judah, David took Abigail as wife soon after Nabal's death. Significantly, David would first become king of Judah at Hebron (cf. 2 Sam. 2:1–7). Despite its political expediency, David's polygamous marriages (vv. 42, 43) are not commended by the Scriptures.

The Wives of David

42 And Abigail hasted, and arose, and rode upon an ass, with five damsels of hers that went ¹after her; and she went after the messengers of David, and became his wife.

43 David also took Ahinoam ^aof Jezreel; ^band they were also both of them his wives.

44 But Saul had given ^aMichal his daughter, David's wife, to ¹Phalti the son of Laish, which was of ^bGallim.

Saul Pursues David

26 And the Ziphites came unto Saul to Gibeah, saying, ^aDoth not David hide himself in the hill of Hachilah, which is before Jeshimon?

2 Then Saul arose, and went down to the wilderness of Ziph, having ^athree thousand chosen men of Israel with him, to seek David in the wilderness of Ziph.

3 And Saul pitched in the hill of Hachilah, which is before Jeshimon, by the way. But David abode in the wilderness, and he saw that Saul came after him into the wilderness.

4 David therefore sent out spies, and understood that Saul ¹was come in very deed.

5 And David arose, and came to the place where Saul had ¹pitched: and David beheld the place where Saul lay, and ^aAbner the son of Ner, the captain of his host: and Saul lay in the ²trench, and the people pitched round about him.

6 Then answered David and said to Ahimelech the Hittite, and to Abishai ^athe son of Zeruiah, brother to ^bJoab, saying, Who will ^cgo down with me to Saul to the camp? And ^dAbishai said, I will go down with thee.

7 So David and Abishai came to the people by night: and, behold, Saul lay sleeping within ¹the trench, and his spear stuck in the ground at his ²bolster: but Abner and the people lay round about him.

Abishai Wants Saul's Death

8 Then said Abishai to David, ^aGod hath delivered thine enemy into thine hand this day: now therefore let me ¹smite him, I pray thee, with the spear even to the earth ²at once, and I will not smite him the second time.

9 And David said to Abishai, Destroy him not: ^afor who can stretch forth his hand against the LORD's anointed, and be guiltless?

10 David said furthermore, As the LORD liveth, ^athe LORD shall smite him; or ^bhis day shall come to die; or he shall ^cdescend into battle, and perish.

11 ^aThe LORD forbid that I should stretch forth mine hand against the LORD's anointed: but, I pray thee, take thou now the spear that is at his ¹bolster, and the cruse of water, and let us go.

12 So David took the spear and the cruse of water from Saul's bolster; and they gat them away, and no man saw it, nor knew it, neither awaked: for they were all asleep; because ^aa deep sleep from the LORD was fallen upon them.

David Rebukes Abner

13 Then David went over to the other side, and stood on the top of an hill afar off; a great space being between them:

14 And David cried to the people, and to Abner the son of Ner, saying, Answerest thou not, Abner? Then Abner answered and said, Who art thou that criest to the king?

15 And David said to Abner, Art not thou a valiant man? and who is like to thee in Israel? wherefore then hast thou not ¹kept thy lord the king? for there came one of the people in to destroy the king thy lord.

26:1. Some critics have suggested that chapters 24 and 26 are duplicate accounts of one event in which David spared Saul's life. But the details of the two accounts are far too different to be considered variants of one occurrence.

26:7. Saul regularly kept his spear stuck in the ground by his head (cf. 18:10, 11; 19:10; 20:33), which symbolized his royal authority. David first took the king's spear, then returned it (vv. 12, 22) in deference to the will of God (cf. vv. 23, 24). Once again he respected duly established government (cf. Rom. 13:1; Eph. 6:5-8) and spared the king's life. See the note on 24:4-6.

16 This thing is not good that thou hast done. As the LORD liveth, ye are worthy to die, because ye have not ¹kept your master, the LORD's anointed. And now see where the king's spear is, and the cruse of water that was at his bolster.

David's Plea

17 And Saul knew David's voice, and said, ^aIs this thy voice, my son David? And David said, It is my voice, my lord, O king.

18 And he said, ^aWherefore doth my lord thus pursue after his servant? for what have I done? or what evil is in mine hand?

19 Now therefore, I pray thee, let my lord the king hear the words of his servant. If the LORD have ^astirred thee up against me, let him accept an offering: but if they be the children of men, cursed be they before the LORD; ^bfor they have driven me out this day from abiding in the ^cinheritance of the LORD, saying, Go, serve other gods.

20 Now therefore, let not my blood fall to the earth before the face of the LORD: for the king of Israel is come out to seek ^aa flea, as when one doth hunt a partridge in the mountains.

Saul Repents of His Sin

21 Then said Saul, ^aI have sinned: return, my son David: for I will no more do thee harm, because my soul was precious in thine eyes this day: behold, I have played the fool, and have erred exceedingly.

22 And David answered and said, Behold the king's spear! and let one of the young men come over and fetch it.

23 ^aThe LORD ^brender to every man his righteousness and his faithfulness: for the LORD delivered thee into my hand to day, but I would not stretch forth mine hand against the LORD's anointed.

25 Then Saul said to David, Blessed be thou, my son David: thou shalt both do great things, and also shalt still ^aprevail. So David went on his way, and Saul returned to his place.

David Flees to Gath

27 I shall now perish one day by the hand of Saul: there is nothing better for me than that I should speedily escape into the land of the Philistines; and Saul shall ¹despair of me, to seek me any more in any ²coast of Israel: so shall I escape out of his hand.

2 And David arose, ^aand he passed over with the six hundred men that were with him ^bunto Achish, the son of Maach, king of Gath.

3 And David dwelt with Achish at Gath, he and his men, every man with his household, even David ^awith his two wives, Ahinoam the Jezreelitess, and Abigail the Carmelitess, Nabal's wife.

9 And David ¹smote the land, and left neither man nor woman alive, and took away the sheep, and the oxen, and the asses, and the camels, and the apparel, and returned, and came to Achish.

Saul Seeks Advice

28 And ^ait came to pass in those days, that the Philistines gathered their armies together for warfare, to fight with Israel. And Achish said unto David, Know thou assuredly, that thou shalt go out with me to battle, thou and thy men.

2 And David said to Achish, Surely thou shalt know what thy servant can do. And Achish said to David, Therefore will I make thee ¹keeper of mine head for ever.

gathered all Israel together, and they pitched in ^bGilboa.

5 And when Saul saw the host of the Philistines, he was ^aafraid, and his heart greatly trembled.

6 And when Saul enquired of the LORD, ^athe LORD answered him not, neither by ^bdreams, nor ^cby Urim, nor by prophets.

7 Then said Saul unto his servants, Seek me a woman that ¹hath a familiar spirit, ^athat I may go to her, and enquire of her. And his servants said to him, Behold, there is a woman that hath a familiar spirit at En-dor.

8 And Saul disguised himself, and put on other raiment, and he went, and two men with him, and they came to the woman by night: and ^ahe said, ¹I pray thee, divine unto me by the familiar spirit, and ²bring me him up, whom I shall name unto thee.

9 And the woman said unto him, Behold, thou knowest what Saul hath done, how he hath ^acut off those that have familiar spirits, and the wizards, out of the land: wherefore then layest thou a snare for my life, to cause me to die?

10 And Saul sware to her by the LORD, saying, As the LORD liveth, there shall no punishment happen to thee for this thing.

11 Then said the woman, Whom shall I bring up unto thee? And he said, Bring me up Samuel.

Samuel's Appearance

12 And when the woman saw Samuel, she cried with a loud voice: and the woman spake to Saul, saying, Why hast thou deceived me? for thou art Saul.

13 And the king said unto her, Be not afraid: for what sawest thou?

28:7. Necromancy was strictly forbidden by the law of Moses (Lev. 19:31). Although Saul had instituted a purge against all forms of spiritism, apparently this spiritist medium had escaped previous notice.

28:11, 12. To bring up the dead (cf. v. 15) was common terminology used by the necromancers in the ancient Near East for bringing back the spirit of the deceased so as to gain information from him. Accordingly, the term does not necessarily point to Sheol as the common receptacle in the earth of all disembodied spirits, good or bad, as sometimes taught. The appearance of Samuel has been explained by conservative theologians as either a hoax, a demonic impersonation of Samuel, or as a genuine appearance of the prophet. Whatever view one holds, certainly God, not the spiritist witch of Endor, controlled the circumstances and utilized them to announce Saul's imminent demise at the hands of the Philistines (cf. v. 19). See the note on 1 Chronicles 10:13, 14.

And the woman said unto Saul, I saw ^agods¹ ascending out of the earth.

14 And he said unto her, What form is he of? And she said, An old man cometh up; and he is covered with ^aa mantle. And Saul perceived that it was Samuel, and he stooped with his face to the ground, and bowed himself.

The Fate of Saul

15 And Samuel said to Saul, Why hast thou ^adisquieted me, to bring me up? And Saul answered, I am ¹sore distressed; for the Philistines make war against me, and ^bGod is departed from me, and ^canswereth me no more, neither by prophets, nor by dreams: therefore I have called thee, that thou mayest make known unto me what I shall do.

16 Then said Samuel, Wherefore then dost thou ask of me, seeing the LORD is departed from thee, and is become thine enemy?

17 And the LORD hath done to ¹him, ^aas he spake by me: for the LORD hath rent the kingdom out of thine hand, and given it to thy neighbour, even to David:

18 ^aBecause thou obeyedst not the voice of the LORD, nor executedst his fierce wrath upon ^bAmalek, therefore hath the LORD done this thing unto thee this day.

19 Moreover the LORD will also deliver Israel with thee into the hand of the Philistines: and to morrow shalt thou and thy sons be with ^ame: the LORD also shall deliver the host of Israel into the hand of the Philistines.

20 Then Saul fell straightway ¹all along on the earth, and was sore afraid, because of the words of Samuel: and there was no strength in him; for he had eaten no bread all the day, nor all the night.

21 And the woman came unto Saul, and saw that he was ¹sore

22 Now therefore, I pray thee, hearken thou also unto the voice of thine handmaid, and let me set a morsel of bread before thee; and eat, that thou mayest have strength, when thou goest on thy way.

23 But he refused, and said, I will not eat. But his servants, together with the woman, ¹compelled him; and he hearkened unto their voice. So he arose from the earth, and sat upon the bed.

24 And the woman had a fat calf in the house; and she ¹hasted, and killed it, and took flour, and kneaded it, and did bake unleavened bread thereof:

25 And she brought it before Saul, and before his servants; and they did eat. Then they rose up, and went away that night.

Princes Distrust David

29 Now ^athe Philistines gathered together all their armies ^bto Aphek: and the Israelites ¹pitched by a fountain which is in Jezreel.

2 And the ^alords of the Philistines passed on by hundreds, and by thousands: but ^bDavid and his men passed on in the ¹rereward with Achish.

3 Then said the princes of the Philistines, What do these Hebrews here? And Achish said unto the princes of the Philistines, Is not this David, the servant of Saul the king of Israel, which hath been with me ^athese days, or these years, and I have ^bfound no fault in him since he ¹fell unto me unto this day?

28:13-15. In the ancient Near East spiritist mediums used the term gods to refer to disembodied spirits. In Samuel's case the term would particularly signify one who had exercised considerable authority while still on earth (cf. Ps. 82:6). Disquieting the dead was a term used in the Phoenician inscriptions of those who looted the graves of the dead. Here it appears to be referring to arousing the deceased, to bring him up. All of the terms found in chapter 28 are employed by the necromancers as technical words in their trade; they do not in themselves prove the validity of their craft.

5 Is not this David, ^aof whom they sang one to another in dances, saying, ^bSaul slew his thousands, and David his ten thousands?

David Ordered from Battle

6 Then Achish called David, and said unto him, Surely, as the LORD liveth, thou hast been upright, and ^athy going out and thy coming in with me in the ¹host is good in my sight: for ^bI have not found evil in thee since the day of thy coming unto me unto this day: nevertheless the lords favour thee not.

7 Wherefore now return, and go in peace, that thou displease not the lords of the Philistines.

8 And David said unto Achish, But what have I done? and what hast thou found in thy servant so long as I have been with thee unto this day, that I may not go fight against the enemies of my lord the king?

9 And Achish answered and said to David, I know that thou art good in my sight, ^aas an angel of God: notwithstanding ^bthe princes of the Philistines have said, He shall not go up with us to the battle.

10 Wherefore now rise up early in the morning with thy master's servants ^athat are come with thee: and as soon as ye be up early in the morning, and have light, depart.

11 So David and his men rose up early to depart in the morning, to return into the land of the Philistines. ^aAnd the Philistines went up to Jezreel.

Ziklag Burned and Captives Taken

30 And it came to pass, when David and his men were come to ^aZiklag on the third day, that the ^bAmalekites had invaded the south, and Ziklag, and smitten Ziklag, and burned it with fire;

2 And had taken the ^awomen captives, that were therein: they slew not any, either great or small, but carried them away, and went on their way.

3 So David and his men came to the city, and, behold, it was burned with fire; and their wives, and their sons, and their daughters, were taken captives.

4 Then David and the people that were with him lifted up their voice and wept, until they had no more power to weep.

5 And David's two ^awives were taken captives, Ahinoam the Jezreelitess, and Abigail the wife of Nabal the Carmelite.

6 And David was greatly distressed; for ^athe people spake of stoning him, because the soul of all the people was ¹grieved, every man for his sons and for his daughters: ^bbut David encouraged himself in the LORD his God.

7 ^aAnd David said to Abiathar the priest, Ahimelech's son, I pray thee, bring me hither the ephod. And ^bAbiathar brought thither the ephod to David.

8 ^aAnd David enquired at the LORD, saying, Shall I pursue after this troop? shall I overtake them? And he answered him, Pursue: for thou shalt surely overtake them, and without fail recover all.

David's Pursuit

9 So David went, he and the six hundred men that were with him, and came to the brook Besor, where those that were left behind stayed.

10 But David pursued, he and four hundred men: ^afor two hundred abode behind, which were so faint

29:9. An angel of God appears to have been a common Hebrew expression of commendation in those times (cf. 2 Sam. 14:17; 19:27). God sovereignly used the suspicion of the Philistine princes to deliver David from the dilemma of either fighting against his own countrymen or betraying his true sentiments, thus facing the wrath of the Philistines.

30:1. Saul had failed to annihilate the Amalekites (cf. 15:2, 3, 10-19).

that they could not go over the brook Besor.

11 And they found an Egyptian in the field, and brought him to David, and gave him bread, and he did eat; and they made him drink water;

12 And they gave him a piece of ^aa cake of figs, and two clusters of raisins: and ^bwhen he had eaten, his ¹spirit came again to him: for he had eaten no bread, nor drunk any water, three days and three nights.

13 And David said unto him, To whom belongest thou? and whence art thou? And he said, I am a young man of Egypt, servant to an Amalekite; and my master left me, because three days ¹agone I fell sick.

14 We made an invasion upon the south of ^athe Cherethites, and upon the coast which belongeth to Judah, and upon the south ^bof Caleb; and we burned Ziklag with fire.

15 And David said to him, Canst thou bring me down to this company? And he said, Swear unto me by God, that thou wilt neither kill me, nor deliver me into the hands of my ^amaster, and I will bring thee down to this company.

David's Great Victory

16 And when he had brought him down, behold, they were spread abroad upon all the earth, ^aeating and drinking, and dancing, because of all the great spoil that they had taken out of the land of the Philistines, and out of the land of Judah.

17 And David smote them from the twilight even unto the evening of the next day: and there escaped not a man of them, save four hundred young men, which rode upon camels, and fled.

18 And David recovered all that the Amalekites had carried away: and David rescued his two wives.

Laws Pertaining to Spoil

21 And David came to the ^atwo hundred men, which were so ¹faint that they could not follow David, whom they had made also to abide at the brook Besor: and they went forth to meet David, and to meet the people that were with him: and when David came near to the people, he ²saluted them.

22 Then answered all the wicked men and ¹men ^aof Belial, of those that went with David, and said, Because they went not with us, we will not give them ought of the spoil that we have recovered, save to every man his wife and his children, that they may lead them away, and depart.

23 Then said David, Ye shall not do so, my brethren, with that which the LORD hath given us, who hath preserved us, and delivered the company that came against us into our hand.

24 For who will ¹hearken unto you in this matter? but ^aas his part is that goeth down to the battle, so shall his part be that ²tarrieth by the stuff: they shall ³part alike.

25 And it was so from that day forward, that he made it a statute and an ordinance for Israel unto this day.

30:26-31. David's sharing of the spoils of the victory over the Amalekites not only assured them of his gratitude for their friendship and help during his days of flight from the presence of Saul, but would convince his allies of his loyalty, despite the time spent with Achish. Moreover, it would prepare their hearts for his soon-coming kingship. Hebron, mentioned last, stands in climactic position in the list, for David would make it his first capital city (cf. 2 Sam. 2:1-7). For the Amalekites, see the note on Judges 3:12, 13.

6 So Saul died, and his three sons, and his armourbearer, and all his men, that same day together.

7 And when the men of Israel that were on the other side of the valley, and they that were on the other side Jordan, saw that the men of Israel fled, and that Saul and his sons were dead, they forsook the cities, and fled; and the Philistines came and dwelt in them.

Disrespect for Saul's Body

8 And it came to pass on the morrow, when the Philistines came to strip the slain, that they found Saul and his three sons fallen in mount Gilboa.

9 And they cut off his head, and stripped off his armour, and sent into the land of the Philistines round about, to ^apublish it in the house of their idols, and among the people.

10 ^aAnd they put his armour in the house of ^bAshtaroth: and ^cthey fastened his body to the wall of ^dBeth-shan.¹

The Burial of Saul

11 ^aAnd when the inhabitants of Jabesh-gilead heard of that which the Philistines had done to Saul;

12 ^aAll the valiant men arose, and went all night, and took the body of Saul and the bodies of his sons from the wall of Beth-shan, and came to Jabesh, and ^bburnt them there.

13 And they took their bones, and ^aburied them under a tree at Jabesh, ^band fasted seven days.

31:3–6. The text plainly records that Saul died. (For a parallel account, see 1 Chr. 10.) Accordingly, the suggested contradiction in details in 2 Samuel 1:9, 10 must be viewed as a fabricated tale told by an Amalekite to gain David's favor. See the note on 2 Samuel 1:6–10, 15, 16.

31:10. For Ashtaroth, see the note on Judges 2:11–15.

31:11–13. Saul had once delivered the cities of Jabesh-gilead from danger (11:1–11). Accordingly, some of their heroic warriors recovered the body of their champion, Saul, together with those of his sons (cf. 1 Chr. 10:11, 12). Subsequently, David retrieved their remains and buried them in their ancestral burial grounds (cf. 2 Sam. 21:12–14).

Cremation was at times a sign of shame (Lev. 20:14, 21:9) or public judgment (Josh. 7:25). Perhaps the burning was done to mutilate the bodies (cf. v. 9). First Chronicles 10:13, 14 asserts that Saul's death was God's judgment on him.

31:1 Gilboa was a chain of mountains in the territory of Issachar rising from the eastern edge of the plain of Esdraelon, the southern edge of the valley of Jezreel, to a height of 1,696 feet above sea level. On the east it plunges abruptly 2,000 feet below to the Jordan. In this range was the mountain of Gilboa and the hill of Moreh. Both of them guard the eastern pass from the plain of Esdraelon into the valley of Jezreel, the main access from the coastal plain to the Jordan Valley. On Gilboa Saul encamped against the Philistines (28:4); and later, Jonathan and two other sons died there when the Philistines defeated Israel (vv. 1, 8; 2 Sam. 1:6, 21; 21:12; 1 Chr. 10:1, 8). Apparently from this same height Gideon descended to rout the Midianites who were encamped in the valley of Jezreel (Judg. 6:33), near the hill of Moreh. Jebel Fuku 'a, about three miles southeast of Jezreel, represents the location today.

The Second Book of
SAMUEL

First and 2 Samuel were originally one book in the Hebrew Canon but were divided by the translators of the Septuagint. Originally, 2 Samuel was called 2 Kings, as it is in the Latin Vulgate. The book now bears the name of the first principal character to appear in 1 Samuel. The prophet Samuel was already deceased before the events recorded in 2 Samuel. The content of 2 Samuel deals with the life and reign of King David and could have been entitled the Book of David.

Historical Setting. Second Samuel picks up the narration where 1 Samuel left off, and it serves as a transition from the reign of Saul to the reign of David. An account of the death of Saul opens the book, followed by the abortive reign of his son Ish-bosheth. It then traces David's rise to power, first at Hebron in Judah, and then at Jerusalem over all Israel. David's success is described as the result of God's blessing on his life during a time when Israel's neighbors—Egypt, Babylon, and Assyria—were in decline. By contrast, this was the dawning of the golden era for the kingdom of Israel. The consecutive 40-year reigns of David and his son Solomon established Israel as one of the greatest nations of the ancient East.

Authorship. As with 1 Samuel, the author is unknown. The prophets Nathan and Gad may have recorded the events of 2 Samuel (see 1 Chr. 29:29), adding to the sections by Samuel himself. Since the division of the kingdom had already taken place (1 Sam. 27:6), the final form of the two books must have taken shape after the death of Solomon in 931 B.C.

The Davidic covenant is clearly set forth in 2 Samuel 7:4–17. It includes God's promise to perpetuate the line of David until the coming of the Messiah. Thus, the events in this book record God's providential protection of the dynasty and of His covenant people, Israel.

News of Saul's Death

1 Now it came to pass after the ^adeath of Saul, when David was returned from ^bthe slaughter of the Amalekites, and David had abode two days in Ziklag;

2 It came even to pass on the third day, that, behold, ^aa man came out of the camp from Saul ^bwith his clothes ¹rent, and earth upon his head: and so it was, when he came to David, that he ^cfell to the earth, and ²did obeisance.

3 And David said unto him, From whence comest thou? And he said unto him, Out of the camp of Israel am I escaped.

4 And David said unto him, ^aHow went the matter? I pray thee, tell me. And he answered, That the people are fled from the battle, and many of the people also are fallen and dead; and Saul and ^bJonathan his son are dead also.

5 And David said unto the young man that told him, How knowest thou that Saul and Jonathan his son be dead?

6 And the young man that told him said, As I ¹happened by chance upon ^amount Gilboa, behold, ^bSaul leaned upon his spear; and, lo, the chariots and horsemen followed hard after him.

7 And when he looked behind him, he saw me, and called unto me. And I answered, Here am I.

8 And he said unto me, Who art thou? And I answered him, I am an Amalekite.

9 He said unto me again, ¹Stand, I pray thee, upon me, and slay me: for ²anguish is come upon me, because my life is yet whole in me.

10 So I stood upon him, and ^aslew him, because I was sure that he could not live after that he was fallen: and I took the crown that was

David Mourns Saul

11 Then David took hold on his clothes, and ^arent¹ them; and likewise all the men that were with him:

12 And they ^amourned, and wept, and ^bfasted until even, for Saul, and for Jonathan his son, and for the ^cpeople of the LORD, and for the house of Israel; because they were fallen by the sword.

The Young Man Executed

13 And David said unto the young man that told him, Whence art thou? And he answered, I am the son of a stranger, an Amalekite.

14 And David said unto him, ¹How ^awast thou not ^bafraid to ^cstretch forth thine hand to destroy the LORD's anointed?

15 And ^aDavid called one of the young men, and said, Go near, and fall upon him. And he ¹smote him that he died.

16 And David said unto him, ^aThy blood be upon thy head; for ^bthy¹ mouth hath testified against thee, saying, I have slain the LORD's anointed.

A Lamentation for Saul

17 And David lamented with this lamentation over Saul and over Jonathan his son:

18 (^aAlso he bade them teach the children of Judah the use of the bow: behold, it is written ^bin the book of ¹Jasher.)

19 The beauty of Israel is slain upon thy high places: ^ahow are the mighty fallen!

20 ^aTell it not in Gath, ¹publish it not in the streets of ^bAskelon; lest ^cthe daughters of the Philistines rejoice, lest the daughters of ^dthe uncircumcised triumph.

1:2. The refugee from the camp of the defeated Saul came with torn clothes and with earth [dust] upon his head, both signs of mourning or grief (cf. Josh. 7:6; 1 Sam. 4:12; 2 Sam. 15:32). This Amalekite (v. 8) thus bore all the marks of lamenting the death of Saul and his sons.

1:6-10. The details of Saul's death here are at variance with those of 1 Samuel 31:3-5. But the difference originates with the Amalekite who has made up a false account so as to win David's favor. However, his "reward" was vastly different from what he expected (v. 15), for he had dared to touch the Lord's anointed (v. 16), a thing David had twice refrained from doing (1 Sam. 24:6; 26:11).

1:18. For the book of Jasher, see the note on Joshua 10:12-15.

21 Ye ^amountains of Gilboa, ^blet there be no dew, neither let there be rain, upon you, nor fields of offerings: for there the shield of the mighty is ¹vilely cast away, the shield of Saul, as though he had not been ^canointed with oil.

22 From the blood of the slain, from the fat of the mighty, ^athe bow of Jonathan turned not back, and the sword of Saul returned not empty.

23 Saul and Jonathan were lovely and pleasant in their lives, and in their ^adeath they were not divided: they were swifter than eagles, they were ^bstronger than lions.

24 Ye daughters of Israel, weep over Saul, who clothed you in scarlet, with other delights, who put on ornaments of gold upon your apparel.

25 How are the mighty fallen in the midst of the battle! O Jonathan, thou wast slain in thine high places.

26 I am distressed for thee, my brother Jonathan: very pleasant hast thou been unto me: ^athy love to me was wonderful, passing the love of women.

27 ^aHow are the mighty fallen, and the weapons of war perished!

David Made King

2 And it came to pass after this, that David ^aenquired of the LORD, saying, Shall I go up into any of the cities of Judah? And the LORD said unto him, Go up. And David said, Whither shall I go up? And he said, Unto ^bHebron.

2 So David went up thither, and his ^atwo wives also, Ahinoam the Jezreelitess, and Abigail Nabal's wife the Carmelite.

3 And ^ahis men that were with him did David bring up, every man with his household: and they dwelt in the cities of Hebron.

4 ^aAnd the men of Judah came, and there they ^banointed David king over the house of Judah. And they told David, saying, That ^cthe men of Jabesh-gilead were they that buried Saul.

Jabesh-gilead Blessed

5 And David sent messengers unto the men of Jabesh-gilead, and said unto them, ^aBlessed be ye of the LORD, that ye have shewed this kindness unto your lord, even unto Saul, and have buried him.

6 And now ^athe LORD shew kindness and truth unto you: and I also will ¹requite you this kindness, because ye have done this thing.

7 Therefore now let your hands be strengthened, and be ye valiant: for your master Saul is dead, and also the house of Judah have anointed me king over them.

8 But ^aAbner the son of Ner, captain of Saul's host, took ¹Ish-bosheth the son of Saul, and brought him over to ^bMahanaim;

9 And made him king over ^aGilead, and over the ^bAshurites, and over ^cJezreel, and over Ephraim, and over Benjamin, and over all Israel.

10 Ish-bosheth Saul's son was forty years old when he began to reign over Israel, and reigned two years. But the house of Judah followed David.

11 And ^athe ¹time that David was king in Hebron over the house of Judah was seven years and six months.

1:19-27. David's lamentation over Saul and Jonathan is one of the most eloquent eulogies in all of the Bible. The pronouncement of a curse against dew and rain (v. 21) on the occasion of the death of a heroic figure is known also in the literature of ancient Syro-Palestine.

2:4. This was David's second anointing. See the note on 1 Samuel 16:13, 14.

2:8-11. The recognition by all Israel of Ish-bosheth, Saul's son, as king apparently took place only after about five years, since David, his rival, reigned for seven years and six months in Hebron (cf. 5:5; 1 Chr. 3:4). This may be due to Israel's disastrous defeat at Mount Gilboa (1 Sam. 31), a loss from which northern tribes recovered only after five years. The name Ish-bosheth means "Man of Shame." First Chronicles 8:33 and 9:39 record his name as Esh-baal, "Man of Baal" or perhaps, "Baal Lives." Apparently the editor of the text of Samuel has changed the name to dramatize the stigma of having a name of a king linked with such a vile pagan deity. Similarly Merib-baal (1 Chr. 8:34; 9:40) became Mephibosheth (4:4) and Jerubbaal (Judg. 6:32; 8:35) became Jerubbesheth (11:21). Note that Baal and shame (bōshet) occur in parallel in Hosea 9:10.

David Defeats Israel

12 And Abner the son of Ner, and the servants of Ish-bosheth the son of Saul, went out from Mahanaim to ^aGibeon.

13 And ^aJoab the son of Zeruiah, and the servants of David, went out, and met together by ^bthe pool of Gibeon: and they sat down, the one on the one side of the pool, and the other on the other side of the pool.

14 And Abner said to Joab, Let the young men now arise, and ¹play before us. And Joab said, Let them arise.

15 Then there arose and went over by number twelve of Benjamin, which pertained to Ish-bosheth the son of Saul, and twelve of the servants of David.

16 And they caught every one his fellow by the head, and thrust his sword in his fellow's side; so they fell down together: wherefore that place was called ¹Helkath-hazzurim, which is in Gibeon.

17 And there was a very ¹sore battle that day; and Abner was beaten, and the men of Israel, before the servants of David.

18 And there were ^athree sons of Zeruiah there, Joab, and Abishai, and Asahel: and Asahel was ^bas light of foot ^cas a wild ¹roe.

19 And Asahel pursued after Abner; and in going he turned not to the right hand nor to the left from following Abner.

20 Then Abner looked behind him, and said, Art thou Asahel? And he answered, I am.

21 And Abner said to him, Turn thee aside to thy right hand or to thy left, and lay thee hold on one of the young men, and take thee his armour. But Asahel would not turn aside from following of him.

22 And Abner said again to Asahel, Turn thee aside from following

Abner Slays Asahel

23 Howbeit he refused to turn aside: wherefore Abner with the hinder end of the spear smote him ^aunder the fifth rib, that the spear came out behind him; and he fell down there, and died in the same place: and it came to pass, that as many as came to the place where Asahel fell down and died stood ^bstill.

24 Joab also and Abishai pursued after Abner: and the sun went down when they were come to the hill of Ammah, that lieth before Giah by the way of the wilderness of Gibeon.

A Truce Is Called

25 And the children of Benjamin gathered themselves together after Abner, and became one ¹troop, and stood on the top of an hill.

26 Then Abner called to Joab, and said, Shall the sword devour for ever? knowest thou not that it will be bitterness in the latter end? how long shall it be then, ¹ere thou bid the people return from ²following their brethren?

27 And Joab said, As God liveth, ¹unless ^athou hadst spoken, surely then in the morning the people ²had gone up every one from following his brother.

28 So Joab blew a trumpet, and all the people stood still, and pursued after Israel no more, neither fought they any more.

29 And Abner and his men walked all that night through the plain, and passed over Jordan, and went through all Bithron, and they came to Mahanaim.

30 And Joab returned from following Abner: and when he had gathered all the people together,

2:14-16. The play of the young men was actually a gladiatorial contest in lieu of a full-pitched battle. Representatives from each army were chosen, so an all-out war would not be necessary. Such a practice is amply documented in the literature and the art of the ancient Near East (cf. 1 Sam. 17:8-10). A full battle followed anyway (v. 17), because all of the contestants in the representative combat had fallen.

2:23. Abner's slaying of Joab's brother was accomplished by thrusting the back end of the spear through his abdomen. The butt end would be sharpened for ease of sticking into the ground (cf. 1 Sam. 26:7). Joab would eventually avenge his brother's death (3:27).

there lacked of David's servants nineteen men and Asahel.

31 But the servants of David had ¹smitten of Benjamin, and of Abner's men, so that three hundred and threescore men died.

32 And they took up Asahel, and buried him in the sepulchre of his father, which was in ^aBeth-lehem. And Joab and his men went all night, and they came to Hebron at break of day.

Houses of Saul and David

3 Now there was long ^awar between the house of Saul and the house of David: but David ¹waxed stronger and stronger, and the house of Saul waxed weaker and weaker.

2 And ^aunto David were sons born in Hebron: and his firstborn was Amnon, ^bof Ahinoam the Jezreelitess;

3 And his second, ¹Chileab, of Abigail the wife of Nabal the Carmelite; and the third, ^aAbsalom the son of Maacah the daughter of Talmi king ^bof Geshur;

4 And the fourth, ^aAdonijah the son of Haggith; and the fifth, Shephatiah the son of Abital;

5 And the sixth, Ithream, by Eglah David's wife. These were born to David in Hebron.

6 And it came to pass, while there was war between the house of Saul and the house of David, that Abner ¹made himself strong for the house of Saul.

7 And Saul had a concubine, whose name was ^aRizpah, the daughter of Aiah: and Ish-bosheth said to Abner, Wherefore hast thou ^bgone in unto my father's concubine?

9 ^aSo do God to Abner, and more also, except, ^bas the LORD hath sworn to David, even so I do to him;

10 To ¹translate the kingdom from the ²house of Saul, and to set up the throne of David over Israel and over Judah, ^afrom Dan even to Beersheba.

11 And he could not answer Abner a word again, because he feared him.

Abner Seeks an Alliance with David

12 And Abner sent messengers to David on his behalf, saying, Whose is the land? saying also, Make thy ¹league with me, and, behold, my hand shall be with thee, to bring about all Israel unto thee.

13 And ¹he said, Well; I will make a league with thee: but one thing I require of thee, that is, ^aThou shalt not see my face, except thou first bring ^bMichal Saul's daughter, when thou comest to see my face.

14 And David sent messengers to ^aIsh-bosheth Saul's son, saying, Deliver me my wife Michal, which I espoused to me ^bfor an hundred foreskins of the Philistines.

15 And Ish-bosheth sent, and took her from her husband, even from ¹Phaltiel the son of Laish.

16 And her husband went with her ¹along weeping behind her to ^aBahurim. Then said Abner unto him, Go, return. And he returned.

3:2-5. David had already become a polygamist (cf. 1 Sam. 25:43). Here the total number of wives becomes six, but only the childbearing wives are listed. Therefore Michal, Saul's daughter, is not listed. David had not yet recovered her from Phaltiel, to whom Saul had given her in the days of David's flight from Saul (cf. 1 Sam. 25:44 with 2 Sam. 3:13-16). Although practiced in Israel, polygamy was neither sanctioned nor honored (cf. Gen. 2:24).

3:7-10. The charge was a serious one. To take the king's concubine was to make a claim on the throne itself (cf. 1 Kin. 2:19-25). The reference to a dog's head (probably a euphemism) implies vileness, in this case, a traitor. For the dog as a symbol of contempt, see the note on 1 Samuel 24:14. The LORD would use this incident to bring the loyalties of Abner and his forces to the side of David (vv. 12-21).

3:13. The return of Michal, Saul's daughter, would strengthen David's claim to the thrones of Israel and Judah.

Israel to Make David King

17 And Abner had communication with the elders of Israel, saying, Ye sought for David in times past to be king over you:

18 Now then do it: “for the LORD hath spoken of David, saying, By the hand of my servant David I will save my people Israel out of the hand of the Philistines, and out of the hand of all their enemies.

19 And Abner also spake ¹in the ears of ^aBenjamin: and Abner went also to speak in the ears of David in Hebron all that seemed good to Israel, and that seemed good to the whole house of Benjamin.

20 So Abner came to David to Hebron, and twenty men with him. And David made Abner and the men that were with him a feast.

21 And Abner said unto David, I will arise and go, and ^awill gather all Israel unto my lord the king, that they may make a league with thee, and that thou mayest ^breign over all that thine heart desireth. And David sent Abner away; and he went in peace.

Joab's Anger

22 And, behold, the servants of David and Joab came from pursuing a troop, and brought in a great ¹spoil with them: but Abner was not with David in Hebron; for he had sent him away, and he was gone in peace.

23 When Joab and all the host that was with him were come, they told Joab, saying, Abner the son of Ner came to the king, and he hath sent him away, and he is gone in peace.

24 Then Joab came to the king, and said, What hast thou done? behold, Abner came unto thee; why is it that thou hast sent him away, and he is quite gone?

30 So Joab and Abishai his brother slew Abner, because he had slain their brother ^aAsahel at Gibeon in the battle.

David Mourns Abner

31 And David said to Joab, and to all the people that were with him, ^aRend your clothes, and ^bgird you with sackcloth, and mourn before Abner. And king David himself followed the bier.

32 And they buried Abner in Hebron: and the king lifted up his voice, and wept at the grave of Abner; and all the people wept.

33 And the king lamented over Abner, and said, Died Abner as a ^afool dieth?

34 Thy hands were not bound, nor thy feet put into fetters: as a man falleth before wicked men, so fellest thou. And all the people wept again over him.

3:23-29. For the cause of Abner's murder, see the note on 2:23. Joab's avenging of his brother was at Hebron, a city of refuge (cf. Josh. 21:13). Such an act was against the regulations in the law (Num. 35:22-28), even if Joab were acting as an avenger of blood. (See the note on Josh. 20:2.) Accordingly, because Joab's deed was born of vengeance and jealousy (vv. 24, 25), Joab does not receive David's blessing, but his curse. David leads the people of Hebron in a sincere time of public mourning (vv. 31-39).

37 For all the people and all Israel understood that day that it was ¹not of the king to slay Abner the son of Ner.

6 And they came thither into the midst of the house, as though they would ¹have fetched wheat; and they ²smote him ^aunder the fifth rib: and Rechab and Baanah his brother escaped.

7 For when they came into the house, he lay on his bed in his bed-chamber, and they ¹smote him, and slew him, and beheaded him, and took his head, and ²gat them away through the plain all night.

8 And they brought the head of Ish-bosheth unto David to Hebron, and said to the king, Behold the head of Ish-bosheth the son of Saul thine enemy, ^awhich sought thy life; and the LORD hath avenged my lord the king this day of Saul, and of his seed.

The Death of the Slayers of Ish-bosheth

9 And David answered Rechab and Baanah his brother, the sons of Rimmon the Beerothite, and said unto them, As the LORD liveth, ^awho hath redeemed my soul out of all adversity,

10 When ^aone told me, saying, Behold, Saul is dead, thinking to have brought good tidings, I took hold of him, and slew him in Ziklag, who thought that I would have given him a reward for his tidings:

11 How much more, when wicked men have slain a righteous person in his own house upon his bed? shall I not therefore now ^arequire his ¹blood of your hand, and ²take you away from the earth?

12 And David ^acommanded his young men, and they slew them, and cut off their hands and their feet, and hanged them up over the pool in Hebron. But they took the head of Ish-bosheth, and buried it in the ^bsepulchre of Abner in Hebron.

4:11. The slain Israelite king was termed righteous (or innocent) by David. He had done no crime by allowing himself to be placed on his father's throne. Because he was Saul's son, his murderer could expect no better fate than the lying Amalekite (cf. 1:14-16).

David's severe justice (v. 12) is paralleled elsewhere in the ancient Near East. For public hanging as a punishment in a case involving a capital offense, see Deuteronomy 21:22, 23.

David Made King of Israel

5 Then ^acame all the tribes of Israel to David unto Hebron, and spake, saying, Behold, ^bwe are thy bone and thy flesh.

2 Also in time past, when Saul was king over us, ^athou¹ wast he that leddest out and broughtest in Israel: and the LORD said to thee, ^bThou shalt feed my people Israel, and thou shalt be a captain over Israel.

3 ^aSo all the elders of Israel came to the king to Hebron; ^band king David made a league with them in Hebron ^cbefore the LORD: and they anointed David king over Israel.

4 David was ^athirty years old when he began to reign, ^band he reigned forty years.

5 In Hebron he reigned over Judah ^aseven years and six months: and in Jerusalem he reigned thirty and three years over all Israel and Judah.

Jerusalem Conquered

6 ^aAnd the king and his men went to Jerusalem unto ^bthe Jebusites, the inhabitants of the land: which spake unto David, saying, ¹Except thou take away the blind and the lame, thou shalt not come in hither: thinking, David cannot come in hither.

8 And David said on that day, Whosoever ¹getteth up to the gutter, and smiteth the Jebusites, and the lame and the blind, that are hated of David's soul, ^ahe shall be chief and captain. Wherefore they said, The blind and the lame shall not come into the house.

9 So David dwelt in the fort, and called it ^athe city of David. And David built round about from Millo and inward.

10 And David went on, and grew great, and ^athe LORD God of hosts was with ^bhim.

13 And ^aDavid took him more concubines and wives out of Jerusalem, after he was come from Hebron:

5:1-5. The death of Saul's son brings the submission of all Israel to David. David's third anointing, takes place in Hebron, as had his second. See the notes on 1 Samuel 16:13, 14 and 1 Chronicles 11:1; 12:38.

5:8. Most understand the word translated gutter (Heb. tsinnor) to mean a water course by which the Israelites entered the fortress, taking the Jebusites by surprise. Still others suggest that the word refers to some bodily part such as the throat or windpipe. The mentioning of the lame and the blind is probably an ancient play on words. The Jebusite defenders had such confidence in their fortress-like city that they boasted that even the lame and blind could defend such a town. David calls them all lame and blind. The whole episode gave birth to a proverb reflecting social customs of gaining access to the royal quarters. David had anticipated a return to Jerusalem long beforehand (cf. 1 Sam. 17:54). For added details on the capture of Jerusalem, see 1 Chronicles 11.

5:9. Millo means "The Filling." It served as part of the defensive system (cf. 1 Kin. 9:15, 24). Recent excavations have uncovered it at the City of David.

5:11. Hiram's supplying of the cedar and builders for David's new house was a mark of international recognition (cf. 1 Chr. 14:1, 2).

5:5 Jerusalem was the sacred city and well-known capital of Israel during Bible times. The earliest known name for the city was Urushalem. Salem, of which Melchizedek was king (Gen. 14:18), was a natural abbreviation for Jerusalem (cf. Ps. 76:2). Thus, the city appears as early as the time of Abraham. Jerusalem is mentioned directly in the Bible for the first time in Joshua 10:1-4. David united the kingdom after Saul's reign and quickly made Jerusalem the political and religious capital of the kingdom (1 Chr. 11:4-9). Jerusalem was chosen as the place for the capital because it was centrally located between the northern and southern tribes and because the topography of the city made it easy to defend. David gave the city the name Jerusalem, and it is also referred to as the "city of David." He built a palace in the highest section of the city, frequently referred to as Mount Zion. David also moved the ark of the covenant from Kirjath-jearim to Jerusalem. There Solomon would build the temple of which David had dreamed (2 Chr. 3, 4). Excavations by Eliat Mazar, published in 2006, revealed the foundations of the Judean palace in the City of David.

Defeat at Rephaim

17 ^aBut when the Philistines heard that they had anointed David king over Israel, all the Philistines came up to seek David; and David heard of it, ^band went down to the ¹hold.

18 The Philistines also came and spread themselves in ^athe valley of Rephaim.

19 And David ^aenquired of the LORD, saying, Shall I go up to the Philistines? wilt thou deliver them into mine hand? And the LORD said unto David, Go up: for I will doubtless deliver the Philistines into thine hand.

20 And David came to ^aBaal-perazim, and David smote them there, and said, The LORD hath ¹broken forth upon mine enemies before me, as the breach of waters. Therefore he called the name of that place ²Baal-perazim.

21 And there they left their ¹images, and David and his men ^aburned² them.

Moving the Ark

5:13-15. David's additional marriages may reflect the ancient international protocol by which treaty arrangements were sealed by the marriage of the royal princess of one nation to the other nation's king or his son (cf. 1 Kin. 11:1-3). Also, the size of a king's harem was a matter of great prestige. Although this procedure may have helped cement David's prominence in Jerusalem and his relationship to the Jerusalemites, it was nevertheless a violation of the Mosaic Law (cf. Deut. 17:17).

6:2. Now that the Philistines had been routed in two successful campaigns (5:17-25; 1 Chr. 14:8-17), the recently taken Jerusalem could serve as David's new capital. It was defensible and strategically located in a territory that had belonged neither to the northern nor southern tribes. The new capital would serve not only as the political center, but also as the religious center for David's kingdom. Hence, it was time for the ark, which was still quartered at Baale of Judah (or Kirjath-jearim—cf. Josh. 15:9; 1 Chr. 13:6) to be brought to Jerusalem (cf. 1 Chr. 13:1-4). The bringing up of the ark was by agreement of the leadership of Israel. See the note on 1 Samuel 7:1.

6:3-7. The whole episode concerning the ark reflects the peril of doing a noble deed in an ignoble manner. The law prescribed that the ark should be carried by the sons of Kohath (Num. 4:4-15; 7:9) and specifically prohibited the use of a cart (Ex. 25:14, 15; Num. 4:5-8). Nor was a human hand allowed to touch it (Num. 4:15). Doing God's work is a serious business and must never be perfunctorily performed (cf. 1 Sam. 15:22, 23) or done irreverently or in accordance with mere expediency (cf. 1 Sam. 6:19, 20).

6 And when they came to ^aNachon's threshingfloor, Uzzah put forth ^bhis hand to the ark of God, and took hold of it; for the oxen ¹shook it.

7 And the anger of the LORD was kindled against Uzzah; and God smote him there for ^{his} ¹error; and there he died by the ark of God.

The Ark in the House of Obed-edom

8 And David was displeased, ¹because the LORD had made a breach upon Uzzah: and he called the name of the place ²Perez-uzzah to this day.

9 And ^aDavid was afraid of the LORD that day, and said, How shall the ark of the LORD come to me?

10 So David would not remove the ark of the LORD unto him into the ^acity of David: but David carried it aside into the house of Obed-edom the ^bGittite.

11 ^aAnd the ark of the LORD continued in the house of Obed-edom the Gittite three months: and the LORD ^bblessed Obed-edom, and all his household.

The Ark Brought to Jerusalem

12 And it was told king David, saying, The LORD hath blessed the house of Obed-edom, and all that ^{pertaineth} unto him, because of the ark of God. ^aSo David went and brought up the ark of God from the house of Obed-edom into the city of David with gladness.

6:12. The ark, which had been placed in the house of Obed-edom, a Levite of the family of Korah (cf. 1 Chr. 13:13, 14), was now brought up to Jerusalem

13 And it was so, that when ^athey that bare the ark of the LORD had gone six paces, he sacrificed ^boxen and fatlings.

14 And David ^adanced¹ before the LORD with all ^{his} might; and David was girded ^bwith a linen ephod.

15 ^aSo David and all the house of Israel brought up the ark of the LORD with shouting, and with the sound of the trumpet.

16 And as the ark of the LORD came into the city of David, ^aMichal Saul's daughter looked through a window, and saw king David leaping and dancing before the LORD; and she despised him in her heart.

The Ark Placed in the Tabernacle

17 And ^athey brought in the ark of the LORD, and set it in ^bhis place, in the midst of the tabernacle that David had ¹pitched for it: and David ^coffered burnt offerings and peace offerings before the LORD.

18 And as soon as David had made an end of offering burnt offerings and peace offerings, ^ahe blessed the people in the name of the LORD of hosts.

19 ^aAnd he ¹dealt among all the people, even among the whole multitude of Israel, as well to the women as men, to every one a cake of bread, and a good piece of flesh, and a flagon of wine. So all the people departed every one to his house.

20 ^aThen David returned to bless his household. And Michal the daughter of Saul came out to meet in the prescribed manner. It was done with careful forethought (1 Chr. 15:1, 2). The transferral of the ark was accompanied by sacrifices, pomp, and great rejoicing. David's dancing or whirling about (v. 14) was an expression of spiritual joy (cf. 1 Chr. 15:25-28).

6:16. Michal saw in David's actions a conduct unbefitting a king. She doubtless neither appreciated nor entered into the spirit of the occasion. Accordingly, David rebuked her and consigned her to separation from the king's graces, a condemnation that left her childless (vv. 20-23). A negative and critical spirit born of spiritual shallowness and insensitivity is a dangerous thing!

6:17-19. According to 1 Chronicles 16, the joyous feast held on this occasion was followed by David's singing of a psalm of thanksgiving and the installation of the Levites into various positions of temple service.

David, and said, How glorious was the king of Israel to day, who ^buncovered himself to day in the eyes of the handmaids of his servants, as one of the ^cvain¹ fellows ²shamelessly uncovereth himself!

21 And David said unto Michal, It was before the LORD, ^awhich chose me before thy father, and before all his house, to appoint me ruler over the ^bpeople of the LORD, over Israel: therefore will I play before the LORD.

22 And I will yet be more ¹vile than thus, and will be ²base in mine own sight: and of the maidservants which thou hast spoken of, of them shall I be had in honour.

23 Therefore Michal the daughter of Saul had no child ^aunto the day of her death.

7 And it came to pass, ^awhen the king sat in his house, and the LORD had given him rest round about from all his enemies;

2 That the king said unto Nathan the prophet, See now, I dwell in ^aan house of cedar, ^bbut the ark of God dwelleth ¹within ^ccurtains.

3 And Nathan said to the king, Go, do all that is in thine ^aheart; for the LORD is with thee.

God's Message to David

4 And it came to pass that night, that the word of the LORD came unto Nathan, saying,

5 Go and tell my servant David, Thus saith the LORD, ^aShalt thou build me an house for me to dwell in?

6 Whereas I have not dwelt in any house ^asince the time that I brought up the children of Israel out of Egypt, even to this day, but have ¹walked in ^ba tent and in a tabernacle.

16 And ^athine house and thy kingdom shall be established for ever before thee: thy throne shall be established for ever.

17 According to all these words, and according to all this vision, so did Nathan speak unto David.

18 Then went king David in, and sat before the LORD, and he said,

7:2. Although David's zeal for God gave birth to a desire to build a house for the ark of God, the Lord had in mind a far different and more glorious house—an everlasting dynasty (v. 11). Even the great prophet Nathan had to be instructed properly as to the divine purpose.

“Who am I, O Lord God? and what is my house, that thou hast brought me hitherto?”

19 And this was yet a small thing in thy sight, O Lord God; but thou hast spoken also of thy servant’s house for a great while to come. “And is this the manner of man, O Lord God?”

20 And what can David say more unto thee? for thou, Lord God, “knowest thy servant.”

21 For thy word’s sake, and according to thine own heart, hast thou done all these great things, to make thy servant know them.

David’s Conquests

8 And after this it came to pass, that David ¹smote the Philistines, and subdued them: and David

7:19. A grateful David realizes that God has established the manner of man (or mankind) in David’s line. It was nothing less than the basic prescription for the ordering of man’s destiny through David, a privilege and responsibility that he humbly acknowledges and to which he gladly submits (cf. 23:2–5; Ps. 2:7–12; 110). For David’s beautiful prayer (vv. 18–29), see the note at 1 Chronicles 17:16–27.

DAVIDIC COVENANT

7:12–16. Like the Abrahamic covenant (Gen. 17) and the New Covenant (Jer. 31:31–37), the Davidic covenant constitutes an unconditional promise of God (cf. 1 Chr. 17:11–15). Structurally, it is patterned after the royal grant treaties of the ancient Near East in which a sovereign freely bestows his favor on his chosen recipient. Although several of the items mentioned here inaugurate the benefits of the covenant, such as the promise to David of a son (Solomon) who (rather than David) would build the temple (vv. 12, 13), and through whom the Davidic kingdom would be established (vv. 14–16), the central promise concerns the fact of the everlasting extent of the covenant (v. 16). Verse 16 declares that three essential features make up the ongoing Davidic covenant: (1) a house—a continued posterity; (2) a kingdom—a realm of political power; and (3) a throne—the rulership of that kingdom centered in David’s posterity. Great stress is put on the mercy (or lovingkindness) of God in maintaining this promise. Psalm 89 reports that although individual members of the house of David may fail to appropriate fully the privileges of the covenant because of their disobedience, the covenant itself remains inviolable (Ps. 89:3, 4, 19–24, 27–37). Thus, although Israel was later driven into exile, it will be regathered and brought back to the land so that ultimately God’s promise to Israel through the Davidic covenant will be realized in the universal rule of Messiah, David’s seed (Jer. 33:19–26; Ezek. 34:22–31; 36:16–38). At that time, the promises of God given in the Abrahamic, Davidic, and New covenants will be realized in full (Ezek. 37:21–28) through Christ, in whom the provisions of these three covenants come together (cf. Matt. 26:28, 29, 31–33, 54, 55; Luke 1:68–78; Acts 2:29–36; 3:25, 26; 15:16, 17; Gal. 3:13–16, 26–29; Heb. 9:16–28; Rev. 11:15; cf. Rom. 1:20).

8:4, 5. First Chronicles 18:4 records the number taken in the fighting as a thousand chariots and seven thousand horsemen (or charioteers), a figure also read by the Septuagint in 2 Samuel 8:4. The Hebrew text was probably miscopied, the higher figures being the correct ones. See the note on 1 Chronicles 19:18.

8:4-6. When David houghed the chariot horses (i.e., cut the back sinews of their rear legs), he rendered them unfit for further military use. David's successful campaigning against the Syrians (Arameans) of Damascus brought the extension of his kingdom to its farthest northern boundary.

8:13. Because in Hebrew the d (dalet) and the r (resh) looked very much alike, they were often mistaken for one another. Probably Edomites rather than Syrians (i.e., Edom rather than Aram) should be read here, as in 1 Chronicles 18:12 and the title of Psalm 60. See the note on 1 Chronicles 18:12.

8:18. For Cherethites and Pelethites, see the note on 1 Kings 1:38-40.

9:1. The kindness of David related to the covenant bond into which he and Jonathan had entered. (See the note on 1 Sam. 20:14-17.) David's kindly behavior toward Jonathan's helpless son in raising him from a lowly state and providing for his every need stands

Hanun Shames David's Messengers

2 Then said David, I will shew ^akindness unto Hanun the son of ^bNahash, as his father shewed kindness unto me. And David sent to comfort him by the hand of his servants for his father. And David's servants came into the land of the children of Ammon.

David Defeats Syrians

17 And when it was told David, he gathered all Israel together, and passed over Jordan, and came to Helam. And the Syrians set themselves in array against David, and fought with him.

18 And the Syrians fled before Israel; and David slew the men of seven hundred chariots of the Syrians, and forty thousand ^ahorsemen, and ¹smote Shobach the captain of their host, who died there.

10:6. The two victories (vv. 6-14, 15-19) were to settle the Syrian (Aramean) problem for David and bring security to his northern boundary.

10:18. The large number of soldiers in the campaign suggests that perhaps seven thousand chariot-eers were involved in the battle, as stated in 1 Chronicles 19:18. See the notes on 8:4, 5 and 1 Chronicles 19:18.

11:2-4. The sequence of David's sinful affair with Bathsheba is most instructive. He saw (v. 2), he sought knowledge of Bathsheba (v. 3), he sent for her (v. 3), and sinned with her (v. 4). The rapid development of sin from lust as catalogued by James (James 1:14, 15) is applicable here. The sin of David and Bathsheba was to result in further deceit (vv. 6-13) and eventually in the death of the innocent party (vv. 14-17).

encamped in the open fields; shall I then go into mine house, to eat and to drink, and to lie with my wife? as thou livest, and as thy soul liveth, I will not do this thing.

12 And David said to Uriah, Tarry here to day also, and to morrow I will let thee depart. So Uriah abode in Jerusalem that day, and the morrow.

13 And when David had called him, he did eat and drink before him; and he made him ^adrunk: and at even he went out to lie on his bed ^bwith the servants of his lord, but went not down to his house.

The Death of Uriah

14 And it came to pass in the morning, that David ^awrote a letter to Joab, and sent it by the hand of Uriah.

15 And he wrote in the letter, saying, Set ye Uriah in the forefront of the ¹hottest battle, and ²retire ye from him, that he may ^abe ³smitten, and die.

16 And it came to pass, when Joab observed the city, that he assigned Uriah unto a place where he knew that valiant men were.

17 And the men of the city went out, and fought with Joab: and there fell some of the people of the servants of David; and Uriah the Hittite died also.

Joab's Message to David

18 Then Joab sent and told David all the things concerning the war;

19 And charged the messenger, saying, When thou hast made an end of telling the matters of the war unto the king,

Unless rapidly refused, one sin so often leads to another (cf. Josh. 7:21; Luke 22:33-62). David's sin was punishable by death (Lev. 20:10). Although it was forgiven by God (Ps. 51), the sin was to have tragic consequences for him personally, for his own family, and for his nation.

11:3 Bath-sheba was the daughter of Eliam, son of Ahithophel, one of David's advisers (v. 3; 23:34). She was the beautiful wife of Uriah the Hittite, whom David coveted and seduced while her husband was off fighting against the Ammonites with Joab (vv. 1-4). After David had ordered Uriah to the frontlines where he was killed, he married Bathsheba. But the child conceived in adultery died. God blessed them with four more children: Shimea, Shobab, Nathan, and Solomon (1 Chr. 3:5). The adultery with Bathsheba was rebuked by Nathan the prophet. After she became the mother of Solomon (12:24), she begged the elderly David for Solomon's succession to the throne (1 Kin. 1:15-17). According to Jewish tradition, Proverbs 31 was written by Solomon to memorialize his mother. In the genealogy of Jesus (Matt. 1:6), Bathsheba is mentioned indirectly as the wife of Uriah and the mother of Solomon by David. (First Reference, 2 Sam. 11:3; Primary References, 2 Sam. 11, 12.)

20 And if so be that the king's wrath arise, and he say unto thee, Wherefore approached ye so ¹nigh unto the city when ye did fight? knew ye not that they would shoot from the wall?

21 Who smote ^aAbimelech the son of ¹Jerubbesheth? did not a woman cast a piece of a millstone upon him from the wall, that he died in Thebez? why went ye nigh the wall? then say thou, Thy servant Uriah the Hittite is dead also.

22 So the messenger went, and came and shewed David all that Joab had sent him for.

23 And the messenger said unto David, Surely the men prevailed against us, and came out unto us into the field, and we were upon them even unto the entering of the gate.

24 And the shooters shot from off the wall upon thy servants; and some of the king's servants be dead, and thy servant Uriah the Hittite is dead also.

David's Reply to Joab

25 Then David said unto the messenger, Thus shalt thou say unto Joab, Let not this thing ¹displease thee, for the sword devoureth one as well as another: make thy battle more strong against the city, and overthrow it: and encourage thou him.

26 And when the wife of Uriah heard that Uriah her husband was dead, she mourned for her husband.

27 And when the mourning was past, David sent and ¹fetcher her to his house, and she ^abecame his wife, and bare him a son. But the thing that David had done ^bdispleased² the LORD.

2 The rich man had exceeding many flocks and herds:

3 But the poor man had nothing, save one little ewe lamb, which he had bought and nourished up: and it grew up together with him, and with his children; it did eat of his own ¹meat, and drank of his own cup, and lay in his bosom, and was unto him as a daughter.

4 And there came a traveller unto the rich man, and he ¹spared to take of his own flock and of his own herd, to dress for the wayfaring man that was come unto him; but took the poor man's lamb, and ²dressed it for the man that was come to him.

5 And David's anger was greatly kindled against the man; and he said to Nathan, As the LORD liveth, the man that hath done this thing ¹shall surely die:

6 And he shall restore the lamb ^afourfold, because he did this thing, and because he had no pity.

Nathan Exposes David's Sin

7 And Nathan said to David, Thou art the man. Thus saith the LORD God of Israel, I ^aanointed thee king over Israel, and I delivered thee out of the hand of Saul;

8 And I gave thee thy master's house, and thy master's wives into thy bosom, and gave thee the house of Israel and of Judah; and if that had been too little, I would moreover have given unto thee ¹such and such things.

9 ^aWherefore hast thou ^bdespised the commandment of the LORD, to do evil in his sight? ^cthou hast killed Uriah the Hittite with the sword, and hast taken his wife to be thy wife, and hast slain him with the sword of the children of Ammon.

10 Now therefore ^athe sword shall never depart from thine house; because thou hast despised me, and hast taken the wife of Uriah the Hittite to be thy wife.

12:5-7. How easy it is to see the sins of others without applying the scriptural standards to ourselves (cf. Matt. 7:3-5)! David called for the full weight of the law to be applied (cf. Ex. 22:1).

12:10, 11. These judgments came to pass literally in the sins of his own household (ch. 13), the rebellion by his own son Absalom (ch. 15), and the civil war that followed (chs. 16-20). David was never to fully know rest again.

11 Thus saith the LORD, Behold, I will raise up ^eevil against thee out of thine own house, and I will ^atake thy wives before thine eyes, and give them unto thy neighbour, and he shall lie with thy wives in the sight of this sun.

12 For thou didst it secretly: ^abut I will do this thing before all Israel, and before the sun.

David's Repentance

13 ^aAnd David said unto Nathan, ^bI have sinned against the LORD. And Nathan said unto David, The LORD also hath ^cput away thy sin; thou shalt not die.

14 Howbeit, because by this deed thou hast given great occasion to the enemies of the LORD ^ato blaspheme, the child also that is born unto thee shall surely die.

15 And Nathan departed unto his house. And the ^aLORD struck the child that Uriah's wife bare unto David, and it was very sick.

16 David therefore ¹besought God for the child; and David fasted, and went in, and ^alay all night upon the earth.

17 And the elders of his house arose, and went to him, to raise him up from the earth: but he would not, neither did he eat bread with them.

The Death of David's Child

18 And it came to pass on the seventh day, that the child died. And the servants of David feared to tell him that the child was dead: for they said, Behold, while the child was yet alive, we spake unto him, and he would not hearken unto our voice: how will he then ¹vex himself, if we tell him that the child is dead?

David Worships the Lord

20 Then David arose from the earth, and washed, and ^aanointed himself, and changed his apparel, and came into the house of the LORD, and ^bworshipped: then he came to his own house; and when he ¹required, they set bread before him, and he did eat.

21 Then said his servants unto him, What thing is this that thou hast done? thou didst fast and weep for the child, while it was alive; but when the child was dead, thou didst rise and eat bread.

22 And he said, While the child was yet alive, I fasted and wept: ^afor I said, Who can tell whether ¹God will be gracious to me, that the child may live?

23 But now he is dead, wherefore should I fast? can I bring him back again? I shall go ^ato him, but ^bhe shall not return to me.

Solomon's Birth

24 And David comforted Bathsheba his wife, and went in unto her, and lay with her: and ^ashe bare a son, and ^bhe called his name Solomon: and the LORD loved him.

25 And he sent by the hand of Nathan the prophet; and he called his name ¹Jedidiah, because of the LORD.

26 And ^aJoab fought against ^bRabhab of the children of Ammon, and took the royal city.

12:13. David genuinely grieved and repented (cf. Ps. 32:5; 51:3, 4). However, the seed of sin was immediately to bear bitter fruit, for the child born of the adultery became grievously ill and died (vv. 15-18).

12:14. David's sin had brought the name of God into disrepute. Such knowledge ought to serve as a deterrent to willful sin on the part of believers (cf. 1 Tim. 5:14; 6:1).

12:23. This time for fasting was over. God's will had been made known. It was time for David to learn the divine lesson and get on with a proper and productive life in the light of the inevitability of his own death. Some scholars have seen in David's words the added thought that David trusted God to graciously care for the soul of the dead infant, whom a believing David would join in the presence of God after his earthly life was over. See the note on 1 Kings 14:13.

12:24, 25. The grace of God is abundantly demonstrated in allowing Bathsheba to give birth to the son through whom the promise in the Davidic covenant would continue. Solomon was blessed by Nathan, the prophet, with the name Jedidiah, "Beloved of the Lord."

12:26. The consequences of David's sin would also surface in renewed warfare with the Ammonites (cf. v. 10). David's victory here brought stability to his eastern border.

27 And Joab sent messengers to David, and said, I have fought against Rabbah, and have taken the city of waters.

28 Now therefore gather the rest of the people together, and encamp against the city, and take it: lest I take the city, and it be called after my name.

29 And David gathered all the people together, and went to Rabbah, and fought against it, and took it.

30 ^aAnd he took their king's crown from off his head, the weight whereof was a talent of gold with the precious stones: and it was set on David's head. And he brought forth the ¹spoil of the city in great abundance.

31 And he brought forth the people that were therein, and put them under saws, and under harrows of iron, and under axes of iron, and made them ¹pass through the brick-kiln: and thus did he unto all the cities of the children of Ammon. So David and all the people returned unto Jerusalem.

Amnon's Love for Tamar

13 And it came to pass after this, ^athat Absalom the son of David had a ¹fair sister, whose name was ^bTamar; and ^cAmnon the son of David loved her.

2 And Amnon was so ¹vexed, that he fell sick for his sister Tamar; for she was a virgin; and Amnon ²thought it hard for him to do any thing to her.

3 But Amnon had a friend, whose name was Jonadab, ^athe son of Shimeah David's brother: and Jonadab was a very ¹subtil man.

4 And he said unto him, Why art thou, being the king's son, ¹lean from day to day? wilt thou not tell me?

And Amnon said unto him, I love Tamar, my brother Absalom's sister.

5 And Jonadab said unto him, Lay thee down on thy bed, and ¹make thyself sick: and when thy father cometh to see thee, say unto him, I pray thee, let my sister Tamar come, and give me ²meat, and ³dress the meat in my sight, that I may see it, and eat it at her hand.

Amnon's Deception

6 So Amnon lay down, and ¹made himself sick: and when the king was come to see him, Amnon said unto the king, I pray thee, let Tamar my sister come, and ^amake me a couple of cakes in my sight, that I may eat at her hand.

7 Then David sent home to Tamar, saying, Go now to thy brother Amnon's house, and ¹dress him meat.

8 So Tamar went to her brother Amnon's house; and he was laid down. And she took flour, and kneaded it, and made cakes in his sight, and did bake the cakes.

9 And she took a pan, and poured them out before him; but he refused to eat. And Amnon said, ^aHave ¹out all men from me. And they went out every man from him.

10 And Amnon said unto Tamar, Bring the ¹meat into the ²chamber, that I may eat of thine hand. And Tamar took the cakes which she had made, and brought them into the chamber to Amnon her brother.

Amnon Forces Tamar

11 And when she had brought them unto him to eat, ^ahe took hold of her, and said unto her, Come lie with me, my sister.

12 And she answered him, Nay, my brother, do not ¹force me; for ^ano such thing ought to be done in Israel: do not thou this ^bfolly.²

12:31. A comparison with 1 Chronicles 20:3 has led to two views regarding David's judgment against the Ammonites: (1) David repaid the traditional Ammonite cruelty (cf. 1 Sam. 11:2; Amos 1:13) in kind; or (2) David sentenced the Ammonites to hard labor. Either view demands some harmonization between the two texts. On the whole, the second suggestion is to be preferred, perhaps by understanding the verb translated in 1 Chronicles 20:3 as "cut" to mean "consigned to."

13:1. David had many wives and concubines. Both Absalom, his third son, and Tamar, his daughter, were born to him by Maacah. Amnon, his first son, was born to him by Ahinoam (cf. 3:2, 3 with 1 Chr. 3:1-9).

13:11, 12. Such relationships between family members were forbidden by the law of Moses (cf. Lev. 18:9, 11; 20:17).

13 And I, whither shall I cause my shame to go? and as for thee, thou shalt be as one of the fools in Israel. Now therefore, I pray thee, speak unto the king; ^afor he will not withhold me from thee.

14 Howbeit he would not hearken unto her voice: but, being stronger than she, ^aforced her, and lay with her.

15 Then Amnon hated her ¹exceedingly; so that the hatred wherewith he hated her was greater than the love wherewith he had loved her. And Amnon said unto her, Arise, be gone.

16 And she said unto him, ¹*There is* no cause: this evil in sending me away is greater than the other that thou didst unto me. But he would not ²hearken unto her.

17 Then he called his servant that ministered unto him, and said, Put now this woman out from me, and bolt the door after her.

18 And she had ^aa garment of divers colours upon her: for with such robes were the king's daughters that were virgins apparelled. Then his servant brought her out, and bolted the door after her.

19 And Tamar put ^aashes on her head, and ¹rent her garment of divers colours that was on her, and ^blaid her hand on her head, and went on crying.

Absalom Bides His Time

20 And Absalom her brother said unto her, Hath Amnon thy brother been with thee? but ¹hold now thy peace, my sister: he is thy brother; ²regard not this thing. So Tamar remained desolate in her brother Absalom's house.

21 But when king David heard of all these things, he was very ¹wroth.

22 And Absalom spake unto his brother Amnon ^aneither good nor bad: for Absalom ^bhated Amnon,

Absalom's Plan for Revenge

23 And it came to pass after two full years, that Absalom ^ahad sheepshearers in Baal-hazor, which is beside Ephraim: and Absalom invited all the king's sons.

24 And Absalom came to the king, and said, Behold now, thy servant hath sheepshearers; let the king, I beseech thee, and his servants go with thy servant.

25 And the king said to Absalom, Nay, my son, let us not all now go, lest we be ¹chargeable unto thee. And he ²pressed him: howbeit he would not go, but blessed him.

26 Then said Absalom, If not, I pray thee, let my brother Amnon go with us. And the king said unto him, Why should he go with thee?

27 But Absalom ¹pressed him, that he let Amnon and all the king's sons go with him.

28 Now Absalom had commanded his servants, saying, Mark ye now when Amnon's ^aheart is merry with wine, and when I say unto you, ¹Smite Amnon; then kill him, fear not: have not I commanded you? be courageous, and be ²valiant.

29 And the servants of Absalom ^adid unto Amnon as Absalom had commanded. Then all the king's sons arose, and every man ¹gat him up upon ^bhis mule, and fled.

David's Grief

30 And it came to pass, while they were in the way, that tidings came to David, saying, Absalom hath slain all the king's sons, and there is not one of them left.

31 Then the king arose, and ^atare¹ his garments, and ^blay on the earth; and all his servants stood by with their clothes rent.

13:13. Tamar's words were probably an attempt to dissuade Amnon from his folly.

13:15. Lust, whether fulfilled or not, often turns to hatred (cf. Gen. 39:13–19). True love “never faileth” (1 Cor. 13:8).

13:19. Tamar's actions expressed symbolically her grief and vexation (cf. Job 2:12; Jer. 2:37).

13:21–23. Although the king was angry, there is no record of Amnon's punishment. Absalom's hatred would boil for two years until his opportunity to avenge his sister would come.

32 And ^aJonadab, the son of Shim-eah David's brother, answered and said, Let not my lord suppose that they have slain all the young men the king's sons; for Amnon only is dead: for by the ¹appointment of Absalom this hath been determined from the day that he forced his sister Tamar.

33 Now therefore ^alet not my lord the king take the thing to his heart, to think that all the king's sons are dead: for Amnon only is dead.

34 ^aBut Absalom fled. And the young man that kept the watch lifted up his eyes, and looked, and, behold, there came much people by the way of the hill side behind him.

35 And Jonadab said unto the king, Behold, the king's sons come: as thy servant said, so it is.

36 And it came to pass, as soon as he had ¹made an end of speaking, that, behold, the king's sons came, and lifted up their voice and wept: and the king also and all his servants wept very ²sore.

38 So Absalom fled, and went to ^aGeshur, and was there three years.

39 And the soul of king David longed to go forth unto Absalom: for he was ^acomforted concerning Amnon, seeing he was dead.

7 And, behold, the whole family is risen against thine handmaid, and they said, Deliver him that smote his brother, that we may kill him, ^afor the life of his brother whom he slew; and we will destroy the heir also: and so they shall ¹quench my coal which is left, and shall not leave to my husband neither name nor ²remainder upon the earth.

8 And the king said unto the woman, Go to thine house, and I will give charge concerning thee.

9 And the woman of Tekoah said unto the king, My lord, O king, ^athe ¹iniquity be on me, and on my father's house: ^band the king and his throne be guiltless.

13:39. David's love for his own, despite their faults, His yearning to see Absalom sets the stage for Absalom's return and the resulting rebellion (ch. 14).

14:1 Absalom was the spoiled, impatient, overly ambitious son of David, who tried to forcibly seize the kingship from his father. This act, motivated by vanity and pride, led to his tragic death. He was David's third son by Maacah, the daughter of the king of Geshur (3:3; 1 Chr. 3:2). Absalom was a potential heir to the throne, of very attractive appearance and charming manners. He was especially noted for his beautiful long hair, in which he took great pride (vv. 25, 26). He also was a popular prince with the people and a favorite of his father. Absalom avenged the rape of his sister by having Amnon executed (ch. 13). Then, fearing his father's wrath, he fled into exile. After three years, he returned and plotted a revolt against the throne. He was anointed king after taking Jerusalem (16:15–23; 19:10), but lost 20,000 men in the ensuing battle with David (18:6, 7). Joab then killed Absalom despite David's request that he not be harmed. Some of the saddest words in the Bible express David's sorrow over Absalom's death (18:33). His body was cast into a pit, and a great heap of stones was piled over him in contempt (18:17). (First Reference, 2 Sam. 13:1; Primary References, 2 Sam. 13—20.)

10 And the king said, Whosoever saith ought unto thee, bring him to me, and he shall not touch thee any more.

11 Then said she, I pray thee, let the king remember the LORD thy God, ¹that thou wouldest not suffer ^athe revengers of blood to destroy any more, lest they destroy my son. And he said, ^bAs the LORD liveth, there shall not one hair of thy son fall to the earth.

A Plea for Absalom's Return

12 Then the woman said, Let thine handmaid, I pray thee, speak one word unto my lord the king. And he said, Say on.

13 And the woman said, Wherefore then hast thou thought such a thing against ^athe people of God? for the king doth speak this thing as one which is ¹faulty, in that the king doth not fetch home again ^bhis banished.

14 For we ^amust needs die, and are as water spilt on the ground, which cannot be gathered up again; neither doth God ^brespect ¹any person: yet doth he ^cdevise means, that his banished be not ²expelled from him.

15 Now therefore that I am come to speak of this thing unto my lord the king, it is because the people have made me afraid: and thy handmaid said, I will now speak unto the king; it may be that the king will perform the request of his handmaid.

16 For the king will hear, to deliver his handmaid out of the hand of the man that would destroy me and my son together out of the ^ainheritance of God.

17 Then thine handmaid said, The word of my lord the king shall now be ¹comfortable: for ^aas an angel of God, so is my lord the king to ^bdiscern good and bad: therefore the LORD thy God will be with thee.

And the woman answered and said, As thy soul liveth, my lord the king, none can turn to the right hand or to the left from ought that my lord the king hath spoken: for thy servant Joab, he bade me, and ^ahe put all these words in the mouth of thine handmaid:

20 To fetch about this form of speech hath thy servant Joab done this thing: and my lord is wise, ^aaccording to the wisdom of an angel of God, to know all things that are in the earth.

21 And the king said unto Joab, Behold now, I have ¹done this thing: go therefore, bring the young man Absalom again.

22 And Joab fell to the ground on his face, and bowed himself, and ¹thanked the king: and Joab said, To day thy servant knoweth that I have found grace in thy sight, my lord, O king, in that the king hath fulfilled the request of his servant.

Absalom's Return

23 So Joab arose ^aand went to Geshur, and brought Absalom to Jerusalem.

24 And the king said, Let him turn to his own house, and let him ^anot see my face. So Absalom returned to his own house, and saw not the king's face.

25 But in all Israel there was none to be so much praised as Absalom for his beauty: ^afrom the sole of his foot even to the crown of his head there was no blemish in him.

26 And when he ¹polled his head, (for it was at every year's end that he polled it: because the hair was heavy on him, therefore he polled it:) he weighed the hair of his head at two hundred shekels after the king's weight.

14:25-33. More of Absalom's character surfaces in this account. Blessed with a handsome appearance (v. 25) and a winsome personality, he was able through his cunning and viciousness to achieve his desired ends (vv. 28-33).

27 And ^aunto Absalom there were born three sons, and one daughter, whose name was Tamar: she was a woman of a fair countenance.

28 So Absalom dwelt two full years in Jerusalem, ^aand saw not the king's face.

29 Therefore Absalom sent for Joab, to have sent him to the king; but he would not come to him: and when he sent again the second time, he would not come.

30 Therefore he said unto his servants, See, Joab's field is near mine, and he hath barley there; go and set it on fire. And Absalom's servants set the field on fire.

31 Then Joab arose, and came to Absalom unto his house, and said unto him, Wherefore have thy servants set my field on fire?

32 And Absalom answered Joab, Behold, I sent unto thee, saying, Come hither, that I may send thee to the king, to say, Wherefore am I come from Geshur? it had been good for me to have been there still: now therefore let me see the king's face; and ^aif there be any iniquity in me, let him kill me.

33 So Joab came to the king, and told him: and when he had called for Absalom, he came to the king, and bowed himself on his face to the ground before the king: and the king ^akissed Absalom.

Absalom Wins the Hearts of Israel

15 And ^ait came to pass after this, that Absalom ^bprepared him chariots and horses, and fifty men to run before him.

2 And Absalom rose up early, and stood beside the way of the gate: and it was so, that when any man that had a ^acontroversy¹ came to the king ²for judgment, then Absalom called unto him, and said, Of what city art

3 And Absalom said unto him, See, thy ¹matters are good and right; but there is no man ²deputed of the king to hear thee.

4 Absalom said moreover, ^aOh that I were made judge in the land, that every man which hath any suit or cause might come unto me, and I would do him justice!

5 And it was so, that when any man came nigh to him to ¹do him obeisance, he put forth his hand, and took him, and ^akissed him.

6 And on this manner did Absalom to all Israel that came to the king for judgment: ^aso Absalom stole the hearts of the men of Israel.

Absalom Deceives David

7 And it came to pass ^aafter ¹forty years, that Absalom said unto the king, I pray thee, let me go and pay my vow, which I have vowed unto the LORD, in ^bHebron.

8 ^aFor thy servant ^bvowed a vow ^cwhile I abode at Geshur in Syria, saying, If the LORD shall bring me again indeed to Jerusalem, then I will serve the LORD.

9 And the king said unto him, Go in peace. So he arose, and went to Hebron.

10 But Absalom sent spies throughout all the tribes of Israel, saying, As soon as ye hear the sound of the trumpet, then ye shall say, Absalom ^areigneth in Hebron.

11 And with Absalom went two hundred men out of Jerusalem, that were ^acalled;¹ and they ^bwent ²in their simplicity, and they knew not any thing.

12 And Absalom sent for Ahithophel the Gilonite, ^aDavid's counsellor, from his city, even from ^bGiloh, while he offered sacrifices. And the 15:2. Business and judicial proceedings were carried out at the city gate. See the note on Ruth 4:1.

15:6. Anger over David's previous snubbing doubtless continued to smolder under the surface of Absalom's seeming civic concern. Absalom could be patient in gaining his revenge (cf. 13:20-29). Moreover, although he was an ambitious man, he was also resourceful and cunning (cf. 14:28-33), so his sinister ends could easily go undetected (vv. 7-12).

15:7. Forty was apparently miscopied and should read four years, as read by the Septuagint and Syriac versions, and as given by Josephus.

15:12. Ahithophel, David's counsellor, was Bathsheba's grandfather (cf. 11:3 with 23:24-39). Perhaps revenge made common companions of the two.

conspiracy was strong; for the people ^cincreased continually with Absalom.

David and His Household Flee

13 And there came a messenger to David, saying, ^aThe hearts of the men of Israel are ¹after Absalom.

14 And David said unto all his servants that were with him at Jerusalem, Arise, and let us ^aflee; ¹for we shall not else escape from Absalom: make speed to depart, lest he overtake us suddenly, and bring ²evil upon us, and ³smite the city with the edge of the sword.

15 And the king's servants said unto the king, Behold, thy servants are ready to do whatsoever my lord the king ¹shall appoint.

16 And ^athe king went forth, and all his household after him. And the king left ^bten women, which were concubines, to keep the house.

17 And the king went forth, and all the people after him, and ¹tarried in a place that was far off.

18 And all his servants passed on ¹beside him; ^aand all the Cherethites, and all the Pelethites, and all the Gittites, ^bsix hundred men which came after him from Gath, passed on before the king.

Ittai's Loyalty to David

19 Then said the king to ^aIttai the Gittite, Wherefore goest thou also with us? return to thy place, and abide with the king: for thou art a ¹stranger, and also an exile.

20 Whereas thou camest but yesterday, should I this day make thee ¹go up and down with us? seeing I go ^awhither I may, return thou, and take back thy brethren: mercy and truth be with thee.

The Ark Sent to Jerusalem

24 And lo ^aZadok also, and all the Levites were with him, bearing the ^bark of the covenant of God: and they set down the ark of God; and ^cAbiathar went up, until all the people had done passing out of the city.

25 And the king said unto Zadok, Carry back the ark of God into the city: if I shall find ¹favour in the eyes of the LORD, he ^awill bring me again, and shew me both it, and ^bhis habitation:

26 But if he thus say, I have no ^adelight in thee; behold, here am I, ^blet him do to me as seemeth good unto him.

27 The king said also unto Zadok the priest, Art not thou a ^aseer? return into the city in peace, and ^byour two sons with you, Ahimaaz thy son, and Jonathan the son of Abiathar.

28 See, ^aI will ¹tarry in the plain of the wilderness, until there come word from you to ²certify me.

29 Zadok therefore and Abiathar carried the ark of God again to Jerusalem: and they tarried there.

30 And David went up by the ascent of mount Olivet, and wept as he went up, and ^ahad his head covered, and he went ^bbarefoot: and all the people that was with him ^ccovered every man his head, and they went up, ^aweeping as they went up.

31 And one told David, saying,

15:14-16. Although David sensed the danger to his life, he was concerned more about a general massacre of the populace and with a need for time to assess and regroup his forces. He left ten of his concubines behind to keep the palace (cf. 16:21-22), doubtless with every intention of returning.

15:24-26. David was convinced that the ark of God belonged in Jerusalem. So he sent Zadok (the high priest) and the Levites back with the ark. Although he hoped to return to Jerusalem and his throne, he would leave the final results to God.

^aAhithophel is among the conspirators with Absalom. And David said, O LORD, I pray thee, ^bturn the counsel of Ahithophel into foolishness.

Hushai to Be a Spy

32 And it came to pass, that when David was come to the top of the mount, where he worshipped God, behold, Hushai the ^aArchite came to meet him ^bwith his coat rent, and earth upon his head:

33 Unto whom David said, If thou passest on with me, then thou shalt be ^aa burden unto me:

34 But if thou return to the city, and say unto Absalom, ^a"I will be thy servant, O king; as I have been thy father's servant hitherto, so will I now also be thy servant: then mayest thou for me defeat the counsel of Ahithophel.

35 And hast thou not there with thee Zadok and Abiathar the priests? therefore it shall be, that what thing soever thou shalt hear out of the king's house, thou shalt tell it to ^aZadok and Abiathar the priests.

36 Behold, they have there ^awith them their two sons, Ahimaaz Zadok's son, and Jonathan Abiathar's son; and by them ye shall send unto me every thing that ye can hear.

David Cursed by Shimei

5 And when king David came to ^aBahurim, behold, thence came out a man of the family of the house of Saul, whose name was ^bShimei, the son of Gera: he came forth, and cursed ¹still as he came.

6 And he cast stones at David, and at all the servants of king David: and all the people and all the mighty men were on his right hand and on his left.

8 The LORD hath ^areturned¹ upon thee all ^bthe blood of the house of Saul, in whose ²stead thou hast reigned; and the LORD hath delivered the kingdom into the hand of Absalom thy son: and, behold, thou art taken in thy mischief, because thou art a ³bloody man.

David Refuses to Kill Shimei

9 Then said Abishai the son of Zeruiah unto the king, Why should this ^adead dog ^bcurse my lord the king? let me go over, I pray thee, and take off his head.

10 And the king said, ^aWhat have I to do with you, ye sons of Zeruiah?

15:32. Hushai came to meet David with the traditional symbols of grief. See the note on 1:2.

15:33-37. David, too, could be cunning. Knowing that he could count on Hushai's loyalty, he sent him back to Jerusalem to serve as his informant and to act as a counterforce to Ahithophel (cf. ch. 17). Hushai would also have the help of Zadok (cf. vv. 27-29).

7 And Hushai said unto Absalom, The counsel that Ahithophel hath given is not good at this time.

16:13, 14. David humbly accepts Shimei's wicked cursing as God's judgment and leaves matters with the Lord. God alone could forgive and restore David, and David would leave the fate of Shimei with Him. Shimei would later have reason to regret his actions and would learn that David could be a gracious and forgiving person (19:16-23).

16:21, 22. See the note on 3:7-10. Absalom's actions fulfilled Nathan's prophecy (cf. 12:11, 12).

16:23. Because a royal counselor was considered to be God's spokesman, both David and Absalom valued Ahithophel's advice.

17:1-3. Ahithophel's counsel called for an immediate following up of the situation before David could regroup.

17:7-14. Hushai's counsel reminded Absalom

8 For, said Hushai, thou knowest thy father and his men, that they be mighty men, and they be ¹chafed in their minds, as ^aa bear robbed of her whelps in the field: and thy father is a man of war, and will not ²lodge with the people.

9 Behold, he is hid now in some pit, or in some other place: and it will come to pass, when some of them be overthrown at the first, that who-soever heareth it will say, There is a slaughter among the people that follow Absalom.

10 And he also that is valiant, whose heart is as the heart of a lion, shall utterly ^amelt: for all Israel knoweth that thy father is a mighty man, and they which be with him are valiant men.

11 Therefore I counsel that all Israel be ¹generally gathered unto thee, ^afrom Dan even to Beer-sheba, ^bas the sand that is by the sea for multitude; and that thou go to battle in thine own person.

12 So shall we come upon him in some place where he shall be found, and we will light upon him as the dew falleth on the ground: and of him and of all the men that are with him there shall not be left so much as one.

13 Moreover, if he ¹be gotten into a city, then shall all Israel bring ropes to that city, and we will ^adraw it into the river, until there be not one small stone found there.

Absalom Prefers Hushai's Plan

14 And Absalom and all the men of Israel said, The counsel of Hushai the Archite is better than the counsel of Ahithophel. For ^athe LORD had ¹appointed to defeat the good counsel of Ahithophel, to the intent that the LORD might bring evil upon Absalom.

Jonathan and Ahimaaz Hide

17 ^aNow Jonathan and Ahimaaz ^bstayed by ^cEn-rogel; for they ¹might not be seen to come into the city: and a ²wench went and told them; and they went and told king David.

18 Nevertheless a lad saw them, and told Absalom: but they went both of them away quickly, and came to a man's house ^ain Bahurim, which had a well in his court; ¹whither they went down.

19 ^aAnd the woman took and spread a covering over the well's mouth, and spread ground ¹corn thereon; and the thing was not known.

20 And when Absalom's servants came to the woman to the house, they said, Where is Ahimaaz and Jonathan? And ^athe woman said unto them, They be gone over the brook of water. And when they had sought and could not find them, they returned to Jerusalem.

21 And it came to pass, after they were departed, that they came up out of the well, and went and told king David, and said unto David, ^aArise, and ¹pass quickly over the water: for thus hath Ahithophel counselled against you.

22 Then David arose, and all the people that were with him, and they ¹passed over Jordan: by the morning light there lacked not one of them that was not gone over Jordan.

The Death of Ahithophel

23 And when Ahithophel saw that his counsel was not followed, he saddled his ¹ass, and arose, and ²gat him home to ^ahis house, to his city, of David's abilities as a guerrilla fighter, and of the need for careful planning and for the gathering of sufficient troops so as to make a decisive victory certain. Hushai also suggested that Absalom himself lead in the campaign in order that he might gain all Israel's respect. The LORD sovereignly caused Hushai's counsel to be accepted, thus buying David valuable time.

and ³put his ^bhousehold in order, and ^changed himself, and died, and was buried in the ⁴sepulchre of his father.

24 Then David came to ^aMahanaim. And Absalom passed over Jordan, he and all the men of Israel with him.

25 And Absalom made ^aAmasa captain of the host instead of Joab: which Amasa was a man's son, whose name was ¹Ithra an Israelite, that went in to ^bAbigail the daughter of Nahash, sister to Zeruiah Joab's mother.

26 So Israel and Absalom ¹pitched in the land of Gilead.

27 And it came to pass, when David was come to Mahanaim, that ^aShobi the son of Nahash of Rabbah of the children of Ammon, and ^bMa-chir the son of Ammiel of Lo-debar and ^cBarzillai the Gileadite of Rogelim,

28 Brought beds, and basons, and earthen vessels, and wheat, and barley, and flour, and parched ¹corn, and beans, and lentiles, and parched ²pulse,

29 And honey, and butter, and sheep, and cheese of ¹kine, for David, and for the people that were with him, to eat: for they said, The people is hungry, and weary, and thirsty, ^ain the wilderness.

David Prepares His Forces

18 And David ¹numbered the people that were with him, and ^aset captains of thousands and captains of hundreds over them.

2 And David sent forth a third part of the people under the hand of Joab, ^aand a third part under the hand of Abishai the son of Zeruiah, Joab's brother, and a third part under the hand of ^bIttai the Gittite. And the king said unto the people, I will surely go forth with you myself also.

5 And the king commanded Joab and Abishai and Ittai, saying, Deal gently for my sake with the young man, even with Absalom. ^aAnd all the people heard when the king gave all the captains charge concerning Absalom.

David's Forces Win the Battle

6 So the people went out into the field against Israel: and the battle was in the ^awood¹ of Ephraim;

7 Where the people of Israel were slain before the servants of David, and there was there a great slaughter that day of twenty thousand men.

8 For the battle was there scattered over the face of all the country: and the ¹wood devoured more people that day than the sword devoured.

9 And Absalom met the servants of David. And Absalom rode upon a mule, and the mule went under the thick boughs of a great oak, and ^ahis head caught hold of the oak, and he was ¹taken up between the heaven and the earth; and the mule that was under him went away.

17:25, 26. Absalom followed Hushai's counsel and, gathering a considerable force, led them out to battle against his father.

18:1, 2. Absalom had miscalculated David's continued popularity and support (cf. 17:27-29). David had not forgotten how to fight. David's campaign strategy called for the employment of the traditional military maneuver of dividing one's forces into three attacking units. (See the note on 1 Sam. 11:11.) The victory went to David and his experienced veterans (v. 7).

Though I should receive a thousand shekels of silver in mine hand, yet would I not put forth mine hand against the king's son: ^afor in our hearing the king charged thee and Abishai and Ittai, saying, Beware that none touch the young man Absalom.

13 Otherwise I should have ¹wrought falsehood against mine own life: for there is no matter hid from the king, and thou thyself wouldst have set thyself against me.

14 Then said Joab, I ¹may not tarry thus with thee. And he took three ²darts in his hand, and thrust them through the heart of Absalom, while he was yet alive in the midst of the ³oak.

15 And ten young men that bare Joab's armour ¹compassed about and ²smote Absalom, and slew him.

16 And Joab blew the trumpet, and the people returned from pursuing after Israel: for Joab held back the people.

17 And they took Absalom, and cast him into a great pit in the wood, and ^alaid a very great heap of stones upon him: and all Israel ^bfled every one to his tent.

18 Now Absalom in his lifetime had taken and reared up for himself a pillar, which is in ^athe king's dale: for he said, ^bI have no son to keep my name in remembrance: and he called the pillar after his own name: and it is called unto this day, Absalom's ¹place.

Ahimaaz's Request

19 Then said ^aAhimaaz the son of Zadok, Let me now run, and bear the king tidings, how that the LORD hath ¹avenged him of his enemies.

20 And Joab said unto him, Thou shalt not bear tidings this day, but thou shalt bear tidings another day: but this day thou shalt bear no tidings, because the king's son is dead.

And Cushy bowed himself unto Joab, and ran.

22 Then said Ahimaaz the son of Zadok yet again to Joab, But ¹howsoever, let me, I pray thee, also run after Cushy. And Joab said, Wherefore wilt thou run, my son, seeing that thou hast no ²tidings ready?

23 But howsoever, said he, let me run. And he said unto him, Run. Then Ahimaaz ran by the way of the plain, and ¹overran Cushy.

News from Ahimaaz and Cushy

24 And David sat between the ^atwo gates: and the watchman went up to the roof over the gate unto the wall, and lifted up his eyes, and looked, and beheld a man running alone.

25 And the watchman cried, and told the king. And the king said, If he be alone, there is ¹tidings in his mouth. And he came ²apace, and drew near.

26 And the watchman saw another man running: and the watchman called unto the ¹porter, and said, Behold another man running alone. And the king said, He also bringeth tidings.

27 And the watchman said, ¹Me thinketh the running of the foremost is like the running of Ahimaaz the son of Zadok. And the king said, He is a good man, and cometh with ^agood tidings.

28 And Ahimaaz called, and said unto the king, ¹All is well. And he fell down to the earth upon his face before the king, and said, ^aBlessed be the LORD thy God, which hath delivered up the men that lifted up their hand against my lord the king.

29 And the king said, Is the young man Absalom safe? And Ahimaaz answered, When Joab sent the king's servant, and me thy servant, I saw a great tumult, but I knew not what it was.

30 And the king said unto him, Turn aside, and stand here. And he turned aside, and stood still.

18:14, 15. Despite David's instructions of mercy for Absalom (vv. 5, 12), Joab would not give Absalom another chance to work his deceptions. Perhaps Joab's desire for revenge had also simmered long (cf. 14:29–33).

31 And, behold, Cushy came; and Cushy said, Tidings, my lord the king: for the LORD hath ¹avenged thee this day of all them that rose up against thee.

32 And the king said unto Cushy, Is the young man Absalom safe? And Cushy answered, The enemies of my lord the king, and all that rise against thee to do thee ¹hurt, be as that young man is.

33 And the king was much moved, and went up to the chamber over the gate, and wept: and as he went, thus he said, "O my son Absalom, my son, my son Absalom! would God I had died for thee, O Absalom, my son, ^bmy son!

Victory Turned to Mourning

19 And it was told Joab, Behold, the king weepeth and ^amourneth for Absalom.

2 And the victory that day was turned into ^amourning unto all the people: for the people heard say that day how the king was grieved for his son.

3 And the people ¹gat them by stealth that day ^ainto the city, as people being ashamed steal away when they flee in battle.

4 But the king ^acovered his face, and the king cried with a loud voice, ^bO my son Absalom, O Absalom, my son, my son!

5 And ^aJoab came into the house to the king, and said, ¹Thou hast shamed this day the faces of all thy servants, which this day have saved thy life, and the lives of thy sons and of thy daughters, and the lives of thy wives, and the lives of thy concubines;

8 Then the king arose, and sat in the ^agate. And they told unto all the people, saying, Behold, the king doth sit in the gate. And all the people came before the king: for Israel had ^bfled every man to his tent.

Israel Wants David as King

9 And all the people were ¹at strife throughout all the tribes of Israel, saying, The king saved us out of the hand of our ^aenemies, and he delivered us out of the hand of the ^bPhilistines; and now he is ^cfled out of the land for Absalom.

11 And king David sent to ^aZadok and to Abiathar the priests, saying, Speak unto the elders of Judah, saying, Why are ye the last to bring the king back to his house? seeing the speech of all Israel is come to the king, even to his house.

12 Ye are my brethren, ye are ^amy bones and my flesh: wherefore then are ye the last to bring back the king?

18:33. David truly loved his children, and he loved Absalom, in particular (cf. 13:39; 14:33; 18:5; 19:4).

19:5-7. David's grief over his slain son was ill-received by Joab, who considered Absalom only a traitor. Joab feared that David's conduct might alienate those who had helped him to regain the throne.

19:8. For the importance of the gate of the city, see the note on Ruth 4:1.

19:13, 14. As a token of reconciliation, David replaced Joab as commander of his army with Amasa, Absalom's general. Perhaps he also thought in this way to repay Joab for his slaying of Absalom. The move was unwise and would cause more difficulty for David (cf. 20:9-12; 1 Kin. 2:5, 6).

15 So the king returned, and came to Jordan. And Judah came to ^aGilgal, to go to meet the king, to conduct the king ^bover Jordan.

Shimei's Repentance

16 And ^aShimei the son of Gera, a Benjamite, which was of Bahurim, hasted and came down with the men of Judah to meet king David.

17 And there were a thousand men of ^aBenjamin with him, and ^bZiba the servant of the house of Saul, and his fifteen sons and his twenty servants with him; and they went over Jordan before the king.

18 And there went over a ferry boat to carry over the king's household, and to do what he thought good. And Shimei the son of Gera fell down before the king, as he was come over Jordan;

19 And said unto the king, ^aLet not my lord ¹impute iniquity unto me, neither do thou remember ^bthat which thy servant did ²perversely the day that my lord the king went out of Jerusalem, that the king should ^ctake it to his heart.

20 For thy servant doth know that I have sinned: therefore, behold, I am come the first this day of all ^athe house of Joseph to go down to meet my lord the king.

21 But Abishai the son of Zeruiah answered and said, Shall not Shimei be put to death for this, ^abecause he ^bcursed the LORD's anointed?

22 And David said, ^aWhat have I to do with you, ye sons of Zeruiah, that ye should this day be adversaries unto me? ^bshall there any man be put to death this day in Israel? for do not I know that I am this day king over Israel?

Mephibosheth's Faithfulness

24 And ^aMephibosheth the son of Saul came down to meet the king, and had neither dressed his feet, nor trimmed his beard, nor washed his clothes, from the day the king departed until the day he came again in peace.

25 And it came to pass, when he was come to Jerusalem to meet the king, that the king said unto him, ^aWherefore wentest not thou with me, Mephibosheth?

26 And he answered, My lord, O king, my servant deceived me: for thy servant said, I will saddle me an ass, that I may ride thereon, and go to the king; because thy servant is lame.

27 And ^ahe hath slandered thy servant unto my lord the king; ^bbut my lord the king is as an angel of God: do therefore what is good in thine eyes.

28 For all of my father's house were but dead men before my lord the king: ^ayet didst thou set thy servant among them that did eat at thine own table. What right therefore have I yet to ¹cry any more unto the king?

29 And the king said unto him, Why speakest thou any more of thy matters? I have said, Thou and Ziba divide the land.

30 And Mephibosheth said unto the king, Yea, let him take all, forasmuch as my lord the king is come again in peace unto his own house.

David Escorted Over Jordan

31 And ^aBarzillai the Gileadite came down from Rogelim, and went over Jordan with the king, to conduct him over Jordan.

32 Now Barzillai was a very aged man, even fourscore years old: and ^ahe had provided the king ¹of sustenance while he lay at Mahanaim; for he was a very great man.

33 And the king said unto Barzillai, Come thou over with me, and I will feed thee with me in Jerusalem.

19:16-23. See the note on 16:13, 14.

19:29. David seems uncertain as to Mephibosheth's part in the rebellion (cf. 16:3). Perhaps he did not care to look into the matter at this time or just felt that Ziba was in a position to be of help to him in the restoration of his kingdom (cf. v. 17). The edict here seems to be a compromise between those given in 9:9 and 16:4. For the name Mephibosheth, see the note on 2:8-11.

34 And Barzillai said unto the king, How long have I to live, that I should go up with the king unto Jerusalem?

35 I am this day ^afourscore years old: and can I discern between good and ¹evil? can thy servant taste what I eat or what I drink? can I hear any more the voice of singing men and singing women? wherefore then should thy servant be yet a burden unto my lord the king?

36 Thy servant will go a little way over Jordan with the king: and why should the king ¹recompense it me with such a reward?

37 Let thy servant, I pray thee, turn back again, that I may die in mine own city, and be buried by the grave of my father and of my mother. But behold thy servant ^aChimham; let him go over with my lord the king; and do to him what shall seem good unto thee.

38 And the king answered, Chimham shall go over with me, and I will do to him that which shall seem good unto thee: and whatsoever thou shalt ¹require of me, that will I do for thee.

39 And all the people went over Jordan. And when the king was come over, the king ^akissed Barzillai, and blessed him; and he returned unto his own place.

40 Then the king went on to Gilgal, and ¹Chimham went on with him: and all the people of Judah conducted the king, and also half the people of Israel.

42 And all the men of Judah answered the men of Israel, Because the king is ^anear of kin to us: wherefore then be ye angry for this matter? have we eaten at all of the king's cost? or hath he given us any gift?

43 And the men of Israel answered the men of Judah, and said, We have ^aten parts in the king, and we have also more right in David than ye: why then did ye despise us, that our advice should not be first had in bringing back our king? And ^bthe words of the men of Judah were ¹fiercer than the words of the men of Israel.

Israel Follows Sheba

20 And there happened to be there ¹a man of Belial, whose name was Sheba, the son of Bichri, a Benjamite: and he blew a trumpet, and said, ^aWe have no part in David, neither have we inheritance in the son of Jesse: ^bevery man to his tents, O Israel.

2 So every man of Israel went up from after David, and followed Sheba the son of Bichri: but the ^amen of Judah clave unto their king, from Jordan even to Jerusalem.

3 And David came to his house at Jerusalem; and the king took the ten women ^ahis concubines, whom he had left to keep the house, and put them in ¹ward, and fed them, but went not in unto them. So they were shut up unto the day of their death, living in widowhood.

4 Then said the king to Amasa, ^aAssemble me the men of Judah within three days, and be thou here present.

5 So Amasa went to assemble the men of Judah: but he ¹tarried longer than the set time which he had appointed him.

19:40–43. Although both Israel and Judah supported the king's return, the pronounced differences that had always existed between the northern and southern tribes surfaced again, differences that had existed since the early days of the conquest and had been highlighted in David's accession to the throne (chs. 2–4). The basic tension will emerge in the rebellion of Sheba (ch. 20) and develop into a full secession of the northern tribes after the death of Solomon (1 Kin. 12:16–19).

20:1. For the phrase man of Belial, see 2 Samuel 16:7 and the notes on Judges 19:22 and 1 Samuel 1:16.

20:2. See the note on 19:40–43.

more harm than did Absalom: take thou ^bthy lord's servants, and pursue after him, lest he ¹get him fenced cities, and escape us.

7 And there went out after him Joab's men, and the ^aCherethites, and the Pelethites, and ^ball the mighty men: and they went out of Jerusalem, to pursue after Sheba the son of Bichri.

8 When they were at the great stone which is in Gibeon, Amasa went before them. And Joab's garment that he had put on was girded unto him, and upon it a ¹girdle with a sword fastened upon his loins in the sheath thereof; and as he ²went forth it fell out.

The Death of Amasa

9 ^aAnd Joab said to Amasa, Art thou in health, my brother? And Joab took Amasa by the beard with the right hand to kiss him.

10 But Amasa took no heed to the sword that was in Joab's hand: so ^ahe smote him therewith ^bin the fifth rib, and shed out his bowels to the ground, and struck him not again; and he died. So Joab and Abishai his brother pursued after Sheba the son of Bichri.

11 And one of Joab's men stood by him, and said, He that favoureth Joab, and he that is for David, let him go after Joab.

12 And Amasa wallowed in blood in the midst of the highway. And when the man saw that all the people stood still, he removed Amasa out of the highway into the field, and cast a cloth upon him, when he saw that every one that came by him stood still.

13 When he was removed out of the highway, all the people went on after Joab, to pursue after Sheba the son of Bichri.

Sheba Found in Abel

14 And he went through all the tribes of Israel unto ^aAbel, and to Beth-maachah, and all the Berites:

and they were gathered together, and went also after ¹him.

15 And they came and besieged him in Abel of Beth-maachah, and they ^acast up a ¹bank against the city, and it stood ²in the trench: and all the people that were with Joab battered the wall, to throw it down.

16 Then cried a wise woman out of the city, Hear, hear; say, I pray you, unto Joab, Come near hither, that I may speak with thee.

17 And when he was come near unto her, the woman said, Art thou Joab? And he answered, I am he. Then she said unto him, Hear the words of thine handmaid. And he answered, I do hear.

18 Then she spake, saying, They ¹were wont to speak in old time, saying, They shall surely ask counsel at Abel: and so they ended the matter.

19 I am one of them that are peaceable and faithful in Israel: thou seekest to destroy a city and a mother in Israel: why wilt thou swallow up ^athe inheritance of the LORD?

20 And Joab answered and said, Far be it, far be it from me, that I should swallow up or destroy.

21 The matter is not so: but a man of mount Ephraim, Sheba the son of Bichri by name, hath lifted up his hand against the king, even against David: deliver him only, and I will depart from the city. And the woman said unto Joab, Behold, his head shall be thrown to thee over the wall.

Sheba Beheaded

22 Then the woman went unto all the people ^ain her wisdom. And they cut off the head of Sheba the son of Bichri, and cast it out to Joab. And he blew a trumpet, and they ¹retired from the city, every man to his tent. And Joab returned to Jerusalem unto the king.

Three Years of Famine

21 Then there was a famine in the days of David three years, year after year; and David ^aenquired of the LORD. And the LORD answered, It is for Saul, and for his ¹bloody house, because he slew the Gibeonites.

2 And the king called the Gibeonites, and said unto them; (now the Gibeonites were not of the children of Israel, but ^aof the remnant of the Amorites; and the children of Israel had sworn unto them: and Saul sought to slay them ^bin his zeal to the children of Israel and Judah.)

3 Wherefore David said unto the Gibeonites, What shall I do for you? and wherewith shall I make the atonement, that ye may bless ^athe inheritance of the LORD?

4 And the Gibeonites said unto him, We will have no silver nor gold of Saul, nor of his house; neither for us shalt thou kill any man in Israel. And he said, What ye shall say, that will I do for you.

5 And they answered the king, The man that consumed us, and that ¹devised against us that we should be destroyed from remaining in any of the ²coasts of Israel,

6 Let seven men of his sons be delivered ^aunto us, and we will hang them up unto the LORD ^bin Gibeah of Saul, ^cwhom the LORD did choose. And the king said, I will give them.

7 But the king spared ^aMephibosheth, the son of Jonathan the son of Saul, because of ^bthe LORD's oath that was between them, between David and Jonathan the son of Saul.

8 But the king took the two sons of ^aRizpah the daughter of Aiah, whom she bare unto Saul, Armoni and Mephibosheth; and the five sons of ¹Michal the daughter of Saul, whom she ²brought up for Adriel the son of Barzillai the Melchathite:

9 And he delivered them into the hands of the Gibeonites, and they hanged them in the hill ^abefore the LORD: and they fell all seven together, and were put to death in the days of harvest, in the first days, in the beginning of barley harvest.

10 And ^aRizpah the daughter of Aiah took sackcloth, and spread it for her upon the rock, ^bfrom the beginning of harvest until water dropped upon them out of heaven, and suffered neither the birds of the air to rest on them by day, nor the beasts of the field by night.

11 And it was told David what Rizpah the daughter of Aiah, the concubine of Saul, had done.

Saul and His Sons Buried

12 And David went and took the bones of Saul and the bones of Jonathan his son from the men of ^aJabesh-gilead, which had stolen them from the street of ¹Beth-shan, where the ^bPhilistines had hanged them, when the Philistines had slain Saul in Gilboa:

13 And he brought up from thence the bones of Saul and the bones of Jonathan his son; and they gathered the bones of them that were hanged.

21:1. Chapters 21-24 form an appendix to the books of Samuel. The matters covered here are not in chronological order and come from various stages of David's life.

21:1, 2. David, recognizing that the three-year famine was a divine judgment, inquired and learned that the famine was due to Saul's violation of the long-standing covenant between Israel and the citizens of Gibeon (cf. Josh. 9:15-27).

According to Joshua 9:7 the Gibeonites were Hivites. The term Amorites is used here, as often, as a common word for the original inhabitants of Canaan. See the note on 1 Samuel 7:14-17.

21:9. The execution of Saul's sons seems to be at variance with the law of just punishment expressed in Deuteronomy 24:16. However, these sons likely were also involved in the Gibeonite raid. Moreover, their deaths would eliminate possible political strife later.

21:10-14. Rizpah's protection of Saul's slain sons, so when the rain fell again the bodies could be properly buried, moved David to secure the remains of Saul and Jonathan and give them a proper burial.

14 And the bones of Saul and Jonathan his son buried they in the country of Benjamin in ^aZelah, in the sepulchre of Kish his father: and they performed all that the king commanded. And after that ^bGod ¹was intreated for the land.

15 Moreover the Philistines had yet war again with Israel; and David went down, and his servants with him, and fought against the Philistines: and David waxed faint.

The Slaying of the Philistine Giants

16 And Ishbi-benob, which was of the sons of ¹the ^agiant, the weight of whose ²spear weighed three hundred shekels of brass in weight, he being girded with a new sword, thought ³to have slain David.

17 But ^aAbishai the son of Zeruiah ¹succoured him, and ²smote the Philistine, and killed him. Then the men of David sware unto him, saying, ^bThou shalt go no more out with us to battle, that thou quench not the ^clight of Israel.

18 ^aAnd it came to pass after this, that there was again a battle with the Philistines at Gob: then ^bSibbechai the Hushathite slew ¹Saph, which was of the sons of ²the giant.

19 And there was again a battle in Gob with the Philistines, where ^aElhanan the son of ¹Jaare-oregim, a Beth-lehemite, slew ^bthe brother of Goliath the Gittite, the staff of whose spear was like a weaver's beam.

20 And ^athere was yet a battle in Gath, where was a man of great stature, that had on every hand six fingers, and on every foot six toes, four and twenty in number; and he also was born to ¹the giant.

21 And when he ^adefied Israel, Jonathan the son of ¹Shimeah the brother of David slew him.

8 Then ^athe earth shook and trembled; ^bthe foundations of heaven moved and shook, because he was ¹wroth.

21:15–22. See the notes at 1 Samuel 17:50 and 1 Chronicles 20:4–8. These Philistine campaigns saw the end of the fabled giants of the Philistines: Ishbi-benob (vv. 15–17), Saph (or Sippai, 1 Chr. 20:4), Lahmi (1 Chr. 20:5), and the unnamed giant of Gath (vv. 20, 21; cf. 1 Chr. 20:6, 7), as well as Goliath, whom David had slain previously (1 Sam. 17:51).

22:1. The linguistic features of the psalm attest to its antiquity. It is almost identical to Psalm 18, which has been specifically edited for use in the Israelite liturgy. This psalm is included here as a matter of historical record, much as Moses' song of deliverance in Exodus 15.

22:2, 3. For the LORD as a rock and a horn of... salvation, see the notes at 1 Samuel 2:1, 2 and cf. v. 32.

12 And he made ^adarkness ¹pavilions round about him, dark waters, and thick clouds of the skies.

13 Through the brightness before him were coals of fire kindled.

14 The LORD ^athundered from heaven, and the most High uttered his voice.

15 And he sent out ^aarrows, and scattered them; lightning, and ¹discomfited them.

16 And the channels of the sea ^aappeared, the foundations of the world were ¹discovered, at the ^brebuking of the LORD, at the blast of the breath of his nostrils.

17 ^aHe sent from above, he took me; he drew me out of many waters;

18 He delivered me from my strong enemy, and from them that hated me: for they were too strong for me.

19 They ¹prevented me in the day of my calamity: but the LORD was my ^astay.²

39 And I have consumed them, and wounded them, that they could not arise: yea, they are fallen ^aunder my feet.

40 For thou hast ^agirded me with strength to battle: ^bthem that rose up against me hast thou ¹subdued under me.

41 Thou hast also ¹given me the ^anecks of mine enemies, that I might destroy them that hate me.

42 They looked, but there was none to save; even ^aunto the LORD, but he answered them not.

43 Then did I beat them as small ^aas the dust of the earth, I did stamp them ^bas the mire of the street, and did ¹spread them abroad.

44 ^aThou also hast delivered me from the ¹strivings of my people, thou hast kept me to be ^bhead of the heathen: ^ca people which I knew not shall serve me.

45 ¹Strangers shall submit themselves unto me: as soon as they hear, they shall be obedient unto me.

46 Strangers shall fade away, and they shall be afraid ^aout of their ¹close places.

47 The LORD liveth; and blessed be my rock; and exalted be the God of the ^arock of my salvation.

48 It is God that avengeth me, and that ^abringeth down the people under me, 49 And that bringeth me forth from mine enemies: thou also hast lifted me up on high above them that rose up against me: thou hast delivered me from the ^aviolent man.

22:51. This is reaffirmation of the covenant with David. See the note on 7:12–16.

23:2. David attests the divine inspiration of his psalm. Verses 2–7 contain a lovely testimony in song of David's abiding trust in God and the unconditional covenant of God with the house of David.

23:3. For Rock, see the note on 1 Samuel 2:2.

23:5. The opening line may also be translated "Is not my house so with God?"

23:6. For the sons of Belial, see the note on Judges 19:22.

23:8. For a parallel listing of David's mighty men, see 1 Chronicles 11:11–47. Apparently three groups of mighty men made up the roster of David's special forces, who also served as a body of special assistants. The first three and their heroic deeds are recorded in verses 8–17. Verses 18–23 detail two other notable men: Abishai, who though not one of the "big three" became, because of his mighty exploits, their commander, and Benaiah, whose brave deeds earned for him the post of chief of the bodyguards. Verses 24–39 list the names of the "thirty." Although 32 names are listed, either 30 served at any one time or 30 was an original number to which two others subsequently were added without changing the official designation of the group. According to 1 Chronicles 27:1–15, the first five men together with seven others served as commanders of 12 army companies that were on duty on a monthly rotation.

The words that sat in the seat should be read as a man's name: Josheb-basshebeth, rendered Jashobeam in 1 Chronicles 27:2. Other members of the "big three" included Eleazar (v. 9) and Shammah (v. 11). According to 1 Chronicles 11:11, Jashobeam slew only three hundred of the enemy at one time; the figure here is probably the correct one. See the note on 1 Chronicles 11:11.

three mighty men with David, when they defied the Philistines that were there gathered together to battle, and the men of Israel were gone away:

10 He arose, and ¹smote the Philistines until his hand was ^aweary, and his hand ²clave unto the sword: and the LORD wrought a great victory that day; and the people returned after him only to ^bspoil.³

11 And after him was ^aShammah the son of Agee the Hararite. ^bAnd the Philistines were gathered together into a troop, where was a piece of ground full of lentiles: and the people fled from the Philistines.

12 But he stood in the midst of the ground, and defended it, and slew the Philistines: and the LORD wrought a great victory.

13 And ^athree of the thirty ¹chief went down, and came to David in the harvest time unto ^bthe cave of Adullam: and the troop of the Philistines ²pitched in ^cthe valley of Rephaim.

14 And David was then in ^aan¹ hold, and the garrison of the Philistines was then in Beth-lehem.

15 And David longed, and said, Oh that one would give me drink of the water of the well of Beth-lehem, which is by the gate!

16 And the three mighty men brake through the host of the Philistines, and drew water out of the well of Beth-lehem, that was by the gate, and took it, and brought it to David: nevertheless he would not drink thereof, but poured it out unto the LORD.

17 And he said, Be it far from me, O LORD, that I should do this: is not this ^athe blood of the men that went in jeopardy of their lives? therefore he would not drink it. These things did these three mighty men.

18 And ^aAbishai, the brother of Joab, the son of Zeruiah, was chief among three. And he lifted up his spear against three hundred, and slew them, and had the name among three.

David's Repentance

10 And ^aDavid's ¹heart smote him after that he had numbered the people. And ^bDavid said unto the LORD, ^cI have sinned greatly in that I have done: and now, I beseech thee, O LORD, take away the iniquity of thy servant; for I have ^ddone very foolishly.

11 For when David was up in the morning, the word of the LORD came unto the prophet ^aGad, David's ^bseer, saying, 12 Go and say unto David, Thus saith the LORD, I offer thee three things; choose thee one of them, that I may do it unto thee.

13 So Gad came to David, and told him, and said unto him, Shall ^aseven ¹years of famine come unto thee in thy land? or wilt thou flee three months before thine enemies, while they pursue thee? or that there be three days' ²pestilence in thy land? now ³advise, and see what answer I shall return to him that sent me.

14 And David said unto Gad, I am in ¹a great strait: let us fall now into the hand of the LORD; ^afor his mercies are great: and ^blet me not fall into the hand of man.

24:1. Taking a census was not a wrong thing to do per se. God Himself had previously ordered Moses to make two censuses (cf. Num. 1:2, 3; 26:2). However, in this case Satan (cf. 1 Chr. 21:1) seized upon the growing pride of David's heart (vv. 2, 3) to incite him into taking a census, so the king might have a ground of boasting (cf. Dan. 4:30). God, the controller of all things, allowed the deed to be done so as to bring David to a place of humility and reality (v. 10). God and Satan are often involved in the same event, but for different causes (cf. Job)—God so that the believer might be instructed and grow, but Satan, to discredit the believer and therefore, God Himself.

24:9. First Chronicles 21:5 lists the census figure in Israel at 1,100,000, possibly a round number arrived at by adding the total of "regular army" commanders and the companies to the 800,000 of the general census. Likewise, the 500,000 men in Judah appears to be different in 1 Chronicles 21:5, which lists only 470,000. However, since 1 Chronicles 21:6 indicates that the census was incomplete because it did not include the tribes of Levi or Benjamin, the figure in Samuel is probably the accurate one. The supposed contradictions are thus merely apparent, different counting procedures being considered by the two authors.

24:13. The seven years here is probably a miscopy of three years, as read by the Septuagint and 1 Chronicles 21:12.

15 So ^athe LORD sent a ¹pestilence upon Israel from the morning even to the time appointed: and there died of the people from Dan even to Beer-sheba seventy thousand men.

Jerusalem Spared

16 ^aAnd when the angel stretched out his hand upon Jerusalem to destroy it, ^bthe LORD ¹repented him of the evil, and said to the angel that destroyed the people, It is enough: ²stay now thine hand. And the angel of the LORD was by the threshing-place of ³Araunah the Jebusite.

Purchase of Araunah's Threshingfloor

18 And Gad came that day to David, and said unto him, ^aGo up, rear an altar unto the LORD in the threshingfloor of Araunah the Jebusite.

21 And Araunah said, Wherefore is my lord the king come to his servant? ^aAnd David said, To buy the threshingfloor of thee, to build an altar unto the LORD, that ^bthe plague may be ¹stayed from the people.

22 And Araunah said unto David, Let my lord the king take and offer up what seemeth good unto him: ^abehold, here be oxen for burnt sacrifice, and threshing instruments and other instruments of the oxen for wood.

23 All these things did Araunah, as a king, give unto the king. And Araunah said unto the king, The LORD thy God ^aaccept thee.

24 And the king said unto Araunah, Nay; but I will surely buy it of thee at a price: neither will I offer burnt offerings unto the LORD my God of that which doth cost me nothing. So ^aDavid bought the threshingfloor and the oxen for fifty shekels of silver.

25 And David built there an altar unto the LORD, and offered burnt offerings and peace offerings. ^aSo the LORD ¹was intreated for the land, and ^bthe plague was stayed from Israel.

24:16. For the repentance of God, see the note on 1 Samuel 15:11.

24:17. God's chastening had achieved its desired effect. David recognizes that as the king of Israel his primary task was that of a shepherd with his sheep. He manfully and humbly repents of his sin and pleads for his beloved people. Despite his oft-besetting sins, David had a tender heart toward God and God's people. Accordingly, David is commended as a man after God's own heart (Acts 13:22; cf. 1 Sam. 13:14; 1 Kin. 3:14; 9:4; 11:4, 6, 33, 38; 14:8; 15:3).

24:24. The apparent discrepancy between the fifty shekels paid to Araunah mentioned here and the six hundred recorded by the author of Chronicles (1 Chr. 21:25), probably has to do with the differences in the amount of land purchased as indicated in the two accounts. Samuel speaks of the threshing floor as a site for the housing of the ark. Chronicles mentions the whole territory including the threshing floor, hence the price is much larger. The bigger area will be the location of Solomon's temple (cf. 1 Kin. 6:1, 2; 2 Chr. 3:1-4). Since the account in Chronicles is introductory to David's preparations for the building of the temple, it served the purposes of the author of Chronicles to mention the purchase of the whole site. The account in Samuel, however, is more limited in scope, being concerned with the offerings necessary to stay the plague (vv. 21, 25).

Abraham went to the "land of Moriah" when he offered his son Isaac (Gen. 22:2). The author of Chronicles (2 Chr. 3:1) associates Mount Moriah with the threshing floor of Araunah (Ornan, 1 Chr. 21:18).

The First Book of the KINGS

The books of Kings were originally one volume in the Hebrew text. (See the Introduction to 1 Samuel.) The two books of Kings contain an account of Israel's spiritual conduct as God's covenant people. The portrayal of the deeds of Israel's people, especially its kings, priests, and prophets, is colored by the shade of spiritual faithfulness and purity they maintained toward God and His revealed standards. The selective rehearsal of the people's repeated spiritual failure, particularly among its leaders, points to Israel's need of a coming One who, as the heir to David's throne, would be not only its righteous King, but its faithful Prophet and God's High Priest.

Historical Setting. The two books of Kings record the activities of the people of God, moving from the days of Solomon (971–931 B.C.) to the division of the kingdom under Rehoboam, and then through the history of the twin kingdoms to the occasion of the respective defeats and exiles, the northern kingdom falling in 722 B.C., and the southern kingdom in 586 B.C. Israel is seen as the focal point of God's dealing with the various nations of mankind, especially the Egyptians, Phoenicians, Arameans, Assyrians, and Babylonians. Israel's spiritual disobedience would repeatedly expose them to political threats at the hands of these nations, until the northern kingdom of Israel would fall under the weight of the mighty war machine of the Neo-Assyrian Empire and the remaining southern kingdom of Judah would come to an end at the hands of the Chaldeans. The time thus covered, exclusive of the historical appendixes at the end of 2 Kings, is about 385 years.

Authorship. Liberal scholars have conjectured that 1 and 2 Kings in their present form are the work of a deuteronomic school of writers whose basic theological viewpoint is woven into the books from Joshua to Kings and whose literary activity stretched from the eighth century B.C. through the sixth century B.C. However, no real proof exists of such a group, and efforts to suggest the supposed parameters of their writing activities have yielded varying and often conflicting results. Moreover, the underlying idea that someone associated with the Book of Deuteronomy (also considered to be a late book) was associated with these books is unproven and fails in the growing body of evidence that increasingly shows that Deuteronomy was almost entirely a product of Moses' own writing.

The identity of the author of Kings is unknown, although Jewish tradition holds that its author was Jeremiah. Although there can be no final certainty in the matter, the fact that Jeremiah was not only a member of a priestly, teaching family, but as God's prophet was an eyewitness and active participant in the events surrounding Judah's demise, argues for such a possibility. The author of Kings has used many official records and unofficial sources in compiling his history (e.g., 11:41; 14:19, 29, etc.; see the note on 2 Kin. 20:20). Although the author has written Kings in a generally historically progressive fashion, he often writes thematically, grouping his facts in a way that is not strictly chronological. Thus, one must not assume that the details of a given chapter necessarily have happened after those of the preceding chapter (see the note on 2 Kin. 20:1). However, especially in the details relative to the divided kingdom, there is a general historical progression from 1 Kings 12 to the end of 2 Kings (from the mid-tenth to the mid-sixth century B.C.). The dates for the respective kings given here result from a careful evaluation of the various dating methods used in ancient Israel as they are compared with certain established anchor dates in the ancient Near East. The difficulty of affixing precise dates is hampered by the various ways in which dates were calculated in Israel. In the northern kingdom, dating was reached by a nonaccession system (by which the year that a man became king was listed as both his first year and the last year of his predecessor). In Judah, an accession year system was used, whereby a new king's first year was calculated from the beginning of the new year in the fall after his enthronement, until about 841 B.C., after which a change was made to the nonaccession system. However, both kingdoms switched to the accession year system in the early eighth century B.C., possibly under the influence of Assyria. Adding to the difficulty is the fact that the length of the reign of some kings included a period of serving as co-regent with their fathers. Despite the complexity of the problem, a relatively accurate system of dating has been established.

Although the historical trustworthiness of Kings has been demonstrated repeatedly, one must not read these two books simply as history. The two books are, above all, a telling of God's spiritual dealings with His vacillating people. It narrates how the people of God managed their God-given responsibilities before a sovereign and gracious God. It stands as a record of God's reward for obedience and faithfulness, and for His judgment of disobedience.

Declining Strength

1 Now king David was ^aold and stricken in ^byears; and they covered him with clothes, but he ^cgat no heat.

2 Wherefore his servants said unto him, Let there be sought for my lord the king a young ¹virgin: and let her ²stand before the king, and let her ³cherish him, and let her lie in thy bosom, that my lord the king may get heat.

3 So they sought for a fair damsel throughout all the coasts of Israel, and found ^aAbishag a ^bShunammite, and brought her to the king.

4 And the damsel was very fair, and cherished the king, and ministered to him: but the king knew her not.

6 And his father had not ¹displeased him at any time in saying, Why hast thou done so? and he also was a very ²goodly man; ^aand his mother bare him after Absalom.

Nathan's Counsel

11 Wherefore Nathan spake unto Bath-sheba the mother of Solomon, saying, Hast thou not heard that Adonijah the son of ^aHaggith ¹doth reign, and David our lord knoweth it not?

12 Now therefore come, let me, I pray thee, give thee counsel, that thou mayest save thine own life, and the life of thy son Solomon.

13 Go and get thee in unto king

1:2-4. These verses describe a type of diathery widely practiced in ancient times, in which the body of a healthy person was used to help a sick one.

1:5. David's first four sons were Amnon, Chileab, Absalom, and Adonijah (cf. 2 Sam. 3:2-4). Amnon and Absalom had suffered violent deaths (2 Sam. 13:28, 29; 18:14). Chileab must have died in childhood. Therefore, Adonijah would assume that he had a legitimate right to the throne. However, even Adonijah knew that the Lord had selected Solomon as David's successor (2:15).

1:6. David has again failed to discipline a son properly. See the note on 2 Samuel 13:39.

1:7-10. Adonijah's plot began with gaining valuable allies: Joab, whom David was unable to control (cf. 2:5, 6), and Abiathar the priest. Adonijah's plan next took the form of a feast for his supporters at which he would declare his kingship.

1:11. Nathan learned of Adonijah's plans to claim the throne and persuaded Bath-sheba to help him convince David that he should issue a public proclamation that Solomon was king.

1:10 Solomon was the third and last king of united Israel, and he reigned 40 years (970-930 B.C.). He is also known as Jedidiah ("Yahweh's Beloved," 2 Sam. 12:25); he was David's son by Bathsheba. Solomon extended the kingdom to its greatest geographical limits, and achieved its greatest material prosperity. Though very intelligent (cf. 3:4-15; 4:29-34; 2 Chr. 9:1-12), Solomon in his later years lost his spiritual discernment. For the sake of political advantage and sensual living he succumbed to apostasy, for which he was severely chastened by God (11:1-28). His policies of oppression and luxury brought the kingdom to the verge of dissolution; when his son Rehoboam came to the throne, the kingdom divided (ch.12). Solomon is noted for many different accomplishments: (1) He built the temple in seven years. (2) He built the temple complex (a series of five structures) in 13 years. (3) He built many cities to further the expansion of his trade empire. (4) He made cities of storage and cities for his chariots and cavalry throughout the realm. (5) He pioneered trade routes linking Africa, Asia, Arabia, and Asia Minor. (6) He entered the horse trade based in Asia Minor. (7) His naval fleet sailed from Ezion-geber in the Gulf of Aqaba to Ophir on the coast of the Red Sea. (8) He wrote Proverbs, Ecclesiastes, the Song of Solomon, Psalms 72 and 127, and over one thousand songs. (9) He had seven hundred wives and three hundred concubines. (10) He built shrines for worshiping false gods, to satisfy his heathen wives. (First Reference, 1 Kin. 1:10; Primary references, 1 Kin. 1-11.)

David, and say unto him, Didst not thou, my lord, O king, swear unto thine handmaid, saying, "Assuredly Solomon thy son shall reign after me, and he shall sit upon my throne? why then doth Adonijah reign?"

14 Behold, while thou yet talkest there with the king, I also will come in after thee, and confirm thy words.

David Reminded of His Oath

15 And Bath-sheba went in unto the king into the chamber: and the king was very old; and Abishag the Shunammite ministered unto the king.

16 And Bath-sheba bowed, and did ¹obeisance unto the king. And the king said, What ²wouldest thou?

17 And she said unto him, My lord, "thou swarest by the LORD thy God unto thine handmaid, saying, Assuredly Solomon thy son shall reign after me, and he shall sit upon my throne.

18 And now, behold, Adonijah reigneth; and now, my lord the king, thou knowest it not:

19 "And he hath slain oxen and fat cattle and sheep in abundance, and hath called all the sons of the king, and Abiathar the priest, and Joab the captain of the host: but Solomon thy servant hath he not called.

20 And thou, my lord, O king, the eyes of all Israel are upon thee, that thou shouldest tell them who shall sit on the throne of my lord the king after him.

21 Otherwise it shall come to pass, when my lord the king "shall sleep with his fathers, that I and my son Solomon shall be ¹counted offenders.

22 And, lo, while she yet talked with the king, Nathan the prophet also came in.

23 And they told the king, saying, Behold Nathan the prophet. And when he was come in before the king, he bowed himself before the king with his face to the ground.

24 And Nathan said, My lord, O king, hast thou said, Adonijah shall reign after me, and he shall sit upon my throne?

25 "For he is gone down this day, and hath slain oxen and fat cattle and sheep in abundance, and hath called all the king's sons, and the captains of the host, and Abiathar the priest; and, behold, they eat and drink before him, and say, ^bGod¹ save king Adonijah.

26 But me, even me thy servant, and Zadok the priest, and Benaiah the son of Jehoiada, and thy servant Solomon, hath he not called.

27 Is this thing done by my lord the king, and thou hast not shewed it unto thy servant, who should sit on the throne of my lord the king after him?

28 Then king David answered and said, Call me Bath-sheba. And she came into the king's presence, and stood before the king.

29 And the king sware, and said, "As the LORD liveth, that hath redeemed my soul out of all distress, 30 "Even as I sware unto thee by the LORD God of Israel, saying, Assuredly Solomon thy son shall reign after me, and he shall sit upon my throne in my stead; even so will I certainly do this day.

31 Then Bath-sheba bowed with her face to the earth, and did ¹reverence to the king, and said, "Let my lord king David live for ever.

Solomon Anointed King

32 And king David said, Call me Zadok the priest, and Nathan the prophet, and Benaiah the son of Jehoiada. And they came before the king.

33 The king also said unto them, "Take with you the servants of your lord, and cause Solomon my son to ride upon mine own ^bmule, and bring him down to ^cGihon:¹

34 And let Zadok the priest and Nathan the prophet "anoint him

1:32-34. David instructed Zadok, Nathan, and Benaiah, his chief aides in the spiritual and civil realms, to cause Solomon ... to ride upon David's own mule ... to Gihon and there anoint him publicly as king. Although mules were forbidden in the Levitical law concerning crossbreeding (Lev. 19:19), the special mule was an ancient symbol of royalty, as demonstrated in the Mari Tablets. David's sons had ridden upon a mule (2 Sam. 13:29; 18:9).

35 Then ye shall come up after him, that he may come and sit upon my throne; for he shall be king in my stead: and I have appointed him to be ruler over Israel and over Judah.

36 And Benaiah the son of Jehoiada answered the king, and said, ^aAmen: the LORD God of my lord the king say so too.

37 ^aAs the LORD hath been with my lord the king, even so be he with Solomon, and ^bmake his throne greater than the throne of my lord king David.

38 So Zadok the priest, and Nathan the prophet, ^aand Benaiah the son of Jehoiada, and the ^bCherethites, and the Pelethites, went down, and caused Solomon to ride upon king David's mule, and brought him to Gihon.

39 And Zadok the priest took an horn of ^aoil out of the tabernacle, and ^banointed Solomon. And they blew the trumpet; ^cand all the people said, ¹God save king Solomon.

40 And all the people ¹came up after him, and the people ²pipied with pipes, and rejoiced with great joy, so that the earth ³rent with the sound of them.

41 And Adonijah and all the guests that were with him heard it as they had made an end of eating. And when Joab heard the sound of the trumpet, he said, Wherefore is this noise of the city being in an uproar?

42 And while he yet spake, behold, ^aJonathan the son of Abiathar the priest came: and Adonijah said unto him, Come in; for ^bthou art a ¹valiant man, and bringest good tidings.

51 And it was told Solomon, saying, Behold, Adonijah feareth king Solomon: for, lo, he hath caught hold on the horns of the altar, saying, Let king Solomon swear unto me to day that he will not slay his servant with the sword.

52 And Solomon said, If he will shew himself a worthy man, ^athere shall not an hair of him fall to the earth: but if wickedness shall be found in him, he shall die.

1:38-40. The public pronouncement made openly official what David had privately declared (vv. 13, 17, 30). The noise of the great pomp and fanfare carried over the hill to Adonijah's party at En-rogel (cf. vv. 9, 41). The Cherethites and the Pelethites were foreign warriors who made up David's loyal bodyguard.

1:49-53. The news of Solomon's kingship brought an end to Adonijah's plans. He sought mercy from Solomon by laying hold on the horns of the altar, the time-honored place of refuge for those who had committed unintentional crimes (cf. Ex. 21:12-14 with 1 Kin. 2:28-34).

David's Advice to Solomon

2 Now ^athe days of David drew nigh that he should die; and he ¹charged Solomon his son, saying,

2 ^aI go the way of all the earth: ^bbe thou strong therefore, and shew thyself a man;

3 And keep the charge of the LORD thy God, to walk in his ways, to keep his statutes, and his commandments, and his judgments, and his testimonies, as it is written in the law of Moses, that thou mayest ^aprosper in all that thou doest, and ¹whithersoever thou turnest thyself:

4 That the LORD may ^acontinue his word which he spake concerning me, saying, ^bIf thy children take heed to their way, to ^cwalk before me in truth with all their heart and with all their soul, ^dthere shall not fail thee (said he) a man on the throne of Israel.

David's Reign and Death

10 So ^aDavid ¹slept with his fathers, and was buried in ^bthe city of David.

11 And the days that David ^areigned over Israel were forty years: seven years reigned he in Hebron, and thirty and three years reigned he in Jerusalem.

Solomon's Kingdom Established

12 ^aThen sat Solomon upon the throne of David his father; and his kingdom was ^bestablished ¹greatly.

13 And Adonijah the son of Haggith came to Bath-sheba the mother of Solomon. And she said, ^aComest thou peaceably? And he said, Peaceably.

14 He said moreover, I have somewhat to say unto thee. And she said, Say on.

15 And he said, Thou knowest that the kingdom was ^amine, and that all Israel set their faces on me, that I should reign: howbeit the kingdom is turned about, and is become my brother's: for ^bit was his from the LORD.

16 And now I ask one petition of thee, ¹deny me not. And she said unto him, Say on.

17 And he said, Speak, I pray thee, unto Solomon the king, (for he will not say thee nay,) that he give me ^aAbishag the Shunammite to wife.

2:1-9. Solomon, as David's co-regent, is given some needed advice concerning how to rule. It was traditional in the ancient Near East for a king to pass on a formal set of wise instructions to his son and successor. Joab and Shimei remained as unresolved problems of state for David. Joab had murdered two generals (2 Sam. 3:27; 20:10), not to mention Absalom (2 Sam. 18:14), and as head of the military forces and party to David's most intimate activities (e.g., 2 Sam.

11), had become too strong for David to deal with. Shimei had openly opposed and even cursed David (2 Sam. 16:5-13; 19:6-23). Barzillai, on the other hand, had supported the king in times of great need (2 Sam. 17:27-29; 19:31-39).

2:17. Adonijah's request for David's concubine, Abishag (1:2-4), constituted a virtual claim upon the throne. (See the note on 2 Sam. 3:7-10.) Therefore Adonijah was executed (vv. 24, 25).

18 And Bath-sheba said, Well; I will speak for thee unto the king.

19 Bath-sheba therefore went unto king Solomon, to speak unto him for Adonijah. And the king rose up to meet her, and ^abowed himself unto her, and sat down on his throne, and caused a seat to be set for the king's mother; ^band she sat on his right hand.

20 Then she said, I desire one small petition of thee; I pray thee, say me not nay. And the king said unto her, Ask on, my mother: for I will not say thee nay.

21 And she said, Let Abishag the Shunammite be given to Adonijah thy brother to wife.

Adonijah's Death

22 And king Solomon answered and said unto his mother, And why dost thou ask Abishag the Shunammite for Adonijah? ask for him the kingdom also; for he is mine ^aelder brother; even for him, and for ^bAbiathar the priest, and for Joab the son of Zeruiah.

23 Then king Solomon swore by the LORD, saying, ^aGod do so to me, and more also, if Adonijah have not spoken this word against his own life.

24 Now therefore, as the LORD liveth, which hath established me, and set me on the throne of David my father, and who hath made me an house, as he ^apromised, Adonijah shall be put to death this day.

25 And king Solomon sent by the hand of ^aBenaiah the son of Jehoiada; and he fell upon him that he died.

Abiathar Banished; Joab Executed

26 And unto Abiathar the priest said the king, Get thee to ^aAnathoth, unto thine own fields; for ¹thou art worthy of death: but I will not at this time put thee to death, ^bbecause thou barest the ark of the Lord GOD before David my father, and because thou hast been afflicted in all wherein my father was afflicted.

27 So Solomon thrust out Abiathar from being priest unto the LORD; that he might ^afulfil the word of the LORD, which he spake concerning the house of Eli in Shiloh.

28 Then tidings came to Joab: for Joab ^ahad turned after Adonijah, though he turned not after Absalom. And Joab fled unto the tabernacle of the LORD, and ^bcaught¹ hold on the horns of the altar.

29 And it was told king Solomon that Joab was fled unto the tabernacle of the LORD; and, behold, he is by the altar. Then Solomon sent Benaiah the son of Jehoiada, saying, Go, ^afall upon him.

30 And Benaiah came to the tabernacle of the LORD, and said unto him, Thus saith the king, ^aCome forth. And he said, Nay; but I will die here. And Benaiah brought the king word again, saying, Thus said Joab, and thus he answered me.

31 And the king said unto him, ^aDo as he hath said, and fall upon him, and bury him; ^bthat thou mayest take away the innocent blood, which Joab shed, from me, and from the house of my father.

32 And the LORD ^ashall return his ¹blood upon his own head, who fell upon two men more righteous ^band better than he, and slew them with the sword, my father David not knowing thereof; to wit, ^aAbner the son of Ner, captain of the host of Israel, and ^aAmasa the son of Jether, captain of the host of Judah.

33 Their blood shall therefore return upon the head of Joab, and ^aupon the head of his seed for ever: ^bbut upon David, and upon his seed, and upon his house, and upon his throne, shall there be peace for ever from the LORD.

34 So Benaiah the son of Jehoiada went up, and fell upon him, and slew him: and he was buried in his own house in the wilderness.

2:26, 27. Abiathar had participated in Adonijah's plot to seize the throne (1:7). Because he had previously supported David (2 Sam. 15:24-29, 35), his life was spared. His banishment from the active priesthood fulfilled the prophecy concerning the house of Eli (1 Sam. 2:30-35).

2:28-34. Joab's guilt could not secure protection for him at the horns of the altar. See the note on 1:49-53.

35 And the king put Benaiah the son of Jehoiada in his room over the host: and ^aZadok the priest did the king put in the room of ^bAbiathar.

Shimei Dwells in Jerusalem

36 And the king sent and called for ^aShimei, and said unto him, Build thee an house in Jerusalem, and dwell there, and ¹go not forth thence any whither.

37 For it shall be, that on the day thou goest out, and passest over ^athe brook Kidron, thou shalt know for certain that thou shalt surely die: ^bthy ¹blood shall be upon thine own head.

38 And Shimei said unto the king, The saying is good: as my lord the king hath said, so will thy servant do. And Shimei dwelt in Jerusalem many days.

39 And it came to pass at the end of three years, that two of the servants of Shimei ran away unto ^aAchish son of Maachah king of Gath. And they told Shimei, saying, Behold, thy servants be in Gath.

40 And Shimei arose, and saddled his ass, and went to Gath to Achish to seek his servants: and Shimei went, and brought his servants from Gath.

41 And it was told Solomon that Shimei had gone from Jerusalem to Gath, and was come again.

42 And the king sent and called for Shimei, and said unto him, Did I not make thee to swear by the LORD, and ¹protested unto thee, saying, Know for a certain, on the day thou goest out, and walkest abroad any whither, that thou shalt surely die? and thou saidst unto me, The word that I have heard is good.

43 Why then hast thou not kept the oath of the LORD, and the

Shimei's Death Ordered

46 So the king commanded Benaiah the son of Jehoiada; which went out, and fell upon him, that he died. And the ^akingdom was established in the hand of Solomon.

In League with Pharaoh

3 And ^aSolomon made ¹affinity with Pharaoh king of Egypt, and took Pharaoh's daughter, and brought her ^binto the city of David, until he had made an end of building his ^cown house, and ^athe house of the LORD, and ^athe wall of Jerusalem round about.

2 ^aOnly ¹the people sacrificed in high places, because there was no house built unto the name of the LORD, until those days.

3 And Solomon ^aloved the LORD, ^bwalking in the statutes of David his father: only he sacrificed and burnt incense in high places.

4 And ^athe king went to Gibeon to sacrifice there; ^bfor that was the great high place: a thousand burnt offerings did Solomon offer upon that altar.

5 ^aIn Gibeon the LORD appeared to Solomon ^bin a dream by night: and God said, Ask what I shall give thee.

2:46. Shimei's action violated the king's explicit command, which was designed to keep Shimei from gaining a base of possible support for an insurrection (v. 37). Therefore, for this and his long-standing offenses, he was executed.

3:1. The marrying of a princess of one royal house to someone in a foreign royal family customarily sealed a political alliance in the ancient Near East. (See the note on 2 Sam. 5:13-15.) However, the giving of Pharaoh's daughter to a foreign king is virtually without precedent (but cf. 1 Chr. 4:18). The fact that the king of Egypt did so testifies to his respect for Solomon.

3:2, 3. The high places were open-air sanctuaries found on hilltops (13:32) or in special sacred enclosures (Jer. 7:31). The basic problem with the high places was that they too easily became spots where the religious practices of Canaan could creep into Israel's worship experience (cf. Deut. 12:12-14; Jer. 2:20).

3:4. The tabernacle was in Gibeon (1 Chr. 16:39, 40; 2 Chr. 1:3). The ark, however, had been taken to Jerusalem (2 Sam. 6:12-17).

Solomon Asks for Wisdom

6 ^aAnd Solomon said, Thou hast shewed unto thy servant David my father great mercy, according as he ^bwalked before thee in truth, and in righteousness, and in uprightness of heart with thee; and thou hast kept for him this great kindness, that thou ^chast given him a son to sit on his throne, as it is this day.

7 And now, O LORD my God, thou hast made thy servant king instead of David my father: and I am but a ^alittle child: I know not how ^bto go out or come in.

8 And thy servant is in the midst of thy people which thou ^ahast chosen, a great people, ^bthat cannot be numbered nor counted for multitude.

9 Give therefore thy servant an ¹understanding heart ^bto judge thy people, that I may ^cdiscern between good and bad: for who is able to judge this thy so great a people?

10 And the speech pleased the LORD, that Solomon had asked this thing.

11 And God said unto him, Because thou hast asked this thing, and hast ^anot asked for thyself long life; neither hast asked riches for thyself, nor hast asked the life of thine enemies; but hast asked for thyself understanding to discern ¹judgment;

12 ^aBehold, I have done according to thy words: ^blo, I have given thee a wise and an understanding heart; so that there was none like thee before thee, neither after thee shall any arise like unto thee.

13 And I have also ^agiven thee that which thou hast not asked, both ^briches, and honour: so that there shall not be ¹any among the kings like unto thee all thy days.

14 And ^aif thou wilt walk in my ways, to keep my statutes and my commandments, ^bas thy father David did walk, then I will ^clengthen¹ thy days.

A Dead and a Living Child

16 Then came there two women, that were harlots, unto the king, and ^astood before him.

17 And the one woman said, O my lord, I and this woman dwell in one house; and I was delivered of a child with her in the house.

18 And it came to pass the third day after that I was delivered, that this woman was delivered also: and we were together; there was no ¹stranger with us in the house, save we two in the house.

19 And this woman's child died in the night; because she ¹overlaid it.

20 And she arose at midnight, and took my son from beside me, while thine handmaid slept, and laid it in her bosom, and laid her dead child in my bosom.

21 And when I rose in the morning to give my child suck, behold, it was dead: but when I had considered it in the morning, behold, it was not my son, which I did bear.

22 And the other woman said, Nay; but the living is my son, and the dead is thy son. And this said, No; but the dead is thy son, and the living is my son. Thus they spake before the king.

Solomon's Wise Decision

23 Then said the king, The one saith, This is my son that liveth, and thy son is the dead: and the other saith, Nay; but thy son is the dead, and my son is the living.

24 And the king said, Bring me a sword. And they brought a sword before the king.

3:12. Wisdom and justice were highly esteemed qualities for a good king in the ancient Near East (Prov.

20:26; 21:1-3). They would be a distinguishing mark of the messianic King (Is. 9:6, 7; 11:1-5; Jer. 23:5, 6). Solomon's wisdom will be tested immediately (vv. 16-28). It will be demonstrated often (cf. 4:29-34; 10:1-13, 23, 24).

26 Then spake the woman whose ¹the living child was unto the king, for ^aher² bowels yearned upon her son, and she said, O my lord, give her the living child, and in no wise slay it. But the other said, Let it be neither mine nor thine, but divide it.

27 Then the king answered and said, Give her the living child, and in no wise slay it: she is the mother thereof.

28 And all Israel heard of the judgment which the king had judged; and they feared the king: for they saw that the ^awisdom of God was in him, to do judgment.

Solomon's Princes

4 So king Solomon was king over all Israel.

2 And these were the princes which he had; Azariah the son of Zadok the priest,

3 Elihoreph and Ahiah, the sons of Shisha, ¹scribes; ^aJehoshaphat the son of Ahilud, the recorder.

4 And ^aBenaiah the son of Jehoiada was over the host: and Zadok and ^bAbiathar were the priests:

4:1. Verses 1-6 constitute a list of Solomon's chief administrators.

4:7. Verses 7-19 contain a roster of Solomon's district governors.

4:20. The great growth and prosperity of Solomon's kingdom attest the faithfulness of God in carrying out the provisions of the Abrahamic covenant through the line of David.

23 Ten fat oxen, and twenty oxen out of the pastures, and an hundred sheep, beside harts, and roebucks, and fallowdeer, and fatted fowl.

34 And ^athere came of all people to hear the wisdom of Solomon, from all kings of the earth, which had heard of his wisdom.

Hiram Sends Emissaries

5 And ^aHiram king of Tyre sent his servants unto Solomon; for he had heard that they had anointed him king in the room of his father: ^bfor Hiram was ever ^ba lover of David.

2 And ^aSolomon sent to Hiram, saying,

3 ^aThou knowest how that David my father could not build an house unto the name of the LORD his God ^bfor the wars which were about him on every side, until the LORD put ¹them under the soles of his feet.

4 But now the LORD my God hath given me ^arest¹ on every side, so that there is neither adversary nor ²evil occurrent.

5 ^aAnd, behold, ¹I purpose to build an house unto the name of the LORD my God, ^bas the LORD spake unto David my father, saying, Thy son, whom I will set upon thy throne in thy room, he shall build an house unto my name.

4:21-28. The wide dominion of Solomon's kingdom and the splendor of life at his court are clearly seen here (cf. 2 Chr. 9:26). The river (v. 21) is the Euphrates. The vine and fig tree (v. 25) symbolize the basic covenant with God and its attendant peace and prosperity (cf. Mic. 4:4; Zech. 3:10).

4:26. Forty thousand was probably miscopied for four thousand, which is read in some Greek manuscripts here and in 2 Chronicles 9:25.

4:29. Wisdom in the Old Testament begins with the fear of the Lord (Prov. 1:7; Eccl. 12:13, 14) and its wise application to every facet of life.

4:32. Wise Solomon wrote most of the proverbs. As for songs, two psalms (72 and 127) and the Song of Solomon are traditionally ascribed to Solomon. Solomon has also been credited traditionally with the writing of Ecclesiastes. Because of his vast knowledge and wisdom, his literary productions cover every area of life (v. 33), and Solomon is therefore sought out by people from all areas. Solomon's prestige and honor grew all the more (cf. 10:23, 24), and he became identified with wisdom itself (cf. Matt. 12:42).

5:1. The previous alliance between the Phoenician king and Israel in David's day was continued with Solomon (v. 12). Solomon's good relations with the Phoenicians added to the prosperity of his kingdom (cf. 10:22). The name Hiram is probably an abbreviation of Ahiram ("My Father Is Exalted"), a royal name known in the Phoenician inscriptions.

5:3-5. Although David was not permitted to build the temple (2 Sam. 7:13), he laid careful preparations for its erection (2 Sam. 24:18-25; 1 Chr. 21:18-22:19; 28:9-29:19).

6 Now therefore command thou that they hew me ^acedar trees out of Lebanon; and my servants shall be with thy servants: and unto thee will I ¹give hire for thy servants according to all that thou shalt ²appoint: for thou knowest that there is not among us any that ³can skill to hew timber like unto the Sidonians.

Hiram to Help Build the Temple

7 And it came to pass, when Hiram heard the words of Solomon, that he rejoiced greatly, and said, Blessed be the LORD this day, which hath given unto David a wise son over this great people.

8 And Hiram sent to Solomon, saying, I have considered the things which thou sentest to me for: and I will do all thy desire concerning timber of cedar, and concerning timber of fir.

9 My servants shall bring them down ^afrom Lebanon unto the sea: and I will convey them by sea in ¹floats unto the place that thou shalt ²appoint me, and will ³cause them to be discharged there, and thou shalt receive them: and thou shalt ⁴accomplish my desire, ^bin giving food for my household.

10 So Hiram gave Solomon cedar trees and fir trees according to all his desire.

11 ^aAnd Solomon gave Hiram twenty thousand ¹measures of wheat for food to his household, and twenty ¹measures of pure oil: thus gave Solomon to Hiram year by year.

 (April or May)

12 And the LORD gave Solomon wisdom, ^aas he promised him: and there was peace between Hiram and Solomon; and they two made a ¹league together.

Levy of Men

13 And king Solomon raised a ¹levy out of all Israel; and the ¹levy was thirty thousand men.

14 And he sent them to Lebanon, ten thousand a month ¹by courses: a month they were in Lebanon, and two months at home: and ^aAdoniram was over the ²levy.

15 ^aAnd Solomon had threescore and ten thousand that bare burdens, and fourscore thousand ¹hewers in the mountains;

16 Beside the ^achief of Solomon's officers which were over the work, three thousand and three hundred, which ¹ruled over the people that wrought in the work.

17 And the king commanded, and they brought great stones, costly stones, and ^ahewed stones, to lay the foundation of the ¹house.

18 And Solomon's builders and Hiram's builders did hew them, and the ¹stonesquarers: so they prepared timber and stones to build the ²house.

Construction of the Temple

6 And ^ait came to pass in the four hundred and eightieth year after the children of Israel were come out of the land of Egypt, in the fourth year of Solomon's reign over Israel, in the month ¹Zif, which is the 5:7–10. Hiram not only provided for Solomon the fabled cedars from Lebanon, but he brought them to him and sent along skilled craftsmen to labor in the erection of the temple (v. 18). The whole venture was profitable for Hiram as well (v. 11).

5:13, 14. The instituting of forced labor by conscription (without pay) for work on public projects, while common in the ancient Near East, was an innovation in Israel. It would prove to be a source of irritation and complaint for the northern tribes (12:4). Samuel had given a prophetic warning concerning this social institution (1 Sam. 8:11–17).

5:15, 16. The large work force detailed here was made up of non-Israelites and constituted a permanent group of slave laborers (cf. 9:22; 2 Chr. 2:17, 18). Second Chronicles 2:2 and 18 record the number of supervisors as 3,600 Canaanites. To these were added 250 Israelite chief overseers (2 Chr. 8:10). First Kings

9:23 reports that there were some 550 chief overseers in addition to the 3,300 Canaanite supervisors mentioned here in verse 16. Apparently the total number of supervisors and chief overseers was 3,850. Of the chief overseers, three hundred were Canaanites and 250 were Israelites.

5:17, 18. These large foundation stones were cut to perfect size while still at the quarry (6:7).

6:1. Since the division of the kingdom can accurately be given as 931 B.C., the beginning of Solomon's 40-year reign (11:42) would be 971 B.C. Accordingly, the fourth year would be 967 B.C. Adding the 480 years given here to 967 gives a date of 1447 B.C. for the date of Israel's Exodus from Egypt. Thus, a literal reading of verse 1 demands an early date for the Exodus as opposed to a thirteenth-century date favored by many scholars.

second month, that ^bhe began to build the house of the LORD.

2 And ^athe house which king Solomon built for the LORD, the length thereof was threescore cubits, and the breadth thereof twenty cubits, and the height thereof thirty cubits.

3 And the porch before the ¹temple of the house, twenty cubits was the length thereof, according to the breadth of the house; and ten cubits was the breadth thereof before the house.

4 And for the house he made *a*windows of narrow lights.

5 And against the wall of the ¹house he built *a*chambers round about, against the walls of the house round about, both of the ²temple ^band of the ³oracle: and he made chambers round about:

6 The ¹nethermost chamber was five cubits broad, and the middle was six cubits broad, and the third was seven cubits broad: for without in the wall of the ²house he made ³narrowed rests round about, that the beams should not be fastened in the walls of the house.

7 And ^athe house, when it was in building, was built of stone made ready before it was brought thither: so that there was neither hammer nor ax nor any tool of iron heard in the house, while it was in building.

8 The door for the middle chamber was in the right side of the house: and they went up with winding stairs into the middle chamber; and out of the middle into the third.

9 So he built the ¹house, and finished it; and covered the house ²with beams and boards of cedar.

A Covenant Reminder

11 And the word of the LORD came to Solomon, saying,

12 Concerning this ¹house which thou art in building, *a*if thou wilt walk in my statutes, and execute my judgments, and keep all my commandments to walk in them; then will I perform my ²word with thee, ^bwhich I spake unto David thy father:

13 And ^aI will dwell among the children of Israel, and will not ^bfor-sake my people Israel.

14 So Solomon built the house, and finished it.

15 And he built the walls of the house within with boards of cedar, ¹both the floor of the house, and the walls of the ceiling; and he covered them on the inside with wood, and covered the floor of the house with planks of fir.

16 And he built twenty cubits on the sides of the house, both the floor and the walls with boards of cedar: he even built them for it within, even for the oracle, even for the ^amost holy place.

17 And the house, that is, the temple before it, was forty cubits long.

18 And the cedar of the house within was carved with ¹knops and open flowers: all was cedar; there was no stone seen.

19 And the ¹oracle he prepared in the house within, to set there the ark of the covenant of the LORD.

6:2. The temple is called a house, for it was the place where a transcendent, sovereign, and holy God condescended to dwell with His people. The basic plan of the temple was that of the previous tabernacle except for the doubling of the length and width of the sanctuary and the increasing of its height. For the temple site, see the note on 2 Samuel 24:24.

6:3. The porch was situated before the front of the temple on its east side. According to 7:21, at the side of the entrance to the porch were erected two freestanding pillars. The pillar on the right or south side was named Jachin; the one on the left or north side was named Boaz (cf. 2 Chr. 3:15–17). The directions given with regard to the temple are from God's vantage point in the Holy of Holies (Most Holy Place), looking outward from west to east.

6:5–10. These verses describe the three-storied side rooms.

6:11–13. Since it is recorded that the LORD appeared personally only three times to Solomon (3:5; 9:2; 11:11), these words probably came to Solomon by a prophet.

6:14. Verse 14 deals with completing the exterior of the structure. Verses 15–35 have to do with the interior arrangements, beginning with the interior walls and flooring.

6:16–22. Like the tabernacle, the Holy of Holies was partitioned off from the Holy Place. Within the Most Holy Place rested the ark of the covenant (v. 19), the symbol of God's reigning presence among His people.

20 And the oracle in the forepart was twenty cubits in length, and twenty cubits in breadth, and twenty cubits in the height thereof: and he overlaid it with pure gold; and so covered the altar which was of cedar.

The House Overlaid with Gold

21 So Solomon overlaid the house within with pure gold: and he made a partition by the chains of gold before the oracle; and he overlaid it with gold.

22 And the whole house he overlaid with gold, until he had finished all the house: also ^athe whole altar that was by the oracle he overlaid with gold.

The Cherubims

23 And within the oracle ^ahe made two cherubims of olive ¹tree, each ten cubits high.

24 And five cubits was the one wing of the cherub, and five cubits the other wing of the cherub: from the uttermost part of the one wing unto the uttermost part of the other were ten cubits.

25 And the other cherub was ten cubits: both the cherubims were of one measure and one size.

26 The height of the one cherub was ten cubits, and so was it of the other cherub.

27 And he set the cherubims within the inner ¹house: and ^athey stretched forth the wings of the cherubims, so that the wing of the one touched the one wall, and the wing of the other cherub touched the other wall; and their wings touched one another in the midst of the house.

28 And he overlaid the cherubims with gold.

29 And he carved all the walls of the house round about with carved

30 And the floor of the house he overlaid with gold, within and without.

31 And for the entering of the oracle he made doors of olive tree: the lintel and side posts were ¹a fifth part of the wall.

32 The two doors also were of olive tree; and he carved upon them carvings of cherubims and palm trees and open flowers, and overlaid them with gold, and spread gold upon the cherubims, and upon the palm trees.

33 So also made he for the door of the ¹temple posts of olive tree, ²a fourth part of the wall.

34 And the two doors were of ¹fir tree: the ^atwo ²leaves of the one door were folding, and the two ³leaves of the other door were folding.

35 And he carved thereon cherubims and palm trees and open flowers: and covered them with gold fitted upon the carved work.

The Inner Court

36 And he built the ^ainner court with three rows of hewed stone, and a row of cedar beams.

37 ^aIn the fourth year was the foundation of the house of the LORD laid, in the month ¹Zif:

38 And in the eleventh year, in the month ¹Bul, which is the eighth month, was the house finished ²throughout all the parts thereof, and according to all the fashion of it. So was he ^aseven years in building it.

A House for Solomon

7 But Solomon was building his own house ^athirteen years, and he finished all his house.

6:23-28. According to 2 Chronicles 3:13, these two tall gold-covered cherubim faced the door. The cherubim symbolized the awesome holiness of the sovereign God.

6:31-35. The olive wood doors were made for access between the Holy of Holies and the Holy Place. Still larger double-leaved doors made of fir were placed at the entrance to the Holy Place. Second Chronicles 3:14 mentions that a curtain was also in place between the Holy Place and the Holy of Holies, perhaps reminiscent of the inner veil of the tabernacle (Ex. 26:31-36).

6:36. The inner court surrounding the temple was also called the court of the priests (2 Chr. 4:9), for access to it was restricted to the priestly orders. For the outer or great court, to which all of the people were admitted, see the note on 7:12.

7:1. The time required to finish Solomon's house was nearly twice as long as the time for the temple,

2 He built also the ^ahouse of the forest of Lebanon; the length thereof was an ¹hundred cubits, and the breadth thereof ²fifty cubits, and the height thereof thirty cubits, upon four rows of cedar pillars, with cedar beams upon the pillars.

3 And it was ¹covered with cedar above upon the beams, that lay on forty five pillars, fifteen in a row.

4 And there were windows in three rows, and ¹light was against light in three ²ranks.

5 And all the ¹doors and posts were square, with the windows: and light was against light in three ranks.

6 And he made a ¹porch of pillars; the length thereof was fifty cubits, and the breadth thereof thirty cubits: and the ²porch was before them: and the other pillars and ³the thick beam were before them.

7 Then he made a porch for the throne where he might judge, even the porch of judgment: and it was covered with cedar ¹from one side of the floor to the other.

8 And his house where he dwelt had another court within the porch, which was of the like work. Solomon made also an house for Pharaoh's daughter, ^awhom he had taken to wife, like unto this ¹porch.

Costly Stones

9 All these were of costly stones, according to the measures of hewed stones, sawed with saws, within and without, even from the foundation unto the coping, and so on the outside toward the great court.

10 And the foundation was of costly stones, even great stones, stones of ten cubits, and stones of eight cubits.

11 And above were costly stones, after the measures of hewed stones, and cedars.

12 And the great court round about was with three rows of hewed stones, and a row of cedar beams, both for the ^ainner court of the house of the LORD, ^band for the porch of the house.

due to the many buildings that made up the palace complex. According to 9:10, Solomon had apparently finished the temple before undertaking the construction of his palace and its surrounding buildings, because 20 years is given as the time for the whole project. Solomon had put God's house before that of his own. (By way of contrast, cf. Hag. 1:4.) The architectural descriptions of the temple and the various edifices of the palace complex have been illuminated by ongoing archaeological excavations in Syro-Palestine and southern Turkey.

7:2-8. The sequence of buildings in the palace complex is given in the order of approach to the palace: verses 2-5, the house of the forest of Lebanon (apparently used as an armory, cf. 10:16, 17 with Is. 22:8); verse 6, the porch of pillars (apparently a colonnaded entry hall); verse 7, the porch of judgment (or throne hall, used as a place of justice where the king personally heard problem cases); and verse 8, a special palace for Pharaoh's daughter (cf. 9:24 and the note on 3:1). The chronicler adds that Pharaoh's daughter was quartered in a private residence due to the sacredness of Solomon's palace because of its reception of the ark of God (2 Chr. 8:11). See further the note on 1 Samuel 4:3.

7:12. The great court was a large outer court that encircled the entire temple and palace complex. The inner court surrounded the temple. (See the note on 6:36.) According to 2 Kings 11:19, access from the palace complex to the temple led through a gate called the gate of the guard.

7:13, 14. This Hiram is not the Phoenician king but a skilled craftsman from Tyre. His mother was an Israelite who had married a Phoenician artisan, from whom young Hiram had doubtless learned his craft. Hiram had become a master craftsman in his own right. See the notes on 2 Chronicles 2:13, 14.

line of twelve cubits³ did compass either of them about.

16 And he made two¹ chapiters of molten brass, to set upon the tops of the pillars: the height of the one chapter was five cubits, and the height of the other chapter was five cubits:

17 And nets of checker work, and wreaths of chain work, for the chapiters which were upon the top of the pillars; seven for the one chapter, and seven for the other chapter.

18 And he made the pillars, and two rows round about upon the one network, to cover the chapiters that were upon the top, with pomegranates: and so did he for the other chapter.

19 And the chapiters that were upon the top of the pillars were of lily work in the porch, four cubits.

20 And the chapiters upon the two pillars had pomegranates also above,¹ over against the belly which was by the network: and the pomegranates were ^atwo hundred in rows round about upon the other chapter.

21 ^aAnd he set up the pillars in the porch of the temple: and he set up the right pillar, and called the name thereof¹ Jachin: and he set up the left pillar, and called the name thereof² Boaz.

22 And upon the top of the pillars was lily work: so was the work of the pillars finished.

26 And it was an hand breadth thick, and the brim thereof was wrought like the brim of a cup, with flowers of lilies: it contained ^atwo thousand baths.

Ten Bases of Brass

27 And he made ten ¹bases of brass; four cubits was the length of one base, and four cubits the breadth thereof, and three cubits the height of it.

28 And the work of the bases was on this manner: they had borders, and the borders were between the ledges:

30 And every base had four brasen wheels, and ¹plates of brass: and the four corners thereof had ²undersetters: under the laver were undersetters molten, at the side of every addition.

31 And the mouth of it within the chapter and above was a cubit: but the mouth thereof was round after the work of the base, a cubit and an

7:15–22. The nature of the two pillars of brass before the porch of the temple (cf. 2 Chr. 3:17) has been abundantly illustrated by excavations from all areas dealing with the ancient Near East. Their names, Jachin (“He Establishes”) and Boaz (“In Him Is Strength”), may well reflect Solomon’s humble dependence upon God, the Author of the Davidic covenant. The accuracy of the height of the two pillars is confirmed by a comparison with 2 Kings 25:17 and Jeremiah 52:21. The measurement given in 2 Chronicles 3:15 was apparently miscopied.

7:23–39. The molten sea was cast in one bronze piece by Hiram. It was set upon twelve bronze oxen (or bulls), which were later removed by Ahaz who replaced them with a stone base (2 Kin. 16:17). The sea took the place of the laver of the tabernacle and was used for the ritual washing of the priests. Five moveable bronze basins stood on either side of the molten sea, which were used for the rinsing of the burnt offerings (cf. Ex. 30:17–21 with 2 Chr. 4:6). The quantity of water held by the molten sea is given here as two thousand baths, probably the correct figure in the light of its measurements. The “three thousand baths” of 2 Chronicles 4:5 was probably miscopied.

half: and also upon the mouth of it were ¹gravings with their borders, foursquare, not round.

32 And under the borders were four wheels; and the axletrees of the wheels were joined to the base: and the height of a wheel was a cubit and half a cubit.

33 And the work of the wheels was like the work of a chariot wheel: their axletrees, and their ¹naves, and their ²felloes, and their spokes, were all ³molten.

34 And there were four undersetters to the four corners of one base: and the undersetters were of the very base itself.

35 And in the top of the base was there a round compass of half a cubit high: and on the top of the base the ledges thereof and the borders thereof were of the same.

36 For on the plates of the ledges thereof, and on the borders thereof, he graved cherubims, lions, and palm trees, ¹according to the proportion of every one, and additions round about.

37 After this manner he made the ten bases: all of them had ¹one casting, one measure, and one size.

Works of Brass

38 Then ^amade he ten lavers of brass: one laver contained forty baths: and every laver was four cubits: and upon every one of the ten bases one laver.

39 And he put five bases on the right side of the house, and five on the left side of the house: and he set the sea on the right side of the house eastward over against the south.

7:48-50. These are items for the Holy Place of the temple. The altar of gold replaced the altar of incense in the tabernacle (Ex. 30:2-4). The table of gold was equivalent to the table of the showbread (Ex. 25:23-40). Although only one table is mentioned here, there were actually 10 such tables (2 Chr. 4:8). Apparently the 10, together with their articles, were considered as one unit (cf. 2 Chr. 29:18). Instead of the one golden lampstand of the tabernacle (Ex. 25:31-40), 10 lampstands were set in the Holy Place of the temple.

The Ark Brought from the City of David

8 Then ^aSolomon assembled the elders of Israel, and all the heads of the tribes, the chief of the fathers of the children of Israel, unto king Solomon in Jerusalem, ^bthat they might bring ^cup the ark of the covenant of the LORD out of the city of David, which is Zion.

2 And all the men of Israel assembled themselves unto king Solomon at the ^afeast in the month ¹Ethanim, which is the seventh month.

3 And all the elders of Israel came, ^aand the priests took up the ark.

4 And they brought up the ark of the LORD, ^aand the ¹tabernacle of the congregation, and all the holy vessels that were in the tabernacle, even those did the priests and the Levites bring up.

5 And king Solomon, and all the congregation of Israel, that were assembled unto him, were with him before the ark, ^asacrificing sheep and oxen, that could not be told nor numbered for multitude.

The Glory of the Lord

10 And it came to pass, when the priests were come out of the holy place, that the cloud ^afilled the house of the LORD,

11 So that the priests could not stand to minister because of the cloud: for the ^aglory of the LORD had filled the house of the LORD.

Solomon's Speech to Israel

12 ^aThen spake Solomon, The LORD said that he would dwell ^bin the thick ¹darkness.

13 ^aI have surely built thee ¹an house to dwell in, ^b^a settled place for thee to abide in for ever.

14 And the king turned his face about, and ^ablessed all the congregation of Israel: (and all the congregation of Israel stood;)

8:4. For the significance of the ark of the covenant, see the note on 6:16-22. Although the ark was now in permanent residence, the final abiding presence of God among His people would not occur here in Solomon's temple (cf. Ezek. 10:18, 19; 11:22, 23). The chronicler reports that the bringing in of the ark was accompanied by great rejoicing, praise, and song (2 Chr. 5:11-13).

8:9. Only the two tables of stone were now kept within the ark (cf. Heb. 9:4). The presence of the tables of stone, on which were written the Ten Commandments, was a constant reminder of God's covenant with the children of Israel to make them a holy nation and a kingdom of priests (cf. Ex. 19:6, 9; Deut. 5).

8:10-12. As the glory of the LORD had filled the tabernacle at its inauguration (Ex. 40:34, 35), so also it fills the temple. Rabbinic scholars spoke of the visible presence of God's dwelling with His people as the shekinah glory. The shekinah glory had been with Israel at Sinai, had gone with them through the wilderness wanderings, and had led them into the Promised Land. Although it would later leave the temple (Ezek. 10:18, 19), it would return to the millennial temple (Ezek. 43:1-5) and to His redeemed people Israel (Is. 4:5). However, before that future day, God again tabernacled among His people in the person of His Son, Jesus Christ (John 1:14) who, having secured man's redemption, now dwells within the believer, whom He has taken into union with Himself (Col. 1:15-22, 27; 2:9, 10). Ultimately all believers will enjoy God's presence throughout all eternity (Rev. 21:2, 3). Note that as "the glory of the LORD had filled" both tabernacle and temple at their inauguration, so the Holy Spirit came in visible power to the church at its inception (Acts 2:1-4).

8:12-21. Solomon's dedicatory address (cf. 2 Chr. 6:1-42) takes the form of praise to God for His faithfulness to His people and to the terms of the covenant with David. All that Solomon had accomplished had really been done by God's hand (v. 15).

15 And he said, “Blessed be the LORD God of Israel, which ^bspake with his mouth unto David my father, and hath with his hand fulfilled it, saying, 16 Since the day that I brought forth my people Israel out of Egypt, I chose no city out of all the tribes of Israel to build an house, that “my name might be therein; but I chose ^bDavid to be over my people Israel.

17 And “it was in the heart of David my father to build an house for the name of the LORD God of Israel.

18 “And the LORD said unto David my father, Whereas it was in thine heart to build an house unto my name, thou didst well that it was in thine heart.

19 Nevertheless “thou shalt not build the house; but thy son that shall come forth out of thy loins, he shall build the house unto my name.

20 And the LORD hath performed his word that he spake, and I ¹am risen up in the room of David my father, and sit on the throne of Israel, “as the LORD promised, and have built an house for the name of the LORD God of Israel.

21 And I have set there a place for the ark, wherein is “the covenant of the LORD, which he made with our fathers, when he brought them out of the land of Egypt.

God Asked to Hearken to Israel

28 Yet ¹have thou respect unto the prayer of thy servant, and to his supplication, O LORD my God, to hearken unto the cry and to the prayer, which thy servant prayeth before thee to day:

8:22–53. According to 2 Chronicles 6:13, Solomon had a tall scaffold erected, so the people might see him clearly as he knelt before God in prayer. Solomon's dedicatory prayer (cf. 2 Chr. 6:12–42) stresses God's faithfulness (vv. 22–25) and the continuing need for His presence in mighty power among them (vv. 26–30). He follows his twofold general prayer with seven specific requests: (1) for His righteous judgment (vv. 31, 32); (2) for His forgiveness of sin after defeat by the enemy (vv. 33, 34); (3) for healing of the land in time of drought (vv. 35, 36); (4) for removal of various distresses in the land (vv. 37–40); (5) for hearing the prayer of the non-Israelites (vv. 41–43); (6) for hearing the prayer of soldiers sent off to foreign wars (vv. 44, 45); and (7) for hearing the prayer of His people when their sin has taken them into captivity (vv. 46–53). The chronicler reports that Solomon closed his dedicatory prayer with a plea for God's salvation and goodness to be realized by His people, and with the invoking of God's grace so as to remember the mercies of David (2 Chr. 6:40–42).

IMMENSITY OF GOD

8:27. Applied to God, immensity means that God cannot be limited by space and is in fact beyond space. Space is the area where physical reality (matter) and being (energy) exist, and to that degree is limited. Where space ends, God still persists infinitely beyond all limits. (First Reference, Gen. 1:1; Primary Reference, 1 Kin. 8:27; cf. Deut. 6:4.)

Solomon Dedicates the Temple

62 And ^athe king, and all Israel with him, offered sacrifice before the LORD.

63 And Solomon offered a sacrifice of peace offerings, which he offered unto the LORD, two and twenty thousand oxen, and an hundred and twenty thousand sheep. So the king and all the children of Israel dedicated the house of the LORD.

64 ^aThe same day did the king ¹hallow the middle of the court that

8:54-61. Solomon capped off his prayer with a dedicatory blessing on the congregation of Israel. In doing so he praises God for giving rest unto his people (vv. 54, 56; cf. Deut. 12:9-25). However, due to Israel's sin, that rest was incomplete (cf. Ps. 95:7-11) and would be entered into only through the Messiah, Jesus Christ (Heb. 3, 4). Solomon again invokes God's continued presence with His people (vv. 57, 58), working out His good pleasure through them to all men (vv. 59-61), and closes his prayer with a challenge to Israel to be perfect with the LORD, that is, fully and wholly committed to His person and standards (cf. Matt. 5:48) for a growing spiritual maturity. The chronicler reports that Solomon's prayer and benediction were greeted with the coming of fire from heaven to consume the sacrifice on the altar (2 Chr. 7:1-3).

8:62-65. The dedication ends with many special sacrifices. All of this took place at the Feast of Tabernacles (v. 2), which was lengthened to two weeks to make this a double festal period.

66 ^aOn the eighth day he sent the people away: and they ¹blest the king, and went unto their tents joyful and glad of heart for all the goodness that the LORD had done for David his servant, and for Israel his people.

Gifts of Solomon and Hiram

10 And ^ait came to pass at the end of twenty years, when Solomon had built the two houses, the house of the LORD, and the king's house,

11 ^a(Now Hiram the king of Tyre had furnished Solomon with cedar trees and fir trees, and with gold, according to all his desire,) that then king Solomon gave Hiram twenty cities in the land of Galilee.

12 And Hiram came out from Tyre to see the cities which Solomon had given him; and they pleased him not.

13 And he said, What cities are these which thou hast given me, my 9:2. God had appeared to Solomon previously at Gibeon (3:5). (See the note on 6:11-13.) Additional details as to God's challenge to Solomon on this occasion are recorded in 2 Chronicles 7:11-22.

9:3-9. The LORD formally applies the terms of the Davidic covenant to Solomon with the reminder that although the covenant is unconditional, the blessings of that covenant are individually realizable only through the son of David, who is faithful and obedient. See the note on 2 Samuel 7:12-16.

9:13. Hiram was dissatisfied with Solomon's pay-brother? ^aAnd he called them the land of ¹Cabul unto this day.

14 And Hiram sent to the king six-score talents of gold.

15 And this is the reason of ^athe ¹levy which king Solomon raised; for to build the house of the LORD, and his own house, and ^bMillo, and the wall of Jerusalem, and ^cHazor, and ^dMegiddo, and ^eGezer.

16 For Pharaoh king of Egypt had gone up, and taken Gezer, and burnt it with fire, ^aand slain the Canaanites that dwelt in the city, and given it for a present unto his daughter, Solomon's wife.

17 And Solomon built Gezer, and ^aBeth-horon the nether,

18 And ^aBaalath, and Tadmor in the wilderness, in the land,

19 And all the cities of store that Solomon had, and cities for ^ahis chariots, and cities for his ^bhorsemen, and that which Solomon ^cdesired to build in Jerusalem, and in Lebanon, and in all the land of his dominion.

21 Their children ^athat were left after them in the land, ^bwhom the children of Israel also were not able utterly to destroy, ^cupon those did Solomon ¹levy a tribute of ^dbondservice unto this day.

Solomon's Navy

26 And ^aking Solomon made a navy of ships in ^bEzion-geber, which is beside Eloth, on the shore of the Red sea, in the land of Edom.

27 ^aAnd Hiram sent in the navy his servants, shipmen that had knowledge of the sea, with the servants of Solomon.

10 And when the ^aqueen of Sheba heard of the fame of Solomon concerning the name of the LORD, she came ^bto prove him with hard questions.

ment to him in border towns and so returned their jurisdiction to him (cf. 2 Chr. 8:2). The traditional meaning of Cabul comes from Josephus, who reads the word kabal "as nothing." Apparently some other means of payment must have been agreed upon, for the two kings remained friends.

9:15. For Millo (cf. v. 24), see the note on 2 Samuel 5:9. Hazor, Megiddo, and Gezer, along with Jerusalem, were key Solomonic cities. Each has been carefully excavated and shown to have common characteristics clearly datable to Solomon's era. These four cities held strategic importance not only militarily but commercially.

9:16. Gezer had never been taken by the tribe of Ephraim. It came under control of Israel as a wedding present from Pharaoh king of Egypt on the occasion of Solomon's wedding to the Pharaoh's daughter (cf. 3:1).

9:20-23. For Solomon's instituting of forced labor, see the notes on 5:13, 14 and 5:15, 16.

9:24. For the separate palace for Pharaoh's daughter, see the note on 7:2-8.

9:25. Three times in a year refers to the three great national feasts: Unleavened Bread, Pentecost, and Tabernacles (cf. Deut. 16:16). The king led his people in bringing sacrifices. God's leader ought always to guide his people to a full worship experience.

9:26. Ezion-geber was situated at the head of the modern Gulf of Aqaba. Solomon's commercial enterprises with King Hiram of Tyre were doubtless very profitable for both men (cf. 10:11, 12; 2 Chr. 8:17, 18; 9:21).

9:28. The precise location of Ophir is unknown. It lay south through the Gulf of Aqaba and the Red Sea. Locations in Arabia, the Persian Gulf, eastern Africa, and India have been suggested. It may have been an important international center for commercial exchange.

10:1, 2. Sheba was the home of the Sabaeans who lived in the area of modern Yemen in southwestern

Solomon's Gold

14 Now the weight of gold that came to Solomon in one year was six hundred threescore and six talents of gold, Arabia. It was an important commercial area, famous for its trading in spices, perfumes, gold, and precious stones. The ancient south Arabians sent their wares overland to far distant places and enjoyed a virtual monopoly on many items, such as frankincense and myrrh. Solomon's well-known wisdom (4:34) may well have been carried there by sailors from Ezion-geber (9:26–28), or by their own merchants as they returned home. The queen of Sheba apparently wanted to validate the authenticity of Solomon's fabled wisdom (vv. 3, 4). Christ Himself commended her search for truth and knowledge, while castigating the scribes who should have recognized that in Christ the Messiah "a greater than Solomon" was in their midst (Matt. 12:42).

10:3. The queen of Sheba's hard questions (cf.

v. 1) were typical of Arabic thinking. The literature of Arabia is filled with many riddles and proverbs. Apparently her questions were not merely mental gymnastics but were born out of a sincere desire to learn (cf. v. 2).

10:4–7. The queen of Sheba was impressed not only by Solomon's great intelligence and knowledge, but by the practical end to which his wisdom had been applied.

10:8, 9. The queen recognized that all Solomon was and had, as possibly Solomon himself had testified, was from God.

10:14. In a sense, the rest of this chapter is an attestation to Solomon's God-given wisdom in action.

10:17. For the house of the forest of Lebanon, see the note on 7:2–8.

20 And twelve lions stood there on the one side and on the other upon the six steps: there was not the like made in any kingdom.

Solomon's Foreign Wives

11 But ^aking Solomon loved ^bmany strange women, ¹together with the daughter of Pharaoh, women of the Moabites, Ammonites, Edomites, Zidonians, and Hittites;

2 Of the nations concerning which the LORD said unto the children of Israel, ^aYe shall not go in to them, neither shall they come in unto you: for surely they will turn away your heart after their gods: Solomon ¹clave unto these in love.

3 And he had seven hundred wives, princesses, and three hundred concubines: and his wives turned away his heart.

10:22. A navy of Tharshish (or "Tarshish ships") probably designates a type of merchant ship designed to carry ore and precious commodities. Various ports in the ancient world were designated by similar names, such as Tartessus in southern Spain and a spot near Nora on the island of Sardinia. Isaiah connects Tharshish with Greek seafaring commerce (Is. 23:1; 66:19; cf. Gen. 10:4). Some have attempted to link similar trading enterprises to such faraway places as the western Mediterranean seaports, the Atlantic seaboard, or the western hemisphere. Solomon's Tharshish ships put out from Ezion-geber (9:26; 2 Chr. 8:17, 18). The Hebrew word traditionally translated as peacocks is probably better rendered "monkey" or "baboon."

10:23-25. The experience of the queen of Sheba (vv. 6, 7, 10) would be multiplied often. For Solomon's wisdom, see the notes on 3:12; 4:32; and 10:14.

10:26-29. Apparently Solomon was a merchandising middleman between Egypt to the south and Syria and Anatolia (modern Turkey) to the north (cf. 4:26; 2 Chr. 1:14, 17; 9:25, 28). The phrase and linen yarn was rendered as a place name in the ancient Greek and Latin versions. In a recently found Syrian inscription from the ninth century B.C., a land in southern Asia Minor known as Kue (or Que) was mentioned, a name that reflects precisely the reading of the Hebrew text. Accordingly, modern interpreters and recent translations have adopted the reading "from Kue." Kue was probably the same as the Cilicia of classical and New Testament literature (cf. Acts 6:9).

11:1-4. Solomon's power, prestige, and wealth became his undoing. The taking of foreign wives, whether in the making of alliances or in order to increase his harem, was not only a violation of the law of Moses (Ex. 34:12-17) but extremely dangerous spiritually. See the note on Judges 3:6, 7.

Solomon's Idolatry

4 For it came to pass, when Solomon was old, ^athat his wives turned away his heart after other gods: and his ^bheart was not ¹perfect with the LORD his God, ^cas was the heart of David his father.

5 For Solomon went after ^aAshtoreth the goddess of the Zidonians, and after ^bMilcom¹ the abomination of the ^cAmmonites.

6 And Solomon did evil in the sight of the LORD, and ¹went not fully after the LORD, as did David his father.

7 ^aThen did Solomon build ¹an high place for ^bChemosh, the abomination of Moab, in ^cthe hill that is before Jerusalem, and for Molech, the abomination of the children of Ammon.

8 And likewise did he for all his strange wives, which burnt incense and sacrificed unto their gods.

God's Anger

9 And the LORD was angry with Solomon, because his heart was turned from the LORD God of Israel, ^awhich had appeared unto him twice,

10 And ^ahad commanded him concerning this thing, that he should not go after other gods: but he kept not that which the LORD commanded.

11 Wherefore the LORD said unto Solomon, Forasmuch as ¹this is done of thee, and thou hast not kept my covenant and my statutes, which I have commanded thee, ^aI will surely ²rend the kingdom from thee, and will give it to thy ^bservant.

Solomon's Adversaries

14 And the LORD ^astirred¹ up an adversary unto Solomon, Hadad the Edomite: he was of the king's seed in Edom.

15 ^aFor it came to pass, when David was in Edom, and Joab the captain of the host was gone up to bury the slain, ^bafter he had ¹smitten every male in Edom;

16 (For six months did Joab remain there with all Israel, until he had cut off every male in Edom:)

17 That Hadad fled, he and certain Edomites of his father's servants with him, to go into Egypt; Hadad being yet a little child.

18 And they arose out of Midian, and came to Paran: and they took men with them out of Paran, and they came to Egypt, unto Pharaoh king of Egypt; which gave him an house, and ¹appointed him victuals, and gave him land.

19 And Hadad found great favour in the sight of Pharaoh, so that he gave him to wife the sister of his own wife, the sister of Tahpenes the queen.

20 And the sister of Tahpenes bare him Genubath his son, whom Tahpenes weaned in Pharaoh's house: and Genubath was in Pharaoh's household among the sons of Pharaoh.

21 ^aAnd when Hadad heard in Egypt that David ¹slept with his fathers, and that Joab the captain of the host was dead, Hadad said to Pharaoh, ²Let me depart, that I may go to mine own country.

11:5. For Ashtoreth, see the note on Judges 2:11-15.

11:7. For Molech, see the note on 2 Kings 23:10.

11:9. See the note on 6:11-13.

11:11-13. Solomon was doubly blameworthy. God had personally appeared to him twice (v. 9), to give him great wisdom and wealth (3:12, 13) and to instruct him explicitly in matters relative to the Davidic covenant (9:2-9). Despite Solomon's lack of fidelity, God would remain faithful. For the retaining of one tribe, see the note on verse 32.

11:14. The verses that follow set the scene for the division of the kingdom and the difficulties that would occur after Solomon's death (cf. vv. 11, 12).

11:14-22. Hadad had escaped the slaughter of the Edomite army in David's day (cf. 2 Sam. 8:13, 14; 1 Chr. 18:12, 13) and had made his way to Egypt. Pharaoh had received him well, perhaps so that after Solomon died, he would have a strong ally for himself and a hated enemy of Israel in Edom on Israel's strategic eastern border.

22 Then Pharaoh said unto him, But what hast thou lacked with me, that, behold, thou seekest to go to thine own country? And he answered, Nothing: howbeit let me go in ¹any wise.

23 And God ¹stirred him up another adversary, Rezon the son of Eliadah, which fled from his lord Hadadezer king of Zobah:

24 And he gathered men unto him, and became captain over a band, ^awhen David slew them of Zobah: and they went to Damascus, and dwelt therein, and reigned in Damascus.

25 And he was an adversary to Israel all the days of Solomon, beside the ¹mischief that Hadad did: and he abhorred Israel, and reigned over Syria.

26 And ^aJeroboam the son of Nebat, an Ephrathite of Zereda, Solomon's servant, whose mother's name was Zeruah, a widow woman, ^beven he ^clifted¹ up his hand against the king.

27 And this was the cause that he lifted up his hand against the king: Solomon built Millo, and ¹repaired the breaches of the city of David his father.

28 And the man Jeroboam was a mighty man of valour: and Solomon seeing the young man that he was ^aindustrious, he made him ruler over all the ¹charge of the house of Joseph.

29 And it came to pass at that time when Jeroboam went out of Jerusalem, that the prophet ^aAhijah the Shilonite found him in the way; and he had clad himself with a new garment; and they two were alone in the field:

34 Howbeit I will not take the whole kingdom out of his hand: but I will make him prince all the days of his life for David my servant's sake, whom I chose, because he kept my commandments and my statutes:

35 But ^aI will take the kingdom out of his son's hand, and will give it unto thee, even ten tribes.

36 And unto his son will I give one tribe, that ^aDavid my servant may have a ¹light alway before me in Jerusalem, the city which I have chosen me to put my name there.

11:23-25. A second adversary, an Aramaean named Rezon, had survived David's crushing defeat of the Aramaeans of Zobah and Damascus. He had managed to avoid Solomon's later thrusts against Zobah (2 Chr. 8:3, 4) and still later had managed to make himself king of Damascus.

11:26. Solomon's third adversary was Jeroboam, the son of Nebat, an Ephrathite with distinct leadership qualities (vv. 27, 28).

11:27. For Millo, see the note on 2 Samuel 5:9. For the corvée (or forced labor), see the note on 5:13, 14.

11:29-31. Although the prophet Ahijah predicted the division of the kingdom (cf. vv. 35, 37) and Jeroboam's kingship over the northern ten tribes, he would later pronounce judgment against the house of Jeroboam (14:2-16).

11:32. One tribe (cf. vv. 13, 36) probably means Judah plus one other. That second tribe has been variously understood as either Benjamin or Simeon. See the note on 12:20.

11:38, 39. Although Jeroboam is given a great opportunity to have a strong kingdom and good success do that is right in my sight, to keep my statutes and my commandments, as David my servant did; that ^aI will be with thee, and ^bbuild thee a sure house, as I built for David, and will give Israel unto thee.

39 And I will for this afflict the seed of David, but not for ever.

40 Solomon sought therefore to kill Jeroboam. And Jeroboam arose, and fled into Egypt, unto ^aShishak king of Egypt, and was in Egypt until the death of Solomon.

Solomon's Death and Burial

41 And ^athe rest of the acts of Solomon, and all that he did, and his wisdom, are they not written in the book of the acts of Solomon?

42 ^aAnd the time that Solomon reigned in Jerusalem over all Israel was forty years.

43 ^aAnd Solomon ¹slept with his fathers, and was buried in the city of David his father: and Rehoboam his son reigned in his ^bstead.

Rehoboam as King

12 And ^aRehoboam went to ^bShechem: for all Israel were come to Shechem to make him king.

2 And it came to pass, when ^aJeroboam the son of Nebat, who was yet in ^bEgypt, heard of it, (for he was fled from the presence of king Solomon, and Jeroboam dwelt in Egypt;)

5 And he said unto them, Depart yet for three days, then come again to me. And the people departed.

6 And king Rehoboam consulted with the old men, that stood before Solomon his father while he yet lived, and said, How do ye advise that I may answer this people?

7 And they spake unto him, saying, ^aIf thou wilt be a servant unto this people this day, and wilt serve them, and answer them, and speak good words to them, then they will be thy servants for ever.

8 But he forsook the counsel of the old men, which they had given him, and consulted with the young men that were grown up with him, and which stood before him:

9 And he said unto them, What counsel give ye that we may answer this people, who have spoken to me, saying, Make the yoke which thy father did put upon us lighter?

10 And the young men that were grown up with him spake unto him, saying, Thus shalt thou speak unto this people that spake unto thee, saying, Thy father made our yoke heavy, but make thou it lighter unto us; thus shalt thou say unto them, My little finger shall be thicker than my father's loins.

11 And now whereas my father did lade you with a heavy yoke, I will add to your yoke: my father hath chastised you with whips, but I will chastise you with scorpions.

if he would but serve the Lord, nevertheless he was informed beforehand that his kingdom, which he would found, would not last forever. God would remain true to the Davidic covenant. Although the house of David must be punished when it is disobedient, it will ultimately reign (cf. Gen. 49:10) through that One to whom the kingdom belongs.

11:40. Jeroboam probably attempted to hasten the implementation of the prophecy, thus incurring Solomon's wrath. Shishak was Pharaoh Sheshonq I (c. 945-924 B.C.) of Egypt's Twenty-second Dynasty. See the note on 14:25, 26.

12:1. All Israel refers to the representatives of the northern tribes. The fact that Rehoboam went to Shechem for recognition by all the tribes underscores the insecurity of his position. Shechem had a longstanding tradition of importance for the Hebrews that stretched back to the times of the patriarchs (cf. Gen. 12:6, 7).

12:4. The forced labor and heavy taxation needed to support the splendor of Solomon's vast enterprises were loathsome to the northern tribes. See the note on 5:13, 14.

12:11. Scorpions means the multi-tailed whips to which barbed points or hooks were attached. Their sting was as severe as that of a scorpion.

12:12. For the importance of the third day, see the note on 2 Kings 20:8.

13 And the king answered the people ¹roughly, and ²forsook the old men's ³counsel that they gave him;

14 And spake to them ¹after the counsel of the young men, saying, My father made your yoke heavy, and I will add to your yoke: my father also chastised you with whips, but I will chastise you with ²scorpions.

15 Wherefore the king ¹hearkened not unto the people; for ^athe ²cause was from the LORD, that he might perform his saying, which the LORD ^bspake by Ahijah the Shilonite unto Jeroboam the son of Nebat.

Ten Tribes Rebel

16 So when all Israel saw that the king hearkened not unto them, the people answered the king, saying, What portion have we in David? neither have we inheritance in the son of Jesse: to your tents, O Israel: now see to thine own house, David. So Israel departed unto their tents.

17 But ^aas for the children of Israel which dwelt in the cities of Judah, Rehoboam reigned over them.

18 Then king Rehoboam ^asent Adoram, who was ¹over the tribute; and all Israel stoned him with stones, that he died. Therefore king Rehoboam made speed to get him up to his chariot, to flee to Jerusalem.

19 So ^aIsrael rebelled against the house of David unto this day.

22 But ^athe word of God came unto Shemaiah the man of God, saying,

23 Speak unto Rehoboam, the son of Solomon, king of Judah, and unto all the house of Judah and Benjamin, and to the remnant of the people, saying,

24 Thus saith the LORD, Ye shall not go up, nor fight against your brethren the children of Israel: return every man to his house; ^afor this thing is from me. They hearkened therefore to the word of the LORD, and ¹returned to depart, according to the word of the LORD.

Jeroboam's Golden Calves

25 Then Jeroboam ^abuilt¹ Shechem in mount Ephraim, and dwelt therein; and went out from thence, and built ^bPenuel.

26 And Jeroboam said in his heart, Now shall the kingdom return to the house of David:

27 If this people ^ago up to do sacrifice in the house of the LORD at Jerusalem, then shall the heart of this people turn again unto their lord, even unto Rehoboam king of Judah, 12:20. Some scholars suggest that Simeon is subsumed under Judah, hence only one tribe (cf. 11:36) remained loyal to Rehoboam. Others suggest that Simeon had migrated northward like Dan and that although Benjamin existed as a buffer state, its loyalties were divided and it soon came under the jurisdiction of Judah. This arrangement was to remain throughout the history of the divided kingdom (cf. vv. 21-23 with 2 Chr. 11:1-23; 14:8; 15:2, 8, 9). Judah and Benjamin are consistently counted as the two southern tribes (cf. 2 Chr. 11:3; 14:8).

12:22. According to the Septuagint, Shemaiah was the prophet who had met Jeroboam and prophesied of the division of the kingdom (11:29-40). Some suggest that he is to be identified with the man who co-authored a history of Rehoboam's reign (2 Chr. 12:15).

12:25. Shechem apparently served provisionally as the capital of the northern kingdom.

12:27-29. The two new cult centers in the northern kingdom were designed to make Israel's religious experience convenient. The calves of gold probably reflect a syncretism between past Israelite symbolism and Canaanite religious practices. A hybrid religious symbol, the gold calf symbolized an animal on whose back God stood invisibly, as reflected in the early pagan literature of Canaan.

and they shall kill me, and go again to Rehoboam king of Judah.

28 Whereupon the king took counsel, and ^amade two calves of gold, and said unto them, It is too much for you to go up to Jerusalem: ^bbehold thy gods, O Israel, which brought thee up out of the land of Egypt.

29 And he set the one in ^aBeth-el, and the other put he in ^bDan.

30 And this thing became ^aa sin: for the people went to worship before the one, even unto Dan.

31 And he made ¹an house of high places, ^aand made priests ²of the lowest of the people, which were not of the sons of Levi.

32 And Jeroboam ¹ordained a feast in the eighth month, on the fifteenth day of the month, like unto ^athe feast that is in Judah, and he ²offered upon the altar. So did he in Beth-el, sacrificing unto the calves that he had made: ^band he placed in Beth-el the priests of the high places which he had made.

33 So he offered upon the altar which he had made in Beth-el the fifteenth day of the eighth month, even in the month which he had ^adevised of his own heart; and ¹ordained a feast unto the children of Israel: and he offered upon the altar, and ^bburnt incense.

Jeroboam's Withered Hand

4 And it came to pass, when king Jeroboam heard the saying of the man of God, which had cried against the altar in Beth-el, that he ¹put forth his hand from the altar, saying, Lay hold on him. And his hand, which he put forth against him, dried up, so that he could not pull it in again to him.

5 The altar also was ¹rent, and the ashes poured out from the altar, according to the sign which the man of God had given by the word of the LORD.

6 And the king answered and said unto the man of God, ^aIntreat¹ now the face of the LORD thy God, and pray for me, that my hand may be restored me again. And the man of God besought the LORD, and the king's hand was ²restored him again, and became as it was before.

The King's Offer Refused

7 And the king said unto the man of God, Come home with me, and refresh thyself, and ^aI will give thee a reward.

8 And the man of God said unto the king, ^aIf thou wilt give me half thine house, I will not go in with thee, neither will I eat bread nor drink water in this place:

9 For so was it charged me by the word of the LORD, saying, ^aEat no bread, nor drink water, nor turn

12:31, 32. Jeroboam also instituted other religious substitutions including a non-Levitical order of priests, and a new religious feast in the eighth month that rivaled the Feast of Tabernacles in the seventh month in Jerusalem. The chronicler (2 Chr. 11:13-17) reports that Jeroboam's spiritual reforms caused a mass exodus of true priests and believers southward into Judah.

13:1. Man of God is one of several terms for prophet. See the note on 1 Samuel 9:6-11.

13:2. This prophecy, that specifically predicts both an event and a distinct name centuries before it comes to pass (cf. 2 Kin. 23:15-20), is paralleled by Isaiah's prophecy of Cyrus (Is. 44:28; 45:1) and by Micah's prophecy of Bethlehem as the Messiah's birthplace (Mic. 5:2). Only the living, sovereign God can give such information (cf. Is. 42:9).

13:3. The word for sign here denotes a miraculous event that produces an effect of wonder on those who behold it.

again by the same way that thou camest.

10 So he went another way, and returned not by the way that he came to Beth-el.

11 Now there dwelt an ^aold prophet in Beth-el; and his ¹sons came and told him all the works that the man of God had done that day in Beth-el: the words which he had spoken unto the king, them they told also to their father.

12 And their father said unto them, What way went he? For his sons had seen what way the man of God went, which came from Judah.

13 And he said unto his sons, Saddle me the ass. So they saddled him the ass: and he rode thereon,

14 And went after the man of God, and found him sitting under an oak: and he said unto him, Art thou the man of God that camest from Judah? And he said, I am.

15 Then he said unto him, Come home with me, and eat bread.

16 And he said, ^aI may not return with thee, nor go in with thee: neither will I eat bread nor drink water with thee in this place:

17 For ¹it was said to me ^aby the word of the LORD, Thou shalt eat no bread nor drink water there, nor turn again to go by the way that thou camest.

18 He said unto him, I am a prophet also as thou art; and an angel spake unto me by the word of the LORD, saying, Bring him back with thee into thine house, that he may eat bread and drink water. But he lied unto him.

19 So he went back with him, and did eat bread in his house, and drank water.

The Disobedience of the Prophet

20 And it came to pass, as they sat at the table, that the word of the LORD came unto the prophet that brought him back:

13:11 ^a 1 Kin. 13:25
 13:16 ^a 1 Kin. 13:8, 9
 13:17 ^a 1 Kin. 20:35; 1 Thess. 4:15
¹ Lit. a command came to me by

21 And he cried unto the man of God that came from Judah, saying, Thus saith the LORD, Forasmuch as thou hast disobeyed the mouth of the LORD, and hast not kept the commandment which the LORD thy God commanded thee,

22 But camest back, and hast eaten bread and drunk water in the ^aplace, of the which the LORD did say to thee, Eat no bread, and drink no water; ¹thy carcase shall not come unto the sepulchre of thy fathers.

23 And it came to pass, after he had eaten bread, and after he had drunk, that he saddled for him the ass, to wit, for the prophet whom he had brought back.

24 And when he was gone, ^aa lion met him by the way, and slew him: and his carcase was cast in the way, and the ass stood by it, the lion also stood by the carcase.

25 And, behold, men passed by, and saw the carcase cast in the way, and the lion standing by the carcase: and they came and told it in the city where the old prophet dwelt.

26 And when the prophet that brought him back from the way heard thereof, he said, It is the man of God, who was disobedient unto the word of the LORD: therefore the LORD hath delivered him unto the lion, which ¹hath torn him, and slain him, according to the word of the LORD, which he spake unto him.

27 And he spake to his sons, saying, Saddle me the ass. And they saddled him.

28 And he went and found his carcase cast in the way, and the ass and the lion standing by the carcase: the lion had not eaten the carcase, nor ¹torn the ass.

The Prophet's Burial

29 And the prophet took up the carcase of the man of God, and laid it upon the ass, and brought it back:

13:22 ^a 1 Kin. 13:9
¹ your corpse will not come to the tomb of
 13:24 ^a 1 Kin. 20:36
 13:26 ¹ tore him apart and killed him
 13:28 ¹ torn apart

13:11. The old prophet probably belonged to a school of the prophets at Beth-el that had earlier been true to the Lord, but under the influence of Jeroboam's new state religion had compromised its faith. Although he may have longed for old-time fellowship with the man of God, he plainly lied to him. God's prophet was too easily taken in (cf. 1 John 4:1).

and the old prophet came to the city, to mourn and to bury him.

30 And he laid his carcase in his own ¹grave; and they mourned over him, saying, ^aAlas, my brother!

31 And it came to pass, after he had buried him, that he spake to his sons, saying, When I am dead, then bury me in the sepulchre wherein the man of God is buried; ^alay my bones beside his bones:

32 ^aFor the ¹saying which he ²cried by the word of the LORD against the altar in Beth-el, and against all the ³houses of the high places which are in the cities of ^bSamaria, shall surely come to pass.

Jeroboam Continues to Sin

33 ^aAfter this thing Jeroboam returned not from his evil way, but ¹made again of the lowest of the people priests of the high places: who-soever would, he consecrated him, and he became one of the priests of the high places.

34 ^aAnd this thing became sin unto the house of Jeroboam, even ^bto cut it off, and to destroy it from off the face of the earth.

The Illness of Jeroboam's Son

14 At that time Abijah the son of Jeroboam fell sick.

2 And Jeroboam said to his wife, Arise, I pray thee, and disguise thyself, that thou be not known to be the wife of Jeroboam; and get thee to Shiloh: behold, there is Ahijah the prophet, which told me that ^a*I should be* king over this people.

3 ^aAnd take ¹with thee ten loaves, and ²cracknels, and a ³cruse of honey, and go to him: he shall tell thee what shall become of the child.

4 And Jeroboam's wife did so, and arose, ^aand went to Shiloh, and came to the house of Ahijah. But Ahijah could not see; for his eyes were ¹set by reason of his age.

7 Go, tell Jeroboam, Thus saith the LORD God of Israel, ^aForasmuch as I exalted thee from among the people, and made thee prince over my people Israel,

8 And ^arent ¹the kingdom away from the house of David, and gave it thee: and yet thou hast not been as my servant David, ^bwho kept my commandments, and who followed me with all his heart, to do that only which was right in mine eyes;

9 But hast done evil above all that were before thee: ^afor thou hast gone and made thee other gods, and molten images, to provoke me to anger, and ^bhast cast me behind thy back:

10 Therefore, behold, ^aI will bring ¹evil upon the house of Jeroboam, and ^bwill ²cut off from Jeroboam ³him that pisseth against the wall, ^cand him that is shut up and left in Israel, and will take away the remnant of the house of Jeroboam, as a man taketh away dung, till it be all gone.

11 ^aHim that dieth of Jeroboam in the city shall the dogs eat; and him that dieth in the field shall the fowls of the air eat: for the LORD hath spoken it.

12 Arise thou therefore, get thee to thine own house: and ^awhen thy feet enter into the city, the child shall die.

13:32. The mention of the cities of Samaria before Samaria had political ramifications in the period of Omri (16:24) is probably an editorial updating by the author of Kings.

14:5. For Ahijah, see the note on 11:29-31.

14:7. The Hebrew term translated prince designates a spiritual leader. Unfortunately, Jeroboam scarcely proved to be one.

13 And all Israel shall mourn for him, and bury him: for he only of Jeroboam ¹shall come to the grave, because in him ^athere is found some good thing toward the LORD God of Israel in the house of Jeroboam.

14 ^aMoreover the LORD shall raise him up a king over Israel, who shall cut off the house of Jeroboam ¹that day: but what? even now.

The Fate of Israel

15 For the LORD shall ¹smite Israel, as a reed is shaken in the water, and he shall ^aroot up Israel out of this ^bgood land, which he gave to their fathers, and shall scatter them ^cbeyond ²the river, ^dbecause they have made their ³groves, provoking the LORD to anger.

16 And he shall give Israel up because of the sins of Jeroboam, ^awho did sin, and who made Israel to sin.

17 And Jeroboam's wife arose, and departed, and came to ^aTirzah: and ^bwhen she came to the threshold of the door, the child died;

18 And they buried him; and all Israel mourned for him, ^aaccording to the word of the LORD, which he spake by the hand of his servant Ahijah the prophet.

Jeroboam's Reign and Death

19 And the rest of the acts of Jeroboam, how he ^awarred, and how he reigned, behold, they are written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel.

20 And the days which Jeroboam reigned were two and twenty years: and he slept with his fathers, and ^aNadab his son reigned in his stead.

Rehoboam's Reign in Judah

21 And Rehoboam the son of Solomon reigned in Judah. ^aRehoboam was forty and one years old when he began to reign, and he reigned seventeen years in Jerusalem, the city ^bwhich the LORD did choose out of all the tribes of Israel, to put his name there. ^cAnd his mother's name was Naamah an Ammonitess.

22 ^aAnd Judah did evil in the sight of the LORD, and they ^bprovoked him to jealousy with their sins which they had committed, above all that their fathers had done.

23 For they also built them ^ahigh¹ places, and ^bimages,² ^cand ³groves, on every high hill, and ^dunder every green tree.

24 ^aAnd there were also ¹sodomites in the land: and they did according to all the ^babominations of the nations which the LORD cast out before the children of ^cIsrael.

Shishak Raids Jerusalem

25 ^aAnd it came to pass in the fifth year of king Rehoboam, that Shishak king of Egypt came up against Jerusalem:

26 ^aAnd he took away the treasures of the house of the LORD, and the treasures of the king's house; he even took away all: and he took away all the shields of gold ^bwhich Solomon had made.

27 And king Rehoboam made in their stead ¹brassen shields, and ²committed them unto the hands of the ³chief of the guard, which kept the door of the king's house.

14:13. Some have suggested that this may be a companion proof text, along with 2 Samuel 12:23, of God's gracious reception of the souls of young children.

14:15. The groves (lit., Asherim) were sacred trees or poles set aside for the Canaanite goddess Asherah. See the note at Judges 3:6, 7.

14:17. Tirzah was noted for its beauty (cf. Song 6:4), hence became the residence of several kings. The founder of Israel's Second Dynasty, Baasha, apparently made it his capital (15:33) and Zimri lost his throne and life there (16:15-20).

14:23. See the notes on Judges 3:6, 7 and 1 Kings 3:2, 3.

14:24. Cultic prostitution involving both sexes was carried on at the Canaanite religious shrines. These debased practices became a stumbling block to Israel's spiritual experience. They would contribute to God's judgment of Judah (2 Chr. 12:1, 2).

14:25, 26. The accuracy of the biblical note here is certain, for Pharaoh Shishak (or Sheshonq I) of Egypt's Twenty-second Dynasty made an eastern invasion that encompassed both the northern and southern kingdoms. His triumphs are recounted particularly in an inscription found in the temple of Amon at Karnak. Only Rehoboam's repentance saved Jerusalem and Judah from full extinction at this time (cf. 2 Chr. 12:6-12). For Rehoboam's attempt at thwarting the rising menace of Egypt, see the note on 2 Chronicles 11:5-12.

28 And it was so, when the king went into the house of the LORD, that the guard bare them, and brought them back into the guard chamber.

Rehoboam's Death

29 ^aNow the rest of the acts of Rehoboam, and all that he did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah?

30 And there was ^awar between Rehoboam and Jeroboam all their days.

Abijam's Reign Over Judah

15 Now ^ain the eighteenth year of king Jeroboam the son of Nebat reigned Abijam over Judah.

2 Three years reigned he in Jerusalem. ^aAnd his mother's name was ^bMaachah, the daughter of ^cAbishalom.

3 And he walked in all the sins of his father, which he had done before him: and ^ahis heart was not ¹perfect with the LORD his God, as the heart of David his father.

4 Nevertheless ^afor David's sake did the LORD his God give him a lamp in Jerusalem, to set up his son after him, and to establish Jerusalem:

5 Because David ^adid that which was right in the eyes of the LORD, and turned not aside from any thing that he commanded him all the days of his life, ^bsave only in the matter of Uriah the Hittite.

Abijam's Death

7 ^aNow the rest of the acts of Abijam, and all that he did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah? And there was war between Abijam and Jeroboam.

8 ^aAnd Abijam ¹slept with his fathers; and they buried him in the city of David: and Asa his son reigned in his stead.

Asa Follows the Lord

9 And in the twentieth year of Jeroboam king of Israel reigned Asa over Judah.

10 And forty and one years reigned he in Jerusalem. And his ¹mother's name was Maachah, the daughter of Abishalom.

11 ^aAnd Asa did that which was right in the eyes of the LORD, as did David his father.

12 ^aAnd he ¹took away the sodomites out of the land, and removed all the idols that his fathers had made.

13 And also ^aMaachah his mother, even her he removed from being queen, because she had made ¹an idol in a grove; and Asa ²destroyed her idol, and ^bburnt it by the brook Kidron.

14 ^aBut the ¹high places were not removed: nevertheless Asa's ^bheart was perfect with the LORD all his days.

15 And he brought in the things which his father ^ahad dedicated, and the things which himself had dedicated, into the house of the LORD, silver, and gold, and vessels.

16 And there was war between Asa and Baasha king of Israel all their days.

17 And ^aBaasha king of Israel went up against Judah, and built ^bRamah, ^cthat he might not ¹suffer

14:31. Abijam is rendered Abijah in 2 Chronicles 13:1. The spelling here in 1 Kings probably represents a popular designation for the king. Some scholars have suggested that there were actually two kings named Abijah.

15:1-3. Maachah, the favorite of Rehoboam's 18 wives, was the daughter of Uriel of Gibeah (2 Chr. 13:2) and Tamar (2 Sam. 14:27) and, therefore, the granddaughter of David's son Absalom. She was the mother of Abijam (or Abijah) and grandmother of Asa (vv.

9, 10). Like her grandfather, she was a strong-willed person, whose influence for evil was ended only by Asa's reforms (cf. 2 Chr. 15:16).

15:4. A lamp is a man's posterity.

15:7. The chronicler reports a great victory by Abijah over the forces of the apostate Jeroboam (2 Chr. 13:2-20).

any to go out or come in to Asa king of Judah.

Treasures Sent to Ben-hadad

18 Then Asa took all the silver and the gold that were left in the treasures of the house of the LORD, and the treasures of the king's house, and delivered them into the hand of his servants: and king Asa sent them to ^aBen-hadad, the son of Tabrimon, the son of Hezion, king of Syria, that dwelt at ^bDamascus, saying,

19 There is ^{1a} a league between me and thee, and between my father and thy father: behold, I have sent unto thee a present of silver and gold; come and break thy league with Baasha king of Israel, that he may depart from me.

20 So Ben-hadad hearkened unto king Asa, and ^asent the captains of the hosts which he had against the cities of Israel, and smote ^bIjon, and ^cDan, and ^dAbel-beth-maachah, and all Cinneroth, with all the land of Naphtali.

21 And it came to pass, when Baasha heard thereof, that he left off building of Ramah, and dwelt in ^aTirzah.

22 ^aThen king Asa made a proclamation throughout all Judah; none was exempted: and they took away the stones of Ramah, and the timber thereof, wherewith Baasha had builded; and king Asa built with them ^bGeba of Benjamin, and ^cMizpah.

Asa's Death

23 The rest of all the acts of Asa, and all his might, and all that he did, and the cities which he built, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah? Nevertheless ^ain the time of his old age he was diseased in his feet.

Nadab's Reign and Death

25 And ^aNadab the son of Jeroboam began to reign over Israel in the second year of Asa king of Judah, and reigned over Israel two years.

26 And he did evil in the sight of the LORD, and walked in the way of his father, and in ^ahis sin wherewith he made Israel to sin.

27 ^aAnd Baasha the son of Ahijah, of the house of Issachar, conspired against him; and Baasha ¹smote him at ^bGibbethon, which belonged to the Philistines; for Nadab and all Israel laid siege to Gibbethon.

28 Even in the third year of Asa king of Judah did Baasha slay him, and reigned in his stead.

29 And it came to pass, when he reigned, that he smote all the house of Jeroboam; he left not to Jeroboam any that breathed, until he had destroyed him, according unto ^athe saying of the LORD, which he spake by his servant Ahijah the Shilonite:

30 ^aBecause of the sins of Jeroboam which he sinned, and which he made Israel sin, by his provocation wherewith he provoked the LORD God of Israel to anger.

31 Now the rest of the acts of Nadab, and all that he did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel?

32 ^aAnd there was war between Asa and Baasha king of Israel all their days.

Baasha's Reign

33 In the third year of Asa king of Judah began Baasha the son of Ahijah to reign over all Israel in Tirzah, twenty and four years.

34 And he did evil in the sight of the LORD, and walked in ^athe way of Jeroboam, and in his sin wherewith he made Israel to sin.

15:23. Asa's good beginning changed in later years to times of spiritual defeat (cf. 2 Chr. 16:7-12). His death was an odoriferous one, being attended with various sweet spices and perfumes (2 Chr. 16:14).

For added details relative to Asa's life and times, see 2 Chronicles 14-16.

15:29. This fulfills Ahijah's prophecy as recorded in 14:10-14.

Jehu's Prophecy

16 Then the word of the LORD came to ^aJehu the son of ^bHanani against ^cBaasha, saying,

2 ^aForasmuch as I ¹exalted thee out of the dust, and made thee prince over my people Israel; and ^bthou hast walked in the way of Jeroboam, and hast made my people Israel to sin, to provoke me to anger with their sins;

3 Behold, I will ^atake¹ away the posterity of Baasha, and the posterity of his house; and will make thy house like ^bthe house of Jeroboam the son of Nebat.

4 ^aHim that dieth of Baasha in the city shall the dogs eat; and him that dieth of his in the fields shall the fowls of the air eat.

Baasha's Death

5 Now the rest of the acts of Baasha, and what he did, and his might, ^aare they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel?

6 So Baasha ¹slept with his fathers, and was buried in ^aTirzah: and Elah his son reigned in his stead.

7 And also by the hand of the prophet ^aJehu the son of Hanani came the word of the LORD against Baasha, and against his house, even for all the evil that he did in the sight of the LORD, in provoking him to anger with the work of his hands, in being like the house of Jeroboam; and because ^bhe killed him.

Elah's Reign and Death

8 In the twenty and sixth year of Asa king of Judah began Elah the son of Baasha to reign over Israel in Tirzah, two years.

10 And Zimri went in and ¹smote him, and killed him, in the twenty and seventh year of Asa king of Judah, and reigned in his stead.

Zimri's Reign and Death

11 And it came to pass, when he began to reign, as soon as he sat on his throne, ^athat he slew all the house of Baasha: he left him ^anot one ¹that pisseth against a wall, neither of his kinsfolks, nor of his friends.

12 Thus did Zimri destroy all the house of Baasha, ^aaccording to the word of the LORD, which he spake against Baasha by Jehu the prophet, 13 For all the sins of Baasha, and the sins of Elah his son, by which they sinned, and by which they made Israel to sin, in provoking the LORD God of Israel to anger ^awith their ¹vanities.

14 Now the rest of the acts of Elah, and all that he did, ^aare they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel?

15 In the twenty and seventh year of Asa king of Judah did Zimri reign seven days in Tirzah. And the people ^awere encamped ^aagainst Gibbethon, which ^bbelonged to the Philistines.

16 And the people ^athat were encamped heard say, Zimri hath conspired, and hath also slain the king: wherefore all Israel made Omri, the captain of the host, king over Israel that day in the camp.

17 And Omri went up from Gibbethon, and all Israel with him, and they besieged Tirzah.

18 And it came to pass, when Zimri saw that the city was ¹taken, that he went into the palace of the king's house, and burnt the king's house ²over him with fire, and died, 19 For his sins which he sinned in doing evil in the sight of the LORD, ^ain walking in the ^bway of Jeroboam, and in his sin which he did, to make Israel to sin.

16:1. Jehu the son of Hanani was also active in the reign of Jehoshaphat over Judah (2 Chr. 19:1-3). He is credited with authoring a book dealing with the era of Jehoshaphat which was included in "The Books of the Kings of Israel."

16:2. For prince (spiritual leader), see the note on 14:7.

16:16. Omri is the first king of the Third Dynasty in Israel. The revolt of Zimri (vv. 9-13) ended the Second Dynasty. Omri and Tibni (vv. 21, 22) must be viewed as rivals to the throne, who never really secured the recognition of all Israel to establish a dynasty.

20 Now the rest of the acts of Zimri, and his treason that he wrought, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel?

Omri's Reign

21 Then were the people of Israel divided into two parts: half of the people followed Tibni the son of Ginath, to make him king; and half followed Omri.

22 But the people that followed Omri prevailed against the people that followed Tibni the son of Ginath: so Tibni died, and Omri reigned.

23 In the thirty and first year of Asa king of Judah began Omri to reign over Israel, twelve years: six years reigned he in ^aTirzah.

24 And he bought the hill Samaria of Shemer for two talents of silver, and built on the hill, and called the name of the city which he built, after the name of Shemer, owner of the hill, ^aSamaria.¹

25 But ^aOmri wrought evil in the eyes of the LORD, and did worse than all that were before him.

26 For he ^awalked in all the way of Jeroboam the son of Nebat, and in his sin wherewith he made Israel to sin, to provoke the LORD God of Israel to anger with their ^bvanities.¹

28 So Omri slept with his fathers, and was buried in Samaria: and Ahab his son reigned in his stead.

Ahab's Reign and Sins

29 And in the thirty and eighth year of Asa king of Judah began Ahab the son of Omri to reign over Israel: and Ahab the son of Omri reigned over Israel in Samaria twenty and two years.

30 And Ahab the son of Omri did evil in the sight of the LORD ¹above all that were before him.

31 And it came to pass, as if it had been a light thing for him to walk in the sins of Jeroboam the son of Nebat, ^athat he took to wife Jezebel the daughter of Ethbaal king of the ^bZidonians, ^cand went and served Baal, and worshipped him.

32 And he reared up an altar for Baal in ^athe house of Baal, which he had built in Samaria.

16:24. With Omri, the capital moves to the newly constructed city of Samaria where it was to remain until its fall in 722 B.C. Samaria was situated on a strategically located hill. Militarily, its height made it easily defensible. Politically, it enjoyed a central location in the northern kingdom. Commercially, it commanded a spot overlooking the chief trading routes of the Esdraelon Plain.

16:27. Omri is dismissed quickly in the biblical account but is well known in extrabiblical literature. The Moabite Stone records his conquest of the plains of Moab to the north of the Arnon River. In the Assyrian annals Israel becomes known as Bit Humria, "House of Omri," from Omri's time and afterward. He also saw to the marriage of his son Ahab to the Phoenician princess Jezebel, daughter of the Sidonian king, again indicating some prominence for the dynasty that Omri established (v. 31).

16:31. As in the case of Solomon, political state marriage was to have a disastrous effect for Israel (cf.

21:25). Ahab's reign was to bring Israel to its spiritual depths. Jezebel's name means "Where Is the Prince?" (Baal).

16:32, 33. All of the ugliness and depravity of the Canaanite religious practices now enjoyed the official sanction of the Israelite crown along with the continued state religion of Jeroboam I. See the notes on Judges 2:11-15; 1 Kings 14:15.

16:34. The rebuilding of Jericho was done in the face of Joshua's long-standing curse and prophetic declaration (Josh. 6:26, 27). Ahab's granting of permission to build Jericho is further evidence of his basic disregard for spiritual things. Whether Hiel's sons were killed in the building activities or were sacrificed as foundation offerings, a well-known ancient Near Eastern practice, Hiel paid a high price for disregarding Joshua's curse, which forbade the rebuilding of Jericho as a fortified city (cf. Josh. 6:26, 27 with Josh. 18:21; Judg. 3:13; 2 Sam. 10:5).

Elijah's Prophecy

17 And ¹Elijah the Tishbite, who was of the ^ainhabitants of Gilead, said unto Ahab, ^bAs the LORD God of Israel liveth, ^cbefore whom I stand, ^dthere shall not be dew nor rain ^ethese years, ²but according to my word.

2 And the word of the LORD came unto him, saying,

3 Get thee hence, and turn thee eastward, and hide thyself by the brook Cherith, that is before Jordan.

4 And it shall be, that thou shalt drink of the brook; and I have commanded the ^aravens to feed thee there.

5 So he went and did according unto the word of the LORD: for he went and dwelt by the brook Cherith, that is before Jordan.

6 And the ravens brought him bread and flesh in the morning, and bread and flesh in the evening; and he drank of the brook.

7 And it came to pass after a while, that the brook dried up, because there had been no rain in the land.

8 And the word of the LORD came unto him, saying,

10 So he arose and went to Zarephath. And when he came to the gate of the city, behold, the widow woman was there gathering of sticks: and he called to her, and said, Fetch me, I pray thee, a little water in a vessel, that I may drink.

11 And as she was going to fetch it, he called to her, and said, Bring me, I pray thee, a morsel of bread in thine hand.

12 And she said, As the LORD thy God liveth, I have not a cake, but an handful of meal in a barrel, and a little oil in a ¹cruse: and, behold, I am gathering two sticks, that I may go in and ²dress it for me and my son, that we may eat it, and ^adie.

17:1. Dark times call for light. In the deep spiritual darkness of Israel's Third Dynasty God raised up a spiritual man in the prophet Elijah. Elijah's ministry spanned the reigns of Ahab and his sons Ahaziah and Jehoram. Elijah defended vigorously the cause of the living God against the extreme paganism of his day. The phrase not be dew nor rain is reminiscent of David's lament over Saul and Jonathan (2 Sam. 1:21).

Elijah appears as the protagonist in four stories in the books of Kings. In the first story (16:29–19:18), Elijah declares a drought to punish the nation for its idolatry. The second story (ch. 21) tells about the judicial murder of Naboth. Elijah confronts Ahab with a terrible prophecy of doom. The third story relates another prophecy of doom against Ahaziah in 2

Kings 1:2–2:17. The final episode relates how Elisha became Elijah's servant (19:19–21; 2 Kin. 2:1–18). In later Jewish thought, the messianic age was frequently associated with Elijah's return. Malachi speaks of the reappearance of Elijah (Mal. 4:5, 6) before the day of the Lord arrives. The New Testament identifies John the Baptist with Elijah (Matt. 11:14; 17:10–13; Luke 1:17), and some even identified Jesus with Elijah (Matt. 16:14; Luke 9:8). Along with Moses, he appears with Jesus on the Mount of Transfiguration (Matt. 17:3). (First Reference: 1 Kin. 17:1; Primary References: 1 Kin. 17–21; 2 Kin. 1:1–2:15.)

17:10–16. When genuine faith is tested it brings glory to God and works for the good of the believer (cf. Luke 4:24–26; 1 Pet. 1:7).

17:1 Elijah was a mighty prophet of God during the reigns of Ahab and Ahaziah in the northern kingdom of Israel (c. 873–852 B.C.). Elijah shaped the history of his times and dominated Hebrew thinking for centuries afterward. His prophecies emphasized the unconditional loyalty to God required of the nation of Israel. His strange dress and appearance (2 Kin. 1:8), his fleetness of foot (18:46), and his cave-dwelling habits (19:9), all suggest a robust, outdoor-type personality.

Elijah's Prayer

17 And it came to pass after these things, that the son of the woman, the mistress of the house, fell sick; and his sickness was so ¹sore, that ²there was no breath left in him.

18 And she said unto Elijah, "What have I to do with thee, O thou man of God? art thou come unto me to call my sin to remembrance, and to slay my son?"

19 And he said unto her, Give me thy son. And he took him out of her ¹bosom, and carried him up into a ²loft, where he abode, and laid him upon his own bed.

20 And he cried unto the LORD, and said, O LORD my God, hast thou also brought evil upon the widow with whom I ¹sojourn, by slaying her son?"

21 "And he stretched himself upon the child three times, and cried unto the LORD, and said, O LORD my God, I pray thee, let this child's soul come into him again.

17:17, 18. In the ancient Near East, suffering was often mistakenly considered to be solely the result of sin (Job 4:7, 8; John 9:3).

17:19. The loft, an upper room or shelter on the roof, was reached from outside the house. Such accommodations often served as guest chambers (2 Kin. 4:10).

17:21. The full power of the thrice-holy God is invoked by Elijah on behalf of the dead lad (cf. Num. 6:24–26; Is. 6:3). For other cases of a similar healing of a dead child, compare 2 Kings 4:34; Luke 7:11–16; and Acts 20:10.

17:24. For man of God, see the note on 1 Samuel 9:6–11.

18:4. Associations of prophets, forming a sort of school of the prophets, seem to have existed since Samuel's day (1 Sam. 10:5–18). These prophets apparently met together for study, prophesying, service, and mutual spiritual encouragement (cf. 1 Sam. 19:20, 24; 2 Kin. 2:3–7, 15; 4:1, 38; 6:1; 9:1). Apparently the great prophets exercised leadership over such schools (2 Kin. 6:1–7).

18:5. Like Solomon before him, Ahab had a considerable number of horses, a fact confirmed by ar-

18:1 Ahab was the seventh king of Israel, the son and successor of Omri (16:30; c. 873–853 B.C.). His queen and wife was Jezebel, a daughter of Ethbaal, king of Tyre. Jezebel influenced Ahab to give Baal equal place with God; he even built a temple to Baal with a "wooden image" of the Canaanite goddess Asherah (16:33). Jezebel finally urged Ahab to oppose the worship of the Lord, destroy His altars, and kill His prophets. Ahab was the first king of Israel to come into conflict with Assyria. He was also the first to be recorded on the Assyrian monuments, for fielding two thousand chariots and 10,000 soldiers in the battle against Shalmaneser III at Qarqar in 853 B.C. Ahab had four significant encounters with the prophets, especially Elijah. The first concerned the great drought predicted by Elijah (17:1), culminating in the contest between Elijah and the prophets of Baal (vv. 17–40), where he was present. The second involved two unnamed prophets, one of whom encouraged Ahab to resist Ben-hadad of Damascus (20:22). The third was the episode of Naboth's vineyard (ch. 21). The fourth encounter occurred during Ahab's campaign against the Arameans, a battle that led to his death (ch. 22). The prophet during this time was Micaiah ben Imlah. Ahab inflicted such horrors as tyranny (ch. 21), religious persecution (v. 4), and human sacrifice. (First Reference, 1 Kin. 16:29; Primary References, 1 Kin. 15:29—22:40.)

of water, and unto all brooks: peradventure we may find grass to save the horses and mules alive, that we lose not all the beasts.

6 So they divided the land between them to pass throughout it: Ahab went one way by himself, and Obadiah went another way by himself.

Obadiah and Elijah

7 And as Obadiah was in the way, behold, Elijah met him: and he ^aknew him, and fell on his face, and said, ¹Art thou that my lord Elijah?

8 And he answered him, I am: go, tell thy lord, Behold, Elijah is here.

9 And he said, What have I sinned, that thou wouldest deliver thy servant into the hand of Ahab, to slay me?

10 As the LORD thy God liveth, there is no nation or kingdom, whither my lord hath not sent to seek thee: and when they said, He is not there; he took an oath of the kingdom and nation, that they found thee not.

11 And now thou sayest, Go, tell thy lord, Behold, Elijah is here.

12 And it shall come to pass, as soon as I am gone from thee, that ^athe Spirit of the LORD shall carry thee whither I know not; and so when I come and tell Ahab, and he cannot find thee, he shall slay me: but I thy servant fear the LORD from my youth.

15 And Elijah said, As the LORD of hosts liveth, before whom I stand, I will surely ¹shew myself unto him to day.

16 So Obadiah went to meet Ahab, and told him: and Ahab went to meet Elijah.

Ahab and Elijah

17 And it came to pass, when Ahab saw Elijah, that Ahab said unto him, ^aArt¹ thou he that ^btroubleth Israel?

18 And he answered, I have not troubled Israel; but thou, and thy father's house, ^ain that ye have forsaken the commandments of the LORD, and thou hast followed Baalim.

18:12. For the work of the Holy Spirit in the Old Testament, see the note on Judges 3:10.

18:15. For LORD of hosts, see the note on 1 Samuel 1:3.

18:18. The Baalim were local shrines where the cult worship of Baal was carried on. See the note on Judges 2:11-15.

18:19. The prophets of the groves were the priests of Asherah, whose cult worship was apparently sponsored by Queen Jezebel. These prophets were not present at the contest on mount Carmel but apparently remained with Jezebel at Jezreel (v. 45; 19:1).

18:19 Mount Carmel is part of a range of fertile, forested hills (Is. 33:9; Amos 1:2; Nah. 1:4) about 15 miles long, on the west border of the land allotted to the tribe of Asher (Josh. 19:26). The mountain range extends from the Samaritan hill country west to the Mediterranean and south to the Mount Carmel headland. Because it is at the entrance of the Jezreel Valley (Esdraelon), it commands an excellent view of the shoreline and rises 556 feet above the harbor of modern Haifa. The Canaanites built sanctuaries to pagan weather deities on this mountain. Thus, Carmel was an appropriate site for a confrontation between Elijah, the prophet of the Lord, and the "prophets of Baal" (vv. 19, 20), the idolatrous Canaanite priests. From the crest of Carmel, Elijah observed the coming storm that signaled the end of a prolonged drought. He then preceded the chariot of Ahab to the gate of Jezreel (v. 42, 43). Elijah may have used the mountain as a spiritual retreat. Elisha was a familiar visitor to Carmel also (2 Kin. 2:25; 4:25). Today, a monastery belonging to the Carmelite Order of monks is located on the promontory of round earth that juts out toward the Mediterranean Sea.

Elijah's Challenge

21 And Elijah came unto all the people, and said, ^aHow long ¹halt ye between two opinions? if the LORD be God, follow him: but if Baal, ^bthen follow him. And the people answered him not a word.

22 Then said Elijah unto the people, ^aI, even I only, remain a prophet of the LORD; ^bbut Baal's prophets are four hundred and fifty men.

23 Let them therefore give us two bullocks; and let them choose one bullock for themselves, and cut it in pieces, and lay it on wood, and put no fire under: and I will dress the other bullock, and lay it on wood, and put no fire under:

24 And call ye on the name of your gods, and I will call on the name of the LORD: and the God that ^aanswereth by fire, let him be God. And all the people answered and said, ¹It is well spoken.

The Sacrifice of Baal's Prophets

25 And Elijah said unto the prophets of Baal, Choose you one bullock for yourselves, and dress it first; for ye are many; and call on the name of your gods, but put no fire under.

26 And they took the bullock which was given them, and they dressed it, and called on the name of Baal from morning even until noon, saying, O Baal, ¹hear us. But there was ^ano voice, nor any that answered. And they ²leaped upon the altar which was made.

The Sacrifice of Elijah

30 And Elijah said unto all the people, Come near unto me. And all the people came near unto him. ^aAnd he repaired the altar of the LORD that was broken down.

31 And Elijah took twelve stones, according to the number of the tribes of the sons of Jacob, unto whom the word of the LORD came, saying, ^aIsrael shall be thy name:

32 And with the stones he built an altar ^ain the name of the LORD: and he made a trench about the altar, as great as would contain two ¹measures of seed.

33 And he ^aput the wood in order, and cut the bullock in pieces, and laid him on the wood, and said, Fill four ¹barrels with water, and ^bpour it on the burnt sacrifice, and on the wood.

34 And he said, Do it the second time. And they did it the second time. And he said, Do it the third time. And they did it the third time.

35 And the water ran round about the altar; and he filled ^athe trench also with water.

Elijah's Prayer

36 And it came to pass at the time of the offering of the evening sacrifice, that Elijah the prophet came near, and said, LORD ^aGod of Abraham, Isaac, and of Israel, ^blet it be known this day that thou art God in Israel, and that I am thy servant, and that ^cI have done all these things at thy word.

18:29. The prophets of Baal had by evening literally worked themselves into a frenzy (cf. Jer. 29:26). The evening sacrifice was the main time of daily religious observance.

18:31. The twelve stones was a reminder that God was the covenant God of all Israel, north and south. Although Baalism was a great problem in the northern kingdom, it was also a constant temptation for Judah (2 Kin. 17:15-19).

18:33-35. The water was applied three times. Again Elijah calls on the full power of the thrice-holy God (cf. 17:21).

18:36. The God of Abraham, Isaac, and of Israel (or Jacob) was the identifying phrase of God's relationship to the Abrahamic covenant. The faithful One is yet Israel's God, the only God, and the God with whom they must deal (cf. v. 39 with Ex. 3:6; Deut. 5:7; 6:4; 29:12, 13; 30:19, 20).

37 Hear me, O LORD, hear me, that this people may know that thou art the LORD God, and that thou hast turned their heart back again.

38 Then ^athe fire of the LORD fell, and consumed the burnt sacrifice, and the wood, and the stones, and the dust, and licked up the water that was in the trench.

39 And when all the people saw it, they fell on their faces: and they said, ^aThe LORD, he is the God; the LORD, he is the God.

40 And Elijah said unto them, ^aTake¹ the prophets of Baal; let not one of them escape. And they took them: and Elijah brought them down to the brook ^bKishon, and ^cslew them there.

An Abundance of Rain

41 And Elijah said unto Ahab, Get thee up, eat and drink; for there is a sound of abundance of rain.

42 So Ahab went up to eat and to drink. And Elijah went up to the top of Carmel; ^aand he cast himself down upon the earth, and put his face between his knees, 43 And said to his servant, Go up now, look toward the sea. And he went up, and looked, and said, There is nothing. And he said, Go again seven times.

Elijah's Escape from Jezebel

19 And Ahab told Jezebel all that Elijah had done, and withal how he had ^aslain all the prophets with the sword.

2 Then Jezebel sent a messenger unto Elijah, saying, ^aSo let the gods do to me, and more also, if I make not thy life as the life of one of them by to morrow about this time.

18:42. Elijah ... put his face between his knees in humble reverence. The significance of this posture is well attested in the literature of the ancient Near East. See Luke 18:13; James 5:18.

18:44. The little cloud proved to be a towering cumulonimbus cloud heralding the coming rain-storm.

18:46. Jezreel was located between Megiddo and Beth-shan about 17 miles from Mount Carmel. Elijah probably served as an outrunner for the king, a privileged position in the ancient Near East. Despite his frequent condemnation of Ahab, Elijah had a genuine concern both for God's testimony and the soul of the king. The girding up of his loins carries with it the ideas of energetic action and obedience (cf. 2 Kin. 4:29; Prov. 31:17; 1 Pet. 1:3)

19:2. How often mountaintops of spiritual victory are followed by valleys and deserts of testing. Vile Jezebel was a vicious and ruthless opponent (16:31-33; 21:11-15, 25).

19:3, 4. Perhaps Elijah had come to expect the spiritual high life of extraordinary events. He was to learn of another dimension of service. A juniper tree (or broom bush) often reaches a height of 10 feet.

19:1 Jezebel was a Phoenician princess (a daughter of Ethbaal, king of Zidon), who married King Ahab of Israel and enticed him to sin (16:31; 21:25). She was a tyrant who corrupted her husband, as well as the nation, with pagan idolatry. A worshiper of the Phoenician god Baal and a zealous missionary, she supported some 850 prophets of Baal and Asherah (18:19) and sought to suppress the worship of the Lord (18:4, 13). Jezebel was Elijah's formidable adversary, even instilling fear in him (vv. 1-3). Her influence in Israel was strong during the reigns of her husband Ahab and of her sons Ahaziah and Jehoram. Her power extended to the southern kingdom of Judah, where her daughter Athaliah became queen (2 Kin. 8:18). Elijah's prophecy, "The dogs shall eat Jezebel by the wall of Jezreel" (21:23), was fulfilled when Jehu seized power (2 Kin. 9, 10; cf. Hos. 1:4). Revelation 2:20 mentions a false prophetess by the same name. (First Reference, 1 Kin. 16:31; Primary Reference, 1 Kin. 21.)

Elisha Follows Elijah

19 So he departed thence, and found Elisha the son of Shaphat, who was plowing with twelve yoke of oxen before him, and he with the twelfth: and Elijah passed by him, and cast his ^amantle upon him.

19:8. The forty days and forty nights of wandering to Horeb (Sinai) were doubtless symbolic for Elijah. They reminded him of Moses and the children of Israel from whose experiences he was to learn a spiritual lesson (cf. Ex. 34:28; Num. 14:26-35).

19:11, 12. All of these phenomena could, at times, be indicative of the Lord's presence. But God is not present just in extraordinary things.

19:15. For Hazael, see the note on 2 Kings 8:13-15.

19:19-21. Elisha did not mistake his prophetic sum-

19:16 Elisha was a prophet of the northern kingdom of Israel and succeeded Elijah (v. 16). Elisha ministered about 50 years, serving during the reigns of Jehoram, Jehu, Jehoahaz, and Joash. He presented the Word of God through prophecy, advised and anointed kings, helped the needy, and performed various miracles. Elisha was called to ministry through Elijah (v. 21). He received a double portion of Elijah's spirit, performing twice as many miracles as Elijah (2 Kin. 2:9, 10). Elisha's work within Israel was both personal and political. Some of his personal accomplishments include the following: (1) He purified a spring (2 Kin. 2:19-22). (2) He raised the Shunammite's only son (2 Kin. 4:18-37). (3) He provided an antidote for poisonous stew (2 Kin. 4:38-41). (4) He healed Naaman's leprosy (2 Kin. 5:1-19). (5) He recovered a lost ax head (2 Kin. 6:1-7). But Elisha's greatest work was political: (1) He provided water to a thirsty army (2 Kin. 3:4-20). (2) He helped rout the Moabites (2 Kin. 3:21-27). (3) He helped avert disaster at the hands of the Syrians (2 Kin. 6:13-7:20). (4) He aided the overthrow of Ben-hadad of Damascus (2 Kin. 8:7-15) and Jehu of Israel (2 Kin. 9:1-13). (5) From his deathbed he prophesied Joash's defeat of the Syrians (2 Kin. 13:14-19). Even Elisha's bones had miraculous power (2 Kin. 13:21). (First Reference, 1 Kin. 19:16; Primary References, 2 Kin. 2-8, 13.)

20 And he left the oxen, and ran after Elijah, and said, ^aLet me, I pray thee, kiss my father and my mother, and then I will follow thee. And he said unto him, Go back again: for what have I done to thee?

21 And ¹he returned back from him, and took a yoke of oxen, and slew them, and ^aboiled their flesh ²with the instruments of the oxen, and gave unto the people, and they did eat. Then he arose, and went after Elijah, and ministered unto him.

Ben-hadad's Message to Ahab

2 And he sent messengers to Ahab king of Israel into the city, and said unto him, Thus saith Ben-hadad,

3 Thy silver and thy gold is mine; thy wives also and thy children, even the goodliest, are mine.

4 And the king of Israel answered and said, My lord, O king, according to thy saying, I am thine, and all that I have.

5 And the messengers came again, and said, Thus speaketh Ben-hadad, saying, Although I have sent unto thee, saying, Thou shalt deliver me thy silver, and thy gold, and thy wives, and thy children;

6 Yet I will send my servants unto thee to morrow about this time, and they shall search thine house, and the houses of thy servants; and it shall be, that whatsoever is ¹pleasant in thine eyes, they shall put it in their hand, and take it away.

Ahab's Message to Ben-hadad

9 Wherefore he said unto the messengers of Ben-hadad, Tell my lord the king, All that thou didst send for to thy servant at the first I will do: but this thing I may not do. And the messengers departed, and brought him word again.

10 And Ben-hadad sent unto him, and said, ^aThe gods do so unto me, and more also, if the dust of Samaria shall suffice for handfuls for all the people ¹that follow me.

Israel Will Be Victorious

mons. His response was decisive. He burned his past behind him. How different are those whose profession is merely external (cf. Matt. 8:18-22; Luke 9:57-62). In serving Elijah, much as Joshua had served under Moses, Elisha would learn that the secret to a successful ministry lies in having a servant's heart (cf. Mark 9:35).

20:1. Three Aramean kings bear the name Ben-hadad: Ben-hadad I (c. 885-860 B.C.), Ben-hadad II (c. 860-842 B.C.), and Ben-hadad III (c. 802-?), son of Hazael, the usurper.

20:3. Ben-hadad's demands called for Ahab to surrender and Israel to become his vassal state.

20:10. Ben-hadad suggests that his forces were so powerful and numerous that he not only could reduce Samaria to dust, but his many men could carry it off by the handfuls.

20:13. How graciously God continued to deal with Ahab! The whole episode (vv. 13-21) should have convinced Ahab of God's reality and claim upon his life.

15 Then he ¹numbered the young men of the princes of the provinces, and they were two hundred and thirty two: and after them he numbered all the people, even all the children of Israel, being seven thousand.

16 And they went out at noon. But Ben-hadad was ^adrinking himself drunk in the pavilions, he and the kings, the thirty and two kings that helped him.

17 And the young men of the princes of the provinces went out first; and Ben-hadad sent out, and they told him, saying, There are men come out of Samaria.

18 And he said, Whether they be come out for peace, take them alive; or whether they be come out for war, take them alive.

19 So these young men of the princes of the provinces came out of the city, and the army which followed them.

20 And ¹they slew every one his man: and the Syrians fled; and Israel pursued them: and Ben-hadad the king of Syria escaped on an horse with the horsemen.

26 And it came to pass at the return of the year, that Ben-hadad numbered the Syrians, and went up to ^aAphek, to fight against Israel.

27 And the children of Israel were ¹numbered, and were all ²present, and went against them: and the children of Israel ³pitched before them like two little flocks of kids; but the Syrians filled the ^acountry.

Israel Victorious Again

28 And there came a ^aman of God, and spake unto the king of Israel, and said, Thus saith the LORD, Because the Syrians have said, The LORD is God of the hills, but he is not God of the valleys, therefore ^bwill I deliver all this great multitude into thine hand, and ye shall know that I am the LORD.

29 And they ¹pitched one over against the other seven days. And so it was, that in the seventh day the battle was joined: and the children of Israel slew of the Syrians an hundred thousand footmen in one day.

30 But the rest fled to Aphek, into the city; and there a wall fell upon twenty and seven thousand of the men that were left. And Ben-hadad fled, and came into the city, into an inner chamber.

A Covenant with Ben-hadad

31 And his servants said unto him, Behold now, we have heard that the kings of the house of Israel are merciful kings: let us, I pray thee, ^aput sackcloth on our loins, and ropes upon our heads, and go out to the king of Israel: peradventure he will save thy life.

33 Now the men did diligently observe whether ¹*any thing would come* from him, and did hastily catch it: and they said, Thy brother Ben-hadad. Then he said, Go ye, bring him. Then Ben-hadad came forth to him; and he caused him to come up into the chariot.

35 And a certain man of ^athe sons of the prophets said unto his neighbour ^bin the word of the LORD, ¹Smite me, I pray thee. And the man refused to smite him.

36 Then said he unto him, Because thou hast not obeyed the voice of the LORD, behold, as soon as thou art departed from me, a lion shall slay thee. And as soon as he was departed from him, ^aa lion found him, and slew him.

43 And the king of Israel ^awent to his house ¹heavy and displeased, and came to Samaria.

Naboth Refuses to Sell His Vineyard

21 And it came to pass after these things, that Naboth the Jezreelite had a vineyard, which was in ^aJezreel, hard by the palace of Ahab king of Samaria.

2 And Ahab spake unto Naboth, saying, Give me thy ^avineyard, that I may have it for a garden of herbs, because it is near unto my house:

20:34. Ahab probably knew the times well, for even then Shalmaneser III, the king of Assyria (859–824 B.C.), was pushing westward toward the Mediterranean Sea. Ahab doubtless hoped for a friendly Ben-hadad and his Aramean allies to form a buffer for Israel against Assyria. Ahab, Ben-hadad, and several other Aramean kings soon faced Shalmaneser III in the Battle of Qarqar in 853 B.C. God had twice delivered Ahab (vv. 13–22, 28–30) in the face of overwhelming odds. God calls for His servants to trust Him and obey Him implicitly, rather than trusting in self or other men (cf. Deut. 28:1–7; Prov. 3:5, 6; Mic. 6:8).

21:1 Jezreel was a town on the southern border of Issachar (Josh. 19:18) but belonged to the tribe of Manasseh. It commanded the valley of Jezreel and was identified with modern Zer'in at the foot of Mount Gilboa. Jezreel was about 56 miles north of Jerusalem and lay between Megiddo and Beth-shean (4:12). Here, in the days of Saul, the Israelites encamped before battling the Philistines (1 Sam. 29), and this was one of the towns over which Ish-bosheth, son of Saul, briefly reigned (2 Sam. 2:9). Ahab had a royal residence here (18:45, 46), and Naboth's vineyard, which Jezebel plotted to obtain, was beside the palace (ch. 21). At Jezreel, Jezebel met her bloody death (2 Kin. 9:30–37), as did the remainder of the house of Ahab (2 Kin. 10:1–11).

and I will give thee for it a better vineyard than it; or, if it seem good to thee, I will give thee the worth of it in money.

3 And Naboth said to Ahab, The LORD forbid it me, ^athat I should give the inheritance of my fathers unto thee.

4 And Ahab came into his house ¹heavy and displeased because of the word which Naboth the Jezreelite had spoken to him: for he had said, I will not give thee the inheritance of my fathers. And he laid him down upon his bed, and turned away his face, and would eat no bread.

Jezebel's Plan

5 But ^aJezebel his wife came to him, and said unto him, Why is thy spirit so sad, that thou eatest no bread?

6 And he said unto her, Because I spake unto Naboth the Jezreelite, and said unto him, Give me thy vineyard for money; or else, if it please thee, I will give thee another vineyard for it: and he answered, I will not give thee my vineyard.

7 And Jezebel his wife said unto him, Dost thou now govern the kingdom of Israel? arise, and eat bread, and let thine heart be merry: I will give thee the vineyard of Naboth the Jezreelite.

8 So she wrote letters in Ahab's name, and sealed them with his seal, and sent the letters unto the elders and to the nobles that were in his city, dwelling with Naboth.

9 And she wrote in the letters, saying, Proclaim a fast, and ¹set Naboth ²on high among the people:

10 And set two men, ¹sons of Belial, before him, to bear witness against him, saying, Thou didst ^ablaspheme God and the king. And then carry him out, and ^bstone him, that he may die.

13 And there came in two men, children of Belial, and sat before him: and the men of Belial ^awitnessed against him, even against Naboth, in the presence of the people, saying, Naboth did blaspheme God and the king. ^bThen they carried him forth out of the city, and stoned him with stones, that he died.

14 Then they sent to Jezebel, saying, Naboth is stoned, and is dead.

15 And it came to pass, when Jezebel heard that Naboth was stoned, and was dead, that Jezebel said to Ahab, Arise, take possession of the vineyard of Naboth the Jezreelite, which he refused to give thee for money: for Naboth is not alive, but dead.

16 And it came to pass, when Ahab heard that Naboth was dead, that Ahab rose up to go down to the vineyard of Naboth the Jezreelite, to take possession of it.

21:14. Naboth's sons were apparently put to death at the same time (cf. 2 Kin. 9:26). Since there was now no male heir for the property, and because Naboth supposedly had committed blasphemy, custom dictated that the king could lay a claim to the property for the crown.

21:19. God fulfilled the prophecy through Jehu's slaughter of Ahab's sons (2 Kin. 9:26) and the licking of Ahab's blood by dogs at the pool in Samaria (22:37, 38).

blood of Naboth shall dogs lick thy blood, even thine.

20 And Ahab said to Elijah, "Hast thou found me, O mine enemy? And he answered, I have found thee: because ^bthou hast sold thyself to work evil in the sight of the LORD.

21 Behold, ^aI will bring ¹evil upon thee, and will take away thy ^bposterity, and will cut off from Ahab ^chim² that pisseth against the wall, and ^ahim that is shut up and left in Israel, 23 And ^aof Jezebel also spake the LORD, saying, The dogs shall eat Jezebel by the wall of Jezreel.

24 ^aHim that dieth of Ahab in the city the dogs shall eat; and him that dieth in the field shall the fowls of the air eat.

25 But ^athere was none like unto Ahab, which did sell himself to work wickedness in the sight of the LORD, ^bwhom Jezebel his wife ¹stirred up.

26 And he did very abominably in following idols, according to all things ^aas did the Amorites, whom the LORD cast out before the children of Israel.

27 And it came to pass, when Ahab heard those words, that he rent his clothes, and ^aput sackcloth upon his flesh, and fasted, and lay in sackcloth, and ¹went softly.

28 And the word of the LORD came to Elijah the Tishbite, saying,

Ahab and Jehoshaphat's Forces
22 And they continued three years without war between Syria and Israel.

2 And it came to pass in the third year, that ^aJehoshaphat the king of Judah came down to the king of Israel.

3 And the king of Israel said unto his servants, Know ye that ^aRamoth in Gilead is ours, and we ¹*be* still, and take it not out of the hand of the king of Syria?

4 And he said unto Jehoshaphat, Wilt thou go with me to battle to Ramoth-gilead? And Jehoshaphat said to the king of Israel, ^aI am as thou art, my people as thy people, my horses as thy horses.

5 And Jehoshaphat said unto the king of Israel, ^aEnquire, I pray thee, ¹at the word of the LORD to day.

6 Then the king of Israel ^agathered ¹the prophets together, about four hundred men, and said unto them, Shall I go against Ramoth-gilead to battle, or shall I forbear? And they said, Go up; for the LORD shall deliver it into the hand of the king.

7 And ^aJehoshaphat said, Is there not here a prophet of the LORD besides, that we might enquire of him?

8 And the king of Israel said unto Jehoshaphat, There is yet one man, Micaiah the son of Imlah, by whom we may enquire of the LORD: but I hate him; for he doth not prophesy good concerning me, but evil. And Jehoshaphat said, Let not the king say so.

21:23, 24. This prophecy was fulfilled literally (2 Kin. 9:30-37).

21:27-29. Ahab performed the traditional acts of mourning and repentance. Ahab had a complex personality. At times he could respond to divine rebuke and instruction. However, despite God's long-suffering kindness to him, there is little indication of any spiritual reality in Ahab. God is patient and gracious (cf. 2 Pet. 3:9).

22:1-3. Probably the Battle of Qarqar, in which the Assyrians fought the Arameans and the Israelites, had kept Ahab from occupying Ramoth in Gilead after the previous Aramean battles. With the Assyrian threat minimized for the present, the old antagonism (cf. ch. 20) between Ben-hadad and Ahab quickly resurfaced. Possession of Ramoth-gilead was the key to controlling the plain of Jezreel.

22:4. Jehoshaphat of Judah was now legally related to Ahab through the marriage of his son Jehoram (cf. 2 Kin. 8:18, 27) to Athaliah, the daughter of Ahab and Jezebel. Accordingly, Ahab's disputes now became family affairs for all Israel.

22:6-8. These four hundred prophets were doubtless proponents of the false state religion first instituted by Jeroboam I. Only Micaiah appears as a true prophet of the LORD.

9 Then the king of Israel called an officer, and said, Hasten hither Micaiah the son of Imlah.

The Counsel of Baal's Prophets

10 And the king of Israel and Jehoshaphat the king of Judah sat each on his throne, having put on their robes, ¹in a void place in the entrance of the gate of Samaria; and all the prophets prophesied before them.

11 And Zedekiah the son of Cheanaanah made him ^ahorns of iron: and he said, Thus saith the LORD, With these shalt thou ^bpush the Syrians, until thou have consumed them.

12 And all the prophets prophesied so, saying, Go up to Ramoth-gilead, and prosper: for the LORD shall deliver it into the king's hand.

13 And the messenger that was gone to call Micaiah spake unto him, saying, Behold now, the words of the prophets declare good unto the king with ¹one mouth: let thy word, I pray thee, be like the word of one of them, and speak that which is good.

14 And Micaiah said, As the LORD liveth, ^awhat the LORD saith unto me, that will I speak.

15 So he came to the king. And the king said unto him, Micaiah, shall we go against Ramoth-gilead to battle, or shall we ¹forbear? And he answered him, Go, and prosper: for the LORD shall deliver it into the hand of the king.

16 And the king said unto him, How many times shall I ¹adjure thee that thou tell me nothing but that which is true in the name of the LORD?

18 And the king of Israel said unto Jehoshaphat, Did I not tell thee that he would prophesy no good concerning me, but evil?

19 And ¹he said, Hear thou therefore the word of the LORD: ^aI saw the LORD sitting on his throne, ^band all the host of heaven standing by him on his right hand and on his left.

20 And the LORD said, Who shall persuade Ahab, that he may go up and fall at Ramoth-gilead? And one said on this manner, and another said on that manner.

21 And there came forth a spirit, and stood before the LORD, and said, I will persuade him.

22 And the LORD said unto him, Wherewith? And he said, I will go forth, and I will be a lying spirit in the mouth of all his prophets. And he said, ^aThou shalt persuade him, and prevail also: go forth, and do so.

23 ^aNow therefore, behold, the LORD hath put a lying spirit in the mouth of all these thy prophets, and the LORD hath ¹spoken evil concerning thee.

24 But Zedekiah the son of Cheanaanah went near, and ^asmote¹ Micaiah on the cheek, and said, ^bWhich way went the Spirit of the LORD from me to speak unto thee?

25 And Micaiah said, Behold, thou shalt see in that day, when thou shalt go into an ^ainner chamber to hide thyself.

26 And the king of Israel said, Take Micaiah, and carry him back unto Amon the governor of the city, and to Joash the king's son;

27 And say, Thus saith the king, Put this fellow in the ^aprison, and feed him with bread of affliction and with water of affliction, until I come in peace.

22:11. The goring horn was a familiar symbol of strong victory. It is found not only in the Scriptures (Dan. 8:7; Mic. 4:13; Zech. 1:18, 19) but also in the inscriptions and art of the ancient Near East.

22:15. Micaiah apparently gave to the king the words that he wanted. However, the sarcastic tone of his voice was clearly recognizable, and Ahab demanded that he speak what he really believed (v. 16).

22:17. This parabolic vision depicts the shepherdless Israelite forces trying to find their way home after being defeated in the battle.

22:19-23. These verses contain a second parabolic vision dramatizing Ahab's sure defeat and death at Ramoth-gilead.

28 And Micaiah said, If thou return at all in peace, ^athe LORD hath not spoken by me. And he said, Hearken, O people, every one of you.

Ahab Killed in Battle

29 So the king of Israel and Jehoshaphat the king of Judah went up to Ramoth-gilead.

30 And the king of Israel said unto Jehoshaphat, I will disguise myself, and enter into the battle; but put thou on thy robes. And the king of Israel ^adisguised himself, and went into the battle.

31 But the ^aking of Syria commanded his thirty and two ^bcaptains that had rule over his chariots, saying, Fight neither with small nor great, save only with the king of Israel.

32 And it came to pass, when the captains of the chariots saw Jehoshaphat, that they said, Surely it is the king of Israel. And they turned aside to fight against him: and Jehoshaphat ^acried out.

33 And it came to pass, when the captains of the chariots perceived that it was not the king of Israel, that they turned back from pursuing him.

34 And a certain man drew a bow ¹at a venture, and ²smote the king of Israel between the joints of ³the harness: wherefore he said unto the driver of his chariot, ⁴Turn thine hand, and carry me out of the host; for I am wounded.

35 And the battle increased that day: and the king was ¹stayed up in his chariot against the Syrians, and died at even: and the blood ran out of the wound ²into the midst of the chariot.

36 And there went a proclamation throughout the host about the going down of the sun, saying, Every man to his city, and every man to his own country.

37 So the king died, and was brought to Samaria; and they buried the king in Samaria.

38 And one washed the chariot in the pool of Samaria; and the dogs licked up his blood; ¹and they washed his armour; according ^aunto the word of the LORD which he spake.

39 Now the rest of the acts of Ahab, and all that he did, and ^athe ivory house which he made, and all the cities that he built, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel?

40 So Ahab ¹slept with his fathers; and ^aAhaziah his son reigned in his stead.

Jehoshaphat's Reign and Death

41 And ^aJehoshaphat the son of Asa began to reign over Judah in the fourth year of Ahab king of Israel.

42 Jehoshaphat was thirty and five years old when he began to reign; and he reigned twenty and five years in Jerusalem. And his mother's name was Azubah the daughter of Shilhi.

43 And ^ahe walked in all the ways of Asa his father; he turned not aside

22:30. Ahab never acted on spiritual advice, but he was taking no chances in the upcoming battle.

22:32, 33. Jehoshaphat's "family loyalty" in the face of Micaiah's stern warning nearly cost him his life. For his actions he was severely denounced by God's prophet (2 Chr. 19:1-3).

22:34. The Bowman's shot at a venture was a random shot only in the sense that he probably did not recognize Ahab as his target. The Hebrew phrase itself underscores his skill as a marksman.

22:35. Whatever his faults might have been, Ahab did not die as a coward. He did not allow his mortal wound to be a source of discouragement, hence defeat for his troops.

22:37, 38. Various prophecies came to pass at Ahab's dramatic death (20:42; 21:19; 22:17, 20).

22:39. Confirmation of the fact of Ahab's ivory house comes from the excavations at Samaria. Internally, the furniture was inlaid with ivory panels, the walls were covered with inlaid ivory, and ivory figures and plaques were found in abundance. Externally, the building was covered with a polished white limestone that in the gleaming sunlight gave the appearance of ivory to those who approached it. The use of ivory in the various palaces of the ancient Near East is widely attested. Amos complained that the indolent rich of the northern kingdom in the eighth century B.C. sprawled themselves out "upon beds of ivory" (Amos 6:4).

22:41-50. Little is said of Jehoshaphat here. For a full account of his life, see 2 Chronicles 17-20. His later accompanying of Jehoram of Israel on a campaign across the Jordan is recounted in 2 Kings 3:6-27.

Ahaziah's Reign

51 ^aAhaziah the son of Ahab began to reign over Israel in Samaria the seventeenth year of Jehoshaphat king of Judah, and reigned two years over Israel.

52 And he did evil in the sight of the LORD, and ^awalked in the way of his father, and in the way of his mother, and in the way of Jeroboam the son of Nebat, who made Israel to sin:

53 For ^ahe served Baal, and worshipped him, and provoked to anger the LORD God of Israel, ^baccording¹ to all that his father had done.

22:48, 49. Jehoshaphat's projected commercial venture with Ahaziah was denounced by God's prophet Eliezer (2 Chr. 20:36, 37). Moreover, the ships were destroyed while they were still in port at Ezion-geber. Jehoshaphat wisely refused a second business proposal by Ahaziah. For Ezion-geber and the merchant ships of Tharshish, see the notes on 9:26 and 10:22. For Ophir, see the note on 9:28.

The Second Book of the KINGS

The books of Kings were originally one book in the Hebrew text and formed a two-volume corpus with the present books of Samuel. Therefore, 2 Kings is actually the fourth book in the series on the history of the Hebrew kings as presently arranged. It also serves as the final account of the demise of the divided kingdoms of Israel and Judah. The narrative of this volume concentrates on the miraculous ministry of the prophet Elisha. Events parallel the prophetic ministries of Amos and Hosea in Israel and eight prophets of Judah, including Isaiah and Jeremiah. The book also covers the reigns of Amaziah (853 B.C.) to Hoshea (722 B.C.) in Israel, and the reigns of Jehoram (848 B.C.) to Zedekiah (586 B.C.) in Judah. Included are the accounts of the Assyrian conquest of the northern tribes and the deportation of Judah in the Babylonian captivity.

Historical Setting. In Kings we see the gloomy picture of the decline of both the northern and southern kingdoms (Israel and Judah) during their final days of independence. However, the major religious revivals under Hezekiah and Josiah are also recounted. Israel again is depicted as the starting point of God's dealings with the Gentile nations. Israel's spiritual disobedience and idolatry are viewed against the backdrop of the rising fortunes of Assyria in the eighth century B.C. and Babylon in the sixth century B.C. The northern kingdom finally fell to the Assyrians in 722 B.C., and the southern kingdom fell to the Babylonians in 605 B.C., with the final destruction of Jerusalem coming in 586 B.C.

Authorship. The author of 2 Kings is not known with certainty, although Jewish tradition claims it was Jeremiah. He certainly had every quality necessary to be the author of this material. He was both a prophet and a priest. He had direct access to Judah's last kings and was an eyewitness of her final destruction. For a detailed discussion of authorship see the introduction to 1 Kings.

A special feature of the books of the Kings is the correlation of historical facts with theological truths. This is no mere history as an end in itself. It is the story of the living God who acts in the affairs of men and nations. Here is the record, for all to read, of God's providential care of His people.

God's Message to Elijah and Ahaziah

1 Then Moab ^arebelled against Israel ^bafter the death of Ahab.

2 And ^aAhaziah fell down through a lattice in his upper chamber that was in Samaria, and was ¹sick: and he sent messengers, and said unto them, Go, enquire of ^bBaal-zebul² the god of ^cEkron whether I shall recover of this ³disease.

3 But the angel of the LORD said to Elijah the Tishbite, Arise, go up to meet the messengers of the king of Samaria, and say unto them, Is it not because there is not a God in Israel, that ye go to enquire of Baal-zebul the god of Ekron?

4 Now therefore thus saith the LORD, Thou shalt not come down from that bed on which thou art gone up, but shalt surely die. And Elijah departed.

7 And he said unto them, What ¹manner of man was he which came up to meet you, and told you these words?

8 And they answered him, He was ^aan hairy man, and girt with a girdle of leather about his loins. And he said, ^b*It is* Elijah the Tishbite.

Fire Consumes Two Companies

9 Then the king sent unto him a captain of fifty with his fifty. And he went up to him: and, behold, he sat on the top of an hill. And he spake unto him, Thou man of God, the king hath said, Come down.

1:2. Ahaziah fell down through a lattice that enclosed the upper balcony. The name Baal-zebul may conceal a more original Baal-zebul, meaning "Baal Is Prince." The Canaanite deity's name was also corrupted by Hebrew writers to Baal-zebel, "Lord of Dung." The word enquire is usually reserved for the consulting of an oracle. Philistine soothsayers enjoyed a wide reputation in those times (cf. 1 Sam. 6:2; Is. 2:6). Apparently Baal was uniquely the cult god of Ekron.

1:3. A king was often designated by his capital city (1 Kin. 21:1; Jon. 3:6).

1:8. Elijah probably wore a hairy garment with a leather belt at the waist (cf. Zech. 13:4; Matt. 3:4).

10 And Elijah answered and said to the captain of fifty, If I be a man of God, then ^alet fire come down from heaven, and consume thee and thy fifty. And there came down fire from heaven, and consumed him and his fifty.

11 Again also he sent unto him another captain of fifty with his fifty. And he answered and said unto him, O man of God, thus hath the king said, Come down quickly.

12 And Elijah answered and said unto them, If I be a man of God, let fire come down from heaven, and consume thee and thy fifty. And the fire of God came down from heaven, and consumed him and his fifty.

Third Company Spared

13 And he sent again a captain of the third fifty with his fifty. And the third captain of fifty went up, and came and ¹fell on his knees before Elijah, and besought him, and said unto him, O man of God, I pray thee, let my life, and the life of these fifty thy servants, ^abe precious in thy sight.

14 Behold, there came fire down from heaven, and burnt up the two captains of the former fifties with their fifties: therefore let my life now be precious in thy sight.

15 And the angel of the LORD said unto Elijah, Go down with him: be not afraid of him. And he arose, and went down with him unto the king.

Ahaziah's Death

16 And he said unto him, Thus saith the LORD, Forasmuch as thou hast sent messengers to enquire of Baal-zebub the god of Ekron, is it not because there is no God in Israel to enquire of his word? therefore thou shalt not come down off that bed on which thou art gone up, but shalt surely die.

Elijah and Elisha

2 And it came to pass, when the LORD would ^atake up Elijah into heaven by a whirlwind, that Elijah went with ^bElisha from Gilgal.

2 And Elijah said unto Elisha, ^aTarry here, I pray thee; for the LORD hath sent me to Beth-el. And Elisha said unto him, As the LORD liveth, and ^bas thy soul liveth, I will not leave thee. So they went down to Beth-el.

3 And ^athe sons of the prophets that were at Beth-el came forth to Elisha, and said unto him, Knowest thou that the LORD will take away thy master ¹from thy head to day? And he said, Yea, I know it; hold ye your peace.

Prophets at Jericho and Jordan

4 And Elijah said unto him, Elisha, tarry here, I pray thee; for the LORD hath sent me to Jericho. And he said, As the LORD liveth, and as thy soul liveth, I will not leave thee. So they came to Jericho.

5 And the sons of the prophets that were at Jericho came to Elisha, and said unto him, Knowest thou that the LORD will take away thy master from thy head to day? And he answered, Yea, I know it; ¹hold ye your peace.

6 And Elijah said unto him, Tarry, I pray thee, here; for the LORD hath sent me to Jordan. And he said, As the LORD liveth, and as thy soul liveth, I will not leave thee. And they two went on.

1:10. Fire from heaven was often a sign of divine judgment (cf. 1 Kin. 18:36–38; Luke 9:54).

1:17. Two kings named Jehoram are in view here. Jehoram the son of Ahab and brother of Ahaziah reigned over the northern kingdom from 852 to 841 B.C. Jehoram the son of Jehoshaphat king of Judah reigned as co-regent with his father from 852 to 848 B.C. and in his own right from 848 to 841 B.C.

2:2, 3. For the sons of the prophets, see the note on 1 Kings 18:4. Apparently the prophetic schools at Beth-el and Jericho (vv. 4, 5) recognized the leadership of Elijah.

7 And fifty men of the sons of the prophets went, and stood ¹to view afar off: and they two stood by Jordan.

8 And Elijah took his mantle, and wrapped it together, and smote the waters, and ^athey were divided hither and thither, so that they two went over on dry ^bground.

9 And it came to pass, when they were gone over, that Elijah said unto Elisha, Ask what I shall do for thee, before I be taken away from thee. And Elisha said, I pray thee, let a double portion of thy spirit be upon me.

10 And he said, Thou hast asked a hard thing: nevertheless, if thou see me when I am taken from thee, it shall be so unto thee; but if not, it shall not be so.

11 And it came to pass, as they still went on, and talked, that, behold, there appeared ^aa chariot of fire, and horses of fire, and ¹parted them both asunder; and Elijah ^bwent up by a whirlwind into heaven.

The Waters Parted by Elisha

12 And Elisha saw it, and he cried, "My father, my father, the chariot of Israel, and the horsemen thereof. And he saw him no more: and he took hold of his own clothes, and ¹rent them in two pieces.

13 He took up also the mantle of Elijah that fell from him, and went back, and stood by the bank of Jordan;

14 And he took the mantle of Elijah that fell from him, and smote the waters, and said, Where is the LORD God of Elijah? and when he also had smitten the waters, ^athey parted hither and thither: and Elisha went over.

15 And when the sons of the prophets ¹which were ^ato view at Jericho saw him, they said, The spirit of Elijah doth rest on Elisha. And they came to meet him, and bowed themselves to the ground before him.

The Search for Elijah

16 And they said unto him, Behold now, there be with thy servants fifty strong men; let them go, we pray thee, and seek thy master: ^alest peradventure the Spirit of the LORD hath taken him up, and cast him upon some mountain, or into some valley. And he said, Ye shall not send.

17 And when they urged him till he was ^aashamed, he said, Send. They sent therefore fifty men; and they sought three days, but found him not.

18 And when they came again to him, (for he tarried at Jericho,) he said unto them, Did I not say unto you, Go not?

Jericho's Healing Water

19 And the men of the city said unto Elisha, Behold, I pray thee, the situation of this city is pleasant, as my lord seeth: but the water is ¹naught, and the ground barren.

20 And he said, Bring me a new cruse, and put salt therein. And they brought it to him.

21 And he went forth unto the spring of the waters, and ^acast the salt in there, and said, Thus saith the LORD, I have ¹healed these waters; there shall not be from thence any more death or barren land.

22 So the waters were ^ahealed unto this day, according to the saying of Elisha which he spake.

2:9, 10. As Elijah's spiritual heir, Elisha asks for a double portion of Elijah's spirit (cf. Deut. 21:17 with 1 Kin. 19:16-21) so that Elijah's God-empowered spiritual activity might continue after his departure, through his successor. Obviously only God could grant such a request.

2:11. Elijah followed Enoch in being taken into heaven without dying. This is one of several "raptures" in Scripture, including Enoch (Gen. 5:24), the two witnesses (Rev. 11:11-12), and all living believers at Christ's return (1 Thess. 4:16-17).

2:12. Elisha's tribute to his spiritual father as the foremost prophet of all would be echoed at his own death (cf. 13:14). Elisha's tearing of his clothes was a sign of mourning at his personal loss.

2:19-24. These two public miracles clearly established that Elisha had succeeded Elijah. They also set the tone for the spiritual power of his ministry.

2:21. The waters of Jericho may still have felt the effect of Joshua's curse (cf. Josh. 6:26). For purification by salt, see Leviticus 2:13; Numbers 18:19; Ezekiel 43:24.

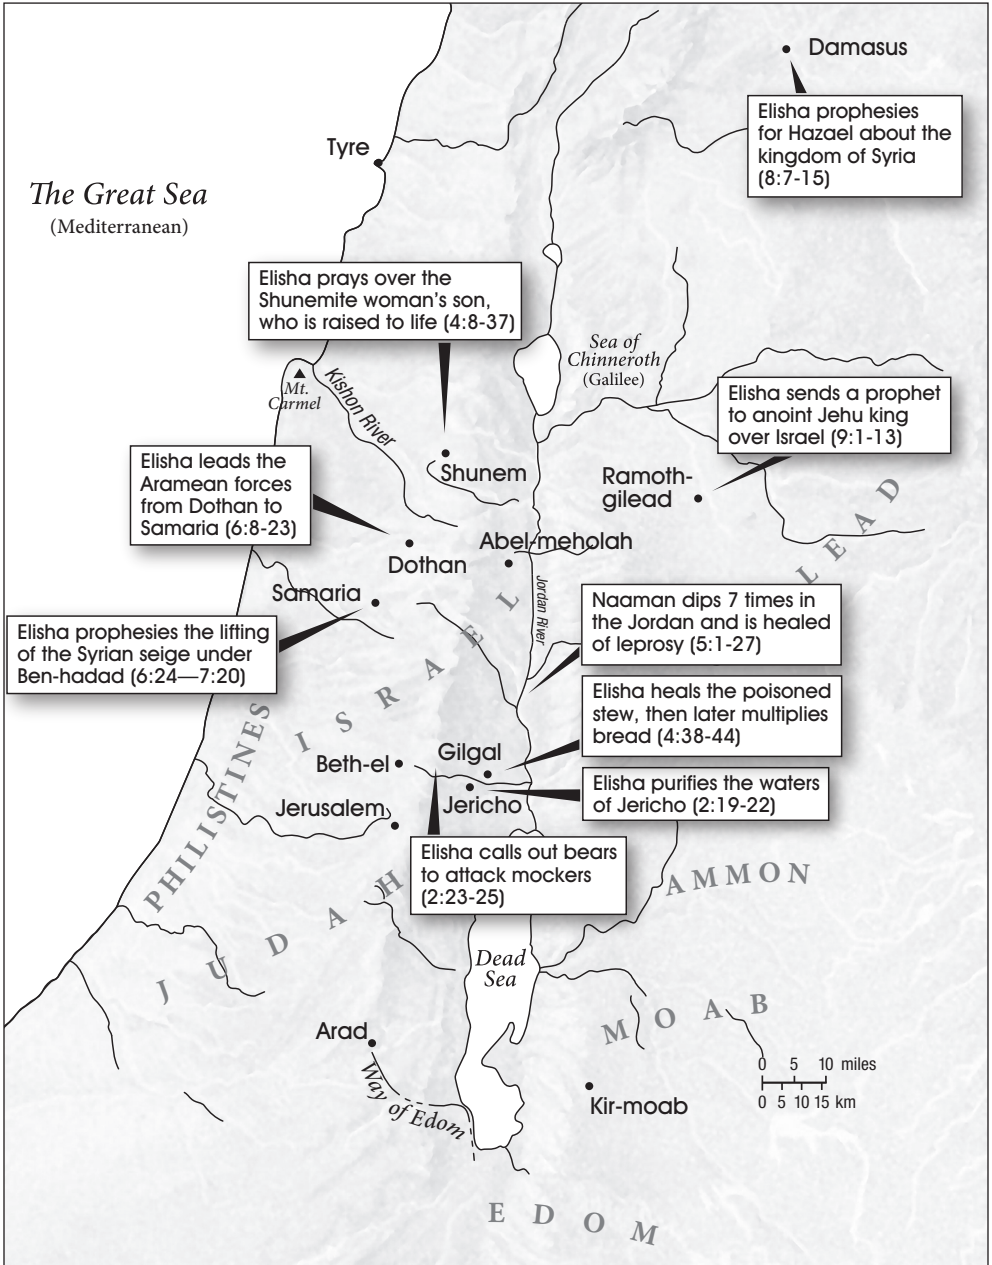

23 And he went up from thence unto Beth-el: and as he was going up by the way, there came forth little children out of the city, and

2:23 ^{1 youths} mocked him, and said unto him, Go up, thou bald head; go up, thou bald head.

24 And he turned back, and

2:23. Bald head was a taunt of scorn (cf. Is. 3:17, 24). These children were older youths of responsible age who were actually blaspheming God by casting doubt upon Elisha's report of the "going up" of Elijah. Therefore, both God and His newly designated prophet were to be vindicated so proper respect might be shown.

25 And he went from thence to ^amount Carmel, and from thence he returned to Samaria.

Jehoram's Reign

3 Now ^aJehoram the son of Ahab began to reign over Israel in Samaria the eighteenth year of Jehoshaphat king of Judah, and reigned twelve years.

2 And he wrought evil in the sight of the LORD; but not like his father, and like his mother: for he put away the ¹image of Baal ^athat his father had made.

3 Nevertheless he ¹cleaved unto ^athe sins of Jeroboam the son of Nebat, which made Israel to sin; he departed not therefrom.

4 And Mesha king of Moab was a ¹sheepmaster, and ^arendered² unto the king of Israel an hundred thousand ^blambs, and an hundred thousand rams, with the wool.

5 But it came to pass, when ^aAhab was dead, that the king of Moab rebelled against the king of Israel.

Israel, Judah, and Edom

6 And king Jehoram went out of Samaria the same time, and ¹numbered all Israel.

7 And he went and sent to Jehoshaphat the king of Judah, saying, The king of Moab hath rebelled against me: wilt thou go with me against Moab to battle? And he said, I will go up: ^aI am as thou art, my people as thy people, and my horses as thy horses.

3:3. The sins of Jeroboam involved the state religion that Jeroboam I had established as a rival to the true faith in Jerusalem (cf. 1 Kin. 12:26–33).

3:5. Confirmation of this event comes from the Moabite Stone set up by Mesha, the king of Moab. See the note on 1 Kings 16:27.

3:7. Family ties again brought Jehoshaphat into a military expedition. See the note on 1 Kings 22:4.

3:9. Apparently Jehoshaphat had gained the allegiance of the Edomites in the previous Trans-Jordanian war (cf. 2 Chr. 20).

3:11. Whatever Jehoshaphat's faults might have been in allowing himself to be drawn into dangerous circumstances, he was consistently concerned

8 And he said, Which way shall we go up? And he answered, The way through the wilderness of Edom.

10 And the king of Israel said, Alas! that the LORD hath called these three kings together, to deliver them into the hand of Moab!

11 But ^aJehoshaphat said, Is there not here a prophet of the LORD, that we may enquire of the LORD by him? And one of the king of Israel's servants answered and said, Here is Elisha the son of Shaphat, ¹which ^bpoured water on the hands of Elijah.

with spiritual things. As on the previous occasion (cf. 1 Kin. 22:7–28), so here he asks for a true prophet in order that the Lord's will may be known in the entire enterprise. Whether Elisha was ministering in the area or had accompanied the military forces, as was often done in the ancient Near East, is uncertain.

3:15. Elisha's call for a minstrel is not evidence that he was an ecstatic, as sometimes suggested. Elisha was simply setting a proper atmosphere for spiritual things in the midst of dire conditions. Music was an important part of Israel's spiritual experience, whether individually or in situations of formal religious worship.

Water Provided

16 And he said, Thus saith the LORD, ^aMake this valley full of ¹ditches.

17 For thus saith the LORD, Ye shall not see wind, neither shall ye see rain; yet that valley shall be filled with water, that ye may drink, both ye, and your cattle, and your beasts.

27 Then ^ahe took his eldest son that should have reigned in his stead, and offered him for a burnt offering upon the wall. And there was great ¹indignation against Israel: ^band they departed from him, and returned to their own land.

Paying a Widow's Debt

4 Now there cried a certain woman of the wives of ^athe sons of the prophets unto Elisha, saying, Thy servant my husband is dead; and thou knowest that thy servant did fear the LORD: and the creditor is come ^bto take unto him my two sons to be ¹bondmen.

2 And Elisha said unto her, What shall I do for thee? tell me, what hast thou in the house? And she said, Thine handmaid hath not any thing in the house, save a pot of oil.

3 Then he said, Go, borrow thee vessels abroad of all thy neighbours, even empty vessels; ^aborrow¹ not a few.

4 And when thou art come in, thou shalt shut the door upon thee and upon thy sons, and shalt pour out into all those vessels, and thou shalt set aside that which is full.

5 So she went from him, and shut the door upon her and upon her sons, who brought the vessels to her; and she poured out.

3:19. These wartime directions go beyond the normal limits allowable in battle situations (cf. Deut. 20:19, 20).

3:26. The king of Moab probably decided to fight the Edomite forces because of Edom's lesser forces and to punish Edom for siding with the allied Israelite armies.

3:27. The Moabite king's desperate sacrifice of his son is often paralleled in the literature of the ancient Near East. This verse provides an instance where the Bible supplements the information from secular history (i.e., the Moabite Stone). The Israelites left the scene with disgust at what they saw.

4:1. The sons of the prophets did marry at times. Levitical legislation allowed for debtors to work off their debts (cf. Ex. 21:2–4; Lev. 25:39, 40; Deut. 12:12). The enslaving of family members in lieu of a debt was a common practice in the ancient Near East.

4:4. The miraculous provision was a spiritual experience and not designed for public show (cf. Matt. 6:6).

6 And it came to pass, when the vessels were full, that she said unto her son, Bring me yet a vessel. And he said unto her, There is not a vessel more. And the oil ¹stayed.

7 Then she came and told the man of God. And he said, Go, sell the oil, and pay thy debt, and live thou and thy children of the rest.

The Shunammite Woman's Kindness

8 And it fell on a day, that Elisha passed to ^aShunem, where was a ¹great woman; and she ²constrained him ³to eat bread. And so it was, that as oft as he passed by, he turned in ⁴thither to eat bread.

9 And she said unto her husband, Behold now, I perceive that this is an holy man of God, which passeth by us ¹continually.

18 And when the child was grown, it fell on a day, that he went out to his father to the reapers.

19 And he said unto his father, My head, my head. And he said to a lad, Carry him to his mother.

20 And when he had taken him, and brought him to his mother, he sat on her knees till noon, and then died.

21 And she went up, and laid him on the bed of the man of God, and shut the door upon him, and went out.

The Search for Elisha

22 And she called unto her husband, and said, Send me, I pray thee, one of the young men, and one of the asses, that I may run to the man of God, and come again.

23 And he said, Wherefore wilt thou go to him to day? it is neither ^anew moon, nor sabbath. And she said, ¹*It shall be* well.

4:19. The lad may have suffered a fatal sunstroke.

4:25. Mount Carmel had become a familiar retreat for Elisha (cf. 2:25). Perhaps a prophetic school had grown up at the scene of Elijah's great triumph (cf. 1 Kin. 18:16–45).

27 And when she came to the man of God to the hill, she caught him by the feet: but Gehazi came near to thrust her away. And the man of God said, Let her alone; for her soul is ¹vexed within her: and the LORD hath hid it from me, and hath not told me.

28 Then she said, Did I desire a son of my lord? ^adid I not say, Do not deceive me?

The Poisonous Pottage

38 And Elisha came again to ^aGilgal: and there was a ^bdearth¹ in the land; and the sons of the prophets were ^asitting before him: and he said unto his servant, Set on the great pot, and seethe pottage for the sons of the prophets.

39 And one went out into the field to gather herbs, and found a wild vine, and gathered thereof wild gourds his lap full, and came and shred them into the pot of pottage: for they knew them not.

40 So they poured out for the men to eat. And it came to pass, as they were eating of the pottage, that they cried out, and said, O thou man of God, there is ^adeath in the pot. And they could not eat thereof.

41 But he said, Then bring meal. And ^ahe cast it into the pot; and he said, Pour out for the people, that they may eat. And there was ¹no harm in the pot.

The Twenty Loaves

42 And there came a man from ^aBaal-shalisha, ^band brought the man of God bread of the firstfruits, twenty loaves of barley, and full ears of ¹corn in the ²husk thereof. And he said, Give unto the people, that they may eat.

43 And his servitor said, ^aWhat, should I set this before an hundred men? He said again, Give the people,

4:29. The laying of Elisha's staff on the dead child's face would symbolize the prophet's claim upon the child until he could come. The prophet's staff was the symbol of his God-given power (cf. Ex. 4:1-4; 17:8-13).

4:32-35. Elisha's faith and practice are evident. Not only did he believe God but he acted in accordance with known prophetic procedures in such cases (cf. 1 Kin. 17:21; Acts 20:9, 10).

4:42. Normally such firstfruits were reserved for God (Lev. 23:20) and the priests (Num. 18:13; Deut. 18:4-6). However, the priests of the northern kingdom were apostates; only the true prophets properly represented God in the land.

Naaman Seeks Healing for His Leprosy

5 Now ^aNaaman, captain of the host of the king of Syria, was ^{ba} a great man with his master, and honourable, because by him the LORD had given ¹deliverance unto Syria: he was also a mighty man in valour, but he was a leper.

2 And the Syrians had gone out ^aby¹ companies, and had brought away captive out of the land of Israel a little maid; and she ²waited on Naaman's wife.

3 And she said unto her mistress, Would God my lord were with the prophet that is in Samaria! for he would ¹recover him of his leprosy.

4 And ¹one went in, and told his lord, saying, Thus and thus said the maid that is of the land of Israel.

5 And the king of Syria said, Go to, go, and I will send a letter unto the king of Israel. And he departed, and ^atook with him ten talents of silver, and six thousand pieces of gold, and ten changes of raiment.

6 And he brought the letter to the king of Israel, saying, Now when this letter is come unto thee, behold, I have therewith sent Naaman my

Naaman Sent to Elisha

8 And it was so, when Elisha the man of God had heard that the king of Israel had rent his clothes, that he sent to the king, saying, Wherefore hast thou rent thy clothes? let him come now to me, and he shall know that there is a prophet in Israel.

9 So Naaman came with his horses and with his chariot, and stood at the door of the house of Elisha.

10 And Elisha sent a messenger unto him, saying, Go and ^awash in Jordan seven times, and thy flesh shall come again to thee, and thou shalt be clean.

11 But Naaman was wroth, and went away, and said, Behold, I thought, He will surely come out to me, and stand, and call on the name of the LORD his God, and ¹strike his hand over the place, and ²recover the leper.

4:43, 44. This scene anticipates the ministry of the great Bread of Life (John 6:35), who multiplied the loaves (Matt. 14:16–20; 15:36, 37; John 6:11–14).

5:1. Naaman was a high-ranking military official and a man of high social and economic standing.

5:3. The word for leprosy designates not only Hansen's disease (cf. 15:5), but also serious skin conditions (cf. Lev. 13:1–46) and various types of fungi (Lev. 13:47–56; 14:33–57).

5:5–7. Jehoram feared that the letter of the king of Syria might have been a pretext for war. Letters of provocation were common enough in the ancient Near East (cf. 1 Kin. 20:1–11; 2 Kin. 14:8–10).

5:11. Because of his prominence Naaman expected a greater reception from Elisha.

5:12 Damascus, the capital of Syria, has been labeled the oldest continually inhabited city in the world (Is. 7:8). It is located northeast of the Sea of Galilee and Mount Hermon in northern Palestine. Three major caravan routes passed through Damascus. Major roads extended from the city to the southwest into Palestine and Egypt, straight south to Egypt and the Red Sea, and east to Babylon. Damascus owed its prosperity to two rivers, the Abana and the Pharpar (v. 12). The Syrian people were so proud of these streams that Naaman the Syrian leper almost passed up his opportunity to be healed when Elisha told him to dip himself in the waters of the Jordan River in Israel. He thought of the Jordan as an inferior stream in comparison with these majestic rivers (vv. 9–14). In the days of Israel's divided kingdom, Damascus was the capital of an Aramean kingdom that engaged in hostilities, not only with Israel and Judah, but also with mighty Assyria.

in them, and be clean? So he turned and went away in a rage.

Naaman's Leprosy Healed

13 And his ^aservants came near, and spake unto him, and said, My father, if the prophet had bid thee do some great thing, wouldest thou not have done it? how much rather then, when he saith to thee, Wash, and be clean?

14 Then went he down, and dipped himself seven times in Jordan, according to the saying of the man of God: and his ^aflesh came again like unto the flesh of a little child, and ^bhe was clean.

Elisha Refuses a Gift

15 And he returned to the man of God, he and all his company, and came, and stood before him: and he said, Behold, now I know that there is ^ano God in all the earth, but in Israel: now therefore, I pray thee, take ^ba ¹ blessing of thy servant.

16 But he said, ^aAs the LORD liveth, before whom I stand, ^bI will receive none. And he urged him to take it; but he refused.

17 And Naaman said, Shall there not then, I pray thee, be given to thy servant two mules' burden of earth? for thy servant will henceforth offer neither burnt offering nor sacrifice unto other gods, but unto the LORD.

18 In this thing the LORD pardon thy servant, that when my master goeth into the house of Rimmon to worship there, and ^ahe leaneth on my hand, and I bow myself in the house of Rimmon: when I bow down myself in the house of Rimmon, the LORD pardon thy servant in this thing.

Gehazi's Sin and Punishment

20 But ^aGehazi, the servant of Elisha the man of God, said, Behold, my master hath spared Naaman this Syrian, in not receiving at his hands that which he brought: but, as the LORD liveth, I will run after him, and take somewhat of him.

21 So Gehazi followed after Naaman. And when Naaman saw him running after him, he lighted down from the chariot to meet him, and said, Is all well?

22 And he said, All is ^awell. My master hath sent me, saying, Behold, even now there be come to me from mount Ephraim two young men of the sons of the prophets: give them, I pray thee, a talent of silver, and two changes of garments.

23 And Naaman said, Be content, take two talents. And he urged him, and bound two talents of silver in two bags, with two changes of garments, and laid them upon two of his servants; and they bare them before him.

24 And when he came to the ¹tower, he took them from their hand, and ²bestowed them in the house: and he let the men go, and they departed.

25 But he went in, and stood before his master. And Elisha said unto him, Whence comest thou, Gehazi? And he said, Thy servant went ¹no whither.

5:13. My father was a common term of servitude, humility, or respect.

5:14. For the term man of God, see the note on 1 Samuel 9:6–11.

5:15–18. More than Naaman's physical condition had changed. He displayed new attitudes as well: thanksgiving (v. 15), reverence (v. 17), and humility (v. 18).

5:16. Elisha demonstrated well the spiritual principle that God's ministers ought not to make merchandise of the ministry.

5:18. The name Rimmon is probably a parody on the epithet ramanu, "thunder," a title used of the Aramean storm god Hadad.

5:20, 21. Gehazi's basic selfishness and shallow spiritual condition come to the surface in the following account. By contrast, Naaman, who had resented being received by Elisha's messenger previously (vv. 10, 11), now comes down to meet the prophet's servant.

An Ax Head Floats

6 And ^athe sons of the prophets said unto Elisha, Behold now, the place where we dwell with thee is too ¹strait for us.

2 Let us go, we pray thee, unto Jordan, and take thence every man a beam, and let us make us a place there, where we may dwell. And he answered, Go ye.

3 And one said, Be ^acontent, I pray thee, and go with thy servants. And he answered, I will go.

4 So he went with them. And when they came to Jordan, they cut down wood.

5 But as one was felling a beam, the ¹ax head fell into the water: and he cried, and said, Alas, master! for it was ^aborrowed.

6 And the man of God said, Where fell it? And he shewed him the place. And ^ahe cut down a stick, and cast it in thither; and the iron did swim.

7 Therefore said he, Take it up to thee. And he put out his hand, and took it.

Syria Wars Against Israel

8 Then the ^aking of Syria warred against Israel, and took counsel with his servants, saying, In such and such a place shall be my camp.

9 And the man of God sent unto the king of Israel, saying, Beware that thou pass not such a place; for thither the Syrians are come down.

10 And the king of Israel sent to the place which the man of God told him and warned him of, and ¹saved himself there, ²not once nor twice.

11 Therefore the heart of the king of Syria was sore troubled for this thing; and he called his servants, and said unto them, Will ye not shew

15 And when the servant of the man of God was risen early, and gone forth, behold, an host compassed the city both with horses and chariots. And his servant said unto him, Alas, my master! how shall we do?

16 And he answered, ^aFear not: for ^bthey that be with us are more than they that be with them.

7 Then Elisha said, Hear ye the word of the LORD; Thus saith the LORD, ^aTo morrow about this time shall a ¹measure of fine flour be sold for a shekel, and two ¹measures of barley for a shekel, in the gate of Samaria.

2 ^aThen a lord on whose hand the king leaned answered the man of God, and said, Behold, ^bif the LORD would make windows in heaven, might this thing be? And he said,

6:23. Elisha's kindness to his enemies is like Jesus' own injunctions (Matt. 5:43-47).

6:24. The Aramean king was Ben-hadad II. See the note on 1 Kings 20:1.

6:25. The situation was so severe that even forbidden food was sought at exorbitant prices.

6:27-29. The extreme conditions had brought on cannibalism. This was the prophesied result of Israel's disobedience (Lev. 26:29; Deut. 28:53, 57). It would be repeated again at the fall of Jerusalem (Jer. 19:9; Lam. 2:20; 4:10). Josephus reports similar conditions during the siege of Jerusalem by the Roman legions in New Testament times.

6:31-33. The Aramean king had recognized that his most dangerous foe was God's prophet Elisha (cf. vv. 12-15). Now the godless Jehoram likewise blames all his troubles on him. Subsequently, Jehoram comes to himself, and the repentant king runs after his messenger to avert the slaying of the prophet.

7:1. Jehoram had felt that all was really lost (6:33). Elisha's words were designed to give the discouraged king new assurance that the Lord was in charge of the whole situation and was ever merciful toward a repentant and obedient heart.

7:2. The officer's disbelief would cause him to fail to partake of any of the promised plenty, even though he would live to see it (vv. 19, 20).

Behold, thou shalt see it with thine eyes, but shalt not eat thereof.

Lepers Find the Camp Deserted

3 And there were four leprous men ^aat the ¹entering in of the gate: and they said one to another, Why sit we here until we die?

4 If we say, We will enter into the city, then the famine is in the city, and we shall die there: and if we sit still here, we die also. Now therefore come, and let us ¹fall unto the ^ahost of the Syrians: if they save us alive, we shall live; and if they kill us, we shall but die.

5 And they rose up in the twilight, to go unto the camp of the Syrians: and when they were come to the uttermost part of the camp of Syria, behold, there was no man there.

6 For the Lord had made the host of the Syrians ^ato hear a noise of chariots, and a noise of horses, even the noise of a great host: and they said one to another, Lo, the king of Israel hath hired against us ^bthe kings of the Hittites, and the kings of the Egyptians, to come upon us.

7 Wherefore they ^aarose and fled in the twilight, and left their tents, and their horses, and their asses, even the camp as it was, and fled for their life.

8 And when these lepers came to the uttermost part of the camp, they went into one tent, and did eat and drink, and carried thence silver, and gold, and raiment, and went and hid it; and came again, and entered into another tent, and carried thence also, and went and hid it.

9 Then they said one to another, ¹We do not well: this day is a day of good tidings, and we hold our peace: if we ²tarry till the morning light, some ³mischieff will come upon us: now therefore come, that we may go and tell the king's household.

The King's Disbelief

12 And the king arose in the night, and said unto his servants, I will now shew you what the Syrians have done to us. They know that we be ^ahungry; therefore are they gone out of the camp to ¹hide themselves in the field, saying, When they come out of the city, we shall catch them alive, and get into the city.

13 And one of his servants answered and said, Let some take, I pray thee, five of the horses that remain, which are left in the city, (behold, they are as all the multitude of Israel that are left in it: behold, I say, they are even as all the multitude of the Israelites that are consumed:) and let us send and see.

14 They took therefore two chariot horses; and the king sent after the host of the Syrians, saying, Go and see.

15 And they went after them unto Jordan: and, lo, all the way was full of garments and vessels, which the Syrians had cast away in their haste. And the messengers returned, and told the king.

The Prophecy Fulfilled

16 And the people went out, and ¹spoiled the tents of the Syrians. So a measure of fine flour was sold for a shekel, and two measures of barley for a shekel, ^aaccording to the word of the LORD.

7:9. Failure to share their good fortune with others would be a sin worthy of judgment against the lepers (cf. Prov. 15:27; 21:17, 18; 1 Cor. 10:24). So ought men to share the Good News of the gospel with all (cf. Rom. 10:13-15).

said, who spake when the king came down to him.

18 And it came to pass as the man of God had spoken to the king, saying, "Two measures of barley for a shekel, and a measure of fine flour for a shekel, shall be to morrow about this time in the gate of Samaria:

19 And that lord answered the man of God, and said, Now, behold, if the LORD should make windows in heaven, might such a thing be? And he said, Behold, thou shalt see it with thine eyes, but shalt not eat thereof.

20 And so it fell out unto him: for the people trode upon him in the gate, and he died.

Seven Years of Famine

8 Then spake Elisha unto the woman, "whose son he had restored to life, saying, Arise, and go thou and thine household, and ¹sojourn wheresoever thou canst sojourn: for the LORD ^bhath called for a 'famine; and it shall also come upon the land seven years.

2 And the woman arose, and did after the saying of the man of God: and she went with her household, and sojourned in the land of the Philistines seven years.

Land Restored

3 And it came to pass at the seven years' end, that the woman returned out of the land of the Philistines: and she went forth to ¹cry unto the king for her house and for her land.

4 And the king talked with ^aGehazi the servant of the man of God, saying, Tell me, I pray thee, all the great things that Elisha hath done.

5 And it came to pass, as he was telling the king how he had ^arestored a dead body to life, that, behold, the woman, whose son he had restored

6 And when the king asked the woman, she told him. So the king appointed unto her a certain officer, saying, Restore all that was hers, and all the fruits of the field since the day that she left the land, even until now.

Ben-hadad's Illness

7 And Elisha came to Damascus; and ^aBen-hadad the king of Syria was sick; and it was told him, saying, The man of God is come hither.

8 And the king said unto ^aHazael, ^bTake a present in thine hand, and go, meet the man of God, and ^cenquire of the LORD by him, saying, Shall I recover of this disease?

9 So ^aHazael went to meet him, and took a present with him, even of every good thing of Damascus, forty camels' burden, and came and stood before him, and said, Thy son Ben-hadad king of Syria hath sent me to thee, saying, Shall I recover of this disease?

10 And Elisha said unto him, Go, say unto him, Thou mayest certainly recover: howbeit the LORD hath shewed me that ^ahe shall surely die.

11 And he ¹settled his countenance stedfastly, until he was ashamed: and the man of God ^awept.

12 And Hazael said, Why weepeth my lord? And he answered, Because I know ^athe evil that thou wilt do unto the children of Israel: their strong holds wilt thou set on fire, and their young men wilt thou slay with the sword, and ^bwilt dash their children, and rip up their women with child.

8:4-6. The Lord had sovereignly arranged the circumstances so that as the king's curiosity concerning Elisha was being satisfied by Gehazi, the needs of the lady from Shunem could be met. How often the Lord weaves together the little threads of the believer's life for God's glory and the believer's good.

8:12. Such barbaric actions were not unknown in the ancient Near East (cf. Hos. 13:16; Amos 1:13). Hazael would indeed perpetrate these shameful practices (cf. 10:32; 13:3-7, 22).

8:13-15. For the dog as a symbol of abasement or contempt, see 1 Samuel 24:14; 2 Samuel 9:8; 16:9. Perhaps Elisha had been appointed to fulfill Elijah's commission to anoint the Aramean general Hazael this great thing? And Elisha answered, ^bThe LORD hath shewed me that thou shalt be king over Syria.

Hazael Murders Ben-hadad

14 So he departed from Elisha, and came to his master; who said to him, What said Elisha to thee? And he answered, He told me that thou shouldst surely recover.

15 And it came to pass on the morrow, that he took a thick cloth, and dipped it in water, and spread it on his face, so that he died: and Hazael reigned in his stead.

Jehoram's Reign

16 And ^ain the fifth year of Joram the son of Ahab king of Israel, Jehoshaphat being then king of Judah, ^bJehoram the son of Jehoshaphat king of Judah ¹began to reign.

17 ^aThirty and two years old was he when he began to reign; and he reigned eight years in Jerusalem.

18 And he walked in the way of the kings of Israel, as did the house of Ahab: for ^athe daughter of Ahab was his wife: and he did evil in the sight of the LORD.

19 Yet the LORD would not destroy Judah for David his servant's sake, ^aas he promised him to give him always a ¹light, and to his children.

20 In his days ^aEdom revolted from under the hand of Judah, ^band made a king over themselves.

21 So Joram went over to Zair, and all the chariots with him: and he rose by night, and smote the Edomites which compassed him about, and the captains of the chariots: and the people fled into their tents.

22 Yet Edom ¹revolted from under the hand of Judah unto this day. ^aThen Libnah revolted at the same time.

23 And the rest of the acts of ¹Joram, and all that he did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah?

The Death of Jehoram

24 And Joram ¹slept with his fathers, and was buried with his fathers in the city of David: and ^aAhaziah² his son reigned in his stead.

Ahaziah's Reign

25 In the twelfth year of Joram the son of Ahab king of Israel did Ahaziah the son of Jehoram king of Judah begin to reign.

26 ^aTwo and twenty years old was Ahaziah when he began to reign; and he reigned one year in Jerusalem. And his mother's name was Athaliah, the ¹daughter of Omri king of Israel.

27 ^aAnd he walked in the way of the house of Ahab, and did evil in the sight of the LORD, as did the house of Ahab: for he was the son in law of the house of Ahab.

28 And he went ^awith Joram the son of Ahab to the war against Hazael king of Syria in ^bRamoth-gilead; and the Syrians wounded Joram.

as the successor of Ben-hadad II (cf. 1 Kin. 19:15). Hazael apparently had plotted Ben-hadad's demise previously and used Elisha's prophecy as a pretext for his crime. Elisha had foreseen his evil deeds. Hazael's usurpation does not pass without notice in the secular records of the ancient Near East. The Assyrian king Shalmaneser III called him "son of a nobody" (i.e., a usurper). Hazael reigned from around 842 to 802 B.C. and was a constant enemy of Israel.

8:16. Jehoram became co-regent with his father Jehoshaphat. See the note on 1:17.

8:18. Jehoram's sins included the murder of his own brother (cf. 2 Chr. 21:2–4). The influence of Athaliah may be felt in this (cf. 11:1) for Jehoram was greatly influenced by his wicked wife, who was the daughter of Ahab and Jezebel. Therefore, the Lord sent judgment against Jehoram and Judah in the form of several political and military problems (cf. 2 Chr. 21:8–17). He himself died of a loathsome disease (2 Chr. 21:18, 19).

8:19. The Lord's faithfulness to the Davidic covenant remained despite the king's debased character. See the note on 2 Samuel 7:12–16.

8:22. Israel's conflicts with Edom were often accompanied by Philistine pressure on her western border (cf. 2 Chr. 21:16; 26:6, 7; 28:17–19; Joel 3:4–8; Amos 1:6–8).

8:25. Ahaziah had escaped the earlier Philistine and Arabian invasions (cf. 2 Chr. 21:16, 17). He remained under the influence of Athaliah's paganism (cf. 2 Chr. 22:3–5).

8:26. Athaliah is called the daughter of Omri. Thus her descent by marriage is linked to the founder of Israel's Third Dynasty, Omri, the father of Ahab. For Ahaziah's age at his accession, see the note on 2 Chronicles 22:2.

8:28. Another Aramean/Israelite war at Ramoth-gilead again spells disaster for Israel (cf. 1 Kin. 22:35, 36).

29 And ^aking Joram went back to be healed in Jezreel of the wounds which the Syrians had ¹given him at ²Ramah, when he fought against Hazael king of Syria. ^bAnd Ahaziah the son of Jehoram king of Judah went down to see Joram the son of Ahab in Jezreel, because he was sick.

A Prophet's Mission

9 And Elisha the prophet called one of ^athe children of the prophets, and said unto him, ^bGird¹ up thy loins, and take this box of oil in thine hand, ^cand go to Ramoth-gilead:

2 And when thou comest thither, ¹look out there Jehu the son of Jehoshaphat the son of Nimshi, and go in, and make him arise up from among ^ahis brethren, and carry him to an ²inner chamber;

3 Then ^atake the box of oil, and pour it on his head, and say, Thus saith the LORD, I have anointed thee king over Israel. Then open the door, and flee, and ¹tarry not.

Jehu's Conspiracy

14 So Jehu the son of Jehoshaphat the son of Nimshi conspired against 9:1, 2. The original commission to Elijah is thus finally carried out by Elisha's students (cf. 1 Kin. 19:16, 17). For the girding up of the loins, see the note on 1 Kings 18:46.

9:3. For anointing the head of a future king, see 1 Samuel 10:1, 2.

9:8-10. The announcement of Jehu repeats the prophetic threat of 1 Kings 21:21-23 (cf. 1 Kin. 19:15-17).

9:2 Jehu was the son of Johoshaphat. He was anointed by Elisha as a king. Later he overthrew Joram (Jehoram), King Ahab's son and successor, and established a dynasty that lasted five generations and 90 years (chs. 9, 10; 15:12). Jehu ruled Israel for 28 years (c. 841-813 B.C.), but his corrupt leadership weakened the nation. He became known for his violence against all members of the "house of Ahab" as he consolidated his power. At Jehu's command, Jezebel was thrown out of the palace window to her death (v. 33). Jehu ordered the death of 70 sons of Ahab (ch. 10). He also had Ahab's advisers and close acquaintances murdered. Jehu continued his slaughter against the family of Ahaziah, king of Judah (10:12-14). Then he had all the Baal-worshippers killed (10:18-28). Although he proclaimed his zeal for the Lord (10:16), he followed the Lord incompletely (10:31). Jehu's excessive violence led Hosea to denounce his bloodthirstiness (Hos 1:4). (First Reference, 1 Kin. 19:16; Primary Reference, 2 Kin. 9, 10.)

^aJoram. (Now Joram had kept Ramoth-gilead, he and all Israel, because of Hazael king of Syria.

15 But ^aking ¹Joram was returned to be healed in Jezreel of the wounds which the Syrians had given him, when he fought with Hazael king of Syria.) And Jehu said, If ²it be your minds, then let none go forth nor escape out of the city to go to tell it in Jezreel.

16 So Jehu rode in a chariot, and went to Jezreel; for Joram lay there. ^aAnd Ahaziah king of Judah was come down to see Joram.

17 And there stood a watchman on the tower in Jezreel, and he spied the company of Jehu as he came, and said, I see a company. And Joram said, Take an horseman, and send to meet them, and let him say, ¹*Is it peace?*

18 So there went one on horseback to meet him, and said, Thus saith the king, Is it peace? And Jehu said, What hast thou to do with peace? ¹turn thee behind me. And the watchman told, saying, The messenger came to them, but he ²cometh not again.

19 Then he sent out a second on horseback, which came to them, and said, Thus saith the king, Is it peace? And Jehu answered, What hast thou to do with peace? turn thee behind me.

20 And the watchman told, saying, He came even unto them, and cometh not again: and the driving is like the driving of Jehu the son of Nimshi; for he driveth furiously.

21 And Joram said, ¹Make ready. And his chariot was made ready. And ^aJoram king of Israel and Ahaziah king of Judah went out, each in his chariot, and they went out against Jehu, and ²met him ^bin the portion of Naboth the Jezreelite.

23 And Joram turned his hands, and fled, and said to Ahaziah, There is treachery, O Ahaziah.

The Death of Joram

24 And Jehu ¹drew a bow with his full strength, and smote Jehoram between his arms, and the arrow went out at his heart, and he ²sunk down in his chariot.

25 Then said Jehu to Bidkar his captain, Take up, and cast him in the portion of the field of Naboth the Jezreelite: for remember how that, when I and thou rode together after Ahab his father, ^athe LORD laid this ^bburden upon him;

28 And his servants carried him in a chariot to Jerusalem, and buried him in his sepulchre with his fathers in the city of David.

29 And in the eleventh year of Joram the son of Ahab began Ahaziah to reign over Judah.

The Death of Jezebel

30 And when Jehu was come to Jezreel, Jezebel heard of it; ^aand she ¹painting her face, and ²tired her head, and looked out at a window.

9:23. Joram turned his hands on the reins. He had not anticipated Jehu's treachery and so, having driven the chariot himself, he turned it around to make his escape.

9:26. Elisha's prophetic sentence at last found its final fulfillment. See the note on 1 Kings 21:19.

9:27, 28. According to 2 Chronicles 22:9, Ahaziah had managed to make it as far as Samaria, where he was at last apprehended by Jehu's men. Apparently he was taken from there to Megiddo, where he was executed. His body was returned to Jerusalem for interment in the royal tombs.

31 And as Jehu entered in at the gate, she said, “Had¹ Zimri peace, ²who slew his master?”

32 And he lifted up his face to the window, and said, Who is on my side? who? And there looked out to him two or three eunuchs.

33 And he said, Throw her down. So they threw her down: and some of her blood was sprinkled on the wall, and on the horses: and he trode her under foot.

34 And when he was come in, he did eat and drink, and said, Go, see now this cursed woman, and bury her: for “she is a king’s daughter.”

35 And they went to bury her: but they found no more of her than the skull, and the feet, and the palms of her hands.

36 Wherefore they came again, and told him. And he said, This is the word of the LORD, which he spake by his servant Elijah the Tishbite, saying, “In the portion of Jezreel shall dogs eat the flesh of Jezebel:”

37 And the carcase of Jezebel shall be “as dung upon the face of the field in the portion of Jezreel; so that they shall not say, This is Jezebel.”

Ahab’s Seventy Sons Killed

10 And Ahab had seventy sons in Samaria. And Jehu wrote letters, and sent to Samaria, unto the rulers of Jezreel, to the elders, and to ¹them that brought up Ahab’s children, saying,

2 Now as soon as this letter cometh to you, seeing your master’s sons are with you, and there are with you chariots and horses, a ¹fenced city also, and armour;

6 Then he wrote a letter the second time to them, saying, If ye ¹be mine, and if ye will hearken unto my voice, take ye the heads of the men your master’s sons, and come to me to Jezreel by to morrow this time. Now the king’s sons, being seventy persons, were with the great men of the city, which brought them up.

7 And it came to pass, when the letter came to them, that they took the king’s sons, and ^{“slew¹ seventy persons, and put their heads in baskets, and sent him them to Jezreel.”}

8 And there came a messenger, and told him, saying, They have brought the heads of the king’s sons. And he said, Lay ye them in two heaps at the entering in of the gate until the morning.

9 And it came to pass in the morning, that he went out, and stood, and said to all the people, Ye be righteous: behold, ^{“I conspired against my master, and slew him: but who slew all these?”}

10 Know now that there shall ^{“fall unto the earth nothing of the word of the LORD, which the LORD spake concerning the house of Ahab: for the LORD hath done that which he spake ^bby his servant Elijah.”}

9:36, 37. The words of Elijah’s prophecy were literally fulfilled (1 Kin. 21:23).

10:8. Such grisly deeds were often practiced in the ancient Near East.

10:9–11. Jehu’s edict was calculated to remove all opposition to his kingship. He assured the officials in Samaria that they were only carrying out God’s known will in accordance with the prophecies of Elijah (cf. 1 Kin. 19:17).

12 And he arose and departed, and ¹came to Samaria. And as he was at ²the shearing house ³in the way, 13 ^aJehu met with the brethren of Ahaziah king of Judah, and said, Who are ye? And they answered, We are the brethren of Ahaziah; and we go down ¹to salute the children of the king and the children of the queen.

14 And he said, Take them alive. And they took them alive, and ^aslew them at the pit of the shearing house, even two and forty men; neither left he any of them.

Jehonadab and Jehu's Pact

15 And when he was departed thence, he ¹lighted on ^aJehonadab the son of ^bRechab coming to meet him: and he saluted him, and said to him, Is thine heart right, as my heart is with thy heart? And Jehonadab answered, It is. If it be, ^cgive me thine hand. And he gave him his hand; and he took him up to him into the chariot.

16 And he said, Come with me, and see my ^azeal for the LORD. So they made him ride in his chariot.

17 And when he came to Samaria, ^ahe slew all that remained unto Ahab in Samaria, till he had destroyed him, according to the saying of the LORD, ^bwhich he spake to Elijah.

Jehu's Deception

18 And Jehu gathered all the people together, and said unto them, ^aAhab served Baal a little; but Jehu shall serve him much.

19 Now therefore call unto me all the ^aprophets of Baal, all his servants, and all his priests; let none be ¹wanting: for I have a great sacrifice to do to Baal; whosoever shall be ¹wanting, he shall not live. But Jehu did it ²in subtilty, to the intent that 20 And Jehu said, ¹Proclaim a solemn assembly for Baal. And they proclaimed it.

21 And Jehu sent through all Israel: and all the worshippers of Baal came, so that there was not a man left that came not. And they came into the house of Baal; and the ^ahouse of Baal was full from one end to another.

22 And he said unto him that was ¹over the vestry, Bring forth vestments for all the worshippers of Baal. And he brought them forth vestments.

23 And Jehu went, and Jehonadab the son of Rechab, into the house of Baal, and said unto the worshippers of Baal, Search, and look that there be here with you none of the servants of the LORD, but the worshippers of Baal only.

Worshippers Ordered Killed

24 And when they went in to offer sacrifices and burnt offerings, Jehu appointed fourscore men without, and said, If any of the men whom I have brought into your hands escape, he that letteth him go, ^ahis life shall be for the life of him.

25 And it came to pass, as soon as he had made an end of offering the burnt offering, that Jehu said to the guard and to the captains, Go in, and slay them; let none come forth. And they ¹smote them with the edge of the sword; and the guard and the captains cast them out, and went to the ²city of the house of Baal.

26 And they brought forth the ^aimages ¹out of the house of Baal, and burned them.

27 And they brake down the image of Baal, and brake down the house of Baal, and ^amade it a ¹draught house unto this day.

10:14. Jehu's bloodbath was also directed at Ahaziah's close relatives. Since the two crowns of state had been brought into close relationship during the Third Dynasty of Israel, Jehu intended to eliminate any rival, however remote.

10:15. Jehonadab was a religious zealot who was the leader of a pious separatist sect of nomads (cf. Jer. 35). Because he was opposed to the great spiritual compromises in Israel, Jehonadab probably hoped that Jehu was likewise a zealous patriot who would also restore true religion in the northern kingdom.

10:17. By this act Ahab's dynasty was completely ended. The full weight of Elijah's prophecy had come down on the house of Ahab (cf. 1 Kin. 21:21).

28 Thus Jehu destroyed Baal out of Israel.

Jehu's Sins

29 Howbeit from the sins of Jeroboam the son of Nebat, who made Israel to sin, Jehu departed not from after them, to wit, ^athe golden calves that were in Beth-el, and that were in Dan.

30 And the LORD ^asaid unto Jehu, Because thou hast done well in executing that which is right in mine eyes, and hast done unto the house of Ahab according to all that was in mine heart, ^bthy children of the fourth generation shall sit on the throne of Israel.

31 But Jehu ¹took no heed to walk in the law of the LORD God of Israel with all his heart: for he departed not from ^athe sins of Jeroboam, which made Israel to sin.

32 In those days the LORD began to ¹cut Israel short: and ^aHazeal smote them in all the coasts of Israel;

33 From Jordan eastward, all the land of Gilead, the Gadites, and the Reubenites, and the Manassites, from ^aAroer, which is by the river Arnon, even ^bGilead and Bashan.

34 Now the rest of the acts of Jehu, and all that he did, and all his might, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel?

The Overthrow of Athaliah

4 And ^athe seventh year Jehoiada sent and ¹fetches the ²rulers over hundreds, with the captains and the ³guard, and brought them to him into the house of the LORD, and made a covenant with them, and took an oath of them in the house of the LORD, and shewed them the king's son.

10:28-31. Jehu is commended and rewarded by the LORD for his carrying out of God's sentence against the house of Ahab. However, Jehu's zeal for God was halfhearted at best. Although he stamped out Baalism, he did so more than likely because Baal had been so distinctly associated with the previous Third Dynasty. He did not turn the nation back to God, but back to the state religion of Jeroboam I. He himself had no heart for the law of the LORD. Therefore, he is justly condemned by the later prophet Hosea (Hos. 1:4), for having used the command of God to mask his own lust for power. Jehu's willingness to do anything to further his own ends and to sustain himself at any cost is reflected in the Black Obelisk of Shalmaneser III which depicts his submission to the Assyrian king.

10:32. The year 841 B.C. was a pivotal point in history. Since both Joram of the northern kingdom and Ahaziah of the southern kingdom had been killed, there was a change of rulership in both kingdoms. Jehu began a new (fourth) dynasty in Israel that was to span four generations. Athaliah usurped the throne of Judah and held it for seven years (ch. 11). Shalmaneser III managed at last to break the back of the Syro-Israelite coalition in the same year. However, increasing pressures in the east kept him closer to home after this, and so Hazeal began a severe and extensive affliction of Israel. It was to last all the days of Jehu and his son Jehoahaz (c. 841-798 B.C.; cf. 13:1-3).

11:1. Athaliah duplicated the wicked deeds of her husband, Jehoram (cf. 2 Chr. 21:4). See the note on 8:18.

11:2. Jehosheba was Ahaziah's half sister. Since Joash had been born to Joram through a mother other than Athaliah (cf. 2 Chr. 24:1), perhaps this was the case with Jehosheba also. She was married to the high priest Jehoiada (cf. 2 Chr. 22:11). Thanks to her courage, the sole surviving son of Ahaziah escaped notice in Athaliah's bloody purge.

11:4-11. Jehoiada's plan to unseat the idolatrous usurper Athaliah was carefully orchestrated (cf. 2 Chr. 23:1-11).

10 And to the captains over hundreds did the priest give king David's spears and shields, ^athat were in the temple of the LORD.

A Covenant Made

17 ^aAnd Jehoiada ^bmade a covenant between the LORD and the king and the people, that they should be the LORD's people; ^cbetween the king also and the people.

18 And all the people of the land went into the ^ahouse of Baal, and ¹brake it down; his altars and his images ^bbrake they in pieces thoroughly, and ^cslew Mattan the priest of Baal before the altars. And ^athe priest appointed ²officers over the house of the LORD.

2 And Jehoash did that which was right in the sight of the LORD all his days wherein ^aJehoiada the priest instructed him.

11:12. The young Joash held a copy of the law in accordance with the directions of Deuteronomy 17:18. The ideas of crown and testimony are also closely associated with the concept of covenant, so that Jehoiada's putting the crown on Joash's head and the testimony in his hand was likewise a symbolic proclamation that the young lad was David's rightful heir. His ceremony of national covenant renewal followed Athaliah's execution (v. 17).

counselor and spiritual advisor. Despite the reform during Joash's kingship, it appears that the young king's religious experience was heavily dependent upon the high priest and was decidedly less than a full commitment to the Lord (cf. 2 Chr. 24:2). After Jehoiada's death, Jehoash found new counselors and friends who turned his heart away from God, so much so that he did not intervene when his new associates put to death Zechariah, Jehoiada's son, for his faith (cf. 2 Chr. 24:17–22). Faith must be personal, not just "official."

12:4–6. The repair of the temple was a matter of some urgency due to the destructive acts in Athaliah's day (cf. 2 Chr. 24:7).

12:7–11. A lagging work schedule caused the king to take a more direct hand in matters. The Jehoash chest made the offering process more visible and the money was more efficiently put into the hands of those responsible for the repairs. The people responded well (cf. 2 Chr. 24:10) and gave freely and willingly (cf. Ex. 25:2).

12:17, 18. The renewed Aramean pressure under Hazael was severe, including not only attacks against Jehoahaz and the northern kingdom (13:1–3), but also the Philistine coast. Even Jerusalem came under dire threat. Because Joash's faith had become apostate after Jehoiada's death, God used Hazael to attempt to bring Joash and Judah to repentance (cf. 2 Chr.

Nevertheless God sent a saviour (or deliverer), probably Adad Nerari III of Assyria, who launched a series of campaigns against southern Syria that ultimately brought about the capture of Damascus in 802 B.C. This significantly reduced the Aramean pressure. Hazael himself died about this time, the throne being taken by his son Ben-hadad III (c. 802-? 13 And Joash ^aslept¹ with his fathers; and Jeroboam sat upon his throne: and Joash was buried in Samaria with the kings of Israel.

Elisha's Prophecy

14 Now Elisha was fallen sick of his sickness whereof he died. And Joash the king of Israel came down unto him, and wept over his face, and said, O my father, my father, ^athe chariot of Israel, and the horsemen thereof.

15 And Elisha said unto him, Take bow and arrows. And he took unto him bow and arrows.

16 And he said to the king of Israel, Put thine hand upon the bow. And he put his hand upon it: and Elisha put his hands upon the king's hands.

17 And he said, Open the window eastward. And he opened it. Then Elisha said, Shoot. And he shot. And he said, The arrow of the LORD's deliverance, and the arrow of deliverance from Syria: for thou shalt ¹smite the Syrians in ^aAphek, till thou have ²consumed them.

18 And he said, Take the arrows. And he took them. And he said unto the king of Israel, ¹Smite upon the ground. And he smote thrice, and ²stayed.

19 And the man of God was wroth with him, and said, Thou shouldst have smitten five or six times; then hadst thou ¹smitten Syria till thou hadst ²consumed it: ^awhereas now thou shalt smite Syria but thrice.

The Death of Elisha

22 But ^aHazael king of Syria oppressed Israel all the days of Jehoahaz.

23 And the LORD was ^agracious unto them, and had compassion on them, and ^bhad¹ respect unto them, ^cbecause of his covenant with Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, and would not destroy them, neither cast he them from his presence as yet.

24 So Hazael king of Syria died; and Ben-hadad his son reigned in his stead.

25 And ¹Jehoash the son of Jehoahaz ²took again out of the hand of Ben-hadad the son of Hazael the cities, which he had taken out of the hand of Jehoahaz his father by war. ^aThree times did Joash beat him, and recovered the cities of Israel.

Amaziah's Reign

14 In ^athe second year of Joash son of Jehoahaz king of Israel reigned ^bAmaziah the son of Joash king of Judah.

2 He was twenty and five years old when he began to reign, and reigned twenty and nine years in Jerusalem. And his mother's name was Jehoaddan of Jerusalem.

3 And he did that which was right in the sight of the LORD, yet not like David his father: he did according to all things ^aas Joash his father did.

4 ^aHowbeit the ¹high places were not taken away: as yet the people did sacrifice and burnt incense on the high places.

5 And it came to pass, as soon as the kingdom was ¹confirmed in his hand, that he slew his servants ^awhich had slain the king his father.

13:14. For this ascription of praise, see the note on 2:12.

13:19. Despite his prowess as a fighter (cf. v. 25; 14:8-15), Joash was a man of little faith.

13:21. This miracle authenticated Elisha's last prophecy (v. 19). As Elisha's body had brought life to the dead, so would his prophecy attest God's provision of new life for Israel under Joash and Jeroboam II.

14:3, 4. Amaziah was a spiritual improvement over his father Joash, but was far from exemplary in his faith (cf. 2 Chr. 25:2, 14-16).

6 But the children of the murderers he slew not: according unto that which is written in the book of the law of Moses, wherein the LORD commanded, saying, ^a“The fathers shall not be put to death for the children, nor the children be put to death for the fathers; but every man shall be put to death for his own sin.

7 ^a“He slew of Edom in ^bthe valley of salt ten thousand, and took ¹Selah by war, ^cand called the name of it Joktheel unto this day.

Amaziah's Message of War

8 ^a“Then Amaziah sent messengers to ¹Jehoash, the son of Jehoahaz son of Jehu, king of Israel, saying, Come, let us ²look one another in the face.

9 And Jehoash the king of Israel sent to Amaziah king of Judah, saying, ^a“The thistle that was in Lebanon sent to the ^bcedar that was in Lebanon, saying, Give thy daughter to my son to wife: and there passed by a wild beast that was in Lebanon, and trode down the thistle.

10 Thou hast indeed smitten Edom, and ^athine heart hath ¹lifted thee up: ²glory of this, and tarry at home: for why shouldst thou meddle ³to thy hurt, that thou shouldst fall, even thou, and Judah with thee?

11 But Amaziah would not hear. Therefore Jehoash king of Israel went up; and he and Amaziah king of Judah ¹looked one another in the face at ^a“Beth-shemesh, which belongeth to Judah.

12 And Judah was ¹put to the worse before Israel; and they fled every man to their tents.

Azariah's Reign and Death

21 And all the people of Judah took ^aAzariah, ¹which was sixteen years old, and made him king instead of his father Amaziah.

14:7. Edom had successfully rebelled against Judah in the days of Jehoram (cf. 8:20-22). Amaziah's God-given success is detailed more fully in 2 Chronicles 25:5-16. Unfortunately, that victory aroused a foolish pride (cf. v. 10) and caused spiritual compromise, for which Amaziah was rebuked by a prophet of the Lord (cf. 2 Chr. 25:14-16).

14:9. The provocation for Amaziah's challenge lay in the fact that when he had dismissed some Israelite mercenaries, which he had planned to use in the Edomite campaign, they had looted certain Judean cities on their way homeward (2 Chr. 25:6-10, 13). Proud Amaziah (v. 10) foolishly thought to test the battle-proven Jehoash, king of Israel (cf. 13:25).

14:12-14. Amaziah's stubbornness will cost him his freedom (2 Chr. 25:23-25), and Jerusalem also paid a heavy price in Jehoash's invasion and looting of the city.

14:17-19. Amaziah was still alive when Jehoash died (cf. 2 Chr. 25:25). Apparently Jehoash's son, Jeroboam II, released him and he returned home to live another fifteen years. Like his father before him, Amaziah was to die at the hands of assassins.

14:21. Azariah is also called Uzziah (2 Chr. 26:1; Is. 1:1).

22 He built ^aElath,¹ and restored it to Judah, after that ²the king slept with his fathers.

Jeroboam's Reign and Death

23 In the fifteenth year of Amaziah the son of Joash king of Judah Jeroboam the son of Joash king of Israel began to reign in Samaria, and reigned forty and one years.

24 And he did that which was evil in the sight of the LORD: he departed not from all the ^asins of Jeroboam the son of Nebat, who made Israel to sin.

25 He ^arestored the ¹coast of Israel ^bfrom the entering of Hamath unto ^cthe ²sea of the plain, according to the word of the LORD God of Israel, which he spake by the hand of his servant ^dJonah, the son of Amittai, the prophet, which was of ^eGath-hepher.

and ^aZachariah his son reigned in his stead.

Azariah's Reign

15 In the twenty and seventh year of Jeroboam king of Israel ^abegan ^bAzariah son of Amaziah king of Judah to reign.

2 Sixteen years old was he when he began to reign, and he reigned two and fifty years in Jerusalem. And his mother's name was Jecholiah of Jerusalem.

3 And he did that which was right in the sight of the LORD, according to all that his father Amaziah had done;

4 ^aSave¹ that the ²high places were not removed: the people sacrificed and burnt incense still on the high places.

5 And the LORD ^asmote¹ the king, so that he was a leper unto the day of his ^bdeath, and ^cdwelt in a ²several house. And Jotham the king's son was over the ³house, judging the people of the land.

6 And the rest of the acts of Azariah, and all that he did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah?

7 So Azariah ¹slept with his fathers; and ^athey buried him with his fathers in the city of David: and Jotham his son reigned in his stead.

Zachariah's Reign

8 In the thirty and eighth year of Azariah king of Judah did ^aZachariah the son of Jeroboam reign over Israel in Samaria six months.

14:22. Elath had been important to the Israelites in Solomon's day (cf. 1 Kin. 9:26-28; 10:22) and in the era of Jehoshaphat (cf. 2 Chr. 20:36).

14:25. Jeroboam II reigned 41 years, including 15 years of co-regency with his father Jehoash. He inherited a strong kingdom and was able to reverse the military advantage that the Arameans had so long enjoyed. He pushed the frontier of the northern kingdom beyond Hamath and Damascus in Syria (v. 28). With Adad Nerari III of Assyria dead, and weaker kings on the Assyrian throne, Jeroboam had a free hand in Aramean affairs. Unfortunately, his military and administrative abilities were not matched by any spiritual sensitivity (v. 24). The prophets Hosea and Amos decry the spiritual bankruptcy of the northern kingdom in the early eighth century B.C.

15:2. Azariah's two and fifty years include 10 years of reigning while his father Amaziah was imprisoned in the north, 15 years as co-regent on Amaziah's release, and 27 years of fully independent rule. He reigned in a time of great political success (2 Chr. 26:2, 6-15), peace, and prosperity (cf. the note on 14:25). He showed an early interest in spiritual matters (v. 3; cf. 2 Chr. 26:4, 5), so the Lord greatly blessed him (2 Chr. 26:8, 15). Unfortunately, he was not fully committed to the Lord (v. 4), so when great success came he fell into pride and attempted to take the place of the priest in offering incense in the temple (2 Chr. 26:16-19). For this he was smitten with leprosy (v. 5). At his death he was excluded from the royal burial grounds (2 Chr. 26:23).

15:5. During Azariah's leprosy, he lived in isolation from public activities. Therefore, he associated his son Jotham with him as co-regent. The eighth-century prophets of the southern kingdom (Joel, Isaiah, and Micah) attest to the loss of spiritual vitality and genuine religion in Judah.

9 And he did that which was evil in the sight of the LORD, as his fathers had done: he departed not from the sins of Jeroboam the son of Nebat, who made Israel to sin.

10 And Shallum the son of Jabesh conspired against him, and *smote*¹ him ²before the people, and slew him, and reigned in his stead.

11 And the rest of the acts of Zachariah, behold, they are written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel.

12 This was the word of the LORD which he spake unto Jehu, saying, Thy sons shall sit on the throne of Israel unto the fourth generation. And so it came to pass.

Shallum's One-Month Reign

13 Shallum the son of Jabesh began to reign in the nine and thirtieth year of ¹Uzziah king of Judah; and he reigned a full month in Samaria.

14 For Menahem the son of Gadi went up from Tirzah, and came to Samaria, and ¹smote Shallum the son of Jabesh in Samaria, and slew him, and reigned in his stead.

15 And the rest of the acts of Shallum, and his conspiracy which he ¹made, behold, they are written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel.

Menahem's Reign

16 Then Menahem smote Tiph-sah, and all that were therein, and the ¹coasts thereof from Tirzah: because they ²opened not to him, therefore he smote it; and all ^bthe women therein that were with child he ripped up.

20 And Menahem *exacted*¹ the money of Israel, even of all the mighty men of wealth, of each man fifty shekels of silver, to give to the king of Assyria. So the king of Assyria turned back, and stayed not there in the land.

15:10. Zachariah's assassination fulfilled the Lord's promise to Jehu to prolong his house to the fourth generation (10:30), and fulfilled Amos's prediction concerning the family of Jeroboam (Amos 7:9).

15:16. For this barbaric practice, see the note on 8:12.

15:19, 20. Pul was the personal name of Tiglath-pileser III of Assyria, who reigned from 745 to 727 B.C. Apparently he allowed himself to be called by his personal name Pul in Babylon. After usurping the throne in 745 B.C., he immediately launched a campaign against the west that brought the northern kingdom into political vassalage. Thereafter the political situation in Israel would be heavily tied to the Assyrian throne. Tiglath-pileser III and his successors were vigorous kings who made Assyria the dominant power in the ancient Near East until late in the seventh century B.C.

15:25-27. Harmonization of the various scriptural data makes it clear that Pekah actually ruled only about eight years (c. 740-732 B.C.). Apparently Pekah had laid claim to the throne some 12 years previously and had achieved some local prominence. Because he was anti-Assyrian in sentiment, the Scriptures credit him with a full twenty years of reign.

26 And the rest of the acts of Pekahiah, and all that he did, behold, they are written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel.

Pekah's Reign and Death

27 In the two and fiftieth year of Azariah king of Judah ^aPekah the son of Remaliah began to reign over Israel in Samaria, and reigned twenty years.

38 And Jotham ¹slept with his fathers, and was buried with his fathers in the city of David his father: and Ahaz his son reigned in his stead.

Ahaz's Reign

16 In the seventeenth year of Pekah the son of Remaliah Ahaz the son of Jotham king of Judah began to reign.

2 Twenty years old was Ahaz when he began to reign, and reigned sixteen years in Jerusalem, and did not that which was right in the sight of the LORD his God, like David his father.

3 But he walked in the way of the kings of Israel, yea, ^aand made his son to pass through the fire, according to the ^babominations of the heathen, whom the LORD cast out from before the children of Israel.

4 And he sacrificed and burnt incense in the ^ahigh places, and ^bon the hills, and under every green tree.

5 ^aThen Rezin king of Syria and Pekah son of Remaliah king of Israel ¹came up to Jerusalem to war: and 15:29, 30. Pekah and Rezin, an Aramean king, had attempted to pressure Ahaz of Judah into an anti-Assyrian alliance (cf. 2 Chr. 28:5-15; Is. 7). Ahaz, however, refused and hired Tiglath-pileser against them (16:7), who launched a second western campaign into Syro-Palestine that resulted in the capture of Damascus in 732 B.C. (16:9, 10) and the assassination of Pekah by pro-Assyrian forces in Israel. This latter deed is corroborated in the inscriptions of Tiglath-pileser III, who also lists Israel's heavy tribute at this time.

15:35. Jotham is given a good report by the author of Chronicles. He was noted for his building activities and his military abilities (cf. 2 Chr. 27:3-7).

15:37. Ahaz was already co-regent with his father Jotham in the days of the conspiracy of Rezin and Pekah.

16:3, 4. Ahaz was an apostate. He not only allowed corrupting religious practices to flourish but personally participated in them. His spiritual debauchery included taking part in the heathen Molech sacrifices. This involved sending children through the sacrificial fire as an offering to the Canaanite god Baal (cf. Lev. 20:1-5; 2 Kin. 23:10; Jer. 7:30-33; 19:5, 6; 32:35). See the note on 2 Chronicles 28:3.

17:4. Apparently Hoshea had thought that the death of Tiglath-pileser III must provide a good opportunity for freedom from Assyrian vassalage. So is the Hebrew name of the capital city of Egypt's Twenty-fourth Dynasty where Tef Nekht was king.

17:5, 6. Hoshea's misjudgment was to bring the northern kingdom to its end. After a three-year siege, Samaria fell in 722 B.C. Although Shalmaneser V was still king, his general and successor, Sargon II, later took credit for the actual capture of Samaria. Israel's population was largely deported, so the nation would no longer cause trouble for Assyria (cf. 18:9-12).

17:1 Samaria was the capital of the northern kingdom of Israel. It was built about 880 B.C. by Omri, the sixth king of Israel (1 Kin. 16:24). Samaria occupied a three-hundred-foot-high hill about 42 miles north of Jerusalem and 25 miles east of the Mediterranean Sea. This hill was situated on the major north-south road through Palestine. It also commanded the east-west route to the plain of Sharon and the Mediterranean Sea. It could easily be defended because it was on the hill; however, its great weakness was that the nearest spring was a mile distant. Samaria fell to the Assyrians in 722 B.C., and its inhabitants were carried into captivity. The city was repopulated by "men from Babylon, and from Cuthah, and from Ava, and from Hamath, and from Sepharvaim" (2 Kin. 17:24), all bringing their pagan idolatries with them. Inter-marriage of native Jews with these foreigners led to the mixed race of Samaritans so despised by full-blooded Jews during the time of Jesus (John 4:1-10).

about their repentance and restoration. Ultimately He could do nothing else than bring about the threatened judgment (cf. vv. 20-23 with Deut. 28:47-68).

25 And so it was at the beginning of their dwelling there, that they feared not the LORD: therefore the LORD sent lions among them, which slew some of them.

26 Wherefore they spake to the king of Assyria, saying, The nations which thou hast removed, and placed in the cities of Samaria, know not the ¹manner of the God of the land: therefore he hath sent lions among them, and, behold, they slay them, because they know not the manner of the God of the land.

27 Then the king of Assyria commanded, saying, Carry thither one of the priests whom ye brought from thence; and let them go and dwell there, and let him teach them the manner of the God of the land.

28 Then one of the priests whom they had carried away from Samaria came and dwelt in Beth-el, and taught them how they should fear the LORD.

Idols in High Places

29 Howbeit every nation made gods of their own, and put them ^ain the houses of the high places which the Samaritans had made, every nation in their cities wherein they dwelt.

30 And the men of ^aBabylon made Succoth-benoth, and the men of Cuth made Nergal, and the men of Hamath made Ashima, 31 ^aAnd the Avites made Nibhaz and Tartak, and the Sepharvites ^bburnt their children in fire to Adrammelech and Anammelech, the gods of Sepharvaim.

32 So they feared the LORD, ^aand made unto themselves of the lowest of them priests of the high places, which sacrificed for them in the houses of the ¹high places.

33 ^aThey feared the LORD, and served their own gods, after the manner of the nations ¹whom they carried away from thence.

34 Unto this day they do after the former manners: they fear not the LORD, neither do they after their statutes, or after their ordinances, or after the law and commandment which the LORD commanded the children of Jacob, ^awhom he named Israel;

35 With whom the LORD had made a covenant, and charged them, saying, ^aYe shall not fear other gods, nor ^bbow yourselves to them, nor serve them, nor sacrifice to them:

36 But the LORD, who ^abrought you up out of the land of Egypt with great power and ^ba stretched out arm, ^chim shall ye ¹fear, and him shall ye worship, and to him shall ye do sacrifice.

37 And the statutes, and the ordinances, and the law, and the commandment, which he wrote for you, ^aye shall ¹observe to do for evermore; and ye shall not fear other gods.

17:24. Sargon sent people from various parts of the Assyrian Empire to replace the deported Israelites. They intermarried with the remaining Israelites, and a new people known as Samaritans came into being.

17:32, 33. The newly established religion of the Samaritans was largely a mixture of Israel's corrupted religion and the paganism brought by those who were settled in the northern kingdom. Accordingly, it was apostate, from the onset and so the Jews rejected both the Samaritans and their religion (cf. John 4:9; 8:48).

38 And the covenant that I have made with you ^aye shall not forget; neither shall ye ¹fear other gods.

39 But the LORD your God ye shall ¹fear; and he shall deliver you out of the hand of all your enemies.

40 Howbeit they did not hearken, but they did after their former manner.

41 ^aSo these nations feared the LORD, and served their graven images, both their children, and their children's children: as did their fathers, so do they unto this day.

18:4. The brassen serpent (cf. Num. 21:5-9) had remained a symbol of deliverance. However, it had become a source of spiritual confusion and idolatrous worship, possibly associated with the worship of Asherah. Therefore, it had to be destroyed.

18:5. Hezekiah is remembered for his great trust in the LORD, much as Josiah would be remembered for his zeal for the law of the Lord (23:25). Hezekiah's great spiritual concern is well documented by the author of Chronicles, who catalogs extensively the great revival in his time (2 Chr. 29-31).

18:13. The Assyrian king Sennacherib (705-681

18:1 Hezekiah was the son of Ahaz and king of Judah (c. 727-698 B.C.). He was utterly loyal to the Lord God of Israel (vv. 3-6). That an ungodly man like Ahaz could have had such a godly son can be attributed only to the grace of God. Hezekiah's father had let the kingdom degenerate to idolatry; but on his ascension to the throne, Hezekiah decisively and courageously initiated religious reforms (v. 4; 2 Chr. 29:3-36; 30:1-27; 31:1). His reign occurred during the age of major Assyrian military and commercial activity in Phoenicia and the Philistine coast. Shalmaneser V conquered Samaria in 722 B.C., and Sargon founded a trading colony south of Gaza in 716 B.C. Hezekiah was a vassal of Assyria until 705 B.C. when he threw off their yoke. But he was no match for Sennacherib in 701 B.C., so God had to intervene through the "angel of the LORD," who killed 185,000 Assyrians in one night (v. 13; 19:34, 35). During Hezekiah's reign Isaiah prophesied the coming Babylonian captivity (Is. 39:6, 7). (First Reference, 2 Kin. 16:20; Primary References, 2 Kin. 18-20; 2 Chr. 29-32.)

20 Thou ¹sayest, (but they are but ²vain words,) I have counsel and strength for the war. Now on whom dost thou trust, that thou rebellest against me?

21 ^aNow, behold, thou trustest upon the staff of this bruised reed, even upon Egypt, on which if a man lean, it will go into his hand, and pierce it: so is Pharaoh king of Egypt unto all that trust on him.

22 But if ye say unto me, We trust in the LORD our God: is not that he, ^awhose ¹high places and whose altars Hezekiah hath taken away, and hath said to Judah and Jerusalem, Ye shall worship before this altar in Jerusalem?

B.C.) launched his third campaign in the year 701 B.C. His annals report that it was directed at the western countries and against Hezekiah in particular. Hezekiah had joined with the Phoenicians, the Philistines of Ekron, and Egypt in an alliance against the Assyrian king.

18:14. The siege of Lachish and Hezekiah's payment of tribute are confirmed by inscriptions from Sennacherib's palace at Nineveh.

18:15-17. Hezekiah's large payment probably convinced Sennacherib that there must be much more treasure at Jerusalem. Therefore, he put the city under siege until his present campaigning at Lachish would allow him to bring his full army up to Jerusalem. Hezekiah's further preparations for a siege are detailed in 2 Chronicles 32:3-8.

18:17. The names here are all known Assyrian military titles: Tartan (second in command), Rabsaris (chief officer; lit., chief eunuch), and Rab-shakeh (chief aide).

18:18. The Assyrian three-man delegation was met by Hezekiah's three-man team. Shebna, the scribe and royal chamberlain, would later be replaced by Eliakim (cf. Is. 22:15-25).

18:19. The Rab-shakeh begins a bit of psychological warfare to undermine the spirit of resistance in Jerusalem (cf. vv. 26, 27). This tactic was often practiced by Assyrian besiegers. The term great king was traditionally reserved for leaders of super powers in the ancient Near East.

18:21. The Rab-shakeh's evaluation of a then weak Egypt was shared by Isaiah (Is. 20; 30:3-5; 31:1-3).

18:14 Lachish was an important ancient Canaanite and Israelite walled city in the lowlands of Judah. The city was situated about 30 miles southwest of Jerusalem and 15 miles west of Hebron. Initially, it was captured by Joshua and the Israelites (Josh. 10:1-32). During the time of Hezekiah (701 B.C.), Sennacherib, king of Assyria, attacked and conquered Lachish along with 46 of King Hezekiah's fortified cities (vv. 13-17; 2 Chr. 32:9). Its capture was so important to Sennacherib that he memorialized it in a magnificent relief on the wall of his palace at Nineveh. About a hundred years later, Lachish was again a stronghold in the nation of Judah. Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, attacked and defeated the city when he took Judah into captivity in 586 B.C. (Jer. 34:7). Important information concerning events when Nebuchadnezzar was approaching Jerusalem in 586 B.C. has come from a series of broken bits of pottery known as the Lachish Letters. The city was inhabited again when the Jews returned from their years of captivity in Babylon (Neh. 11:30).

Pay Tribute or Be Destroyed

23 Now therefore, I pray thee, give pledges to my lord the king of Assyria, and I will deliver thee two thousand horses, if thou be able on thy part to set riders upon them.

24 How then wilt thou turn away the face of one captain of the least of my master's servants, and put thy trust on Egypt for chariots and for horsemen?

25 Am I now come up without the LORD against this place to destroy it? The LORD said to me, Go up against this land, and destroy it.

26 "Then said Eliakim the son of Hilkiah, and Shebna, and Joah, unto Rab-shakeh, Speak, I pray thee, to thy servants in the ^bSyrian¹ language; for we understand it: and talk not with us in the ²Jews' language ³in the ears of the people that are on the wall.

27 But Rab-shakeh said unto them, Hath my master sent me to thy master, and to thee, to speak these words? hath he not sent me to the men which sit on the wall, that they may ¹eat their own dung, and drink their own piss with you?

28 Then Rab-shakeh stood and cried with a loud voice in the ¹Jews' language, and spake, saying, Hear the word of the great king, the king of Assyria:

29 Thus saith the king, "Let not Hezekiah deceive you: for he shall not be able to deliver you out of his hand:

30 Neither let Hezekiah make you trust in the LORD, saying, The LORD will surely deliver us, and this city shall not be delivered into the hand of the king of Assyria.

Assyria Insults the Lord

33 "Hath any of the gods of the nations delivered at all his land out of the hand of the king of Assyria?"

34 Where are the gods of ^aHammath, and of Arpad? where are the gods of Sepharvaim, Hena, and ^bIvah? have they delivered Samaria out of mine hand?

35 Who are they among all the gods of the countries, that have delivered their country out of mine hand, ^athat the LORD should deliver Jerusalem out of mine hand?

36 But the people held their peace, and answered him not a word: for the king's commandment was, saying, Answer him not.

37 Then came Eliakim the son of Hilkiah, which was over the household, and Shebna the scribe, and Joah the son of Asaph the recorder, to Hezekiah ^awith their clothes ¹rent, and told him the words of Rab-shakeh.

Hezekiah Seeks Counsel

19 And ^ait came to pass, when king Hezekiah heard it, that he ¹rent his clothes, and covered himself with ^bsackcloth, and went into the house of the LORD.

2 And he sent Eliakim, which was over the household, and Shebna the scribe, and the elders of the priests, covered with sackcloth, to Isaiah the prophet the son of Amoz.

18:25. Did Hezekiah trust in the LORD (cf. v. 22)? The Rab-shakeh claims that God had sent Sennacherib to Jerusalem to judge it!

18:26. The Aramaic (Syrian) language was the language of international diplomacy at this time.

18:28-36. The Rab-shakeh urges the people of Jerusalem to find peace and prosperity by surrendering to Sennacherib.

18:37. The torn clothes of Hezekiah's three men was a sign of grief, humiliation, and sorrow (cf. 19:4).

19:1. Hezekiah puts on the traditional garments of mourning and grief (cf. Joel 1:13).

19:2. Isaiah the prophet had full access to the king (chs. 18-20 are paralleled in Is. 36-39).

3 And they said unto him, Thus saith Hezekiah, This day is a day of trouble, and of rebuke, and blasphemy: for the children are come to the birth, and there is not strength to ¹bring forth.

4 ^aIt may be the LORD thy God will hear all the words of Rab-shakeh, whom the king of Assyria his master hath sent to ^breproach the living God; and will ^creprove the words which the LORD thy God hath heard: wherefore lift up thy prayer for the remnant that are left.

5 So the servants of king Hezekiah came to Isaiah.

6 ^aAnd Isaiah said unto them, Thus shall ye say to your master, Thus saith the LORD, Be not ^bafraid of the words which thou hast heard, with which the ^cservants of the king of Assyria have blasphemed me.

7 Behold, I will send ^a ¹blast upon him, and he shall hear a rumour, and shall return to his own land; and I will cause him to fall by the sword in his own land.

8 So Rab-shakeh returned, and found the king of Assyria warring against Libnah: for he had heard that he was departed ^afrom Lachish.

9 And ^awhen he heard say of Tirhakah king of Ethiopia, Behold, he is come out to fight against thee: he sent messengers again unto Hezekiah, saying,

10 Thus shall ye speak to Hezekiah king of Judah, saying, Let not thy God ^ain whom thou trustest deceive thee, saying, Jerusalem shall not be delivered into the hand of the king of Assyria.

11 Behold, thou hast heard what the kings of Assyria have done to all lands, by destroying them utterly: and shalt thou be delivered?

Hezekiah's Prayer

14 ^aAnd Hezekiah received the letter of the hand of the messengers, and read it: and Hezekiah went up into the house of the LORD, and spread it before the LORD.

God's Message to Hezekiah

20 Then Isaiah the son of Amoz sent to Hezekiah, saying, Thus saith the LORD God of Israel, ^aThat which 19:6, 7. Isaiah assured Hezekiah that God would deal with the blasphemous Sennacherib. The king of Assyria would not capture Jerusalem and would subsequently be assassinated after returning to his own country (vv. 32–34). Both predictions literally came to pass (vv. 35–37).

19:9. Tirhakah was the field commander of the Egyptian forces for his brother Shebitku, the king of Egypt's Twenty-fifth (Ethiopian) Dynasty. Tirhakah is given his subsequent royal title by the author of Kings.

The Assyrian king has another message of psychological warfare for Hezekiah (vv. 10–13).

19:15–19. Hezekiah was truly a man of trust. He takes his concerns to God in prayer, believing that God would vindicate His name and deliver Jerusalem.

19:20, 21. God hears the prayer of faith and sends His message to Sennacherib. God knows Sennacherib's innermost thoughts and is about to deal in judgment with the proud king (vv. 22–28).

A Sign from the Lord

29 And this shall be ^aa sign unto thee, Ye shall eat this year such things as grow ¹of themselves, and in the second year that which springeth of the same; and in the third year sow ye, and reap, and plant vineyards, and eat the fruits thereof.

30 ^aAnd the remnant that is escaped of the house of Judah shall yet again take root downward, and bear fruit upward.

31 For out of Jerusalem shall go forth a remnant, and they that escape out of mount Zion: ^athe zeal of the LORD of hosts shall do this.

32 Therefore thus saith the LORD concerning the king of Assyria, He shall ^anot come into this city, nor shoot an arrow there, nor come before it with shield, nor cast a ¹bank against it.

33 By the way that he came, by the same shall he return, and shall not come into this city, saith the LORD.

34 For ^aI will ^bdefend this city, to save it, for mine own sake, and ^cfor my servant David's sake.

35 And ^ait came to pass that night, that the angel of the LORD went out, and ¹smote in the camp of the Assyrians an hundred fourscore and five thousand: and when ²they arose early in the morning, behold, ³they were all dead corpses.

36 So Sennacherib king of Assyria departed, and went and returned, and dwelt at ^aNineveh.

The Death of Sennacherib

37 And it came to pass, as he was worshipping in the house of Nisroch his god, that ^aAdrammelech and Sharezer his sons ^bsmote¹ him with the sword: and they escaped into the land of ²Armenia. And ³Esar-haddon his son reigned in his stead.

19:29-31. God reassures Hezekiah of Jerusalem's survival by giving him a sign.

19:34. Sennacherib's defeat will vindicate God's name, which had been blasphemed, and will attest God's faithfulness in fulfilling the terms of the covenant with David. A righteous king on the throne of the house of David could expect God's full blessing (2 Sam. 23:3-5).

19:35. Although in his annals Sennacherib claims the capture of 46 of Judah's cities, he can claim to have initiated a siege only in the case of Jerusalem, a purely face-saving statement.

19:37. Some 20 years later two of Sennacherib's own sons assassinated him. A third son, Esar-haddon (681-668 B.C.) succeeded him.

Hezekiah's Illness

20 In “those days was Hezekiah sick unto death. And the prophet Isaiah the son of Amoz came to him, and said unto him, Thus saith the LORD, Set thine house in order; for thou shalt die, and not live.

2 Then he turned his face to the wall, and prayed unto the LORD, saying,

3 I beseech thee, O LORD, “remember now how I have walked before thee in truth and with a perfect heart, and have done that which is good in thy sight. And Hezekiah wept ¹sore.

Hezekiah Healed

4 And it came to pass, afore Isaiah was gone out into the middle court, that the word of the LORD came to him, saying,

5 Turn again, and tell Hezekiah “the captain of my people, Thus saith the LORD, the God of David thy father, ^bI have heard thy prayer, I have seen ^cthy tears: behold, I will heal thee: on the third day thou shalt go up unto the house of the LORD.

6 And I will add unto thy days fifteen years; and I will deliver thee and this city out of the hand of the king of Assyria; and ^aI will defend this city for mine own sake, and for my servant David’s sake.

Hezekiah Asks for a Sign

8 And Hezekiah said unto Isaiah, “What shall be the sign that the LORD will heal me, and that I shall go up into the house of the LORD the third day?”

9 And Isaiah said, “This sign shalt thou have of the LORD, that the LORD will do the thing that he hath spoken: shall the shadow go forward ten degrees, or go back ten degrees?”

10 And Hezekiah answered, It is ¹a light thing for the shadow to go down ²ten degrees: nay, but let the shadow return backward ten degrees.

11 And Isaiah the prophet cried unto the LORD: and ^ahe brought the shadow ten degrees backward, by which it had gone down in the ¹dial of Ahaz.

12 ^aAt that time ¹Berodach-baladan, the son of Baladan, king of Babylon, sent letters and a present unto Hezekiah: for he had heard that Hezekiah had been sick.

13 ^aHezekiah hearkened unto them, and shewed them all the house of his ¹precious things, the silver, and the gold, and the spices, and the precious ointment, and all the house of his armour, and all that was found in his treasures: there was nothing in his house, nor in all his dominion, that Hezekiah shewed them not.

Isaiah's Appearance and Prophecy

14 Then came Isaiah the prophet unto king Hezekiah, and said unto 20:1. In those days is taken by many commentators to be a general designation for the time of Hezekiah’s reign, the events of chapter 20 actually having taken place before those of 18:8–19:37. Others suggest that the phrase refers to the time either slightly before or shortly after the siege of Jerusalem.

20:2, 3. Hezekiah was sorrowful at Isaiah’s news (v. 1). However, he knew how to plead his case, for he was on praying terms with the Lord. His concern seems genuinely to be more for his country and its needs than for himself (cf. vv. 5, 6).

20:7. The application of figs to ulcerated sores is widely attested in the literature of the ancient world.

20:8. The third day is often one of special spiritual experience and service (Ex. 19:11, 15; Ezra 6:15), as well as newness of life before God (cf. Lev. 7:17 with Luke 13:32; 24:5–7, 21, 44–49; Acts 10:40; 1 Cor. 15:4).

20:11. Evidently the supernatural turning backward of the sun’s shadow was a localized happening, but it was no less of a miracle.

20:12. Berodach-baladan is properly spelled Merodach-baladan (from the Babylonian Marduk Apal Idinna, “Marduk Has Given a Son”) in Isaiah 39:1. This Chaldean king had two periods of rule in Babylon: 721–710 B.C. and a short time in 703 B.C. Both periods were ended by Assyrian invasions. A perennial enemy of the Assyrians, Merodach-baladan constantly sought for allies to help in his resistance to Assyria.

20:13. Hezekiah was carried away by his good fortune in recovering from illness and by the flattery of the ambassadors. For this prideful response, he was rebuked by Isaiah, who predicted that the information learned by the Babylonian embassy would contribute to Jerusalem’s eventual capture (vv. 14–18).

him, What said these men? and from whence came they unto thee? And Hezekiah said, They are come from a far country, even from Babylon.

15 And he said, What have they seen in thine house? And Hezekiah answered, “All the things that are in mine house have they seen: there is nothing among my treasures that I have not shewed them.

16 And Isaiah said unto Hezekiah, Hear the word of the LORD.

17 Behold, the days come, that all that is in thine house, and that which thy fathers have laid up in store unto this day, “shall be carried into Babylon: nothing shall be left, saith the LORD.

18 And of thy sons that shall ¹issue from thee, which thou shalt beget, “shall they take away; ²and ³they shall be eunuchs in the palace of the king of Babylon.

19 Then said Hezekiah unto Isaiah, “Good is the word of the LORD which thou hast spoken. And he said, ¹Is it not good, if peace and truth be in my days?

20 “And the rest of the acts of Hezekiah, and all his might, and how he ^bmade a ^cpool, and a ¹conduit, and ^dbrought water into the city, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah?

20:19. Hezekiah responded in humility, sorrow, and thankfulness that the prophecy would be fulfilled in a time beyond his own.

20:20. The conduit of water would provide a ready water supply within the city walls during the predicted siege of Jerusalem (cf. 2 Chr. 32:30). Confirmation of this great engineering feat came with the discovery of a 1,777-foot-long water shaft between the spring of Gihon and the pool of Siloam. An inscription found near the Siloam side tells of the excitement of the workers on the project, who worked from opposite ends, as they drew near to one another.

21:1, 2. Manasseh's 55-year reign was the longest of any of the Old Testament kings. Unlike his godly father, Hezekiah, he reproduced the wickedness of his grandfather Ahaz. He emulated Ahaz's spiritual evil by bringing pagan altars into various places of the temple complex and placing the Asherah symbol within the temple itself (vv. 3-7). For Asherah, see the note on Judges 3:6, 7.

21:9. God sent repeated warnings to Manasseh and the people, but to no avail (cf. 2 Chr. 33:10).

Judah's Sin

11 ^aBecause Manasseh king of Judah hath done these abominations, ^band hath done wickedly above all that the ^cAmorites did, which were before him, and ^dhath made Judah also to sin with his idols:

12 Therefore thus saith the LORD God of Israel, Behold, I am bringing such ¹evil upon Jerusalem and Judah, that whosoever heareth of it, both ^ahis ears shall tingle.

13 And I will stretch over Jerusalem ^athe line of Samaria, and the ¹plummet of the house of Ahab: and ^bI will wipe Jerusalem as a man wipeth a dish, wiping it, and turning it upside down.

14 And I will forsake the ^aremnant of mine inheritance, and deliver them into the hand of their enemies; and they shall become a prey and a ¹spoil to all their enemies;

15 Because they have done that which was evil in my sight, and have provoked me to anger, since the day their fathers came forth out of Egypt, even unto this day.

16 ^aMoreover Manasseh shed innocent blood very much, till he had filled Jerusalem from one end to another; beside his sin wherewith he made Judah to sin, in doing that which was evil in the sight of the LORD.

21:16. Jewish and Christian tradition alike declare that Manasseh had Isaiah sawed in two (Heb. 11:37).

21:17. The author of Chronicles records that Manasseh was later captured by the Assyrians and that upon his release he repented (2 Chr. 33:11–17). This may have occurred during the late campaigning of Ashurbanipal (668–626 B.C.) in 652–648 B.C. He may have been brought to Babylon in the year that Ashurbanipal himself occupied the throne (648–647

B.C.). If so, his reforms were too few and too late to stop Judah's growing apostasy.

21:23. No reason is assigned for the assassination of the wicked Amon (cf. 2 Chr. 33:22–24). Perhaps the renewed religious conservatism of Manasseh's later days had produced a spark of spirituality that could not tolerate his extreme wickedness. At any rate, with the installation of Amon's eight-year-old son Josiah, a final period of spiritual concern arose in Judah (cf. 22:2 with 2 Chr. 34:2).

in the sight of the LORD, and walked in all the way of David his father, and ^aturned not aside to the right hand or to the left.

3 ^aAnd it came to pass in the eighteenth year of king Josiah, that the king sent Shaphan the son of Azaliah, the son of Meshullam, the scribe, to the house of the LORD, saying,

The Book of the Law Found

8 And Hilkiah the high priest said unto Shaphan the scribe, ^aI have found the book of the law in the house of the LORD. And Hilkiah gave the book to Shaphan, and he read it.

22:3–7. The account of Josiah's life in 2 Chronicles 34:3–7 tells of Josiah's spiritual reforms before this program for the repair of the temple. Josiah had a consistent testimony for righteousness and spiritual concern.

22:8. Liberal scholars have tended to associate the book of the law with the basic material of the Book of Deuteronomy, much of which they suppose had just been written. Such a position cannot stand the tests of literary and historical accuracy. Josiah's reaction to 10 And Shaphan the scribe shewed the king, saying, Hilkiah the priest hath delivered me a book. And Shaphan read it before the king.

Josiah Humbles Himself

11 And it came to pass, when the king had heard the words of the book of the law, that he ¹rent his clothes.

12 And the king commanded Hilkiah the priest, and ^aAhikam the son of Shaphan, and ¹Achbor the son of Michaiah, and Shaphan the scribe, and ²Asaiah a servant of the king's, saying,

13 Go ye, enquire of the LORD for me, and for the people, and for all Judah, concerning the words of this book that is found: for great is ^athe wrath of the LORD that is kindled against us, because our fathers have not hearkened unto the words of this book, to do according unto all that which is written concerning us.

14 So Hilkiah the priest, and Ahikam, and Achbor, and Shaphan, and ¹Asaiah, went unto Huldah the reading of the book and the nature of his later reforms (cf. 23:4–20; 2 Chr. 35:1–19) suggest that a copy of the whole Pentateuch had been found, one which possibly had been deposited beside the ark of the covenant (cf. Deut. 31:26), or had been hidden during a purge of the Word of God by the previous kings.

22:11. The king's reaction was one of genuine repentance for himself and his people. The entrance of God's Word brings correction and guidance to a man of godliness and true wisdom (Ps. 119:9–11, 129–136).

22:1 Josiah was the son of King Amon, whom the people made king of Judah after Amon's assassination (639 B.C.). Josiah's reign began when he was only eight years old and lasted 31 years, three decades of peace, prosperity, and reform. King Josiah devoted himself to pleasing God and reinstating Israel's observance of the Mosaic Law. The Bible focuses almost exclusively on Josiah's spiritual reform, which climaxes in the eighteenth year of his reign with the discovery of the Book of the Law (621 B.C.). There were three stages of this reform: (1) At the age of 16, Josiah "began to seek after the God of David his father" (2 Chr. 34:3). (2) At the age of 20, Josiah began to cleanse Jerusalem and the land of Judah of idolatrous objects (2 Chr. 34:3–7). (3) At the age of 26, Josiah ordered that the temple be repaired (2 Chr. 34:8). Josiah died while engaging Pharaoh-necho II of Egypt in battle in 609 B.C. at Megiddo (23:29). His death evoked widespread lamentation (2 Chr. 35:20–27). Jeremiah and Zephaniah prophesied during his reign, and he was considered Judah's outstanding monarch (23:25). (First Reference, 1 Kin. 13:2; Primary References, 2 Kin. 21:24–23:34.)

22:14–20. Huldah is not otherwise mentioned in the Old Testament. Her words relative to the king (v. 20) refer to Josiah's spiritual well-being with God and the present withholding of Jerusalem's final judgment, for Josiah died in battle (23:29, 30). The Hebrew word translated college probably means "second district."

23:2. The godly Josiah did what a righteous ruler in Israel was expected to do (Deut. 31:10–13). He may have read to the people those texts that dealt with Israel's covenant responsibilities to God (i.e., Lev. 26; Deut. 28).

of the altar at Beth-el which had been set up by Jeroboam I (1 Kin. 12:28, 29).

23:16-18. Josiah's actions here fulfilled the prophecy made some three centuries earlier (1 Kin. 13:26-32).

king of Egypt went ¹up against the king of Assyria to the river Euphrates: and king Josiah went against him; and ²he slew him at ^bMegiddo, when he ^chad³ seen him.

30 ^aAnd his servants carried him in a chariot dead from Megiddo, and brought him to Jerusalem, and buried him in his own sepulchre. And ^bthe people of the land took Jehoahaz the son of Josiah, and anointed him, and made him king in his father's stead.

Jehoahaz' Reign and Death

31 ^aJehoahaz was twenty and three years old when he began to reign; and he reigned three months in Jerusalem. And his mother's name was ^bHamutal, the daughter of Jeremiah of Libnah.

32 And he did that which was evil in the sight of the LORD, according to all that his fathers had done.

33 And Pharaoh-nechoh put him in ¹bands ^aat Riblah in the land of Hamath, that he might not reign in Jerusalem; and put the land to a tribute of an hundred talents of silver, and a talent of gold.

34 And ^aPharaoh-nechoh made Eliakim the son of Josiah king in the room of Josiah his father, and ^bturned his name to ^cJehoiakim, and ¹took Jehoahaz away: ^dand he came to Egypt, and ²died there.

35 And Jehoiakim gave ^athe silver and the gold to Pharaoh; but he taxed the land to give the money according to the commandment of 23:21-23. Full details of Josiah's strict observance of the passover are given in 2 Chronicles 35:1-19.

23:25. Just as Hezekiah was commended for his faith, so Josiah was recognized as having no peer in his stand for the strict application of the law of Moses.

23:26, 27. Despite all of the reforms that Josiah had led the people to observe, Judah's basic rejection of God was too entrenched. Judah's sin was irremediable. Therefore, its demise could not be long in coming (cf. 17:19; 24:3, 19, 20; 25:14-16).

23:28, 29. The Egyptian Pharaoh-nechoh was on the way to assist his Assyrian allies at Haran. When the Assyrian capital at Nineveh fell in 612 B.C. to an allied force that included the Chaldeans (or Neo-Babylonians) and Medes, the Assyrians fell back westward to Haran. Pharaoh-nechoh had just come to the throne of Egypt's Twenty-sixth Dynasty. This kingdom had emerged from a previous Assyrian vassalage and would become Egypt's last important dynasty (663-525 B.C.). Because of Egypt's long-standing allegiance to Assyria and a fear of the new Medo-Babylonian alliance, Pharaoh-nechoh was leading his forces to Haran to link up with the Assyrian army there. Josiah's attempt to prevent the Egyptians from reaching Haran cost him his life (cf. 2 Chr. 35:20-25), but did delay them long enough so that Haran fell before Pharaoh-nechoh could arrive (609 B.C.). The Assyrian forces subsequently moved still further westward to Carchemish, where Nebuchadnezzar finally defeated them in 605 B.C.

23:30. Jehoahaz was not Josiah's eldest son (cf. 1 Chr. 3:15 with Jer. 22:11).

23:33-35. A disgruntled Pharaoh-nechoh took the newly crowned Jehoahaz to Egypt as a spoil of war. He installed on the throne Eliakim (or Jehoiakim), who was forced to raise a heavy tribute.

Pharaoh: he exacted the silver and the gold of the people of the land, of every one according to his taxation, to give it unto Pharaoh—nechoh.

Jehoiakim's Reign

36 ^aJehoiakim was twenty and five years old when he began to reign; and he reigned eleven years in Jerusalem. And his mother's name was Zebudah, the daughter of Pedaiah of Rumah.

37 And he did that which was evil in the sight of the LORD, according to all that his fathers had done.

Jehoiakim's Rebellion

24 In ^ahis days Nebuchadnezzar king of ^bBabylon came up, and Jehoiakim became his servant three years: then he turned and rebelled against him.

2 ^aAnd the LORD sent against him ¹bands of the Chaldees, and bands of the Syrians, and bands of the Moabites, and bands of the children of Ammon, and sent them against Judah to destroy it, ^baccording to the word of the LORD, which he spake by his servants the prophets.

3 Surely at the commandment of the LORD came this upon Judah, to remove them out of his sight, ^afor the sins of Manasseh, according to all that he did;

4 ^aAnd also for the innocent blood that he shed: for he filled Jerusalem with innocent blood; which the LORD would not pardon.

5 Now the rest of the acts of Jehoiakim, and all that he did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah?

6 ^aSo Jehoiakim slept with his fathers: and Jehoiachin his son reigned in his stead.

Jehoiachin's Reign

8 ^aJehoiachin ¹*was* eighteen years old when he began to reign, and he reigned in Jerusalem three months. And his mother's name was Nehushta, the daughter of Elnathan of Jerusalem.

9 And he did that which was evil in the sight of the LORD, according to all that his father had done.

10 ^aAt that time the servants of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon came up against Jerusalem, and the city ¹was besieged.

11 And Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon came against the city, and his servants did besiege it.

12 ^aAnd Jehoiachin the king of Judah went out to the king of Babylon, he, and his mother, and his servants, and his princes, and his officers: and the king of Babylon took him ^bin the eighth year of his reign.

Temple Treasures Taken

13 ^aAnd he carried out thence all the treasures of the house of the LORD, and the treasures of the king's house, and ^bcut in pieces all the vessels of gold which Solomon king of Israel had made in the temple of the LORD, ^cas the LORD had said.

14 And ^ahe ¹carried away all Jerusalem, and all the princes, and all the mighty men of valour, ^beven ten thousand captives, and ^call the craftsmen and smiths: none remained, save ^dthe poorest sort of the people of the land.

24:1. Following the defeat of the combined Assyrian and Egyptian forces at Carchemish in 605 B.C. (see the note on 23:28, 29), Nebuchadnezzar took all of Syro-Palestine. He made Judah his vassal. The death of his father, King Nabopolassar, in that year forced Nebuchadnezzar to return home without accomplishing all of his goals in the west. At that time he took Daniel and others as captives to Babylon (Dan. 1:1-6). A later defeat of Nebuchadnezzar's forces by the Egyptians in 601 B.C. lured Jehoiakim into an anti-Babylonian alliance with Egypt.

24:2. In anticipation of a subsequent strike against Jerusalem, Nebuchadnezzar made raids against Judah's surrounding territories, subsequently using them to make forays against the Judean flanks.

24:8. See the note on 2 Chronicles 36:9.

24:10-16. Nebuchadnezzar sent a major striking force against Judah in 598 B.C. Jehoiakim had died before Nebuchadnezzar could reach Jerusalem. Accordingly, his son Jehoiachin was led away captive to Babylon. Nebuchadnezzar took away much booty as a spoil of war. He also seized and deported the leadership of Jerusalem, among whom was the prophet Ezekiel (Ezek. 1:1).

15 And ^ahe carried away Jehoiachin to Babylon, and the king's mother, and the king's wives, and his officers, and the mighty of the land, those carried he into captivity

24:17-20. Mattaniah (or Zedekiah) was Josiah's last remaining son. He was totally apostate.

25:1. Zedekiah's foolish rebellion (24:20) had apparently been encouraged by the Egyptian Pharaoh Apries (cf. Ezek. 17:15-17), who came to the throne of Egypt in 588 B.C., having succeeded his father Psamtik II (594-588 B.C.).

25:2-4. With Jerusalem under siege (cf. Jer. 39:1), Nebuchadnezzar took all of Judah (cf. Jer. 21:3-7; 34:7).

25:3, 4. The proud city fell, even as God had warned through Jeremiah the prophet (Jer. 19, 20; 25:1-11; 27, 28; 37:8-10, 17; 38:17-27).

25:7. The dreadful prophecies of Jeremiah (Jer. 32:3-5; 34:1-3) and Ezekiel (Ezek. 12:12, 13) concerning Zedekiah came to pass completely. Zedekiah was to die as a prisoner in Babylon (Jer. 52:11).

25:8-17. The capture and systematic plunder of Jerusalem is also recorded in 2 Chronicles 36:17-19; Jeremiah 39:1-10; and Jeremiah 52:1-23.

Priests and Officers Killed

18 ^aAnd the captain of the guard took ^bSeraiah the chief priest, and ^cZephaniah the second priest, and the three ¹keepers of the door:

19 And out of the city he took an officer that was set over the men of war, and ^afive men of them that were ¹in the king's presence, which were found in the city, and the ²principal scribe of the host, which mustered the people of the land, and three-score men of the people of the land that were found in the city:

21 And the king of Babylon smote them, and slew them at Riblah in the land of Hamath. "So Judah was carried away out of their land.

22 ^aAnd as for the people that remained in the land of Judah, whom Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon had left, even over them he made Gedaliah the son of ^bAhikam, the son of Shaphan, ruler.

26 And all the people, both small and great, and the captains of the armies, arose, ^aand came to Egypt: for they were afraid of the Chaldees.

Evil-merodach's Kindness

27 ^aAnd it came to pass in the seven and thirtieth year of the captivity of Jehoiachin king of Judah, in the twelfth month, on the seven and twentieth day of the month, that ¹Evil-merodach king of Babylon in the year that he began to reign ^bdid ²lift up the head of Jehoiachin king of Judah out of prison;

29 And changed his prison garments: and he did ^aeat ¹bread continually before him all the days of his life.

30 And his ¹allowance was ^acontinual allowance given him of the king, a daily rate for every day, all the days of his life.

25:18. Seraiah's sons were not executed (cf. 1 Chr. 6:15); the godly Ezra would descend from Seraiah (Ezra 7:1).

25:22. Jeremiah was spared by the king of Babylon and went to assist Gedaliah who became the provisional governor of Judah for Babylon (Jer. 39:11-14; 40:1-6). Confirmation of Gedaliah's importance comes from an imprint on a clay seal found at Lachish.

25:23-26. Full details relative to the governorship of Gedaliah, his murder, and the subsequent flight of the Jewish refugees to Egypt are given in Jeremiah 40:7-43:7.

25:27-30. Nebuchadnezzar died in 562 B.C. After his death, Jehoiachin was released and given royal privileges until his death. Ration tablets from the later reign of King Nabonidus of Babylon (555-539 B.C.) record the name of Jehoiachin among the recipients.

The First Book of the
CHRONICLES

The books of Chronicles were originally one book in the Hebrew text. They became separated into two books by the translators of the Greek version of the Old Testament and were given a title meaning “Things Left Behind”—that is, details not included in Samuel and Kings. The Hebrew title, “Daily Matters,” like the English title “Chronicles,” indicates that the material in these two books recounts the most important affairs in the lives of Israel’s leaders, especially the kings.

Historical Setting. The books of Chronicles trace the history of Israel from the beginning of the human race until the fall of Jerusalem and the subsequent return of the Jews during the reign of the Persian king, Cyrus the Great (559–529 B.C.). The books appear to have been written at the end of the Old Testament era in the fifth century B.C. Since the major thrust of the books is to trace the record of how God’s people stewarded their responsibilities as heirs of the Davidic covenant, the person of David is central to the material selected for inclusion by the author. The narrative of 1 Chronicles begins with a list of names that gives prominence to the Davidic line. The genealogies end with a consideration of the house of Saul, so after the account of his death the rest of the book can deal with Israel’s greatest king, David (chs. 11–29). The time stretches from the beginning until the early part of the tenth century B.C.

Authorship. Jewish tradition assigns the authorship of the two books of Chronicles to Ezra. The basic theological emphases of Chronicles, in which

(1) the divine evaluation of how the people of God, and Judah in particular, responded to the revealed standards of a holy God is recorded and (2) there is a concentration on the covenant with David, would suggest Ezra as the author. Ezra’s priestly descent and Levitical training would be in harmony with the viewpoint of Chronicles. His leadership in the establishment of the new state of Israel after the return from exile would furnish him with the proper perspective for seeing God’s hand in the long history of His people. Moreover, Jewish tradition indicates that Ezra’s compatriot, Nehemiah, owned a considerable library of books and documents from which Ezra, under divine guidance, could draw his source material for writing these two books.

Although liberal scholars suggest a date for the composition of these books as late as the third century B.C., neither the text nor the details of the book warrants a date of Chronicles beyond the traditional time assigned at the close of the Hebrew Canon in the late fifth century B.C. Like the author of Kings, the author of Chronicles had a number of official and nonofficial sources at his disposal (cf. 2 Chr. 16:11; 20:34; 25:26; 28:26; 32:32; 33:18; 35:27; 36:8; see the note on 1 Chr. 29:29). As well, the biblical books of Samuel and Kings were doubtless available to him.

Several seeming discrepancies between Chronicles and the record in Samuel and Kings have caused liberal critics to doubt the historical trustworthiness of Chronicles. However, a careful examination of each of these cases results in a satisfactory resolution of the problem, either by the processes of textual criticism or by a sound exegesis of the context. The details included in Chronicles are not intended to be exhaustive, but are distinctively selected in accordance with the author's purpose of writing a spiritual history of God's people. Again and again God's faithfulness and sure hand upon the basic flow of history are seen. From start to the closing note, Israel's hope (and that of all men) is seen to lie in God's promise to sum up all things in the coming One, Israel's Messiah and the Savior of the world (cf. 1 Chr. 17:11-17 with Acts 17:26-31; Col. 1:20).

1:1. The genealogical lists begin by demonstrating the place of the line of David, from whom the Messiah would come, among the families of mankind (1:1-3:24).
1:5. The genealogical record moves from the list of righteous individuals who lived before the Flood, to the sons of Noah, from the widest circle of dispersion, Japheth, to Ham (v. 8) and then to the messianic line in Shem (v. 17). This line is then traced to Abraham (v. 27).

1:10. At times special notices of importance regarding certain key people are tucked into the genealogies (cf. vv. 19, 43, 46). For Nimrod, see Genesis 10:8-12.
1:19. This division refers to the scattering of the people at the Tower of Babel (Gen. 11:8, 9).

1:28. Adam (v. 1), Noah (v. 4), Abraham (vv. 27, 28), and Judah (2:3) are principal people in the record leading to David (2:15; 3:1-24).

1:29. The less significant line is dealt with (vv. 29-33) before turning to the main messianic line in Isaac (v. 34). In turn, Ishmael's line is traced first (vv. 35-54) before turning to the more important line of the sons of Israel (2:1, 2).

1:32. Although Keturah was Abraham's wife after the death of Sarah (Gen. 25:1), she is classed with Hagar as Abraham's concubine (Gen. 25:6).

1:34. Jacob is called by his new name Israel in accordance with his status as the bearer of the blessings of the Abrahamic covenant (cf. Gen. 35:9-12).

2:16, 17. David's sister Zeruiah is remembered as the mother of David's most capable supporters (cf. 2 Sam. 2:18-32). Abigail (the daughter of Nahash, the sister of Zeruiah) gave birth to Absalom's commander, Amasa (2 Sam. 17:25).

4 And Penuel the father of Gedor, and Ezer the father of Hushah. These 3:5-9. These sons born to David at Jerusalem are mentioned again in 14:3-7.

3:10-24. Solomon, with whom the Davidic covenant is confirmed, becomes the son through whom the messianic line is continued. The names are listed in two groups: verses 10-16, Solomon's preexilic descendants and verses 17-24, Solomon's postexilic descendants. The list ends with Anani, who was born at the end of the fifth century B.C. at the close of the Old Testament Canon.

3:17. Apparently Assir's daughter must have been married to Neri from the Davidic line of Nathan, so Salathiel (or Shealtiel, cf. Ezra 3:8) was son of Assir and Jeconiah (or Jehoiachin, cf. 2 Kin. 24:6) only through Assir's daughter.

3:19. Apparently Salathiel died without a son. Accordingly, Pedaiah, his brother, married his widow and gave birth to Zerubbabel. The purpose of such a levirate marriage (cf. Deut. 25:5-10 and the notes on Ruth 3:9 and 4:9, 10) was to maintain the dead husband's line; hence, Zerubbabel is legally the son of Salathiel. The genealogical lists of Jesus found in Matthew 1:1-16 and Luke 3:23-38 find a common ground of meeting in Salathiel and Zerubbabel (Matt. 1:12; Luke 3:27). Zerubbabel was the leader of the exiles who later returned from Babylon to Jerusalem (cf. Ezra 2:2; Neh. 12:1). He became the governor of Judah (Hag. 2:21) and was associated with the ministry of the prophets Haggai and Zechariah (Ezra 5:1, 2), who held him in high esteem (Hag. 2:23; Zech. 4:6-10).

4:1. Having traced the basic messianic line, the author returns to the sons of Jacob (Israel) in their wider extent, bringing the list of names to a conclusion with a special consideration of the family of Saul (4:1-9:44), probably as a prelude to a rehearsal of Saul's death (ch. 10). All of this forms a backdrop to the main theme of 1 Chronicles, the history of David (chs. 11-29).

5 And ^aAshur the father of Tekoa had two wives, Helah and Naarah.

Jabez an Honourable Man

9 And Jabez was ^amore honourable than his brethren: and his mother called his name ¹Jabez, saying, Because I bare him with sorrow.

10 And Jabez called on the God of Israel, saying, Oh that thou wouldest bless me indeed, and enlarge my ¹coast, and that thine hand might be with me, and that thou wouldest keep me from evil, that it may not ²grieve me! And God granted him that which he requested.

18 And his wife ¹Jehudijah bare Jered the father of Gedor, and Heber the father of Socho, and Jekuthiel the father of Zanoah. And these are the sons of Bithiah the daughter of Pharaoh, which Mered took.

19 And the sons of his wife Hodiah the sister of Naham, the father of Keilah the Garmite, and Eshtemoa the ^aMaachathite.

20 And the sons of Shimon were, Amnon, and Rinnah, Ben-hanan, and Tilon. And the sons of Ishi were, Zoheth, and Ben-zoheth.

21 The sons of ^aShelah ^bthe son of Judah were, Er the father of Lecah, and Laadah the father of Mareshah, and the families of the house of ¹them that wrought fine linen, of the house of Ashbea, 23 These were the potters, and those that dwelt among plants and hedges: there they dwelt with the king for his work.

Simeon's Descendants

24 The ^asons of Simeon were, ¹Nemuel, and Jamin, ²Jarib, ³Zerah, and Shaul:

25 Shallum his son, Mibsam his son, Mishma his son.

26 And the sons of Mishma; Hamuel his son, Zacchur his son, Shimei his son.

27 And Shimei had sixteen sons and six daughters; but his brethren had not many children, ^aneither did all their family multiply, like to the children of Judah.

28 And they dwelt at Beer-sheba, and Moladah, and Hazar-shual,

29 And at ¹Bilhah, and at Ezem, and at ²Tolad,

30 And at Bethuel, and at Hormah, and at Ziklag,

32 And their villages were, ¹Etam, and Ain, Rimmon, and Tochen, and Ashan, five cities:

33 And all their villages that were round about the same cities, unto ¹Baal. These were their ²habitations, and their genealogy.

34 And Meshobab, and Jamlech, and Joshah the son of Amaziah,

35 And Joel, and Jehu the son of Josibiah, the son of Seraiah, the son of Asiel,

36 And Elioenai, and Jaakobah, and Jeshohaiiah, and Asaiah, and Adiel, and Jesimiel, and Benaiah,

37 And Ziza the son of Shiphi, the son of Allon, the son of Jedaiah, the son of Shimri, the son of Shemaiah;

38 These mentioned by their names were ¹princes in their families: and the house of their fathers increased greatly.

The Conquest of the Amalekites

39 And they went to the entrance of Gedor, even unto the east side of the valley, to seek pasture for their flocks.

40 And they found fat pasture and good, and the land was wide, and quiet, and peaceable; for ¹they of Ham had dwelt there of old.

41 And these written by name came in the days of Hezekiah king of Judah, and ^asmote¹ their tents, and the habitations that were found there, and ^bdestroyed them utterly unto this day, and dwelt in their rooms: because there was pasture there for their flocks.

42 And some of them, even of the sons of Simeon, five hundred men, went to mount Seir, having for their

Reuben's Descendants

5 Now the sons of Reuben the firstborn of Israel, (for ^ahe was the firstborn; but, forasmuch as he ^bdefiled his father's bed, ^chis birthright was given unto the sons of Joseph the son of Israel: and the genealogy is not to be reckoned after the birthright.

2 For ^aJudah prevailed above his brethren, and of him came the ^bchief¹ ruler; but ²the birthright was Joseph's:)

3 The sons, I say, of ^aReuben the firstborn of Israel were, Hanoch, and Pallu, Hezron, and Carmi.

4 The sons of Joel; Shemaiah his son, Gog his son, Shimei his son,

5 Micah his son, Reaia his son, Baal his son,

6 Beerah his son, whom ¹Tilgath-pilneser king of Assyria ^acarried away captive: he was prince of the Reubenites.

7 And his brethren by their families, ^awhen the genealogy of their generations was reckoned, were the chief, Jeiel, and Zechariah,

9 And eastward he inhabited ¹unto the entering in of the wilderness from the river Euphrates: because their cattle ²were multiplied ^ain the land of Gilead.

4:39-43. Here certain historical notices of the activities of the tribe of Simeon in the days of Hezekiah are detailed. Those of Ham are Egyptians (cf. Ps. 105:23, 27). The rest of the Amalekites are those who escaped after David defeated them (cf. 1 Sam. 30:18; 2 Sam. 8:12). For the hatred of the Amalekites toward Israel, see the note on Judges 3:12, 13.

5:1, 2. To take the concubine was to usurp the father's role as head of the family. Reuben had committed such a sin (Gen. 35:22), for which he was denounced in Jacob's prophetic blessings of his sons (Gen. 49:3, 4). Although the privilege of the first-born was transferred to Joseph, his firstborn son through Rachel (cf. Gen. 48), nevertheless the messianic reckoning passed to the line of Judah in accordance with Jacob's prophecy (Gen. 49:8-10).

Gad's Descendants

11 And the ^achildren of Gad dwelt over against them, in the land of ^bBashan unto ^cSalcah:

12 Joel the chief, and Shapham the next, and Jaanai, and Shaphat in Bashan.

13 And their brethren of the house of their fathers were, Michael, and Meshullam, and Sheba, and Jorai, and Jachan, and Zia, and Heber, seven.

14 These are the children of Abihail the son of Huri, the son of Jaroh, the son of Gilead, the son of Michael, the son of Jeshishai, the son of Jahdo, the son of Buz;

15 Ahi the son of Abdiel, the son of Guni, chief of the house of their fathers.

16 And ¹they dwelt in Gilead in Bashan, and in her towns, and in all the ²suburbs of ^aSharon, ³upon their borders.

17 All these were reckoned by genealogies in the days of ^aJotham king of Judah, and in the days of ^bJero-boam king of Israel.

Reuben, Gad, and Manasseh

18 The sons of Reuben, and the Gadites, and half the tribe of Manasseh, of valiant men, men able to bear buckler and sword, and to shoot with bow, and skilful in war, were four and forty thousand seven hundred and threescore, that went out to the war.

The Half-Tribe of Manasseh

23 And the children of the half tribe of Manasseh dwelt in the land: they increased from Bashan unto Baal-hermon and ^aSenir, and unto mount Hermon.

24 And these were the heads of the house of their fathers, even Epher, and Ishi, and Eliel, and Azriel, and Jeremiah, and Hodaviah, and Jahdiel, mighty men of valour, famous men, and heads of the house of their fathers.

25 And they transgressed against the God of their fathers, and ¹went a ^awhoring after the gods of the people of the land, whom God destroyed before them.

26 And the God of Israel stirred up the spirit of ^aPul king of Assyria, and the spirit of ^bTilgath-pilneser¹ king of Assyria, and he carried them away, even the Reubenites, and the Gadites, and the half tribe of Manasseh, and brought them unto ^cHalah, and Habor, and Hara, and to the river Gozan, unto this day.

5:18-22. These verses contain a further notice of the Hagarites of Trans-Jordan and their battles against the two and one-half tribes that settled east of the Jordan. This section is important for its recognition of God's divine government in operation, directing political affairs among men in accordance with His intended purposes.

5:25. The folly of Trans-Jordan Manasseh is immediately apparent: they had stupidly turned from the God who had given them the victory (vv. 18-22). Therefore, God must, in turn, send judgment against them. That judgment would likewise take the form of warfare (v. 26).

5:26. Pul and Tilgath-pilneser (Tiglath-pileser III of Assyria) were the same individual. (See the note on 2 Kin. 15:19, 20.) Accordingly, the sentence should be translated, "The spirit of Pul king of Assyria, even the spirit of Tilgath-pilneser."

6:3. The line of the chief priests is given in verses 3–15 and 49–53. After the judgment of Nadab and Abihu (Lev. 10), the high priestly line passed through Eleazar, Aaron's eldest son, until the time of Eli, when it came under the control of the house of Ithamar. The high priesthood passed back to the line of Eleazar with Zadok (cf. 1 Kin. 1:7, 8, 44, 45; 2:26, 27), where it remained (cf. Ezek. 44:15; 48:11).

6:10. This historical notice looks on to the days of Solomon's temple. Some have connected this Azariah with 1 Kings 4:2, others with 2 Chronicles 26:17.

6:13. For the importance of Hilkiah, see 2 Kings 22:8–10.

6:15. The mention of Jehozadak looks on to the captivity of Jerusalem in 586 B.C. and the resultant exile of the Jews. Jehozadak's son Jeshua returned from the exile under Zerubbabel (cf. Ezra 3:2; Neh. 12:26).

6:25–28. See the note on 1 Samuel 1:1.

6:31–48. The importance of organized music in the temple worship of Israel is underscored in the roster of Levites who served there. Particularly prominent were Heman (v. 33; cf. 16:41), the Kohathite, Asaph (v. 39; cf. 16:37; Ps. 50, 73–83), the Gershomite, and Ethan (v. 44, probably the Jeduthun of 16:41, 42; cf. 2 Chr. 35:15; Neh. 11:17), the Merarite. Apparently each headed a temple choir, that of Heman being placed in the center. Each headed a family of singers and musicians (cf. 15:16–24; 16:4–43; 25:1). In David's time some four thousand Levites were so designated for the temple services (cf. 23:5).

54 ^aNow these are their dwelling places throughout their castles in their ¹coasts, of the sons of Aaron, of the families of the Kohathites: for theirs was the lot.

Issachar's Descendants

7 Now the sons of Issachar were, ^aTola, and ¹Puah, ²Jashub, and Shimrom, four.

2 And the sons of Tola; Uzzi, and Rephaiah, and Jeriel, and Jahmai, and Jibsam, and Shemuel, heads of their father's house, to wit, of Tola: they were ¹valiant men of might in their generations; ^awhose number was in the days of David two and twenty thousand and six hundred.

3 And the sons of Uzzi; Izrahiah: and the sons of Izrahiah; Michael, and Obadiah, and Joel, Ishiah, five: all of them chief men.

4 And with them, by their generations, after the house of their fathers, were bands of soldiers for war, six and thirty thousand men: for they had many wives and sons.

5 And their brethren among all the families of Issachar were ¹valiant men of might, reckoned in all by their genealogies fourscore and seven thousand.

Benjamin's Descendants

6 The sons of ^aBenjamin; Bela, and Becher, and Jediel, three.

7 And the sons of Bela; Ezbon, and Uzzi, and Uzziel, and Jerimoth, and Iri, five; heads of the house of their fathers, mighty men of valour;

7:4, 5. Issachar's warriors were known for their strength and military prowess (cf. Gen. 49:14; Judg. 5:15) and prudence (Deut. 33:19; 1 Chr. 12:32).

7:6-12. Five sons of Benjamin are listed in Numbers 26:38-41 (cf. 8:1, 2). Two of Benjamin's grandsons (Num. 26:40) are listed among the 10 sons (descendants) of Benjamin in Genesis 46:21. The list here contains still other differences. Biblical genealogies are and were reckoned by their genealogies twenty and two thousand and thirty and four.

8 And the sons of Becher; Zemira, and Joash, and Eliezer, and Elioenai, and Omri, and Jerimoth, and Abiah, and Anathoth, and Alameth. All these are the sons of Becher.

9 And the number of them, after their genealogy by their generations, heads of the house of their fathers, mighty men of valour, was twenty thousand and two hundred.

10 The sons also of Jediael; Bilhan: and the sons of Bilhan; Jeush, and Benjamin, and Ehud, and Chenaanah, and Zethan, and Tharshish, and Ahishahar.

11 All these the sons of Jediael, by the heads of their fathers, mighty men of valour, were seventeen thousand and two hundred soldiers, fit to go out for war and battle.

12 ¹Shuppim also, and ²Huppim, the children of ³Iri, and Hushim, the sons of ⁴Aher.

Ephraim's Descendants

20 And ^athe sons of Ephraim; Shuthelah, and Bered his son, and Tahath his son, and Eladah his son, and Tahath his son, 21 And Zabad his son, and Shuthelah his son, and Ezer, and Elead, whom the men of Gath that were born in that land slew, because they came down to take away their cattle.

22 And Ephraim their father mourned many days, and his brethren came to comfort him.

23 And when he went in to his wife, she conceived, and bare a son, and he called his name ¹Beriah, because ²it went evil with his house.

24 (And his daughter was Sherah, who built ^aBeth-horon the nether, and the upper, and Uzzen-sherah.)

26 Laadan his son, Ammihud his son, ^aElishama his son, extremely selective and recorded for various reasons. They are not intended to be complete. Thus, chronologies of the Bible based strictly upon genealogical lists are hazardous at best.

7:12. Hushim is elsewhere listed as the son of Dan (Gen. 46:23). Since in the genealogical lists the name of Dan regularly follows that of Benjamin, it may have been intended to be included here. If so, only Zebulun's genealogy is missing in chapters 2-7, perhaps because Zebulun's fortunes were so often linked with those of Issachar (cf. Gen. 49:13, 14; Num. 2:5-8; 26:23-27; Deut. 33:18, 19). Since the precise selectivity of the genealogical lists is conditioned by a given author's purpose, Zebulun's omission is not unusual.

Asher's Descendants

30 ^aThe sons of Asher; Imnah, and Isuah, and Ishuai, and Beriah, and Serah their sister.

31 And the sons of Beriah; Heber, and Malchiel, who is the father of ¹Birzavith.

32 And Heber begat Japhlet, and ¹Shomer, and ²Hotham, and Shua their sister.

33 And the sons of Japhlet; Pasach, and Bimhal, and Ashvath. These are the children of Japhlet.

34 And the sons of ^aShamer; Ahi, and Rohgah, Jehubbah, and Aram.

35 And the sons of his brother Helem; Zophah, and Imna, and Shelesh, and Amal.

36 The sons of Zophah; Suah, and Harnepher, and Shual, and Beri, and Imrah, 37 Bezer, and Hod, and Shamma, and Shilshah, and ¹Ithran, and Beera.

38 And the sons of Jether; Jephunneh, and Pispah, and Ara.

39 And the sons of Ulla; Arah, and Haniel, and Rezia.

40 All these were the children of Asher, heads of their father's house, choice and mighty men of valour, chief of the princes. And the number throughout the genealogy of them that were apt to the war and to battle was twenty and six thousand men.

8:1. This list expands that of 7:6-12, listing Benjamites in various localities (vv. 1-32), and closes with the mention of the family of Saul (vv. 33-40). Benjamin is accorded a final place in the genealogies to prepare the readers of 1 Chronicles for the narrative concerning Saul in chapter 10. (Note the similar positioning of the supplemental list of Benjamites in Gibeon from which came Saul, Israel's first king, in 9:35-44.)

The Book of the Kings

9 So ^aall Israel ¹were reckoned by genealogies; and, behold, they were written in the book of the kings of Israel and Judah, who were carried away to Babylon for their ²transgression.

The Chief Men

2 ^aNow the first inhabitants that dwelt in their possessions in their cities were, the Israelites, the priests, Levites, and ^bthe Nethinims.

3 And in ^aJerusalem dwelt of the children of Judah, and of the children of Benjamin, and of the children of Ephraim, and Manasseh;

4 Uthai the son of Ammihud, the son of Omri, the son of Imri, the son of Bani, of the children of Pharez the son of Judah.

5 And of the Shilonites; Asaiah the firstborn, and his sons.

6 And of the sons of Zerah; Jeuel, and their brethren, six hundred and ninety.

7 And of the sons of Benjamin; Sallu the son of Meshullam, the son of Hodaviah, the son of Hasenuah,

8 And Ibneiah the son of Jeroham, and Elah the son of Uzzi, the son of Michri, and Meshullam the son of Shephathiah, the son of Reuel, the son of Ibnijah;

9 And their brethren, according to their generations, nine hundred and fifty and six. All these men were chief of the fathers in the house of their fathers.

The Priests

10 ^aAnd of the priests; Jedaiah, and Jehoiarib, and Jachin,

11 And ¹Azariah the son of Hilkiah, the son of Meshullam, the son of Zadok, the son of Meraioth, the son of Ahitub, the ^aruler of the house of God;

12 And Adaiah the son of Jeroham, the son of Pashur, the son of 8:34. For Merib-baal, see the note at 2 Samuel 2:8-11.

9:1. The genealogical lists are extended to include a roster of returnees from the Exile (cf. Neh. 11). A list of laymen (vv. 4-9) is followed by the names of the priests (vv. 10-13) and Levites (vv. 14-34).

9:2. Four classes of returnees are delineated: laymen, priests, Levites, and Nethinim. The last is an ancient term used to designate temple servants. Some suggest that the word refers to non-Israelites who had become a part of the congregation of Israel. At any rate, they became closely associated with the Levites (cf. Ezra 7:24; 8:16-20; Neh. 10:28) in the work carried on in the temple precincts (Ezra 8:20).

Malchijah, and Maasiai the son of Adiel, the son of Jahzerah, the son of Meshullam, the son of Meshillemith, the son of Immer;

13 And their brethren, heads of the house of their fathers, a thousand and seven hundred and three-score; ¹very able men for the work of the service of the house of God.

The Levites

14 And of the Levites; Shemaiah the son of Hasshub, the son of Azrikam, the son of Hashabiah, of the sons of Merari;

15 And Bakbakkar, Heresh, and Galal, and Mattaniah the son of Micah, the son of ^aZichri, the son of Asaph;

16 And ^aObadiah the son of ^bShemaiah, the son of Galal, the son of Jeduthun, and Berechiah the son of Asa, the son of Elkanah, that dwelt in the villages of the Netophathites.

The Porters

17 And the porters were, Shallum, and Akkub, and Talmon, and Ahiman, and their brethren: Shallum was the chief;

18 Who hitherto waited in the king's gate eastward: they were porters in the companies of the children of Levi.

19 And Shallum the son of Kore, the son of Ebiasaph, the son of Korah, and his brethren, of the house of his father, the Korahites, were ¹over the work of the service, keepers of the ²gates of the tabernacle: and their fathers, being over the host of the LORD, were keepers of the ³entry.

20 And ^aPhinehas the son of Eleazar was the ruler over them in time past, and the LORD was with him.

21 And ^aZechariah the son of Meshelemiah was ¹porter of the door of the tabernacle of the congregation.

reckoned by their genealogy in their villages, whom David and Samuel ^bthe seer ²did ordain in their ³set office.

23 So they and their children had the oversight of the gates of the house of the LORD, namely, the house of the tabernacle, by wards.

24 In four quarters were the ¹porters, toward the east, west, north, and south.

25 And their brethren, which were in their villages, were to come ^aafter seven days from time to time with them.

26 For these Levites, the four chief ¹porters, were in their ²set office, and were over the chambers and treasuries of the house of God.

Duties of the Levites

27 And they lodged round about the house of God, because the ^acharge¹ was upon them, and the opening thereof every morning per-tained to them.

28 And certain of them had the charge of the ministering vessels, that they should bring them in and out ¹by tale.

29 Some of them also were appointed to oversee the ¹vessels, and all the ²instruments of the sanctuary, and the ^afine flour, and the wine, and the oil, and the frankincense, and the spices.

The Family of Saul

39 ^aAnd Ner begat Kish; and Kish begat Saul; and Saul begat Jonathan, and Malchi-shua, and Abinadab, and Esh-baal.

40 And the son of Jonathan was Merib-baal: and Merib-baal begat Micah.

41 And the sons of Micah were, Pithon, and Melech, and ¹Tahrea, ^aand Ahaz.

42 And Ahaz begat ¹Jarah; and Jarah begat Alemeth, and Azmaveth, and Zimri; and Zimri begat Moza;

43 And Moza begat Binea; and ¹Rephaiah his son, Eleasah his son, Azel his son.

44 And Azel had six sons, whose names are these, Azrikam, Bocheru, and Ishmael, and Sheariah, and Obadiah, and Hanan: these were the sons of Azel.

Saul's Defeat and Death

10 Now ^athe Philistines fought against Israel; and the men of Israel fled from before the Philistines, and fell down slain in mount Gilboa.

2 And the Philistines followed hard after Saul, and after his sons; and the Philistines slew Jonathan, and ¹Abinadab, and Malchi-shua, the sons of Saul.

¹Lit. transgressed

3 And the battle ¹went sore against Saul, and the archers hit him, and he was wounded of the archers.

4 Then said Saul to his armourbearer, Draw thy sword, and thrust me through therewith; lest these uncircumcised come and abuse me. But his armourbearer would not; for he was ¹sore afraid. So Saul took a sword, and fell upon it.

5 And when his armourbearer saw that Saul was dead, he fell likewise on the sword, and died.

6 So Saul died, and his three sons, and all his house died together.

7 And when all the men of Israel that were in the valley saw that they fled, and that Saul and his sons were dead, then they forsook their cities, and fled: and the Philistines came and dwelt in them.

Disrespect for Saul

8 And it came to pass on the morrow, when the Philistines came to ¹strip the slain, that they found Saul and his sons fallen in mount Gilboa.

9 And when they had stripped him, they took his head, and his armour, and sent into the land of the Philistines round about, to carry tidings unto their idols, and to the people.

10 ^aAnd they put his armour in the ¹house of their gods, and fastened his head in the temple of Dagon.

Saul's Body Recovered

11 And when all Jabesh-gilead heard all that the Philistines had done to Saul,

12 They arose, all the ^avaliant men, and took away the body of Saul, and the bodies of his sons, and brought them to ^bJabesh, and buried their bones under the oak in Jabesh, and fasted seven days.

13 So Saul died for his transgression which he ¹committed against the LORD, ^aeven against the word of 10:6. This verse deals with Saul's three sons and the attendants that were with him at the battle. Some of Saul's sons were not here (cf. 2 Sam. 2:8; 21:1-14).

10:13, 14. The author of Chronicles adds a note to the historical narrative on the divine judgment of Saul (cf. 1 Sam. 31). Saul's continued disobedience (1 Sam. 13:8, 9; 15:3, 9-19) and the consulting of the witch of Endor (1 Sam. 28:7-25) had brought on his downfall.

the LORD, which he kept not, and also for ²asking counsel of one that had a familiar spirit, ^bto enquire of it;

14 And enquired not of the LORD: therefore he slew him, and ^aturned the kingdom unto David the son of Jesse.

David Anointed King

11 Then ^aall Israel gathered themselves to David unto Hebron, saying, Behold, we are thy bone and thy flesh.

2 And moreover in time past, even when Saul was king, thou wast he that leddest out and broughtest in Israel: and the LORD thy ^aGod said unto thee, Thou shalt ^bfeed¹ my people Israel, and thou shalt be ruler over my people Israel.

3 Therefore came all the elders of Israel to the king to Hebron; and David made a covenant with them in Hebron before the LORD; and ^athey anointed David king over Israel, according to the word of the LORD ^bby ^bSamuel.

David Captures Jerusalem

4 And David and all Israel ^awent to Jerusalem, which is Jebus; ^bwhere the Jebusites were, the inhabitants of the land.

5 And the inhabitants of Jebus said to David, Thou shalt not come hither. Nevertheless David took the castle of Zion, which is the city of David.

6 And David said, Whosoever ¹smiteth the Jebusites first shall be ²chief and captain. So Joab the son of Zeruiah went first up, and ³was chief.

11:1. For a time after Saul's death, loyalties in Israel were divided between Ish-bosheth, Saul's son, and David (cf. 2 Sam. 2-4). With the desertion of Ish-bosheth's general, Abner (2 Sam. 3:20), and the assassination of Ish-bosheth (2 Sam. 4:7), all the tribes sent representatives to Hebron, David's capital, to recognize his kingship over all Israel (cf. 2 Sam. 5:1-5). For an expanded account concerning David's forces at Hebron, see 12:23-40.

11:2. David had been anointed king (1 Sam. 16:13) after Saul's disobedience to God's command given through Samuel (1 Sam. 15:22, 23). Part of the promise in the Davidic covenant was that as ruler over Israel, the line of David would shepherd God's people (cf. 2 Sam. 7:8; 1 Chr. 17:7; Ezek. 34:23-31; 37:24).

11:4, 5. Jebus, the home of the powerful Jebusites, was also known as Jerusalem (cf. Josh. 15:63; Judg. 19:10). David had earlier brought Goliath's head here (1 Sam. 17:54). Because Jerusalem was a seemingly impregnable fortress, its citizens had thrown taunts at David and his men (2 Sam. 5:6, 7). After Jerusalem's capture, it became known as the city of David, or Zion.

11:6. For the capture of Jerusalem, see the note on 2 Samuel 5:8.

11:8. For the Millo, see the note on 2 Samuel 5:9.

11:10. See the note on 2 Samuel 23:8.

11:11. The number of the enemy slain by Jashobeam is given in 2 Samuel 23:8 as eight hundred, probably the correct figure. The number here may have been miscopied, perhaps influenced by the number slain by Abishai in verse 20.

David, into the cave of Adullam; and the host of the Philistines encamped ^bin the valley of ¹Rephaim.

16 And David was then in the ¹hold, and the Philistines' garrison was then at Beth-lehem.

17 And David longed, and said, Oh that one would give me drink of the water of the well of Beth-lehem, that is at the gate!

18 And the three brake through the host of the Philistines, and drew water out of the well of Beth-lehem, that was by the gate, and took it, and brought it to David: but David would not drink of it, but poured it out to the LORD,

19 And said, My God forbid it me, that I should do this thing: shall I drink the blood of these men that have put their lives in jeopardy? for with the jeopardy of their lives they brought it. Therefore he would not drink it. These things did these three mightiest.

20 ^aAnd Abishai the brother of Joab, he was chief of the three: for lifting up his spear against three hundred, he slew them, and had a name among the three.

21 ^aOf the three, he ¹was more honourable than the two; for he was their captain: howbeit he attained not to the first three.

22 Benaiah the son of Jehoiada, the son of a valiant man of Kabzeel, who ¹had done many acts; ^ahe slew two lionlike men of Moab: also he went down and slew a lion in a pit in a snowy day.

23 And he slew an Egyptian, a man of great stature, five cubits high; and in the Egyptian's hand was a spear like a weaver's beam; and he went down to him with a staff, and plucked the spear out of the Egyptian's hand, and slew him with his own spear.

24 These things did Benaiah the son of Jehoiada, and had the name among the three mighties.

25 Behold, he ¹was honourable among the thirty, but attained not to the first three: and David set him over his guard.

14 These were of the sons of Gad, captains of the host: one of the least was over an hundred, and the greatest over a ^athousand.

15 These are they that went over Jordan in the first month, when it had overflowed all his ^abanks; and they put to flight all them of the valleys, both toward the east, and toward the west.

16 And there came of the children of Benjamin and Judah to the ¹hold unto David.

17 And David went out ¹to meet them, and answered and said unto them, If ye be come peaceably unto me to help me, mine heart shall be ²knit unto you: but if ye be come to betray me to mine enemies, seeing there is no ³wrong in mine hands, the God of our fathers look thereon, and rebuke it.

18 Then ¹the spirit came upon ^aAmasai, who was chief of the captains, and he said, Thine are we, David, and on thy side, thou son of Jesse: peace, peace be unto thee, and peace be to thine helpers; for thy God helpeth thee. Then David received them, and made them captains of the band.

19 And there fell some of Manasseh to David, ^awhen he came with the Philistines against Saul to battle: but they helped them not: for the lords of the Philistines ¹upon advisement sent him away, saying, ^bHe will ²fall to his master Saul ³to the jeopardy of our heads.

20 As he went to Ziklag, ¹there fell to him of Manasseh, Adnah, and Jozabad, and Jedaiel, and Michael, and Jozabad, and Elihu, and Zilthai, captains of the thousands that were of Manasseh.

21 And they helped David against ^athe band of the rovers: for they were all mighty men of valour, and were captains in the host.

12:1-7. For David's stay at Ziklag and his battles with the Amalekites, see 1 Samuel 27, 30.

12:8-15. The roster of Gadites who came to David, possibly during his time in the wilderness of En-gedi (cf. 1 Sam. 24:1), is given here. David characteristically sought out various caves or strongholds in the wilderness areas where he fled from Saul (e.g., 1 Sam. 22:1; 23:14).

12:16-18. The addition of men from Benjamin and Judah occurred in the days of David's life in the strongholds. For the ministry of the Holy Spirit in the Old Testament, see the note on Judges 3:10.

12:19-22. For the historical background of this addition of troops from Manasseh, see 1 Samuel 29, 30.

22 For at that time day by day there came to David to help him, until it was a great ¹host, ^alike the host of God.

10 And the anger of the LORD was ¹kindled against Uzza, and he ²smote him, ^abecause he put his hand to the ark: and there he ^bdied before God.

11 And David ¹was displeased, because the LORD had made a breach upon Uzza: wherefore that place is called ²Perez-uzza to this day.

12 And David was afraid of God that day, saying, How shall I bring the ark of God home to me?

13 So David ¹brought not the ark home to himself to the city of David, but carried it aside into the house of Obed-edom the Gittite.

14 ^aAnd the ark of God remained with the family of Obed-edom in his house three months. And the LORD blessed ^bthe house of Obed-edom, and all that he had.

David Established in Jerusalem

14 Now ^aHiram king of Tyre sent messengers to David, and timber of cedars, with masons and carpenters, to build him an house.

2 And David perceived that the LORD had confirmed him king over Israel, for his kingdom ¹was ^alifted up on high, because of his people Israel.

3 And David took more wives at Jerusalem: and David begat more sons and daughters.

4 Now ^athese are the names of his children which he had in Jerusalem; ¹Shammua, and Shobab, Nathan, and Solomon,

5 And Ibhar, and ¹Elishua, and ²Elpalet,

6 And Nogah, and Nepheg, and Japhia,

7 And Elishama, and ¹Beeliada, and Eliphalet.

David's Victories

8 And when the Philistines heard that ^aDavid was anointed king over all Israel, all the Philistines went up to ¹seek David. And David heard of it, and went out against them.

9 And the Philistines came and ¹spread themselves ^ain the valley of ²Rephaim.

10 And David ^aenquired of God, saying, Shall I go up against the Philistines? and wilt thou deliver them into mine hand? And the LORD said unto him, Go up; for I will deliver them into thine hand.

11 So they came up to Baal-perazim; and David ¹smote them there. Then David said, God hath ²broken in upon mine enemies by mine hand like ³the breaking forth of waters: therefore they called the name of that place ⁴Baal-perazim.

13:3, 4. See the note on 2 Samuel 6:2.

13:9, 10. For this disobedience of the divine instructions with regard to transporting the ark, see the note on 2 Samuel 6:3-7.

14:1, 2. See the note on 2 Samuel 5:11.

14:3-5. See the note on 2 Samuel 5:13-15.

12 And when they had left their gods there, David gave a commandment, and they were burned with fire.

13 ^aAnd the Philistines yet again ¹spread themselves abroad in the valley.

14 Therefore David enquired again of God; and God said unto him, Go not up after them; turn away from them, ^aand come upon them ¹over against the mulberry trees.

15 And it shall be, when thou shalt hear a sound of going in the tops of the mulberry trees, that then thou shalt go out to battle: for God is gone forth before thee to ¹smite the host of the Philistines.

16 David therefore did as God commanded him: and they ¹smote the host of the Philistines from ²Gib-eon even to Gazer.

17 And ^athe fame of David went out into all lands; and the LORD ^bbrought the fear of him upon all nations.

David Prepares a Place for the Ark

15 And David made him houses in the city of David, and prepared a place for the ark of God, ^aand pitched for it a tent.

2 Then David said, ¹None ought to carry the ^aark of God but the Levites: for ^bthem hath the LORD chosen to carry the ark of God, and to minister unto him for ever.

3 And David ^agathered all Israel together to Jerusalem, to bring up the ark of the LORD unto his place, which he had prepared for it.

4 And David assembled the children of Aaron, and the Levites:

5 Of the sons of Kohath; Uriel the chief, and his ¹brethren an hundred and twenty:

6 Of the sons of Merari; Asaiah the chief, and his brethren two hundred and twenty:

9 Of the sons of ^aHebron; Eliel the chief, and his brethren fourscore:

10 Of the sons of Uzziel; Amminadab the chief, and his brethren an hundred and twelve.

11 And David called for ^aZadok and ^bAbiathar the priests, and for the Levites, for Uriel, Asaiah, and Joel, Shemaiah, and Eliel, and Amminadab, 12 And said unto them, Ye are the chief of the fathers of the Levites: ¹sanctify yourselves, both ye and your brethren, that ye may bring up the ark of the LORD God of Israel unto the place that I have prepared for it.

13 For ^abecause ye did it not at the first, ^bthe LORD our God ¹made a breach upon us, for that we sought him not ²after the due order.

14 So the priests and the Levites ¹sanctified themselves to bring up the ark of the LORD God of Israel.

The Ark Carried to Jerusalem

15 And the children of the Levites bare the ark of God upon their shoulders ¹with the staves thereon, as ^aMoses commanded according to the word of the LORD.

16 And David spake to the chief of the Levites to appoint their brethren to be the singers with instruments of musick, psalteries and harps and cymbals, sounding, by lifting up the voice with joy.

17 So the Levites appointed ^aHeman the son of Joel; and of his brethren, ^bAsaph the son of Berechiah; and of the sons of Merari their brethren, ^cEthan the son of Kushaiah;

18 And with them their brethren of the second degree, Zechariah, Ben, and Jaaziel, and Shemiramoth, and Jehiel, and Unni, Eliab, and Benaiah, and Maaseiah, and Mattithiah, and Elipheleh, and Mikneiah, and Obbedom, and Jeiel, the porters.

15:1, 2. David's preparations for the ark included the selection of a place for it to be housed and the assigning of the proper Levitical assistants.

15:11-13. See the note on 16:37-42.

15:17. For Heman, Asaph, and Ethan, see the note on 6:31-48.

19 So the singers, Heman, Asaph, and Ethan, were appointed to sound with cymbals of brass;

20 And Zechariah, and ¹Aziel, and Shemiramoth, and Jehiel, and Unni, and Eliab, and Maaseiah, and Benaiah, with ²psalteries on ^aAlamoth;

21 And Mattithiah, and Elipheleh, and Mikneiah, and Obed-edom, and Jeiel, and Azariah, with harps on the ^aSheminith ¹to excel.

22 And Chenaniah, chief of the Levites, was for song; he instructed about the song, because he was skilful.

23 And Berechiah and Elkanah were doorkeepers for the ark.

24 And Shebaniah, and Jehoshaphat, and Nethaneel, and Amasai, and Zechariah, and Benaiah, and Eliezer, the priests, ^adid blow with the trumpets before the ark of God: and ^bObed-edom and Jehiah were doorkeepers for the ark.

25 So ^aDavid, and the elders of Israel, and the captains over thousands, went to bring up the ark of the covenant of the LORD out of the house of Obed-edom with joy.

26 And it came to pass, when God helped the Levites that bare the ark of the covenant of the LORD, that they offered seven bullocks and seven rams.

27 And David was clothed with a robe of fine ^alinen, and all the Levites that bare the ark, and the singers, and Chenaniah the master of the song with the singers: David also had upon him an ephod of linen.

28 ^aThus all Israel brought up the ark of the covenant of the LORD with shouting, and with sound of the cornet, and with trumpets, and with cymbals, making a noise with psalteries and harps.

29 And it came to pass, ^aas the ark

Offerings to the Lord

16 So ^athey brought the ark of God, and set it in the midst of the tent that David had ¹pitched for it: and they offered burnt sacrifices and peace offerings before God.

2 And when David had ¹made an end of offering the burnt offerings and the peace offerings, ^ahe blessed the people in the name of the LORD.

3 And he ¹dealt to every one of Israel, both man and woman, to every one a loaf of bread, and a good piece of flesh, and a ²flagon of wine.

4 And he appointed certain of the Levites to minister before the ark of the LORD, and to ^arecord, and to thank and praise the LORD God of Israel:

5 Asaph the chief, and next to him Zechariah, ^aJeiel, and Shemiramoth, and Jehiel, and Mattithiah, and Eliab, and Benaiah, and Obed-edom: and Jeiel with ¹psalteries and with harps; but Asaph made a sound with cymbals;

6 Benaiah also and Jahaziel the priests with trumpets continually before the ark of the covenant of God.

David's Song of Thanksgiving

7 Then on that day ^aDavid delivered ^bfirst this psalm to thank the LORD into the hand of Asaph and his brethren.

8 ^aGive thanks unto the LORD, call upon his name, make known his deeds among the people.

9 Sing unto him, sing psalms unto him, talk ye of all his wondrous works.

15:27. For ephod, see the note on 1 Samuel 2:18.

15:29. See the note on 2 Samuel 6:16.

16:7. This psalm (with slight variations) is woven into several of the psalms in the Hebrew Psalter (cf. vv. 8-22 with Ps. 105:1-15; vv. 23-33 with Ps. 96; vv. 34-36 with Ps. 106:1, 47, 48). It is learned here that those later liturgical adaptations originated with David. The psalm was especially suited for this auspicious occasion. This particular psalm exhorts the people to praise Israel's wonder-working God (vv. 8-11), and encourages its hearers to remember God's deeds (vv. 12-14) and His unailing covenant with Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob (vv. 15-22). David then directs all nations to join Israel in its praise of the holy God to whom all the universe is subservient (vv. 23-33), and closes this song with a section of thanks, petition, and praise (vv. 34-36).

10 Glory ye in his holy name: let the heart of them rejoice that seek the LORD.

11 Seek the LORD and his strength, seek his face continually.

12 Remember his marvellous works that he hath done, his wonders, and the judgments of his mouth;

13 O ye seed of Israel his servant, ye children of Jacob, his chosen ones.

14 He is the LORD our God; his “judgments are in all the earth.

15 Be ye mindful always of his covenant; the word which he commanded to a thousand generations;

16 Even of the “covenant which he made with Abraham, and of his oath unto Isaac;

17 And hath “confirmed the same to ^bJacob for a law, and to Israel for an everlasting covenant,

18 Saying, Unto thee will I give the land of Canaan, the ¹lot of your inheritance;

19 When ye were but few, “even a few, and strangers in it.

20 And when they went from nation to nation, and from one kingdom to another people;

21 He suffered no man to do them wrong: yea, he “reproved kings for their sakes, 22 Saying, “Touch not mine anointed, and do my prophets no harm.

23 “Sing unto the LORD, all the earth; shew forth from day to day his salvation.

24 Declare his glory among the heathen; his marvellous works among all nations.

25 For great is the LORD, and greatly to be praised: he also is to be ¹feared above all gods.

26 For all the gods “of the people are ¹idols: but the LORD made the heavens.

16:37–42. David's concern for worship is immediately apparent in his appointment of the Levites for various tasks in the service of the Lord (cf. vv. 4–6). Although the ark is now in Jerusalem, the old brazen altar used in the tabernacle service remains with the tabernacle at Gibeon (cf. vv. 39, 40 with 1 Kin. 3:4; 1 Chr. 21:29; 2 Chr. 1:3). Zadok and the priests probably returned to Gibeon after seeing to the safe delivery of the ark in Jerusalem (cf. 1 Chr. 15:11–13). Doubtless the services relative to the ark in Jerusalem (vv. 37, 38) and to the altar in Gibeon (vv. 41, 42) were served by the Levitical musicians. The importance of music in the Israelite worship experience is again emphasized. See the note on 6:31–48.

42 And with them Heman and Jeduthun with trumpets and cymbals for those that should make a sound, and with musical instruments of God. And the sons of Jeduthun were ¹porters.

43 ^aAnd all the people departed every man to his house: and David returned to bless his house.

David's Temple Plans

17 Now ^ait came to pass, as David sat in his house, that David said to Nathan the prophet, Lo, I dwell in an house of cedars, but the ark of the covenant of the LORD remaineth under curtains.

2 Then Nathan said unto David, Do all that is in thine heart; for God is with thee.

God's Message to David

3 And it came to pass the same night, that the word of God came to Nathan, saying,

4 Go and tell David my servant, Thus saith the LORD, Thou shalt ^anot build me an house to dwell in:

5 For I have not dwelt in an house since the day that I brought up Israel unto this day; but have gone from tent to tent, and from one tabernacle to another.

18 What can David speak more to thee for the honour of thy servant? for thou knowest thy servant.

19 O LORD, for thy servant's sake, and according to thine own heart, hast thou done all this greatness, in making known all these great things.

20 O LORD, there is none like thee, neither is there any God beside thee, according to all that we have heard with our ears.

21 ^aAnd what one nation in the earth is like thy people Israel, whom God went to redeem to be his own people, to make thee a name ¹of greatness and terribleness, by driving out nations from before thy people, whom thou hast redeemed out of Egypt?

22 For thy people Israel didst thou make thine own people for ever; and thou, LORD, becamest their God.

23 Therefore now, LORD, let the thing that thou hast spoken concerning thy servant and concerning his house be established for ever, and do as thou hast said.

24 Let it even be established, that thy name may be magnified for ever, saying, The LORD of hosts is the God of Israel, even a God to Israel: and let the house of David thy servant be established before thee.

25 For thou, O my God, ¹hast told thy servant that thou wilt build him an house: therefore thy servant hath found in his heart to pray before thee.

26 And now, LORD, ¹thou art God, and hast promised this goodness unto thy servant:

27 Now therefore ¹let it please thee to bless the house of thy servant, that it may be before thee for ever: for thou blessest, O LORD, and it shall be blessed for ever.

2 And he ¹smote ^aMoab; and the Moabites became David's ^bservants, and brought gifts.

3 And ^aDavid ¹smote ²Hadadazer king of Zobah unto Hamath, as he went to stablish his dominion by the river Euphrates.

4 And David took from him a thousand chariots, and ¹seven thousand horsemen, and twenty thousand footmen: David also ²houghed all the chariot horses, but reserved of them an hundred chariots.

5 And when the ^aSyrians of ¹Damascus came to help Hadadazer king of Zobah, David slew of the Syrians two and twenty thousand men.

6 Then David put garrisons in Syria-damascus; and the Syrians became David's servants, and brought gifts. Thus the LORD preserved David ¹whithersoever he went.

7 And David took the shields of gold that were on the servants of Hadadazer, and brought them to Jerusalem.

8 Likewise from ¹Tibhath, and from ²Chun, cities of ³Hadadazer, brought David very much ^abrass, wherewith ^bSolomon made the ⁴bransen sea, and the pillars, and the vessels of brass.

9 Now when ¹Tou king of Hamath heard how David had ²smitten all the host of Hadadazer king of Zobah;

10 He sent ¹Hadoram his son to king David, to ²enquire of his welfare, and to ³congratulate him, because he had fought against Hadadazer, and ⁴smitten him; (for Hadadazer had war with Tou;) and with him all manner of ^avessels of gold and silver and brass.

11 Them also king David dedicated unto the LORD, with the silver and the gold that he brought from all these nations; from Edom, and from Moab, and from the ^achildren of Ammon, and from the ^bPhilistines, and from ^cAmalek.

12 Moreover ^aAbishai the son of Zeruiah slew of the ¹Edomites in the valley of salt ^beighteen thousand.

13 ^aAnd he put garrisons in Edom; and all the Edomites became David's servants. Thus the LORD preserved David ¹whithersoever he went.

David's Appointed Officers

14 So David reigned over all Israel, and ¹executed judgment and justice among all his people.

15 And Joab the son of Zeruiah was over the host; and Jehoshaphat the son of Ahilud, recorder.

16 And Zadok the son of Ahitub, and ¹Abimelech the son of Abiathar, were the priests; and ²Shavsha was scribe;

17 ^aAnd Benaiah the son of Jehoiada was over the Cherethites and the Pelethites; and the sons of David were ¹chief about the king.

Ammonites and Syrians Are Defeated

19 Now ^ait came to pass after this, that Nahash the king of the children of Ammon died, and his son reigned in his stead.

2 And David said, I will shew kindness unto Hanun the son of Nahash, because his father shewed kindness to me. And David sent messengers to comfort him concerning his father. So the servants of David came into the land of the children of Ammon to Hanun, to comfort him.

3 But the princes of the children of Ammon said to Hanun, ¹Thinkest thou that David doth honour thy father, that he hath sent comforters unto thee? are not his servants come unto thee for to search, and to overthrow, and to spy out the land?

6 And when the children of Ammon saw that they had made themselves ¹odious to David, Hanun and the children of Ammon sent a thousand talents of silver to hire them chariots and horsemen out of ²Mesopotamia, and out of Syria-maacchah, ^aand out of ³Zobah.

7 So they hired thirty and two thousand chariots, and the king of Maachah and his people; who came and ¹pitched before Medeba. And the children of Ammon gathered themselves together from their cities, and came to battle.

8 And when David heard of it, he sent Joab, and all the host of the mighty men.

9 And the children of Ammon came out, and ¹put the battle in array before the gate of the city: and the kings that were come were by themselves in the field.

Joab's Forces Fight the Syrians

10 Now when Joab saw that the battle was set against him before and behind, he ¹chose out of all the choice of Israel, and put them in array against the Syrians.

11 And the rest of the people he delivered unto the hand of Abishai his brother, and they set themselves in array against the children of Ammon.

18:12. This detail gives additional information to the account in 2 Samuel 8:13, which emphasizes David's growing prestige. The heading over Psalm 60 recalls Joab's part in the battle. Abishai was David's cousin and Joab's brother (2:16).

18:16. Abimelech could be identified with Ahim-elech (2 Sam. 8:17). He is probably the grandson of another Ahimelech, the father of Abiathar (cf. 1 Sam. 23:6; 30:7).

18:17. For Cherethites and Pelethites, see the note on 1 Kings 1:38–40.

14 So Joab and the people that were with him drew nigh before the Syrians unto the battle; and they fled before him.

15 And when the children of Ammon saw that the Syrians were fled, they likewise fled before Abishai his brother, and entered into the city. Then Joab came to Jerusalem.

16 And when the Syrians saw that they ¹were put to the worse before Israel, they sent messengers, and drew forth the Syrians that were beyond the ²river: and ³Shophach the captain of the host of Hadarezer went before them.

17 And it was told David; and he gathered all Israel, and passed over Jordan, and came upon them, and set the battle in array against them. So when David had ¹put the battle in array against the Syrians, they fought with him.

18 But the Syrians fled before Israel; and David slew of the Syrians ¹seven thousand men which fought in chariots, and forty thousand ²footmen, and killed Shophach the captain of the host.

19 And when the servants of Hadarezer saw that they were ¹put to the worse before Israel, they made peace with David, and became his servants: neither would the Syrians help the children of Ammon any more.

Rabbah Destroyed

20 And ^ait came to pass, that ¹after the year was expired, at the time that kings go out to battle, Joab led forth the power of the army, and wasted the country of the children of Ammon, and came and besieged Rabbah. But ^bDavid ²tarried at Jerusalem. And ^cJoab smote Rabbah, and destroyed it.

2 And David ^atook the crown of their king from off his head, and found it to weigh a talent of gold, and there were precious stones in it; and it was set upon David's head; and he brought also exceeding much ¹spoil out of the city.

3 And he brought out the people that were in it, and ¹cut them with saws, and with harrows of iron, and with axes. Even so dealt David with all the cities of the children of Ammon. And David and all the people returned to Jerusalem.

Philistine Giants Killed

4 And it came to pass after this, ^athat there arose war at ¹Gezer with the Philistines; at which time ^bSibbechai the Hushathite slew ²Sippai, that was of the children of ³the giant: and they were subdued.

5 And there was war again with the Philistines; and Elhanan the son of ¹Jair slew Lahmi the brother of Goliath the Gittite, whose spear staff was like a weaver's ^abeam.

19:18. See the notes on 2 Samuel 8:4, 5; 10:18; and 1 Chronicles 18:4. Assuming that all the passages are discussing the same campaign, the proper full figures are as follows: from the Syrians (Arameans) one thousand chariots, seven thousand chariot-eers, and 20,000 footmen (soldiers) were captured. As well, 22,000 Aramean soldiers were killed. Thus, the 40,000 "horsemen" (2 Sam. 10:18) and 40,000 footmen (v. 18) are merely rounded-off figures for the 42,000 foot soldiers either captured or slain. The word "horsemen" in 2 Samuel 10:18 is thus used imprecisely or may have been miscopied from the listing in 2 Samuel 8:4.

20:1-3. Fuller details of this campaign can be found in 2 Samuel 12:26-31. For David's treatment of the Ammonites, see the note on 2 Samuel 12:31.

20:4-8. Several differences between the account here and that of 2 Samuel 21:15-22 can be observed:

(1) In 2 Samuel the place of battle is listed as Gob, rather than Gezer. (2) In 2 Samuel the slain giant's son was Saph, rather than Sippai. (3) Goliath's slain brother, Lahmi (v. 5), is unnamed in the account in 2 Samuel. (4) Abishai's slaying of the giant Ishbi-benob goes unnoticed in the chronicler's record. However, the differences are minimal: (1) Gob was located close to Gezer; therefore, the later author of Chronicles may simply have used the more familiar name, particularly if Gob was a suburb of Gezer or had been destroyed and passed out of existence. (2) The names Saph and Sippai are mere variants. (3) The latter two problems are simply cases of each author's own particular selection of the details on which he wishes to comment. The two accounts are supplementary, not contradictory.

20:5. See the note on 1 Samuel 17:50.

7 But when he defied Israel, Jonathan the son of ¹Shimea David's brother slew him.

8 These were born unto the giant in Gath; and they fell by the hand of David, and by the hand of his servants.

Israel and Judah Numbered

21 And ^aSatan stood up against Israel, and ¹provoked David to ²number Israel.

2 And David said to Joab and to the rulers of the people, Go, number Israel from Beer-sheba even to Dan; ^aand bring the number of them to me, that I may know it.

3 And Joab answered, The LORD make his people an hundred times so many more as they be: but, my lord the king, are they not all my lord's servants? why then doth my lord require this thing? why will he be a cause of ¹trespass to Israel?

4 Nevertheless the king's word prevailed against Joab. Wherefore Joab departed, and went throughout all Israel, and came to Jerusalem.

5 And Joab gave the sum of the number of the people unto David. And all they of Israel were a thousand thousand and an hundred thousand men that drew sword: and Judah was four hundred threescore and ten thousand men that drew sword.

6 ^aBut Levi and Benjamin counted he not among them: for the king's ¹word was abominable to Joab.

21:16. The angel with the drawn sword made it clear that the plague in Israel was a divine judgment for sin (cf. Num. 22:23).

for these ^asheep, what have they done? let thine hand, I pray thee, O LORD my God, be on me, and on my father's house; but not on thy people, that they should be plagued.

David Builds an Altar

18 Then the ^aangel of the LORD commanded Gad to say to David, that David should go up, and set up an altar unto the LORD in the threshingfloor of Ornan the Jebusite.

19 And David went up at the saying of Gad, which he spake in the name of the LORD.

20 And Ornan turned back, and saw the angel; and his four sons with him hid themselves. Now Ornan was threshing wheat.

21 And as David came to Ornan, Ornan looked and saw David, and went out of the threshingfloor, and bowed himself to David with his face to the ground.

22 Then David said to Ornan, ¹Grant me the place of this threshingfloor, that I may build an altar therein unto the LORD: thou shalt grant it me for the full price: that the plague may be ²stayed from the people.

23 And Ornan said unto David, Take it to thee, and let my lord the king do that which is good in his eyes: lo, I give thee the oxen also for burnt offerings, and the threshing instruments for wood, and the wheat for the ¹meat offering; I give it all.

24 And king David said to Ornan, Nay; but I will verily buy it for the full price: for I will not take that which is thine for the LORD, nor offer burnt offerings without cost.

25 So ^aDavid gave to Ornan for the place six hundred shekels of gold by weight.

26 And David built there an altar unto the LORD, and offered burnt

29 ^aFor the tabernacle of the LORD, which Moses made in the wilderness, and the altar of the burnt offering, were at that season in the high place at ^bGibeon.

30 But David could not go before it to enquire of God: for he was afraid because of the sword of the angel of the LORD.

Preparations for Building the Temple

22 Then David said, ^aThis is the house of the LORD God, and this is the altar of the burnt offering for Israel.

2 And David commanded to gather together the ^astrangers that were in the land of Israel; and he set masons to ^bhew wrought stones to build the house of God.

3 And David prepared iron in abundance for the nails for the doors of the gates, and for the joinings; and brass in abundance ^awithout¹ weight;

4 Also cedar trees in abundance: for the ^aZidonians and they of Tyre brought much cedar wood to David.

5 And David said, ^aSolomon my son is young and tender, and the house that is to be builded for the LORD must be exceeding magnifical, of fame and of glory throughout all countries: I will therefore now make preparation for it. So David prepared abundantly before his death.

22:5. David had a great desire to build a house for the LORD (cf. 2 Sam. 7:2; 1 Chr. 17:1, 2), but his task had been securing the kingdom through many wars and much bloodshed. Therefore the privilege of erecting the temple would be given to Solomon ("Peaceable"), his son who would rule in a time of rest and peace (vv. 7-9). David was not allowed to build the temple; however, he made careful preparation for it (28:11-19; 29:1-9), and he admonished Solomon (v. 11; 28:9, 10, 20, 21) and the elders of Israel (vv. 17-19; 28:1-8) to see to its construction.

God's Promises

6 Then he called for Solomon his son, and ¹charged him to build an house for the LORD God of Israel.

7 And David said to Solomon, My son, as for me, ^ait was in my mind to build an house ^bunto the name of the LORD my God:

8 But the word of the LORD came to me, saying, ^aThou hast shed blood abundantly, and hast made great wars: thou shalt not build an house unto my name, because thou hast shed much blood upon the earth in my sight.

9 ^aBehold, a son shall be born to thee, who shall be a man of rest; and I will give him ^brest from all his enemies round about: for his name shall be ¹Solomon, and I will give peace and quietness unto Israel in his days.

10 ^aHe shall build an house for my name; and ^bhe shall be my son, and I will be his father; and I will establish the throne of his kingdom over Israel for ever.

David's Charge to Solomon

11 Now, my son, ^athe LORD be with thee; and prosper thou, and build the house of the LORD thy God, as he hath said of thee.

15 Moreover there are workmen with thee in abundance, ¹hewers and workers of stone and timber, and all manner of cunning men for every manner of work.

16 Of the gold, the silver, and the brass, and the iron, there is no number. Arise therefore, and be doing, and ^athe LORD be with thee.

David's Orders to Princes

17 David also commanded all the ^aprinces of Israel to help Solomon his son, saying,

18 Is not the LORD your God with you? ^aand hath he not given you rest on every side? for he hath given the inhabitants of the land into ¹mine hand; and the land is subdued before the LORD, and before his people.

19 Now set your heart and your soul to seek the LORD your God; arise therefore, and build ye the sanctuary of the LORD God, to ^abring the ark of the covenant of the LORD, and the holy vessels of God, into the house that is to be built ^bto the name of the LORD.

Solomon Named King

23 So when David was old and full of days, he made ^aSolomon his son king over Israel.

2 And he gathered together all the princes of Israel, with the priests and the Levites.

Duties of Levites in the Temple

3 Now the Levites were numbered from the age of ^athirty years and upward: and their number by their polls, man by man, was thirty and eight thousand.

4 Of which, twenty and four thousand were ¹to ^aset forward the work of the house of the LORD; and six thousand were ^bofficers and judges:

22:10. For Solomon and the unconditional Davidic covenant, see the note on 2 Samuel 7:12-16.

22:11, 12. David's charge to Solomon is followed by invoking God's blessing upon him. His concern that Solomon should have godly wisdom soon came to fruition. For when God asked Solomon what he might want God to grant him, Solomon asked the LORD simply to bless him with wisdom (1 Kin. 3:5-12).

22:13. For a similar call to courage, see the note on Joshua 1:6-9.

22:14. See the note on 29:3, 4.

23:1. See the note on 29:22.

5 Moreover four thousand were ¹porters; and four thousand ^apraised the LORD with the instruments ^bwhich I made, said David, to praise therewith.

6 And ^aDavid divided them into ¹courses among the sons of Levi, namely, Gershon, Kohath, and Merari.

7 Of the ^aGershonites were, ¹Laadan, and Shimei.

8 The sons of Laadan; the chief was Jehiel, and Zetham, and Joel, three.

9 The sons of Shimei; Shelomith, and Haziël, and Haran, three. These were the chief of the fathers of Laadan.

10 And the sons of Shimei were, Jahath, ¹Zina, and Jeush, and Beriah. These four were the sons of Shimei.

11 And Jahath was the chief, and Zizah the second: but Jeush and Beriah had not many sons; therefore they were ¹in one reckoning, according to their father's house.

12 ^aThe sons of Kohath; Amram, Izhar, Hebron, and Uzziel, four.

13 The sons of ^aAmram; Aaron and Moses: and ^bAaron was ¹separated, that he should ²sanctify the most holy things, he and his sons for ever, ^cto burn incense before the LORD, ^dto minister unto him, and ^eto bless in his name for ever.

14 Now concerning Moses the man of God, ^ahis sons were named of the tribe of Levi.

15 ^aThe sons of Moses were, ¹Gershon, and Eliezer.

16 Of the sons of Gershon, ^aShebuel ¹was the chief.

17 And the ¹sons of Eliezer were, ^aRehabiah ²the chief. And Eliezer had none other sons; but the sons of Rehabiah were very many.

22 And Eleazar died, and ^ahad no sons, but daughters: and their ¹brethren the sons of Kish ^btook them.

23 ^aThe sons of Mushi; Mahli, and Eder, and Jeremoth, three.

24 These were the sons of ^aLevi after the house of their fathers; even the chief of the fathers, as they were counted by number of names ¹by their polls, that did the work for the service of the house of the LORD, from the age of ^btwenty years and upward.

25 For David said, The LORD God of Israel ^ahath given rest unto his people, that they may dwell in Jerusalem for ever:

26 And also unto the Levites; they shall no more ^acarry the tabernacle, nor any vessels of it for the service thereof.

27 For by the ^alast words of David the Levites were numbered from twenty years old and above:

28 Because ¹their office was to wait on the sons of Aaron for the service of the house of the LORD, in the courts, and in the chambers, and in the purifying of all holy things, and the work of the service of the house of God;

29 Both for ^athe shewbread, and for ^bthe fine flour for ¹meat offering, and for ^cthe unleavened cakes, and for ^dthat which is baked in the pan, and for that which is fried, and for all manner of ^emeasure and size;

30 And to stand every morning to thank and praise the LORD, and likewise at ¹even;

23:14. The term man of God stresses the nature of the relationship between God and His servant: he is God's man. The term is often used also to designate a prophet. See the note on 1 Samuel 9:6–11.

23:28. A clear division of duties is detailed here. The Levites in general were to assist those descended directly from Aaron. Those in the line of Aaron would continue to lead in the priestly ministries, especially in the worship service (cf. Num. 18). As for the rest, in addition to their musical ministries (cf. 15:16–24), many of the Levites would be occupied with the care of the equipment and physical facilities.

31 And to offer all burnt sacrifices unto the LORD ^ain the sabbaths, in the new moons, and on the ^bset¹ feasts, by number, according to the order commanded unto them, ²continually before the LORD:

32 And that they should ^akeep¹ the ^bcharge of the tabernacle of the congregation, and the charge of the holy place, and ^cthe charge of the sons of Aaron their brethren, in the service of the house of the LORD.

Division of Aaron's Sons

24 Now these are the divisions of the sons of Aaron; ^aThe sons of Aaron. Nadab, and Abihu, Eleazar, and Ithamar.

2 But ^aNadab and Abihu died before their father, and had no children: therefore Eleazar and Ithamar ¹executed the priest's office.

3 And David distributed them, both Zadok of the sons of Eleazar, and ^aAhimelech of the sons of Ithamar, according to their offices in their service.

Assignments for Priests and Levites

4 And there were more chief men found of the sons of Eleazar than of the sons of Ithamar; and thus were they divided. Among the sons of Eleazar there were sixteen chief men of the house of their fathers, and eight among the sons of Ithamar according to the house of their fathers.

5 Thus were they divided by lot, one sort with another; for the governors of the sanctuary, and governors of the house of God, were of the sons of Eleazar, and of the sons of Ithamar.

6 And Shemaiah the son of Nethaneel the scribe, one of the Levites, wrote them before the king, and the princes, and Zadok the priest,

7 Now the first lot came forth to Jehoiarib, the second to Jedaiah,

8 The third to Harim, the fourth to Seorim,

9 The fifth to Malchijah, the sixth to Mijamin,

10 The seventh to Hakkoz, the eighth to ^aAbijah,

11 The ninth to Jeshuah, the tenth to Shecaniah,

12 The eleventh to Eliashib, the twelfth to Jakim,

13 The thirteenth to Huppah, the fourteenth to Jeshebeah,

14 The fifteenth to Bilgah, the sixteenth to Immer,

15 The seventeenth to Hezir, the eighteenth to ¹Aphses,

16 The nineteenth to Pethahiah, the twentieth to Jehezekel,

17 The one and twentieth to Jachin, the two and twentieth to Gamul,

18 The three and twentieth to Delaiah, the four and twentieth to Maaziah.

19 These were the ¹orderings of them in their service ^ato come into the house of the LORD, according to their manner, under Aaron their father, as the LORD God of Israel had commanded him.

20 And the rest of the sons of Levi were these: Of the sons of Amram; ¹Shubael: of the sons of Shubael; Jehdeiah.

21 Concerning ^aRehabiah: of the sons of Rehabiah, the first was Isshiah.

22 Of the Izharites; ¹Shelomoth: of the sons of Shelomoth; Jahath.

24:2. No mention is made here of the crime for which Nadab and Abihu forfeited their priesthood and were executed (see Lev. 10:1-5). The high priestly prerogatives fell then upon Eleazar and Ithamar. See the note on 1 Samuel 2:31-36.

24:3. For Ahimelech, see the note on 18:16.

24:4. Because Eleazar had inherited the privileged status of firstborn, his line received double the amount of the priestly courses (v. 16) that were assigned to the line of Ithamar (v. 8). The priests were thus divided into 24 groups (vv. 7-19) which officiated at the worship services in turn, either one or two weeks at a time, twice a year (cf. 2 Chr. 23:8). Some see a possible parallel to the 24 elders in John's vision (Rev. 4:4).

24:10. The division of the priestly courses of the house of Aaron was reinstated after the return from the Exile. The father of John the Baptist served in his day as the representative of the course of Abijah (Luke 1:5).

23 And the sons of ^aHebron; Jeriah the first, Amariah the second, Jahaziel the third, Jekameam the fourth.

24 Of the sons of Uzziel; Michah: of the sons of Michah; Shamir.

25 The brother of Michah was Isshiah: of the sons of Isshiah; Zechariah.

26 ^aThe sons of Merari were Mahli and Mushi: the sons of Jaaziah; Beno.

27 The sons of Merari by Jaaziah; Beno, and Shoham, and Zaccur, and Ibri.

28 Of Mahli came Eleazar, ^awho had no sons.

29 Concerning Kish: the son of Kish was Jerahmeel.

30 ^aThe sons also of Mushi; Mahli, and Eder, and Jerimoth. These were the sons of the Levites after the house of their fathers.

31 These likewise cast lots over against their brethren the sons of Aaron in the presence of David the king, and Zadok, and Ahimelech, and the chief of the fathers of the priests and Levites, even the principal fathers over against their younger brethren.

Division of Musicians

25 Moreover David and the captains of the host ¹separated to the service of the sons of ^aAsaph, and of Heman, and of Jeduthun, who should prophesy with harps, with psalteries, and with cymbals: and the number of the workmen according to their service was:

2 Of the sons of Asaph; Zaccur, and Joseph, and Nethaniah, and ¹Asarelah, the sons of Asaph under the hands of Asaph, which prophesied ²according to the order of the king.

4 Of Heman: the sons of Heman; Bukkiah, Mattaniah, ¹Uzziel, ²Shebuel, and ³Jerimoth, Hananiah, Hanani, Eliathah, Giddalti, and Romamti-ezer, Joshbekashah, Mallothi, Hothir, and Mahazioth:

5 All these were the sons of Heman the king's seer in the words of God, ¹to lift up the ^ahorn. And God gave to Heman fourteen sons and three daughters.

6 All these were under the hands of their father for song in the house of the LORD, with cymbals, psalteries, and ^aharps, for the service of the house of God, ^baccording to the king's order to Asaph, Jeduthun, and Heman.

7 So the ^anumber of them, with their brethren that were instructed in the songs of the LORD, even all that were cunning, was two hundred fourscore and eight.

8 And they cast lots, ward against ward, as well the small as the great, ^athe teacher as the scholar.

9 Now the first lot came forth for Asaph to Joseph: the second to Gedaliah, who with his brethren and sons were twelve:

10 The third to Zaccur, he, his sons, and his brethren, were twelve:

11 The fourth to ¹Izri, he, his sons, and his brethren, were twelve:

12 The fifth to Nethaniah, he, his sons, and his brethren, were twelve:

13 The sixth to Bukkiah, he, his sons, and his brethren, were twelve:

14 The seventh to ¹Jesharelah, he, his sons, and his brethren, were twelve:

15 The eighth to Jeshaiah, he, his sons, and his brethren, were twelve:

24:20-31. These priests apparently served as assistants to the sons of Aaron and were likewise assigned their posts by lot.

25:1. The Levitical musicians were also organized by David, who was greatly concerned for the ministry of music in the worship services (cf. 6:31-48; 15:16-24; 16:4-7, 37, 41, 42; 23:5). For Asaph, Heman, and Jeduthun, see the note on 6:31-48. These, too, were divided by lot into 24 courses (vv. 9-31), corresponding to those of the priests and Levites (ch. 24).

25:7. Apparently there were some 288 master musicians. First Chronicles 23:5 lists some four thousand musicians in all. Therefore, since both master musicians and the lesser musicians (perhaps pupils) were available for the drawing of lots for duty in the 24 courses of service at the temple (v. 8), probably some of each level of musicians served in each of the courses.

16 The ninth to Mattaniah, he, his sons, and his brethren, were twelve:

17 The tenth to Shimei, he, his sons, and his brethren, were twelve:

18 The eleventh to ¹Azareel, he, his sons, and his brethren, were twelve:

19 The twelfth to Hashabiah, he, his sons, and his brethren, were twelve:

20 The thirteenth to ¹Shubael, he, his sons, and his brethren, were twelve:

21 The fourteenth to Mattithiah, he, his sons, and his brethren, were twelve:

23 The sixteenth to Hananiah, he, his sons, and his brethren, were twelve:

24 The seventeenth to Joshbekashah, he, his sons, and his brethren, were twelve:

29 The two and twentieth to Gidalti, he, his sons, and his brethren, were twelve:

30 The three and twentieth to Mahazioth, he, his sons, and his brethren, were twelve:

31 The four and twentieth to Romamti-ezer, he, his sons, and his brethren, were twelve.

2 And the sons of Meshelemiah were, ^aZechariah the firstborn, Jediael the second, Zebadiah the third, Jathniel the fourth,

3 Elam the fifth, Jehohanan the sixth, Elioenai the seventh.

4 Moreover the sons of ^aObed-edom were, Shemaiah the firstborn, Jehozabad the second, Joah the third, and Sacar the fourth, and Nethaneel the fifth,

5 Ammiel the sixth, Issachar the seventh, Peulthai the eighth: for God blessed him.

6 Also unto Shemaiah his son were sons born, that ruled throughout the house of their father: for they were mighty men of valour.

7 The sons of Shemaiah; Othni, and Rephael, and Obed, Elzabad, whose brethren were strong men, Elihu, and Semachiah.

8 All these of the sons of Obed-edom: they and their sons and their brethren, ^aable men for strength for the service, were threescore and two of Obed-edom.

9 And Meshelemiah had sons and brethren, strong men, eighteen.

10 Also ^aHosah, of the children of Merari, had sons; Simri the chief, (for though he was not the firstborn, yet his father made him the chief;)

11 Hilkiyah the second, Tebaliah the third, Zechariah the fourth: all the sons and brethren of Hosah were thirteen.

12 Among these were the divisions of the ¹porters, even among the chief men, having wards one against another, to minister in the house of the LORD.

13 And they ^acast lots, ¹as well the small as the great, according to the house of their fathers, for every gate.

14 And the lot eastward fell to ¹Shelemiah. Then for Zechariah his son, a wise counsellor, they cast lots; and his lot came out northward.

15 To Obed-edom southward; and to his sons ¹the house of Asuppim.

26:1. The rosters here comprise three classes of Levitical duties: gatekeepers (vv. 1–19; cf. 9:17–27; 16:38), treasury guards (vv. 20–28; cf. 9:28, 29; 23:5, 28, 29), and important civil and judicial officials (vv. 29–32).

26:12–19. The gatekeepers were assigned to their posts by lot. Parbar is perhaps to be equated with the Parwar “court” (or “suburbs”) of the Hebrew text of 2 Kings 23:11.

16 To Shuppim and Hosah the lot came forth westward, with the gate Shallecheth, by the causeway of the going ^aup, ¹ward against ward.

17 Eastward were six Levites, northward four a day, southward four a day, and toward ¹Asuppim two and two.

18 At ¹Parbar westward, four at the ²causeway, and two at ¹Parbar.

19 These are the divisions of the ¹porters among the sons of Kore, and among the sons of Merari.

20 And of the Levites, Ahijah was ^aover the treasures of the house of God, and over the treasures of the ^bdedicated¹ things.

21 As concerning the sons of ¹Laadan; the sons of the Gershonite Laadan, chief fathers, even of Laadan the Gershonite, were ²Jehieli.

Rulers of Tribes

16 Furthermore over the tribes of Israel: the ruler of the Reubenites was Eliezer the son of Zichri: of the Simeonites, Shephatiah the son of Maachah:

17 Of the Levites, ^aHashabiah the son of Kemuel: of the Aaronites, Zadak:

22 Of Dan, Azareel the son of Jeroham. These were the princes of the tribes of Israel.

23 But David took not the number of them from twenty years old and under: because ^athe LORD had said he would increase Israel like to the ^bstars of the heavens.

24 Joab the son of Zeruiah began ¹to number, but he finished not, because ^athere fell wrath for it against Israel; neither was the number ²put in the account of the chronicles of king David.

Overseers of David's Substance

25 And over the king's treasures was Azmaveth the son of Adiel: and over the storehouses in the fields, in the cities, and in the villages, and in the castles, was Jehonathan the son of Uzziyah:

27:16–22. These are names of the tribal leaders.

27:23, 24. No census figure for the whole nation could be given, due to David's pre-exclusion of those under 20 years old and to the divine wrath that fell upon the nation in the form of a plague (cf. 21:6–14).

27:25–31. These officials administered the royal property.

26 And over them that did the work of the field for tillage of the ground was Ezri the son of Chelub:

27 And over the vineyards was Shimei the Ramathite: over the ¹increase of the vineyards for the wine cellars was Zabdi the Shiphmite:

28 And over the olive trees and the sycomore trees that were in the low plains was Baal-hanan the Gederite: and over the cellars of oil was Joash:

29 And over the herds that fed in Sharon was Shitrai the Sharonite: and over the herds that were in the valleys was Shaphat the son of Adlai:

30 Over the camels also was Obil the Ishmaelite: and over the asses was Jehdeiah the Meronothite:

31 And over the flocks was Jaziz the ^aHagerite. All these were the rulers of the ¹substance which was king David's.

32 Also ¹Jonathan David's uncle was a counsellor, a wise man, and a ²scribe: and Jehiel the ³son of Hachmoni was with the king's sons:

28:5. In a very real measure, the kingdom belongs to the LORD. Israel's king was God's designated early representative (cf. Is. 52:7).

28:9, 10. Although David's charge to Solomon that he serve ... the LORD with a perfect heart (cf. Matt. 5:48) and a willing mind (cf. Ex. 35:21, 29) was directed primarily at his son, his point was doubtless not lost on the assembled congregation (cf. 29:9).

29:22. Solomon had been anointed as king previously in a smaller ceremony due to the attempted usurpation of power by Adonijah. (See the note on 1 Kin. 1:38-40.) For the installation of Zadok as high priest, see 1 Kings 2:27, 35.

29:29. These are non-canonical source materials, which the author of Chronicles was, under divine inspiration, led to consult. Many other such Hebrew writings are mentioned by the Old Testament authors

(e.g., Josh. 10:13; 2 Sam. 1:18; 1 Kin. 11:41; 14:29; 2 Chr. 9:29; 12:15; 13:22; 24:27; 26:22; 33:19) and, doubtless, others existed and were circulated as well. However, no claim can be made for the inspiration of all these now lost books, inspiration being the Holy Spirit's particular work in recording God's revealed truth solely as contained in the canonical Scriptures (cf. Luke 24:44; 2 Tim. 3:16; 2 Pet. 1:21; 3:2).

The Second Book of the
CHRONICLES

The Book of 2 Chronicles was originally one book with 1 Chronicles in the Hebrew text. They were divided by the translators of the Septuagint and were entitled “Things Left Behind” (i.e., details not included in Samuel—Kings). The Hebrew title, “Daily Matters,” like the English title, implies an important and detailed narrative account. Written by the priests of Israel, the books of Chronicles view Israel’s religious institutions—the temple, priesthood, offerings, and feasts—as the essential elements of her national life.

Historical Setting. The individual reigns of the descendants of David are featured, from the time of Solomon until the fall of Jerusalem under Zedekiah in 586 B.C. A concluding note concerning the edict of Cyrus the Great permitting the Jews to return to Jerusalem is added at the end. Throughout 1 and 2 Chronicles the emphasis is strictly on the southern kingdom of Judah, whose fortunes are viewed in light of her faithfulness to God’s commandments and the institutions of Israel’s religious faith. The political fate of Judah is also seen against the rising power of Babylon and Persia, although the book’s major theme is that Judah is falling because of internal weaknesses brought about by her failure to remain faithful to God.

Authorship. The case for Ezra’s authorship is well established in Jewish tradition. He was of priestly descent and Levitical training, as well as being the spiritual leader of the new state of Judah after the return from Babylonian captivity. Thus, he would have had access to the records of state and other official documents (cf. 16:11; 20:34; 25:26; 28:26; 32:32; 35:27; 36:8; see also the note on 1 Chr. 29:29). Critical arguments for a third century B.C. date are totally unwarranted. Besides, the need for such a book to establish national credibility was much more crucial for Ezra’s community than for the Hasmonean leaders in the second century B.C.

Solomon's Kingdom Established

1 And ^aSolomon the son of David was strengthened in his kingdom, and ^bthe LORD his God was with him, and ^cmagnified¹ him exceedingly.

2 Then Solomon spake unto all Israel, to ^athe captains of thousands and of hundreds, and to the judges, and to every ¹governor in all Israel, the ²chief of the fathers.

3 So Solomon, and all the congregation with him, went to the ¹high place that was at ^aGibeon; for there was the ²tabernacle of the congregation of God, which Moses the servant of the LORD had ^bmade in the wilderness.

4 ^aBut the ark of God had David brought up from Kirjath-jearim to the place which David had prepared for it: for he had pitched a tent for it at Jerusalem.

5 Moreover ^athe brasen altar, that ^bBezeleel the son of Uri, the son of Hur, had made, ¹he put before the tabernacle of the LORD: and Solomon and the congregation sought ²unto it.

6 And Solomon went up thither to the brasen altar before the LORD, which was at the tabernacle of the congregation, and ^aoffered a thousand burnt offerings upon it.

Solomon Asks for Wisdom

7 ^aIn that night did God appear unto Solomon, and said unto him, Ask what I shall give thee.

8 And Solomon said unto God, Thou hast shewed great ^amercy unto David my father, and hast made me ^bto¹ reign in his stead.

9 Now, O LORD God, let thy promise unto David my father be established: ^afor thou hast made me king over a people ¹like the ^bdust of the earth in multitude.

10 ^aGive me now wisdom and knowledge, that I may ^bgo out and come in before this people: for who

11 ^aAnd God said to Solomon, Because this was in thine heart, and thou hast not asked riches, wealth, or honour, nor the life of thine enemies, neither yet hast asked long life; but hast asked wisdom and knowledge for thyself, that thou mayest judge my people, over whom I have made thee king:

12 Wisdom and knowledge is granted unto thee; and I will give thee riches, and wealth, and honour, such as ^anone of the kings have had that have been before thee, neither shall there any after thee have the like.

Solomon's Greatness

13 Then Solomon came from his journey to the ¹high place that was at Gibeon to Jerusalem, from before the tabernacle of the congregation, and reigned over Israel.

14 ^aAnd Solomon gathered chariots and horsemen: and he had a thousand and four hundred chariots, and twelve thousand horsemen, which he placed in the chariot cities, and with the king at Jerusalem.

15 ^aAnd the king made silver and gold at Jerusalem as plenteous as stones, and cedar trees made he as the sycamore trees that are in the vale for abundance.

16 ^aAnd Solomon had horses brought out of Egypt, and ¹linen yarn: the king's merchants ²received the linen yarn at a price.

17 And they ¹fetch'd up, and brought forth out of Egypt a chariot for six hundred shekels of silver, and an horse for an hundred and fifty: and so brought they out horses for all the kings of the Hittites, and for the kings of Syria, ²by their means.

Preparations to Build the Temple

2 And Solomon ^adetermined to build an ¹house for the name of the LORD, and an ²house for his kingdom.

1:3. See the note on 1 Chronicles 16:37-42. This high place was termed a great high place (1 Kin. 3:4) inasmuch as worship was carried on at several high places before the erection of the temple in Jerusalem.

1:4. See the note on 2 Samuel 6:12.

1:10. See the note on 1 Kings 3:12.

1:17. See the note on 1 Kings 10:26-29.

2 And ^aSolomon ¹told out three-score and ten thousand men to bear burdens, and fourscore thousand to ²hew in the mountain, and three thousand and six hundred to oversee them.

3 And Solomon sent to ¹Huram the king of Tyre, saying, ^aAs thou didst deal with David my father, and didst send him cedars to build him an house to dwell therein, even so deal with me.

4 Behold, ^aI build an house to the name of the LORD my God, to dedicate it to him, and ^bto burn before him ¹sweet incense, and for ^cthe continual shewbread, and for ^dthe burnt offerings morning and evening, on the ^esabbaths, and on the new moons, and on the ²solemn feasts of the LORD our God. This is an ordinance for ever to Israel.

5 And the house which I build ¹is great: for ^agreat is our God above all gods.

6 ^aBut who is able to build him an house, seeing the heaven and heaven of heavens cannot contain him? who am I then, that I should build him an house, save only to burn sacrifice before him?

7 Send me now therefore a man ¹cunning to work in gold, and in silver, and in ²brass, and in iron, and in purple, and in crimson, and in blue, and that ³can skill to grave with the ¹cunning men that are with me in Judah and in Jerusalem, ^awhom David my father did provide.

8 ^aSend me also cedar trees, ¹fir trees, and algum trees, out of Lebanon: for I know that thy servants ²can skill to cut timber in Lebanon; and, behold, my servants shall be with thy servants,

9 Even to prepare me timber in abundance: for the ¹house which I am about to build shall be ²wonderful great.

10 ^aAnd, behold, I will give to thy servants, the hewers that cut timber, twenty thousand ¹measures of ²beaten wheat, and twenty thousand measures of barley, and twenty thousand baths of wine, and twenty thousand baths of oil.

11 Then ¹Huram the king of Tyre answered in writing, which he sent to Solomon, ^aBecause the LORD hath loved his people, he hath made thee king over them.

12 Hiram said moreover, ^aBlessed be the LORD God of Israel, ^bthat made heaven and earth, who hath given to David the king a wise son, ¹endued with prudence and understanding, that might build an house for the LORD, and an ²house for his kingdom.

A Skilled Craftsman and Workers

13 And now I have sent a ¹cunning man, ²endued with understanding, of ³Huram my ⁴father's,

14 ^aThe son of a woman of the daughters of Dan, and his father was a man of Tyre, skilful to work in gold, and in silver, in ¹brass, in iron, in stone, and in timber, in purple, in blue, and in fine linen, and in crimson; also to ²grave any manner of graving, and to ³find out every device which shall be put to him, with thy ⁴cunning men, and with the cunning men of my lord David thy father.

15 Now therefore the wheat, and the barley, the oil, and the wine, which ^amy lord hath spoken of, let him send unto his servants:

2:2. See the note on 1 Kings 5:15, 16.

2:3. Huram is another spelling of Hiram of Tyre. See the notes on 1 Kings 5:1 and 5:7–10.

2:6. Solomon's request to Hiram is accompanied by a witness as to the one true God. He will make the same point in his prayer of dedication at the time of the temple's completion (1 Kin. 8:27; 2 Chr. 6:18).

2:10. Solomon's payments to Hiram and his workmen were substantial. The details given here supplement those of 1 Kings 5:11.

2:13. The words Huram my father's may best be understood as one word giving the name and status of King Hiram's master craftsman, Hiramabi. The compound name thus signifies that this Hiram is a valued member of the royal team and a skilled workman. The title "my father" was used of Elijah (2 Kin. 2:12) and Elisha (2 Kin. 13:14).

2:14. Hiram's work was extensive, being concerned with the twin pillars (Jachin and Boaz, 3:15–17; see the note on 1 Kin. 7:15–22), the brazen altar (4:1), the molten sea with its bases (4:2–5, 10, 15), and the 10 lavers with their bases (4:6; see the note on 1 Kin. 7:23–39), as well as certain brass utensils (4:11, 16) and golden articles (4:7, 8, 19–22). His work was indeed an invaluable contribution.

16 ^aAnd we will cut wood out of Lebanon, as much as thou shalt need: and we will bring it to thee in ¹flotes by sea to ²Joppa; and thou shalt carry it up to Jerusalem.

17 ^aAnd Solomon numbered all the strangers that were in the land of Israel, after the numbering where-with ^bDavid his father had numbered them; and they were found an hundred and fifty thousand and three thousand and six hundred.

18 And he set ^athreescore and ten thousand of them to be bearers of burdens, and fourscore thousand to be ¹hewers in the mountain, and three thousand and six hundred overseers to set the people a work.

Construction of the Temple Started

3 Then ^aSolomon began to build the house of the LORD at ^bJerusalem in mount Moriah, where the LORD appeared unto David his father, in the place that David had prepared in the threshingfloor of ^cOrnan¹ the Jebusite.

2 And he began to build in the second day of the second month, in the fourth year of his reign.

Dimensions of the Temple

3 Now these are the things ^awherein Solomon was instructed for the building of the house of God. The length by cubits after the first measure was threescore cubits, and the breadth twenty cubits.

4 And the ^aporch that was in the front of the ¹house, the length of it was according to the breadth of the house, twenty cubits, and the height was an hundred and twenty: and he overlaid it within with pure gold.

5 And ^athe greater ¹house he ^bcieled² with fir tree, which he overlaid with fine gold, and set thereon palm trees and chains.

6 And he ¹garnished the house with precious stones for beauty: and the gold was gold of Parvaim.

7 He overlaid also the house, the beams, the posts, and the walls thereof, and the doors thereof, with gold; and ¹graved cherubims on the walls.

8 And he made the ^amost holy ¹house, the length whereof was according to the breadth of the house, twenty cubits, and the breadth thereof twenty cubits: and he overlaid it with fine gold, amounting to six hundred talents.

9 And the weight of the nails was fifty shekels of gold. And he overlaid the upper ^achambers¹ with gold.

10 ^aAnd in the most holy ¹house he made two cherubims ²of image work, and overlaid them with gold.

11 And the wings of the cherubims were twenty cubits long; one wing of the one cherub was five cubits, reaching to the wall of the house: and the other wing was like-wise five cubits, reaching to the wing of the other cherub.

14 And he made the ^avail of blue, and purple, and crimson, and fine linen, and wrought cherubims thereon.

15 Also he made before the ¹house ^atwo pillars of ²thirty and five cubits ³high, and the ⁴chapiter that was on the top of each of them was five cubits.

16 And he made chains, as in the ¹oracle, and put them on the ²heads of the pillars; and made ^aan hundred pomegranates, and put them on the chains.

 3:4. See the note on 1 Kings 6:3. The hundred and twenty cubits here was apparently miscopied, such a height being too disproportionate even for a tower before the building proper. Some ancient versions read 20 cubits. Since the height of the building itself was 30 cubits (1 Kin. 6:2), some have suggested that the porch was probably the same height.

Temple Furnishings

4 Moreover he made ^aan altar of brass, twenty cubits the length thereof, and twenty cubits the breadth thereof, and ten cubits the height thereof.

2 Also he made a molten sea of ten cubits from brim to brim, round in compass, and five cubits the height thereof; and a line of thirty cubits ¹did compass it round about.

3 ^aAnd under it was the ¹similitude of oxen, which did compass it round about: ten in a cubit, compassing the sea round about. Two rows of oxen were cast, when it was cast.

4 It stood upon twelve ^aoxen, three looking toward the north, and three looking toward the west, and three looking toward the south, and three looking toward the east: and the ¹sea was set above upon them, and all their hinder parts were inward.

5 And the thickness of it was an handbreadth, and the brim of it like the work of the brim of a cup, with flowers of lilies; and it received and held ^athree thousand baths.

6 He made also ^aten lavers, and put five on the right hand, and five on the left, to wash in them: such things as they offered for the burnt offering they washed in them; but the ¹sea was for the ^bpriests to wash in.

7 And he made ten ¹candlesticks of gold ^baccording to their form, and set them in the temple, five on the right hand, and five on the left.

8 He made also ten tables, and placed them in the temple, five on the right side, and five on the left. And he made an hundred ^bbasons¹ of gold.

18 ^aThus Solomon made all these vessels in great abundance: for the weight of the ¹brass could not be ²found out.

Temple Work Completed

5 Thus ^aall the work that Solomon made for the house of the LORD was finished: and Solomon brought in all the things that David his father had dedicated; and the silver, and the gold, and all the instruments, put he among the treasures of the house of God.

2 ^aThen Solomon assembled the elders of Israel, and all the heads of the tribes, the chief of the fathers of the children of Israel, unto Jerusalem, to bring up the ark of the covenant of the LORD ^bout of the city of David, which is Zion.

3 ^aWherefore all the men of Israel assembled themselves unto the king ^bin the feast which was in the seventh month.

The Ark Brought to the Temple

4 And all the elders of Israel came; and the ^aLevites took up the ark.

5 And they brought up the ark, and the tabernacle of the congregation, and all the holy vessels that were in the tabernacle, these did the priests and the Levites bring up.

6 Also king Solomon, and all the congregation of Israel that were assembled unto him before the ark, sacrificed sheep and oxen, which could not be ¹told nor numbered for multitude.

7 Now ^ait was in the heart of David my father to build an house for the name of the LORD God of Israel.

8 But the LORD said to David my father, Forasmuch as it was in thine heart to build an house for my name, thou didst well in that it was in thine heart:

9 Notwithstanding thou shalt not build the house; but thy son which shall come forth out of thy loins, he shall build the house for my ^aname.

18 ^aAnd ¹Huram sent him by the hands of his servants ships, and servants that had knowledge of the sea; and they went with the servants of Solomon to ^bOphir, and ²took thence four hundred and fifty talents of gold, and brought them to king Solomon.

A Visit by the Queen of Sheba

9 And ^awhen the queen of Sheba heard of the fame of Solomon, she came to ¹prove Solomon with hard questions at Jerusalem, with a very great company, and camels that bare spices, and gold in abundance, and precious stones: and when she was come to Solomon, she communed with him of all that was in her heart.

2 And Solomon ¹told her all her questions: and there was nothing hid from Solomon which he ²told her not.

3 And when the queen of Sheba had seen the wisdom of Solomon, and the house that he had built,

5 And she said to the king, It was a true report which I heard in mine own land of thine ¹acts, and of thy wisdom:

6 Howbeit I believed not their words, until I came, and mine eyes had seen it: and, behold, the one half of the greatness of thy wisdom was not told me: for thou exceedest the fame that I heard.

7 Happy are thy men, and happy are these thy servants, which stand continually before thee, and hear thy wisdom.

9 And she gave the king an hundred and twenty talents of gold, and of spices great abundance, and precious stones: neither was there any such spice as the queen of Sheba gave king Solomon.

10 And the servants also of ¹Huram, and the servants of Solomon, ^awhich brought gold from Ophir, brought ²algum trees and precious stones.

11 And the king made of the ¹algum trees terraces to the house of the LORD, and to the king's palace, and harps and psalteries for singers: and there were none such seen before in the land of Judah.

12 And king Solomon gave to the queen of Sheba all her desire, whatsoever she asked, beside that which she had brought unto the king. So she turned, and went away to her own land, she and her servants.

Solomon's Wealth

13 ^aNow the weight of gold that came to Solomon in one year was six hundred and threescore and six talents of gold;

14 Beside that which ¹chapmen and merchants brought. And all the kings of Arabia and governors of the country brought gold and silver to Solomon.

15 And king Solomon made two hundred ¹targets of beaten gold: six hundred shekels of beaten gold went to one ¹target.

16 And three hundred shields made he of beaten gold: three hundred shekels of gold went to one shield. And the king put them in the ^ahouse of the forest of Lebanon.

22 And king Solomon ¹passed all the kings of the earth in riches and wisdom.

Solomon's Wisdom Sought

23 And all the kings of the earth sought the presence of Solomon, to hear his wisdom, that God had put in his heart.

24 And they brought every man his present, vessels of silver, and vessels of gold, and raiment, ^aharness, ¹and spices, horses, and mules, ²a rate year by year.

25 And Solomon ^ahad four thousand stalls for horses and chariots, and twelve thousand horsemen; whom he bestowed in the chariot cities, and with the king at Jerusalem.

26 ^aAnd he reigned over all the kings ^bfrom ¹the river even unto the land of the Philistines, and to the border of Egypt.

TRADE UNDER SOLOMON

2 And it came to pass, when Jeroboam the son of Nebat, who was in Egypt, ^awhither he had fled from the presence of Solomon the king, heard it, that Jeroboam returned out of Egypt.

Jeroboam's Request

3 And they sent and called him. So Jeroboam and all Israel came and spake to Rehoboam, saying,

4 Thy father made our yoke grievous: now therefore ease thou somewhat the ¹grievous servitude of thy father, and his heavy yoke that he put upon us, and we will serve thee.

5 And he said unto them, Come again unto me after three days. And the people departed.

6 And king Rehoboam ¹took counsel with the old men that had stood before Solomon his father while he yet lived, saying, What counsel give ye me to return answer to this people?

7 And they spake unto him, saying, If thou be kind to this people, and please them, and speak good words to them, they will be thy servants for ever.

8 ^aBut he forsook the counsel which the old men gave him, and took counsel with the young men that were brought up with him, that stood before him.

9 And he said unto them, What advice give ye that we may return answer to this people, which have spoken to me, saying, Ease somewhat the yoke that thy father did put upon us?

10 And the young men that were brought up with him spake unto him, saying, Thus shalt thou answer the people that spake unto thee, saying, Thy father made our yoke heavy, but make thou it somewhat lighter for us; thus shalt thou say unto them, My little finger shall be thicker than my father's ¹loins.

11 For whereas my father put a heavy yoke upon you, I will ¹put more to your yoke: my father chastised you with whips, but I will chastise you with ²scorpions.

Rehoboam's Decision

12 So ^aJeroboam and all the people came to Rehoboam on the third day, as the king bade, saying, Come again to me on the third day.

13 And the king answered them roughly; and king Rehoboam forsook the counsel of the old men,

14 And answered them after the advice of the young men, saying, My father made your yoke heavy, but I will add thereto: my father chastised you with whips, but I will chastise you with scorpions.

15 So the king ¹hearkened not unto the people: ^afor the ²cause was of God, that the LORD might perform his ^bword, which he spake by the hand of Ahijah the Shilonite to Jeroboam the son of Nebat.

The Rebellion of Israel

16 And when all Israel saw that the king would not hearken unto them, the people answered the king, saying, What portion have we in David? and we have none inheritance in the son of Jesse: every man to your tents, O Israel: and now, David, see to thine own house. So all Israel went to their tents.

17 But as for the children of Israel that dwelt in the cities of Judah, Rehoboam reigned over them.

18 Then king Rehoboam sent Hadoram that was ¹over the tribute; and the children of Israel stoned him with stones, that he died. But king Rehoboam ²made speed to get

10:16. The name Israel is now used for the 10 northern tribes. (For problems relative to the identification of the 10 northern tribes and the two southern tribes, see the note on 1 Kin. 12:20.) Because the northern kingdom was an apostate kingdom, despite the prediction concerning its formation (cf. 1 Kin. 11:35), Jeroboam's assumption of the throne (1 Kin. 12:20) is not mentioned in the account in chapter 10. The chronicler's interest is with the southern kingdom, which he views as the true remnant of Israel (cf. 13:10), over which the sons of David were to rule (cf. 11:3), and whose capital, Jerusalem, was the rightful place of worship (cf. 11:16).

Rehoboam Forbidden to Fight

11 And ^awhen Rehoboam was come to Jerusalem, he ¹gathered of the house of Judah and Benjamin an hundred and fourscore thousand chosen men, which were warriors, to fight against Israel, that he might bring the kingdom again to Rehoboam.

2 But the word of the LORD came ^ato Shemaiah the man of God, saying,

3 Speak unto Rehoboam the son of Solomon, king of Judah, and to all Israel in Judah and Benjamin, saying,

4 Thus saith the LORD, Ye shall not go up, nor fight against your brethren: return every man to his house: for this thing is ¹done of me. And they obeyed the words of the LORD, and returned from going against Jeroboam.

7 And Beth-zur, and ¹Shoco, and Adullam,

Priests and Levites

13 And the priests and the Levites that were in all Israel ¹resorted to him out of all their ²coasts.

14 For the Levites left ^atheir ¹suburbs and their possession, and came to Judah and Jerusalem: for ^bJeroboam and his sons had cast them off from ²executing the priest's office unto the LORD:

15 ^aAnd he ¹ordained him priests for the ²high places, and for ^bthe ³devils, and for ^cthe ⁴calves which he had made.

17 So they ^astrengthened the kingdom of Judah, and made Rehoboam the son of Solomon strong, three years: for three years they walked in the way of David and Solomon.

Rehoboam's Family

18 And Rehoboam took him Mahalath the daughter of Jerimoth the son of David to wife, and Abihail the daughter of ^aEliab the son of Jesse;

19 Which bare him children; Jeush, and Shamariah, and Zaham.

20 And after her he took ^aMaachah the ¹daughter of ^bAbsalom; which bare him ^cAbijah, and Attai, and Ziza, and Shelomith.

21 And Rehoboam loved Maachah the ¹daughter of Absalom above all his ^awives and his concubines: (for he took eighteen wives, and threescore concubines; and begat twenty and eight sons, and threescore daughters.)

22 And Rehoboam ^amade ^bAbijah the son of Maachah the chief, to be ruler among his brethren: for he thought to make him king.

23 And he dealt wisely, and ¹dispersed of all his children throughout all the countries of Judah and Benjamin, unto every ^afenced² city: and he gave them victual in abundance. And he ³desired many wives.

Shishak's Invasion of Judah

12 And ^ait came to pass, when Rehoboam had established the kingdom, and had strengthened himself, ^bhe forsook the law of the LORD, and all Israel with him.

2 ^aAnd it came to pass, that in the fifth year of king Rehoboam Shishak king of Egypt came up against Jerusalem, because they had transgressed against the LORD,

3 With twelve hundred chariots, and threescore thousand horsemen: and the people were without number that came with him out of Egypt; ^athe Lubims, the Sukkiims, and the Ethiopians.

4 And he took the ¹fenced cities which pertained to Judah, and came to Jerusalem.

5 Then came ^aShemaiah the prophet to Rehoboam, and to the princes of Judah, that were gathered together to Jerusalem because of Shishak, and said unto them, Thus saith the LORD, Ye have forsaken me, and therefore have I also left you in the hand of Shishak.

The People Humble Themselves

6 Whereupon the princes of Israel and the king ^ahumbled themselves; and they said, ^bThe LORD is righteous.

7 And when the LORD saw that they humbled themselves, ^athe word of the LORD came to Shemaiah, saying, They have humbled themselves; therefore I will not destroy them, but I will grant them some deliverance; and my wrath shall not be poured out upon Jerusalem by the hand of Shishak.

8 Nevertheless ^athey shall be his servants; that they may ¹know ^bmy service, and the service of the kingdoms of the countries.

12 And when he humbled himself, the wrath of the LORD turned from him, that he would not destroy him altogether: and also in Judah things went well.

Rehoboam's Reign and Death

13 So king Rehoboam strengthened himself in Jerusalem, and reigned: for ^aRehoboam was one and forty years old when he began to reign, and he reigned seventeen years in Jerusalem, ^bthe city which the LORD had chosen out of all the tribes of Israel, to put his name there. And his mother's name was Naamah an ^cAmmonitess.

Victory Over Israel

13 But Jeroboam caused an ambushment to come about behind them: so they were before Judah, and the ambushment was behind them.

14 And when Judah looked back, behold, the battle was before and behind: and they ^acried unto the LORD, and the priests sounded with the trumpets.

15 Then the men of Judah gave a shout: and as the men of Judah shouted, it came to pass, that God ^asmote Jeroboam and all Israel before Abijah and Judah.

16 And the children of Israel fled before Judah: and God delivered them into their hand.

17 And Abijah and his people ¹slew them with a great slaughter: so there fell down slain of Israel five hundred thousand chosen men.

18 Thus the children of Israel were ¹brought under at that time, and the children of Judah prevailed, ^abecause they relied upon the LORD God of their fathers.

19 And Abijah pursued after Jeroboam, and took cities from him, Beth-el with the towns thereof, and Jeshanah with the towns thereof, and ¹Ephraim with the towns thereof.

20 Neither did Jeroboam recover strength again in the days of Abijah:

21 But Abijah waxed mighty, and married fourteen wives, and begat twenty and two sons, and sixteen daughters.

22 And the rest of the acts of Abijah, and his ways, and his sayings, are written in ^athe ¹story of the prophet Iddo.

Asa's Reign

14 So Abijah slept with his fathers, and they buried him in the city of David; and ^aAsa his son reigned in his stead. In his days the land was quiet ten years.

2 And Asa did that which was good and right in the eyes of the LORD his God:

3 For he took away the altars of the strange gods, and ^athe ¹high places, and ^bbrake down the ²images, ^cand cut down the ³groves:

4 And commanded Judah to ^aseek the LORD God of their fathers, and to ¹do the law and the commandment.

5 Also he took away out of all the cities of Judah the ¹high places and the ²images: and the kingdom was quiet ³before him.

Asa's Fenced Cities and Mighty Army

6 And he built ¹fenced cities in Judah: for the land had rest, and he had no war in those years; because the LORD had given him ^arest.

7 Therefore he said unto Judah, Let us build these cities, and make about them walls, and towers, gates, and bars, while the land is yet before us; because we have sought the LORD our God, we have sought him, and he hath given us rest on every side. So they built and prospered.

The Ethiopians Defeated

9 ^aAnd there came out against them Zerah the Ethiopian with an host of a thousand thousand, and three hundred chariots; and came unto ^bMareshah.

10 Then Asa went out against him, and they set the battle in array in the valley of Zephathah at Mareshah.

11 And Asa ^acried unto the LORD his God, and said, LORD, it is ^bnothing with thee to help, whether with many, or with them that have no power: help us, O LORD our God; for we rest on thee, and ^cin thy name we go against this multitude. O LORD, thou art our God; let not man prevail against thee.

12 So the LORD ^asmote¹ the Ethiopians before Asa, and before Judah; and the Ethiopians fled.

13 And Asa and the people that were with him pursued them unto ^aGerar: and the Ethiopians were overthrown, that they could not recover themselves; for they were ¹destroyed before the LORD, and before his host; and they carried away very much ²spoil.

14 And they ¹smote all the cities round about Gerar; for ^athe fear of the LORD came upon them: and they ²spoiled all the cities; for there was exceeding much ³spoil in them.

15 They ¹smote also the ²tents of cattle, and carried away sheep and camels in abundance, and returned to Jerusalem.

God's Message to Asa

15 And ^athe Spirit of God came upon Azariah the son of Oded:

14:3. For groves, see the note on Judges 3:6, 7.

14:11. Asa's early trust in God is emphasized here. The battle against Zerah the Ethiopian is not recorded in 1 Kings. Biblical Ethiopia (ancient Cush) is the modern Sudan.

15:1. Asa's early years were spent wisely, his godly piety (14:2) being put to spiritual (14:4, 5) and 13:22. See the note on 1 Chronicles 29:29. The term story (Heb. midrash) here refers to an interpretive study of an earlier work (cf. 24:27). It was later used by Jewish scholars to designate a collection of expository comments on the Old Testament Scriptures gathered together from the first century B.C. to the third century A.D.

2 And he went out ¹to meet Asa, and said unto him, Hear ye me, Asa, and all Judah and Benjamin; ^aThe LORD is with you, while ye be with him; and ^bif ye seek him, he will be found of you; but ^cif ye forsake him, he will forsake you.

3 Now ^afor a long season Israel hath been without the true God, and without a ^bteaching priest, and without ^claw.

4 But ^awhen they in their trouble did turn unto the LORD God of Israel, and sought him, he was found of them.

5 And in those times there was no peace to him that went out, nor to him that came in, but great ¹vexations were upon all the inhabitants of the countries.

6 ^aAnd nation was destroyed ¹of nation, and city of city: for God did ²vex them with all adversity.

7 Be ye strong therefore, and let not your hands be weak: for your work shall be rewarded.

Idolatry Abolished

8 And when Asa heard these words, and the prophecy of Oded the prophet, he took courage, and put away the abominable idols out of all the land of Judah and Benjamin, and out of the cities ^awhich he had taken from mount Ephraim, and ¹renewed the altar of the LORD, that was before the porch of the LORD.

9 And he gathered all Judah and Benjamin, and ^athe strangers with them out of Ephraim and Manasseh, and out of Simeon: for they ¹fell to him out of Israel in abundance, when they saw that the LORD his God was with him.

10 So they gathered themselves together at Jerusalem in the third month, in the fifteenth year of the reign of Asa.

Peace in the Land

19 And there was no more war unto the five and thirtieth year of the reign of Asa.

political purposes (14:5-8). The encouragement of Azariah (vv. 1-7) only increased his faithful activities, including a further religious purge of idolatry (v. 8) that, unfortunately, stopped short of full cleansing (v. 17). Even his powerful grandmother, Maachah, saw the influence of her apostate religion terminated (v. 16). See the note on 1 Kings 15:2.

15:12. Asa's spiritual fidelity showed itself further in his leading of the people in an act of covenant renewal (cf. Josh. 24:2). All true Israelites from all quarters were invited to the ceremony (v. 9).

2 Then Asa brought out silver and gold out of the treasures of the house of the LORD and of the king's house, and sent to Ben-hadad king of Syria, that dwelt at Damascus, saying,

3 There is a ¹league between me and thee, as there was between my father and thy father: behold, I have sent thee silver and gold; go, break thy league with Baasha king of Israel, that he may ²depart from me.

4 And Ben-hadad hearkened unto king Asa, and sent the captains of his armies against the cities of Israel; and they smote Ijon, and Dan, and Abel-maim, and all the store cities of Naphtali.

5 And it came to pass, when Baasha heard it, that he left off building of Ramah, and let his work cease.

6 Then Asa the king took all Judah; and they carried away the stones of Ramah, and the timber thereof, wherewith Baasha was building; and he built therewith Geba and Mizpah.

Hanani Rebukes Asa

7 And at that time ^aHanani the seer came to Asa king of Judah, and said unto him, ^bBecause thou hast relied on the king of Syria, and not relied on the LORD thy God, therefore is the ¹host of the king of Syria escaped out of thine hand.

Asa's Illness and Death

11 ^aAnd, behold, the acts of Asa, first and last, lo, they are written in the book of the kings of Judah and Israel.

12 And Asa in the thirty and ninth year of his reign was diseased in his feet, until his disease was exceeding great: yet in his disease he ^asought not to the LORD, but to the physicians.

13 ^aAnd Asa ¹slept with his fathers, and died in the one and fortieth year of his reign.

14 And they buried him in his own ¹sepulchres, which he had ²made for himself in the city of David, and laid him in the bed which was filled ^awith sweet odours and divers kinds of spices prepared by the apothecaries' art: and they made ^ba very great burning for him.

Jehoshaphat's Reign

17 And ^aJehoshaphat his son reigned in his ¹stead, and strengthened himself against Israel.

2 And he placed ¹forces in all the ²fenced cities of Judah, and set garrisons in the land of ^aJudah, and in the cities of Ephraim, ^bwhich Asa his father had taken.

3 And the LORD was with Jehoshaphat, because he walked in the first ways of his father David, and sought not unto Baalim;

4 But sought to the LORD God of his father, and walked in his commandments, and not ¹after ^athe doings of Israel.

5 Therefore the LORD stablished the kingdom in his hand; and all Judah ^abrought¹ to Jehoshaphat presents; ^band he had riches and honour in abundance.

For his breach of trust Asa is faced with judgment (v. 9). The episode marked a turning point in Asa's spiritual decline, during which he persecuted the godly Hanani. Asa was to die in shame (vv. 12-14).

17:2-5. Asa's early spiritual sensitivity had a strong formative effect upon Jehoshaphat's character (cf. 15:2, 17; 20:32). For Baalim, see the note on Judges 2:11-15.

7 Also in the third year of his reign he sent to his princes, even to Ben-hail, and to Obadiah, and to Zechariah, and to Nethaneel, and to Michaiah, ^ato teach in the cities of Judah.

8 And with them he sent Levites, even Shemaiah, and Nethaniah, and Zebadiah, and Asahel, and Shemiramoth, and Jehonathan, and Adonijah, and Tobijah, and Tob-adonijah, Levites; and with them Elishama and Jehoram, priests.

9 ^aAnd they taught in Judah, and had the book of the law of the LORD with them, and went about throughout all the cities of Judah, and taught the people.

10 And ^athe fear of the LORD fell upon all the kingdoms of the lands that were round about Judah, so that they made no war against Jehoshaphat.

11 Also some of the Philistines ^abrought Jehoshaphat presents, and tribute silver; and the Arabians brought him flocks, seven thousand and seven hundred rams, and seven thousand and seven hundred he goats.

Jehoshaphat's Men of War

12 And Jehoshaphat ¹waxed great exceedingly; and he built in Judah ²castles, and cities of store.

13 And he had much business in the cities of Judah: and the men of war, mighty men of valour, were in Jerusalem.

14 And these are the numbers of them according to the house of their fathers: Of Judah, the captains of thousands; Adnah the chief, and with him mighty men of valour three hundred thousand.

Affinity with Ahab

18 Now Jehoshaphat ^ahad riches and honour in abundance, and ^bjoined¹ affinity with ^cAhab.

2 ^aAnd after certain years he went down to Ahab to Samaria. And Ahab killed sheep and oxen for him in abundance, and for the people that he had with him, and persuaded him to go up with him to Ramoth-gilead.

master; let them return therefore every man to his house in peace.

17 And the king of Israel said to Jehoshaphat, Did I not tell thee that he would not prophesy good unto me, but evil?

18 Again ¹he said, Therefore hear the word of the LORD; I saw the LORD sitting upon his ^athrone, and all the host of heaven standing on his right hand and on his left.

19 And the LORD said, Who shall entice Ahab king of Israel, that he may go up and fall at Ramoth-gilead? And one spake saying after this manner, and another saying after that manner.

20 Then there came out a ^aspirit, and stood before the LORD, and said, I will entice him. And the LORD said unto him, Wherewith?

21 And he said, I will go out, and be a lying spirit in the mouth of all his prophets. And the LORD said, Thou shalt entice him, and thou shalt also prevail: go out, and do even so.

22 Now therefore, behold, ^athe LORD hath put a lying spirit in the mouth of these thy prophets, and the LORD hath ¹spoken evil against thee.

Zedekiah's Rebuke

23 Then Zedekiah the son of Chenaanah came near, and ^asmote ¹Micaiah upon the cheek, and said, Which way went the Spirit of the LORD from me to speak unto thee?

24 And Micaiah said, Behold, thou shalt see on that day when thou shalt go into an inner chamber to hide thyself.

25 Then the king of Israel said, Take ye Micaiah, and carry him back to Amon the governor of the city, and to Joash the king's son;

26 And say, Thus saith the king, ^aPut this fellow in the prison, and feed him with bread of affliction and with water of affliction, until I return in peace.

19:1-4. Unlike his father, Asa, who imprisoned the prophet Hanani, who had delivered the Lord's rebuke to him, Jehoshaphat receives well Hanani's son Jehu and responds with further spiritual zeal.

27 And Micaiah said, If thou certainly return in peace, then hath not the LORD spoken by ^ame. And he said, Hearken, all ye people.

Ahab's Disguise

28 So the king of Israel and Jehoshaphat the king of Judah went up to Ramoth-gilead.

29 And the king of Israel said unto Jehoshaphat, I will ^adisguise myself, and will go to the battle; but put thou on thy robes. So the king of Israel disguised himself; and they went to the battle.

30 Now the king of Syria had commanded the captains of the chariots that were with him, saying, Fight ye not with small or great, save only with the king of Israel.

31 And it came to pass, when the captains of the chariots saw Jehoshaphat, that they said, It is the king of Israel. Therefore they ¹compassed about him to fight: but Jehoshaphat ^acried out, and the LORD helped him; and God moved them to depart from him.

32 For it came to pass, that, when the captains of the chariots perceived that it was not the king of Israel, they turned back again from pursuing him.

Ahab Dies in Battle

33 And a certain man drew a bow ¹at a venture, and ²smote the king of Israel ³between the joints of the harness: therefore he said to his chariot man, Turn thine hand, that thou mayest carry me out of the host; for I am wounded.

34 And the battle increased that day: howbeit the king of Israel stayed himself up in his chariot against the Syrians until the even: and about the time of the sun going down he died.

Judges Appointed for Judah

5 And he set ^ajudges in the land throughout all the ¹fenced cities of Judah, city by city,

6 And said to the judges, Take heed what ye do: for ^aye judge not for man, but for the LORD, ^bwho is with you ¹in the judgment.

Judges Appointed for Jerusalem

8 Moreover in Jerusalem did Jehoshaphat ^aset¹ of the Levites, and of the priests, and of the chief of the fathers of Israel, for the judgment of the LORD, and for controversies, when they returned to Jerusalem.

9 And he charged them, saying, Thus shall ye do ^ain the fear of the LORD, faithfully, and with a ¹perfect heart.

19:5-11. The details of Jehoshaphat's further religious and administrative innovations are not recorded by the author of Kings. Jehoshaphat introduced a system of local judges who both decided and applied justice in the fear of the LORD. He also set up a system of appeals in Jerusalem over which the chief priest presided in spiritual matters. An official of the king administered civil affairs. This division of authority became a model for later Judaism (cf. Zech. 3, 4).

Invasion of Judah

20 It came to pass after this also, that the children of ^aMoab, and the children of ^bAmmon, and with them other beside the ^cAmmonites, came against Jehoshaphat to battle.

2 Then there came some that told Jehoshaphat, saying, There cometh a great multitude against thee from beyond the sea on this side Syria; and, behold, they be ^ain Hazazon-tamar, which is ^bEn-gedi.

3 And Jehoshaphat feared, and set ¹himself to ^aseek the LORD, and ^bproclaimed a fast throughout all Judah.

4 And Judah gathered themselves together, to ask ^ahelp of the LORD: even out of all the cities of Judah they came to seek the LORD.

Prayer for Deliverance

5 And Jehoshaphat stood in the congregation of Judah and Jerusalem, in the house of the LORD, before the new court,

6 And said, O LORD God of our fathers, art not thou ^aGod in heaven? and ^brulest not thou over all the kingdoms of the ¹heathen? and ^cin thine hand is there not power and might, so that none is able to withstand thee?

Promise of Deliverance

14 Then upon Jahaziel the son of Zechariah, the son of Benaiah, the son of Jeiel, the son of Mattaniah, a Levite of the sons of Asaph, ^acame the Spirit of the LORD in the midst of the congregation;

16 To morrow go ye down against them: behold, they come up by the ¹cliff of Ziz; and ye shall find them at the end of the ²brook, before the wilderness of Jeruel.

20:1. This Trans-Jordanian invasion in Jehoshaphat's day is not recorded by the author of Kings. It forms a backdrop for Jehoshaphat's later involvement in Jehoram's Moabite expedition (2 Kin. 3:7).

20:3-6. Jehoshaphat again demonstrates that he was a righteous king and a man of prayer (cf. 18:6). See the note on 2 Kings 3:11.

20:7. Israel's possession of its God-given inheritance is a pivotal promise in the unconditional covenant with Abraham (cf. Gen. 17:8; Ezek. 37:21-28). See the note on Joshua 21:43-45.

20:14. For the coming of the Spirit of the LORD upon Old Testament believers, see the note on Judges 3:10.

Judah Worships the Lord

18 And Jehoshaphat ^abowed his head with his face to the ground: and all Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem fell before the LORD, worshipping the LORD.

19 And the Levites, of the children of the Kohathites, and of the children of the Korhites, stood up to praise the LORD God of Israel with a loud voice on high.

20 And they rose early in the morning, and went forth into the wilderness of Tekoa: and as they went forth, Jehoshaphat stood and said, Hear me, O Judah, and ye inhabitants of Jerusalem; ^aBelieve in the LORD your God, so shall ye be established; believe his prophets, so shall ye prosper.

21 And when he had consulted with the people, he appointed singers unto the LORD, ^aand that should praise the beauty of holiness, as they went out before the army, and to say, ^bPraise the LORD; ^cfor his mercy endureth for ever.

22 And when they began to sing and to praise, ^athe LORD set ambushments against the children of Ammon, Moab, and mount Seir, which were come against Judah; and they were ¹smitten.

23 For the children of Ammon and Moab stood up against the inhabitants of mount Seir, utterly to slay and destroy them: and when they ¹had made an end of the inhabitants of Seir, ^aevery one helped to destroy another.

and, behold, they were dead bodies fallen to the earth, and none escaped.

25 And when Jehoshaphat and his people came to take away the ¹spoil of them, they found among them in abundance both riches with the ²dead bodies, and precious jewels, which they stripped off for themselves, more than they could carry away: and they were three days in gathering of the spoil, it was so much.

26 And on the fourth day they assembled themselves in the valley of ¹Berachah; for there they blessed the LORD: therefore the name of the same place was called, The valley of Berachah, unto this day.

27 Then they returned, every man of Judah and Jerusalem, and Jehoshaphat in the forefront of them, to go again to Jerusalem with joy; for the LORD had ^amade them to rejoice over their enemies.

28 And they came to Jerusalem with ¹psalteries and harps and trumpets unto the house of the LORD.

29 And ^athe ¹fear of God was on all the kingdoms of those countries, when they had heard that the LORD fought against the enemies of Israel.

30 So the realm of Jehoshaphat was quiet: for his ^aGod gave him rest round about.

Jehoshaphat's Reign

31 ^aAnd Jehoshaphat reigned over Judah: he was thirty and five years old when he began to reign, and he reigned twenty and five years in Jerusalem. And his mother's name was Azubah the daughter of Shilhi.

32 And he walked in the way of ^aAsa his father, and departed not from it, doing that which was right in the sight of the LORD.

33 Howbeit ^athe ¹high places were not taken away: for as yet the people had not ^bprepared² their hearts unto the God of their fathers.

20:18. For the king's prostration before the LORD in public prayer, see 6:13–39.

20:22, 23. The confusion that resulted in the enemies' mutual quarrel and destruction is reminiscent of the case in Judges 7:22, and the false assumption of the Moabites in the later Israelite/Judean expedition against them (2 Kin. 3:23).

34 Now the rest of the acts of Jehoshaphat, first and last, behold, they are written in the book of Jehu the son of Hanani, ^awho is mentioned in the book of the kings of Israel.

35 And after this ^adid Jehoshaphat king of Judah join himself with Ahaziah king of Israel, ^bwho did very ^cwickedly:

36 And he joined himself with him ^ato make ships to go to Tarshish: and they made the ships in Ezion-gaber.

37 Then Eliezer the son of Dodavah of Mareshah prophesied against Jehoshaphat, saying, Because thou hast joined thyself with Ahaziah, the LORD hath broken thy works. ^aAnd the ships were broken, that they were not able to go ^bto Tarshish.

Jehoram's Reign

21 Now ^aJehoshaphat ¹slept with his fathers, and was buried with his fathers in the city of David. And Jehoram his son reigned in his stead.

2 And he had brethren the sons of Jehoshaphat, Azariah, and Jehiel, and Zechariah, and Azariah, and Michael, and Shephatiah: all these were the sons of Jehoshaphat king of Israel.

3 And their father gave them great gifts of silver, and of gold, and of precious things, with ¹fenced cities in Judah: but the kingdom gave he to Jehoram; because he was the first-born.

4 Now when Jehoram was ¹risen up to the kingdom of his father, he strengthened himself, and ²slew all his brethren with the sword, and divers also of the princes of Israel.

5 ^aJehoram was thirty and two years old when he began to reign, and he reigned eight years in Jerusalem.

Revolt of Edom and Libnah

8 ^aIn his days the Edomites revolted from under the dominion of Judah, and made themselves a king.

9 Then Jehoram went forth with his princes, and all his chariots with him: and he rose up by night, and smote the Edomites which ¹compassed him in, and the captains of the chariots.

10 So the Edomites revolted from under the ¹hand of Judah unto this day. The same time also did Libnah revolt from under his hand; because he had forsaken the LORD God of his fathers.

11 Moreover he made ¹high places in the mountains of Judah, and caused the inhabitants of Jerusalem to ^acommit fornication, and ²compelled Judah thereto.

12 And there came a writing to him from Elijah the prophet, saying, Thus saith the LORD God of David thy father, Because thou hast not walked in the ways of Jehoshaphat thy father, nor in the ways of Asa king of Judah,

Jehoram's Punishment

14 Behold, with a great plague will the LORD smite thy people, and thy children, and thy wives, and all thy goods:

15 And thou shalt have great sickness by ^adisease of thy bowels, until thy bowels fall out by reason of the sickness day by day.

16 Moreover the ^aLORD ^bstirred up against Jehoram the spirit of the Philistines, and of the ^cArabians, that were near the Ethiopians:

17 And they came up into Judah, and ¹brake into it, and carried away all the ²substance that was found in the king's house, and ^ahis sons also, and his wives; so that there was never a son left him, save ³Jehoahaz, the youngest of his sons.

Jehoram's Death

18 And after all this the LORD ¹smote him ^ain his bowels with an incurable disease.

19 And it came to pass, that in process of time, after the end of two years, his bowels fell out by reason of his sickness: so he died ¹of sore diseases. And his people made no ²burning for him, like ^athe burning of his fathers.

20 Thirty and two years old was he when he began to reign, and he reigned in Jerusalem eight years, and departed ¹without being desired. Howbeit they buried him in the city of David, but not in the ²sepulchres of the kings.

Ahaziah's Reign

22 And the inhabitants of Jerusalem made ^aAhaziah his youngest son king in his stead: for the band of men that came with the ^bArabians to the camp had slain all the ^celdest. So Ahaziah the son of Jehoram king of Judah reigned.

8 And it came to pass, that, when Jehu was ^aexecuting judgment upon the house of Ahab, and ^bfound the princes of Judah, and the sons of the brethren of Ahaziah, that ministered to Ahaziah, he slew them.

9 ^aAnd he sought Ahaziah: and they caught him, (for he was hid in Samaria,) and brought him to Jehu: and when they had slain him, they buried him: Because, said they, he is the son of ^bJehoshaphat, who ^csought the LORD with all his heart. So the house of Ahaziah had ¹no power to keep still the kingdom.

Athaliah's Reign

10 ^aBut when Athaliah the mother of Ahaziah saw that her son was 22:2. A comparison with 21:5 indicates that the proper figure for Ahaziah's age here must be 22 as read in the margin of the Hebrew Masoretic Text, 2 Kings 8:26, and several ancient versions of the Old Testament. Forty and two was probably miscopied.

It is highly unlikely that Ahaziah came to the throne twice at different ages.

22:9. For details as to Ahaziah's death during Jehu's assumption of power, see the note on 2 Kings 9:27, 28.

dead, she arose and destroyed all the ¹seed royal of the house of Judah.

11 But ¹Jehoshabeath, the daughter of the king, took ^aJoash the son of Ahaziah, and ²stole him from among the king's sons that were ³slain, and put him and his nurse in a bed-chamber. So Jehoshabeath, the daughter of king Jehoram, the wife of Jehoiada the priest, (for she was the sister of Ahaziah,) hid him from Athaliah, so that she slew him not.

12 And he was with them hid in the house of God six years: and Athaliah reigned over the land.

Judah's Covenant with Joash

23 And ^ain the seventh year ^bJehoiada strengthened himself, and took the captains of hundreds, Azariah the son of Jeroham, and Ishmael the son of Jehohanan, and Azariah the son of ^cObed, and Maaseiah the son of Adaiah, and Elishaphat the son of Zichri, into covenant with him.

2 And they went about in Judah, and gathered the Levites out of all the cities of Judah, and the ^achief of the fathers of Israel, and they came to Jerusalem.

3 And all the congregation made a covenant with the king in the house of God. And he said unto them, Behold, the king's son shall reign, as the LORD hath ^asaid of the sons of David.

4 This is the thing that ye shall do; A third part of you ^aentering on the sabbath, of the priests and of the Levites, shall be ¹porters of the doors;

5 And a third part shall be at the king's house; and a third part at the gate of the foundation: and all the people shall be in the courts of the house of the LORD.

7 And the Levites shall ¹compass the king round about, every man with his weapons in his hand; and whosoever else cometh into the house, he shall be put to death: but be ye with the king when he cometh in, and when he goeth out.

Joash Anointed King

8 So the Levites and all Judah did according to all things that Jehoiada the priest had commanded, and took every man his men that were to come in on the sabbath, with them that were to go out on the sabbath: for Jehoiada the priest dismissed not ^athe courses.

9 Moreover Jehoiada the priest delivered to the captains of hundreds spears, and ¹bucklers, and ^ashields, that had been king David's, which were in the house of God.

10 And he set all the people, every man having his weapon in his hand, from the right side of the temple to the left side of the temple, along by the altar and the temple, by the king round about.

11 Then they brought out the king's son, and put upon him the crown, and ^agave him the ¹testimony, and made him king. And Jehoiada and his sons anointed him, and said, ²God save the king.

Athaliah's Death

12 Now when ^aAthaliah heard the noise of the people running and praising the king, she came to the people into the house of the LORD:

22:11. Jehoshabeath (Jehosheba) was Ahaziah's half sister. See the note on 2 Kings 11:2.

23:11. See the note on 2 Kings 11:12.

22:10 Athaliah was the daughter of Ahab (2 Kin. 8:18) and most likely his wife Jezebel. She married Jehoram, King of Judah, and was the mother of Ahaziah. After the deaths of her husband and son, she murdered all the royal seed of the Davidic line except young Joash, who was hidden by the high priest Jehoiada (2 Kin. 11:1-2; 2 Chr. 22:10-11). In the meantime, she proclaimed herself queen and reigned for six years (842-836 B.C.), promoting the worship of Baal. When young Joash was later proclaimed the legitimate king of Judah, Athaliah, the evil queen, was executed (2 Chr. 23:14-15).

13 And she looked, and, behold, the king stood at his pillar at the entering in, and the princes and the trumpets by the king: and all the people of the land rejoiced, and sounded with trumpets, also the singers with instruments of musick, and ^asuch as ¹taught to sing praise. Then Athaliah ²rent her clothes, and said, ^bTreason, Treason.

14 Then Jehoiada the priest brought out the captains of hundreds that were set over the host, and said unto them, ¹Have her forth of the ranges: and whoso followeth her, let him be slain with the sword. For the priest said, Slay her not in the house of the LORD.

15 So they laid hands on her; and when she was come to the entering ^aof the horse gate by the king's house, they slew her there.

Idols Destroyed

16 And Jehoiada made a ^acovenant between him, and between all the people, and between the king, that they should be the LORD's people.

17 Then all the people went to the ¹house of Baal, and brake it down, and brake his altars and his images in pieces, and ^aslew Mattan the priest of Baal before the altars.

18 Also Jehoiada appointed the offices of the house of the LORD by the hand of the priests the Levites, whom David had ^adistributed in the house of the LORD, to offer the burnt offerings of the LORD, as it is written in the ^blaw of Moses, with rejoicing and with singing, as it was ordained by David.

19 And he set the ^aporters¹ at the gates of the house of the LORD, that none which was unclean in any thing should enter in.

Joash's Reign

24 Joash ^awas seven years old when he began to reign, and he reigned forty years in Jerusalem. His mother's name also was Zibiah of Beer-sheba.

2 And Joash ^adid that which was right in the sight of the LORD all the days of Jehoiada the priest.

3 And Jehoiada took for him two wives; and he begat sons and daughters.

4 And it came to pass after this, that Joash ¹was minded to repair the house of the LORD.

5 And he gathered together the priests and the Levites, and said to them, Go out unto the cities of Judah, and ^agather of all Israel money to repair the house of your God from year to year, and see that ye ¹hasten the matter. Howbeit the Levites hastened it not.

6 ^aAnd the king called for Jehoiada the chief, and said unto him, Why hast thou not required of the Levites to bring in out of Judah and out of Jerusalem the collection, according to the commandment of ^bMoses the servant of the LORD, and of the congregation of Israel, for the ^ctabernacle of witness?

7 For ^athe sons of Athaliah, that wicked woman, had ¹broken up the house of God; and also all the ^bdedicated things of the house of the LORD did they ²bestow upon Baalim.

8 And at the king's commandment ^athey made a chest, and set it ¹without at the gate of the house of the LORD.

23:13. Pillar in the Hebrew text may mean a raised platform (cf. the Latin Vulgate "step"), perhaps at the east gate in the inner court (cf. 6:13).

23:16-21. The high priest, Jehoiada, led the people in a covenant renewal (cf. the note at 15:12). As in the case of Asa (15:8-18) and Jehoshaphat (17:3-9; 19:4-11), the early days of Joash were to witness a time of spiritual rebirth and reformation (cf. 24:2-12).

24:2. See the note on 2 Kings 12:2.

24:8. See the note on 2 Kings 12:7-11.

9 And they made a proclamation through Judah and Jerusalem, to bring in to the LORD “the collection that Moses the servant of God laid upon Israel in the wilderness.

10 And all the princes and all the people rejoiced, and brought in, and cast into the chest, until ¹they had made an end.

11 Now it came to pass, that at what time the chest was brought unto the king’s office by the hand of the Levites, and ^awhen they saw that there was much money, the king’s scribe and the high priest’s officer came and emptied the chest, and took it, and carried it to his place again. Thus they did day by day, and gathered money in abundance.

12 And the king and Jehoiada gave it to such as did the work of the service of the house of the LORD, and hired masons and carpenters to ^arepair the house of the LORD, and also such as wrought iron and brass to mend the house of the LORD.

13 So the workmen wrought, and the work was ¹perfected by them, and they set the house of God ²in his state, and strengthened it.

14 And when they had finished it, they brought the rest of the money before the king and Jehoiada, ^awhereof were made vessels for the house of the LORD, even vessels to minister, and to offer withal, and spoons, and vessels of gold and silver. And they offered burnt offerings in the house of the LORD continually all the days of Jehoiada.

Jehoiada’s Death

15 But Jehoiada waxed old, and was full of days when he died; an hundred and thirty years old was he when he died.

16 And they buried him in the city of David among the kings, because he had done good in Israel, both toward God, and toward his house.

Zechariah’s Prophecy and Death

20 And the Spirit of God ¹came upon ^aZechariah the son of Jehoiada the priest, which stood above the people, and said unto them, Thus saith God, ^bWhy transgress ye the commandments of the LORD, that ye cannot prosper? ^cbecause ye have forsaken the LORD, he hath also forsaken you.

21 And they conspired against him, and ^astoned him with stones at the commandment of the king in the court of the house of the LORD.

22 Thus Joash the king remembered not the kindness which Jehoiada his ¹father had done to him, but slew his son. And when he died, he said, The LORD look upon it, and ^arequire² it.

23 And it came to pass at the end of the year, that ^athe host of Syria came up against him: and they came to Judah and Jerusalem, and destroyed all the princes of the people from among the people, and sent all the ¹spoil of them unto the king of Damascus.

24 For the army of the Syrians ^acame with a small company of men, and the LORD ^bdelivered a very great host into their hand, because they had forsaken the LORD God of their fathers. So they ^cexecuted judgment against Joash.

diseases,) ^ahis own servants conspired against him for the blood of the ²sons of Jehoiada the priest, and slew him on his bed, and he died: and they buried him in the city of David, but they buried him not in the sepulchres of the kings.

26 And these are they that conspired against him; ¹Zabad the son of Shimeath an Ammonitess, and Jehozabab the son of ²Shimrith a Moabitess.

27 Now concerning his sons, and the ¹greatness of ^athe burdens laid upon him, and the repairing of the house of God, behold, they are written in the ²story of the book of the kings. ^bAnd Amaziah his son reigned in his stead.

Amaziah's Reign

25 Amaziah ^awas twenty and five years old when he began to reign, and he reigned twenty and nine years in Jerusalem. And his mother's name was Jehoaddan of Jerusalem.

2 And he did that which was right in the sight of the LORD, ^abut not with a ¹perfect heart.

3 ^aNow it came to pass, when the kingdom was established to him, that he slew his servants that had ¹killed the king his father.

4 But he slew not their children, but did as it is written in the law in the book of Moses, where the LORD commanded, saying, ^a"The fathers shall not die for the children, neither shall the children die for the fathers, but every man shall die for his own sin.

Amaziah's Army

5 Moreover Amaziah gathered Judah together, and made them captains over thousands, and captains over hundreds, according to the houses of their fathers, throughout all Judah and Benjamin: and he numbered them ^afrom twenty years old and above, and found them three hundred thousand choice men, able to go forth to war, that could handle spear and shield.

6 He hired also an hundred thousand mighty men of valour out of Israel for an hundred talents of silver.

7 But there came a ^aman of God to him, saying, O king, let not the army of Israel go with thee; for the LORD is not with Israel, to wit, with all the children of Ephraim.

8 But if thou wilt go, do it, be strong for the battle: God shall make thee fall before the enemy: for God hath ^apower to help, and to cast down.

9 And Amaziah said to the man of God, But what shall we do for the hundred talents which I have given to the ¹army of Israel? And the man of God answered, ^a"The LORD is able to give thee much more than this.

10 Then Amaziah separated them, to wit, the army that was come to him out of Ephraim, to go home again: wherefore their anger was greatly kindled against Judah, and they returned home in great anger.

The Defeat of Edom

11 And Amaziah strengthened himself, and led forth his people, and went to ^athe valley of salt, and smote of the children of Seir ten thousand.

12 And other ten thousand left alive did the children of Judah carry away captive, and brought them unto the top of the rock, and cast them down from the top of the rock, that they all were ¹broken in pieces.

13 But the soldiers of the army which Amaziah sent back, that they should not go with him to battle, fell upon the cities of Judah, from Samaria even unto Beth-horon, and smote three thousand of them, and took much ¹spoil.

14 Now it came to pass, after that Amaziah was come from the slaughter of the Edomites, that ^ahe brought the gods of the children of Seir, and set them up to be ^bhis gods, and bowed down himself before them, and burned incense unto them.

25:14-19. How often spiritual defeat and pride go together!

15 Wherefore the anger of the LORD was kindled against Amaziah, and he sent unto him a prophet, which said unto him, Why hast thou sought after ^athe gods of the people, which ^bcould not deliver their own people out of thine hand?

16 And it came to pass, as he talked with him, that the king said unto him, ¹Art thou made of the king's counsel? ²forbear; why shouldst thou be ³smitten? Then the prophet forbore, and said, I know that God hath ^adetermined to destroy thee, because thou hast done this, and hast not hearkened unto my ⁴counsel.

Israel's Victory Over Judah

17 Then ^aAmaziah king of Judah took advice, and sent to ¹Joash, the son of Jehoahaz, the son of Jehu, king of Israel, saying, Come, let us ²see one another in the face.

18 And Joash king of Israel sent to Amaziah king of Judah, saying, The thistle that was in Lebanon sent to the cedar that was in Lebanon, saying, Give thy daughter to my son to wife: and there passed by a wild beast that was in Lebanon, and ¹trode down the thistle.

19 Thou sayest, Lo, thou hast ¹smitten the Edomites; and thine heart lifteth thee up to ^aboast: abide now at home; why shouldst thou meddle ²to thine hurt, that thou shouldst fall, even thou, and Judah with thee?

20 But Amaziah would not hear; for ^ait came of God, that he might deliver them into the hand of their enemies, because they ^bsought after the gods of Edom.

21 So Joash the king of Israel went up; and they ¹saw one another in the face, both he and Amaziah king of Judah, at ^aBeth-shemesh, which belongeth to Judah.

24 And he took all the gold and the silver, and all the vessels that were found in the house of God with ^aObed-edom, and the treasures of the king's house, the hostages also, and returned to Samaria.

Amaziah's Death

25 ^aAnd Amaziah the son of Joash king of Judah lived after the death of Joash son of Jehoahaz king of Israel fifteen years.

26 Now the rest of the acts of Amaziah, first and last, behold, are they not written in the book of the kings of Judah and Israel?

27 Now after the time that Amaziah did turn away from following the LORD they made a conspiracy against him in Jerusalem; and he fled to Lachish: but they sent to Lachish after him, and slew him there.

28 And they brought him upon horses, and buried him with his fathers in the city of ¹Judah.

7 And God helped him against the Philistines, and against the Arabians that dwelt in Gur-baal, and the Mehunims.

Uzziah's Greatness

8 And the Ammonites gave gifts to Uzziah: and his name spread abroad even to the entering in of Egypt; for he strengthened himself exceedingly.

9 Moreover Uzziah built towers in Jerusalem at the corner gate, and at the valley gate, and at the turning of the wall, and fortified them.

10 Also he built towers in the desert, and digged many wells: for he had much cattle, both in the low country, and in the plains: husbandmen also, and vine dressers in the mountains, and in Carmel: for he loved husbandry.

11 Moreover Uzziah had an host of fighting men, that went out to war by bands, according to the number of their account by the hand of Jeiel the scribe and Maaseiah the ruler, under the hand of Hananiah, one of the king's captains.

12 The whole number of the chief of the fathers of the mighty men of valour were two thousand and six hundred.

13 And under their hand was an army, three hundred thousand and seven thousand and five hundred, that made war with mighty power, to help the king against the enemy.

14 And Uzziah prepared for them throughout all the host shields, and spears, and helmets, and habergeons, and bows, and slings to cast stones.

15 And he made in Jerusalem engines, invented by cunning men, to be on the towers and upon the bulwarks, to shoot arrows and great stones withal. And his name spread far abroad; for he was marvellously helped, till he was strong.

Uzziah's Sin

16 But when he was strong, his heart was lifted up to his destruction: for he transgressed against the LORD his God, and went into the temple of the LORD to burn incense upon the altar of incense.

17 And Azariah the priest went in after him, and with him fourscore priests of the LORD, that were valiant men:

18 And they withstood Uzziah the king, and said unto him, It appertaineth not unto thee, Uzziah, to burn incense unto the LORD, but to the priests the sons of Aaron, that are consecrated to burn incense: go out of the sanctuary; for thou hast trespassed; neither shall it be for thine honour from the LORD God.

19 Then Uzziah was wroth, and had a censer in his hand to burn incense: and while he was wroth with the priests, the leprosy even rose up in his forehead before the priests in the house of the LORD, from beside the incense altar.

20 And Azariah the chief priest, and all the priests, looked upon him, and, behold, he was leprous in his forehead, and they thrust him out from thence; yea, himself hastened also to go out, because the LORD had smitten him.

Uzziah's Death

21 And Uzziah the king was a leper unto the day of his death, and dwelt in a several house, being a leper; for he was cut off from the house of the LORD: and Jotham his son was over the king's house, judging the people of the land.

26:16. See the note on 25:14-19.

26:17-19. This passage illustrates the truth that although the believer should obey (Matt. 22:21) and support the legally constituted government (1 Pet.

2:13-17) and even pray for governmental leadership (1 Tim. 2:1-3), where rulers violate the law of God, the believer is to stand for God. No man is above the law of the land or the law of God.

22 Now the rest of the acts of Uzziah, first and last, did ^aIsaiah the prophet, the son of Amoz, write.

23 ^aSo Uzziah ¹slept with his fathers, and they buried him with his fathers in the field of the burial which belonged to the kings; for they said, He is a leper: and Jotham his son reigned in his stead.

Jotham's Reign

27 Jotham ^awas twenty and five years old when he began to reign, and he reigned sixteen years in Jerusalem. His mother's name also was ¹Jerushah, the daughter of Zadok.

2 And he did that which was right in the sight of the LORD, according to all that his father Uzziah did: howbeit he entered not into the temple of the LORD. And ^athe people did yet corruptly.

3 He built the ¹high gate of the house of the LORD, and on the wall of ^aOphel he built much.

4 Moreover he built cities in the mountains of Judah, and in the forstes he built ¹castles and towers.

5 He fought also with the king of the ^aAmmonites, and prevailed against them. And the children of Ammon gave him the same year an hundred talents of silver, and ten thousand measures of wheat, and ten thousand of barley. ¹So much did the children of Ammon pay unto him, both the second year, and the third.

6 So Jotham became mighty, ^abecause he prepared his ways before the LORD his God.

7 Now the rest of the acts of Jotham, and all his wars, and his ways, lo, they are written in the book of the kings of Israel and Judah.

8 He was five and twenty years old when he began to reign, and reigned sixteen years in Jerusalem.

9 ^aAnd Jotham ¹slept with his fathers, and they buried him in the city of David: and ^bAhaz his son reigned in his stead.

Ahaz's Reign

28 Ahaz ^awas twenty years old when he began to reign, and he reigned sixteen years in Jerusalem: but he did not that which was right in the sight of the LORD, like David his father:

2 For he walked in the ways of the kings of Israel, and made also ^amolten images for ^bBaalim.

3 Moreover he burnt incense in ^athe valley of the son of Hinnom, and burnt ^bhis children in the ^cfire, after the abominations of the heathen whom the LORD had ^dcast out before the children of Israel.

4 He sacrificed also and burnt incense in the ¹high places, and on the hills, and under every green tree.

The Defeat of Judah

5 Wherefore ^athe LORD his God delivered him into the hand of the king of Syria; and they ^bsmote¹ him, and carried away a great multitude of them captives, and brought them to Damascus. And he was also delivered into the hand of the king of Israel, who ²smote him with a great slaughter.

6 For ^aPekah the son of Remaliah slew in Judah an hundred and twenty thousand in one day, which were all valiant men; ^bbecause they had forsaken the LORD God of their fathers.

27:5. Jotham's Ammonite campaign is not recorded by the author of 2 Kings.

27:6. Jotham did not duplicate the foolish pride of his father (cf. v. 2), but found his success in spiritual things. The heart that is prepared ... before the LORD is the soil in which God's mighty acts can be grown.

28:2. See the notes on Judges 2:11–15 and 2 Kings 15:37.

28:3. See the note on 2 Kings 16:3, 4. The heinous Molech sacrifices were carried out in a sacred enclosure (or tophet) in the valley of the son of Hinnom.

Although the reforms of Josiah would bring an end to these sinister rituals (cf. 2 Kin. 23:10), the valley's wicked reputation and its later use as a dump for burning refuse gave rise to the use of its name as the name of the place of final punishment for the unbeliever (i.e., ge hinnom—Gk. Gehenna; cf. Matt. 5:22; 10:28; 13:42, 50; 18:9; 23:15, 33; 25:41; Mark 9:43; Rev. 19:20; 20:14, 15).

28:6. See the note on 2 Kings 15:29, 30. The details of verses 7 and 8 are not recorded by the author of Kings, nor is the intercession of the prophet Oded to the king of the northern kingdom (vv. 9–15).

8 And the children of Israel carried away captive of their ^abrethren two hundred thousand, women, sons, and daughters, and took also away much ¹spoil from them, and brought the spoil to Samaria.

The Captives Returned

9 But a ^aprophet of the LORD was there, whose name was Oded: and he went out before the host that came to Samaria, and said unto them, Behold, ^bbecause the LORD God of your fathers was ¹wroth with Judah, he hath delivered them into your hand, and ye have slain them in a rage that ^creacheth up unto heaven.

10 And now ye purpose to ¹keep under the children of Judah and Jerusalem for ^abondmen² and ³bondwomen unto you: but ⁴are there not with you, even with you, sins against the LORD your God?

11 Now hear me therefore, and deliver the captives again, which ye have taken captive of your brethren: “for the fierce wrath of the LORD is upon you.

12 Then certain of the heads of the children of Ephraim, Azariah the son of Johanan, Berechiah the son of Meshillemoth, and Jehizkiah the son of Shallum, and Amasa the son of Hadlai, stood up against them that came from the war,

13 And said unto them, Ye shall not bring in the captives hither: for whereas we have offended against the LORD already, ye intend to add more to our sins and to our trespass: for our trespass is great, and there is fierce wrath against Israel.

Judah's Defeats

16 ^aAt that time did king Ahaz send unto the kings of Assyria to help him.

17 For again the ^aEdomites had come and ¹smitten Judah, and carried away captives.

18 ^aThe Philistines also had invaded the cities of the low country, and of the south of Judah, and had taken Beth-shemesh, and Ajalon, and Gederoth, and Shocho with the villages thereof, and Timnah with the villages thereof, Gimzo also and the villages thereof: and they dwelt there.

19 For the LORD ¹brought Judah low because of Ahaz king of ^aIsrael; for he ^bmade Judah naked, and transgressed ²sore against the LORD.

23 For ^ahe sacrificed unto the gods of Damascus, which ¹smote him: and he said, Because the gods of the kings of Syria help them, therefore will I sacrifice to them, that ^bthey may help me. But they were the ruin of him, and of all Israel.

12 Then the Levites arose, ^aMathath the son of Amasai, and Joel the son of Azariah, of the sons of the ^bKohathites: and of the sons of Merari, Kish the son of Abdi, and Azariah the son of Jehalelel: and of the Gershonites; Joah the son of Zimamah, and Eden the son of Joah:

15 And they gathered their brethren, and ^asanctified¹ themselves, and came, according to the commandment of the king, ²by the words of the LORD, ^bto cleanse the house of the LORD.

The Temple Cleansed and Sanctified

16 And the priests went into the inner part of the house of the LORD,

29:2. Hezekiah is commended for his godly faith and trust in the LORD (cf. 31:20, 21). See the note on 2 Kings 18:5.

29:3. Hezekiah's deep spiritual concern is seen in the record of revival that follows. Hezekiah's reforms included: cleansing the temple of all of the pagan innovations of Ahaz and the restoration of the proper articles of worship (vv. 1-19; cf. 30:14; 31:1), rededicating the temple (vv. 20-36), the reinstatement of the Passover (ch. 30), removing idolatry throughout the land (31:1), and appointing priests and Levites (31:2-19).

to cleanse it, and brought out all the ¹uncleanness that they found in the temple of the LORD into the court of the house of the LORD. And the Levites took it, to carry it out abroad into the brook ^aKidron.

17 Now they began on the first day of the first month to ¹sanctify, and on the eighth day of the month came they to the porch of the LORD: so they sanctified the house of the LORD in eight days; and in the sixteenth day of the first month they made an end.

18 Then they went in to Hezekiah the king, and said, We have cleansed all the house of the LORD, and the altar of burnt offering, with all the vessels thereof, and the shewbread table, with all the vessels thereof.

19 Moreover all the vessels, which king Ahaz in his reign did ^acast ¹away in his transgression, have we prepared and ²sanctified, and, behold, they are before the altar of the LORD.

An Atonement for Israel

20 Then Hezekiah the king rose early, and gathered the rulers of the city, and went up to the house of the LORD.

21 And they brought seven bullocks, and seven rams, and seven lambs, and seven he goats, for a ^asin offering for the kingdom, and for the sanctuary, and for Judah. And he commanded the priests the sons of Aaron to offer them on the altar of the LORD.

22 So they killed the bullocks, and the priests received the blood, and ^asprinkled it on the altar: likewise, when they had killed the rams, they sprinkled the blood upon the altar: they killed also the lambs, and they sprinkled the blood upon the altar.

23 And they brought forth the he goats for the sin offering before the king and the congregation; and they laid their ^ahands upon them:

24 And the priests killed them, and they ¹made reconciliation with their blood upon the altar, ^ato make an atonement for all Israel: for the king commanded that the burnt offering and the sin offering should be made for all Israel.

25 ^aAnd he set the Levites in the house of the LORD with cymbals, with ¹psalteries, and with harps, ^baccording to the commandment of David, and of ^cGad the king's seer, and Nathan the prophet: ^dfor so was the commandment of the LORD by his prophets.

26 And the Levites stood with the instruments ^aof David, and the priests with ^bthe trumpets.

27 And Hezekiah commanded to offer the burnt offering upon the altar. And when the burnt offering began, ^athe song of the LORD began also with the trumpets, and with the instruments ordained by David king of Israel.

28 And all the congregation worshipped, and the singers sang, and the trumpeters sounded: and all this continued until the burnt offering was finished.

29 And when they had made an end of offering, ^athe king and all that were present with him bowed themselves, and worshipped.

30 Moreover Hezekiah the king and the princes commanded the Levites to sing praise unto the LORD with the words of David, and of Asaph the seer. And they sang praises with gladness, and they bowed their heads and worshipped.

31 Then Hezekiah answered and said, Now ye have consecrated yourselves unto the LORD, come near and bring sacrifices and ^athank offerings into the house of the LORD. And the congregation brought in sacrifices and thank offerings; and as many as were of a ^bfree heart burnt offerings.

29:19. For details of Ahaz's apostate worship, see the notes on 2 Kings 16:3, 4 and 16:11-16.

29:20. In the original dedication of the temple, the service was accompanied by the offering of sacrifices (cf. 1 Kin. 8:62-65). So the rededication in Hezekiah's time also emphasized the need for offering sacrifices that expressed Judah's repentance and renewal of the heart's joyful commitment to God: the sin offering (vv. 20-24), the burnt offering (vv. 32-34), and the peace and drink offerings (v. 35).

29:25. For the importance of music in the worship services, see the note on 1 Chronicles 6:31-48.

32 And the number of the burnt offerings, which the congregation brought, was threescore and ten bullocks, an hundred rams, and two hundred lambs: all these were for a burnt offering to the LORD.

33 And the consecrated things were six hundred oxen and three thousand sheep.

34 But the priests were too few, so that they could not ¹flay all the burnt offerings: wherefore ^atheir brethren the Levites did help them, till the work was ended, and until the other priests had ²sanctified themselves: ^bfor the Levites were more ^cupright³ in heart to ^dsanctify themselves than the priests.

35 And also the burnt offerings were in abundance, with ^athe fat of the peace offerings, and ^bthe drink offerings for every burnt offering. So the service of the house of the LORD was set in order.

36 And Hezekiah rejoiced, and all the people, that God had prepared the people: for the thing was done suddenly.

Hezekiah's Proclamation

30 And Hezekiah sent to all Israel and Judah, and wrote letters also to Ephraim and Manasseh, that they should come to the house of the LORD at Jerusalem, to keep the passover unto the LORD God of Israel.

2 For the king had taken counsel, and his princes, and all the congregation in Jerusalem, to keep the passover in the second ^amonth.

3 For they could not keep it ^aat that time, ^bbecause ¹the priests had not sanctified themselves sufficiently, neither had the people gathered themselves together to Jerusalem.

4 And the thing pleased the king and all the congregation.

5 So they established a decree to make proclamation throughout all Israel, from Beer-sheba even to Dan, that they should come to keep the passover unto the LORD God of Israel at Jerusalem: for they had not done it of a long time in such sort as it was written.

6 So the ^aposts¹ went with the letters from the king and his princes throughout all Israel and Judah, and according to the commandment of the king, saying, Ye children of Israel, ^bturn again unto the LORD God of Abraham, Isaac, and Israel, and he will return to the remnant of you, that are escaped out of the hand of ^cthe kings of ^dAssyria.

7 And be not ye ^alike your fathers, and like your brethren, which trespassed against the LORD God of their fathers, who therefore ^bgave them up to ^cdesolation, as ye see.

8 Now be ye not ^astiffnecked,¹ as your fathers were, but yield yourselves unto the LORD, and enter into his sanctuary, which he hath sanctified for ever: and serve the LORD your God, ^bthat the fierceness of his wrath may turn away from you.

9 For if ye turn again unto the LORD, your brethren and your children shall find ^acompassion before them that lead them captive, so that they shall come again into this land: for the LORD your God is ^bgracious and merciful, and will not turn away his face from you, if ye ^creturn unto him.

10 So the ¹posts passed from city to city through the country of Ephraim and Manasseh even unto Zebulun: but ^athey laughed them to scorn, and mocked them.

11 Nevertheless ^adivers of Asher and Manasseh and of Zebulun humbled themselves, and came to Jerusalem.

12 Also in Judah ^athe hand of God was to give them ¹one heart to do the commandment of the king and of the princes, ^bby the word of the LORD.

Passover Observed

13 And there assembled at Jerusalem much people to keep the feast

30:1. Hezekiah's spiritual concern was communicated to all Israel (vv. 2-10). It met with a good response in many sections of the country (vv. 11, 12).

of ^aunleavened bread in the second month, a very great congregation.

14 And they arose and took away the ^aaltars that were in Jerusalem, and all the altars for incense took they away, and cast them into the brook ^bKidron.

15 Then they ¹killed the passover on the fourteenth day of the second month: and the priests and the Levites were ^aashamed, and ²sanctified themselves, and brought in the burnt offerings into the house of the LORD.

16 And they stood in their ^aplace ¹after their manner, according to the law of Moses the man of God: the priests sprinkled the blood, which they received of the hand of the Levites.

God Sanctifies the People

17 For there were many in the congregation that ¹were not sanctified: ^atherefore the Levites had the charge of the killing of the passovers for every one that was not clean, to sanctify them unto the LORD.

18 For a multitude of the people, even ^amany of Ephraim, and Manasseh, Issachar, and Zebulun, had not ¹cleansed themselves, ^byet did they eat the passover otherwise than it was written. But Hezekiah prayed for them, saying, The good LORD pardon every one

19 That ^aprepareth his heart to seek God, the LORD God of his fathers, though he be not cleansed according to the purification of the sanctuary.

20 And the LORD hearkened to Hezekiah, and healed the people.

21 And the children of Israel that were present at Jerusalem kept ^athe feast of unleavened bread seven days with great gladness: and the Levites and the priests praised the LORD day by day, singing with loud instruments unto the LORD.

22 And Hezekiah ¹spoke comfortably unto all the Levites ^athat taught the good knowledge of the LORD: and they did eat throughout the feast seven days, offering peace offerings, and ^bmaking confession to the LORD God of their fathers.

23 And the whole assembly ¹took counsel to keep ^aother seven days: and they kept other seven days with gladness.

24 For Hezekiah king of Judah ^adid give to the congregation a thousand bullocks and seven thousand sheep; and the princes gave to the congregation a thousand bullocks and ten thousand sheep: and a great number of priests ^bsanctified¹ themselves.

25 And all the congregation of Judah, with the priests and the Levites, and all the congregation that came out of Israel, and the ¹strangers ^athat came out of the land of Israel, and that dwelt in Judah, rejoiced.

26 So there was great joy in Jerusalem: for since the time of ^aSolomon the son of David king of Israel there was not the like in Jerusalem.

27 Then the priests the Levites arose and ^ablessed the people: and their voice was heard, and their prayer came up to ^bhis holy dwelling place, even unto heaven.

High Places Destroyed

31 Now when all this was finished, all Israel that were present went out to the cities of Judah, and ^abrake the ¹images in pieces, and cut down the ²groves, and threw down the ³high places and the altars out of all Judah and Benjamin, in Ephraim also and Manasseh, until they had utterly destroyed them all. Then all the children of Israel returned, every man to his possession, into their own cities.

30:17-20. Although many had not had the opportunity to observe the strict regulations concerning the passover, their hearts were right before God. Thus, they found full acceptance with Him. The urgency of the occasion took precedence over mere ritual (cf. Ps. 40:6-8; Is. 1:11-20; Mic. 6:6-8).

30:23. The extended time for the observance of the Feast of Unleavened Bread gave adequate time for the reconsecration of the temple. Genuine worship is an occasion for true joy (v. 26).

31:1. See the note on Judges 3:6, 7.

2 And Hezekiah appointed ^athe ¹courses of the priests and the Levites after their courses, and the Levites after their courses, every man according to his service, the priests and Levites ^bfor burnt offerings and for peace offerings, to minister, and to give thanks, and to praise in the gates of the ²tents of the LORD.

3 ¹He appointed also the king's portion of his ^asubstance for the burnt offerings, to wit, for the morning and evening burnt offerings, and the burnt offerings for the sabbaths, and for the new moons, and for the set feasts, as it is written in the ^blaw of the LORD.

7 In the third month they began to ¹lay the foundation of the heaps, and finished them in the seventh month.

Assyria Invades Judah

32 After ^athese things, and ¹the establishment thereof, Sennacherib king of Assyria came, and entered into Judah, and encamped against the ²fenced cities, and thought to win them for himself.

32:1. The author of Kings reports that Hezekiah's trust in the Lord had been rewarded with good success for his nation (2 Kin. 18:5-7). As examples of that success in political affairs, he mentions victory over the Philistines (2 Kin. 18:8), an event that brought on an invasion by Sennacherib king of Assyria (2 Kin. 18:13-16). Hezekiah's preparations for an Assyrian attack against Jerusalem involved military 32:1 Sennacherib ruled as King of Assyria from 705-681 B.C. Following a two year campaign to regain control of Babylon (704-702 B.C.), in 701 B.C. he launched an assault on the fortified cities of Judah but failed to take Jerusalem (Isa. 37: 35-38). The record of his exploits are recorded on the Taylor prism, now located in the British museum. The cuneiform inscribed monument indicates he trapped Hezekiah of Judah "like a bird in a cage," but gives no indication of actually conquering Jerusalem. He was later assassinated by two of his sons and succeeded by his younger son Esar-haddon.

2 And when Hezekiah saw that Sennacherib was come, and that he was purposed to fight against Jerusalem,

3 He took counsel with his princes and his mighty men to stop the waters of the ¹fountains which were ²without the city: and they did help him.

4 So there was gathered much people together, who stopped all the ^afountains,¹ and the brook that ran through the midst of the land, saying, Why should the kings of Assyria come, and find much water?

5 Also ^ahe strengthened himself, ^band built up all the wall that was broken, and raised it up to the towers, and another wall ¹without, and repaired ^aMillo in the city of David, and made ²darts and shields in abundance.

6 And he set captains of war over the people, and gathered them together to him in the street of the gate of the city, and spake ^acomfortably¹ to them, saying,

7 ^aBe strong and courageous, ^bbe not afraid nor dismayed for the king of Assyria, nor for all the multitude that is with him: for ^c*there be* more with us than with him:

8 With him is an ^aarm of flesh; but ^bwith us is the LORD our God to help us, and to fight our battles. And the people ¹rested themselves upon the words of Hezekiah king of Judah.

9 ^aAfter this did Sennacherib king of Assyria send his servants to Jerusalem, (but he himself laid siege against Lachish, and all his ¹power with him,) unto Hezekiah king of Judah, and unto all Judah that were at Jerusalem, saying,

10 ^aThus saith Sennacherib king of Assyria, Whereon do ye trust, that ye abide in the siege in Jerusalem?

11 Doth not Hezekiah persuade you to give over yourselves to die by famine and by thirst, saying, ^aThe LORD our God shall deliver us out of the hand of the king of Assyria?

15 Now therefore ^alet not Hezekiah deceive you, nor persuade you on this manner, neither yet believe him: for no god of any nation or kingdom was able to deliver his people out of mine hand, and out of the hand of my fathers: how much less shall your God deliver you out of mine hand?

16 And his servants spake yet more against the LORD God, and against his servant Hezekiah.

The Assyrian Army Destroyed

21 ^aAnd the LORD sent an angel, which cut off all the mighty men of valour, and the leaders and captains in the camp of the king of Assyria. So he returned with ^bshame of face to his own land. And when he was come into the house of his god, ¹they that came forth of his own bowels slew him there with the sword.

22 Thus the LORD saved Hezekiah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem from the hand of Sennacherib the king of Assyria, and from the hand of all other; and guided them on every side.

23 And many brought gifts unto the LORD to Jerusalem, and ^apresent¹ to Hezekiah king of Judah: so that he was ^bmagnified² in the sight of all nations from thenceforth.

Hezekiah's Life Extended

24 ^aIn those days Hezekiah was sick to the death, and prayed unto the LORD: and he spake unto him, and he gave him a sign.

25 But Hezekiah ^arendered¹ not again according to the benefit done unto him; for ^bhis heart was lifted up: ^ctherefore there was wrath upon him, and upon Judah and Jerusalem.

26 ^aNotwithstanding Hezekiah humbled himself for the pride of his heart, both he and the inhabitants of Jerusalem, so that the wrath of the LORD came not upon them ^bin the days of Hezekiah.

4 Also he built altars in the house of the LORD, whereof the LORD had said, ^aIn Jerusalem shall my name be for ever.

5 And he built altars for all the host of heaven ^ain the two courts of the house of the LORD.

6 ^aAnd he caused his children to pass through the fire in the valley of the son of Hinnom: also he ¹observed times, and used ^benchantedments,² and used ³witchcraft, and ^cdealt⁴ with a familiar spirit, and with ⁵wizards: he wrought much evil in the sight of the LORD, to provoke him to anger.

7 And ^ahe set a carved image, the idol which he had made, in the ¹house of God, of which God had said to David and to Solomon his son, In ^bthis house, and in Jerusalem, which I have chosen before all the tribes of Israel, will I put my name for ever:

8 ^aNeither will I any more remove the foot of Israel from out of the land which I have appointed for your fathers; so that they will take heed to do all that I have commanded them, according to the whole law and the statutes and the ordinances by the hand of Moses.

9 So Manasseh made Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem to err, and to do worse than the heathen, whom the LORD had destroyed before the children of Israel.

10 And the LORD spake to Manasseh, and to his people: but they would not ¹hearken.

11 ^aWherefore the LORD brought upon them the captains of the host of the king of Assyria, which took Manasseh ¹among the thorns, and ^bbound him with ²fetters, and carried him to Babylon.

^ahumbled himself greatly before the God of his fathers,

13 And prayed unto him: and he was ^aintreated of him, and heard his supplication, and brought him again to Jerusalem into his kingdom. Then Manasseh ^bknew that the LORD he was God.

Manasseh Repairs the Altar

14 Now after this he built a wall ¹without the city of David, on the west side of ^aGihon, in the valley, even to the entering in at the fish gate, and compassed ^babout Ophel, and raised it up a very great height, and put captains of war in all the ²fenced cities of Judah.

15 And he took away ^athe ¹strange gods, and the idol out of the house of the LORD, and all the altars that he had built in the mount of the house of the LORD, and in Jerusalem, and cast them out of the city.

16 And he repaired the altar of the LORD, and sacrificed thereon peace offerings and ^athank offerings, and commanded Judah to serve the LORD God of Israel.

17 ^aNevertheless the people did sacrifice still in the ¹high places, yet unto the LORD their God only.

Manasseh's Death

18 Now the rest of the acts of Manasseh, and his prayer unto his God, and the words of ^athe seers that spake to him in the name of the LORD God of Israel, behold, they are written in the ¹book of the kings of Israel.

19 His prayer also, and how God was intreated of him, and all his sin, and his trespass, and the places wherein he built ¹high places, and set up ²groves and ³graven images, before he was humbled: behold, they are written among the sayings of ⁴the seers.

20 ^aSo Manasseh ¹slept with his fathers, and they buried him in his own house: and Amon his son reigned in his stead.

33:11. See the note on 2 Kings 21:17.

33:18. As for other acts, verses 13–16 became the basis for the later Jewish apocryphal book The Prayer of Manasseh.

Amon's Reign and Death

21 ^aAmon was two and twenty years old when he began to reign, and reigned two years in Jerusalem.

22 But he did that which was evil in the sight of the LORD, as did Manasseh his father: for Amon sacrificed unto all the carved images which Manasseh his father had made, and served them;

23 And humbled not himself before the LORD, ^aas Manasseh his father had humbled himself; but Amon trespassed more and more.

24 ^aAnd his servants conspired against him, and ^bslew him in his own house.

25 But the people of the land slew all them that had conspired against king Amon; and the people of the land made Josiah his son king in his stead.

Josiah's Reign

34 Josiah ^awas eight years old when he began to reign, and he reigned in Jerusalem one and thirty years.

2 And he did that which was right in the sight of the LORD, and walked in the ways of David his father, and ¹declined neither to the right hand, nor to the left.

LOST BOOKS

33:19. There are at least a dozen books cited in Scripture that are not part of our Bible, including the Book of Jasher (Josh. 10:13; 2 Sam. 1:18); the Book of the Acts of Solomon (1 Kin. 11:41); the Prophecy of Ahijah the Shilonite, the Visions of Iddo the Seer, the Book of Nathan the Prophet (9:29); the Book of Gad the Seer (1 Chr. 29:29); the Book of Shemaiah the Prophet (12:15); the Acts of Uzziah (26:22); the Sayings of the Seers (33:19); epistles of Paul to the Corinthians (1 Cor. 5:9) and the Laodiceans (Col. 4:16); the Book of Enoch (Jude 14); an epistle of John (3 John 9); and probably other accounts of Jesus' life (Luke 1:1, 2). These are sometimes erroneously referred to as the "lost books of Scripture." Illustration: There is no indication that any of these nonbiblical books were inspired. The doctrine of preservation argues that inspired books providentially survived, implying that the lost books were not inspired. They may have recorded interesting background to the inspired record of God, but they were not Scripture. Application: Christians do not need to be concerned about missing portions of their Bible, since Scripture is complete with 66 books. (First Reference, Josh. 10:13; Primary Reference, 2 Chr. 33:19; cf. Gal. 6:16.)

hand of Manasseh and Ephraim, and of all the ^bremnant of Israel, and of all Judah and Benjamin; and they returned to Jerusalem.

10 And they put it in the hand of the workmen that had the oversight of the house of the LORD, and they gave it to the workmen that wrought in the house of the LORD, to repair and ¹amend the house:

11 Even to the ¹artificers and builders gave they it, to buy hewn stone, and timber for ²couplings, and to floor the houses which the kings of Judah had destroyed.

12 And the men did the work faithfully: and the overseers of them were Jahath and Obadiah, the Levites, of the sons of Merari; and Zechariah and Meshullam, of the sons of the Kohathites, to set it forward; and other of the Levites, all that ¹could skill of instruments of musick.

13 Also they were ^aover the bearers of burdens, and were overseers of all that wrought the work in any manner of service: ^band of the Levites there were scribes, and officers, and porters.

The Law Read to the King

14 And when they brought out the money that was brought into the house of the LORD, Hilkiyah the priest ^afound a book of the law of the LORD given by Moses.

15 And Hilkiyah answered and said to Shaphan the scribe, I have found the book of the law in the house of the LORD. And Hilkiyah delivered the ^abook to Shaphan.

16 And Shaphan carried the book to the king, and brought the king word back again, saying, All that was committed to thy servants, they do it.

17 And they have ¹gathered together the money that was found in the house of the LORD, and have delivered it into the hand of the overseers, and to the hand of the workmen.

God's Covenant Renewed

29 ^aThen the king sent and gathered together all the elders of Judah and Jerusalem.

30 And the king went up into the house of the LORD, and all the men of Judah, and the inhabitants of Jerusalem, and the priests, and the Levites, and all the people, great and small; and he ^aread in their ears all the words of the book of the covenant that was found in the house of the LORD.

31 And the king ^astood in ^bhis place, and made a ^ccovenant before the LORD, to walk after the LORD, and to keep his commandments, and his testimonies, and his statutes, with all his heart, and with all his soul, to perform the words of the covenant which are written in this book.

32 And he caused all that were present in Jerusalem and Benjamin to ¹stand to it. And the inhabitants of Jerusalem did according to the covenant of God, the God of their fathers.

33 And Josiah took away all the ^aabominations out of all the countries that pertained to the children of Israel, and made all that were present in Israel to serve, even to serve the LORD their God. ^bAnd all his days they departed not from following the LORD, the God of their fathers.

6 So kill the passover, and ^asanctify¹ yourselves, and prepare your brethren, that they may do according to the word of the LORD by the hand of Moses.

Passover Preparations

7 And Josiah ^agave to the people, of the flock, lambs and kids, all for the passover offerings, for all that were present, to the number of thirty thousand, and three thousand bullocks: these were of the king's ^bsubstance.¹

8 And his ^aprinces gave willingly unto the people, to the priests, and to the Levites: Hilkiah and Zechariah and Jehiel, rulers of the house of God, gave unto the priests for the passover offerings two thousand and six hundred small cattle, and three hundred oxen.

9 ^aConaniah also, and Shemaiah and Nethaneel, his brethren, and Hashabiah and Jeiel and Jozabad, chief of the Levites, gave unto the Levites for passover offerings five thousand small cattle, and five hundred oxen.

10 So the service was prepared, and the priests ^astood in their place, and the ^bLevites in their courses, according to the king's commandment.

11 And they killed the passover, and the priests ^asprinkled the blood from their hands, and the Levites ^bflayed¹ them.

12 And they removed the burnt offerings, that they might give according to the divisions of the families of the people, to offer unto the LORD, as it is written ^ain the book of Moses. And so did they with the oxen.

13 And they ^aroasted the passover with fire according to the ¹ordinance: but the other holy offerings ^bsod² they in pots, and in caldrons, and in pans, and divided them speedily among all the people.

14 And afterward they made ready for themselves, and for the priests: because the priests the sons of Aaron were busied in offering of burnt offerings and the fat until night; therefore the Levites prepared for themselves, and for the priests the sons of Aaron.

15 And the singers the sons of Asaph were in their place, according to the ^acommandment of David, and Asaph, and Heman, and Jeduthun the king's seer; and the ¹porters ^bwaited at every gate; they might not depart from their service; for their brethren the Levites prepared for them.

16 So all the service of the LORD was prepared the same day, to keep the passover, and to offer burnt offerings upon the altar of the LORD, according to the commandment of king Josiah.

17 And the children of Israel that were present kept the passover at that time, and the feast of ^aunleavened bread seven days.

18 And ^athere was no passover like to that kept in Israel from the days of Samuel the prophet; neither did all the kings of Israel keep such a passover as Josiah kept, and the priests, and the Levites, and all Judah and Israel that were present, and the inhabitants of Jerusalem.

Josiah Wounded in Battle and Dies

20 ^aAfter all this, when Josiah had prepared the temple, Necho king of Egypt came up to fight against ^bCharchemish by Euphrates: and Josiah went out against him.

21 But he sent ambassadors to him, saying, What have I to do with thee, thou king of Judah? I come not against thee this day, but against ¹the house wherewith I have war: for God commanded me to make haste: forbear thee from meddling with God, who is with me, that he destroy thee not.

22 Nevertheless Josiah would not turn his face from him, but ^adisguised himself, that he might fight with him, and hearkened not unto the words of Necho from the mouth of God, and came to fight in the valley of Megiddo.

23 And the archers shot at king Josiah; and the king said to his servants, ¹Have me away; for I am ²sore wounded.

24 ^aHis servants therefore took him out of that chariot, and put him in the second chariot that he had; and they brought him to Jerusalem, and he died, and was buried in one of the sepulchres of his fathers. And ^ball Judah and Jerusalem mourned for Josiah.

25 And Jeremiah ^alamented for ^bJosiah: and ^call the singing men and the singing women spake of Josiah in their lamentations to this day, ^dand made them an ordinance in Israel: and, behold, they are written in the lamentations.

26 Now the rest of the acts of Josiah, and his goodness, according to that which was written in the law of the LORD,

Jehoahaz's Reign and Captivity

36 Then ^athe people of the land took Jehoahaz the son of Josiah, and made him king in his father's stead in Jerusalem.

2 Jehoahaz was twenty and three years old when he began to reign, and he reigned three months in Jerusalem.

3 And the king of Egypt ¹put him down at Jerusalem, and ²condemned the land in an hundred talents of silver and a talent of gold.

4 And the king of Egypt made Eliakim his brother king over Judah and Jerusalem, and turned his name to Jehoiakim. And Necho took ¹Jehoahaz his brother, and carried him to Egypt.

Jehoiakim's Reign

5 ^aJehoiakim was twenty and five years old when he began to reign, and he reigned eleven years in Jerusalem: and he did that which was ^bevil in the sight of the LORD his God.

6 ^aAgainst him came up Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon, and bound him in ¹fetters, to ^bcarry him to Babylon.

7 ^aNebuchadnezzar also carried of the vessels of the house of the LORD to Babylon, and put them in his temple at Babylon.

8 Now the rest of the acts of Jehoiakim, and his abominations which he did, and that which was found in him, behold, they are written in the book of the kings of Israel and Judah: and ¹Jehoiachin his son reigned in his stead.

ancient versions, and 2 Kings 24:8 record his age as 18, probably the correct figure. The age given in 36:9 was probably miscopied.

36:22, 23. The chronicler ends his record on a note of hope (cf. Ezra 1:1–3). God's present time of punishment for Israel and Judah had run its course (cf. Jer. 25:11–14; 29:10–14; Dan. 9:1, 2), and in accordance with his prophetic promise (cf. Is. 41:2; 44:28–45:4) the King of Persia named Cyrus (Cyrus II, 559–529 B.C.) issued a decree for Israel's return from its exile (538 B.C.). The closing words of 2 Chronicles remind us that God is superintending the events of earth's history for His glory and mankind's good (cf. Job 12:23; Acts 17:26).

The Book of EZRA

The fall of Jerusalem and the Exile of the Jews had brought to an end the hopes placed in their nation-state and the national destiny, hopes fueled by the secure confidence that God had chosen Zion eternally as His earthly seat, and had unconditionally promised David an eternal dynasty (2 Sam. 7:14–16). The problem was that this theology had become separated from the demand for obedience to the covenant stipulations. The prophets provided the same approach that the awful end of the nation was God’s judgment for the nation’s sin and breaking of covenant obligations, but they also proclaimed a strong faith in God’s ultimate redemption. Out of this understanding and hope, and the benevolent policy of the Persians, the restoration of the nation was born, and a new community was begun in Palestine after Cyrus’s decree in 538 B.C. By the time Ezra (and Nehemiah) had completed their work toward the end of the third quarter of the following century, this community was firmly established both physically and religiously.

Through the work of Ezra and Nehemiah Israel’s new identity centered on the law and the temple. At this crucial time in the nation’s history, God’s redemptive acts forced Israel to focus on the form and content of religious life and practice. Thus in exile, Israel became more faithful to God’s law than ever before. The extreme neglect of the law in Israel’s life before the Exile is revealed in the incident of the finding of “the book of the law” during the renovation of the temple in Josiah’s eighteenth year (621 B.C.). After such a long period of disuse, its discovery provided the major impetus for Josiah’s reform. Such an event would have been utterly impossible in the postexilic period of Ezra and Nehemiah’s time.

The primary architect of Israel’s new identity was Ezra the priest, the “ready scribe in the law of Moses” (Ezra 7:6). Ezra’s royal commission authorized him “to enquire concerning Judah and Jerusalem, according to the law of thy God” (v. 14). In addition to bringing offerings from the court (vv. 15–20), Ezra had authority to appoint magistrates and judges (v. 25) and to invoke punishment on those who failed to comply (v. 26).

Several key themes revolve around the phrase “the hand of our God” (8:22) and include the idea of God’s being the Creator and Sustainer of “heaven, the heaven of heavens, with all their host” (Neh. 9:6): a strong emphasis on the covenant by which God had bound Himself to Israel, and His accompanying chesed (covenant-faithfulness); the thought of God’s working with as well as in His people; the emphasis upon the continuity of the people of God with historic Israel, whose identity was carried on by the remnant (Ezra 2:2b); and the idea of separation from the taints of heathenism.

There are three successive major concerns in the books of Ezra and Nehemiah: the temple, the law, and the wall. The community was priestly. As such, the people were called to offer worship, to be a people of the Book, and to rebuild the wall, which almost became a symbol of Israel’s separatism. Actually in Ezra and Nehemiah, the nation Israel is pictured as cut down almost to its roots, but drawing a new vitality from its neglected source of nourishment in the Mosaic Law.

Historical Setting. The setting of Ezra is the postexilic era when the faithful Israelites were returning from Babylon to Judah, so they could reestablish their temple worship. The temple and temple worship are vital subjects in all the books written during the postexilic period (1 and 2 Chronicles, Ezra, Nehemiah, Haggai, Zechariah, and Malachi). The people who returned to the Land of Promise were publicly acknowledging that they believed God would reestablish the nation and usher in a time of kingdom blessing.

There were three returns from Babylon to the land of Israel (538, 458, and 444 B.C.), just as there had been three deportations to Babylon (605, 597, and 586 B.C.). The first return was led by Zerubbabel (chs. 1–6; Haggai; Zechariah) in 538 B.C. The rebuilding of the temple was vital for this group. The second return was under Ezra (chs. 7–10) in 458 B.C. The people needed reforming; they needed to return to their covenant obligations. The third return was led by Nehemiah in 444 B.C.

Authorship. No direct indication of authorship has been preserved in the book itself, making it similar to other Old Testament writings in particular, and other ancient Near Eastern literature in general. The Talmud attributes 1 and 2 Chronicles as well as Ezra-Nehemiah to Ezra, but adds that the work was completed by Nehemiah. The overwhelming majority of modern scholars has agreed almost without question, that all of the above material, excluding the Nehemiah memoirs, was written by the same author-compiler, usually identified as “the chronicler.”

Internal evidence points to the fact that Ezra wrote the book, for in 7:27–9:15, the author refers to himself in the first person. He used various documents (4:7–16), genealogies (2:1–70), and personal memoirs (7:27–9:15) as his sources. He may have used Nehemiah’s library facilities and thus composed Chronicles during the same period. Ezra 7:10 records that he “had prepared his heart to seek the law of the LORD, and to do it, and to teach in Israel statutes and judgments.” This implies that he had spent a long time in preparation for the task, and it also supports the tradition making him almost a second Moses. Ezra’s primary title in the introduction to his memoirs (vv. 1–10) is “scribe”—which becomes the new designation for the spiritual leader of the community in this new era of its life. As a scribe, his primary task was the study and exposition of the law.

1 Now in the first year of Cyrus king of Persia, that the word of the LORD ^aby the mouth of Jeremiah might be fulfilled, the LORD stirred up the spirit of Cyrus king of Persia, ^bthat he made a proclamation throughout all his kingdom, and put it also in writing, saying,

1:1. The first year of Cyrus king of Persia: Cyrus conquered Babylon on October 12, 539 B.C. with his general Ugbaru. He entered Babylon himself on October 29, 539 B.C. Most likely the proclamation in this verse was given in 538 B.C. Cyrus was the great king of the empire revealed in Daniel 2:32 as the breast and arms of silver that would succeed the Babylonian Empire. (In Dan. 7:5 it is pictured as a bear, being raised up on one side, having three ribs in its mouth.) The proclamation of Cyrus fulfilled the prophecy given in Jeremiah 25:11–14 and 29:10. About two hundred years before, Isaiah had even called Cyrus by name (Is. 44:21–28; 45:1, 5), which motivated the liberal critics, who deny the possibility of supernatural revelation and predictive prophecy, to refer to the second part of Isaiah as “Deutero” Isaiah. The LORD stirred up the spirit of Cyrus: The Lord’s sovereignty is depicted in the “stirring up.” Isaiah 45:13 says, “I have raised him up [same verb] ... he shall build my city, and he shall let go my captives, not for price nor reward” (cf. v. 5, where God is said to have raised up the spirit of the chief fathers of Judah and Benjamin to return to Jerusalem; and 1 Chr. 5:26; 2 Chr. 21:16; 36:22; Jer. 51:11; Hag. 1:14). The Lord is not only the God of Israel or Judah, but of the whole world. He inspired the favorable decree of Cyrus (cf. Prov. 21:1).

1:2. The contents of the “proclamation” of verse 1 are now given in verses 2–4. This action of Cyrus needs to be understood in the context that it was his policy to do this for many different peoples in his empire.

He would restore images of non-Babylonian deities to their former cities, help bring back the native worshipers, rebuild their sanctuaries, and solicit their patronage. This type of action is reflected in the famous Cyrus Cylinder monument, in which Cyrus refers to Marduk as “my lord” but not to Yahweh. Isaiah 45:4 is clear that Cyrus was not a believer, since he did all of this “though thou hast not known me” (cf. Ex. 5:2, and Pharaoh’s use of the term; Is. 19:21, that in a future day the Egyptians will know the Lord; and Jer. 31:34, that Israel will also know the Lord in a future day). This decree was discovered by Darius I (521–484 B.C.) 20 years later (6:2). He hath charged me relates to Isaiah 44:28 and 45:13. Some surmise that Daniel may have shown him the prophecy (Josephus, Antiquities xi. 1).

1:4. And whosoever remaineth recalls Isaiah 10:20 where the message was that “the remnant” would return, not only to Jerusalem but to the Lord. Let the men of his place is a reference to the Gentile neighbors who were to help by their donations. This would recall the days of the Exodus (see Gen. 15:14 and the “great substance” which was fulfilled in Ex. 12:35, 36) as the Gentiles are now to help the Israelites with silver, and with gold, and with goods, and with beasts. Isaiah also referred to this as a “second” exodus in 43:14–28 and 48:20, 21 (cf. Jer. 16:14, 15). In addition to these voluntary gifts, there were to be payments and releases from the royal treasury, specified in a separate document that found its way into the royal archives (6:8–10).

1:1 Cyrus the Great was the powerful king of Persia (559–529 B.C.) who released the Jewish captives to return to Jerusalem after he had made the Persians the dominant nation in the ancient world. In the Old Testament, he is most highly praised as God’s “shepherd” (Is. 44:28) and His “anointed” (Is. 45:1). Cyrus first appears in the Old Testament when he proclaims the release of the Jewish captives (vv. 1–4; 2 Chr. 36:22, 23). Jeremiah had prophesied the restoration of the temple (Jer. 29:10–14; Is. 44:28). The Book of Ezra contains numerous progress reports on the work related to the decree of Cyrus (3:7; 4:3, 5; 5:13, 14, 17; 6:3, 14). The only other references to Cyrus occur in Daniel 1:21; 6:28; 10:1. (First Reference, 2 Chr. 36:22; Primary References, Ezra 1:1–8; 5:13–17; 6:3.)

brought forth out of Jerusalem, and had put them in the ¹house of his gods;

8 Even those did Cyrus king of Persia bring forth by the hand of Mithredath the treasurer, and ¹numbered them unto ^aSheshbazzar, the prince of Judah.

9 And this is the number of them: thirty chargers of gold, a thousand ¹chargers of silver, nine and twenty knives,

10 Thirty basons of gold, silver basons of a second sort four hundred and ten, and other vessels a thousand.

11 All the vessels of gold and of silver were five thousand and four hundred. All these did Sheshbazzar bring up with ¹them of the captivity that were brought up from Babylon unto Jerusalem.

1:7. Some vessels were taken to Babylon in 605 B.C. (Dan. 1:2), some in 597 B.C. (2 Kin. 24:13), and the rest in 586 B.C. (2 Kin. 25:14, 15; Jer. 27:16-22). Those which Cyrus did not send back were restored by Darius I about 518 B.C. (6:5). The furniture of the temple, including the ark of the covenant, was destroyed in 586 B.C. (2 Kin. 25:13; Jer. 3:16). The written order for their return and for the temple's rebuilding at the royal expense is preserved in 6:1-5.

1:8. Mithredath is a well-known Persian name meaning "Given to [the god] Mithra." Mithra was worshiped as a god from the earliest times of the Indo-Aryans. Sheshbazzar may mean either "Shamash [the sun-god] Protects the Son" or "Sin [the moon-god] Protects the Father." Early Jewish historians identified this man with Zerubbabel, whereas modern scholars are rather united in the opinion that Sheshbazzar was not Zerubbabel. He is mentioned only here and in verse 11; 5:14; and 5:16. Most likely he was succeeded by Zerubbabel. The prince of Judah means a person raised to a position of authority; it need not imply royal descent.

1:9-11. The vessels totaled 5,400, of which the 2,499 listed in verses 9 and 10 were evidently the largest or most important. The closing words, that were brought up from Babylon unto Jerusalem, mark one of the turning points of history. The journey would take approximately four months (7:8, 9).

2:1-70. This section is divided into eight groups:

Zerubbabel and his companions (vv. 1, 2); Jewish families (vv. 3-19); Palestinian towns (vv. 20-35); priests (vv. 36-39); Levites (vv. 40-42); Nethinim (vv. 43-54); Solomon's servants (vv. 55-58); those with uncertain genealogies (vv. 59-63). The section ends with a list of totals (vv. 64-67) and a short statement relating their arrival and the gifts they gave to the temple (vv. 68-70).

2:2. Zerubbabel was a grandson of King Jehoiahin, and either the son of Shealtiel (cf. 3:2; Neh. 12:1; Hag. 1:1), or of Pedaiah, brother of Shealtiel (cf. 1 Chr. 3:19). Possibly it was a case of levirate marriage (cf. Deut. 25:5-10). Jeshua was the high priest (Zech. 3:1), whose name (in Greek, "Jesus") is spelled Joshua in Haggai and Zechariah, and was Zerubbabel's fellow leader. The close relationship between the two men and their offices (the priesthood and royalty) was pictured by Zechariah as uniting in one man: "the man whose name is 'The BRANCH'" (Zech. 6:11-13; cf. Jer. 23:5 for "the Branch" as a messianic title). Their Nehemiah was not the famous wall-builder who was to come on the scene some 80 years later. The related lists in Nehemiah 7:6-73 and 1 Esdras include 12 names. The number of the men of the people of Israel are listed either by the names of their ancestors or the names of their towns. Some returned with Zerubbabel in 536 B.C. and others returned later with Ezra (cf. chs. 8, 10; Neh. 10).

It begins in the south with Beth-lehem and Netophah and moves north to Anathoth and Azmaveth, then to the northwest and the old Gibeonite confederacy with Kirjath-arim, and then to the about a tenth of the total of returnees.

2:40-42. Three classes of Levites are mentioned: (1) the regular Levites, who assisted the priests; (2) the singers; and (3) the porters, or doorkeepers. Asaph was an outstanding musician in King David's day, and he had been appointed minister of music in the temple (1 Chr. 15:19; 16:5). His descendants were also official musicians. Psalms 50 and 73-83 are attributed to him.

2:43-54. The Nethinims were founded by David and his officials according to 8:20. The Hebrew name points out the idea of "Given" or "Dedicated Ones" and is a variation of one of the descriptions of the Levites themselves, of whom God said, "They are wholly given unto me" (Num. 8:16). See the note on 1 Chronicles 9:2.

2:59-63. Those mentioned in this section could not prove their ancestry. There are two separate classes: (1) laymen (vv. 59, 60); and (2) priests (vv. 61-63). Genealogies were of great importance in ancient Israel. A man who had no knowledge of his tribe or clan was under a serious disability, and was excluded from the priesthood (v. 62). Barzillai means "Iron-man." He had been a staunch supporter of David. He was also a man of wealth (2 Sam. 19:32). In adopting this family's names, he may have laid himself open to the charge of renouncing his own birthright, the priesthood. Tirshatha is a Persian term, "The One to Be Feared" and is like the term "His Excellency." It was used of Nehemiah (cf. 8:9; 10:1), and here evidently refers to Sheshbazzar who settled the ecclesiastical question (not the high priest). Till there stood up a priest with Urim and with Thummim seems to indicate that this tragic situation was not reconciled. Whether the Urim and Thummim had been lost in the Exile, or whether the ability to use them had been withdrawn after the departure of the shekinah glory in 592 B.C. (Ezek. 8-11), is not clear. Psalm 74:9 says, "We see not our signs: there is no more any prophet: neither is there among us any that knoweth how long." Note Exodus 28:30 for the employment of the Urim and Thummim.

Gifts for the Temple

68 ^aAnd some of the chief of the fathers, when they came to the house of the LORD which is at Jerusalem, offered freely for the house of God to set it up in his place:

69 They gave after their ability unto the ^atreasure of the work threescore and one thousand drams of gold, and five thousand pound of silver, and one hundred priests' garments.

70 ^aSo the priests, and the Levites, and some of the people, and the singers, and the ¹porters, and the Nethinims, dwelt in their cities, and all Israel in their cities.

Worship Restored at Jerusalem

3 And when the ^aseventh month was come, and the children of Israel were in the cities, the people gathered themselves together as one man to Jerusalem.

2 Then stood up ¹Jeshua the son of ^aJozadak, and his brethren the priests, and ^bZerubbabel the son of ^cShealtiel, and his brethren, and builded the altar of the God of Israel, to offer burnt offerings thereon, as it is ^dwritten in the law of Moses the man of God.

3 And they set the altar upon ¹his bases; for fear was upon them because of the people of those countries: and they offered burnt offerings thereon unto the LORD, even ^aburnt offerings morning and evening.

2:64-67. The total given in Ezra and Nehemiah 7 is 42,360, but the individual items add up to different totals: Ezra, 29,818; Nehemiah, 31,089; and 1 Esdras, 30,143. Some have attempted to reconcile the differences as members of the northern tribes, or as women, or as adolescents. Most likely the totals have been obscured by either textual corruption or by the omission of certain families. The singing men and singing women were distinct from the temple choirs of verse 41 (cf. 2 Sam. 19:35).

2:68, 69. The house of the LORD would indicate that the site continued to be used in the exilic period, even though it was in ruins (cf. Jer. 41:5; Hag. 2:9). Offered freely indicates a healthy spiritual atmosphere (cf. 3:5) which was in addition to the royal grant in 3:7. The phrase after their ability relates well to 1 Corinthians 16:2 and 2 Corinthians 8:3 where "beyond" their ability is even mentioned. Nehemiah 7:70-72 gives a more detailed summary, mentioning separately the contributions of the governor, of some of the heads of houses, and of the rest of the people.

3:1. The seventh month: This was the first day of the month (v. 6), which was the Feast of Trumpets (Num. 29:1-6), which foreshadowed Israel's final gathering. The seventh month was Tishri (September-October) and most likely was September 25, 536 B.C. if there was a two-year delay in the beginning of the journey from Babylon after Cyrus's decree. The laying of the temple foundation in the next year would have brought to a close the 70-year captivity Jeremiah had predicted in Jeremiah 25:1-12, 605 B.C. to 535 B.C. The journey was approximately nine hundred miles from Babylon to Palestine and would have taken at least four months (cf. 7:8, 9).

3:3. This action is a tribute to their determination to succeed despite tremendous obstacles. All of chapter 4 is devoted to the long series of hostilities that covered the time period of Ezra and Nehemiah some 80 to 90 years later.

4 ^aThey kept also the feast of tabernacles, ^bas it is written, and ^coffered the daily burnt offerings ^bby number, according to the custom, as the duty of every day required;

5 And afterward offered the ^acontinual burnt offering, both of the new moons, and of all the set feasts of the LORD that were consecrated, and of every one that willingly offered a freewill offering unto the LORD.

6 From the first day of the seventh month began they to offer burnt offerings unto the LORD. But the foundation of the temple of the LORD was not yet laid.

7 They gave money also unto the masons, and to the carpenters; and ^ameat, and drink, and oil, unto them of Zidon, and to them of Tyre, to bring cedar trees from Lebanon to the sea of ^bJoppa, ^caccording to the grant that they had of Cyrus king of Persia.

9 Then stood Jeshua with his sons and his brethren, Kadmiel and his sons, the sons of ¹Judah, ²together, to set forward the workmen in the house of God: the sons of Henadad, with their sons and their brethren the Levites.

10 And when the builders laid the foundation of the temple of the LORD, ^athey¹ set the priests in their apparel with trumpets, and the Levites the sons of Asaph with cymbals, to praise the LORD, after the ^bordinance² of David king of Israel.

11 ^aAnd they sang ¹together by course in praising and giving thanks unto the LORD; ^bbecause he is good, ^cfor his mercy endureth for ever toward Israel. And all the people shouted with a great shout, when they praised the LORD, because the foundation of the house of the LORD was laid.

12 But many of the priests and Levites and ^achief of the fathers, who were ancient men, that had seen the first house, when the foundation of this house was laid before their eyes, wept with a loud voice; and many shouted aloud for joy:

3:9. Judah: Some suggest a change due to dittography (writing a letter twice when it should have been written once). It may read Hodaviah. As a result, the first three names here are the same as in 2:40, and represent special Levitical families placed in charge of the temple workmen.

3:10. A comparison of 5:1–6 and the Book of Haggai shows that little was achieved until 520 B.C. apart from the actual laying of the foundations. The same order was observed when the ark was brought to Jerusalem in David's time (1 Chr. 16:5, 6; cf. Num. 10:8).

3:12, 13. It had been about 50 years since the first temple had been destroyed, and many of the older men (ancient men) who had seen the earlier buildings wept now because of the sorrowful contrast in size and splendor. When the temple was completed later in 520 B.C., there were still some of these old men who wept again. Haggai 2:3 and Zechariah 4:10 relate Zechariah's challenge to those who "despised the day of small things."

3:2 Zerubbabel was the political and spiritual head of the tribe of Judah when the Israelites were released from the Babylonian captivity (536 B.C.). As the prime builder of the second temple, Zerubbabel led the first group of captives back to Jerusalem, and set about reconstructing the temple on the old site. For some 20 years he worked closely with prophets, priests, and kings until the new temple was finally dedicated and the Jewish sacrificial system was reestablished. Zerubbabel was the grandson of Jehoiachin, the king of Judah who had been taken captive by Nebuchadnezzar in about 598 B.C. (1 Chr. 3:17). Zerubbabel was thus his grandfather's legal successor and heir in the direct line of the ancestry of Jesus (Matt. 1:12; Luke 3:27). Some scholars suggest that he was probably in the king's service and had been given an Aramaic name, Sheshbazzar (cf. 1:8). Certainly he was appointed by Cyrus as governor of Judea (Hag. 1:1). Zerubbabel and Joshua the high priest were encouraged and exhorted by the prophets Haggai and Zechariah (5:1, 2). Haggai promised Zerubbabel a special blessing which had messianic implications (Hag. 2:21–23). (First Reference, Ezra 2:2; Primary References, Ezra 3, 4; Hag. 1, 2.)

13 So that the people could not discern the noise of the shout of joy from the noise of the weeping of the people: for the people shouted with a loud shout, and the noise was heard afar off.

Letters of Opposition Written

6 And in the reign of Ahasuerus, in the beginning of his reign, wrote they unto him an accusation against the inhabitants of Judah and Jerusalem.

7 And in the days of ^aArtaxerxes wrote ¹Bishlam, Mithredath, Tabeel, and the rest of their companions, unto Artaxerxes king of Persia; and the writing of the letter was written in the ^bSyrian tongue, and interpreted in the Syrian tongue.

8 ¹Rehum the chancellor and Shimshai the ²scribe wrote a letter against Jerusalem to Artaxerxes the king in this sort:

9 Then wrote Rehum the chancellor, and Shimshai the scribe, and the rest of their companions; ^athe Dinaites, the Apharsathchites, the Tarpelites, the Apharsites, the Archevites, the Babylonians, the Susanchites, the Dehavites, and the Elamites,

4:1. Adversaries: From this point to the end of the Book of Nehemiah there is conflict.

4:2. Since the days of Esar-haddon: The descendants from intermarriages between Israelites and foreigners who were transplanted to Samaria by Esar-haddon, the king of Assyria from 680 to 669 B.C., now approached Zerubbabel and said, Let us build with you: for we seek your God, as ye do. Actually Isaiah in 734 B.C. prophesied that the 10 northern tribes would cease to be a distinct people within 65 years (Is. 7:8). Esar-haddon was responsible for the transplanting of foreigners into Samaria (2 Kin. 17:24). This proposal was the more dangerous since it came under the guise of true religion (2 Cor. 11:15; cf. 2 Cor. 6:17). The procedure by the Assyrians effectively stifled a nationalistic spirit and created a mixed religion.

4:6. Ahasuerus (485-465 B.C.), also called Xerxes I, is known from the Book of Esther. The mention of him marks simply that with the passage of time, from 535 B.C. in verses 1-5, the antagonism of the enemy had not cooled off. The word accusation is the same word in Hebrew as for Satan, "The Accuser" (1 Chr. 21:1; Job 1:6; Zech. 3:1). This written accusation to Xerxes in 486 B.C. is not referred to anywhere else in the Old Testament.

4:7. The time now moves to Artaxerxes' day (464-424 B.C.), whose reign spanned the events of chapter 7 to the end of Nehemiah. The complaints to him, and their outcome, show not only the dogged persistence of Israel's enemies, but the uncertainty of a great king's patronage. Artaxerxes was the one who later allowed Ezra to return to Jerusalem. During his reign, Nehemiah obtained a reversal of policy and went back to Jerusalem with his blessings (Neh. 1, 2). The Syrian tongue is the Aramaic language, the commercial language of the Fertile Crescent during the first millennium B.C. Not only is the letter of 4:11-16 written in Aramaic, but so also is the entire section from 4:8 through 6:18.

4:8-10. This portion contains an imposing list of people who opposed the work in Jerusalem. Rehum was the "high official" or chancellor who presided quite probably over a group of minor officials, and was directly responsible to the satrap, or to the Persian king if he was in fact a satrap. Asnapper is a reference to Ashurbanipal the great Assyrian king (668-626 B.C.), who completed the transplanting in Samaria of peoples that Esar-haddon (v. 2) had played a major part in relocating. The river is the Euphrates River.

4:12. Rebellious and the bad city: The choice of the Artaxerxes the king; Thy servants the men on this side the river, and at such a time.

12 Be it known unto the king, that the Jews which came up from thee to us are come unto Jerusalem, building the ^arebellious and the bad city, and have set up the ^bwalls thereof, and joined the foundations.

13 Be it known now unto the king, that, if this city be builded, and the walls set up again, then will they not pay ^atoll, tribute, and custom, and so thou shalt endamage the revenue of the kings.

14 Now because we ¹have maintenance from the king's palace, and it was not ²meet for us to see the king's dishonour, therefore have we sent and ³certified the king;

15 That search may be made in the book of the records of thy fathers: so shalt thou find in the book of the records, and know that this city is a rebellious city, and hurtful unto kings and provinces, and that they have moved sedition within the same of old time: for which cause was this city destroyed.

16 We certify the king that, if this city be builded again, and the walls thereof set up, by this means thou shalt have ¹no portion on this side the river.

19 And ¹I commanded, and search hath been made, and it is found that this city of old time hath made insurrection against kings, and that rebellion and sedition have been made therein.

20 There have been mighty kings also over Jerusalem, which have ^aruled over all countries ^bbeyond the river; and toll, tribute, and custom, was paid unto them.

21 ¹Give ye now commandment to cause these men to cease, and that this city be not builded, until another commandment shall be given from me.

22 Take heed now that ye fail not to do this: why should damage grow to the hurt of the kings?

23 Now when the copy of king Artaxerxes' letter was read before Rehum, and Shimshai the scribe, and their companions, they went up in haste to Jerusalem unto the Jews, and made them to cease by force ¹and power.

24 Then ceased the work of the house of God which is at Jerusalem. So it ceased unto the second year of the reign of Darius king of Persia.

Work on the Temple Resumed

5 Then the prophets, ^aHaggai the prophet, and ^bZechariah the son of Iddo, prophesied unto the Jews that were in Judah and Jerusalem in word rebellious is important, because the Persian Empire was continually plagued with rebellions during the fifth century B.C., one notable one by Megabyzus of the Trans-Euphrates area. Jerusalem had a history of rebellions against foreign powers, such as those under Jehoiakim (2 Kin. 24:1) and Zedekiah (2 Chr. 36:13), and even as far back as during the reigns of Hezekiah and Manasseh (2 Chr. 32:33) in the days of the Assyrians.

4:21. Until another commandment shall be given from me provided a glimmer of hope, for it made a policy review possible and with it, by the grace of God, the mission of Nehemiah (Neh. 2).

4:24. This verse does not continue the previous discussion (vv. 7–23), but picks up the thought of verse 5, going back to the time of Zerubbabel, and finishes with the same phrase as in verse 5. The reign of Darius king of Persia: Two items mentioned were not addressed in verses 1–5: (1) The work was not only hindered but halted. (2) The year of Darius (521–484 B.C.) in which the deadlock was broken was 520 B.C. (cf. Hag. 1:1; Zech. 1:1) or about 15 years later.

5:1–5. This portion of text relates that the work was resumed after 15 years of inactivity under the impetus of the powerful preaching of two great prophets of God. Haggai's ministry began on August 29, 520 B.C. (Hag. 1:1) and Zechariah began his ministry October–November of 520 B.C. They began to build the house of God three weeks after Haggai began preaching, which was September 20, 520 B.C. Zerubbabel is honored in Haggai 2:20–23 and in Zechariah 4, while Jeshua is honored in Zechariah 3 and 6. Tatnai was the Persian governor responsible for the territory west of the river (Euphrates) including the whole of Syria and Palestine. Shethar-boznai seems to have been his assistant. Both were subject to Ushtani the satrap of the Trans-Euphrates.

Attempt Made to Stop Work

3 At the same time came to them ^aTatnai, governor on this side ¹the river, and Shethar-boznai, and their companions, and said thus unto them, ^bWho hath commanded you to build this ²house, and to ³make up this wall?

4 ^aThen said we unto them after this manner, What are the names of the men that ¹make this building?

these many years ago, which a great king of Israel builded ^aand set up.

12 But ^aafter that our fathers had provoked the God of heaven unto wrath, he gave them into the hand of ^bNebuchadnezzar the king of Babylon, the Chaldean, who destroyed this house, and ^ccarried the people away into Babylon.

13 But in the first year of ^aCyrus the king of Babylon the same king Cyrus made a decree to build this ¹house of God.

14 And ^athe vessels also of gold and silver of the house of God, which Nebuchadnezzar took out of the temple that was in Jerusalem, and brought them into the temple of Babylon, those did Cyrus the king take out of the temple of Babylon, and they were delivered unto one, ^bwhose name was Sheshbazzar, whom he had made governor;

15 And said unto him, Take these vessels, go, carry them into the ¹temple that is in Jerusalem, and let the house of God be builded in his place.

16 Then came the same Sheshbazzar, and ^alaid the foundation of the ¹house of God which is in Jerusalem: and since that time even until now hath it been in building, and ^byet it is not finished.

17 Now therefore, if it seem good to the king, ^alet there be search made in the king's treasure house, which is there at Babylon, whether it be so, that a decree was made of Cyrus the king to build this house of God at Jerusalem, and let the king send his pleasure to us concerning this matter.

The Decree of Darius

6 Then Darius the king made a decree, ^aand search was made in the ¹house of the rolls, where the treasures were laid up in Babylon.

2 And there was found at ¹Achmetha, in the palace that is in the province of the ^aMedes, a roll, and therein was a record thus written:

3 In the first year of Cyrus the king the same Cyrus the king made a ^adecree concerning the house of God at

Jerusalem, Let the ¹house be builded, the place where they offered sacrifices, and let the foundations thereof be strongly laid; the height thereof threescore cubits, and the breadth thereof threescore cubits;

4 ^aWith three rows of great stones, and a row of new timber: and let the ^bexpenses be given out of the king's ¹house:

5 And also let ^athe golden and silver vessels of the house of God, which Nebuchadnezzar took forth out of the temple which is at Jerusalem, and brought unto Babylon, be restored, and brought again unto the temple which is at Jerusalem, every one to his place, and place them in the house of God.

6 ^aNow therefore, Tatnai, governor beyond the river, Shethar-boznai, and your companions the Apharsachites, which are beyond the river, be ye far from thence:

7 Let the work of this house of God alone; let the governor of the Jews and the elders of the Jews build this house of God in his place.

8 Moreover I make a decree what ye shall do to the elders of these Jews for the building of this ¹house of God: that of the king's goods, even of the tribute beyond the river, forthwith

10 ^aThat they may offer sacrifices of sweet savours unto the God of heaven, and pray for the life of the king, and of his sons.

11 Also I have made a decree, that whosoever shall alter this word, let timber be pulled down from his house, and being set up, let him be hanged thereon; ^aand let his house be made a dunghill for this.

12 And the God that hath caused his ^aname to dwell there destroy all kings and people, that shall put to their hand to alter and to destroy this ¹house of God which is at Jerusalem. I Darius have made a decree; let it be done with speed.

Temple Work Completed

13 Then Tatnai, governor on this side the river, Shethar-boznai, and their companions, according to that which Darius the king had sent, so they did speedily.

6:1–12. The reference to rolls in verse 1 is to “archivers.” The Achmetha of verse 2 is Ecbatana the capital of the old Median Empire. The roll of verse 2 means a papyrus or leather scroll (a different Hebrew word) instead of the usual clay tablet. Verses 6–12 contain a strongly worded decree from Darius which reinforced the original one from Cyrus. The threat in verse 11 is heightened by Herodotus’s account (III. 159), which states that Darius impaled three thousand Babylonians after conquering their city.

6:12–22. In this section the temple is finished in the sixth year of the reign of Darius (March 12, 515 B.C.). While it was being built, the events of Zechariah 7 occurred. They kept the dedication of the house of God with joy. The word for “dedication” is chenukah (Hanukkah) which was later to become the name of a festival in memory of the temple’s reconsecration in 165 B.C. after its profanation by Antiochus Epiphanes. Solomon had offered more than two hundred times as many oxen and sheep at the dedication of his temple (1 Kin. 8:63, with 22,000 oxen and 120,000 sheep). Beginning with verse 19, the text is again in Hebrew. Verse 21 indicates two groups of people: (1) those who had returned from exile; and (2) possibly a group of Jews who had not gone into captivity, or a group of proselytes (cf. Ex. 12:44, 48). The reference to the king of Assyria is accurate because Darius was also the sovereign of Assyria, so he could easily have been called king of Assyria. There is a similar use of the term in a Babylonian king list which starts with the Assyrian Kandalanu, mentions the Chaldeans, Nabopolassar, and Nebuchadnezzar, then refers to Cyrus, Cambyses, and Darius, and ends with the names of Seleucid kings.

6:1 Darius I (the Great) is also known as Darius Hystaspis, or Darius, son of Hystaspis. He reigned over Persia from about 521 to 485 B.C. as one of the most able Persian kings. Darius continued Cyrus the Great’s policy of restoring the Jewish people to their homeland. In 520 B.C., Darius’s second year as king, the Jews resumed work on the still-unfinished temple in Jerusalem. Darius assisted by ordering the project to continue, even granting a generous subsidy to help revive temple worship (vv. 1–12). The temple was completed in 516 B.C., in the sixth year of Darius’s reign. (First Reference, Ezra 4:5; Primary References, Ezra 5, 6; Hag. 1:1, 15; 2:10; Zech. 1:1, 7; 7:1.)

14 ^aAnd the elders of the Jews builded, and they prospered through the prophesying of Haggai the prophet and Zechariah the son of Iddo. And they builded, and finished it, according to the commandment of the God of Israel, and according to the commandment of ^bCyrus, and ^cDarius, and ^dArtaxerxes king of Persia.

15 And this house was finished on the third day of the month Adar, which was in the sixth year of the reign of Darius the king.

The Dedication of the Temple

17 And ^aoffered at the dedication of this ¹house of God an hundred bullocks, two hundred rams, four hundred lambs; and for a sin offering for all Israel, twelve he goats, according to the number of the tribes of Israel.

18 And they set the priests in their ^adivisions, and the Levites in their ^bcourses, ¹for the service of God, which is at Jerusalem; ^cas it is written in the book of Moses.

Ezra Sent to Jerusalem

7 Now after these things, in the reign of ^aArtaxerxes king of Persia, Ezra the ^bson of Seraiah, ^cthe son of Azariah, the son of ^dHilkiah,

2 The son of Shallum, the son of Zadok, the son of Ahitub,

3 The son of Amariah, the son of Azariah, the son of Meraioth,

4 The son of Zerahiah, the son of Uzzi, the son of Bukki,

5 The son of Abishua, the son of Phinehas, the son of Eleazar, the son of Aaron the chief priest:

6 This Ezra went up from Babylon; and he was ^aa ¹ready scribe in 7:1—8:36. This section introduces Ezra and presents the scholar-priest, his family, his task, and his expedition. Much of the account is his personal record, using I and we.

7:1. Now after these things actually includes a long time, since between chapters 6 and 7 about 58 years intervene, during which time the events of the Book of Esther occur (483–473 B.C.). Seraiah was high priest in 586 B.C. (2 Kin. 25:18), so Ezra must have descended from a younger son of Seraiah, because he is not called “son of Jozadak” as Jeshua is (3:2; 1 Chr.

6:14). Thus his immediate ancestors were not in the high-priestly line.

7:6. Ready scribe conveys the initial idea of “quick, prompt, skilled,” and pertains to “rapid” in Psalm 45:1 and “prompt in justice” in Isaiah 16:5 (cf. Prov. 22:29). It suggests a quickness of grasp and ease of movement amid some complex material, which was the fruit of the devoted study described in verse 10. Earlier, a scribe may have meant a “secretary,” but by Jeremiah’s time scribes were already teachers of Scripture (Jer. 8:8), and that is the meaning here.

7:1 Ezra was a scribe and priest who led the returned captives in Jerusalem to make a new commitment to God’s Law. Ezra, a descendant of Aaron through Eleazar, gained favor during the reign of Artaxerxes I (464–424 B.C.), king of Persia. The king commissioned him to return to Jerusalem about 458 B.C. to bring order among the people of the new community. Artaxerxes even gave Ezra a royal letter (vv. 11–16), granting him civil as well as religious authority, along with finances to furnish the temple, which the returned captives had rebuilt. Ezra was a skilled scribe and teacher, extensively trained in the Law (Genesis—Deuteronomy; Ezra 7:6, 10, 12). Ezra was also noted for his marriage reforms (9:1, 2; 10:1–5). God blessed him in all of his endeavors (v. 9). (First Reference, Ezra 7:1; Primary Reference, Ezra 7:10.)

the law of Moses, which the LORD God of Israel had given: and the king granted him all his request, ^baccording to the hand of the LORD his God upon him.

7 ^aAnd there went up some of the children of Israel, and of the priests, and ^bthe Levites, and the singers, and the porters, and ^cthe Nethinims, unto Jerusalem, in the seventh year of Artaxerxes the king.

8 And he came to Jerusalem in the fifth month, which was in the seventh year of the king.

9 For upon the first day of the first month began he to go up from Babylon, and on the first day of the fifth month came he to Jerusalem, ^aaccording to the good hand of his God upon him.

10 For Ezra had prepared his heart to ^aseek¹ the law of the LORD, and to do it, and to ^bteach in Israel statutes and judgments.

20 And whatsoever more shall be needful for the house of thy God, which thou shalt have occasion to bestow, bestow it out of the king's treasure house.

Do Whatever Ezra Commands

21 And I, even I Artaxerxes the king, do make a decree to all the treasurers which are beyond the river, that whatsoever Ezra the priest, the scribe of the law of the God of heaven, shall require of you, it be done speedily, 22 Unto an hundred talents of silver, and to an hundred ¹measures of wheat, and to an hundred baths of wine, and to an hundred baths of oil, and salt without prescribing how much.

23 Whatsoever is ¹commanded by the God of heaven, let it be diligently done for the ²house of the God of heaven: for why should there be wrath against the realm of the king and his sons?

7:11-28. This section records a letter which Artaxerxes wrote in Aramaic to Ezra, granting him permission to take Jewish volunteers, silver and gold, and temple vessels back to Jerusalem. He also made ample provision for temple supplies and ministers, and gave Ezra authority to appoint magistrates and judges.

7:19. The vessels may have been some left behind, perhaps overlooked when restored by Cyrus in 1:7-11; or they may have been a goodwill gift, newly presented.

7:22. Artaxerxes followed the examples of Cyrus and Darius (6:4, 8). The hundred talents of silver amounted to about $100,000.

24 Also we certify you, that touching any of the priests and Levites, singers, ¹porters, Nethinims, or ministers of this house of God, it shall not be lawful to impose toll, tribute, or custom, upon them.

25 And thou, Ezra, after the wisdom of thy God, that is in thine hand, ^aset magistrates and judges, which may judge all the people that are beyond the river, all such as know the laws of thy God; and ^bteach ye them that know them not.

26 And whosoever will not do the law of thy God, and the law of the king, let judgment be executed speedily upon him, whether it be unto death, or ¹to banishment, or to confiscation of goods, or to imprisonment.

Ezra Praises God

7:27, 28. The Hebrew section of the book resumes at this point. Note his praise that God had put such a thing as this in the king's heart (6:22; Prov. 21:1). God had done this for Joseph (Gen. 39:21) in a pagan land, and also for Daniel in much the same circumstances (Dan. 1:9, "favor"). Ezra was strengthened, or "gained strength" as the hand of the LORD my God was upon me (cf. vv. 6, 9; 8:18, 22, 31; Neh. 2:8, 18).

8:1. This chapter contains the account of the journey to Jerusalem. About 1,500 priests and heads of houses started out with Ezra. In addition to these, he obtained some Levites and Nethinim from Casiphia (v. 17). They arrived four months later.

8:2-14. In every instance but one, these groups are joining, at long last, the descendants of the pioneers from their own family stock, who had been in the first party to return from Babylon 80 years before. All family names except Joab in verse 9 can be found in 2:3-15. The names are of families, not of individuals, living in the days of Zerubbabel and Ezra. Some members of these families returned with Zerubbabel, but other members did not return until Ezra's day.

8:15. Ahava's location is unknown; it may have been a canal. Ezra did not find any of the sons of Levi. Only 341 returned with Zerubbabel, compared with 4,289 priests (2:36-42). Perhaps this was due to the days: and I²viewed the people, and the priests, and found there none of the ^asons of Levi.

16 Then sent I for Eliezer, for Ari-el, for Shemaiah, and for Elnathan, and for Jarib, and for Elnathan, and for Nathan, and for Zechariah, and for ^aMeshullam, chief men; also for Joiarib, and for Elnathan, men of understanding.

17 And I sent them with commandment unto Iddo the chief at the place Casiphia, and I told them what they should say unto Iddo, and to his brethren the Nethinims, at the place Casiphia, that they should bring unto us ministers for the house of our God.

18 And by the good hand of our God upon us they ^abrought us a man of understanding, of the sons of Mahli, the son of Levi, the son of Israel; and Sherebiah, with his sons and his brethren, eighteen;

19 And ^aHashabiah, and with him Jeshaiiah of the sons of Merari, his brethren and their sons, twenty;

20 ^aAlso of the Nethinims, whom David and the princes had appointed for the service of the Levites, two hundred and twenty Nethinims: all of them were ¹expressed by name.

Priests Charged with Treasures

24 Then I separated twelve of the chief of the priests, Sherebiah, Hashabiah, and ten of their brethren with them,

25 And weighed unto them ^athe silver, and the gold, and the vessels, even the offering of the house of our God, which the king, and his counsellors, and his lords, and all Israel there present, had offered:

26 I even weighed unto their hand six hundred and fifty talents of silver, and silver vessels an hundred talents, and of gold an hundred talents;

27 Also twenty basons of gold, ¹of a thousand drams; and two vessels of ²fine copper, precious as gold.

28 And I said unto them, Ye are ^aholy¹ unto the LORD; the vessels are ^bholy also; and the silver and the gold are a freewill offering unto the LORD God of your fathers.

29 Watch ye, and keep them, until ye weigh them before the chief of the priests and the Levites, and ^achief of the fathers of Israel, at Jerusalem, in the chambers of the house of the LORD.

30 So took the priests and the Levites the weight of the silver, and uprooting that all the pilgrims faced, plus the drastic change from secular pursuits to the strict routines of the temple. It may also have been due to their inferior status as compared to ministering priests.

8:17. The place Casiphia may be a reference to the fact that a sanctuary was there in the neighborhood of Babylon in the same manner as the sanctuary of Yahu existed at Yeb (Elephantine) and in Deuteronomy 12:5 and Jeremiah 7:3, 6, 7, where "the place" is used for a sanctuary. Some regard it as a place where a major concentration of the Jewish population of Babylon lived.

8:21-23. Then I proclaimed a fast: There are other Old Testament examples of fasting to obtain answers to prayer in Judges 20:26; 1 Samuel 7:6; 2 Chronicles

20:3; and Joel 1:14. No pillar of cloud led the pilgrims back to the Holy Land, but the hand of their God was upon them. Ezra showed complete trust in the Lord by not asking for military help in the form of an escort such as Nehemiah had later (Neh. 2:9). The phrase and he was intreated of us might be rendered "and he answered our prayer." Ezra looks back upon a safe and successful journey.

8:25-27. One talent weighed about 75 pounds. The silver, gold, and precious vessels were worth about $20,000,000. Little wonder then that Ezra proclaimed a fast to seek God's protection for the trip without an escort! Drams were actually "darics" (cf. 2:69) and the daric was a thick gold Persian coin weighing 130 grams, or 4.55 ounces.

The Journey to Jerusalem

31 Then we departed from the river of Ahava on the twelfth day of the first month, to go unto Jerusalem: and ^athe hand of our God was upon us, and he delivered us from the hand of the enemy, and ¹of such as lay in ²wait by the way.

32 And we ^acame to Jerusalem, and abode there three days.

33 Now on the fourth day was the silver and the gold and the vessels ^aweighed in the house of our God by the hand of Meremoth the son of Uriah the priest; and with him was Eleazar the son of Phinehas; and with them was ^bJozabad the son of Jeshua, and Noadiah the son of Binui, Levites;

34 By number and by weight of every one: and all the weight was written at that time.

35 Also the children of those that had been ^acarried away, which were come out of the captivity, ^boffered burnt offerings unto the God of Israel, twelve bullocks for all Israel, ninety and six rams, seventy and seven lambs, twelve he goats for a sin offering: all this was a burnt offering unto the LORD.

36 And they delivered the king's ^acommissions unto the king's lieutenants, and to the governors on this side the river: and they ¹furth-ered the people, and the ²house of God.

Israel's Transgression

9 Now when these things were done, the princes came to me, saying, The people of Israel, and the priests, and the Levites, have not ^aseparated themselves from the people of the lands, ^bdoing according to their abominations, even of the Canaanites, the Hittites, the Perizzites, the Jebusites, the Ammonites, the Moabites, the Egyptians, and the Amorites.

2 For they have ^ataken of their daughters for themselves, and for their sons: so that the ^bholy seed have ^cmingled themselves with the people of those lands: yea, the hand of the princes and rulers hath been chief in this ¹trespass.

3 And when I heard this thing, ^aI ¹rent my garment and my mantle, and plucked off the hair of my head and of my beard, and sat down ^bastounded.

4 Then were assembled unto me every one that ^atrembled at the words of the God of Israel, because of the transgression of those that had been carried away; and I sat astounded until the ^bevening sacrifice.

5 And at the evening sacrifice I arose up from my ¹heaviness; and having ²rent my garment and my mantle, I fell upon my knees, and ^aspread out my hands unto the LORD my God,

6 And said, O my God, I am ^aashamed and blush to lift up my face to thee, my God: for ^bour

8:31. A comparison with 7:9 shows that all the preliminary preparations, including the fast, were completed in 12 days. The reference to such as lay in wait by the way is a singular noun, used as a collective in some instances, and in this passage indicates they were saved from ambush on the way, in the sense of implying an absence of such events rather than a series of escapes.

9:2. The real issue was that the Israelites had mingled themselves, the holy seed, with the people of those lands. (Note Ex. 19:6; Ps. 106:35; Is. 6:13; Mal. 2:15; 2 Cor. 6:14—7:1.) The sin had plagued Israel before (Judg. 3:5, 6) and would reappear in the near future (Neh. 13:23–28; Mal. 2:11).

9:3–5. Ezra's response of rending his garment (tearing it) and plucking off the hair of his head was a sign of deep affliction (Lev. 10:6; Josh. 7:6) and an expression of violent wrath or moral indignation (Neh. 13:25; Is. 50:6). Ezra was fully aware that such a grave sin might lead to another captivity or destruction of the nation.

9:4. Every one that trembled at the words of the God of Israel indicates that a man's attitude toward God's Word is one of the ultimate criteria of his spirituality (cf. 10:3; Ps. 119:120, 161; Is. 66:2, 5).

9:5–15. Compare Ezra's prayer and confession with Nehemiah 9:6–38 and Daniel 9:4–19. Ezra does not stand apart from his people and coldly condemn them, but he identifies with them in their guilt and need, even though he was personally guiltless. He could have protested his innocence, but like the suffering Servant in Isaiah 53:12, he was impelled to reckon himself "numbered with the transgressors."

iniquities are increased over our head, and our ¹trespass is ^cgrown up unto the heavens.

7 Since the days of our fathers have ^a*we been* in a great trespass unto this day; and for our iniquities ^b*have* we, our kings, and our priests, been delivered into the hand of the kings of the lands, to the ^csword, to captivity, and to ¹a spoil, and to ^dconfusion² of face, as it is this day.

8 And now for a little ¹space grace hath been shewed from the LORD our God, to leave us a remnant to escape, and to give us a ²nail in his holy place, that our God may ^alighten our eyes, and give us a little reviving in our bondage.

10 And now, O our God, what shall we say after this? for we have forsaken thy commandments,

Israel Repents of Sin

10 Now ^awhen Ezra had prayed, and when he had confessed, weeping and casting himself down ^bbefore the house of God, there assembled unto him out of Israel a very great congregation of men and women and children: for the people wept very ^csore¹.

2 And Shechaniah the son of Jehiel, one of the sons of Elam, answered and said unto Ezra, We have ^atrespassed¹ against our God, and have taken strange wives of the people of the land: yet now there is hope in Israel concerning this thing.

3 Now therefore let us make ^aa covenant with our God to put away all the wives, and such as are born of them, according to the counsel of my lord, and of those that ^btremble at ^cthe commandment of our God; and let it be done according to the ^dlaw.

4 Arise; for this matter belongeth unto thee: we also will be with thee: ^abe of good courage, and do it.

5 Then arose Ezra, and made the chief priests, the Levites, and all Israel, ^ato ¹swear that they should do according to this word. And they sware.

6 Then Ezra rose up from before the house of God, and went into the 10:2. Shechaniah was the spokesman for the offenders, even though he does not appear in the list of offenders who had married foreign wives. He was of the family of Elam, mentioned in 2:7; 8:7; 10:26. The hope may have been based on Deuteronomy 30:8-10.

10:6. The mention of Johanan does not prove that Ezra arrived after Nehemiah. The name was a common one, and he may not have been the grandson of Eliashib, but may have been another son of Eliashib and a brother of Joiada. Eliashib in verse 6 may not be the same one as in Nehemiah 12:22, 23. If Eliashib was the high priest, he could have had a son Johanan (v. 6) and also a grandson of the same name, the one mentioned in Nehemiah 12:22, 23.

7 And they made proclamation throughout Judah and Jerusalem unto all the children of the captivity, that they should gather themselves together unto Jerusalem;

8 And that whosoever would not come within three days, according to the counsel of the princes and the elders, all his ¹substance should be ²forfeited, and himself separated from the congregation of those that had been carried away.

9 Then all the men of Judah and Benjamin gathered themselves together unto Jerusalem within three days. It was the ninth month, on the twentieth day of the month; and ^aall the people sat in the street of the house of God, trembling because of this matter, and for the great rain.

10 And Ezra the priest stood up, and said unto them, Ye have ¹transgressed, and ²have taken strange wives, to increase the trespass of Israel.

11 Now therefore ^amake confession unto the LORD God of your fathers, and do his ¹pleasure: and ^bseparate yourselves from the people of the land, and from the strange wives.

14 Let now our rulers of all the congregation stand, and let all them which have taken strange wives in our cities come at appointed times, and with them the elders of every city, and the judges thereof, until ^athe fierce wrath of our God for this matter be turned from us.

15 Only Jonathan the son of Asahel and Jahaziah the son of Tikvah ¹were employed about this matter: and ^aMeshullam and Shabbethai the Levite ²helped them.

16 And the children of the captivity did so. And Ezra the priest, with certain ^achief of the fathers, after the house of their fathers, and all of them by their names, were separated, and sat down in the first day of the tenth month to examine the matter.

17 And they made an end with all the men that had taken strange wives by the first day of the first month.

18 And among the sons of the priests there were found that had taken strange wives: namely, of the sons of ^aJeshua the son of Jozadak, and his brethren; Maaseiah, and Eli-ezer, and Jarib, and Gedaliah.

19 And they ^agave ¹their hands that they would put away their wives; and being ^bguilty, they offered a ram of the flock for their ^ctrespass.

20 And of the sons of Immer; Hanani, and Zebadiah.

10:18–44. The list includes 17 priests, 10 Levites, and 86 men of the congregation of Israel who were guilty, and each divorced his foreign wife after offering a ram of the flock for their trespass (v. 19). Verse 18 reveals that all four orders of priests were guilty, proving true the statement of the princes in 9:1 (cf. 2:36–39). They entered into the solemn agreement, and ratified it by pledging the right hand (2 Kin. 10:15; Prov. 6:1; Ezek. 17:18), that they would divorce their foreign wives. The offering is depicted in Leviticus 5:14–16 as a command for the trespass offering. The fact that some of them had children (v. 44) is mentioned to show how thoroughly the separation was carried out. This would add grief to the parting from a wife. Meshullam (vv. 15, 29) gave up his foreign wife, though he opposed the agreement. Certainly there was an adequate provision made for the repudiated wives and children, according to the means and circumstances of each husband. Several things need to be kept in mind when considering Ezra's actions: (1) The Old Testament explicitly prohibited intermarriage. (2) Marriage in Israel involved a covenant before God. (3) The recent Babylonian captivity prompted Ezra's decision. (4) Even the religious leaders were involved in the sin. (5) Ezra's concern was primarily religious, not nationalistic. (6) The will of God had first been sought in the decision. (7) The decision did not damage Jewish respect for Ezra. (8) Finally Ezra's action enforced the sovereignty of the law.

The Book of NEHEMIAH

Ezra accomplished the spiritual establishment of the new community, whereas Nehemiah succeeded in giving it physical stability. When he was in the high position of cupbearer to the king, he learned that the community in Judah was “in great affliction and reproach” (1:3). Thus he succeeded in having himself appointed governor in Judah with authority and resources to rebuild the city walls. He was a man of skill and daring. He first surveyed the walls at night, to avoid detection by those who might oppose the work. Then he assembled a labor force and, dividing the walls into sections, he supervised the building process. The project was completed in the remarkably short time of 52 days. During this endeavor he faced determined opposition: mockery (2:19; 4:1–3); armed raids (4:7–12); a ruse to draw him outside the city, without doubt to murder him (6:1–4); blackmail (6:5–9); and finally a prophet hired to foretell his death. In every case he met the challenge with courage, wisdom, and an invincible determination to complete the task for which God had called him.

After the wall was completed, he took measures to increase the population of Jerusalem and to correct social, economic, and religious abuses. The deep piety of Nehemiah is evidenced by his prayers and strong conviction to personally accomplish the task for which God had called him. His combined work with Ezra united the nation and gave them a unique identity in such a way as to preserve the people of God, the oracles of God, and the promises of redemption in the light of that day when God would fulfill all of the old covenant hopes and desires in the person and work of Jesus Christ.

Historical Setting. In addition to the material cited in the Introduction to the Book of Ezra, in 444 B.C., 14 years after Ezra’s return to Jerusalem, Nehemiah also returned. God used him to guide Judah in rebuilding the city’s walls and in reordering the people’s social and economic lives. The Bible speaks of Nehemiah going to Jerusalem in the twentieth year of Artaxerxes (1:1) and again in his thirty-second year (13:6). The reference must be to Artaxerxes I (464–423 B.C.) and would yield the dates 445 and 433 B.C., respectively.

The Elephantine Papyri, discovered in A.D. 1903, confirm the historicity of the Book of Nehemiah, mentioning Sanballat (2:19) and Johanan (6:18; 12:23). These sources also tell us that Nehemiah ceased to be governor of Judah before 408 B.C., thus making a later date for Nehemiah impossible.

Authorship. Most Bible expositors agree that Nehemiah wrote the book that bears his name. Much of the book is a first-person account of the circumstances surrounding his return to Jerusalem (chs. 1–7; 12:31–13:31).

Nothing is known about Nehemiah’s childhood, youth, or family background, except that his father’s name was Hachaliah (1:1) and that he had a brother named Hanani (1:2). Possibly his great-grandparents were taken into captivity when Jerusalem fell to the Babylonians. He was probably born in Persia sometime during or soon after Zerubbabel’s ministry in Jerusalem. The frank and vivid reporting indicates that much of the material in the book comes from what must have been Nehemiah’s personal diary.

Nehemiah's Prayer of Repentance

4 And it came to pass, when I heard these words, that I sat down and wept, and mourned certain days, and fasted, and prayed before the God of heaven,

5 And said, I beseech thee, ^aO LORD God of heaven, the great and ^bterrible¹ God, ^cthat keepeth covenant and mercy for them that love ²him and ³observe ⁴his commandments:

6 Let thine ear now be attentive,

1:1. Nehemiah means "The Lord Comforts." The name Hachaliah distinguishes him from other Nehemiahs (3:16; 7:7; Ezra 2:2), but nothing is known about the origin or meaning of the father's name nor about his status. Nehemiah became a legendary figure in later Jewish literature. Chisleu, or Kislev, was the ninth month (November–December) and the twentieth year would have been 445 B.C. (cf. 2:1 and the "twentieth year of Artaxerxes"). Shushan the palace, or better, "Susa, the citadel," was the winter resort of the Persian kings. In 478 B.C. Esther became Xerxes' queen in this palace (Esth. 2:8–18), and in 550 B.C. Daniel was carried there in a vision (Dan. 8:2).

1:2. Hanani may have been a real brother of Nehemiah, although the term may be used in the sense of "kinsman" (7:2), where he appears as a man whom Nehemiah could trust with high office.

1:3. Most likely this was a recent destruction and not the one back in 586 B.C. (cf. Ezra 4:7–23).

1:4. See also 2:1 which reveals that Nehemiah spent about four months fasting and praying.

1:5. That keepeth covenant and mercy is a refrain from Deuteronomy 7:9 and is related to Exodus 20:6 and 34:6, 7. God keeps His "covenant-love" with those who love Him, those in a covenant relationship with Him.

1:1 Nehemiah was the governor of Jerusalem who helped rebuild the city wall (1:1; 8:9; 10:1; 12:26, 47). Nehemiah was the personal cupbearer to the Persian king, Artaxerxes I, Longimanus (ruled 464–424 B.C.). About 445 B.C., Nehemiah received permission from Artaxerxes to go to Judah and restore his people's fortunes (vv. 5–11; 2:8). He was appointed governor of the province with authority to rebuild the city walls. Nehemiah and his work crew were harassed by three enemies: Sanballat the Horonite (a Samaritan), Tobiah the Ammonite official, and Geshem the Arab (2:10, 19; 6:1–14). Jerusalem's wall was finished in a record 52 days (6:15). Nehemiah's success was assured because he kept praying, "O, God, strengthen my hands" (6:9). He also initiated many social and political reforms among the people (5:1–19; 11). After a brief visit to Persia, he returned to Jerusalem (c. 433 B.C.) and dealt with further matters of religious and social reform. (First Reference, Neh. 1:1; Primary References, Neh. 1–7, 11–13.)

7 ^aWe have ¹dealt very corruptly against thee, and have ^bnot kept the commandments, nor the statutes, nor the ²judgments, which thou commandedst thy servant Moses.

8 Remember, I beseech thee, the word that thou commandedst thy servant Moses, saying, ^aIf ye ¹transgress, I will scatter you abroad among the nations:

9 ^aBut if ye turn unto me, and keep my commandments, and do them; ^bthough there were of you cast out unto the uttermost part of the heaven, yet will I gather them from thence, and will bring them unto the place that I have chosen ¹to set my name there.

10 ^aNow these are thy servants and thy people, whom thou hast redeemed by thy great power, and by thy strong hand.

11 O LORD, I beseech thee, ^alet now thine ear be attentive to the prayer of thy servant, and to the prayer of thy servants, who ^bdesire to fear thy name: and prosper, I pray

Nehemiah's Sad Countenance

2 And it came to pass in the month ^aNisan, in the twentieth year of ^aArtaxerxes¹ the king, that wine was before him: and ^bI took up the wine, and gave it unto the king. Now I had not been ²beforetime sad in his presence.

2 Wherefore the king said unto me, Why is thy ¹countenance sad, seeing thou art not sick? this is nothing else but ^asorrow of heart. Then I was very ²sore afraid,

3 And said unto the king, ^aLet the king live for ever: why should not my ¹countenance be sad, when ^bthe city, the place of my fathers' sepulchres, lieth waste, and the gates thereof are ²consumed with ^cfire?

4 Then the king said unto me, For what dost thou make request? So I ^aprayed to the God of heaven.

Nehemiah's Request

5 And I said unto the king, If it please the king, and if thy servant have found favour in thy sight, that thou wouldest send me unto Judah, unto the city of my fathers' sepulchres, that I may build it.

6 And the king said unto me, (the queen also sitting by him,) For how

1:10, 11. After confessing the sins of Israel and referring to the alternative of curse and blessing, Nehemiah reminds the Lord that these people with their sins and their inclination to depart from God are His servants and ... people. Nehemiah's prayer was specific: grant him mercy in the sight of this man (the king). Artaxerxes had made an earlier decision to stop the work (Ezra 4:21). The answer to Nehemiah's prayer is recorded in chapter 2. The cupbearer had direct access to the king and was an important and influential person. The same word was used for the "butler" in Genesis 40. His basic duty was to choose and taste the wine to ensure that it was not poisoned, and then to present it to the king. In many cases the cupbearer was second only to the king in authority and influence.

2:1. Nisan is April–May and is the beginning of the Persian and Jewish year. The details of chapter 2 take place about four months after Nehemiah began praying. It was still in Artaxerxes' twentieth year (1:1), for his official year began in the seventh month—Tishri (October).

2:2. Nehemiah had reason to fear, for being sad in the king's presence was a serious offense in Persia (cf. Esth. 4:2). Also, he knew his request might greatly anger the king.

2:5. Nehemiah asked the king to reverse the first decree in Ezra 4:21.

2:6. Some think the set time actually turned out to

2:1 Artaxerxes (reigned 464–424 B.C.) was a king of Persia in whose court Ezra and Nehemiah were officials (Ezra 7:1, 7). Known as Artaxerxes I, Longimanus ("Long-handed"), he temporarily halted the rebuilding program at Jerusalem that his predecessor Cyrus had encouraged (Ezra 4:7–23). However, he later allowed it to resume (Ezra 6:14). In the seventh year of his reign (c.

458 B.C.), he authorized Ezra to lead a large number of Israelites back from the captivity to Jerusalem (Ezra 7:1–28). In the twentieth year of his reign (c. 445 B.C.), he allowed Nehemiah to return to Jerusalem in order to begin rebuilding the city's walls (vv. 1–10; 13:6). (First Reference, Ezra 4:7; Primary References, Ezra 4:7–23; 7.)

long shall thy journey be? and when wilt thou return? So it pleased the king to send me; and I set him ^aa time.

7 Moreover I said unto the king, If it please the king, let letters be given me to the ^agovernors beyond the river, that they may ¹convey me over till I come into Judah;

8 And a letter unto Asaph the keeper of the king's forest, that he may give me timber to make beams for the gates of the ¹palace which appertained ^ato the ²house, and for the wall of the city, and for the house that I shall enter into. And the king granted me, ^baccording to the good hand of my God upon me.

9 Then I came to the governors beyond the river, and gave them the king's letters. Now the king had sent captains of the army and horsemen with me.

10 When ^aSanballat the Horonite, and Tobiah the servant, the Ammonite, heard of it, it grieved them exceedingly that there was come a man to seek the welfare of the children of Israel.

11 So I ^acame to Jerusalem, and was there three days.

Nehemiah's Inspection of the Walls

12 And I arose in the night, I and some few men with me; neither told I any man what my God had put in my heart to do at Jerusalem: neither was there any beast with me, save the beast that I rode upon.

13 And I went out by night ^aby the ¹gate of the valley, even before the ²dragon well, and to the ³dung port, and ⁴viewed the walls of Jerusalem, which were ^bbroken down, and the gates thereof were ⁵consumed with fire.

14 Then I went on to the ^agate of the fountain, and to the ^bking's pool: but there was no place for the beast that was under me to pass.

15 Then went I up in the night by the ^abrook, ¹and ²viewed the wall, and turned back, and entered by the ³gate of the valley, and so returned.

16 And the ¹rulers knew not whither I went, or what I did; neither had I as yet told it to the Jews, nor to the priests, nor to the nobles, nor to the rulers, nor to the rest that did the work.

17 Then said I unto them, Ye see the distress that we are in, how Jerusalem lieth ¹waste, and the gates be 12 years, as 5:14 indicates, after which he returned to the king for several years (13:6). Others believe he reported back after the dedication of the walls, within the year, then had his appointment as governor renewed and returned to Jerusalem.

2:7, 8. This decree was the same as the one in Daniel 9:24–27, which relates to the beginning of the 70 weeks of prophetic years to “restore and to build Jerusalem.” Note how specific Nehemiah was in the contents of his request. The palace actually was a fortress or tower and may have been Hananeel’s mentioned in 3:1. It protected the temple and overlooked the northwest corner of its courts. Hyrcanus I (134–104 B.C.) built an acropolis here, and later Herod rebuilt it and named it Antonia. The house that I shall enter is the governor’s home.

2:9. The escort provided more than protection; it gave the expedition style and impressively reinforced their credentials to the neighboring governors, vividly illustrating the change in policy.

2:10. Sanballat was the governor of Samaria, according to an Elephantine document written in 407 B.C., some 38 years after the events of this chapter. He would cause much grief to the Israelites (cf. 13:28, 29). Sanballat’s name, coming from Akkadian Sin-uballit, “Sin [the moon god] Has Given Life,” may indicate something of the mixed character of the Samaritan religion at this time. Tobiah had a good Jewish name, “Yahweh Is Good,” but was a treacherous person. He may have been an ex-slave, but more likely servant indicates his position in the Persian Empire, maybe east of Judea. Archaeological evidence demonstrates that the term is often used of high officials in the Persian Empire.

2:13. The gate of the valley was probably on the south wall, in the southwest corner of the city, with the valley being the Kidron Valley (cf. 2 Chr. 26:9). The dragon well may be either “jackal” or “dragon.” The location is disputed and is generally identified with En-rogel, but also the identification with Siloam has been forcefully argued. The dung port, or gate, was about five hundred yards from the valley gate. It was the city’s southern or southeastern extremity, leading to the valley of Hinnom, or Gehenna. Formerly a site of monstrous pagan sacrifices, it had been ritually polluted to desecrate the pagan gods, and turned into a refuse heap.

2:14. The gate of the fountain may have led to the spring called En-rogel near the southeastern corner, where the Hinnon and Kidron valleys meet. The king’s pool may have been Hezekiah’s pool of Siloam which was beside the southern tip of the eastern ridge (cf. 3:15). He set out from the west side of the city, coming out of the ruined gateway, and turned left toward the south, and so round to the eastern side. Then he was forced to dismount for there was no place for the beast ... to pass, and he proceeded on foot along this ridge above the Kidron Valley, and turned back to his starting point.

18 Then I told them of ^athe hand of my God which was good upon me; as also the king's words that he had spoken unto me. And they said, Let us rise up and build. So they ^bstrengthened¹ their hands for this good work.

19 But when Sanballat the Horo-nite, and Tobiah the servant, the Am-monite, and Geshem the Arabian,

2:19. Geshem (cf. 6:1, 2, 6) was an even more powerful figure than his companions. He and his son seem to have ruled a league of Arabian tribes which took control of Moab and Edom, together with part of Arabia and the approaches to Egypt, under the Persian Empire. Nehemiah was surrounded by enemies, with Samaria to the north, Ammon to the east, and now Geshem to the south.

2:20. Nehemiah said they had no portion, which refers to a "legal share" in the Jewish nation. Sanballat and Tobiah were also serving the Lord, but in an illegitimate way. Therefore they had no jurisdiction over the pure religion of the exiles.

10:6) and in later years caused much trouble for Nehemiah by allowing alliances with the Samaritans (13:4). The sheep gate was in the northeast corner, close by the pool of Bethesda (John 5:2). Nehemiah lists in this chapter eight different gates and their attached sections of wall, together with the men who repaired them, beginning at the northeast corner of the city and moving in a counterclockwise direction. The tower of Meah was the "Tower of the Hundred" right next to the sheep gate; the tower of Hananeel was a little further west. After these buildings were finished they were sanctified, or "consecrated" to the Lord. Many different groups were involved in the work. Some labored as family units, others by towns, crafts (e.g., the goldsmiths and the apothecary of v. 8), trades (the merchants, vv. 31, 32) and callings (the priests, vv. 1, 21, 22, 28; Levites, v. 17; temple servants or "Nethinim," v. 26; and district officers, vv. 9, 12, 15-17). One man even mobilized his daughters (v. 12).

3:3. The fish gate was located in the northern section of the wall, just west of the tower of Hananeel.

3:4. Meremoth is important since he and Malchi-jah (v. 11) provide links between the missions of Ezra and Nehemiah. In Ezra 8:33 Meremoth checked in the treasure brought by Ezra from Babylon. In Ezra 10:31, Malchijah was one of those who submitted to Ezra's purge of mixed marriages.

3:5. Tekoa was the hometown of the prophet Amos, located about 10 miles south of Jerusalem. Their territory was on the fringes of civilization, adjacent to the area controlled by Geshem (2:19). It is encouraging to note that the Tekoites built an extra portion (v. 27). The phrase put not their necks to the work indicates petty pride rather than halfheartedness. The unbending neck is a standard picture of this stubborn attitude (Ex. 32:9; Ps. 75:5).

3:6. The old gate was on the northwest corner.

3:11. The tower of the furnaces was located at the southwest corner, just north of the valley gate (v. 13).

3:13. The dung gate was at the southern tip of the city near the pool of Siloam, as refuse was carted to the valley of Hinnom to be burned.

3:15. The gate of the fountain was just north of the southern tip of the city, near the pool of Siloam.

4 But it came to pass, ^athat when Sanballat heard that we builded the wall, he was ¹wroth, and took great indignation, and mocked the Jews.

3:16. This Nehemiah is one of three people so named, including one of the first to return home with Zerubbabel, nearly a century before (Ezra 2:2). The sepulchres of David is most likely plural to include those of his descendants. First Kings 2:10 teaches that David was buried in the city that bore his name, this southern part of the eastern ridge of Jerusalem. His traditional tomb, however, is on the western ridge.

3:26. Ophel means a "Swelling" or "Eminence" and was the beginning of the temple hill. Thus it was a convenient place for the "temple servants" or Nethinim. It went up toward the north end of the eastern ridge of Jerusalem. It was also known as Zion, and was the site of the Jebusite stronghold that David captured and made his capital (2 Sam. 5:6-10). The water gate was most likely opposite the Gihon spring, the city's main water supply, along with rainwater cisterns.

3:28-32. The horse gate was near the temple on the east. The gate Miphkad is a reference to the "inspection gate" or the "muster gate" where the people or men may have been mustered for conscription. It would be near the present golden gate. Jesus may have entered Jerusalem in His triumphal entry through this gate or the east gate (Matt. 21:10). With the sheep gate being mentioned at the outset in verse 1, we are brought back to the starting point.

2 And he spake before his brethren and the army of Samaria, and said, What do these feeble Jews? will they fortify themselves? will they sacrifice? will they ¹make an end in a day? will they revive the stones out of the heaps of the rubbish which are burned?

3 Now ^aTobiah the Ammonite was by him, and he said, Even that which they build, if a fox go up, he shall even break down their stone wall.

4 ^aHear, O our God; for we are despised: and ^bturn their reproach upon their own head, and give them for ¹a prey in the land of captivity:

5 And ^acover not their iniquity, and let not their sin be blotted out from before thee: for they have provoked thee to anger before the builders.

6 So built we the wall; and all the wall was joined together unto the half thereof: for the people had a mind to work.

The Adversaries' Conspiracy

7 But it came to pass, that ^awhen Sanballat, and Tobiah, and ^bthe Arabians, and the Ammonites, and the Ashdodites, heard that the walls of Jerusalem were ¹made up, and that the ²breaches began to be stopped, then they were very ³wroth,

8 And ^aconspired all of them together to come and to fight against Jerusalem, and to ¹hinder it.

12 And it came to pass, that when the Jews which dwelt by them came, they said unto us ten times, ¹From all places whence ye shall return unto us they will be upon you.

13 Therefore ¹set I in the lower places behind the wall, and ²on the higher places, I even set the people after their families with their swords, their spears, and their bows.

14 And I looked, and rose up, and said unto the nobles, and to the rulers, and to the rest of the people, ^aBe not ye afraid of them: remember the LORD, which is ^bgreat and ¹terrible, and ^cfight for your brethren, your sons, and your daughters, your wives, and your houses.

15 And it came to pass, when our enemies heard that it was known unto us, ^aand God had brought their counsel to nought, that we returned all of us to the wall, every one unto his work.

16 And it came to pass from that time forth, that the half of my servants ¹wrought in the work, and the other half of them held both the spears, the shields, and the bows, and ²the habergeons; and the rulers ³were behind all the house of Judah.

4:2. Sanballat used five questions; some of them were subtly phrased to require a negative answer. The audience could reach only one conclusion: these Jews were good for nothing. Part of Nehemiah's wall has now been found in recent excavations under the Jewish Quarter in Jerusalem.

4:4, 5. Nehemiah's prayer is like many of the Psalms (e.g., Ps. 123) and Jeremiah 18:23 with a demand for retribution. Cover not their iniquity means let them not go unpunished (Ps. 85:2, 3). Nehemiah's harsh tone is due to the fact that God was being challenged.

4:7-9. The Ashdodites were a new group joining the alliance to bring a threat from the west. They belonged to the Philistine race.

4:14-23. Nehemiah took quick and decisive action (vv. 13, 14) as he set armed individuals and exhorted them be not ye afraid, but remember the LORD (Num. 14:9; Ex. 14:13, 14). He then made sure that half of his own bodyguard was always armed, and alerted each ruler to be ready to lead his group in case of attack (v. 16; the habergeons were breastplates, leather coats covered with thin plates of metal). He then armed the laborers (v. 17), seeing that each builder had a sword at his side (v. 18), having a trumpeter always ready to sound the alarm (v. 18), and urging all who could possibly do so to remain in Jerusalem at night (v. 22). Nehemiah took the lead by setting the example of preparedness (v. 23).

with one of his hands wrought in the work, and with the other hand held a weapon.

18 For the builders, every one had his sword girded by his side, and so builded. And he that sounded the trumpet was by me.

19 And I said unto the nobles, and to the rulers, and to the rest of the people, The work is great and ¹large, and we are separated upon the wall, one far from another.

20 In what place therefore ye hear the sound of the trumpet, ¹resort ye thither unto us: “our God shall fight for us.

21 So we laboured in the work: and half of them held the spears from the rising of the morning till the stars appeared.

22 Likewise at the same time said I unto the people, Let every one with his servant lodge within Jerusalem, that in the night they may be a guard to us, and labour on the day.

23 So neither I, nor my brethren, nor my servants, nor the men of the guard which followed me, none of us put off our clothes, ¹*saving that* every one put them off for washing.

Nehemiah's Anger

6 And I was very angry when I heard their cry and these words.

7 ¹Then I consulted with myself, and I rebuked the nobles, and the rulers, and said unto them, ^aYe ²exact usury, every one of his brother. And I ³set a great assembly against them.

8 And I said unto them, We ¹after our ability have ^aredeemed our brethren the Jews, which were sold unto the heathen; and will ye even sell your brethren? or shall they be sold unto us? Then ²held they their peace, and found nothing to answer.

9 Also I said, ¹It is not good that ye do: ought ye not to walk ^ain the fear of our God ^bbecause of the reproach of the heathen our enemies?

10 I likewise, and my brethren, and my servants, ¹might exact of them money and ²corn: I pray you, let us leave off this ³usury.

11 Restore, I pray you, to them, even this day, their lands, their vineyards, their ¹oliveyards, and their houses, also the hundredth part of the money, and of the ²corn, the wine, and the oil, that ye ³exact of them.

5:1–5. The events of this chapter may have taken place during the 52 days of wall building (6:15). Three reasons for the troublesome conditions were given: (1) the landless were without food (v. 2); (2) the landowners were forced to mortgage their land because of a famine (v. 3); and (3) borrowing was necessary to pay a property tax imposed by the Persians (v. 4). For laws on loans, pledges, and Hebrew debt slaves (who had to be released after six years, or on the Year of Jubilee), see Exodus 21:2–11; Leviticus 25:10–17, 39–55; Deuteronomy 15:7–18; 24:10–13.

5:7. Lending money to the poor at interest was forbidden (Ex. 22:25).

5:8. Nehemiah and others had redeemed their Jewish brethren who had been sold to heathen masters. Now these moneylenders had sold their brethren to the heathen in defiance of the law (Lev. 25:42).

5:10, 11. Nehemiah includes himself (v. 10) in extending loans, but not in relation to the slavery of deep indebtedness. He urges the people to return the property held in pledge, and to forgive the interest payments, so those in debt could begin to pay off the principal. The hundredth part might refer to interest of a hundredth a month, or 12 percent per annum.

12 Then said they, We will restore them, and will require nothing of them; so will we do as thou sayest. Then I called the priests, ^aand took an oath of them, that they should do according to this promise.

13 Also ^aI shook ¹my lap, and said, So God shake out every man from his house, and from his ²labour, that performeth not this promise, even thus be he shaken out, and emptied. And all the congregation said, Amen, and praised the LORD. ^bAnd the people did according to this promise.

Nehemiah's Generosity

14 Moreover from the time that I was appointed to be their governor in the land of Judah, from the twentieth year ^aeven unto the two and thirtieth year of Artaxerxes the king, that is, twelve years, I and my brethren have not ^beaten the ¹bread of the governor.

15 But the former governors that had been before me were chargeable unto the people, and had taken of them bread and wine, beside forty shekels of silver; yea, even their servants bare rule over the people: but ^aso did not I, because of the ^bfear of God.

16 Yea, also I continued in the ^awork of this wall, neither bought we any land: and all my servants were gathered thither unto the work.

Trickery of Adversaries

6 Now it came to pass, ^awhen Sanballat, and Tobiah, and ¹Geshem the Arabian, and the rest of our enemies, heard that I had ²builded the wall, and that there was no ³breach left therein; (^bthough at that time I had not set up the doors upon the gates;)

4 Yet they sent unto me four times after this sort; and I answered them after the same manner.

Letter from Sanballat

5 Then sent Sanballat his servant unto me in like manner the fifth time with an open letter in his hand;

6 Wherein was written, It is reported among the heathen, and ¹Gashmu saith it, that thou and the Jews ²think to rebel: for which cause thou buildest the wall, ^athat thou

5:13. When Nehemiah shook his lap, it was taken as a gesture symbolizing the complete rejection of any who might violate this agreement.

5:14, 15. Because of the prevailing poverty (v. 18), neither Nehemiah nor his household demanded their rightful salaries from the people for the 12 years of his governorship, as former Persian governors had done.

5:16. Nehemiah did his share of the work on the wall, and gained no mortgages of land through lending money and grain (v. 10).

5:17, 18. All of this was at his own expense. He would not do these things “because of the fear of God” (v. 15) and because the bondage was heavy upon this people (v. 18). Nehemiah set forth a picture of the labor of love, as he set an example of unselfishness for all the people.

6:2–4. See the notes at Nehemiah 2:10, 19. Since the wall’s progress had lessened the danger of attack, Nehemiah’s enemies tried to lure him into one of the villages in the plain of Ono. This valley was about 27 miles northwest of Jerusalem. This bordered the districts of Samaria and Ashdod, both hostile territories (cf. 4:2, 7).

6:5–9. Sanballat sent an open letter against Nehemiah, which was made public. He accused Nehemiah of claiming kingship (v. 6) and of hiring prophets to support his claims (v. 7). Gashmu is a variant of Geshem. (v. 1; see the note on 2:19), which is closer to the original Arabic name Jasuma.

mayest be their king, according to these ³words.

7 And thou hast also appointed prophets to preach of thee at Jerusalem, saying, There is a king in Judah: and now shall it be reported to the king according to these words. Come now therefore, and let us take counsel together.

8 Then I sent unto him, saying, There are no such things done as thou sayest, but thou ¹feignest them out of thine own heart.

9 For they all ¹made us afraid, saying, Their hands shall be weakened from the work, that it be not done. Now therefore, O God, strengthen my hands.

Shemaiah's Counsel

10 Afterward I came unto the house of Shemaiah the son of Delaiah the son of Mehetabeel, who was ¹shut up; and he said, Let us meet together in the house of God, within the temple, and let us shut the doors of the temple: for they ²will come to slay thee; yea, in the night will they come to slay thee.

11 And I said, Should such a man as I flee? and who is there, that, being as I am, would go into the temple to save his life? I will not go in.

12 And, lo, I perceived that God had not sent him; but that ⁴he pronounced this prophecy against me: for Tobiah and Sanballat had hired him.

13 Therefore was he hired, that I should be afraid, and do so, and sin, and that they might have matter for an evil report, that they might reproach me.

The Wall Completed in Fifty-Two Days

15 So the wall was finished in the twenty and fifth day of the month Elul, in fifty and two days.

16 And it came to pass, that ^awhen all our enemies heard thereof, and all the heathen that were about us saw these things, they were much cast down in their own eyes: for ^bthey perceived that this work was ¹wrought of our God.

17 Moreover in those days the nobles of Judah sent many letters unto Tobiah, and the letters of Tobiah came unto them.

18 For there were many in Judah sworn unto him, because he was the ^ason in law of Shechaniah the son of Arah; and his son Johanan had taken the daughter of ^bMeshullam the son of Berechiah.

19 Also they reported his good deeds before me, and uttered my ¹words to him. And Tobiah sent letters to put me in fear.

Rulers Appointed Over Jerusalem

7 Now it came to pass, when the wall was built, and I had ^aset up the doors, and the ¹porters and the singers and the Levites were appointed,

2 That I gave my brother ^aHanani, and Hananiah the ruler ^bof the ¹palace, charge over Jerusalem: for he

6:10-14. Shemaiah claimed to have a special revelation about a plot against Nehemiah's life and suggested they meet in the temple, since it would provide the only place of refuge. This suggestion unmasked his evil intentions. Nehemiah knew that God could not have led him to break the Mosaic injunction against laymen entering the temple (Num. 1:51; 18:7). For Nehemiah to have done such a thing would have damaged his testimony.

6:16-19. Nehemiah relates Tobiah's alliance with Jewish nobles through his marriage to a daughter of Shechaniah the son of Arah (Ezra 2:5), and the marriage of his son Johanan to the daughter of Meshullam (3:4, 30). Such links and loyalties were exploited by intrigues, leaks of information, and threatening letters.

7:1, 2. The doors were those in the gates (6:1). Nehemiah appointed Levitical singers and porters, whose work was usually that of caring for the temple and the gates of its courts, to help stand guard at the city gates ("while they stand by, let them shut the doors, and bar them," v. 3). He then put Hanani (1:2) and Hananiah, the governor of the palace (on the north side of the temple), in charge of the city. These verses are an almost exact transcription of Ezra 2. This record was probably stored in the temple archives and provided the basis of Nehemiah's repopulation measures in chapter 11. Tirshatha (v. 65; cf. v. 70; 8:9; 10:1; Ezra 2:63) is a Persian title of honor and probably should be translated "governor."

was a faithful man, and feared God above many.

3 And I said unto them, Let not the gates of Jerusalem be opened until the sun be hot; and while they ¹stand by, let them shut the doors, and bar them: and appoint ²watches of the inhabitants of Jerusalem, every one ³in his watch, and every one ⁴to be over against his house.

4 Now the city was ¹large and great: but the people were ^afew therein, and the houses were not ²buildd.

The Census of the Exiles

60 All the Nethinims, and the children of Solomon's servants, were three hundred ninety and two.

61 And these were they which went up also from Tel-melah, Tel-haresha, Cherub, ¹Addon, and Immer: but they ²could not shew their father's house, nor their ³seed, whether they were of Israel.

62 The children of Delaiah, the children of Tobiah, the children of Nekoda, six hundred forty and two.

63 And of the priests: the children of Habaiah, the children of Koz, the children of Barzillai, which took one of the daughters of Barzillai the Gileadite to wife, and was called after their name.

64 These sought their register among those that were reckoned by genealogy, but it was not found: therefore were they, as ¹polluted, put from the priesthood.

65 And the ¹Tirshatha said unto them, that they should not eat of the most holy things, till there stood up a priest with Urim and Thummim.

66 The whole congregation together was forty and two thousand three hundred and threescore, 67 Beside their manservants and their maidservants, of whom there were seven thousand three hundred thirty and seven: and they had two hundred forty and five singing men and singing women.

68 Their horses, seven hundred thirty and six: their mules, two hundred forty and five:

69 Their camels, four hundred thirty and five: six thousand seven hundred and twenty asses.

Gifts Given for the Work

70 And some of the ¹chief of the fathers gave unto the work. ^aThe ²Tirshatha gave to the ³treasure a thousand ⁴drams of gold, fifty basons, five hundred and thirty priests' garments.

71 And some of the ¹chief of the fathers gave to the ²treasure of the work ^atwenty thousand ³drams of gold, and two thousand and two hundred ⁴pound of silver.

72 And that which the rest of the people gave was twenty thousand ¹drams of gold, and two thousand ²pound of silver, and threescore and seven priests' garments.

73 So the priests, and the Levites, and the ¹porters, and the singers, and some of the people, and the Nethinims, and all Israel, dwelt in their cities; ^aand when the seventh month came, the children of Israel were in their cities.

Ezra Reads the Book of the Law

8 And all ^athe people gathered themselves together as one man into the ¹street that was ^bbefore the water gate; and they spake unto Ezra the ^cscribe to bring the book of the law of Moses, which the LORD had commanded to Israel.

2 And Ezra the priest brought ^athe law before the congregation both of men and women, and all that could hear with understanding, ^bupon the first day of the seventh month.

3 And he ^aread therein before the ¹street that was before the water gate ²from the morning until midday, before the men and the women, and those that could understand; and the ears of all the people were attentive unto the book of the law.

4 And Ezra the scribe stood upon a ¹pulpit of wood, which they had made for the purpose; and beside him stood Mattithiah, and Shema, and Anaiah, and Urijah, and Hilkiah, and Maaseiah, on his right hand; and on his left hand, Pedaiah, and Mishael, and Malchiah, and Hash-

5 And Ezra opened the book in the sight of all the people; (for he was above all the people;) and when he opened it, all the people ^astood up:

6 And Ezra blessed the LORD, the great God. And all the people ^aanswered, Amen, Amen, with ^blifting up their hands: and they ^cbowed their heads, and worshipped the LORD with their faces to the ground.

Teachers of the Book of the Law

7 Also Jeshua, and Bani, and Sherebiah, Jamin, Akkub, Shabbethai, Hodijah, Maaseiah, Kelita, Azariah, Jozabad, Hanan, Pelaiah, and the Levites, ^acaused the people to understand the law: and the people ^bstood in their place.

8 So they read in the book in the law of God distinctly, and ¹gave the sense, and caused them to understand the reading.

9 ^aAnd Nehemiah, which is the ¹Tirshatha, and Ezra the priest the scribe, and the Levites that taught the people, said unto all the people, ^bThis day is holy unto the LORD your God; ^cmourn not, nor weep. For all the people wept, when they heard the words of the law.

10 Then he said unto them, Go your way, eat the fat, and drink the sweet, ^aand send portions unto them for whom nothing is prepared: for this day is holy unto our Lord: neither be ye sorry; for the joy of the LORD is your strength.

11 So the Levites stilled all the people, saying, ¹Hold your peace, for the day is holy; neither be ye grieved.

8:2. The time was the Feast of Trumpets (Lev. 23:24) and was about September 27, 444 B.C. This was the most sacred of the new moons, and commenced the final month of religious festivals (Lev. 23:23-25; Num. 29:1-6). The concept of understanding was important as Proverbs 1:2 indicates (cf. Ex. 12:26, 27; Deut. 4:6; 6:6-9; 31:12, 13). Mindless superstition was the mark of paganism ("They have not known nor understood," Is. 44:18-20), and had been the downfall of apostate Israel (Hos. 4:6: "My people are destroyed for lack of knowledge"). Notice the stress on understanding in verses 2, 3, 7, 8, 12.

8:7, 8. In verse 7 the men gave the sense of the law (caused the people to understand) and then in verse 8 translated or read ... distinctly from the Hebrew into Aramaic, the only language some of the people may have understood (cf. 13:24; Ezra 4:18). This would be the first mention of what developed as the Targums, or oral paraphrases of the Law, which were later written down. This incident is also the first biblical example of an expository sermon in which the preacher read, interpreted, explained, and applied the Scriptures. The result was a great revival among the people.

12 And all the people went their way to eat, and to drink, and to “send portions, and to make great ¹mirth, because they had ^bunderstood the words that were declared unto them.

The Feast of Tabernacles Observed

13 And on the second day were gathered together the ¹chief of the fathers of all the people, the priests, and the Levites, unto Ezra the scribe, even to understand the words of the law.

14 And they found written in the law which the LORD had commanded by Moses, that the children of Israel should dwell in “booths¹ in the feast of the seventh month:

15 And “that they should publish and proclaim in all their cities, and ^bin Jerusalem, saying, Go forth unto the mount, and ^cfetch olive branches, and pine branches, and myrtle branches, and palm branches, and branches of thick trees, to make booths, as it is written.

16 So the people went forth, and brought them, and made themselves booths, every one upon the “roof of his house, and in their courts, and in the courts of the house of God, and in the street of the ^bwater gate, ^cand in the ¹street of the gate of Ephraim.

17 And all the congregation of them that were come again out of the captivity made booths, and sat under the ^bbooths: for since the days of Jeshua the son of Nun unto that day had not the children of Israel done so. And there was very ^agreat gladness.

Praise to God and Confession of Sins

9 Now in the twenty and fourth day of ^athis month the children of Israel were assembled with fasting, and with sackclothes, ^band ¹earth upon them.

2 And “the seed of Israel separated themselves from all ¹strangers, and stood and ^bconfessed their sins, and the iniquities of their fathers.

5 Then the Levites, Jeshua, and Kadmiel, Bani, Hashabniah, Sherebiah, Hodijah, Shebaniah, and Pethahiah, said, Stand up and bless the LORD your God for ever and ever: and blessed be ^athy glorious name, which is exalted above all blessing and praise.

8:13–18. The Feast of Tabernacles (Booths) had thanksgiving as its essential character (cf. Lev. 23:33–43; Deut. 16:13–15). It was known in Solomon’s time (1 Kin. 8:2) and by Hosea in the northern kingdom (Hos. 12:9), and had been observed in the preceding century by Zerubbabel and his company (cf. Ezra 3:4). Yet its detailed provisions were unknown even among the religious leaders. Evidently this was the first time that all the congregation of them that were come again out of the captivity made booths and took part (v. 17). The reading of the Law was one of the prescribed features of the Feast of Tabernacles (Deut. 31:9–13).

9:3. One fourth part of the day was three daylight hours, when God’s Word was read publicly, following which the people joined in a great confession of sin led by the Levites (vv. 5–37).

9:5–38. This prayer gives a survey of the history of Israel, with emphasis on certain events in the life of the chosen people. The approach resembles that of Psalms 78, 105, 106, 135, and 136. The composition of this hymn is: (1) the praising of God as Creator (v. 6); (2) the covenant with Abraham (vv. 7, 8); (3) the great and wonderful acts of God in Egypt (vv. 9–11); (4) the care of God in the desert (v. 12); (5) Mount Sinai and the desert wandering (vv. 13–21); (6) the conquering of the Holy Land (vv. 22–25); (7) the unfaithfulness of Israel and God’s patience in the Promised Land (vv. 26–31); (8) the confession of sin (vv. 32–37); and then (9) a commitment to keep God’s laws (v. 38).

18 Yea, ^awhen they had made them a molten calf, and said, This is thy God that brought thee up out of Egypt, and had ¹wrought great provocations;

19 Yet thou in thy ^amanifold mercies forsookest them not in the wilderness: the ^bpillar of the cloud departed not from them by day, to lead them in the way; neither the pillar of fire by night, to shew them light, and the way wherein they should go.

20 Thou gavest also thy ^agood spirit to instruct them, and withheldst not thy ^bmanna from their mouth, and gavest them ^cwater for their thirst.

21 Yea, ^aforty years didst thou sustain them in the wilderness, so that they lacked nothing; their ^bclothes ¹waxed not old, and their feet swelled not.

22 Moreover thou gavest them kingdoms and nations, and didst divide them into ¹corners: so they possessed the land of ^aSihon, and the land of the king of Heshbon, and the land of Og king of Bashan.

23 ^aTheir children also multipliedst thou as the stars of heaven, and broughtest them into the land, concerning which thou hadst promised to their fathers, that they should go in to possess it.

24 So ^athe children went in and possessed the land, and ^bthou subduedst before them the inhabitants of the land, the Canaanites, and gavest them into their hands, with their kings, and the people of the land, that they might do with them as they would.

25 And they took strong cities, and a ^afat¹ land, and possessed ^bhouses full of all goods, ²wells digged, vineyards, and ³oliveyards, and fruit trees in abundance: so they did eat, and were filled, and ^cbecame fat, and delighted themselves in thy great ^agoodness.

26 Nevertheless they ^awere disobedient, and rebelled against thee, and ^bcast thy law behind their backs, and slew thy ^cprophets which ¹testified against them to turn them to thee, and they wrought great provocations.

27 ^aTherefore thou deliveredst them into the hand of their enemies, who ¹vexed them: and in the time of their trouble, when they cried unto thee, thou ^bheardest them from heaven; and according to thy manifold mercies ^cthou gavest them ²saviours, who saved them out of the hand of their enemies.

28 But after they had rest, ^athey did evil again before thee: therefore leftest thou them in the hand of their enemies, so that they had the dominion over them: yet when they returned, and cried unto thee, thou heardest them from heaven; and ^bmany times didst thou ¹deliver them according to thy mercies;

29 And testifiedst against them, that thou mightest bring them again unto thy law: yet they ¹dealt proudly, and ²hearkened not unto thy commandments, but sinned against thy judgments, (^awhich if a man do, he shall live in them;) and ³withdrew the shoulder, and ⁴hardened their neck, and would not hear.

30 Yet many years ¹didst thou forbear them, and ²testifiedst ^aagainst them by thy spirit ^bin thy prophets: yet would they not ³give ear: ^ctherefore gavest thou them into the hand of the people of the lands.

10:9-13. As for the Levites, Jeshua, Binnui, Kadmiel, and 14 of their brethren are mentioned. Individual Levites signed in the names of their families, for two of these names appear in 7:43. All but four of the Levites are mentioned in 8:7; 9:4, 5; and 12:8.

10:14-27. The chief of the people, actually "chiefs," are listed predominantly in terms of the families they represented; in fact the first 21 names (Parosh to Magpiash, vv. 14-20a) closely follow the list in Ezra 2:3-30. Some of the remaining 23 names, in verses 20-26, have also appeared as fathers' names, that is, family names, in the list of wall builders in chapter 3.

10:28-39. This section contains the general oath of obedience and fills out the declaration made in 9:38 by the whole company and sealed on their behalf by their leaders. Three points in the oath were stressed: (1) no intermarriage with heathen (cf. Deut. 7:3); (2) no commerce on the Sabbath or other holy days (cf. Amos 8:5); (3) faithful observance of the seventh year, the Year of Jubilee (cf. Ex. 23:10, 11; Deut. 15:1, 2). The rest of the section deals with the support of the temple. The third part of a shekel (v. 32) was a reduction from the requirement of one-half a shekel originally given in Exodus 30:13 (cf. Matt. 17:24). Perhaps the poverty of the people called for a lower tax rate. The wood offering (v. 34) was for the continual altar fire (Lev. 6:12; cf. Neh. 13:31). The tithe of the tithes (v. 38) was a tenth of the tenths, referred to in Numbers 18:26. It showed that the Levites, as recipients of the tithes of all Israel, had to tithe what they received and pass on this tenth share to the priests. The Levites outnumbered the priests in Moses' day, but now it was not so. Thus the disproportionate number bore heavily on the priests. This system of mutual support soon disintegrated and had to be restored by Nehemiah again in 13:10-14. The phrase we will not forsake ["abandon," "forget"] the house of our God sums up not only the paragraph but much of the concern of the postexilic prophets, Haggai, Zechariah, and Malachi.

38 And the priest the son of Aaron shall be with the Levites, ^awhen the Levites take tithes: and the Levites shall bring up the tithe of the tithes unto the ¹house of our God, to ^bthe ²chambers, into the treasure house.

11:3-24. This list corresponds well with 1 Chronicles 9:2-17 and probably relates to those already living in Jerusalem, including laymen (vv. 3-9), priests (vv. 10-14), Levites (vv. 15-18), gatekeepers (v. 19), temple servants (v. 21), and certain other individuals (vv.

22-24). The duties of the porters (gatekeepers) are explained more fully in 1 Chronicles 9:17-27, where it appears that the security of the temple area was their hereditary charge.

12:1-9. These are names of 22 priests and eight

Levites who returned with Zerubbabel. Fifteen of these priests are listed among those who sealed the covenant in Nehemiah's day, so it seems that they sealed the covenant in the name of their families (10:3-9). 12:10-11. This bridges the gap between the first generation after the Exile (v. 1-9) and the contemporaries of Nehemiah. It carries forward the genealogy of 1 Chronicles 6:3-15, which ran from Aaron to the Babylonian exile.

12:12-21. These were sons of priests listed in verses 1-7, who lived in the days of Jeshua's successor, Joiakim. Zechariah was the famous prophet (v. 16; Ezra 5:1).

12:22-26. Eliashib was a contemporary of Nehemiah and the grandson of Jeshua, the high priest in Zerubbabel's day. Johanan was the same as Jonathan of verse 11. According to Josephus, Jaddua was high priest when Alexander the Great invaded Persia (333 B.C.). If so, then the Darius of this verse (v. 22) was Darius III (335-331 B.C.). But more likely there were two high priests with the same name or Nehemiah knew Jaddua as a young man. The Elephantine papyri refer to Johanan as high priest in 408 B.C. Nehemiah may have lived until about 400 B.C. and seen young Jaddua become high priest sometime between 408 and 400. By this reckoning Jaddua would have been in his nineties by 333 B.C.

12:27-47. This section relates to the dedication of the wall and the organization of temple services. Verse 27 resumes the narration of details from 11:2. Verses 31-37 present the two great companies that Nehemiah gathered at the southwest corner of the city wall (at the valley gate). Ezra led the first company eastward and then northward. The other group proceeded north, then east to the temple area, meeting the first group in the temple courts (v. 40), where they offered sacrifices and praised God (vv. 41-43). The mention of David and Solomon distinguishes the guilds of singers and gatekeepers, founded when Jerusalem became the settled place of worship, from the priests and other Levites who served at the altar (v. 45a). Asaph appears in 1 Chronicles 15, 16, and 25 and in the titles of Psalms 50 and 73-83.

30 And the priests and the Levites ^apurified themselves, and purified the people, and the gates, and the wall.

40 So stood the two companies of them that gave thanks in the house of God, and I, and the half of the rulers with me:

41 And the priests; Eliakim, Maaseiah, ¹Miniamin, Michaiah, Elioenai, Zechariah, and Hananiah, with trumpets;

42 And Maaseiah, and Shemaiah, and Eleazar, and Uzzi, and Jehohanan, and Malchijah, and Elam, and Ezer. And the singers sang loud, with Jezrahiah their overseer.

43 Also that day they offered great sacrifices, and rejoiced: for God had made them rejoice with great joy: the wives also and the children rejoiced: so that the joy of Jerusalem was heard even ^aafar off.

Duties of Temple Servers

44 ^aAnd at that time were some appointed over the ¹chambers for the treasures, for the offerings, for the firstfruits, and for the ^btithes, to gather into them out of the fields of the cities the ²portions of the law for the priests and Levites: for Judah rejoiced for the priests and for the Levites that ³waited.

45 And both the singers and the ¹porters kept the ²ward of their God, and the ward of the purification, ^aaccording to the commandment of David, and of Solomon his son.

46 For in the days of David ^aand Asaph of old there were ¹chief of the singers, and songs of praise and thanksgiving unto God.

47 And all Israel in the days of Zerubbabel, and in the days ¹of Nehemiah, gave the portions of the singers and the porters, ^aevery day his portion: ^band they ²sanctified holy things unto the Levites; ^cand the Levites sanctified them unto the children of Aaron.

Separation of People

13 On that day ^athey read in the book of Moses in the audience of the people; and therein was found written, ^bthat the Ammonite and the Moabite should not come into the congregation of God for ever;

2 Because they met not the children of Israel with bread and with water, but ^ahired Balaam against them, that he should curse them: ^bhowbeit our God turned the curse into a blessing.

3 Now it came to pass, when they had heard the law, ^athat they separated from Israel all the mixed multitude.

Eliashib's Alliance with Tobiah

4 And before this, ^aEliashib the priest, having the oversight of the ¹chamber of the house of our God, ^{was} allied unto ^bTobiah:

5 And he had prepared for him a great ¹chamber, ^awhere aforetime they laid the ²meat offerings, the frankincense, and the vessels, and the tithes of the ³corn, the new wine, and the oil, ^bwhich was commanded ^{to be given} to the Levites, and the singers, and the ⁴porters; and the offerings of the priests.

6 But in all this time was not I at Jerusalem: ^afor in the two and thirtieth year of Artaxerxes king of Babylon ¹came I unto the king, and after certain days ²obtained I leave of the king:

13:1-3. Verses 1 and 2 faithfully summarize Deuteronomy 23:3-5. Descendants of mixed marriages with these two nations were excluded from the congregation of Israel until the tenth generation. Tobiah was an Ammonite (2:19), and he was already forging strong alliances with prominent Jewish families through marriage (6:18; cf. 13:4-9). The mixed multitude (cf. Ex. 12:38) were descendants of mixed marriages. Those from marriages with Egyptians and Edomites were permitted full membership in Israel after the third generation (Deut. 23:7, 8). The group may have included heathen who attached themselves to the Jews by marriage, commerce, or religious observances.

13:4-9. These events probably occurred while Nehemiah had returned to Susa to report to Artaxerxes his success in building the walls. Tobiah was Nehemiah's old enemy and had always had admirers and sworn supporters in the highest circles of Judah (6:17-19). Eliashib had turned over a great chamber (or room) to Tobiah in the court of the temple. Nehemiah's action was like that of Jesus in John 2:14-17. He threw out Tobiah's belongings and ceremonially cleansed the room.

13:10-14. Nehemiah discovered that, in spite of the oath the people had taken, the Levites (and most likely the priests, too) had not been receiving their tithes and, as a result, had to work in the fields. He immediately contended [a strong legal term] with the rulers and set them in their place. Then he appointed four reliable treasurers over the storehouse (v. 13; cf. Mal. 3:10), which was a large room in the temple.

13:15-22. Another violation of the covenant, seen sabbath, and bringing in sheaves, and ¹lading asses; as also wine, grapes, and figs, and all manner of burdens, ^bwhich they brought into Jerusalem on the sabbath day: and I ²testified against them in the day wherein they sold ³victuals.

16 There dwelt men of Tyre also therein, which brought fish, and all manner of ¹ware, and sold on the sabbath unto the children of Judah, and in Jerusalem.

17 Then I contended with the nobles of Judah, and said unto them, What evil thing is this that ye do, and profane the sabbath day?

18 ^aDid not your fathers thus, and did not our God bring all this ¹evil upon us, and upon this city? yet ye bring more wrath upon Israel by profaning the sabbath.

19 And it came to pass, that when the gates of Jerusalem ^abegan to be dark before the sabbath, I commanded that the gates should be shut, and charged that they should not be opened till after the sabbath: ^band some of my servants set I at the gates, that there should no burden be brought in on the sabbath day.

20 So the merchants and sellers of all kind of ¹ware ²lodged ³without Jerusalem once or twice.

21 Then I ¹testified against them, and said unto them, Why ²lodge ye ³about the wall? if ye do so again, I will lay hands on you. From that time forth came they no more on the sabbath.

22 And I commanded the Levites that ^athey should cleanse themselves, and that they should come and ¹keep the gates, to ²sanctify the sabbath day. Remember me, O my God, concerning this also, and spare me according to the greatness of thy mercy.

23 In those days also saw I Jews that ^ahad married wives of ^bAshdod, of Ammon, and of Moab:

28 And one of the sons ^aof Joiada, the son of Eliashib the high priest, was son in law to ^bSanballat the Horonite: therefore I chased him from me.

29 ^aRemember them, O my God, because they have defiled the priesthood, and ^bthe covenant of the priesthood, and of the Levites.

in 10:30, 31, was the action of some Jews who were preparing and transporting goods on the Sabbath (v. 15); Phoenician traders also were being allowed to sell on the Sabbath (v. 16).

13:23-28. The sin of mixed marriages had erupted again (Ezra 9:1-4; 10:44), and the children of these marriages could not speak Hebrew (v. 24: in the speech of Ashdod). Even one of the younger sons of Joiada married a daughter of Sanballat. So Nehemiah chased him away because the priestly line was not to be contaminated by intermarriage (Lev. 21:6-8, 14, 15).

The Book of ESTHER

The Book of Esther is a remarkably different biblical book because (1) neither the word for God nor the name Yahweh (LORD) occurs in the Hebrew text; (2) the scene is Shushan (Susa), the winter capital of Persia, not Israel; (3) the book concerns the marriage of its Jewish heroine with a Gentile king; and (4) it solves the problem of an incipient anti-Semitism by a bloody self-defense, which is even repeated on the following day by Esther's request!

Even though the name of God is nowhere mentioned in the book, His sovereignty and providence are evident throughout. Vashti's dismissal, Esther's regal position, Xerxes' indebtedness to Mordecai discovered during a sleepless night, and the miraculous deliverance of the Jews all demonstrate God's control and care for His people (Ps. 121:4). The book also explains the origin of the Feast of Purim (2 Maccabees 15:36) on the thirteenth and fourteenth days of Adar (Feb.–Mar.), when Jews celebrate the deliverance from Haman.

A third theme is evident, that of anti-Semitism. When fully developed, animosity toward Jews results in genocide: the attempt to exterminate a race. This satanic scheme is probably much older than the time of Haman. In Moses' day, Pharaoh attempted to exterminate the Hebrew slaves.

Historical Setting. The events of the book cover a 10-year portion (483–473 B.C.) of the reign of Xerxes I (486–465

B.C.). Ahasuerus is the Hebrew form of his name, equivalent to the Persian Khshayarsha and the Greek Xerxes. The events occurred between those recorded in the sixth and seventh chapters of Ezra.

Authorship. The book gives no hint of who wrote it, but whoever it was knew the Persian culture well. The account has all the marks of a person who was there because he described the events as an eyewitness. And he was probably a Jew. Esther is another of the relatively rare instances where there is general agreement on the anonymity of the writing.

Many ancient, and even some more recent, commentators, have attributed the book to Mordecai on the basis of 9:20 and perhaps also 9:32. While this is not impossible, the most one could safely infer from these verses would be that Mordecai's writings and royal records were among the unknown author's sources (cf. 10:2).

Some have suggested that Ezra or Nehemiah wrote the account, but no specific evidence supports that view. There is no good linguistic evidence in favor of such a stance, judging from the style or diction of Esther, Ezra, and Nehemiah.

The book as it stands could have been written sometime after 465 B.C. since Esther 1:2 seems to imply that Xerxes' reign is finished. There is no need to suppose that a well-known person was the author.

King Ahasuerus's Royal Feast

1 Now it came to pass in the days of ^aAhasuerus,¹ (this is Ahasuerus which reigned,^b from India even unto Ethiopia, ^cover an hundred and seven and twenty provinces:)

3 In the third year of his reign, he ^amade a feast unto all his princes and his servants; the power of Persia and Media, the nobles and princes of the provinces, being before him:

4 When he shewed the riches of his glorious kingdom and the honour of his excellent majesty many days, even an hundred and fourscore days.

1:1. Ahasuerus: In Greek his name is Xerxes; he is the Persian king mentioned in Ezra 4:6 who reigned from 486 to 465 B.C. He attacked the Greeks and was twice humiliated by them (in 480 and 479 B.C. at Salamis and Plataea). The India referred to was not peninsular India but the territory corresponding to the province of Punjab in West Pakistan today. Ethiopia was the country south of Egypt, now part of the Northern Sudan, not modern Ethiopia. Darius had conquered it early in his reign, before 513 B.C. The reference to an hundred and seven and twenty provinces was an attempt to make the domain of the king as impressive as possible, for the primary divisions of the empire were the satrapies, of which there were never more than 31. The word "provinces" refers to the smaller governmental units, such as that of Judah (Neh. 1:3), whereas the fifth satrapy included all of Phoenicia, Palestine, Syria, and Cyprus.

1:2. Shushan or Susa was one of the main capitals of the Persian Empire in this period, the others being Babylon, Ecbatana (Achmetha, Ezra 6:1, 2), and Persepolis. Daniel was once carried there in a vision (Dan. 8:2), and later Nehemiah served there as Artaxerxes' cupbearer (Neh. 1:1; 2:1).

1:4-12. Herodotus refers to this as a time when Xerxes laid plans for the great invasion of Greece. Along with him were military and civil leaders during the hundred and fourscore days, 180 days. At the conclusion, a seven-day drinking feast was held (vv. 5, 7) with the queen, Vashti, holding a separate feast for the women guests (v. 9). On the last day of the feast, the drunken king (v. 10) summoned his queen, perhaps to make a lewd display of her before his guests, but she refused to obey (v. 12). The name Vashti is puzzling because according to Herodotus, the queen's name was Amestris, daughter of Otanes, who had supported Darius in his bid for the throne in 522 B.C. Possibly, he had other queens, whose names have not come to light, or she had alternative names. Or there may be a linguistic link between the names Vashti and Amestris.

1:1 Ahasuerus or Xerxes I (ruled 485-465 B.C.) was a king of Persia and the husband of Esther, the Jewess. Ahasuerus succeeded his father, Darius Hystaspis, in 485 B.C. The Book of Esther portrays the king as (1) ruling a vast empire; (2) being very wealthy; (3) being sensual, continually giving feasts; and (4) being cruel and acutely lacking in foresight (vv. 13-22). Ahasuerus banished his queen, Vashti, taking two years to find a replacement. He finally chose Esther, after which the exciting events concerning her, Mordecai (Esther's guardian), and the wicked Haman took place. In 465 B.C. a courtier murdered Ahasuerus; his son, Artaxerxes I, Longimanus, succeeded him. (First Reference, Esth. 1:1; Primary References, the Book of Esther.)

1:2 Shushan (Susa) was the ancient capital of Elam (the southwestern area of modern Iran). The city reached its height of importance as the residence and especially as the winter capital of the kings of Persia. When Cyrus the Great (reigned 550-529 B.C.) established the Persian Empire, he made Shushan its capital. At Shushan, Darius the Great (ruled c. 521-485 B.C.) built his magnificent royal palace, which later figured prominently in the story of Esther. In fact, most of the events recorded in the Book of Esther took place in Shushan (vv. 2-5; 2:3-8; 3:15; 4:8-16; 8:14, 15; 9:6-18). The great prophet Daniel had his vision of the ram and the goat in Shushan (Dan. 8:2), and Nehemiah lived there in exile (Neh. 1:1).

5 And when these days were ¹expired, the king made a feast unto all the people that were present in ²Shushan the ³palace, both unto great and small, seven days, in the court of the garden of the king's palace;

6 Where were white, green, and blue, ¹hangings, fastened with cords of fine linen and purple to silver rings and pillars of marble: the beds were of gold and silver, upon a pavement of red, and blue, and white, and black, marble.

7 And they gave them drink in vessels of gold, (the vessels being diverse one from another,) and royal wine in abundance, ^aaccording to the ¹state of the king.

8 ¹And the drinking was according to the law; none did compel: for so the king had ²appointed to all the officers of his house, that they should do according to every man's pleasure.

9 Also Vashti the queen made a feast for the women in the royal house which belonged to king Ahasuerus.

Queen Vashti Refuses the King

10 On the seventh day, when the heart of the king was merry with wine, he commanded Mehuman, Biztha, ^aHarbona, Bigtha, and Abagtha, Zethar, and Carcas, the seven ¹chamberlains that served in the presence of Ahasuerus the king, 11 To bring Vashti the queen before the king with the crown royal, to shew the people and the princes her beauty: for she was ¹fair to look on.

12 But the queen Vashti refused to come at the king's commandment by his chamberlains: therefore was the king ¹very wroth, and his anger burned in him.

1:13. The wise men, which knew the times were a part of a traditional institution; they were consulted by Pharaoh (Gen. 41:8) and were present in the Book of Daniel (Dan. 2:2). The "times" were strictly propitious occasions for action according to the stars, that is, astrologers.

15 What shall we do unto the queen Vashti according to law, because she hath not performed the commandment of the king Ahasuerus by the chamberlains?

17 For this ¹deed of the queen shall come abroad unto all women, so that they shall ^adespise their husbands in their eyes, when it shall be reported, The king Ahasuerus commanded Vashti the queen to be brought in before him, but she came not.

21 And the saying pleased the king and the princes; and the king did according to the word of Memucan:

22 For he sent letters into all the king's provinces, "into every province according to the writing thereof, and to every people after their language, that every man should ^bbear rule in his own house, and ¹that it should be published according to the language of every people.

A New Queen Is Sought

2 After these things, when the wrath of king Ahasuerus ¹was appeased, he remembered Vashti, and ^awhat she had done, and what was decreed against her.

2 Then said the king's servants that ministered unto him, Let there be fair young virgins sought for the king:

3 And let the king appoint officers in all the provinces of his kingdom, that they may gather together all the fair young virgins unto ¹Shushan the ²palace, to the house of the women, unto the custody of ³Hege the king's ⁴chamberlain, ⁵keeper of the women; and let their ⁶things for purification be given them:

4 And let the maiden which pleaseth the king be queen instead of Vashti. And the thing pleased the king; and he did so.

1:21, 22. Memucan's appeal was to male self-interest. Note the whimsical way laws were made in a land where so much was made of law and judgment (vv. 8, 13, 15, 19). The king dispatched his edict without so much as a further thought. There was something ludicrous about this decree that a husband was to take charge in his own household, for this was the standing rule in an oriental home. The law was not even enforceable. There is an ironic contrast between King Ahasuerus at the beginning of the chapter, when he is the world's greatest monarch, rich and powerful, aloof yet generous, and that same king by the end of the chapter, where he attempts to maintain his dignity despite the defiance of his wife. This lawmaker of the Persians and Medes, whose law could not be altered, was prepared to pass an edict framed in a moment of pique, when he was not even sober. Such is the measure of the king who reigned over the world, and had the future of all in his power.

2:1. After these things ... he remembered Vashti suggests a lapse of time, and since verse 16 tells us that it was the seventh year of Ahasuerus before Esther went into the king's presence, probably the Greek war intervened before the king gave a thought to Vashti. Esther became queen in December 479 B.C. (v. 16), and more than a year must have elapsed between the decree of verse 3 (cf. v. 12) and her marriage. The king may have first become attracted to Vashti while he was still waging his great campaigns against Greece (481-479 B.C.).

2:2-4. Realizing that the restoration of Vashti would spell doom for them, the princes abandoned the precedent of providing a queen from among their own daughters, and suggested that the king choose a new queen from among the most beautiful virgins in the empire. Hege the king's chamberlain was a eunuch in charge of the "house of the women," a most responsible post. The leaders were well aware of the weakness of Xerxes' character (Herodotus, 9.108-113) and took full advantage of it for their own purposes.

5 Now in ¹Shushan the palace there was a certain Jew, whose name was Mordecai, the son of Jair, the son of Shimei, the son of ^aKish, a Benjamite;

6 ^aWho¹ had been carried away from Jerusalem with the captivity which had been carried away with ²Jecooniah king of Judah, whom Nebuchadnezzar the king of Babylon had carried away.

7 And ¹he brought up Hadassah, that is, Esther, ^ahis uncle's daughter: for she had neither father nor mother, and the maid was ²fair and beautiful; whom Mordecai, when her father and mother were dead, took for his own daughter.

8 So it came to pass, when the king's commandment and his decree was heard, and when many maidens were ^agathered together unto ¹Shushan the ²palace, to the custody of Hegai, that Esther was brought also unto the king's house, to the custody of Hegai, ³keeper of the women.

2:5–7. Mordecai was a name current in Babylon incorporating Marduk, the name of the state god of Babylon. The names in his genealogy are well known from the family of King Saul: Kish (1 Sam. 9:1; 14:51; 1 Chr. 8:33) and Shimei (2 Sam. 16:5). He had royal blood and was a member of God's chosen family who inherited the promises. The phrase who had been carried away most likely does not refer to Mordecai, but involves a telescoping of generations (Gen. 46:27; Heb. 7:10). Jecooniah, also known as Coniah (Jer. 22:24–30) and as Jehoiachin (2 Kin. 24:6–17), was Judah's king in 597 B.C. and was deported by Nebuchadnezzar to Babylon (2 Kin. 25:27–30).

Hadassah is the Hebrew name of the heroine and means "Myrtle." In prophetic symbolism the myrtle would replace the briars and thorns of the desert, so depicting the Lord's forgiveness and acceptance of His people (Is. 41:19; 55:13; cf. Zech. 1:8). Myrtle branches are still carried in procession at the Feast of Tabernacles, and signify peace and thanksgiving. Esther is the Persian word for "Star"; it picks up the sound of the Hebrew, and suggests the star-like flowers of the myrtle.

2:12–14. Each woman prepared herself for twelve months, just for one night with the king (v. 12). These verses highlight the inhumanity of polygamy.

2:5 Mordecai is the hero of the Book of Esther. He was a resident of Susa (Shushan), the Persian capital during the reign of Ahasuerus (Xerxes I), the king of Persia (ruled 485–465 B.C.). Mordecai took his orphaned cousin, Hadassah (Esther), into his home as her adoptive father (v. 7). Later, Mordecai uncovered a plot to murder the king and saved his life (vv. 21, 22). This good deed was recorded in the royal chronicles of Persia (v. 23). Mordecai refused to bow to Haman, and as a result, Haman introduced a plan to kill all the Jews in the Persian Empire (3:6). Mordecai then exhorted Queen Esther to approach the king and save her people (3:1–4:17). Haman was hanged on the very gallows that he had prepared for Mordecai (7:10), and Mordecai became second in command, succeeding Haman. (First Reference, Esth. 2:5; Primary References, the Book of Esther.)

2:7 Esther was the Jewish queen of the Persian king, Ahasuerus (Xerxes, ruled 485–465 B.C.). She saved her people, the Jews, from a plot to annihilate them. Esther was a daughter of Abihail (v. 15; 9:29) and a cousin of Mordecai (vv. 7–15). After her mother and father died, Mordecai raised her as his own daughter. Her Jewish name was Hadassah, which means "Myrtle" (v. 7). The story of Esther's rise from an unknown Jewish girl to queen of a mighty empire illustrates how God uses events and people to fulfill His promise to His chosen people. Ahasuerus appointed Esther to replace Queen Vashti (v. 17). Esther exposed Haman's sinister plot to slay all the Jews. As a result, Ahasuerus granted the Jews the right to defend themselves and destroy their enemies. With ironic justice "they hanged Haman on the gallows that he had prepared for Mordecai" (7:10). (First Reference, Esth. 2:7; Primary Reference, the Book of Esther.)

and six months with sweet odours, and with other things for the purifying of the women;)

13 Then thus came every maiden unto the king; whatsoever she desired was given her to go with her out of the house of the women unto the king's house.

14 In the evening she went, and on the morrow she returned into the second house of the women, to the custody of Shaashgaz, the king's chamberlain, which kept the concubines: she came in unto the king no more, except the king delighted in her, and that she were called by name.

15 Now when the turn of Esther, the daughter of Abihail the uncle of Mordecai, who had taken her for his daughter, was come to go in unto the king, she required nothing but what Hegai the king's chamberlain, the keeper of the women, appointed. And Esther obtained favour in the sight of all them that looked upon her.

16 So Esther was taken unto king Ahasuerus into his house royal in the tenth month, which is the month Tebeth, in the seventh year of his reign.

17 And the king loved Esther above all the women, and she obtained grace and favour in his sight more than all the virgins; so that he set the royal crown upon her head, and made her queen instead of Vashti.

18 Then the king made a great feast unto all his princes and his servants, even Esther's feast; and he made a release to the provinces, and gave gifts, according to the state of the king.

19 And when the virgins were gathered together the second time, then Mordecai sat in the king's gate.

20 Esther had not yet shewed her kindred nor her people; as Mordecai had charged her: for Esther did the commandment of Mordecai, like as when she was brought up with him.

Mordecai Saves the King's Life

21 In those days, while Mordecai sat in the king's gate, two of the king's chamberlains, Bigthan and Teresh, of those which kept the door, were wroth, and sought to lay hand on the king Ahasuerus.

22 And the thing was known to Mordecai, who told it unto Esther the queen; and Esther certified the king thereof in Mordecai's name.

23 And when inquisition was made of the matter, it was found out; therefore they were both hanged on a tree: and it was written in the book of the chronicles before the king.

Haman's Hatred of Mordecai

3 After these things did king Ahasuerus promote Haman the son of Hammedatha the Agagite, and advanced him, and set his seat above all the princes that were with him.

2 And all the king's servants, that were in the king's gate, bowed, and revered Haman: for the king had so commanded concerning him. But Mordecai bowed not, nor did him reverence.

3 Then the king's servants, which were in the king's gate, said unto Mordecai, Why transgressest thou the king's commandment?

4 Now it came to pass, when they

2:19-23. The second time evidently was another occasion when the king added to his harem, after Esther had been made queen. Mordecai's sitting in the king's gate may indicate that when Esther became queen, she had him appointed a magistrate or judge. He is now in a position to overhear what is being said by palace officials (v. 21) and to have access to the royal courts (v. 22). He is found sitting at the king's gate on a regular basis (2:21; 3:2; 5:9; 13; 6:10, 12). He actually foiled an assassination plot against the king, and the report of this service was duly recorded in the king's diary (6:1, 2). Xerxes later lost his life through just such a plot.

3:1. The reference to the Agagite is reminiscent of the story in 1 Samuel 15 when Saul is reprimanded for sparing King Agag. Later one of his descendants killed Saul (note Ex. 17:8-16; Deut. 25:17-19; 1 Chr. 4:43). Haman was like his predecessors in that they "feared not God" (Deut. 25:18).

3:2. Jews customarily bowed before their kings (2 Sam. 14:4; 18:28; 1 Kin. 1:16). But when Persians bowed before their kings, they paid homage as to a divine being. The Spartans refused to bow before Xerxes for this reason (Herodotus, 7.136). As a faithful Jew Mordecai could not give such honor (Deut. 6:13, 14).

spake daily unto him, and he hearkened not unto them, that they told Haman, to see whether Mordecai's ¹matters would stand: for ²he had told them that he was a Jew.

5 And when Haman saw that Mordecai ^abowed not, nor did him reverence, then was Haman ^bfull of wrath.

Haman's Plot to Kill All Jews

6 And he ¹thought scorn to lay hands on Mordecai alone; for they had ²shewed him the people of Mordecai: wherefore Haman ^asought to destroy all the Jews that were throughout the whole kingdom of Ahasuerus, even the people of Mordecai.

7 In the first month, that is, the month Nisan, in the twelfth year of king Ahasuerus, ^athey cast Pur, that is, the lot, before Haman ¹from day to day, and from month to month, to the twelfth month, that is, the month Adar.

8 And Haman said unto king Ahasuerus, There is a certain people scattered abroad and dispersed among the people in all the provinces of thy kingdom; and ^atheir laws are ¹diverse from all people; neither keep they the king's laws: therefore it is not for the king's profit to ²suffer them.

9 If it please the king, let it be written that they may be destroyed: and I will pay ten thousand talents of silver to the hands of those that have the charge of the business, to bring it into the king's treasuries.

10 And the king ^atook ^bhis ¹ring from his hand, and gave it unto Haman the son of Hammedatha the Agagite, the Jews' ^cenemy.

Mourning Among the Jews

4 When Mordecai perceived all that was done, Mordecai ^arent¹ his clothes, and put on sackcloth ^bwith ashes, and went out into the

3:7. According to many the subject of the origin of the Feast of Purim (lots) is the main theme of the book. Early in April 474 B.C., Haman had the astrologers and magicians cast the lot to determine which day of the year would bring destruction to Israel. Little did he realize that when "the lot is cast into the lap ... the whole disposing thereof is of the LORD" (Prov. 16:33). The lot fell on the twelfth month (February-March) which not only gave Haman time to prepare but also, in the overruling providence of God, gave the Jews time to thwart his plan.

3:8-11. Haman is careful to ingratiate himself with the king by appearing to be motivated only by the king's profit. In effect he offers the king a bribe (v. 9), which he expected to raise by confiscating the property of the Jews, ten thousand talents of silver, or about 12 million ounces. The king was not even interested enough to inquire who the people were. So he gave Haman his signet ring. With this seal of executive power, Haman would be able to send letters in the king's name (v. 12). Later the ring was given to Mordecai (8:2, 8). Possibly to avoid the appearance of greed, Xerxes offered money to Haman. The king's utter indifference to the fate of millions of his subjects has found modern parallels in Hitler, Stalin, and Khrushchev.

3:12-15. The date in verse 12 was memorable to any Jew because it was the day before the slaying of the Passover lamb (Ex. 12:6). Was God able to save His people now as He had done in the past?

midst of the city, and ^ccried with a loud and a bitter cry;

2 And came even before the king's gate: for none might enter into the king's gate clothed with sackcloth.

3 And in every province, whithersoever the king's commandment and his decree came, there was great mourning among the Jews, and fasting, and weeping, and wailing; and many lay in sackcloth and ashes.

Esther and Mordecai Confer

4 So Esther's maids and her ¹chamberlains came and told it her. Then was the queen ²exceedingly grieved; and she sent raiment to clothe Mordecai, and to take away his sackcloth from him: but he received it not.

5 Then called Esther for Hatach, one of the king's ¹chamberlains, whom he had appointed to attend upon her, and gave him a commandment to Mordecai, to know what it was, and why it was.

6 So Hatach went forth to Mordecai unto the street of the city, which was before the king's gate.

7 And Mordecai told him of all that had happened unto him, and of ^athe sum of the money that Haman had promised to pay to the king's treasuries for the Jews, to destroy them.

9 And Hatach came and told Esther the words of Mordecai.

10 Again Esther spake unto Hatach, and gave him commandment unto Mordecai;

11 All the king's servants, and the people of the king's provinces, do know, that whosoever, whether man or woman, shall come unto the king into ^athe inner court, who is not called, ^b*there is* one law of his to put him to death, except such ^cto whom the king shall hold out the golden sceptre, that he may live: but I have not been ^dcalled to come in unto the king these thirty days.

12 And they told to Mordecai Esther's words.

Mordecai's Charge to Esther

13 Then Mordecai commanded to answer Esther, Think not with thyself that thou shalt escape in the king's house, more than all the Jews.

14 For if thou ¹altogether holdest thy peace at this time, then shall

4:1-3. Mordecai rent his clothes, and put on sackcloth with ashes. These customs were attested in widely separated Old Testament periods (Gen. 37:34; 2 Sam. 1:11; Is. 3:24; Dan. 9:3) and were practiced by other nations (Is. 15:3; Ezek. 27:30-33) as well as by Israel. The law against wearing sackcloth in the king's gate is not otherwise attested, but it is intrinsically credible (Neh. 2:2).

4:3. Fasting was normally by prayers in which Jews would have called upon God for deliverance. Thus, God's intervention results. Even though His name is not mentioned, it is implied.

4:9-14. Access to the king was strictly limited, since he needed to be protected both from attempts on his life and from vexation with people's problems. Even his wife had no right to approach. That she had not been called for thirty days is just one more indication how abnormal life was in the palace at Susa. Mordecai's response put pressure on Esther, for he reminded her that she risked death whether she approached the king or not (v. 13). There are three lines to his argument: (1) Esther herself will not be exempt from destruction under the edict. (2) He reveals his own conviction that God will not permit the extinction of His people: if Esther fails, God will have another way of saving the Jews, since God's purposes are not thwarted by the failure

PROVIDENCE OF GOD

4:14. The word providence means "foreseeing" and suggests the idea of providing for the future. In theology the term is used of God's continuous activity whereby He makes all events work out according to His purposes. Thus the Scriptures teach that God rules over the physical universe (Ps. 103:19), animal life (Job 12:10), the nations of the earth (Job 12:23), and the affairs of individual lives (1 Sam. 16:1). Illustration: While the Book of Esther never records the name of God, the story is one of the fullest biblical illustrations of God's providence in His use of a young woman to protect His people. Application: As we confront situations in life, we should remember these come directly or indirectly from God. We should therefore seek to accomplish His will in every circumstance. (First Reference, Gen. 24:27; Primary Reference, Esth. 4:14; cf. Is. 40:13.)

there ²enlargement and deliverance arise to the Jews from another place; but thou and thy father's house shall be destroyed: and who knoweth whether thou art come to the kingdom for such a time as this?

15 Then Esther ¹bade them return Mordecai this answer,

16 Go, gather together all the Jews that are present in ¹Shushan, and fast ye for me, and neither eat nor drink ^athree days, night or day: I also and my maidens will fast likewise; and so will I go in unto the king, which is not according to the law: ^band if I perish, I perish.

17 So Mordecai went his way, and did according to all that Esther had commanded him.

as Esther hath said. So the king and Haman came to the banquet that Esther had prepared.

6 ^aAnd the king said unto Esther at the banquet of wine, ^bWhat is thy petition? and it shall be granted thee: and what is thy request? even to the half of the kingdom it shall be performed.

9 Then went Haman forth that day ^ajoyful and with a glad heart: but when Haman saw Mordecai in the king's gate, ^bthat he stood not up, ¹nor moved for him, he was full of indignation against Mordecai.

10 Nevertheless Haman ^arestrained himself: and when he came home, he sent and called for his friends, and Zeresh his wife.

12 Haman said moreover, Yea, Esther the queen did let no man come in with the king unto the banquet that she had prepared but myself; and to morrow am I invited unto her also with the king.

Haman's Plan for Mordecai

13 Yet all this availeth me nothing, so long as I see Mordecai the Jew sitting at the king's gate.

of one individual to respond positively to His leading. (3) The outcome of her decision is so far-reaching that, without exaggeration, she is now at the very moment when her life's purpose is at stake (v. 14).

4:15-17. Esther's reply is also a confession of faith as she implies that she accepts the suggestion of Mordecai as her duty, but that she is full of apprehension at the thought of fulfilling it. Her statement and if I perish, I perish is not a blind fatalism or a hopeless resignation (cf. Gen. 43:14), but rather a confidence in God's will and wisdom (Job 13:15; Dan. 3:17, 18).

5:4-8. It certainly was providential that Esther did not express her desire to the king at the first banquet, since the events of chapter 6 transpired between the banquets, making it much easier for Esther to expose Haman at the second banquet.

5:9-14. The word gallows haunts the book (6:4; 7:9, 10; 8:7; 9:13, 25). The connection between murder and merriment (then go thou in merrily with the king unto the banquet) and Haman's pleasure (and the thing pleased Haman) is even more sinister than the gallows he had made.

14 Then said Zeresh his wife and all his friends unto him, Let a gallows¹ be made of² fifty cubits high, and to morrow^b speak thou unto the king that Mordecai may be hanged thereon: then go thou in merrily with the king unto the banquet. And the thing pleased Haman; and he caused^c the gallows to be made.

Mordecai's Deeds Made Known

6 On that night¹ could not the king sleep, and he commanded to bring^a the book of records of the chronicles; and they were read before the king.

2 And it was found written, that Mordecai had told of¹ Bigthana and Teresh, two of the king's² chamberlains, the keepers of the door, who sought to lay hand on the king Ahasuerus.

3 And the king said, What honour and dignity hath been done to Mordecai for this? Then said the king's servants that ministered unto him, ¹There is nothing done for him.

4 And the king said, Who is in the court? Now Haman was come into^a the outward court of the king's house, ^bto speak unto the king to hang Mordecai on the gallows that he had prepared for him.

5 And the king's servants said unto him, Behold, Haman standeth in the court. And the king said, Let him come in.

6 So Haman came in. And the king said unto him, What shall be done unto the man whom the king delighteth to honour? Now Haman thought in his heart, To whom would the king delight to do honour more than to^a myself?

7 And Haman answered the king, For the man whom the king delighteth to honour, 11 Then took Haman the apparel and the horse, and arrayed Mordecai, and brought him on horseback through the street of the city, and proclaimed before him, Thus shall it be done unto the man whom the king delighteth to honour.

Haman's Fall Predicted

12 And Mordecai came again to the king's gate. But Haman ^ahasted¹ to his house mourning, ^band having his head covered.

13 And Haman told Zeresh his wife and all his friends every thing that had befallen him. Then said his wise men and Zeresh his wife unto him, If Mordecai be of the seed of the Jews, before whom thou hast begun to fall, thou shalt not prevail against^a him, but shalt surely fall before him.

14 And while they were yet talking with him, came the king's¹ chamberlains, and hasted to bring Haman unto^a the banquet that Esther had prepared.

Esther's Banquet for the King

7 So the king and Haman came to banquet with Esther the queen.

2 And the king said again unto Esther on the second day^a at the banquet of wine, What is thy petition, queen Esther? and it shall be granted thee: and what is thy request? and it shall be performed, even to the half of the kingdom.

6:1-3. The book of records of the chronicles was the source from which the king's honors list was drawn, and as a general rule special services were promptly rewarded. Since Mordecai's good deed in saving the king's life had been overlooked something must be done and done quickly.

3 Then Esther the queen answered and said, If I have found favour in thy sight, O king, and if it please the king, let my life be given me at my petition, and my people at my request:

4 For we are ^asold, I and my people, to be destroyed, to be slain, and to ¹perish. But if we had been sold for ^bbondmen and bondwomen, I ²had held my tongue, although the enemy could ³not countervail the king's damage.

5 Then the king Ahasuerus answered and said unto Esther the queen, Who is he, and where is he, ¹that durst presume in his heart to do so?

6 And Esther said, The adversary and ^aenemy is this wicked Haman. Then Haman ¹was afraid before the king and the queen.

7 And the king arising from the banquet of wine in his wrath went into the palace garden: and Haman stood up ¹to make request for his life to Esther the queen; for he saw that there was evil determined against him by the king.

8 Then the king returned out of the palace garden into the place of the banquet of wine; and Haman was fallen upon ^athe bed whereon Esther was. Then said the king, Will he ¹force the queen also ²before me in the house? As the word went out of the king's mouth, they ^bcovered Haman's face.

Esther's Plea for Her People

8 On that day did the king Ahasuerus give the house of Haman the Jews' ^aenemy unto Esther the queen. And Mordecai came before the king; for Esther had told ^bwhat he was unto her.

2 And the king took off ^ahis ¹ring, which he had taken from Haman, and gave it unto Mordecai. And Esther set Mordecai over the house of Haman.

3 And Esther spake yet again before the king, and fell down at his feet, ¹and besought him with tears to ²put away the mischief of Haman the Agagite, and his ³device that he had devised against the Jews.

4 Then ^athe king held out the golden sceptre toward Esther. So Esther arose, and stood before the king,

5 And said, If it please the king, and if I have found favour in his sight, and the thing seem right before the king, and I be pleasing in his eyes, let it be written to ¹reverse the ^aletters devised by Haman the son of Hammedatha the Agagite, which he wrote to ²destroy the Jews which are in all the king's provinces:

6 For how can I endure to see ^athe evil that shall come unto my people? or how can I endure to see the destruction of my kindred?

7 Then the king Ahasuerus said unto Esther the queen and to 7:1–4. The second day is the second banquet of Esther, and she is asked a second time, What is thy petition? (cf. 5:6). She asks to be spared along with her people, for we are sold, I and my people. She finally identifies herself with the people of Israel who had been “sold,” referring to the bribe of Haman (3:9; 4:7).

7:8–10. They covered Haman's face, as the ancients often did those about to be executed. Harbonah was one of the inner circle of seven in 1:10. The irony of verse 10 is spelled out in Psalm 9:16b: “the wicked is snared in the work of his own hands” (Ps. 7:16; 94:23).

8:1, 2. Now that she had revealed her nationality to Xerxes (7:4), Esther was happy to present Mordecai to the king as her guardian and cousin. The word house refers to “all that he had” as in Genesis 39:4, thus his total estate. Mordecai was given his ring (3:10; 8:8) and was appointed chief minister of the empire (as was Joseph, Gen. 41:42).

8:3–6. In spite of Haman's death and Mordecai's exaltation, the Jews were still doomed to destruction by an irreversible decree.

8:7, 8. Xerxes reminds her of his favor toward her and that he loves her. But he adds that no one, not Mordecai the Jew, Behold, ^aI have given Esther the house of Haman, and him they have hanged upon the gallows, because he laid his hand upon the Jews.

8 Write ye also for the Jews, ¹as it liketh you, in the king's name, and seal it with the king's ²ring: for the writing which is written in the king's name, and sealed with the king's ring, ^amay no man ³reverse.

9 ^aThen were the king's scribes called at that time in the third month, that is, the month Sivan, on the three and twentieth day thereof; and it was written according to all that Mordecai commanded unto the Jews, and to the ¹lieutenants, and the ²deputies and rulers of the provinces which are ^bfrom India unto Ethiopia, an hundred twenty and seven provinces, unto every province ^caccording to the writing thereof, and unto every people after their language, and to the Jews according to their writing, and according to their language.

13 ^aThe copy of the writing for a commandment to be given in every province was published unto all people, and that the Jews should be ready against that day to avenge themselves on their enemies.

14 So the ¹posts that rode upon mules and camels went out, being hastened and pressed on by the king's commandment. And the decree was given at ²Shushan the ³palace.

Mordecai and the Jews Exalted

15 And Mordecai went out from the presence of the king in royal apparel of ¹blue and white, and with a great crown of gold, and with a garment of fine linen and purple: and ^athe city of ²Shushan rejoiced and was glad.

16 The Jews had ^alight, and gladness, and joy, and honour.

17 And in every province, and in every city, whithersoever the king's commandment and his decree came, the Jews had joy and gladness, a feast ^aand a ¹good day. And many of the people of the land ^bbecame Jews; for ^cthe fear of the Jews fell upon them.

The Jews Destroy Their Enemies

9 Now ^ain the twelfth month, that is, the month Adar, on the thirtieth day of the same, ^bwhen the king's commandment and his decree drew near to be put in execution, in the day that the enemies of the Jews hoped to have power over them, (though it was turned to the contrary, that the Jews ^ahad ¹rule over them that hated them;)

2 The Jews ^agathered themselves together in their cities throughout all the provinces of the king Ahasuerus, to lay hand on such as ^bsought even the king of Persia himself, had the power to reverse the laws of the Medes and Persians (Dan. 6:12-15). Nevertheless, Mordecai had the full right to issue a counterdecree in the king's name, which would be just as irreversible as the one issued by Haman.

8:9-13. Mordecai's counterdecree was issued in June of 474 B.C., a little over two months after the first decree was issued, allowing more than eight months for the Jews to prepare their defenses (v. 9).

8:14-17. The posts were the couriers riding the mules and camels. Many of the people of the land became Jews is the only Old Testament reference to people of other races becoming Jews, though the New Testament bears ample witness to the process in the first century A.D. (Matt. 23:15; Acts 2:10; 6:5; 13:43).

9:1-3. The fateful day was March 7, 473 B.C. It was turned to the contrary was an obvious reference to the providence of God, even though the name of God still does not appear!

their hurt: and no man could withstand them; for ^cthe fear of them fell upon all people.

3 And all the rulers of the provinces, and the ¹lieutenants, and the ²deputies, and ³officers of the king, helped the Jews; because the fear of Mordecai fell upon them.

4 For Mordecai was great in the king's house, and his fame went out throughout all the provinces: for this man Mordecai ^awaxed ¹greater and greater.

5 Thus the Jews smote all their enemies with the stroke of the sword, and slaughter, and destruction, and did ¹what they would unto those that hated them.

6 And in ^aShushan ¹the ²palace the Jews slew and destroyed five hundred men.

7 And Parshandatha, and Dalphon, and Aspatha,

8 And Poratha, and Adalia, and Aridatha,

9 And Parmashta, and Arisai, and Aridai, and Vajezatha,

10 ^aThe ten sons of Haman the son of Hammedatha, the enemy of the Jews, slew they; ^bbut on the ¹spoil laid they not their hand.

11 On that day the number of those that were slain in ¹Shushan the palace ²was brought before the king.

12 And the king said unto Esther the queen, The Jews have slain and destroyed five hundred men in ¹Shushan the ²palace, and the ten sons of Haman; what have they done in the rest of the king's provinces? now ^awhat is thy petition? and it shall be granted thee: or what is thy request further? and it shall be done.

13 Then said Esther, If it please the king, let it be granted to the Jews which are in ¹Shushan to do to morrow also ^aaccording unto this day's decree, and let Haman's ten sons ^bbe hanged upon the gallows.

14 And the king commanded it so to be done: and the decree was given at Shushan; and they hanged Haman's ten sons.

15 For the Jews that were in ¹Shushan ^agathered themselves together on the fourteenth day also of the month Adar, and slew three hundred men at Shushan; ^bbut on the ²prey they laid not their hand.

16 But the other Jews that were in the king's provinces ^agathered themselves together, and stood for their lives, and had rest from their enemies, and slew of their foes seventy and five thousand, ^bbut they laid not their hands on the ¹prey, 17 On the thirteenth day of the month Adar; and on the fourteenth day of the same rested they, and made it a day of feasting and gladness.

The Feast of Purim

18 But the Jews that were at ¹Shushan assembled together ^aon the thirteenth day thereof, and on the fourteenth thereof; and on the fifteenth day of the same they rested, and made it a day of feasting and gladness.

19 Therefore the Jews of the villages, that dwelt in the unwalled towns, made the fourteenth day of the month Adar ^aa day of gladness and feasting, ^band a good day, and of ^csending ¹portions one to another.

20 And Mordecai wrote these things, and sent letters unto all the Jews that were in all the provinces of the king Ahasuerus, both nigh and far,

21 To stablish this among them, that they should keep the fourteenth day of the month Adar, and the fifteenth day of the same, yearly,

22 As the days wherein the Jews rested from their enemies, and the 9:5-10. Nevertheless, many Persian citizens took full advantage of the first decree to attack their hated Jewish neighbors. The phrase did what they would (v. 5) indicates that the Jews were given a free hand without official interference. But on the spoil laid they not their hand (v. 10; cf. 3:13; 8:11; 9:15, 16) indicates the purity of their motives, which thus is evident to all.

9:17-19. Jews in the provinces celebrated their victory on the fourteenth day of Adar, while Jews in Susa waited until the fifteenth (because of the events of v. 15). Eventually Mordecai ordered that both days should be observed annually as the Feast of Purim (vv. 26-28).

9:23-28. These verses contain the third account of the institution of the feast and explain how it got its name, Purim.

month which was turned unto them from sorrow to joy, and from mourning into a ¹good day: that they should make them days of feasting and joy, and of ^asending ²portions one to another, and gifts to the ^bpoor.

23 And the Jews undertook to do as they had begun, and as Mordecai had written unto them;

24 Because Haman the son of Hammedatha, the Agagite, the enemy of all the Jews, ^ahad ¹devised against the Jews to ²destroy them, and had cast Pur, that is, the lot, to consume them, and to destroy them;

25 But ^awhen Esther came before the king, he commanded by letters that his wicked ¹device, which he devised against the Jews, should ^breturn upon his own head, and that he and ²his sons should be hanged on the gallows.

26 Wherefore they called these days Purim after the name of ¹Pur. Therefore for all the words of ^athis letter, and of that which they had seen concerning this matter, and which had come unto them,

27 The Jews ¹ordained, and took upon them, and upon their seed, and upon all such as ^ajoined themselves unto them, so as it should not fail, that they would keep these two days according to their writing, and according to their appointed time every year;

28 And that these days should be remembered and kept throughout every generation, every family, every province, and every city; and that these days of Purim should not fail from among the Jews, nor the memorial of them perish from their seed.

29 Then Esther the queen, ^athe daughter of Abihail, and Mordecai the Jew, wrote with all authority, to confirm this ^bsecond letter of Purim.

30 And ¹he sent the letters unto all the Jews, to ^athe hundred twenty and seven provinces of the kingdom of Ahasuerus, with words of peace and truth, 32 And the decree of Esther confirmed these matters of Purim; and it was written in the book.

Mordecai's Greatness

10 And the king Ahasuerus laid a tribute upon the land, and upon ^athe isles of the sea.

2 And all the acts of his power and of his might, and the declaration of the greatness of Mordecai, ^awhereunto the king ¹advanced him, are they not written in the book of the ^bchronicles of the kings of Media and Persia?

3 For Mordecai the Jew was ^anext unto king Ahasuerus, and great among the Jews, and accepted of the multitude of his brethren, ^bseeking the wealth of his people, and speaking peace to all his seed.

10:1-3. Mordecai held the office of first minister no longer than eight years. Secular history records that another man was in that office in 465 B.C.

The Book of JOB

The name of the book comes from its central character. The English name is derived from the Latin Iob, from the Greek Iōb, which was the transliteration of the Hebrew Īyōb. The meaning of the name is uncertain.

Authorship. The author is uncertain. The name of the author is not indicated in the book. That Job himself could not have written all of it is shown by the inclusion of the record of his death (42:17). Some have suggested that Moses wrote the account. This hypothesis would explain its inclusion in the canon, but it is mere speculation.

Historical Setting. As far as the date is concerned, a distinction must be drawn between the date of the events and the date of composition. Most conservative scholars are agreed that the patriarchal age is indicated as the likeliest setting for the events, because Job, the father, acts as priest for the family, and because there is no mention of the tabernacle, temple, law, or national institutions. On the other hand, such primitive conditions could have easily persisted into later times outside of Israel. Indeed, the homeland of Job is said to be Uz, apparently located near Edom (cf. Lam. 4:21). Also, a foreign locale is indicated in that the book shows a distinct preference for the generic word for God, Elōhīm, as opposed to the personal name of God, Yahweh (or Jehovah). In spite of the uncertainty of the time or place of the events, the theology of the book is clearly pure monotheism.

The date of composition is widely disputed. Suggested dates range from the patriarchal age to the Babylonian exile. If the events transpired during the patriarchal period, the book probably would have been written shortly afterward in order to preserve the story. On the other hand, there was a notable flowering of wisdom literature during the reign of Solomon, and the Book of Job may well have been part of those achievements, especially if its events may be dated later in a foreign locale. The doubt surrounding the date of the book should not obscure its message, which is certainly applicable to any age.

Interpretation and Purpose. The literary genre of the book has defied classification. It should therefore be regarded as a unique piece of didactic poetry based on historical events. We cannot assume that the author intended the book to be like a reporter's transcript of what was said. Rather, the dramatic and poetic form points to an artistic presentation of what happened in real life. People from the Middle East are much more poetic in language than Westerners. In the poetic form the book's message is most appropriately preserved for perpetuity.

Many suggestions have been made as to the purpose of the book. However, the overriding intention seems to be to demonstrate to man the inadequacy of human reason to account for the suffering of the innocent. There is a mystery of divine freedom which does not contradict God's goodness or sovereignty but remains elusive to man. Therefore, man is resigned to an attitude of trust and dependence on a good God whose workings man cannot fathom.

Job's Greatness

1 There was a man ^ain the land of Uz, whose name was ^bJob; and that man was ^cperfect¹ and upright, and one that ^dfeared God, and ^eeschewed evil.

2 And there were born unto him seven sons and three daughters.

3 His ¹substance also was seven thousand sheep, and three thousand camels, and five hundred yoke of oxen, and five hundred ²she asses, and a very great household; so that this man was the greatest of all the ³men of the east.

4 And his sons went and feasted in their houses, every one his day; and sent and called for their three sisters to eat and to drink with them.

5 And it was so, when the days of their feasting were gone about, that Job sent and ¹sanctified them, and rose up early in the morning, ^aand offered burnt offerings according to the number of them all: for Job said, It may be that my sons have sinned,

1:1. The first two chapters are written in prose and serve as a prologue to the poetic saga that follows. Likewise, the epilogue (42:7–17) is also written in prose. The exact location of the land of Uz is uncertain, but it is usually associated with Edom (cf. Lam. 4:21). One of Job's friends, Eliphaz, was from Teman, a well-known Edomite city. Four great attributes are ascribed to Job: perfect and upright, and one that feared God, and eschewed [shunned] evil. His life could not have been more exemplary.

1:2, 3. Not only was Job's life upright, but he was prosperous. Numerous children, especially sons, and abundant livestock were the status symbols of wealth and greatness in that day.

1:5. Job was a spiritual man as clearly revealed by his sensitivity to sin and its consequent need for sacrifice.

1:1 Job was a real person as Ezekiel 14:14–20 and James 5:11 indicate. He was a native of the land of Uz (vv. 1, 19), which scholars have located either northeast of Palestine near desert land, probably between the city of Damascus and the Euphrates River, or to the southeast in the area of Edom. Job probably lived before or around the time of Abraham (c. 2167–1992 B.C.).

Some have suggested that Job was about 70 years old at the time of the events in Job (cf. 42:16). He was very wealthy (vv. 3, 10); he and his sons were homeowners in a large city of the region (v. 4; 29:7); he was a respected and popular judge and benefactor of his fellow citizens (29:7–25). He was a righteous man in God's eyes (vv. 1, 5, 8; 2:3; Ezek. 14:14–20; James 5:11). The events related in this book were initiated by God (vv. 6–8), for God did not allow Job's trials because of any sin in his life (2:3). Job emerged from the severe testing with a fresh appreciation of God's sovereignty and sufficiency for the believer's life (42:1–6).

and ^bcursed² God in their hearts. Thus did Job ³continually.

Satan's Request

6 Now ^athere was a day when the sons of God came to present themselves before the LORD, and ¹Satan came also among them.

7 And the LORD said unto Satan, Whence comest thou? Then Satan answered the LORD, and said, From ^agoing to and fro in the earth, and from walking up and down in it.

8 And the LORD said unto Satan, ¹Hast thou considered my servant Job, that there is none like him in the earth, a ²perfect and an upright man, one that feareth God, and ³escheweth evil?

9 Then Satan answered the LORD, and said, Doth Job fear God for ¹nought?

10 ^aHast not thou made an ¹hedge about him, and about his house, and about all that he hath on every side? ^bthou hast blessed the work of his hands, and his ²substance is increased in the land.

11 ^aBut ¹put forth thine hand now, and touch all that he hath, and he will ^bcurse² thee to thy face.

12 And the LORD said unto Satan, Behold, all that he hath is in thy ¹power; only upon ²himself put not forth thine hand. So Satan went forth from the presence of the LORD.

Job's Afflictions

13 And there was a day ^awhen his sons and his daughters were eating and drinking wine in their eldest brother's house:

14 And there came a messenger unto Job, and said, The oxen were plowing, and the asses feeding beside them:

15 And the Sabeans ¹fell upon them, and took them away; yea, they have slain the servants with the edge of the sword; and I only am escaped alone to tell thee.

16 While he was yet speaking, there came also another, and said, The fire of God is fallen from heaven, and hath burned up the sheep, and the servants, and ¹consumed them; and I only am escaped alone to tell thee.

17 While he was yet speaking, there came also another, and said, The Chaldeans ¹made out three bands, and ²fell upon the camels, and have carried them away, yea, and slain the servants with the edge of the sword; and I only am escaped alone to tell thee.

18 While he was yet speaking, there came also another, and said, ^aThy sons and thy daughters were eating and drinking wine in their eldest brother's house:

19 And, behold, there came a

1:6. Sons of God in this passage refers to angelic beings. Satan is considered one of them, though fallen from his original sinless state. His name means "Adversary," and in this narrative he lives up to its meaning. The passage shows that Satan has access to God's presence, though this does not seem to be Satan's abode. His final casting-out from heaven is described in Revelation 12:10, where Satan is called "the accuser of our brethren."

1:7. From going to and fro in the earth refers to Satan's activity. Though he does not admit it here, Satan's character clearly shows that his many travels are for evil purposes. In 1 Peter 5:8, Satan is described as "your adversary the devil... seeking whom he may devour." The activity of Satan indicates that he has only limited access to God. This account in Job emphasizes that God is sovereign over Satan. It also teaches that Satan is a finite being and therefore not omnipresent. Nor can he touch God's servants without God's permission.

1:8. The initiative in the conversation lies with God, but He may well have simply expressed what was on Satan's mind. God's view of Job is the same as the description given in 1:1.

1:9-11. Satan acknowledges the accuracy of God's evaluation of Job but questions Job's motives. The question of why people serve God is as important as the question of suffering in this story. The hedge (v. 10) represents all that God does to protect His children. A godly man is invincible until God is finished with him.

1:12. God permits but does not order Satan to test Job. Satan's power is always exercised under the control of God. He is limited by the unlimited power of God.

1:13-19. The disasters that befell Job were of human agency (Sabeans and Chaldeans) and of natural sources (fire and wind), though Satan's power was behind it all. Sabeans were a nomadic bedouin tribe known for their treachery and cruelty. They often plundered other peoples as a means of survival. Chaldeans were also a band of nomadic marauders at this time. They later conquered Babylon. All of these tragic events evidently took place on the same day, and of all the hundreds of Job's servants, only four survived to bear the bad news. Human life was lost in all four disasters.

great wind ¹from the wilderness, and ²smote the four corners of the house, and it fell upon the young men, and they are dead; and I only am escaped alone to tell thee.

Job's Worship

20 Then Job arose, ^aand ¹rent his ²mantle, and shaved his head, and ^bfell down upon the ground, and worshipped, 21 And said, ^aNaked came I out of my mother's womb, and naked shall I return thither: the LORD ^bgave, and the LORD hath ^ctaken away; ^dblessed be the name of the LORD.

22 ^aIn all this Job sinned not, nor charged God ¹foolishly.

Satan's Second Affliction of Job

2 Again ^athere was a day when the sons of God came to present themselves before the LORD, and Satan came also among them to present himself before the LORD.

2 And the LORD said unto Satan, From whence comest thou? And ^aSatan answered the LORD, and said, From going to and fro in the earth, and from walking up and down in it.

3 And the LORD said unto Satan, Hast thou considered my servant Job, that there is none like him in the earth, ^aa ¹perfect and an upright man, one that feareth God, and ²escheweth evil? and still he ^bholdeth fast his integrity, although thou ³movedst me against him, ^cto destroy him without cause.

8 And he took him a potsherd to scrape himself withal; ^aand he sat down among the ashes.

The Rebuke of Job's Wife

9 Then said his wife unto him, Dost thou still retain thine integrity? ¹curse God, and die.

10 But he said unto her, Thou speakest as one of the foolish women speaketh. What? ^ashall we ¹receive good at the hand of God, and shall we not ²receive evil? ^bIn all this did not Job ^csin with his lips.

Job's Three Friends

11 Now when Job's three friends heard of all this evil that was come upon him, they came every one from his own place; Eliphaz the ^aTemanite, and Bildad the ^bShuhite, and Zophar the Naamathite: for they had made an appointment together to come ^cto mourn with him and to comfort him.

12 And when they lifted up their

1:20-22. Satan failed. Instead of cursing God, Job worshiped. He had lost two of life's most precious possessions: family and wealth. Yet he remained upright. A third blessing, his health, was left alone.

2:1-8. A second test results in the loss of Job's health. The identification of the disease signified by sore boils is not clear, though its description is very vivid. In any case the boils covered his entire body, were visible to others, and were very painful. Job is now so impoverished that he can only scrape himself with a potsherd or piece of broken pottery.

2:9, 10. Job's wife suggested that Job do what Satan had predicted: curse God. After all she had been through, it is no wonder she was ready to give up all hope. But Job recognized that both good and evil come from God's hand, though one by His active will and the other by His permissive will. God can permit evil things to happen for good ends (cf. Gen. 50:19, 20). In all this did not Job sin is proof enough that Satan was wrong and was sorely defeated. Satan does not appear again in the book.

2:11-13. Some time must have elapsed before the three friends arrived since it would have taken time for them to communicate and then make the trip. Eliphaz seems to have been the eldest and most prominent. He was from Teman, a well-known Edomite city where wise men lived (cf. Jer. 49:20; Obad. 8, 9). Bildad the Shuhite lived in the same general area inhabited by the descendants of Shuah, one of Abraham's sons by Keturah (Gen. 25:1, 2). Zophar also lived nearby in the area of Naamath. Little is known about any of these men. Though these three friends have been considered the most unsympathetic comforters in history, a few compliments may be paid to them: they did come to visit Job, they wept with him, they sat with him in silence for seven days and nights, and they at least told him what they thought to his face and not behind his back. Their extended silence clearly teaches that there are times of grief so great that it is better not to speak than to say the wrong thing, as their subsequent conversation revealed.

eyes afar off, and ¹knew him not, they lifted up their voice, and wept; and ²they rent every one his mantle, and ^asprinkled dust upon their heads toward heaven.

13 So they sat down with him upon the ground ^aseven days and seven nights, and none spake a word unto him: for they saw that his grief was very great.

Job Curses His Birth

3 After this opened Job his mouth, and cursed his day.

2 And Job ¹spake, and said,

3:1. After this, that is, after the seven days of silence, Job broke the silence. Whereas the first two chapters were written in prose, everything in 3:3–42:6 is in poetry.

3:8. Instead of cursing God, Job cursed his own birth. Mourning is better taken as “Leviathan,” an ancient sea monster who came to symbolize opposition to God’s creative force. To raise up Leviathan would be to bring the world back to a state of chaos (cf. Gen. 1:2) and negate the birth of Job.

4:1. The actual dialogue with his friends begins here and takes up most of the book. It consists of three cycles in which each friend speaks and Job replies, with the exception that in the third cycle Zophar does not speak. Eliphaz speaks first because he was probably the eldest and wisest. He was also the most compassionate of the three. Eliphaz takes the position of a theologian, emphasizing the greatness of God and His judgment of sin. Bildad takes the position of a traditionalist, emphasizing the principles of justice and the concept of retribution. Zophar takes the position of a moralist, emphasizing the principles of wisdom, which he suggests Job has violated. All three of them take a negative view of Job, assuming that he has done something to bring this trouble on himself.

4:8. Even as I have seen, that is, Eliphaz's argument was based on personal experience. They that plow iniquity ... reap the same, meaning, you reap what you sow. Therefore, Job must be suffering because of sin.

WHY DO BAD THINGS HAPPEN?

4:2. The entire context of the Book of Job wrestles with the questions of human suffering and divine sovereignty. Why does God allow bad things to happen to good people? In this masterful epic poetry, the author presents several perspectives:

Author:	Suffering is Pernicious
Job:	Suffering is a Puzzle
Job's Friends:	Suffering is Penal
Elihu:	Suffering Purifies
God:	Suffering is Providential

Illustration: Job's life is a picture of encouragement to everyone who has ever suffered—especially those who have been criticized unjustly by others. Application: The initial silence of Job's friends reminds us that sometimes it is better to say nothing, rather than say the wrong thing. Only God knows the reason for our suffering, and we must trust Him despite our circumstances (cf. Gen. 1:27).

Job: Grief Is Unbearable

6 But Job answered and said, 6 2 Oh that my grief were thoroughly weighed, and my calamity ¹laid in the balances together!

3 For now it would be heavier than the sand of the sea: therefore my words ¹are swallowed up.

4 ^aFor the arrows of the Almighty are within me, the poison whereof drinketh up my spirit: ^bthe terrors of God do set themselves in array ^cagainst me.

5 Doth the ^awild ass bray when he hath grass? or loweth the ox over his fodder?

6 Can that which is ¹unsavoury be eaten without salt? or is there any taste in the white of an egg?

7 The things that my soul refused to touch are as ¹my sorrowful meat.

8 Oh that I might have my request; and that God would grant me the thing that I long for!

6:1-13. At first Job does not respond to Eliphaz but only continues his lament. His grief was so great that he could hardly reply.

9 Even that it would please God to destroy me; that he would let loose his hand, and ^acut me off!

10 Then should I yet have comfort; ¹yea, I would harden myself in sorrow: let him not spare; for ^aI have not concealed the words of ^bthe Holy One.

11 What is my strength, that I should hope? and what is mine end, that I should prolong my life?

7:1. Job now turns to God to continue his lament.

Job's Anguished Spirit

11 Therefore I will ^anot ¹refrain my mouth; I will speak in the anguish of my spirit; I will ^bcomplain in the bitterness of my soul.

12 Am I a sea, or a ¹whale, that thou settest a watch over me?

16 ^aI loathe it; I would not live away: ^blet me alone; for ^cmy days are ¹vanity.

17 ^aWhat is man, that thou shouldst magnify him? and that thou shouldst set thine heart upon him?

18 And that thou shouldst ¹visit him every morning, and try him every moment?

19 How long wilt thou not depart from me, nor let me alone till I swallow down my spittle?

20 ¹I have sinned; what ²shall I do unto thee, ^aO thou ³preserver of men? why ^bhast thou set me as ⁴a mark against thee, so that I am a burden ⁵to myself?

would be unjust, and that cannot be (v. 3). Job's children must have sinned to incur divine judgment (v. 4).

10:10, 11. A reference to the development of the embryo from its origin in the womb.

10:16. As a fierce lion: God is compared to a lion who savagely pursues his prey.

10:21. The land of darkness: A reference to death.

11:1-3. Zophar is full of reproof and condemnation. He clearly assumes that Job is guilty, calling him a talker, a liar, and a mocker.

5 But oh that God would speak, and open his lips against thee;

6 And that he would shew thee the secrets of wisdom, that they are double to that which is! Know therefore that ^aGod ¹exacteth of thee less than thine iniquity deserveth.

7 ^aCanst thou ¹by searching find out God? canst thou find out the Almighty unto perfection?

8 It is as high as heaven; what canst thou do? deeper than ¹hell; what canst thou know?

9 The measure thereof is longer than the earth, and broader than the sea.

10 ^aIf he ¹cut off, and ²shut up, or gather together, then who can ³hinder him?

11 For ^ahe knoweth ¹vain men: he seeth wickedness also; will he not then consider it?

12 For ^avain¹ man would be wise, ²though man be born like a wild ass's colt.

Repentance and Forgiveness

13 If thou ^aprepare thine heart, and ^bstretch out thine hands toward him;

14 If iniquity be in thine hand, put it far away, and ^alet not wickedness dwell in thy ¹tabernacles.

15 ^aFor then shalt thou lift up thy face without spot; yea, thou shalt be stedfast, and shalt not fear:

16 Because thou shalt ^aforget thy misery, and remember it as waters that pass away:

17 And thine ¹age ^ashall be ²clearer than the noonday; thou shalt shine forth, thou shalt be as the morning.

18 And thou shalt be secure, because there is hope; yea, thou shalt dig about thee, and ^athou shalt take thy rest in safety.

Job: The Just Man Is Scorned

12 And Job answered and said, 2 No doubt but ye are the people, and wisdom shall die with you.

3 But I have ¹understanding as well as you; I am not ^ainferior to you: yea, who knoweth not such things as these?

4 ^aI am as one mocked ¹of his neighbour, who ^bcalleth upon God, and he answereth him: the just upright man is laughed to scorn.

5 ^aHe that is ready to slip with his feet is as a lamp despised in the thought of him that is at ease.

6 ^aThe ¹tabernacles of robbers prosper, and they that provoke God are secure; into whose hand God bringeth abundantly.

7 But ask now the beasts, and they shall teach thee; and the fowls of the air, and they shall tell thee:

8 Or speak to the earth, and it shall teach thee; and the fishes of the sea shall declare unto thee.

9 Who knoweth not in all these that the hand of the LORD hath wrought this?

10 ^aIn whose hand is the ¹soul of every living thing, and the ^bbreath of ²all mankind.

11 Doth not the ear ¹try words? and the ²mouth taste his ³meat?

13 With ¹him is ^awisdom and strength, he hath counsel and understanding.

14 Behold, ^ahe breaketh down, and it cannot be built again: he ¹shutteth up a man, and there can be ²no opening.

11:11. He knoweth vain men: A sovereign, omniscient God can see Job's sin.

11:13-20. Zophar continues to assume that Job is a sinner but reminds him that God will forgive his sin upon his confession and repentance.

12:2. Job takes the opportunity, now that all three friends have spoken, to give his opinion of their counsel: no doubt ... wisdom shall die with you. The statement is dripping with sarcasm, but is an appropriate answer to these three who thought that they had all the answers to his dilemma.

12:7-25. Job believes in God's omnipotence, too, though here he emphasizes its destructive capacity.

15 Behold, he ^awithholdeth the waters, and they dry up: also he ^bsendeth them out, and they overturn the earth.

16 With him is strength and wisdom: the deceived and the deceiver are his.

17 He leadeth counsellors away ¹spoiled, and maketh the judges fools.

18 He looseth the bond of kings, and girdeth their ¹loins with a girdle.

19 He leadeth ¹princes away ²spoiled, and overthroweth the mighty.

20 ^aHe ¹removeth away the speech of the trusty, and taketh away the ²understanding of the aged.

21 ^aHe poureth contempt upon princes, and ¹weakeneth the strength of the mighty.

22 He ^adiscovereth deep things out of darkness, and bringeth out to light the shadow of death.

23 ^aHe ¹increaseth the nations, and destroyeth them: he ²enlargeth the nations, and ³straiteneth them again.

24 He taketh away the ¹heart of the chief of the people of the earth, and ^acauseth them to wander in a wilderness where there is no way.

25 ^aThey grope in the dark without light, and he maketh them to ^bstagger like a drunken man.

23 How many are mine iniquities and sins? make me to know my transgression and my sin.

13:22 ^a Job 9:16; 14:15

13:2. I am not inferior unto you shows the deep resentment that Job had toward his friends' unsympathetic diagnosis.

13:15. Though he slay me, yet will I trust in him expresses the unquenchable faith of one who lives by faith, not by sight. Even when it appears that God Himself has turned against Job, he will still trust in God.

13:28. He, as a rotten thing: He refers to man in general, who is here compared to a rotting garment, an apt illustration of his corruption.

24 “Wherefore hidest thou thy face, and ^bholdest¹ me for thine enemy?”

25 “Wilt thou break a leaf driven to and fro? and wilt thou pursue the dry stubble?”

26 For thou writest bitter things against me, and ^amakest me ¹to possess the iniquities of my youth.

Eliphaz: Unprofitable Talk

15 Then answered ^aEliphaz the Temanite, and said,

14:21 ^aEccl. 9:5; Is. 63:16
15:1 ^aJob 4:1

14:1–22. The Book of Job is filled with references to the brevity of man’s life. This is especially true of chapter 14. Man is of few days (v. 1), like a flower (v. 2), as a shadow (v. 2), and so on. His viewpoint is very similar to the Preacher (Qōheleth) in Ecclesiastes.

14:13, 14. Sheōl is the Old Testament term for the place of the departed dead. Job longs for death as a release from the trials of earth. His question—If a man die, shall he live again?—is answered in 19:25, 26. (See the note on 19:23–27.) There are several questions raised in this book. They all express man’s desire to know who he is, why he was born, and where he is going.

15:1. The second round of discussion becomes more heated. Now that Job has heard and answered all three friends, he is regarded by all three as quite arrogant.

2 Should a wise man ¹utter vain knowledge, and fill ²his belly with the east wind?

3 Should he reason with unprofitable talk? or with speeches where-with he can do no good?

4 Yea, thou castest off fear, and restrainest ¹prayer before God.

5 For ¹thy mouth uttereth thine iniquity, and thou chooseth the tongue of the crafty.

6 ^aThine own mouth condemneth thee, and not I: yea, thine own lips testify against thee.

7 Art thou the first man that was born? ^aor wast thou made before the hills?

8 ^aHast thou heard the ¹secret of God? and dost thou ²restrain wisdom to thyself?

9 ^aWhat knowest thou, that we know not? what understandest thou, which is not in us?

10 ^aWith us are both the gray-headed and very aged men, much elder than thy father.

11 Are the consolations of God ¹small with thee? is there any ²secret thing with thee?

12 Why doth thine heart carry thee away? and ¹what do thy eyes wink at, 13 That thou turnest thy spirit against God, and lettest such words go out of thy mouth?

14 ^aWhat is man, that he should be clean? and he which is born of a woman, that he should be righteous?

15 ^aBehold, ¹he putteth no trust in his saints; yea, the heavens are not clean in his sight.

16 ^aHow much more abominable and filthy is man, ^bwhich drinketh iniquity like water?

15:30 ^a Job 4:9

15:31 ^a Job 35:13; Is. 59:4 ¹ futile things ² reward

15:2. Eliphaz begins his second speech with a question. There are over three hundred questions in the Book of Job (more than in any other book in the Bible). They express the viewpoint of wisdom and the search for understanding. Their constant use in this book clearly reflects its Near Eastern origin.

15:4. Thou castest off fear, that is, the fear of God. Eliphaz makes a serious accusation, that Job is actually undermining devotion to God by others.

15:5. Eliphaz now accuses Job of iniquity and being crafty, deceitful, whereas in his first speech he seemed to assume Job's sincerity.

15:17-35. Eliphaz again appeals to his personal experience for authority: that which I have seen. He then surveys the judgments that fall on the wicked, thus implying that Job is to be numbered among them.

32 It shall be accomplished ^abefore his time, and his branch shall not be green.

33 He shall shake off his unripe grape as the vine, and shall cast off his flower as the olive.

34 For the congregation of hypocrites shall be ¹desolate, and fire shall consume the ²tabernacles of bribery.

35 ^aThey conceive ¹mischief, and bring forth ²vanity, and their ³belly prepareth deceit.

Job: Asswage My Grief

16 Then Job answered and said, 2 I have heard many such things: ^amiserable¹ comforters are ye all.

3 Shall ¹vain words have an end? or what ²emboldeneth thee that thou answerest?

4 I also could speak as ye do: if your soul were in my soul's stead, I could heap up words against you, and ^ashake mine head at you.

5 But I would strengthen you with my mouth, and the ¹moving of my lips should ²asswage your grief.

6 Though I speak, my grief is not ¹asswaged: and though I ²forbear, what ³am I eased?

7 But now he hath made me ^awearry: thou ^bhast made desolate all my company.

8 And thou hast filled me with wrinkles, which is a ^awitness against me: and my leanness rising up in me beareth witness to my face.

16:2. The discussion degenerates into a series of insults and name-calling. Job protests his innocence, but begins to lose hope in his desperate situation.

16:15. Unaware of God's sovereignty and of Satan's devices against him, Job begins to assume that God is against him for an unexplainable reason. Sackcloth is a sign of mourning. The horn he had laid in the dust is a sign of strength.

16:19. My witness is in heaven implies an advance in Job's faith over 9:33, where he pleaded for an impartial arbiter. He seems certain here that there is a heavenly witness who will testify on his behalf.

17:1. The graves are ready indicates that Job believed death was near.

18:1. Bildad argues that the law of retribution applies to all men, believing that Job's suffering is the result of personal sin. Thus, Bildad becomes frustrated with Job's self-defense. He believes that only the wicked suffer. He implies, therefore, that all suffering is judgmental, assuming that Job is suffering because he is being judged for his sin.

My Redeemer Liveth

21 Have pity upon me, have pity upon me, O ye my friends; for the hand of God hath touched me.

22 Why do ye ⁴persecute me as God, and are not satisfied with my flesh?

23 Oh that my words were now written! oh that they were printed in a book!

24 That they were graven with an iron pen and lead in the rock for ever!

19:1. This chapter contains the highlight of the discussion cycles, since in it Job expresses the deepest faith possible for a believer in his day from the midst of the deepest despair.

19:3. Ten times is an expression for “often” (cf. Gen. 31:7).

19:23–27. God has humiliated Job (vv. 8–12), his friends and relatives have abandoned him (vv. 13–20), and he has been reduced to pleading for pity (vv. 21, 22). But from the depths of degradation he expresses the confidence that if his case could only be recorded for posterity, future generations would judge him favorably (vv. 23, 24). Furthermore, he knows confidently that he has a Redeemer (v. 25, Heb. gō'ēl), One who will champion his cause and vindicate him. The Redeemer is more than an arbiter (9:33) or a witness (16:19) but a Kinsman-Redeemer who will avenge him. Clearly, Job viewed God Himself as the Redeemer, and the Hebrew word is in fact used often of God (Ps. 19:14; Is. 41:14, etc.). In my flesh (v. 26) speaks of a resurrected body. Though it may also be translated “apart from my flesh,” as a spirit being, the emphasis of the original means “from the standpoint of my flesh,” in my resurrected body. Here then is clear evidence of the Old Testament belief in the resurrection of the human body.

25 For I know that my ¹redeemer liveth, and that he shall stand ²at the latter day upon the earth:

26 And though after my skin worms destroy this body, yet ^ain my flesh shall I see God:

27 Whom I shall see for myself, and mine eyes shall behold, and not another; ¹*though* my reins be consumed within me.

28 But ye should say, Why persecute we him, seeing the root of the matter is found in me?

29 Be ye afraid of the sword: for wrath bringeth the punishments of the sword, that ye may know there is a judgment.

Zophar: The Wicked Will Perish

20 Then answered ^aZophar the Naamathite, and said,

2 Therefore do my ¹thoughts cause me to answer, ²and for this I make haste.

3 I have heard the ¹check of my reproach, and the spirit of my understanding causeth me to answer.

4 Knowest thou not this of ^aold, since man was placed upon earth,

5 ^aThat the triumphing of the wicked is short, and the joy of the hypocrite but for a ^bmoment?

6 ^aThough his excellency mount up to the heavens, and his head reach unto the clouds;

7 Yet he shall perish for ever like his own ¹dung: they which have seen him shall say, Where is he?

8 He shall fly away ^aas a dream, and shall not be found: yea, he ^bshall be chased away as a vision of the night.

9 The eye also which saw him shall see him no more; neither shall his place any more behold him.

10 His children shall seek ¹to please the poor, and his hands shall restore their goods.

20:1-29. Zophar's second speech focuses on two key ideas: the prosperity of the wicked is short, and his doom is sure.

27 The heaven shall reveal his iniquity; and the earth shall rise up against him.

28 The increase of his house shall depart, and his goods shall flow away in the day of his ^awrath.

29 ^aThis is the portion of a wicked man from God, and the heritage appointed unto him by God.

21:30 ^a Job 20:29; [Prov. 16:4; 2 Pet. 2:9]

21:1-34. Job strikes at the heart of his friends' assumption that the wicked are judged and the righteous are blessed. Job claims that this simply is not true, if one looks at life objectively: the wicked's children are established (v. 8), his house is safe (v. 9), his cattle reproduce (v. 10), and so on. He even receives an honorable burial (vv. 32, 33)!

31 Who shall declare his way to his face? and who shall repay him what he hath done?

32 Yet shall he be brought to the grave, and ¹shall remain in the tomb.

33 The clods of the valley shall be sweet unto him, and ^aevery man shall ¹draw after him, as there are innumerable before him.

34 How then comfort ye me ¹in vain, seeing in your answers there remaineth ²falsehood?

Job Accused of Wickedness

22 Then ^aEliphaz the Temanite answered and said,

2 ^aCan a man be profitable unto God, ¹as he that is wise may be profitable unto himself?

3 Is it any pleasure to the Almighty, that thou art righteous? or is it gain to him, that thou makest thy ways ¹perfect?

4 Will he reprove thee ¹for fear of thee? will he enter with thee into judgment?

5 Is not thy wickedness great? and thine iniquities ¹infinite?

6 For thou hast ^ataken a pledge from thy brother for nought, and stripped the naked of their clothing.

7 Thou hast not given water to the weary to drink, and thou ^ahast withholden bread from the hungry.

8 But as for the ¹mighty man, he ²had the earth; and the honourable man dwelt in it.

9 Thou hast sent widows away empty, and the ¹arms of the fatherless have been ²broken.

10 Therefore snares are round about thee, and sudden fear troubleth thee;

11 Or darkness, that thou canst not see; and abundance of ^awaters cover thee.

12 Is not God in the height of heaven? and behold the ¹height of the stars, how high they are!

13 And thou sayest, ^aHow ¹doth God know? can he judge through the ²dark cloud?

18 Yet he filled their houses with good things: but the counsel of the wicked is far from me.

25 Yea, the Almighty shall be thy ¹defence, and thou shalt have plenty of silver.

26 For then shalt thou have thy ^adelight in the Almighty, and shalt lift up thy face unto God.

27 ^aThou shalt make thy prayer unto him, and he shall hear thee, and thou shalt pay thy vows.

28 Thou shalt also decree a thing, and it shall be established unto thee: and the light shall shine upon thy ways.

29 When men are cast down, then thou shalt say, There is ¹lifting up; and ^ahe shall save the humble person.

22:1-30. In his final speech Eliphaz blasts Job with his most vicious attack. Beginning with the assumption that wickedness brings only God's judgment (vv. 1-5), Eliphaz compiles a catalog of sins of which Job must be guilty (vv. 6-20). Finally, in a beautiful passage on the forgiveness of God, he appeals to Job to repent (vv. 21-30), though he directs it toward the wrong person.

30 He shall deliver ¹the island of the innocent: and it is delivered by the pureness of thine hands.

Job: Argue My Cause

23 Then Job answered and said, 2 Even to day is my ^acomplaint bitter: my stroke is heavier than my groaning.

3 "Oh that I knew where I might find him! that I might come even to his seat!

4 I would order my cause before him, and fill my mouth with arguments.

5 I would know the words which he would answer me, and understand what he would say unto me.

6 "Will he ¹plead against me with his great power? No; but he would ²put strength in me.

7 There the ¹righteous might dispute with him; so should I be delivered for ever from my judge.

8 "Behold, I go forward, but he is not there; and backward, but I cannot perceive him:

9 On the left hand, where he doth work, ¹but I cannot behold him: he ²hideth himself on the right hand, ³that I cannot see him:

10 But ^ahe knoweth the way that I take: when ^bhe hath tried me, I shall come forth as gold.

11 "My foot hath ¹held his steps, his way have I kept, and not declined.

12 Neither have I gone back from the ^acommandment of his lips; ^bI ¹have esteemed the words of his mouth more than my ²necessary food.

13 But he is ¹in one mind, and who can ²turn him? and what ^ahis soul desireth, even that he doeth.

3 They drive away the ¹ass of the fatherless, they ^atake the widow's ox for a pledge.

4 They ¹turn the needy out of the ²way: the ^apoor of the ³earth hide themselves together.

5 Behold, as wild ¹asses in the desert, go they forth to their work; rising betimes for a prey: the wilderness yieldeth food for them and for their children.

6 They ¹reap every one his corn in the field: and they ²gather the vintage of the wicked.

7 They ^acause ¹the naked to lodge without clothing, that they have no covering in the cold.

Men of Darkness

13 They are of those that rebel against the light; they know not the ways thereof, nor abide in the paths thereof.

23:10. I shall come forth as gold: His friends maintained that Job was full of dross, but Job is confident that no dross, or sin, would be revealed in the fires of refinement.

24:1. This verse is obscure but seems to be a plea for the Almighty to set times of judgment. Those who know God do not see such days. The entire chapter is spent listing various crimes and criminals, the implication being that they carry on their wicked activity with no divine intervention.

14 ^aThe murderer rising with the light killeth the poor and needy, and in the night is as a thief.

24:25. Who will make me a liar? Who can disprove what I am saying?

25:1-6. Bildad's short reply may indicate that the arguments of Job's friends have been exhausted. The essence of Bildad's speech is this: Since the mighty moon and stars (v. 5) are not pure in God's sight, how much less can Job, a worm like all men (v. 6), hope to escape unscathed. While this is true, Job never claimed that he was without sin; he claimed only that his current suffering was not incurred because of sin.

26:2-4. In six sarcastic questions (the first four may be taken alternatively as exclamations) Job tells Bildad that God would be in a great deal of trouble if Bildad had not been there to help God! Then Job outdoes Bildad in describing the majesty, power, and greatness of God.

27:1. Job may have paused here for Zophar to speak. Since the latter declined, Job continued with two replies, apparently directed against all three friends. Both verse 1 and 29:1 begin: Moreover Job continued his parable (better, "discourse").

27:6. In spite of the loss of family, wealth, and health and the accusations of his friends, Job maintained his integrity to the end.

27:7–23. There is a severe interpretive problem in the chapter: Job seems to agree now with his friends that the wicked are punished and that they are not permitted to prosper as he had earlier alleged. The answer to this seeming contradiction lies in the fact that much of what the friends have said is true, and Job is agreeing with them; however, he does not contradict his earlier statements that they have been arbitrary and unjust in their application of their tenets.

28:1–28. This chapter is one of the most beautiful poems on wisdom found in the Scriptures. After describing how laboriously man works to extract the 23 God understandeth the way thereof, and he knoweth the place thereof.

8 The young men saw me, and hid ores and precious metals from the earth (vv. 1-11), Job raises the ultimate question of the sufferer: where shall wisdom be found? (v. 12). It cannot be purchased with earthly wealth (vv. 13-19), but is conveyed only through the controlling factor of the fear of the LORD (v. 28). This concept of the fear of the Lord unites all the wisdom books (cf. Prov. 1:7; Eccl. 12:13).

13 The blessing of him that was ready to perish came upon me: and I caused the widow's heart to sing for joy.

14 ^aI put on righteousness, and it clothed me: my ¹judgment was as a robe and a diadem.

15 I was ^aeyes to the blind, and feet was I to the lame.

29:1-25. Job's memory is stirred as he recalls his glorious past. He lived under the protection of God: God preserved me (v. 2). His family was blessed: my children were about me (v. 5). He was materially blessed: the rock poured me out rivers of oil, a hyperbole for excessive prosperity (v. 6). He had the respect of his community: the aged arose, and stood up (v. 8). He assumed that he would live a long and prosperous life: I shall multiply my days as the sand

(v. 18). Finally, in summary, he lived as a king (v. 25).

30:1. But now introduces the contrast of his present suffering with the glory just described in chapter 29. Now he is insulted and ridiculed by the same derelicts he earlier helped: They abhor me (v. 10). He suffers internally, both physically and psychologically: the days of affliction have taken hold (v. 16). God Himself has persecuted him: He hath cast me into the mire (v. 19).

13 They ¹mar my path, they ²set forward my calamity, they have no helper.

14 They came upon me as ¹a wide breaking in of waters: ²in the desolation they rolled themselves upon me.

15 Terrors are turned upon me: they pursue my ¹soul as the wind: and my ²welfare passeth away as a cloud.

16 ^aAnd now my soul is ^bpoured out ¹upon me; the days of affliction have taken hold upon me.

17 My bones are pierced in me in the night season: and my ¹sinews take no rest.

31:1–40. In Job's final speech he delivers what might be called an oath of innocence. He claims moral purity (v. 1), honesty (v. 5), fidelity to his wife (vv. 9, 10), fair treatment of his servants (vv. 13–15), help given to the poor and fatherless (vv. 16–23), rejection of materialism (vv. 24, 25), rejection of idolatrous worship of the heavenly bodies (vv. 26–28), kind dealing with enemies (vv. 29–32), and confession of sins (vv. 33, 34). Finally, he appeals to God to be the judge: if what he has claimed for himself is not true, let God pronounce the consequences (vv. 35–40).

13 If I did ^adespise the cause of my manservant or of my maidservant, when they ¹contended with me;

14 What then shall I do when ^aGod riseth up? and when he ¹visiteth, what shall I answer him?

15 ^aDid not he that made me in the womb make him? and did not one fashion us in the womb?

Social Concerns

16 If I have withheld the poor from their desire, or have caused the eyes of the widow to ^afail;

17 Or have eaten my morsel myself alone, and the fatherless hath not eaten thereof;

18 (For from my youth he was brought up with me, as with a father, and I have guided ¹her from my mother's womb;)

20 If his ¹loins have not ^ablessed me, and if he were not warmed with the fleece of my sheep;

21 If I have lifted up my hand ^aagainst the fatherless, when I saw my help in the gate:

Elihu's Wrath

32 So these three men ceased to answer Job, because he was ^arighteous in his own eyes.

2 Then was kindled the wrath of Elihu the son of Barachel the ^aBuzite, of the kindred of Ram: against Job was his wrath kindled, because he ^bjustified himself rather than God.

32:1. Elihu was probably one of a number of on-lookers who witnessed the debate between Job and his friends. In the six chapters devoted to his speeches, the emphasis seems to be fourfold: supreme reverence for God, grave sensitivity to sin, recognition of the instructive power of suffering under God's hand, and awareness of the danger of spiritual pride. In this introductory chapter Elihu lives up to the caricature of the "angry young man": the word "wrath" occurs four times in verses 2–5. He explains that he has kept silent because of his youth, but now feels compelled to speak.

3 Also against his three friends was his wrath kindled, because they had found no answer, and yet had condemned Job.

4 Now Elihu had waited ¹till Job had spoken, because they were ²elder than he.

5 When Elihu saw that there was no answer in the mouth of these three men, then his wrath was kindled.

6 And Elihu the son of Barachel the Buzite answered and said, I am “young, and ye are very old; wherefore I was afraid, and ¹durst not shew you mine opinion.

7 I said, ¹Days should speak, and multitude of years should teach wisdom.

8 But there is a spirit in man: and “the ¹inspiration of the Almighty giveth them understanding.

9 “Great¹ men are not always wise: neither do the aged ²understand judgment.

10 Therefore I said, Harken to me; I also will shew mine opinion.

11 Behold, I waited for your words; I gave ear to your ¹reasons, whilst ye ²searched out what to say.

12 Yea, I ¹attended unto you, and, behold, there was none of you that convinced Job, or that answered his words:

13 “Lest ye should say, We have found out wisdom: God ¹thrusteth him down, not man.

14 Now he hath not directed his words against me: neither will I answer him with your speeches.

15 They were amazed, they answered no more: ¹they left off speaking.

16 When I had waited, (for they spake not, but stood still, and answered no more;)

17 I said, I will answer also my part, I also will shew mine opinion.

God's Greatness

12 Behold, in this thou art not ¹just: I will answer thee, that God is greater than man.

13 Why dost thou “strive¹ against him? for he giveth not account of any of his matters.

33:1–33. Elihu charges that Job has had a complaining attitude toward his suffering and a hostile attitude toward God. God does not have to answer to man (v. 13), but He does reveal Himself through dreams and visions (vv. 15, 16), pain and suffering (vv. 19–22), and angelic beings (v. 23). When a man responds favorably to his suffering, God restores him (vv. 25–28).

14 ^aFor God speaketh once, yea twice, yet man perceiveth it not.

15 ^aIn a dream, in a vision of the night, when deep sleep falleth upon men, in slumberings upon the bed;

16 ^aThen he openeth the ears of men, and sealeth their instruction,

17 That he may ¹withdraw man from his purpose, and hide pride from man.

18 He keepeth back his soul from the pit, and his life from ¹perishing by the sword.

19 ¹He is chastened also with pain upon his ^abed, and the multitude of his bones with strong pain:

20 ^aSo that his life abhorreth ^bbread, and his soul ¹dainty meat.

21 His flesh is ¹consumed away, that it cannot be seen; and his bones that were not seen stick out.

22 Yea, his soul draweth near unto the ¹grave, and his life to the destroyers.

23 If there be a messenger with him, ¹an interpreter, one among a thousand, to shew unto man his uprightness:

24 Then he is gracious unto him, and saith, Deliver him from going down to the pit: I have found ¹a ransom.

26 He shall pray unto God, and he will be ¹favourable unto him: and he shall see his face with joy: for he will ²render unto man his righteousness.

Let Us Choose Judgment

34 Furthermore Elihu answered and said,

2 Hear my words, O ye wise men; and give ear unto me, ye that have knowledge.

3 ^aFor the ear ¹trieth words, as the ²mouth tasteth meat.

4 Let us choose to us ¹judgment: let us know among ourselves what is good.

5 For Job hath said, ^aI am righteous: and ^bGod hath taken away ¹my judgment.

6 ^aShould I lie ¹against my right? my ²wound is incurable without transgression.

7 What man is like Job, ^a*who* drinketh up ¹scorning like water?

8 Which goeth in company with the workers of iniquity, and walketh with wicked men.

9 For ^ahe hath said, It profiteth a man nothing that he should delight himself with God.

10 Therefore hearken unto me, ye ¹men of understanding: ^afar be it from God, that he should do wickedness; and from the Almighty, that he should commit iniquity.

11 ^aFor the work of a man shall he ¹render unto him, and cause every man to find according to his ways.

12 Yea, surely God will not do wickedly, neither will the Almighty ^apervert judgment.

13 Who hath given him a charge over the earth? or who hath ¹disposed the whole world?

34:1—35:16. In these chapters Elihu answers two arguments crucial to Job's position. First, against Job's charge that God has wrongly afflicted an innocent man, Elihu answers that God's absolute sovereignty (34:13–15) and omniscience (34:21–28) ensure His justice. Second, against Job's position that righteousness does not garner divine favor, Elihu answers that neither sin nor righteousness cause any change in God (35:5–7). Further, Job has denied the teaching value of suffering (35:11), and has failed to have his prayers answered because they are vain (35:13).

14 If he set his heart upon man, if he ^agather unto himself his spirit and his breath;

15 ^aAll flesh shall perish together, and man shall turn again unto dust.

The Ways of Man

16 If now thou hast understanding, hear this: hearken to the voice of my words.

17 ^aShall even he that hateth ¹right govern? and wilt thou ^bcondemn him that is most just?

18 ^aIs it fit to say to a king, Thou art ¹wicked? and to princes, Ye are ²ungodly?

19 ¹How much less to him that ^aaccepteth not the persons of princes, nor regardeth the rich more than the poor? for ^bthey all are the work of his hands.

20 In a moment shall they die, and the people shall be troubled ^aat midnight, and pass away: and the mighty shall be taken away without hand.

21 ^aFor his eyes are upon the ways of man, and he seeth all his goings.

22 ^aThere is no darkness, nor shadow of death, where the workers of iniquity may hide themselves.

23 For he ¹will not lay upon man more than right; that he should ²enter into judgment with God.

24 ^aHe shall break in pieces mighty men ¹without number, and set others in their ²stead.

25 Therefore he knoweth their works, and he ¹overturneth them in the night, so that they are ²destroyed.

26 He striketh them as wicked men in the open sight of others;

27 Because they ^aturned back from him, and ^bwould not consider any of his ways:

28 So that they ^acause the cry of the poor to come unto him, and he ^bheareth the cry of the afflicted.

37 For he addeth ^arebellion unto his sin, he ¹clappeth his hands among us, and multiplieth his words against God.

God's Righteousness

35 Elihu spake moreover, and said,

2 Thinkest thou this to be right, that thou saidst, My righteousness is more than God's?

3 For ^athou saidst, What advantage will it be unto thee? and, What profit shall I have, ¹if I be cleansed from my sin?

11 Who ^ateacheth us more than the beasts of the earth, and maketh us wiser than the fowls of heaven?

12 ^aThere they cry, but none giveth answer, because of the pride of evil men.

Judgment Before God

13 ^aSurely God will not ¹hear vanity, neither will the Almighty regard it.

14 ^aAlthough thou sayest thou ¹shalt not see him, yet ²judgment is before him; therefore ^btrust³ thou in him.

15 But now, because ¹it is not so, he hath ^avisited in his anger; yet he knoweth it not in great extremity:

16 ^aTherefore doth Job open his mouth in vain; he multiplieth words without knowledge.

God's Strength and Wisdom

36 Elihu also proceeded, and said,

2 ¹Suffer me a little, and I will shew thee that ²I have yet to speak on God's behalf.

3 I will fetch my knowledge from afar, and will ascribe righteousness to my Maker.

4 For truly my words shall not be false: he that is perfect in knowledge is with thee.

5 Behold, God is mighty, and despiseth not any: ^ahe is mighty in strength and wisdom.

6 He preserveth not the life of the wicked: but giveth ¹right to the ^apoor.

God's greatness, Job is admonished to listen (v. 14). Man is too limited in knowledge (vv. 15—20) to speak to, approach, or understand such a God (vv. 21—23). Therefore, man must fear God.

38:1—40:2. Job had called on many occasions for God to appear. Finally, He does appear in a whirlwind, but not with the answers Job desired. Rather, God comes with questions. There are a total of 39 questions in chapter 38, which easily ranks it as the chapter with the most questions in all the Bible. When added to the 20 questions in 39:1—40:2, the total comes to 59 questions that God asked Job in the first cycle of interrogation. The second cycle (40:6—41:34) contains another 24 questions. The significant thing about these questions is that Job cannot answer a single one! God was driving home the point that Job must let God be God, the sovereign and omnipotent Creator who answers to no one.

38:4—38. The questions cover a wide range of the marvels of God's creation, with the emphasis placed on the inanimate world: earth (vv. 4–7), sea (vv. 8–11), the dawn (dayspring) (vv. 12–15), unseen wonders (vv. 16–21), weather phenomena (vv. 22–30), and heavenly bodies (vv. 31–38).

the peacock (the stork), and the ostrich (39:13–18), the horse (39:19–25), the hawk (39:26), and the eagle (39:27–30).

40:3-5. Job's reply is one of humble submission in the face of an omnipotent and omniscient God: Behold, I am vile (v. 4).

40:6-14. God's second series of questions begins with an affirmation of His administration of the moral order. Job had questioned God's justice in order to protect his own innocence: Wilt thou condemn me, that thou mayest be righteous? (v. 8). God says in essence: "If you are as powerful as I [v. 9], then you bring judgment on the proud [v. 11]; then I will admit your power" (v. 14).

40:15-41:34. The rest of the speech is taken up with a description of behemoth (40:15-24) and leviathan (41:1-34). These are certainly literal, not mythical, creatures since they are observable and because the rest of the Lord's questions deal with real animals. There have been numerous suggestions as to the identity of these creatures, with the most likely being the hippopotamus and crocodile, respectively. The descriptions of both are filled with hyperbole: he drinketh up a river (40:23); a flame goeth out of his mouth (41:21) (cf. the earlier hyperbolic description of the horse in 39:19-25). The point of referring to these animals is this: if Job cannot master just two marvels of physical strength within God's creation, how can he expect to stand as a combatant before their powerful Creator? God has proven that He is wise, just, and powerful; Job must rest humbly and trustfully in a God who knows more than he.

Job's Repentance

42 Then Job answered the LORD, and said,

2 I know that thou ^acanst do every thing, and that ¹no thought can be withholden from thee.

3 ^aWho is he that hideth counsel without knowledge? therefore have I uttered that I understood not; ^bthings too wonderful for me, which I knew not.

6 Wherefore I ^aabhor¹ myself, and repent in dust and ashes.

7 And it was so, that after the LORD had spoken these words unto Job, the LORD said to Eliphaz the Temanite, My wrath is kindled against thee, and against thy two friends: for ye have not spoken of me the thing that is right, as my servant Job hath.

8 Therefore take unto you now ^aseven bullocks and seven rams, and ^bgo to my servant Job, and offer up for yourselves a burnt offering; and my servant Job shall ^cpray for you: for ¹him will I accept: lest I deal with you after your folly, in that ye have not spoken of me the thing which is right, like my servant Job.

9 So Eliphaz the Temanite and Bildad the Shuhite and Zophar the Naamathite went, and did according as the LORD commanded them: the LORD also ¹accepted Job.

10 ^aAnd the LORD ¹turned the ²captivity of Job, when he prayed for his friends: also the LORD gave Job ^btwice as much as he had before.

11 Then came there unto him ^aall his brethren, and all his sisters, and all they that had been of his acquaintance before, and did eat bread with him in his house: and they bemoaned him, and comforted him over all the ¹evil that the LORD had brought upon him: every man also gave him a piece of ²money, and every one an earring of gold.

Job's Faithfulness Rewarded

12 So the LORD blessed ^athe latter end of Job more than his beginning: for he had ^bfourteen thousand sheep, and six thousand camels, and a thousand yoke of oxen, and a thousand ¹she asses.

13 ^aHe had also seven sons and three daughters.

14 And he called the name of the first, ¹Jemima; and the name of the second, ²Kezia; and the name of the third, ³Keren-happuch.

15 And in all the land were no women found so fair as the daughters of Job: and their father gave them inheritance among their brethren.

The Death of Job

16 After this ^alived Job an hundred and forty years, and saw his sons, and his sons' sons, even four generations.

17 So Job died, being old and ^afull of days.

42:1-6. The point of all of God's questions was not lost on Job: he has a new awareness of the wisdom of God's hidden plans, a new sense of the limits of his own wisdom, and a new sensitivity to his own sin. He admits that his has been a limited perspective, and he totally submits to God's will and authority.

42:7-9. Job's friends are rebuked for their errors, with Eliphaz being singled out as the leader of the three. The Lord refers to Job as my servant four times to show His approval.

42:10-17. Turned the captivity is a figure meaning

"released." In other words, God brought an end to Job's suffering and set him free to enjoy life again. God's restoration of Job is immediate and bountiful: he is given friends (v. 11), material prosperity (v. 12), family (vv. 13-15), and long life (vv. 16, 17). The point to be garnered from the book is not that God intends to deal with every servant as abundantly as He did with Job; rather, that God holds sovereign and loving sway over every human life. Therefore, He can be trusted implicitly in all things (cf. Rom. 8:28; 1 Thess. 5:18).

The Book of PSALMS

Title. The English title comes from the Septuagint, which entitled the book Psalmoi, meaning “Sacred Songs Sung to Musical Accompaniment.” The Hebrew title for the book is tehilim, “praises.” If one word could be chosen to describe the book, certainly “praises” would qualify, for there is no psalm that does not contain an element of praise.

Authorship. The superscriptions (part of the Hebrew text before the first verse in English) name six authors.

Asaph	Psalms 50, 73—83
Solomon	Psalms 72, 127
Heman	Psalm 88
Ethan	Psalm 89

In addition to these authors 12 psalms are assigned to “The Sons of Korah,” though they were most likely performers rather than authors. (See the superscription in Ps. 88.) Sixty-one psalms are anonymous.

Date. In such a collection of hymns, a widely divergent range of dates is inevitable: from the oldest, the Psalm of Moses (ch. 90), to a number of postexilic psalms, or a period of about one thousand years (1400–400 B.C.).

Classification of the Psalms. There have been numerous attempts to classify the psalms. Though each psalm is an individual poem with its own theme, there are enough noticeable shared forms and ideas to warrant categorization. The following classification is based partly on form and partly on content:

(1) Lament Psalms contain a plea for deliverance or defense and are addressed directly to God. They may be individual (chs. 5—7, 13, 17, 22, 25, 26, 28, 31, 35, 36, 38, 39, 42, 43, 51, 54—57, 59, 61, 63, 64, 69—71, 86, 88, 102, 109, 120, 130, 140—143) or national (chs. 12, 44, 58, 60, 74, 77, 79, 80, 82, 83, 85, 90, 94, 106, 108, 123, 126, 137).

(2) Psalms of Confidence include a lament, but the ideas of security, peace, joy, and confidence predominate. They may be individual (chs. 3, 4, 11, 16, 23, 27, 62, 121, 131) or national (chs. 115, 125, 129).

(3) Psalms of Thanksgiving express public thanksgiving for what God has done or in anticipation of what He will do. They may be individual (chs. 9, 10, 30, 32, 34, 40, 41, 92, 107, 116, 138) or national (chs. 65—68, 118, 124).

(4) Psalms of Praise are constructed around three key elements: a call to praise or introduction, a cause for praise (usually for God’s attributes or deeds), and a conclusion (chs. 8, 19, 29, 33, 100, 103, 104, 111, 113, 114, 117, 135, 136, 145—150).

(5) Enthronement Psalms of the Divine Kingdom contain the expression “the LORD reigns” (or, in the case of Psalm 98, “the LORD, the King”) and speak of the rule of God over all the earth. They are prophetic of Christ’s kingly rule (chs. 47, 93, 96—99).

(6) Songs of Zion extol Zion, or Jerusalem, for its exalted role as the abode of God’s glory and as the religious and political capital of the nation (chs. 15, 24, 46, 48, 50, 76, 81, 84, 87, 95, 122, 134). The Pilgrim Psalms (see p. 829) are sometimes included here, but they do not really constitute a distinct literary type.

(7) Royal Psalms concern the reign of the king, either historical or messianic, or both (chs. 2, 18, 20, 21, 45, 72, 89, 101, 110, 132, 144).

(8) Wisdom Psalms emphasize the traditional teaching of the wise men of Israel: meditation on the law, the way of the righteous versus the way of the wicked, and the necessity of practical righteousness (chs. 1, 14, 37, 49, 52, 53, 73, 75, 91, 112, 119, 127, 128, 133, 139).

(9) Historical Psalms trace the history of God's saving activity on behalf of Israel (chs. 78, 105).

Other categories, identified strictly for content, overlap with the above. These include the following:

(1) Messianic Psalms are prophetic in some way of the Messiah. They include psalms in which the righteous man's character is a type of Christ (34:20; 69:4, 9), the righteous man's experience foreshadows Christ's experience (ch. 22), the existing king's ideals and calling will be fulfilled in Christ, the ultimate King (chs. 2, 45, 72), Christ's work is prophesied with no contemporary reference (only ch. 110), or the enthronement of Christ as universal King over the earth is predicted (chs. 47, 93, 96—99).

(2) Imprecatory Psalms contain an imprecation or prayer for retributive justice to fall on one's enemy (chs. 35, 55, 58, 59, 69, 83, 109, 137, 140). These may be justified by remembering that the Israelites were building a political kingdom and, as long as evil men triumphed over them, God's rule was thwarted. The psalmists were concerned primarily with the glory of God, and at the very least, they did put the matter into God's hands for His just dealing. These prayers are actually in the same spirit as the petition "Thy kingdom come" (Matt. 6:10) because the coming of God's kingdom includes the destruction of the wicked. See the note on Psalm 109.

(3) Psalms of Ascents or Pilgrim Psalms (chs. 120—134) were sung by pilgrims journeying up to Jerusalem for the three annual feasts of Passover, Pentecost, and Tabernacles.

(4) Acrostic Psalms are those in which each verse begins with a consecutive letter of the Hebrew alphabet (chs. 9, 10, 25, 34, 37, 111, 112, 119, 145). Psalm 119 is in a class by itself with eight verses for each letter of the alphabet.

Superscriptions in the Psalms. The identification of many of the technical words in the superscriptions is dubious. The headings include names for types of psalms ("a psalm"), musical terms ("to the chief musician"), melody indicators ("upon Shoshannim," ch. 45), and liturgical indicators ("for the sabbath day," ch. 92). Fourteen psalms contain historical superscriptions that give some brief mention of the occasion on which the psalm was written (chs. 3, 7, 18, 30, 34, 51, 52, 54, 56, 57, 59, 60, 63, 142).

Purpose of the Psalms. The purpose of the psalms was well expressed by David when he instituted hymns in Israel. He appointed the Levites "to record [better: make petition] and to thank and praise the LORD God of Israel" (1 Chr. 16:4). The Book of Psalms is a record of petitions (or laments), thanksgiving, and praise to God by His people. As such it has brought comfort, encouragement, and blessing to God's people throughout the ages. Every human emotion is covered in these hymns of aspiration to God.

Structure. The Book of Psalms is arranged in five books:

OUTLINE OF PSALMS

Book I	Psalms 1—41
Book II	Psalms 42—72
Book III	Psalms 73—89
Book IV	Psalms 90—106
Book V	Psalms 107—150

Each of the first four books concludes with a doxology, while Psalm 150 serves in its entirety as both a doxology for the fifth book and an appropriate conclusion to the entire Psalter. The fivefold arrangement has long been recognized, but no explanation for its origin has proved satisfactory. The most common is the early Jewish tradition that judged the five books to be an imitation of the five books of Moses. No one to date, however, has satisfactorily enumerated undisputed likenesses between the two sets of books, although some parallels have been found.

PSALM 1

Blessings on the Godly

BLESSED ^ais the man that walketh not in the counsel of the ¹ungodly, nor standeth in the way of sinners, ^bnor sitteth in the seat of the scornful.

2 But ^ahis delight is in the law of the LORD; ^band in his law doth he ¹meditate day and night.

6 For ^a“the LORD knoweth the way of the righteous: but the way of the ungodly shall perish.

2:9 ^aPs. 89:23; 110:5, 6; [Rev. 2:26, 27; 12:5; 19:15]

Psalm 1. The key word in the psalm is the word blessed. It serves here as a pronouncement upon a man—but a certain kind of man. In essence, the psalm is teaching that the blessed or happy man is the righteous man. The happy man avoids evil influences, deeds, and attitudes (v. 1); he delights in God’s Word (v. 2); therefore, God causes him to prosper (v. 3). On the other hand, the ungodly is worth no more than chaff (v. 4), and his destiny is judgment (v. 5). Finally, the evaluation by the Lord Himself is described (v. 6). There is an ellipsis which is understood with both clauses in verse 6: For the LORD knoweth the way of the righteous [and it will be blessed], but [He also knows] the way of the ungodly [and it] shall perish. The psalm forms an appropriate introduction to the Psalter since it sets before the readers the three characters who will figure mostly in the psalms: the righteous, the ungodly, and God.

Psalm 2. Psalm 2 is attributed to David in Acts 4:25 and is called the second psalm in Acts 13:33. The introductory rhetorical question, Why do the heathen rage? (v. 1), is shown in the following verses to be a question of incredulity: Why do the nations attack God’s anointed king when their attack is doomed to failure? Historically, his anointed (v. 2) referred to David or to any of his descendants who were experiencing opposition (cf. 1 Sam. 24:6); prophetically, it refers to the Messiah who, as Son of David, also experienced opposition (Acts 4:25-27). The fact that God shall laugh (v. 4) at the world’s opposition to the Anointed

ETERNAL GENERATION

2:7. When was Jesus “begotten”? Answering this question involves understanding the meaning here of the word day. As God lives beyond time, He cannot be limited to a 24-hour period. This word means an eternal day. Jesus did not become the Son of God at a point in time; rather He has eternally been in the process of being generated as the Son in God’s eternal day. There has never been a time when Christ was not the Son of God. Illustration: On several occasions during His ministry on earth, the sonship of Christ was particularly emphasized—in the Incarnation (Luke 1:35), in the Baptism (Matt. 3:17), and in the Resurrection (Rom. 1:4). These events did not make Christ the Son of God, but only proved that He already was. Application: As the Christian thinks of the present ministry of Christ, he recognizes this also as an opportunity to appreciate Christ’s unique relationship with the Father (Heb. 1:1-4). (First Reference, Ps. 2:7; Primary Reference, Ps. 2:7; cf. John 1:51.)

12 ¹Kiss the Son, lest he be angry, and ye perish from the way, when ^ahis wrath is kindled but a little. ^bBlessed are all they that put their trust in him.

The Lord Protects His People

A Psalm of David, ^awhen he fled from Absalom his son.

PSALM 5

God Abhors Wickedness

To the chief Musician upon Nehiloth, A Psalm of David.

GIVE ^aear to my words, O LORD, consider my ¹meditation.

2 Harken unto the voice of my cry, my King, and my God: for unto thee will I pray.

3 My voice shalt thou hear in the morning, O LORD; ^ain the morning will I direct my prayer unto thee, and will look up.

4 For thou art not a God that hath

One presages their calamity because the Lord has installed His King upon ... Zion (v. 6) and adopted Him as His Son; therefore, the nations may be taken as an inheritance at the Son's request (v. 8). Every Davidic ruler was an adopted son (2 Sam. 7:14), but the real significance of the promise is fulfilled only in Christ, the eternal Son of God (Acts 13:33; Heb. 1:5; 5:5). The wise alternative is to submit to this Son (vv. 10-12).

Psalm 3. The historical background to the psalm is described in 2 Samuel 15-17. Though David petitioned in verse 7, Arise, O LORD; save me, it is clear from 2 Samuel 15:32-37 that David shrewdly sent his friend Hushai back to Jerusalem to deceive Absalom. David used means but trusted only in God.

Psalm 4. Verse 8 indicates that this psalm is an evening prayer. It may well have been offered on the same occasion as described in the superscription of Psalm 3. Have mercy upon me (v. 1) is a cry that David and others echo throughout the Psalter: the pious always petition for God's benevolent attributes to be demonstrated.

Psalm 5. In contrast to Psalm 4, Psalm 5 is a morning psalm (v. 3). The titles my King and my God (v. 2) are rich with meaning; David, though a king himself, is subject to another; and the Creator-God who made him is his personal God. The rest of the psalm describes the divergent dispositions of God toward the righteous and toward the wicked. The vivid description of David's wicked enemies (vv. 9, 10) is worthy of Paul's application of it to all lost men (Rom. 3:13).

pleasure in wickedness: neither shall evil ¹dwell with thee.

5 The ^afoolish¹ shall not ^bstand in thy sight: thou hatest all workers of iniquity.

6 Thou shalt destroy them that speak ¹leasing: the LORD will abhor the ^abloody² and deceitful man.

7 But as for me, I will come into thy house in the multitude of thy mercy: and in thy fear will I worship toward ¹thy holy temple.

8 ^aLead me, O LORD, in thy righteousness because of mine enemies; make thy way straight before my face.

9 For there is no ¹faithfulness in their mouth; their inward part is ²very wickedness; ^atheir throat is ³an open sepulchre; they flatter with their tongue.

10 ¹Destroy thou them, O God; let them fall by their own counsels; cast them out in the multitude of their transgressions; for they have rebelled against thee.

11 But let all those that put their trust in thee rejoice: let them ever shout for joy, because ¹thou defendest them: let them also that love thy name be joyful in thee.

12 For thou, LORD, wilt bless the righteous; with favour wilt thou ¹compass him as with a shield.

PSALM 7

A Plea for Protection from Enemies

^aShiggaion¹ of David, which he sang unto the LORD, ^bconcerning the words of Cush the Benjamite.

O LORD my God, in thee do I put my trust: ^asave me from all them that persecute me, and deliver me:

2 ^aLest he tear my soul like a lion, ^brending¹ it in pieces, while there is none to deliver.

3 O LORD my God, ^aif I have done this; if there be ^biniquity in my hands;

4 If I have rewarded evil unto him that was at peace with me; (yea, ^aI have delivered him that without cause is mine enemy:)

5 Let the enemy persecute my soul, and take it; yea, let him tread down my life upon the earth, and lay mine honour in the dust. Selah.

Psalm 6. Rebuke me not in thine anger (v. 1) indicates that David is conscious of deserving rebuke. However, he prays, as always, Have mercy upon me, O LORD (v. 2). The miseries of the depressed are both physical and psychological, and often the description of the two conditions is interwoven (vv. 2, 3). In the grave who shall give thee thanks? (v. 5) does not express doubt of the reality of the afterlife; rather, it serves to remind the Lord that David's continued praise and witness depend on his preservation.

Psalm 7. The superscription indicates that the psalm was written while David was being ruthlessly assailed by Cush the Benjamite, who was evidently one of Saul's radical kinsmen. David is confident in both his own innocence (vv. 3-5) and the certainty of divine retribution on the much-deserving Cush (vv. 6-17).

6 Arise, O LORD, in thine anger, ^alift up thyself because of the rage of mine enemies: and ^bawake for me to the judgment that thou hast commanded.

7 So shall the congregation of the people ¹compass thee about: for their sakes therefore return thou on high.

8 The LORD shall judge the people: ^ajudge me, O LORD, ^baccording to my righteousness, and according to mine integrity that is in me.

9 Oh let the wickedness of the wicked come to an end; but establish the just: ^afor the righteous God ¹trieth the hearts and ²reins.

10 My defence is of God, which saveth the ^aupright in heart.

11 ¹God judgeth the righteous, and God is angry with the wicked every day.

God's Excellent Name

To the chief Musician ¹upon Gittith,
A Psalm of David.

O LORD our Lord, how ^aexcellent is thy name in all the earth! who ^bhast set thy glory above the heavens.

2 ^aOut of the mouth of babes and ¹sucklings hast thou ²ordained strength because of thine enemies, that thou mightest ³still ^bthe enemy and the avenger.

3 When I ^aconsider thy heavens, the work of thy fingers, the moon and the stars, which thou hast ordained;

4 ^aWhat is man, that thou art mindful of him? and the son of man, that thou ^bvisitest¹ him?

5 For thou hast made him a little lower than the angels, and hast crowned him with glory and honour.

6 ^aThou madest him to have dominion over the works of thy hands; ^bthou hast put all things under his feet:

7 All sheep and oxen, yea, and the beasts of the field;

8 The fowl of the air, and the fish of the sea, and whatsoever passeth through the paths of the seas.

9 ^aO LORD our Lord, how excellent is thy name in all the earth!

PSALM 9

Praise for God's Judgment

To the chief Musician, upon ¹Muthlabben, A Psalm of David.

I WILL praise thee, O LORD, with my whole heart; I will ¹shew forth all thy marvellous works.

Psalm 8. Though the bulk of the psalm describes man and his dominion over the universe, the first and last verses make clear to the reader that the psalm was written primarily to exalt the Creator. A little lower than the angels (v. 5) is literally "a little lower than God" (Heb. Elōhīm, the normal generic word for God). The Septuagint translated the word as "angels," however, and this translation is quoted in Hebrews 2:6-8. The word may be taken in a loose sense, "divine beings," in which case it could refer to both God and the angels. Three interpretations of man's position are described in verses 5-8: (1) It refers only to man's original condition (Gen. 1:26-28). (2) It refers to man's present, actual position, though ruined somewhat by the Fall. (3) It points to man redeemed and restored in the future to his exalted position. The second view is preferred since the psalmist seems to be observing life as it is in the present: When I consider (v. 3).

Psalm 9. Psalms 9 and 10, taken together, form the first of the acrostic psalms, though the 38 verses are a very irregular representation of the Hebrew alphabet of 22 letters. Marvellous (v. 1) is an adjective used in the Old Testament to describe the supernatural. David thus looks on God's deliverance and praises Him for it (vv. 1-10). After inviting the believing community to join in his praise (vv. 11-18), David prays for God's ethical rule to be established over wicked men (vv. 19, 20).

2 I will be glad and ^arejoice in thee: I will sing praise to thy name, O ^bthou most High.

3 When mine enemies are turned back, they shall fall and perish at thy presence.

4 For thou hast maintained my right and my cause; ¹thou satest in the throne judging ²right.

5 Thou hast rebuked the ¹heathen, thou hast destroyed the wicked, thou hast ^aput² out their name for ever and ever.

6 O thou enemy, destructions are ¹come to a perpetual end: and thou hast destroyed cities; their memorial is ^aperished with them.

7 ^aBut the LORD shall endure for ever: he hath prepared his throne for judgment.

8 And ^ahe shall judge the world in righteousness, he shall minister judgment to the people in uprightness.

9 The LORD also will be a ^arefuge¹ for the oppressed, a refuge in times of trouble.

10 And they that ^aknow thy name will put their trust in thee: for thou, LORD, hast not forsaken them that seek thee.

11 Sing praises to the LORD, which dwelleth in Zion: ^adeclare among the people his ¹doings.

12 ^aWhen he ¹maketh inquisition for blood, he remembereth them: he forgetteth not the cry of the ²humble.

Rejoice in God's Salvation

13 Have mercy upon me, O LORD; consider my trouble which I suffer of them that hate me, thou that liftest me up from the gates of death:

14 That I may shew forth all thy praise in the gates of ¹the daughter of Zion: I will ^arejoice in thy salvation.

Psalm 10. In contrast to the prayer at the end of the preceding psalm, David now points to the present condition in the world, where God seems to have permitted the wicked to triumph over the righteous

(vv. 1–11). He then appeals to the Lord to act, to set the matter right, confident that the King of the world will do so (vv. 12–18).

To the ¹chief Musician, A Psalm of HOW long wilt thou forget me, O LORD? for ever? ^ahow long wilt thou hide thy face from me?

Psalm 11. A vision of the Lord on His throne (v. 4) is all the righteous need for security in the face of the threat of the wicked (v. 2).

Psalm 12. The oppression of the righteous by the wicked is especially felt in the realm of vain and proud speech (vv. 2-5), but the righteous find comfort in the pure and valued Word of God (v. 6).

2 How long shall I take counsel in my soul, having sorrow in my heart daily? how long shall mine enemy be exalted over me?

LORD, ^awho shall ¹abide in thy tabernacle? who shall dwell in thy holy hill?

2 He that walketh uprightly, and worketh righteousness, and speaketh the ^atruth in his heart.

3 He that ^abackbiteth not with his tongue, nor doeth evil to his neighbour, ^bnor ¹taketh up a reproach against his neighbour.

PSALM 16

God Preserves His People

^aMichtam¹ of David.

PRESERVE¹ me, O God: for in thee do I put my trust.

2 O my soul, thou hast said unto the LORD, Thou art my Lord: ^amy goodness ¹extendeth not to thee;

Psalms 13. The distance between four occurrences of How long, punctuated with question marks (vv. 1, 2), and the confident and joyful song at the end (v. 6) is covered only with prayer (vv. 3, 4) and trust (v. 5).

Psalms 14. This psalm could be dedicated to the atheist. With the denial of God's existence often comes the moral decay described in verses 1–6 and which was used by Paul to prove the universal depravity of the human race (Rom. 3:10–12). While the fool may deny that God is, the righteous finds in Him the object of hopeful prayer for deliverance (v. 7).

Psalms 15. This psalm raises the question of qualifications for service in the tabernacle (v. 1), then answers that question by describing the man who has personal purity (vv. 2, 3a) and interpersonal integrity (vv. 3b–5).

Psalms 16. The attitude of the righteous man is described in life (vv. 1–8) and death (vv. 9–11). In life, his attitude is one of trust (v. 1), gratefulness for God's goodness (v. 2), delight in God's people (v. 3), separation from idolatrous worship (v. 4; cf. Ex. 23:13; Deut. 12:3), satisfaction in God's gracious provisions (vv. 5, 6), praise for the Lord's counsel (v. 7), and steadfastness in spiritual devotion (v. 8). In facing death, the righteous man rejoices and is hopeful (v. 9). He is confident that God will preserve him from the decay of death and that death will not result in his corruption (v. 10). Rather, he will travel down the path of life, that is, the path leading to life, which will terminate in God's joyful presence (v. 11). David's confidence in his ultimate destiny is valid for him (and for all believers) only because Christ has traveled down that path and paved the way for all who believe in Him (Acts 2:25–28).

3 *But to the saints that are in the earth,*¹ and to the excellent, in^a whom is all my delight.

4 Their sorrows shall be multiplied that hasten after another god: their drink offerings of^a blood will I not offer,^b nor take up their names into my lips.

5 The LORD is the portion of mine inheritance and of my cup: thou¹ maintainest my lot.

6 The lines are fallen unto me in pleasant places; yea, I have a goodly¹ heritage.

7 I will bless the LORD, who hath given me counsel: my¹ reins also instruct me in the night seasons.

8 ^aI have set the LORD always before me: because he is at my right hand, I shall not be moved.

9 Therefore my heart is glad, and my glory rejoiceth: my flesh also shall¹ rest in hope.

10 ^aFor thou wilt not leave my soul in¹ hell; neither wilt thou² suffer thine Holy One to see corruption.

11 Thou wilt shew me the ^apath of life: in thy presence is fulness of joy; at thy right hand there are pleasures for evermore.

Psalm 17. This psalm is one of three that bear the title A prayer of David (also 86 and 142). It is a most appropriate heading since the psalm is rich with words for petition: hear, attend unto, give ear, and so on. After an initial cry to God (vv. 1, 2), David defends his character and motives (vv. 3-5). On this basis he is able to offer his petition, which includes both a beautiful prayer for divine protection (v. 8) and a repulsive description of his would-be cap-tors (vv. 9-12). The request, Keep me as the apple of the eye (v. 8), is a petition that God protect David just as a man protects the pupil of his eye, the most sensitive part of the most sensitive member of the body. Finally, David asks that his deliverance might be granted: it will involve the destruction of his enemies (vv. 13, 14) but will result in David's unhindered devotion (v. 15).

PSALM 18

A Call for God's Deliverance

To the chief Musician,
A Psalm of David, ^athe servant of the LORD, who spake unto the LORD the words of ^bthis song in the day that the LORD delivered him from the hand of all his enemies, and from the hand of Saul: And he said,

I ^aWILL love thee, O LORD, my strength.

2 The LORD ^ais my rock, and my fortress, and my deliverer; my God, ¹my strength, ^ain whom I will trust; my ²buckler, and the ³horn of my salvation, and my ⁴high tower.

3 I will call upon the LORD, ^awho is worthy to be praised: so shall I be saved from mine enemies.

4 The ¹sorrows of death ²compassed me, and the floods of ³ungodly men made me afraid.

5 The ¹sorrows of hell compassed me about: the snares of death ²prevented me.

God's Answer

6 In my distress I called upon the LORD, and cried unto my God: he heard my voice ¹out of his temple, and my cry came before him, even into his ears.

7 ^aThen the earth shook and trembled; the foundations also of the hills ¹moved and were shaken, because he was ²wroth.

8 There went up a smoke out of his nostrils, and fire out of his mouth devoured: coals were kindled by it.

9 ^aHe bowed the heavens also, and came down: and darkness was under his feet.

10 ^aAnd he rode upon a cherub, and did fly: yea, ^bhe did fly upon the wings of the wind.

God's Reward

22 For all his judgments were before me, and I did not put away his statutes from me.

23 I was also upright ¹before him, and I kept myself from mine iniquity.

Psalm 18. This psalm is a royal song of thanksgiving that rehearses God's deliverance of David from all his enemies. It appears to be a popular version of the song in 2 Samuel 22. The title servant of the LORD places David in an elite company, namely, that of Moses, Joshua, and the Messiah, who also bear the title. The psalm includes a declaration of David's love and trust in the Lord (vv. 1-3), a narrative of his deliverance by the Lord (vv. 4-19), an explanation of the cause for David's deliverance (vv. 20-24), an exposition of the display of God's attributes to those who trust in Him (vv. 25-30), a further description of David's victory (vv. 31-45), and a concluding word of thanks for God's deliverance (vv. 46-50). The description of the Lord's intervention given in verses 7-19 is called a theophany, one of many in the Old Testament, in which God visibly manifests Himself. The theophany characteristically has two parts: the Lord leaves His residence and nature reacts. It is thus a highly poetic and vivid way of describing the fact that the God of Israel intervened in history on David's behalf. The entire psalm is a celebration of that fact.

24 ^aTherefore hath the LORD recompensed me according to my righteousness, according to the cleanness of my hands in his eyesight.

25 ^aWith the merciful thou wilt shew thyself merciful; with an upright man thou wilt shew thyself upright;

26 With the pure thou wilt shew thyself pure; and ^awith the ¹froward thou wilt shew thyself ²froward.

27 For thou wilt save the afflicted people; but wilt bring down ^ahigh ¹looks.

28 ^aFor thou wilt light my ¹candle: the LORD my God will enlighten my darkness.

29 For by thee I ¹have run through a troop; and by my God ²have I leaped over a wall.

God's Way Is Perfect

30 As for God, ^ahis way is perfect: ^bthe word of the LORD is ¹tried: he is a ²buckler ^cto all those that trust in him.

31 ^aFor who is God ¹save the LORD? or who is a rock save our God?

32 It is God that ^agirdeth me with strength, and maketh my way perfect.

33 ^aHe maketh my feet ¹like hinds' feet, and ^bsetteth me upon my high places.

34 ^aHe teacheth my hands to war, so that a ¹bow of steel is broken by mine arms.

35 Thou hast also given me the shield of thy salvation: and thy right hand hath ¹holden me up, and thy gentleness hath made me great.

36 Thou hast enlarged my ¹steps under me, ^athat my feet did not slip.

37 I have pursued mine enemies, and overtaken them: neither did I turn again till they were ¹consumed.

38 I have wounded them that they were not able to rise: they are fallen under my feet.

39 For thou hast girded me with strength unto the battle: thou hast ¹subdued under me those that rose up against me.

The Destruction of Enemies

40 Thou hast also given me the necks of mine enemies; that I might destroy them that hate me.

THE king shall joy in thy strength, O LORD; and in thy salvation how greatly shall he rejoice!

2 Thou hast given him his heart's desire, and hast not ¹withholden the ^arequest of his lips. Selah.

Psalm 19. The psalm naturally falls into three parts: God's revelation in creation (vv. 1-6), God's revelation in the law (vv. 7-11), and the response of the man of faith (vv. 12-14). The point of the first six verses is that the heavenly bodies are objective proof that a powerful, creative God exists. The heavens are God's preachers in the sky who proclaim 24 hours a day the truth that God exists (vv. 1, 2); furthermore, they speak a universal language (vv. 3, 4). On the other hand, God's special revelation is His law. It is described by five synonyms: law, testimony, statutes, commandment, and judgments (vv. 7-9). His law is precious and desirable (v. 10). The man of faith can respond only with a prayer that he be kept from both hidden sins (v. 12) and willful sins (v. 13); that what he says may be acceptable to the Lord; and that even what he thinks may be pleasing to God (v. 14).

Psalm 20. Psalms 20 and 21 go together: the first is a psalm of intercession by the people on behalf of the king before battle; the second is a psalm of thanksgiving for the victory achieved. In Psalm 20 there is first a petition for the king (vv. 1-5), then the divine assurance that victory is certain (vv. 6-8); finally, the psalm closes with a prayer (v. 9).

settest a crown of pure gold on his head.

4 He asked life of thee, and thou gavest it him, even length of days for ever and ever.

5 His glory is great in thy salvation: honour and majesty hast thou laid upon him.

6 For thou hast made him most blessed for ever: "thou hast made him ¹exceeding glad with thy ²coun-tenance.

7 For the king trusteth in the LORD, and through the mercy of the most High he shall not be ¹moved.

8 Thine hand shall find out all thine enemies: thy right hand shall find out those that hate thee.

9 Thou shalt make them as a fiery oven in the time of thine anger: the LORD shall swallow them up in his wrath, and the fire shall devour them.

10 Their ¹fruit shalt thou destroy from the earth, and their ²seed from among the children of men.

11 For they intended evil against thee: they ¹imagined a mischievous device, which they are not able to perform.

Psalm 21. The connection with the preceding psalm is apparent by comparing verse 2 with 20:4. The psalm contains thanksgiving for the Lord's deliverance (vv. 1-7), assurance of the king's future victories by his subjects (vv. 8-12), and a final prayer (v. 13).

Psalm 22. A Christian cannot read this psalm without reflecting on the use of the first verse by Christ on the Cross (Matt. 27:46; Mark 15:34). In addition to this verse, verse 18 is quoted in the New Testament (Matt. 27:35; Mark 15:24; Luke 23:34; John 19:24) as well as verse 22 (Heb. 2:12). In addition, many of the details of this psalm are reflected in Christ's cross experience (cf. v. 7 with Matt. 27:39; v. 8 with Matt. 27:43; v. 15 with John 19:28). His cry to God, the condemnation of the crowd, His thirst, His crucifixion, and even the gambling for His robe, are all clearly predicted. David's own experience gives way to a prophetic glimpse of his descendant Jesus Christ. The psalm naturally falls into two parts. David first describes the awful predicament in which he finds himself (vv. 1-21): he 18 ^aThey ¹part my garments among them, and cast lots ²upon my vesture.

19 But be not thou far from me, O LORD: O my strength, haste thee to help me.

feels forsaken by God in the midst of his enemies, who are compared to ravenous beasts. The details here transcend David's own experience and point clearly to Calvary: mocking, ridicule, pain, opposition—and all done to an innocent man. The second part of the psalm consists of praise to God for His faithfulness (v. 22–31) by both the worshiping community (vv. 22–26) and the world as a whole (vv. 27–31).

Psalms 23. The psalm has been a favorite of God's people through the ages and with due reason: it expresses as simply and clearly as any the role of God as our protector and provider in life. The charm of the psalm rests on two figures of speech: the Lord is compared to a shepherd and the believer to His sheep

(vv. 1–4); then the Lord is likened to a host with the believer as the guest (vv. 5, 6). The image of the Lord as shepherd is a frequent one in both the Old Testament (Is. 40:11; Jer. 31:10) and the New (John 10:11–16; Heb. 13:20). (See the note on Jer. 23:3.) Believers are never pictured in Scripture as mighty lions, independent and self-sufficient; rather, they are sheep who are dependent on their Shepherd for His provision and protection. The believer is more than a dependent sheep, however; he is also like an honored guest, since the Lord prepares a table for him (v. 5). Connected with this honored position is abundant provision, vindication before one's enemies, and eternal celebration of God's goodness.

Psalm 24. This psalm may have been written on the occasion of David's retrieval of the ark and its placement at Jerusalem (2 Sam. 6). The psalm is clearly divided into two parts: a processional song emphasizing God's sovereignty and man's need for righteousness before God (vv. 1-6), and an antiph-onal song stressing the glory of the Lord (vv. 7-10).

Psalm 25. The second of the acrostic psalms, Psalm 25, emphasizes David's need for deliverance from his enemies (vv. 1-3, 16-22) and for forgiveness from his gracious God (vv. 4-15).

Psalm 26. From the statements of the psalm itself we may easily deduce that David was being falsely accused. In light of this fact, his protestations of innocence are not pride, but the just complaint of a man of God (vv. 2-8). In addition to his self-defense, he petitions God for deliverance (vv. 1, 9-12a) and promises a public acknowledgment when it is accomplished (v. 12b).

Psalm 27. This psalm is structured so that the psalmist's expressions of confident trust include his prayer for deliverance. David first expresses his complete confidence and trust in his God (vv. 1-6). On this basis he then feels free to present his petition for deliverance from his enemies (vv. 7-12). Finally, he returns full-circle to the trust previously stated as the only proper attitude of one who must now wait for God to act (vv. 13, 14).

13 I had fainted, unless I had believed to see the goodness of the LORD ^ain the land of the living.

14 ^aWait¹ on the LORD: be of good courage, and he shall strengthen thine heart: wait, I say, on the LORD.

Psalm 28. This psalm is another prayer by David for deliverance, one of many which he prayed when pursued by one enemy or another. It contains a petition both for deliverance (vv. 1–3) and for divine retribution (vv. 4, 5), before suddenly shifting to an unshakable tone of thanksgiving for the anticipated answer (vv. 6–9).

Psalm 29. A thunderstorm is viewed in this psalm, not as a phenomenon of impersonal nature, but as an act of divine intervention. David opens the psalm by a call for praise to the Lord (vv. 1, 2). He next describes the Lord's power in a storm: first over the sea (vv. 3, 4), then over Lebanon (vv. 5, 6), and finally over the wilderness (vv. 7–9). The concluding verses of the psalm appropriately express the application of God's power to His people (vv. 10, 11).

Psalm 30. The words house of David in the superscription are intended to record the occasion

2 O LORD my God, I cried unto thee, and thou hast ^ahealed me.

3 O LORD, ^athou hast brought up my soul from the ¹grave: thou hast kept me alive, that I should not go down to the ²pit.

4 ^aSing unto the LORD, O ye saints of his, and give thanks at the remembrance of his ¹holiness.

5 For ^ahis anger endureth but a moment; ^bin his favour is life: weeping may endure for a night, but ¹joy cometh in the morning.

6 And in my prosperity I said, I shall never ¹be moved.

7 LORD, by thy favour thou hast made my mountain to stand strong: ^athou didst hide thy face, and I was troubled.

8 I cried to thee, O LORD; and unto the LORD I made supplication.

9 What profit is there in my blood, when I go down to the ¹pit? ^aShall the dust praise thee? shall it declare thy truth?

10 Hear, O LORD, and have mercy upon me: LORD, be thou my helper.

11 ^aThou hast turned for me my mourning into dancing: thou hast put off my ¹sackcloth, and girded me with gladness;

12 To the end that ¹my glory may sing praise to thee, and not be silent. O LORD my God, I will give thanks unto thee for ever.

of the psalm's writing, but may point to either the dedication of David's palace (2 Sam. 5:11) or the dedication of the threshing floor of Araunah (or Ornan), the site of the future temple (2 Sam. 24:18–25; 1 Chr. 21:18–30). In later Judaism the psalm was used in the celebration of Hanukkah and at the presentation of firstfruits. The main idea of the psalm, in any case, is clearly expressed: Thou hast turned for me my mourning into dancing (v. 11). The joy and thanks voiced in the final two verses, however, are only the aftermath of David's thanks (vv. 1–5) for the Lord's chastening hand on a boastful servant (vv. 6–10).

Psalm 31. This psalm is uniquely composed of two rounds of lament (vv. 1–6, 9–18) and praise (vv. 7, 8, 19–24). The description of David's plight is so vivid (see especially vv. 9–13), that more than one biblical character relied in subsequent times on its history of stress resolved. Jonah's prayer echoes verse 6 (Jon. 2:8); Jeremiah frequently borrowed the phrase found in verse 13, fear was on every side (Jer. 6:25; 20:10; 46:5; 49:29); and Jesus drew on the language of verse 5 for His final words on the Cross (Luke 23:46).

15 My times are in thy ^ahand: deliver me from the hand of mine enemies, and from them that persecute me.

16 ^aMake thy face to shine upon thy servant: save me for thy mercies' sake.

17 ^aLet me not be ashamed, O LORD; for I have called upon thee: let the wicked be ashamed, and ^blet them be silent in the ¹grave.

18 ^aLet the lying lips be put to silence; which ^bspeak ¹grievous things proudly and contemptuously against the righteous.

God's Goodness

19 ^aOh how great is thy goodness, which thou hast laid up for them that fear thee; which thou hast wrought for them that trust in thee before the sons of men!

20 ^aThou shalt hide them in ¹the secret of thy presence from the ²pride of man: ^bthou shalt keep them secretly in a ³pavilion from the strife of tongues.

21 Blessed be the LORD: for ^ahe hath shewed me his marvellous kindness in a strong city.

22 For I said in my haste, I am cut off from before thine eyes: nevertheless thou heardest the voice of my supplications when I cried unto thee.

23 O love the LORD, all ye his saints: for the LORD preserveth the faithful, and ¹plentifully rewardeth the proud doer.

24 ^aBe of good courage, and he shall strengthen your heart, all ye that hope in the LORD.

Praise for God's Goodness

REJOICE ^ain the LORD, O ye righteous: for praise is ¹comely for the upright.

2 Praise the LORD with harp: sing unto him with the psaltery and an instrument of ten strings.

Psalm 32. The psalm describes the blessedness of forgiveness as no other does. This is the theme of especially the first five verses, which include the happiness of the forgiven man (vv. 1, 2), the physical and psychological effects of unconfessed sin (vv. 3, 4), and the simple remedy of confession to obtain God's forgiveness (v. 5). On this basis David can experience prayer (vv. 6, 7), divine instruction (vv. 8, 9), and personal witness (vv. 10, 11).

Psalm 33. The outline of this hymn of praise is unmistakable: the call to praise (vv. 1-3), the cause for praise (vv. 4-19), and the conclusion (vv. 20-22). The

PSALM 34

Praise to the Lord

A Psalm of David, when he changed his behaviour before Abimelech; who drove him away, and he departed.

I WILL ^abless the LORD at all times: his praise shall continually be in my mouth.

2 My soul shall make her boast in the LORD: the humble shall hear thereof, and be glad.

3 O magnify the LORD with me, and let us exalt his name together.

4 I ^asought the LORD, and he heard me, and delivered me from all my fears.

5 They looked unto him, and were ¹lightened: and their faces were not ashamed.

6 This poor man cried, and the LORD heard him, and saved him out of all his troubles.

7 ^aThe angel of the LORD ^bencampeth round about them that fear him, and delivereth them.

8 O ^ataste and see that the LORD is good: ^bblessed is the man that trusteth in him.

Fear the Lord

9 O fear the LORD, ye his saints: for there is no ¹want to them that fear him.

call is directed toward the righteous, for whom praise to God is fitting. The cause for praise is twofold: the Lord is dependable in both word (vv. 4-9) and work (vv. 10-12), and the Lord is just and loyal in dealing with His children (vv. 13-19). The conclusion is an expression of the joyful hope of the godly in the Lord.

Psalm 34. The historical background of this across-tic psalm is related in 1 Samuel 21:10-15. It bears all the marks of the testimony of one who narrowly escaped death, just as the passage in Samuel describes. As such, it contains the praise and testimony of the one who was redeemed (vv. 1-10) and the seasoned instruction that can stem from such deliverance (vv. 11-22).

10 The young lions do lack, and suffer hunger: ^abut they that seek the LORD shall not ¹want any good thing.

11 Come, ye children, hearken unto me: ^aI will teach you the fear of the LORD.

13 Keep thy tongue from evil, and thy lips from speaking ^aguile.¹

14 ^aDepart from evil, and do good; ^bseek peace, and pursue it.

15 ^aThe eyes of the LORD are upon the righteous, and his ears are open unto their cry.

16 ^aThe face of the LORD is against them that do evil, ^bto ¹cut off the remembrance of them from the earth.

Cries of the Righteous Heard

17 The righteous cry, and ^athe LORD heareth, and delivereth them out of all their troubles.

18 ^aThe LORD is nigh ^bunto them that are of a broken heart; and saveth such as be ¹of a contrite spirit.

Psalm 35. This cry of distress is the petition of a man falsely accused. It may well date from the time when David was being pursued by Saul. The psalm naturally divides itself into three parts, each ending with a note of hope: petition for deliverance (vv. 1-10), expression of lament (vv. 11-18), and renewed petition (vv. 19-28). David's motives are not for revenge; he had opportunities to kill Saul but did not. Rather, it is a plea for God's righteous judgment. The motive is that David might once again thank God freely (vv. 18, 28).

16 With ¹hypocritical mockers in feasts, they gnashed upon me with their teeth.

Rescue My Soul

17 Lord, how long wilt thou ^alook on? rescue my soul from their destructions, ¹my darling from the lions.

18 I will give thee thanks in the great congregation: I will praise thee among ¹much people.

19 ^aLet not them that are ¹mine enemies wrongfully rejoice over me: neither let them wink with the eye that hate me without a cause.

20 For they speak not peace: but they devise deceitful matters against them that are quiet in the land.

21 Yea, they opened their mouth wide against me, and said, Aha, aha, our eye hath seen it.

Judge Me with Righteousness

22 This thou hast seen, O LORD: keep not silence: O Lord, be not far from me.

23 Stir up thyself, and awake to my ¹judgment, even unto my cause, my God and my Lord.

24 ¹Judge me, O LORD my God, according to thy righteousness; and let them not rejoice over me.

25 Let them not say in their hearts, Ah, so would we have it: let them not say, We have swallowed him up.

26 Let them be ashamed and brought to ¹confusion together that rejoice at mine hurt: let them be ^aclothed with shame and dishonour that magnify themselves against me.

27 ^aLet them shout for joy, and be glad, that favour my righteous cause: yea, let them say continually, Let the LORD be magnified, which hath pleasure in the prosperity of his servant.

PSALM 36

The Transgression of the Wicked

To the chief Musician, A Psalm of David, the servant of the LORD.

THE ¹transgression of the wicked is saith within my heart, that ^athere is no fear of God before his eyes.

2 For he flattereth himself in his own eyes, ¹until his iniquity be found ²to be hateful.

3 The words of his mouth are ¹iniquity and deceit: ^ahe hath ²left off to be wise, and to do good.

4 ^aHe ¹deviseth mischief upon his bed; he setteth himself ^bin a way that is not good; he ²abhorreth not ^cevil.

God's Mercy and Lovingkindness

5 Thy ¹mercy, O LORD, is in the heavens; and thy faithfulness reacheth unto the clouds.

6 Thy righteousness is like the ¹great mountains; ^athy judgments are a great ²deep: O LORD, thou preservest man and beast.

7 How ¹excellent is thy lovingkindness, O God! therefore the children of men ^aput their trust under the shadow of thy wings.

8 ^aThey shall be abundantly satisfied with the ¹fatness of thy house; and thou shalt make them drink of ^bthe river of thy pleasures.

9 ^aFor with thee is the fountain of life: ^bin thy light shall we see light.

10 O continue thy loving-kindness unto them that know thee; and thy righteousness to the upright in heart.

11 Let not the foot of pride come against me, and let not the hand of the wicked ¹remove me.

12 There are the workers of iniquity fallen: they are cast down, and shall not be able to rise.

PSALM 37

Trust in the Lord

A Psalm of David.

FRET ^anot thyself because of evil-doers, neither be thou envious against the workers of iniquity.

Psalm 36. The theme of this psalm is certainly the loving-kindness of God (vv. 5, 7, 10). David first describes the rebellious sinner (vv. 1-4), then the blessedness of the righteous man (vv. 5-9), and concludes with a prayer that the righteous man may be protected from the wicked (vv. 10-12).

Psalm 37. The psalm is written in the form of an acrostic, although our numbering is out of step with

2 For they shall soon be cut down ^alike the grass, and wither as the green herb.

3 Trust in the LORD, and do good; so shalt thou dwell in the land, and ¹verily thou shalt be fed.

4 ^aDelight thyself also in the LORD; and he shall give thee the desires of thine ^bheart.

5 ^aCommit¹ thy way unto the LORD; trust also in him; and he shall bring it to pass.

6 ^aAnd he shall bring forth thy righteousness as the light, and thy ¹judgment as the noonday.

7 Rest in the LORD, ^aand wait patiently for him: fret not thyself because of him who ^bprospereth in his way, because of the man who bringeth wicked ¹devices to pass.

8 ^aCease from anger, and forsake wrath: ^bfret not thyself ¹in any wise to do evil.

The Fate of the Wicked

9 For evildoers shall be ¹cut off: but those that wait upon the LORD, they shall ^ainherit the earth.

10 For ^ayet a little while, and the wicked shall not be: yea, ^bthou shalt diligently ¹consider his place, and it shall not be.

11 ^aBut the meek shall inherit the earth; and shall delight themselves in the abundance of peace.

12 The wicked plotteth against the just, ^aand gnasheth upon him with his teeth.

13 ^aThe LORD shall laugh at him: for he seeth that ^bhis day is coming.

14 The wicked have drawn out the sword, and have bent their bow, to cast down the poor and needy, and to slay such as be of upright ¹conversation.

15 Their sword shall enter into their own heart, and their bows shall be broken.

17 For the arms of the wicked shall be broken: but the LORD upholdeth the righteous.

18 The LORD knoweth the days of the upright: and their inheritance shall be for ever.

19 They shall not be ashamed in the evil time: and in the days of famine they shall be satisfied.

20 But the wicked shall perish, and the enemies of the LORD shall be as the ¹fat of lambs: they shall ²consume; into smoke shall they consume away.

21 The wicked borroweth, and ¹payeth not again: but ^athe righteous sheweth mercy, and giveth.

23 ^aThe steps of a good man are ¹ordered by the LORD: and he delighteth in his way.

24 ^aThough he fall, he shall not be utterly cast down: for the LORD upholdeth him with his hand.

the Hebrew. There is no logical outline to the psalm, so it is best studied according to its topics. The major point of the psalm seems to be that the wicked's prosperity is short-lived. Though David was troubled by the prosperity of the unrighteous, he knew by faith that their undeserved bounty would be cut off. His underlying belief is that God will intervene in His time. Then the present, temporary reversal of fortunes will be set right and the righteous "shall inherit the earth" (vv. 9, 11, 22, 29, 34). The mention of inheriting the earth would be encouraging and uplifting to the pious Israelite since all of God's blessing was connected with the Promised Land. In contrast to this blessed destiny the wicked "shall be cut off," an expression used often in the Old Testament of a violent death. The psalm also contains a simple formula for achieving peace of mind in the face of the wicked's prosperity: fret not ... neither be thou envious (v. 1), trust ... do good (v. 3), delight thyself also in the LORD (v. 4), commit thy way ... trust (v. 5), rest ... wait patiently ... fret not (v. 7), cease from anger ... forsake wrath ... fret not (v. 8). All of these exhortations urge the believer to confidently trust the Lord with all of life's problems. The psalm concludes appropriately with an undying affirmation of faith and trust in the unchanging character of God.

they are preserved for ever: but the seed of the wicked shall be cut off.

29 ^aThe righteous shall inherit the land, and dwell therein for ever.

30 ^aThe mouth of the righteous speaketh wisdom, and his tongue talketh of ¹judgment.

31 The law of his God is in his heart; none of his steps shall ¹slide.

32 The wicked ^awatcheth the righteous, and seeketh to slay him.

33 The LORD ^awill not leave him in his hand, nor condemn him when he is judged.

PSALM 38

Sins Are a Heavy Burden

A Psalm of David, ^ato bring to remembrance.

O LORD, ^arebuke me not in thy wrath: neither chasten me in thy hot displeasure.

2 For thine arrows ¹stick fast in me, and thy hand presseth me ²sore.

3 There is no soundness in my flesh because of thine anger; neither is there any ¹rest in my bones because of my sin.

4 For mine iniquities are gone over mine head: as an heavy burden they are too heavy for me.

5 My wounds ¹stink and are corrupt because of my foolishness.

6 I am ¹troubled; I am bowed down greatly; I go mourning all the day long.

7 For my loins are filled with ^{1a} loathsome disease: and there is no soundness in my flesh.

8 I am feeble and ¹sore broken: I have ²roared by reason of the ³disquietness of my heart.

9 Lord, all my desire is before thee; and my ¹groaning is not hid from thee.

10 My heart panteth, my strength faileth me: as for the light of mine eyes, it also is gone from me.

11 My ¹lovers and my friends

Psalm 38. Some debate as to whether the details of verses 1-8 should be taken literally, and thus as a reference to a physical illness, or figuratively, making them a vivid picture of psychological and moral distress. The detail and length of the description, as well as his personal nature seem to point to some serious disease from which David is suffering as he writes. In addition to the physical malady, David has been deserted by his friends and threatened by his foes (vv. 12, 13). His only hope is to trust in the Lord (vv. 14-16), to whom he presents his lament (vv. 17-20) and his petition (vv. 21, 22).

LAW OF GOD

37:31. The law of God is the extension of God's nature and expression of God's will in His creation. God's law is expressed in different forms, relating to different areas of His creation. The physical law of God includes the laws of nature which govern the continuous physical existence of this world (Gen. 8:22; Col. 1:17). The moral law, also called "the perfect law of liberty" (James 1:25), governs the immaterial issues of life (2 Tim. 3:17). The social law of God affects interpersonal relationships and can be summarized by "the royal law" (James 2:8). The spiritual law deals with a man's relationship with God. It is summarized in "the first and great commandment" (Matt. 22:37, 38). Illustration: The purpose of the law is to reveal the sovereignty of God (Ex. 20:2), to place a restraint on the sinner (68:7, 8), to show the greatness and reality of sin (Rom. 3:19, 20), and to lead the sinner to Christ (Gal. 3:24). The purpose of the law did not change with the gospel. When the Judaizers in Galatia sought to teach their erroneous view of the law, they failed to realize that the law has never been able to save anyone. Application: As Christians, we should be concerned to live decently and orderly. (First Reference, Gen. 2:17; Primary Reference, Rom. 7:7-14; cf. Ex. 3:13.)

^astand aloof from ²my sore; and my ³kinsmen stand afar off.

12 They also that seek after my life lay snares for me: and they that seek my hurt ¹speak mischievous things, and ²imagine deceits all the day long.

13 But I, as a deaf man, heard not; and I was as a dumb man that openeth not his mouth.

14 Thus I was as a man that heareth not, and in whose mouth are no ¹reproofs.

A Repentant Heart

15 For ¹in thee, O LORD, ^ado I hope: thou wilt ²hear, O Lord my God.

16 For I said, Hear me, lest otherwise they should rejoice over me: when my foot slippeth, they magnify themselves against me.

17 ^aFor I am ready ¹to halt, and my sorrow is continually before me.

18 For I will ^adeclare mine iniquity; I will ¹be ^bsorry for my sin.

19 But mine enemies are ¹lively, and they are strong: and they that hate me wrongfully are multiplied.

20 They also ^athat render evil for good are mine adversaries; because I follow the thing that good is.

21 Forsake me not, O LORD: O my God, ^abe not far from me.

22 Make haste to help me, O Lord my salvation.

PSALM 40

Praise for God's Deliverance

To the chief Musician, A Psalm of David.

I ^aWAITED patiently for the LORD; and he inclined unto me, and heard my cry.

Psalm 39. Jeduthun (superscription) was probably Ethan, the well-known director of the temple choir (see the note on 1 Chr. 6:31–48). The psalm is composed of three key parts. First, the psalmist suppresses his complaint to God until he can contain it no longer (vv. 1–3). Second, when he can contain himself no more, he utters his cry of distress, centering in the innate frailty of man which he feels at present so acutely (vv. 4–11). Finally, he presents his petition to God, who will certainly regard his tears and spare him (vv. 12, 13).

2 He brought me up also out of an horrible pit, out of ^athe miry clay, and ^bset my feet upon a rock, and established my ¹goings.

3 ^aAnd he hath put a new song in my mouth, even praise unto our God: many shall see it, and fear, and shall trust in the LORD.

4 ^aBlessed is that man that maketh the LORD his trust, and respecteth not the proud, nor such as turn aside to lies.

5 ^aMany, O LORD my God, are thy wonderful works which thou hast done, ^band thy thoughts which are to us-ward: they cannot be ¹reckoned up in order unto thee: if I would declare and speak of them, they are more than can be numbered.

6 ^aSacrifice and offering thou didst not desire; mine ears hast thou opened: burnt offering and sin offering hast thou not required.

PSALM 41

Blessings on Those Caring for the Poor

To the chief Musician,
A Psalm of David.

BLESSED is he that considereth the ¹poor: the LORD will deliver him in time of trouble.

2 The LORD will preserve him, and keep him alive; and he shall be blessed upon the earth: ^aand thou wilt not deliver him unto the will of his enemies.

3 The LORD will strengthen him

Psalm 40. The poles of thanksgiving and lament are so distinct in this psalm that some divide it into two separate psalms. This is not necessary, since the man of God can present his lament and petition to God, while at the same time offering his thanksgiving. The thanksgiving is offered in verses 1-8. The psalmist so fully expresses his commitment to the Lord that the words become prophetic of the same commitment of the Messiah (Heb. 10:5-10). This private commitment of the psalmist was also revealed publicly (vv. 9, 10). This idea of innocence leads naturally into the lament and petition section of the psalm (vv. 11-17). His petition is a plea for deliverance from his enemies, but it is wider than that. He is concerned about the triumph of all righteous people (v. 16).

Psalm 41. At the heart of this psalm is the sad reality of being forsaken by one's friend (v. 9). The experience of David could have occurred on several occasions, though the desertion of Ahithophel to Absalom's side comes to mind immediately (2 Sam. 15:12, 31). In any case, this experience became prophetic of the experience of another, the Lord Jesus, who was Himself forsaken by a close associate (John 13:18). The three key sections of the psalm naturally relate well to the believer who has been deceived by a friend: the principle that the Lord delivers the needy (vv. 1-3), a statement of David's own hurtful experience (vv. 4-9), and an expression of his certain confidence in God's vindication of him (vv. 10-12). The final verse of the psalm is the characteristic doxology that ends each of the five books of the Psalms.

upon ¹the bed of languishing: thou wilt ²make all his bed in his sickness.

Enemies Speak Evil of Me

4 I said, LORD, be merciful unto me: ^aheal my soul; for I have sinned against thee.

5 Mine enemies speak evil of me, When shall he die, and his name perish?

6 And if he come to see me, he speaketh ¹vanity: his heart gathereth iniquity to itself; when he goeth abroad, he telleth it.

7 All that hate me whisper together against me: against me do they ¹devise my hurt.

8 ¹An evil disease, say they, ²cleaveth fast unto him: and now that he ³lieth he shall rise up no more.

9 ^aYea, mine own familiar friend, in whom I trusted, ^bwhich did eat of my bread, hath ¹lifted up his heel against me.

Be Merciful and Raise Me Up

10 But thou, O LORD, be merciful unto me, and raise me up, that I may ¹requite them.

11 By this I know that thou ¹favourest me, because mine enemy doth not triumph over me.

12 And as for me, thou upholdest me in mine integrity, and ^asettest me before thy face for ever.

13 ^aBlessed be the LORD God of Israel from everlasting, and to everlasting. Amen, and Amen.

PSALM 43

Deliverance from the Unjust Man

JUDGE ¹me, O God, and ^bplead my cause against an ungodly nation: O deliver me from the deceitful and unjust man.

Psalm 42, 43. These two psalms should probably be taken as one for several reasons: 42:5, 11, and 43:5 provide a threefold refrain for the poem; the theme is the same; 43 is the only psalm in the second book that lacks a superscription; and the two psalms are in fact joined together in some Hebrew manuscripts. Using the refrain Hope thou in God as a marker, the poem yields three stanzas. First, the psalmist expresses his deep longing for God (42:1–5); second, his sad lament and dejection before God (42:6–11); finally, his sure confidence in God (43:1–5). The three stanzas reveal the changing moods of the psalmist: from longing and regret to perplexity, then to trust and assurance. If only every downcast soul could end up in that third stanza!

2 For thou art the God of my strength: why dost thou cast me off? *“*why go I mourning because of the oppression of the enemy?

3 *“*O send out thy light and thy truth: let them lead me; let them bring me unto ^bthy holy hill, and to thy ¹tabernacles.

4 Then will I go unto the altar of God, unto God my exceeding joy: yea, upon the harp will I praise thee, O God my God.

5 *“*Why art thou cast down, O my soul? and why art thou disquieted within me? hope in God: for I shall yet praise him, who is ¹the health of my countenance, and my God.

Psalm 44. A psalm of national lament, this psalm expresses the sorrows of a godly people who are undergoing suffering. It is naturally divided into four parts. First, God’s care for Israel in the past is described (vv. 1–8). The acquisition of the land of Canaan is especially emphasized because God’s mighty acts on behalf of His people were never more evident than at that time. Second, their present condition contrasts gravely with their glorious past (vv. 9–16).

It appears that God has cast them away and repudiated them, leaving them humiliated in the face of the enemy. Third, they sense no just deserts for the current defeats (vv. 17–22). Why God has apparently forsaken them is a mystery to them. Finally, they offer their earnest petition that God would intervene (vv. 23–26). Their interest is more than in saving their own skins; they plead that God would do it for the sake of His mercy.

for he knoweth the secrets of the heart.

22 ^aYea, for thy sake are we killed all the day long; we are counted as sheep for the slaughter.

Redeem Us

23 ^aAwake, why sleepest thou, O Lord? arise, cast us not off for ever.

24 ^aWherefore hidest thou thy face, and forgettest our affliction and our oppression?

25 For ^aour soul is bowed down to the dust: our belly cleaveth unto the ¹earth.

26 Arise for our help, and redeem us for thy mercies' sake.

To the chief Musician ^ffor the sons of Korah, A Song ^aupon Alamoth.

Psalm 45. This royal psalm was written on the occasion of a royal wedding, though the identity of the king is not known. A Song of loves in the superscription could also be translated "A Wedding Song." The psalm contains an introduction in which the author expresses his desire to write a fitting poem (v. 1); a song addressed to the king, especially emphasizing his royal majesty (vv. 2–9); a song addressed to the bride, exhorting her to become the king's wife (vv. 10–15); and a conclusion expressing the wish that the king be blessed with a permanent dynasty (vv. 16, 17).

Psalm 46. This psalm expresses thanks for the deliverance of Jerusalem, the city of God (v. 4). It contains three key ideas. First, God is a place of security though the mountains be carried into ¹the midst of the sea;

3 ^aThough the waters thereof roar and be troubled, though the mountains shake with the swelling thereof. Selah.

4 There is a ^ariver, the streams whereof shall make glad the ^bcity of God, the holy place of the ¹tabernacles of the most High.

5 God is ^ain the midst of her; she shall not be ¹moved: God shall help her, ²and that right early.

6 ^aThe heathen raged, the kingdoms were moved: he uttered his voice, the earth melted.

7 The ^aLORD of hosts is with us; the God of Jacob is our refuge. Selah.

The Works of the Lord

8 Come, behold the works of the LORD, what desolations he hath made in the earth.

9 ^aHe maketh wars to cease unto the end of the earth; ^bhe breaketh the bow, and cutteth the spear in sunder; ^che burneth the chariot in the fire.

10 Be still, and know that I am God: ^aI will be exalted among the heathen, I will be exalted in the earth.

PSALM 48

Greatness of the Lord

A Song and Psalm ¹for the sons of Korah.

GREAT is the LORD, and greatly to be praised in the ^acity of our God, in the mountain of his holiness.

2 ^aBeautiful ¹for situation, the joy of the whole earth, is mount Zion, on the sides of the north, the city of the great King.

3 God is known in her palaces for a refuge.

4 For, lo, ^athe kings were assembled, they passed by together.

5 They saw it, and so they marvelled; they were troubled, and hastened away.

6 Fear ^atook hold upon them there, and pain, as of a woman in ¹travail.

when all else is insecure (vv. 1-3). Second, God protects His city, giving its people assurance and comfort (vv. 4-7). Third, all men are called upon to consider God's works and submit to His authority (vv. 8-11). The unshakable confidence with which the psalm leaves the believer prompted Martin Luther to pen one of the great hymns of all time, "A Mighty Fortress Is Our God."

Psalm 47. One of the six psalms of the divine kingdom, the psalm celebrates the Lord's kingship over all the earth (v. 9). It begins with a universal call to praise Israel's God (v. 1). This is reinforced with reasons: He is an awe-inspiring God (v. 2), He redeemed

Israel and settled them in their land (vv. 3, 4), and He presently is ruling in Israel. A second call renews the need for praise (v. 6). It is likewise reinforced with a reason: the revelation that His kingship is destined to be universal (vv. 7-9). These last verses speak prophetically of the time when the Lord Jesus will reign on the earth.

Psalm 48. A good example of the Songs of Zion, the psalm describes the glory of the city of Jerusalem which has been delivered by God from her enemies. The city of God is praised (vv. 1-3), and her attackers are defeated (v. 4-8). Therefore, her people praise the Lord for His lovingkindness (vv. 9-14).

7 Thou breakest the ^aships of Tarshish with an east wind.

8 As we have heard, so have we seen in the city of the LORD of hosts, in the city of our God: God will ^aestablish it for ever. Selah.

The Lovingkindness of the Lord

9 We have thought of ^athy lovingkindness, O God, in the midst of thy temple.

10 According to ^athy name, O God, so is thy praise unto the ends of the earth: thy right hand is full of righteousness.

11 Let mount Zion rejoice, let the daughters of Judah be glad, because of thy judgments.

12 Walk about Zion, and go round about her: ¹tell the towers thereof.

13 Mark ye well her bulwarks, consider her palaces; that ye may ^atell it to the generation following.

14 For this God is our God for ever and ever: ^ahe will be our guide even unto death.

14 Like sheep they are laid in the grave; death shall feed on them; and ^athe upright shall have dominion over them in the morning; ^band their beauty shall ¹consume in the ²grave from their dwelling.

15 But God ^awill redeem my soul from the power of ¹the grave: for he shall ^breceive me. Selah.

16 Be not thou afraid when one is made rich, when the glory of his house is increased;

17 For when he dieth he shall carry nothing away: his glory shall not descend after him.

18 Though while he lived ^ahe blessed ¹his soul: and men will praise thee, when thou doest well to thyself.

19 He shall go to the generation of his fathers; they shall never see ^alight. ¹

20 Man that is in honour, and understandeth not, ^ais like the beasts that perish.

Psalm 49. This psalm reads almost like a passage from the Book of Proverbs, with its bold contrast between the destinies of wicked and righteous. It addresses an age-old question: the prosperity of the wicked. The psalmist lived in a day when many evil men were boasting of their wealth (vv. 5, 6). The psalm was therefore written to enable God's people to rise above the ungodly drive for riches. There is first an invitation to listen (vv. 1-4): the poet calls on all men because the psalm has a universal application. Second, he demonstrates how woefully inadequate riches are (vv. 5-12): on the day of one's death they cannot redeem (vv. 6, 7). Finally, the divergent destinies of the wicked and the righteous are vividly stated (vv. 13-20): the wicked man has no hope beyond this life (v. 14), but the righteous man will be resurrected to eternal life (v. 15).

PSALM 50

God Will Judge

A Psalm of Asaph.

THE ^amighty God, even the LORD, hath spoken, and called the earth from the rising of the sun unto the going down thereof.

2 Out of Zion, the perfection of beauty, ^aGod hath shined.

3 Our God shall come, and shall not keep silence: ^aa fire shall devour before him, and it shall be very tempestuous round about him.

4 ^aHe shall call to the heavens from above, and to the earth, that he may judge his people.

5 Gather ^amy saints together unto me; ^bthose that have ¹made a covenant with me by sacrifice.

6 And the ^aheavens shall declare his righteousness: for ^bGod is judge himself. Selah.

7 Hear, O my people, and I will speak; O Israel, and I will testify against thee: ^aI am God, even thy God.

God Does Not Need Sacrifices

8 ^aI will not ¹reprove thee ^bfor thy sacrifices or thy burnt offerings, to have been continually before me.

9 ^aI will take no ¹bullock out of thy house, nor he goats out of thy folds.

10 For every beast of the forest is mine, and the cattle upon a thousand hills.

12 If I were hungry, I would not tell thee: ^afor the world is mine, and the fulness thereof.

PSALM 51

A Plea for Forgiveness

To the chief Musician,
A Psalm of David, ^awhen Nathan the prophet came unto him, after he had gone in to Bath-sheba.

HAVE mercy upon me, O God, according to thy lovingkindness: according unto the multitude of thy tender mercies ^ablot out my transgressions.

2 ^aWash me thoroughly from mine iniquity, and cleanse me from my sin.

Psalm 50. The psalm is a warning to the pilgrim of Zion to avoid hypocrisy and formalism before God. The setting of the psalm is comparable to a courtroom: God, the Judge, appears in a theophany (vv. 1-3) and calls for a hearing (vv. 4-6), the heavens and earth being called as witnesses. The accusations are twofold: God's people must realize that true worship does not consist of mere sacrifice, but of sacrifice offered with thanksgiving and faithfulness (vv. 7-15). Second, the wicked are denounced for not keeping God's law, though they pretend that they do (cf. Matt. 7:21-23 for a similar denunciation). In reality, they are those who forget God (v. 22) and face certain destruction unless they repent.

Psalm 51. From the superscription we learn that this psalm was written sometime after David's sin with 3 For I acknowledge my transgressions: and my sin is ever before me.

4 ^aAgainst thee, thee only, have I sinned, and done this evil ^bin thy sight: ^cthat thou mightest ¹be justified when thou speakest, and be ²clear when thou judgest.

5 ^aBehold, I was ¹shapen in iniquity; and in sin did my mother conceive me.

6 Behold, thou desirest truth in the inward parts: and in the hidden part thou shalt make me to know wisdom.

A Plea for Cleansing

7 ^aPurge me with hyssop, and I shall be clean: wash me, and I shall be ^bwhiter than snow.

8 Make me to hear joy and gladness; that the bones which thou hast broken ^amay rejoice.

9 Hide thy face from my sins, and blot out all mine iniquities.

10 ^aCreate in me a clean heart, O God; and renew a ¹right spirit within me.

11 Cast me not away from thy presence; and take not thy ^aholy spirit from me.

12 Restore unto me the joy of thy salvation; and uphold me with thy ^afree¹ spirit.

PSALM 52

Evildoers Will Be Destroyed

To the chief Musician, ¹Maschil, A Psalm of David, ^awhen Doeg the Edomite came and ^btold Saul, and said unto him, David is come to the house of Ahimelech.

WHY boastest thou thyself ¹in mischief, O mighty man? the ²goodness of God endureth continually.

Bathsheba (2 Sam. 11:3, 4). The psalm gives expression to why David was “a man after God’s own heart”: he was not perfect, but he had a sensitivity to sin that few know about. Notice especially the use of the first person singular: mine iniquity, my sin (v. 2), my transgressions (v. 3), and so on. The first two verses are an introductory petition, rich with meaning in the use of four figures for forgiveness. After confessing his guilt (vv. 3–6), David prays for inner renewal (vv. 7–12) and promises thanksgiving and ministry (vv.

13–17). This passage clearly teaches that those who have failed God may be restored to the service of God. The prayer take not thy Holy Spirit from me (v. 11) need never be offered by a New Testament saint, since the Holy Spirit indwells every Christian permanently (1 Cor. 6:19). David’s cry here may reflect only the fear, not the reality, of losing the Spirit, and being rejected by God. Thus, he asks God to restore the joy of his salvation, not salvation itself.

SIN NATURE

51:5. When the word sin appears in the singular, it usually denotes the sin nature of humanity. This sin nature, which everyone possesses, influences us to sin and is the source of lust. It negatively affects people’s minds (Rom. 1:28). Illustration: The sin nature is partially responsible for blinding people’s thoughts and understanding, so that they cannot perceive spiritual things (1 Cor. 2:14). Although our sin nature continues to operate within us, it was judged when Christ died (Rom. 6:6, 7). Application: Until Christ returns, we must live in the strength of the new man, to overcome the sinful desires arising from the sin nature. We cannot eradicate our sin nature, but we can allow the Holy Spirit to control us so that we do not give in to temptation. (First Reference, Gen. 6:5; Primary Reference, Rom. 3; cf. Rom. 5:12.)

2 The tongue ¹deviseth mischiefs; like a sharp razor, working deceitfully.

3 Thou lovest evil more than good; and lying rather than to speak righteousness. Selah.

4 Thou lovest all devouring words, O thou deceitful tongue.

5 God shall likewise destroy thee for ever, he shall take thee away, and pluck thee out of thy dwelling place, and root thee out of the land of the living. Selah.

6 The righteous also shall see, and fear, and shall laugh at him:

7 Lo, this is the man that made not God his strength; but trusted in the abundance of his riches, and strengthened himself in his ¹wickedness.

The Faithful Will Be Rewarded

8 But I am ^alike a green olive tree in the house of God: I trust in the mercy of God for ever and ever.

9 I will praise thee for ever, because thou hast done it: and I will wait on thy name; for it is good before thy saints.

5 ^aThere were they in great fear, where no fear was: for God hath scattered the bones of him that encampeth against thee: thou hast put them to shame, because God hath despised them.

6 ^aOh that the salvation of Israel were come out of Zion! When God bringeth back ¹the captivity of his people, Jacob shall rejoice, and Israel shall be glad.

PSALM 54

The Lord's Deliverance

To the chief Musician, ¹on Neginoth, ²Maschil, A Psalm of David, ^awhen the Ziphims came and said to Saul, Doth not David hide himself with us?

SAVE me, O God, by thy name, and judge me by thy strength.

2 Hear my prayer, O God; give ear to the words of my mouth.

3 For strangers are risen up against me, and oppressors seek after my ¹soul: they have not set God before them. Selah.

4 Behold, God is mine helper: the Lord is with them that ¹uphold my soul.

5 He shall reward evil unto mine enemies: ¹cut them off in thy ²truth.

6 I will freely sacrifice unto thee: I will praise thy name, O LORD; for it is good.

7 For he hath delivered me out of all trouble: ^aand mine eye hath seen his desire upon mine enemies.

Psalm 52. The superscription reveals that this psalm is one of the eight written when David was fleeing from Saul. Specifically, it refers to the occasion when Doeg had accused Ahimelech the priest because the latter had assisted David at Nob (1 Sam. 21:1-9; 22:9-23). The description of Doeg is one of the most contemptuous in Scripture (vv. 1-4). Because of his betrayal, Doeg will be destroyed (v. 5), the righteous will learn from it (vv. 6, 7), and David, a righteous man, will continue to flourish (vv. 8, 9).

Psalm 53. This psalm is a copy of Psalm 14, slightly revised. Two major differences are apparent: this psalm substitutes the generic word for God, Elōhīm, for the personal name of God used in Psalm 14, Yahweh. This was done evidently to give the psalm a wider appeal. Second, verse 5 has been rewritten and has become an encouraging affirmation of God's protection.

Psalm 54. The superscription indicates that the psalm records David's reaction to the Ziphites' betrayal of him to Saul. The historical situation is described in 1 Samuel 23. Consequently, David prays for deliverance from his oppressors (vv. 1-3), expresses his confidence in being heard (vv. 4, 5), and promises his thanksgiving upon deliverance.

PSALM 55

The Plea of the Fearful

To the chief Musician ¹on Neginoth, ²Maschil, A Psalm of David.

GIVE ear to my prayer, O God; and hide not thyself from my supplication.

2 Attend unto me, and hear me: I ^amourn¹ in my complaint, and ²make a noise;

3 Because of the voice of the enemy, because of the oppression of the wicked: ^afor they ¹cast iniquity upon me, and in wrath they hate me.

4 ^aMy heart is ¹sore pained within me: and the terrors of death are fallen upon me.

5 Fearfulness and trembling are come upon me, and horror hath overwhelmed me.

6 And I said, Oh that I had wings like a dove! ^afor then would I fly away, and be at rest.

7 Lo, then would I wander far off, and remain in the wilderness. Selah.

8 I would hasten my escape from the windy storm and tempest.

A Plea for Revenge

PSALM 56

Times of Distress

To the chief Musician ¹upon Jonath-elem-rechokim, ²Michtam of David, when the ^aPhilistines took him in Gath.

BE ^amerciful unto me, O God: for man would swallow me up; he fighting daily oppresseth me.

2 Mine enemies would daily ^aswallow¹ me up: for they be many that fight against me, O thou most High.

Psalm 55. The psalm is a prayer by one who is being unjustly harassed and who has been betrayed by a friend. The surging emotions that these situations occasion are seen in the alternating pictures of faithless men and expressions of trust in a faithful God. Thus, it contains a prayer of petition (vv. 1, 2, 23), a lament over the man's present woeful state (vv. 3-15, 18b-21), and an expression of trust in God (vv. 16-18a, 22).

Psalm 56. The superscription relates the psalm to David's first stay in Gath under Achish (1 Sam. 21:10-15). The refrain of verses 4, 10, and 11 mark off two sections in the psalm. First, David contrasts his

PSALM 58

Unjust Judges

To the chief Musician, ¹Altaschith, ²Michtam of David.

DO ye indeed speak righteousness, ¹O congregation? do ye judge uprightly, O ye sons of men?

2 Yea, in heart ye work wickedness; ye weigh the violence of your hands in the earth.

threatening enemies with his faithful God (vv. 1–4). Second, he expresses the truth that he is watched from two directions: on the one side by his enemies; on the other by God, his Protector (vv. 5–11). The refrain of verse 4 is now strengthened and expanded into two verses (vv. 10, 11). The two final verses serve as a conclusion that assumes his upcoming deliverance as a present reality.

Psalm 57. The superscription provides a helpful backdrop for the psalm, which was composed after David escaped from Gath. (See Ps. 56 and 1 Sam. 22:1.) The refrain of verses 5 and 11 marks the psalm into two distinct sections: his petition and lament (vv. 1–5), and his trust and thanksgiving (vv. 6–11).

Psalm 58. The psalm may best be described as a prayer against unjust judges. O congregation in verse 3 ^aThe wicked are estranged from the womb: they go astray as soon as they be born, speaking lies.

4 ^aTheir poison is like the poison of a serpent: they are like the deaf ¹adder that stoppeth her ear;

5 Which will not ^ahearken to the voice of charmers, charming ¹never so wisely.

God's Punishment

6 ^aBreak ¹their teeth, O God, in their mouth: break out the great teeth of the young lions, O LORD.

7 ^aLet them ¹melt away as waters which run continually: when he bendeth his bow to shoot his arrows, let them be as cut in pieces.

8 As a snail which melteth, let every one of them pass away: ^alike the ¹untimely birth of a woman, that they may not see the sun.

9 Before your ^apots can feel the ¹thorns, he shall take them away ^bas with a whirlwind, ²both living, and in his wrath.

Rejoicing of Righteous

10 The righteous shall rejoice when he seeth the ^avengeance: ^bhe shall wash his feet in the blood of the wicked.

11 ^aSo that a man shall say, Verily there is a reward for the righteous: verily he is a God that ^bjudgeth in the earth.

14 And ^aat evening let them return; and let them make a noise like a dog, and go round about the city.

1 is literally "O gods," though the word is best taken here to refer, not to gods, but to rulers who represent God. God and civil leaders are sometimes closely linked together (Ex. 22:28; Deut. 19:17, 18). The indictment against these unjust judges is contained in verses 1-5; the petition of David in verses 6-9 includes a mighty imprecation; and the conclusion emphasizes the effect of God's vindication on the righteous in verses 10 and 11.

Psalm 59. The content of the psalm reinforces the occasion cited in the superscription. Though David was Saul's son-in-law, Saul sent men to kill him (1 Sam. 19:1-17). The psalm is David's prayer while so threatened by his enemies. It contains three key elements that are intertwined: petition (vv. 1-3, 4b, 5, 11-13), lament (vv. 3, 4a, 6, 7), and expression of trust in God's answer (vv. 8-10, 14-17).

15 Let them ^awander up and down for ¹meat, and ²grudge if they be not satisfied.

Praise for God's Defence

16 But I will sing of thy power; yea, I will sing aloud of thy mercy in the morning: for thou hast been my defence and refuge in the day of my trouble.

17 Unto thee, ^aO my strength, will I sing: for God is my defence, and the God of my mercy.

PSALM 61

The Higher Rock

To the chief Musician upon ¹Neginah, A Psalm of David.

HEAR my cry, O God; attend unto my prayer.

2 From the end of the earth will I cry unto thee, when my heart is overwhelmed: lead me to the rock that is higher than I.

3 For thou hast been a shelter for me, and ^aa strong tower from the enemy.

4 I will abide in thy ¹tabernacle for ever: ^aI will trust in the ²covert of thy wings. Selah.

5 For thou, O God, hast heard my vows: thou hast given me the heritage of those that fear thy name.

6 Thou wilt prolong the king's life: and his years as many generations.

7 He shall abide before God for ever: O prepare mercy ^aand truth, which may ¹preserve him.

8 So will I sing praise unto thy name for ever, that I may daily perform my vows.

Psalm 60. The superscription of this psalm is lengthy (only Psalm 18 has a longer one), and contains a list of three of David's enemies: Aram-naharaim, or Mesopotamia, Aram-zobah, or central Syria, and Edom. After piecing 2 Samuel 8:3-6 and other passages together with this superscription, we may conclude that, while David was waging war against the Arameans in the north, the Edomites (and Moabites) invaded from the south, forcing David to dispatch Joab to deal with the latter force. This turn of events constituted an unexpected military reversal which the psalm laments. It thus contains the lament (vv. 1-5), an expression of the certainty of being heard (vv. 6-8), and a final petition (vv. 9-12).

Psalm 61. This psalm would have fit many occasions in David's life when he was distraught from fighting his numerous enemies. He offers his petition (vv. 1, 2), expresses his trust (vv. 3-5), prays for prolongation of his kingship (vv. 6, 7), and offers a vow of thanksgiving to be delivered when God answers (v. 8).

PSALM 62

My Rock and My Salvation

To the chief Musician,
to ^aJeduthun, A Psalm of David.

TRULY ^amy soul ¹waiteth upon God: from him cometh my salvation.

2 He only is my rock and my salvation; he is my ¹defence; I shall not be greatly ^amoved.²

3 How long will ye ¹imagine mischief against a man? ye shall be slain all of you: ^aas a ²bowing wall shall ye be, and as a tottering fence.

4 They only consult to cast him down from his ¹excellency: they ^adelight in lies: they bless with their mouth, but they curse inwardly. Selah.

5 My soul, ¹wait thou only upon God; for my ²expectation is from him.

6 He only is my rock and my salvation: he is my defence; I shall not be ¹moved.

7 ^aIn God is my salvation and my glory: the rock of my strength, and my refuge, is in God.

Trust in the Lord

8 Trust in him at all times; ye people, ^apour out your heart before him: God is a refuge for us. Selah.

9 ^aSurely men of low degree are ¹vanity, and men of high degree are a lie: to be ²laid in the balance, they are altogether lighter than vanity.

10 Trust not in oppression, and ¹become not vain in robbery: ^aif riches increase, set not your heart upon them.

11 God hath spoken once; twice have I heard this; that power belongeth unto God.

12 Also unto thee, O Lord, belongeth mercy: for ^athou ¹renderest to every man according to his work.

PSALM 63

A Thirsting Soul

A Psalm of David, ^awhen he was in the wilderness of Judah.

O GOD, thou art my God; early will I seek thee: ^amy soul thirsteth for thee, my flesh longeth for thee in a dry and thirsty land, where no water is;

2 To see ^athy power and thy glory, ¹so as I have seen thee in the sanctuary.

3 ^aBecause thy lovingkindness is better than life, my lips shall praise thee.

4 Thus will I bless thee while I live: I will ^alift up my hands in thy name.

Praise and Meditation

5 My soul shall be satisfied as with ¹marrow and ²fatness; and my mouth shall praise thee with joyful lips:

6 When ^aI remember thee upon my bed, and meditate on thee in the night watches.

7 Because thou hast been my help, therefore in the shadow of thy wings will I rejoice.

8 My soul followeth ¹hard after thee: thy right hand upholdeth me.

9 But those that seek my soul, to destroy it, shall go into the lower parts of the earth.

10 ¹They shall fall by the sword: they shall be ²a portion for ³foxes.

11 But the king shall rejoice in God; ^aevery one that sweareth by him shall glory: but the mouth of them that speak lies shall be stopped.

PSALM 64

A Plea for God's Protection

To the chief Musician,
A Psalm of David.

HEAR my voice, O God, in my ¹prayer: preserve my life from fear of the enemy.

Psalm 62. Thoughts of confidence and trust predominate in this psalm, making it a “psalm of confidence.” The expressions of trust found in verses 1, 2, and 5–7 are rich with figures that picture the absolute stability of being found in God. At least five nouns describe God’s protection: rock, salvation, defense (v. 2), glory, and refuge (v. 7). The lament (vv. 3, 4) again concerns his enemies. However, from his confident position he is able to exhort others to trust in the Lord (vv. 8–12).

Psalm 63. The location of the writing of the psalm is described generally as in the wilderness of Judah. Unlike many of the psalms written in these dire situations, however, this psalm is overflowing with thanksgiving rather than lament and petition. David declares his longing for spiritual renewal (vv. 1, 2), he expresses his thankful mood (vv. 3–6), he gives voice to his trust in God (vv. 7, 8), and he announces his hope for the future (vv. 9–11). Enemies are mentioned only in passing (vv. 9, 10).

2 Hide me from the secret counsel of the wicked; from the ¹insurrection of the workers of iniquity:

3 Who ¹whet their tongue like a sword, ^aand bend their bows to shoot their arrows, even bitter words:

4 That they may shoot in secret at the ¹perfect: suddenly do they shoot at him, and fear not.

5 They encourage themselves in an evil matter: they ¹commune of laying snares ²privily; ^athey say, Who shall see them?

6 They ¹search out iniquities; they ²accomplish a diligent search: both the inward thought of every one of them, and the heart, is deep.

God Will Intercede

7 But God shall shoot at them with an arrow; suddenly shall they be wounded.

8 So they shall ¹make their own tongue to fall upon themselves: ^aall that see them shall flee away.

9 And all men shall fear, and shall ^adeclare the work of God; for they shall wisely consider of his doing.

10 ^aThe righteous shall be glad in the LORD, and shall trust in him; and all the upright in heart shall glory.

PSALM 66

Make a Joyful Noise

To the chief Musician, A Song or Psalm.

MAKE ^aa joyful ¹noise unto God, ^ball ²ye lands:

2 Sing forth the honour of his name: make his praise glorious.

Psalm 64. The psalm is a prayer that the vicious plots of wicked men against the righteous might fail. The psalm may be divided into two parts: a petition against the devices of the wicked (vv. 1–6) and an expression of the certainty of divine retribution (vv. 7–10).

Psalm 65. The psalm has a simple purpose: to express thanksgiving for rain and harvest, an appropriate subject in an agrarian economy. It is addressed to God in its entirety and presents Him as the God who forgives (vv. 1–4), the God who intervenes in history (vv. 5–8), and the God who provides (vv. 9–13).

Psalm 66. Though a psalm of national thanksgiving for some occasion of great deliverance, it also contains the king's personal note of thanksgiving at the end (vv. 13–20), after the communal expression of thanksgiving (vv. 1–12).

3 Say unto God, How ^aterrible¹ art thou in thy works! ^bthrough the greatness of thy power shall thine enemies submit themselves unto thee.

PSALM 67

Psalm 67. This national psalm of thanksgiving expresses the gratefulness of the people to God and their confidence in His continued blessings. It begins with a blessing by the priest (v. 1), a reflection of the Aaronic benediction in Numbers 6:24-26. Then there is a call to all peoples to praise God (vv. 2-5). Finally, there is an expression of trust in God's continued blessings (vv. 6, 7). The point of the psalm seems to be that God's blessing on Israel is only a harbinger of divine blessings for the entire world. This universal outlook is revealed not only by the explicit statement of the final verse, but by the exclusive preference of the general word for God, Elohim, to the complete exclusion of the personal name of Israel's God, Yahweh.

Psalm 68. Though no superscription is found in this psalm, most interpreters agree that it was written before the fire, so let the wicked perish at the presence of God.

3 But ^alet the righteous be glad; let them rejoice before God: yea, let them exceedingly rejoice.

4 Sing unto God, sing praises to his name: ^aextol¹ him that rideth upon the ²heavens ^bby his name ³JAH, and rejoice before him.

when the ark of the Lord was transferred from the house of Obed-edom to the new location on Zion's mountain (2 Sam. 6:2-18). Certainly it describes the procession attached to that significant event, but it is more than a historical narrative. It is rich with theology since, at that time, God's person and His place for Israel in the world seem to have been understood in a much deeper way. The procession is first introduced (vv. 1-3). Because the ark represented the presence of God with His people, its movement to a new location is a reflection of God's continual blessing on His people and conquest of her foes. Next is a call to praise the Lord for His majesty and His care for the needy (vv. 4-6). The present event of relocating the ark is now put into perspective within the history of the Lord's works (vv. 7-23). Specifically, it is, in a sense, a reliving of the Exodus (vv. 7-10) and of the conquest of Canaan (vv. 11-14). The Lord has clearly elected Zion as His abode from which He protects His people (vv. 15-23).

David next describes the procession itself (vv. 24-27) with its singers and players (v. 25) and the various tribes (v. 27). Finally, the psalm concludes with two hymns (vv. 28-35): a hymn of Israel expressing her prayer for continued deliverance (vv. 28-31), and a universalistic hymn that speaks of the Lord's rule over all the earth (vv. 32-35). The theological significance of this majestic hymn is twofold. First, it reiterates in a beautiful way the Lord's election of Israel as a basis from which His rule and blessing flow to the earth. Second, it reveals a growing understanding of the person of the God of Israel. A study of the names of God alone in the psalm establishes this second point: God (v. 1), his name JAH (v. 4), the Almighty (v. 14), the LORD (v. 16), the LORD God (v. 18), the Lord (v. 19, a different Hebrew word from the one in v. 16), and God the Lord (v. 20). The action of God in deliverance (v. 18) is interpreted messianically by Paul and applied to the ascension of our Lord (Eph. 4:8).

22 The Lord said, I will bring ^aagain from Bashan, I will bring my people again ^bfrom the depths of the sea:

23 ^aThat thy foot may ¹be dipped in the blood of thine enemies, ^band the tongue of thy dogs ²in the same.

A Cry for Help

To the chief Musician ¹upon Shoshannim, A Psalm of David.

SAVE me, O God; for ^athe waters are come in unto my ¹soul.

2 ^aI sink in deep mire, where there is no standing; I am come into deep waters, where the floods overflow me.

3 ^aI am weary of my crying: my throat is dried: ^bmine eyes fail while I wait for my God.

4 They that ^ahate me without a cause are more than the hairs of mine head: they that would destroy me, being mine enemies wrongfully, are mighty: then I restored that which I ¹took not away.

5 O God, thou knowest my foolishness; and my sins are not hid from thee.

6 Let not them that ¹wait on thee, O Lord God of hosts, be ashamed ²for my sake: let not those that seek thee be ³confounded for my sake, O God of Israel.

7 Because for thy sake I have borne reproach; shame hath covered my face.

8 ^aI am become a stranger unto my brethren, and an alien unto my mother's children.

9 ^aFor the zeal ¹of thine house hath eaten me up; ^band the reproaches of them that reproached thee are fallen upon me.

10 When I wept, and chastened my soul with fasting, that ¹was to my reproach.

11 I made ¹sackcloth also my garment; and I became a ²proverb to them.

Psalm 69. This psalm gives extensive expression to one of the major themes of the psalms: undeserved suffering. In this case, the suffering has come largely from the psalmist's steadfastness in his commitment to the Lord. Because of this popular and needed motif, the psalm became a favorite of the New Testament writers who quote it frequently: verse 4 (John 15:25), verse 9 (John 2:17, Rom. 15:3), verses 22 and 23 (Rom. 11:9, 10), verse 25 (Acts 1:20). The content of the psalm itself may best be viewed topically. It contains David's lament (vv. 1-4, 10-12, 19-21), his protestation of innocence (vv. 5-9), his petition (vv. 13-18, 22-29), and his vow of thanksgiving to be offered upon deliverance (vv. 30-36).

12 They that ¹sit in the gate speak against me; and I was the song of the ^adrunkards.

Draw Nigh and Redeem My Soul

13 But as for me, my prayer is unto thee, O LORD, in an acceptable time: O God, in the multitude of thy mercy hear me, in the truth of thy salvation.

14 Deliver me out of the mire, and let me not sink: let me be delivered from them that hate me, and out of the deep waters.

15 Let not the waterflood overflow me, neither let the deep swallow me up, and let not the pit shut her mouth upon me.

16 Hear me, O LORD; for thy lovingkindness is good: turn unto me according to the multitude of thy tender mercies.

17 And hide not thy face from thy servant; for I am in trouble: hear me ¹speedily.

18 Draw nigh unto my soul, and redeem it: deliver me because of mine enemies.

19 Thou hast known ^amy reproach, and my shame, and my dishonour: mine adversaries are all before thee.

20 Reproach hath broken my heart; and I am full of ¹heaviness: and ^aI looked for some to take pity, but there was none; and for ^bcomforters, but I found none.

Psalm 70. This psalm has apparently been detached from the end of Psalm 40 where it appears as verses 13-17. Perhaps the motive behind this was for separate use in the temple worship, just as one might take part of a hymn today and use it as a chorus.

There is a tremendous note of urgency in the psalm, with a total of 10 petitions in five verses. David asks simply for deliverance for himself and retribution for his enemies.

Psalm 71. This psalm is clearly the prayer of an elderly man threatened by his enemies (vv. 9, 18). Before expressing his petition proper, the psalmist first states a brief introduction to his petition (vv. 1-4). He reinforces these words with a marvelous statement of his lifelong trust in the Lord (vv. 5-8). This section is rich with expression of trust and communion with God: thou art my hope (v. 5), thou art my trust (v. 5), thou art he (v. 6), thou art my strong refuge (v. 7), thy praise and ... thy honour (v. 8). The impression is left that the psalmist is a mature man of faith who reacts to his troubles with implicit trust in God. His actual petition and lament are now given (vv. 9-13). It is a prayer for help for himself and judgment for his enemies. Further, he expresses his confidence in being answered (vv. 14-21), and his consequent praise (vv. 22-24).

unto thee will I sing with the harp, O thou ^bHoly One of Israel.

23 My lips shall greatly rejoice when I sing unto thee; and ^amy soul, which thou hast redeemed.

24 My tongue also shall talk of thy righteousness all the day long: for they are confounded, for they are brought unto shame, that seek my hurt.

PSALM 73

Prosperity of the Wicked

A Psalm of ^aAsaph.

TRULY God is good to Israel, even to such as are of a ¹clean heart.

2 But as for me, my ¹feet were almost gone; my steps had well nigh ^aslipped.

3 ^aFor I was envious at the ¹foolish,

Psalm 72. This psalm is the first of only two authored by Solomon. (See also ch. 127.) It is a royal psalm that constitutes a prayer for the new king. The psalm contains a very idealistic tone that could never be realized in a sinful human being. Its aspirations become messianic in nature and point to Christ who alone can fulfill this ideal kingship. The petitions of the psalm may be summarized as follows: a petition for the king to bring justice (vv. 1-4), to bring about prosperity and peace (vv. 5-7), to increase his own dominion (vv. 8-11), to help the poor and needy (vv. 12-14), and to bring about, in general, a golden age (vv. 15-17). The psalm then closes the second book of the Psalter with the characteristic doxology (vv. 18-20).

when I saw the prosperity of the wicked.

4 For there are no ¹bands in their death: but their strength is firm.

5 They are not in trouble as other men; neither are they plagued like other men.

6 Therefore pride ¹compasseth them about as a chain; violence covereth them as a garment.

7 Their eyes ¹stand out with fatness: they have more than heart could wish.

8 They ¹are corrupt, and speak wickedly concerning oppression: they ^bspeak ²loftily.

9 They set their mouth against the heavens, and their tongue walketh through the earth.

10 Therefore his people return hither: and waters of a full cup are ¹wrung out to them.

11 And they say, How doth God know? and is there knowledge in the most High?

12 Behold, these are the ungodly, who ¹prosper in the world; they increase in riches.

God's View of Wickedness

18 Surely thou didst set them in slippery places: thou castedst them down into destruction.

19 How are they brought into desolation, as in a moment! they are utterly consumed with terrors.

20 As a dream when one awaketh; so, O Lord, when thou awakest, thou shalt despise their image.

21 Thus my heart was grieved, and I was ¹pricked in my reins.

22 So foolish was I, and ignorant: I was as a beast before thee.

23 Nevertheless I am continually with thee: thou hast ¹holden me by my right hand.

24 Thou shalt guide me with thy counsel, and afterward receive me to glory.

25 Whom have I in heaven but thee? and there is none upon earth that I desire beside thee.

26 My flesh and my heart faileth: but God is the ¹strength of my heart, and my ^bportion for ever.

27 For, lo, they that are far from thee shall perish: thou hast destroyed all them ¹that go a whoring from thee.

28 But it is good for me to ^adraw near to God: I have put my trust in the Lord God, that I may ^bdeclare all thy works.

PSALM 74

Remember Your Chosen People

¹Maschil of Asaph.

O GOD, why hast thou cast us off for ever? why doth thine anger smoke against the sheep of thy pasture?

Psalm 73. This psalm is another dealing with the problem of the prosperity of the wicked. Unlike Psalm 37, however, it does not emphasize the brevity of that prosperity. The author observes that sometimes the bounty achieved by the wicked does in fact last throughout life (v. 4). He emphasizes every believer's need to test his own personal relationship with God. That alone provides the ultimate satisfaction available to the believer who witnesses the affluence of the wicked. The psalm contains two key parts: first, the psalmist describes the problem of the wicked's prosperity (vv. 1-16). Not only is it an objective fact (vv. 4-12), but it almost caused him to stumble spiritually and lose his faith (vv. 1-3, 13-16). The second part of the psalm is prompted by the content of verse

17. Not until the psalmist entered God's sanctuary and received a divine perspective on the wicked's prosperity did he find his answer to the problem (vv. 17-28). He saw the destiny of the wicked (vv. 17-20); therefore, he repented of his foolishness (vv. 21, 22) and found his happiness solely in a warm and growing relationship with God (vv. 23-28). The point of the psalm is driven home even more dramatically when remembering that Asaph, the author, was a spiritual man who grew up with deeply religious training (1 Chr. 15:16-19; 16:4-7; 2 Chr. 5:12; 29:30).

Psalm 74. Though the psalm contains no historical superscription, the content reveals that it was written when an enemy had invaded the temple (v. 3) and burned it (v. 7). The occasion certainly seems to be the destruction of Jerusalem by Nebuchadnezzar and the beginning of the Babylonian exile. The speaker in the psalm is the nation itself, making it a national lament psalm. There are two distinct parts to the psalm: first, the lament of the present destruction is stated (vv. 1–11); then, introduced by the word For (v. 12), the hope of the psalmist is voiced (vv. 12–23). His confidence is based on the Lord's past interventions (vv.

12–17) and issues in the psalmist's current petition (vv. 18–23).

Psalm 75. The message of the psalm is summarized in verse 7: God is the judge. Consequently the psalm may be outlined as follows: thanksgiving for God's presence and work (v. 1), promise of God's judgment (vv. 2–5), explanation of God's judgment (vv. 6–8), and confidence in God's judgment (vv. 9, 10).

5 Lift not up your horn on high: speak not ¹with a stiff neck.

PSALM 77

Recalling the Wonders of God

To the chief Musician, ^ato Jeduthun, A Psalm of Asaph.

ICRIED unto God with my voice, even unto God with my voice; and he gave ear unto me.

2 In the day of my trouble I sought the Lord: ¹my sore ran in the night, and ceased not: my soul refused to be comforted.

3 I remembered God, and was troubled: I complained, and my spirit was overwhelmed. Selah.

4 Thou ¹holdest mine eyes waking: I am so troubled that I cannot speak.

5 I have considered the days of old, the years of ancient times.

6 I call to remembrance my song in the night: I commune with mine own heart: and my spirit ¹made diligent search.

7 Will the Lord cast off for ever? and will he be favourable no more?

8 Is his mercy ¹clean gone for ever? doth his ^apromise fail ²for evermore?

Psalm 76. Verses 3-9 indicate that the psalm was written on the occasion of a miraculous deliverance of Jerusalem (called Salem in v. 2), perhaps from Sennacherib (2 Kin. 19:32-35). In any case, the psalm contains a narrative of the deliverance (vv. 1-9) and a call to all peoples to submit to the Lord's sovereignty (vv. 10-12).

Psalm 77. The psalm is the voice of an individual, but since he speaks on behalf of the nation, the psalm may best be called a national lament psalm. The six rhetorical questions of verses 7-9 reveal that the psalm was written at a time when God had apparently withheld His compassion from His people, though no specific details are given. In any case, the remedy for the situation is the same for both nation and individual: remembrance of God's mighty deeds in the past. Therefore, after expressing his lament (vv. 1-9), the psalmist recalls that human opposition could not withstand God's mighty deliverance at the time of the Exodus (vv. 10-15); neither could natural powers stay His hand when He decided to act (vv. 16-20). The latter verses are a poetic description of the reaction of nature when the Israelites crossed the Red Sea.

9 Hath God forgotten to be gracious? hath he in anger shut up his tender mercies? Selah.

10 And I said, This is my ¹infirmity: but I will remember the years of the right hand of the most High.

11 I will remember the works of the LORD: surely I will remember thy wonders of old.

12 I will meditate also of all thy work, and talk of thy doings.

Psalm 78. One of two historical psalms (see also 105), this psalm traces the history of God's mighty acts on behalf of Israel. The psalm begins with a call to learn from the nation's mistakes in the past (vv. 1–11). Verse 7 especially expresses the main point of the psalm: That they might set their hope in God, and not forget the works of God. Besides a general appeal, the psalmist cites the example of Ephraim (vv. 9–11), the most important tribe from the time of Joshua to the accession of Saul (cf. Judg. 3:27; 7:24;

8:1, 2; 10:9). Ephraim had failed in the day of battle, not because of a lack of weapons, but because of their forgetfulness of God's law and works. The specific occasion is not given. The next 57 verses contain three cycles of God's wonders and the people's unbelief. The Lord wrought miracles at the time of the Exodus (vv. 12–16), but the people refused to believe in His sufficiency in the desert (vv. 17–22); the Lord provided miraculously for them in the desert (vv. 23–31), but they still languished in unbelief (vv. 32–42); the 16 He brought ^astreams also out of the rock, and caused waters to run down like rivers.

Ingratitude for Provisions

17 And they sinned yet more against him ¹by ^aprovoking the most High in the wilderness.

18 And ^athey ¹tempted God in their heart by asking ²meat for their lust.

19 ^aYea, they spake against God; they said, Can God ¹furnish a table in the wilderness?

20 ^aBehold, he smote the rock, that the waters gushed out, and the streams overflowed; can he give bread also? can he provide flesh for his people?

21 Therefore the LORD heard this, and ^awas ¹wroth: so a fire was kindled against Jacob, and anger also came up against Israel;

22 Because they ^abelieved not in God, and trusted not in his salvation:

23 Though he had commanded the clouds from above, ^aand opened the doors of heaven, 24 ^aAnd had rained down manna upon them to eat, and had given them of the ¹corn of ^bheaven.

25 Man did eat angels' food: he sent them ¹meat to the full.

26 ^aHe caused an east wind to blow in the heaven: and by his power he brought in the south wind.

27 He rained flesh also upon them as dust, and feathered fowls like as the sand of the sea:

28 And he let it fall in the midst of their camp, round about their ¹habitations.

29 ^aSo they did eat, and were well filled: for he gave them their own desire;

30 They were not ¹estranged from their ²lust. But ^awhile their meat was yet in their mouths,

31 The wrath of God came upon them, and slew the ¹fattest of them,

A Plea for God's Mercy

32 For all this ^athey sinned still, and ^bbelieved not for his wondrous works.

33 ^aTherefore their days did he consume in ¹vanity, and their years in ²trouble.

34 ^aWhen he slew them, then they sought him: and they returned and ¹enquired early after God.

35 And they remembered that ^aGod was their rock, and the high God ^btheir redeemer.

36 Nevertheless they did ^aflatter him with their mouth, and they lied unto him with their tongues.

37 For their heart was not ¹right with him, neither were they ²stedfast in his covenant.

The Compassionate God

38 ^aBut he, being full of ^bcompassion, forgave their iniquity, and destroyed them not: yea, many a time ^cturned he his anger away, and ^ddid not stir up all his wrath.

39 For ^ahe remembered ^bthat they were but flesh; ^ca wind that passeth away, and cometh not again.

40 How oft did they ^aprovoke¹ him in the wilderness, and grieve him in the desert!

41 Yea, ^athey turned back and tempted God, and limited the Holy One of Israel.

God's Miraculous Deliverance

42 They remembered not ¹his hand, nor the day when he delivered them from the enemy.

43 How he had wrought his signs in Egypt, and his wonders in the field of Zoan:

44 ^aAnd had turned their rivers into blood; and their ¹floods, that they could not drink.

Lord destroyed their enemies and brought them into Canaan (vv. 43–55), but they still turned against Him (vv. 56–58). Because of these repeated acts of unbelief and faithlessness, God punished His people (vv. 59–64). Finally, He rejected the house of Saul and instituted a man of His own choosing, David, of the line of Judah (vv. 65–72). The moral of the psalm for Israel and for believers today is simple: forgetfulness of God's deeds and law is disobedience and leads only to defeat.

46 He gave also their ¹increase unto the caterpillar, and their labour unto the ^alocust.

47 ^aHe destroyed their vines with hail, and their sycamore trees with frost.

48 He gave up their ^acattle also to the hail, and their flocks to ¹hot thunderbolts.

49 He cast upon them the fierceness of his anger, wrath, and indignation, and trouble, by sending evil angels among them.

50 He ¹made a way to his anger; he spared not their soul from death, but gave their ²life over to the ³pestilence;

51 And smote all the ^afirstborn in Egypt; ¹the chief of their strength in the tabernacles of Ham:

52 But ^amade his own people to go forth like sheep, and guided them in the wilderness like a flock.

53 And he ^aled them on safely, so that they feared not: but the sea ^boverwhelmed their enemies.

54 And he brought them to the border of his ^asanctuary, even to this mountain, ^bwhich his right hand had purchased.

55 ^aHe cast out the heathen also before them, and ^bdivided them an inheritance by ¹line, and made the tribes of Israel to dwell in their tents.

56 ^aYet they tempted and provoked the most high God, and kept not his testimonies:

57 But ^aturned back, and dealt unfaithfully like their fathers: they were turned aside ^blike a deceitful bow.

58 ^aFor they provoked him to anger with their ^bhigh places, and moved him to jealousy with their graven images.

59 When God heard this, he was ¹wroth, and greatly abhorred Israel:

A Psalm of Asaph.

O GOD, the ¹heathen are come into ^athine inheritance; thy holy temple have they defiled; ^athey have laid Jerusalem ²on heaps.

Psalm 79. A companion poem to Psalm 74, this psalm laments the destruction of Jerusalem at the time of the Babylonian captivity. The psalm has two distinct parts: expression of the lament to God (vv. 1-5) and petition to God for deliverance of His people and retribution on their enemies (vv. 6-13). Three motives for God to act are cited: the misery God's people are experiencing (vv. 1-4), the tender mercies of God Himself (v. 8), and the humiliation brought to His name (v. 10). Unlike Psalm 137, which seems to have been written during the Captivity, this psalm was apparently written by eyewitnesses of the desolation of Jerusalem.

Psalm 80. This psalm is concerned in its entirety with Israel, the northern kingdom. It seems to refer to the fall of Samaria, the capital, in 722 B.C. and constitutes a prayer that the Lord would restore His people. The mention of Joseph (v. 1), Ephraim, and Manasseh (v. 2) makes it clear that Israel is in view rather than Judah. Benjamin however is also mentioned (v. 2) because this tribe was often linked with the 10 northern tribes. At other times, nevertheless, it is associated with Judah in the south. The psalm is in essence a prayer for a fallen kingdom to be restored. This fact is revealed by both the opening (vv. 1-3) and closing (v. 19) petitions and by two rounds of lament (vv. 4-6, 12, 13), petition (vv. 7, 14-17), and motivation (vv. 8-11, 18). The motivations cited for God's intervention are instructive: because He has acted on their behalf in the past (vv. 8-11) and because they promise loyalty for the future (v. 18). The change in the divine name reveals an increasing urgency on the psalmist's part for God's intervention: O God (v. 3), O God of hosts (v. 7), O LORD God of hosts (v. 19). The word hosts is a military term meaning "armies" and refers to God's sovereignty over all powers, earthly and heavenly.

Psalm 81. The background of the psalm appears to be the Feast of Tabernacles (Lev. 23:34–44) which reminded the people of God's law and also constituted the feast of ingathering (Ex. 23:16). The psalm is composed of three distinct parts. First, a hymn (vv. 1–5a) calls the people to praise God and reminds them of the ordination of the Feast of Tabernacles and its relationship to the Exodus (vv. 3–5). Next, an abrupt change in verse 5b seems to introduce a prophetic oracle into the psalm. A prophet may well have come forward at this point in the ceremony and delivered the oracle contained in verses 6–16. It recalls the miraculous deliverance at the Exodus (vv. 6–12) and applies its significance to the present: trust the Lord and see His deliverance (vv. 13–16). The verbs of this latter section should be retranslated to reflect a wish for the future, not for the past: "Oh that my people would hearken unto me," and so on.

Psalm 82. Like Psalm 58, this psalm is concerned with the problem of unjust judges. The content of the psalm may be analyzed as follows: God Himself arrives for the hearing (v. 1), the accusations are delivered (vv. 2–5), God sets forth His verdict (vv. 6, 7), and the psalmist presents a petition for God's judgment over the entire earth (v. 8). Judges are called elōhim, "gods," in verse 6 because of their responsibility to represent God (cf. John 10:34 where Jesus quotes this verse to support His deity).

PSALM 84

*Rejoicing in God's Tabernacle*To the chief Musician ^aupon¹ Gittith, A Psalm for the ²sons of Korah.

HOW ^aamiable¹ are thy tabernacles, O LORD of hosts!

84:1 ^a Ps. 27:4; 46:4, 5 ¹ lovely are thy dwellings

Psalms 83. The ominous background of this psalm of national lament lies in the threatening confederacy of almost all of Israel's hostile neighbors (vv. 5–8). Nowhere in the Old Testament is there such an assortment of enemies arrayed against the nation, with the possible exception of a similar group that opposed Jehoshaphat (2 Chr. 20:1–12). In answer to this situation the psalmist offers an initial petition (v. 1), expresses his lament (vv. 2–8), and then renews his petition for the Lord's intervention (vv. 9–18), citing both His deliverance in the past (vv. 9–11) and His reputation at stake in the present crisis (vv. 16–18).

Psalms 84. Clearly a Song of Zion, this psalm expresses the rejoicing of a pilgrim who has made his way to the temple in Jerusalem. The psalm contains three key notes: the blessedness of those who dwell at the temple (vv. 1–4), the blessedness of those who come to the temple (vv. 5–7), and the blessedness of all who trust in the Lord (vv. 8–12). Baca (v. 6) appears to refer to a shrub that grows in arid places and thus points to the hardships endured by the pilgrim on his way to the Holy City.

2 ^aMy soul longeth, yea, even fainteth for the courts of the LORD: my heart and my flesh crieth out for the living God.

3 Yea, the sparrow hath found an house, and the swallow a nest for herself, where she may lay her young, even thine altars, O LORD of hosts, my King, and my God.

4 Blessed are they that dwell in thy ^ahouse: they will be still praising thee. Selah.

9 Behold, ^aO God our shield, and look upon the face of thine ¹anointed.

10 For a day in thy courts is better than a thousand. I had rather ¹be a doorkeeper in the house of my God, than to dwell in the tents of wickedness.

PSALM 86

God's Readiness to Forgive

A Prayer of David.

BOW down thine ear, O LORD, hear me: for I am poor and needy.

2 Preserve my ¹soul; for I am holy: O thou my God, save thy servant that trusteth in thee.

3 Be merciful unto me, O Lord: for I cry unto thee ¹daily.

4 ¹Rejoice the soul of thy servant: ^afor unto thee, O Lord, do I lift up my soul.

Psalm 85. From the petition of verses 4-7 we learn that the occasion of this psalm was a time of national humiliation. Details are lacking but the people ask for God's anger to cease, for national revival, and for a new display of His mercy. This petition is preceded by a remembrance of the Lord's past favors (vv. 1-3) and succeeded by a statement of the psalmist's certainty of impending deliverance (vv. 8-13).

Psalm 86. This is one of the five psalms called prayers (see also chs. 17, 90, 102, 142). The spontaneous nature does not lend itself to a logical structure. The psalm actually constitutes a mosaic arrangement of quotations and allusions to other psalms (especially chs. 25-28; 54-57) and other books (Exodus, Deuteronomy, Isaiah, and Jeremiah). There is a brief reference to David's enemies (v. 14), but no specific historical

A Trouble-Filled Soul

A Song or Psalm ¹for the sons of Korah, to the chief Musician ²upon Mahalath Leannoth, ³Maschil of “Heman the Ezrahite.

O LORD “God of my salvation, I have ¹cried day and night before thee:

2 Let my prayer come before thee: ¹incline thine ear unto my cry;

3 For my soul is full of troubles:

situation is suggested. As a prayer, the psalm partakes of all the elements normally associated with prayer: petition (vv. 1–7, 11, 14–17), adoration (vv. 8–10), and thanksgiving (vv. 12, 13). In addition, the petitions are often backed up with motivations that encourage God to intervene. These range from the psalmist’s innocence (v. 2) to God’s gracious attributes (v. 15).

Psalm 87. This Song of Zion speaks prophetically of the time when Zion really will be the center of the universal kingdom of the Messiah. Zion is God’s elect city (vv. 1–3), a place where even the Gentiles are gathered (vv. 4–6), and the source of new life in God’s kingdom (v. 7).

Psalm 88. Certainly the gloomiest psalm in the entire collection, this psalm fails of the slightest ray of hope. Perhaps the author had experienced a tragedy like that of Job for which he had no explanation. In any case, the lack of hope is not because the psalmist has not prayed; rather, he has prayed earnestly and reminds the Lord that he has done so (vv. 1, 2, 9, 13). The elements of the psalm consist of petition (vv. 1, 2), lament (vv. 3–9, 15–18), and a motivation for God to act (vv. 10–14). In this last section eight rhetorical questions are addressed to God to reinforce the fact that the psalmist can only praise Him and be faithful to Him in this life. His death will serve no purpose.

and my life ^adraweth ¹nigh unto the ²grave.

8 ^aThou hast ¹put away mine acquaintance far from me; thou hast made me an abomination unto them: ^b*I am* shut up, and I cannot come forth.

PSALM 89

Mercies of the Lord

¹Maschil of ^aEthan the Ezrahite.

I WILL sing of the mercies of the LORD for ever: with my mouth will I make known thy faithfulness to all generations.

2 For I have said, ¹Mercy shall be built up for ever: ^athy faithfulness shalt thou establish in the very heavens.

3 ^aI have made a covenant with my chosen, I have ^bsworn unto David my servant,

4 Thy seed will I establish for ever, and build up thy throne ^ato all generations. Selah.

God's Greatness and Power

5 And ^athe heavens shall praise thy wonders, O LORD: thy faithfulness also in the congregation of the saints.

6 ^aFor who in the heaven can be compared unto the LORD? who among the sons of the mighty can be likened unto the LORD?

7 ^aGod is greatly to be feared in the assembly of the saints, and to be ¹had in reverence of all them that are about him.

8 O LORD God of hosts, who is a strong LORD like unto thee? or to thy faithfulness round about thee?

9 ^aThou rulest the raging of the sea: when the waves thereof arise, thou stillest them.

10 ^aThou hast broken ¹Rahab in pieces, as one that is slain; thou hast scattered thine enemies with thy strong arm.

11 ^aThe heavens are thine, the earth also is thine: as for the world and the fulness thereof, thou hast founded them.

Psalm 89. Like Psalm 73, which opens the third book of the psalms, this psalm also struggles with a universal problem among believers. Whereas Psalm 73 dealt with the prosperity of the wicked, Psalm 89 wrestles with the faithfulness of God to His promises. In particular, the promise in view is that of the Davidic covenant (2 Sam. 7:12-16), which the psalm mentions early (vv. 3, 4), but later alleges that the Lord seems to have forgotten (v. 39). There are three distinct sections to the psalm: a review of God's past blessing and promise (vv. 1-38), the lament of the present situation when God seems to have forsaken His Word (vv. 39-47), and a petition that God would once again remember His covenant (vv. 48-51). The third book of the psalms closes appropriately with a doxology (v. 52).

12 The north and the south thou hast created them: ^aTabor and ^bHermon shall rejoice in thy name.

13 Thou hast a mighty arm: strong is thy hand, and high is thy right hand.

14 ¹Justice and judgment are the ²habitation of thy throne: ³mercy and truth shall go before thy face.

15 Blessed is the people that know the ^ajoyful sound: they shall walk, O LORD, in the light of thy countenance.

16 In thy name shall they rejoice all the day: and in thy righteousness shall they be exalted.

17 For thou art the glory of their strength: and in thy favour ¹our horn shall be ^aexalted.

18 For ¹the LORD is our defence; and the Holy One of Israel is our king.

God Exalts His Chosen One

19 Then thou spakest in vision to thy ¹holy one, and saidst, I have ²laid help upon one that is mighty; I have exalted one ^achosen out of the people.

20 ^aI have found David my servant; with my holy oil have I anointed him:

21 ^aWith whom my hand shall be established: mine arm also shall strengthen him.

22 The enemy shall not ¹exact upon him; nor the son of wickedness afflict him.

23 And I will beat down his foes before his face, and plague them that hate him.

24 But my faithfulness and my ¹mercy shall be with him: and in my name shall his horn be exalted.

25 I will ^aset his hand also in the sea, and his right hand in the rivers.

 89:44 ¹splendour or brightness

47 Remember how short my time ^ais: ¹wherefore hast thou made all men in ^bvain?

48 What man is he that liveth, and shall not ¹see ^adeath? shall he deliver his soul from the ²hand of ³the grave? Selah.

49 Lord, where are thy former lovingkindnesses, which thou ^aswarest unto David ^bin thy truth?

50 Remember, Lord, the reproach of thy servants; ^ahow I do bear in my bosom the reproach of all the mighty people;

51 ^aWherewith thine enemies have reproached, O LORD; wherewith they have reproached the footsteps of thine ¹anointed.

52 ^aBlessed be the LORD for evermore. Amen, and Amen.

BOOK IV: Psalms 90—106

PSALM 90

The Eternal God

A Prayer ^aof Moses the man of God.

LORD, ^athou hast been our ¹dwell-ing place in all generations.

2 ^aBefore the mountains were brought forth, or ever thou ¹hadst formed the earth and the world, even from everlasting to everlasting, thou art God.

3 Thou turnest man to destruction; and sayest, ^aReturn, ye children of men.

The Timeless God

4 ^aFor a thousand years in thy sight are but as yesterday when it is past, and as a watch in the night.

5 Thou carriest them away as with a flood; ^athey are as a sleep: in the morning ^bthey are like grass which groweth up.

Psalm 90. This psalm is the only one written by Moses and thus the oldest in the Psalter. From verses 7–12 we may judge that it was written at the end of the 38 years of wandering in the wilderness. It is a prayer for the new generation of Israelites who will enter the Promised Land. There are four parts to its message. First, Moses describes the eternity of God (vv. 1, 2). Then, in contrast, he explores the brevity of man before God (vv. 3–6). Four key comparisons are used: (1) A thousand years are like one day to God. (2) A thousand years are like a watch in the night (three hours). The implication of these comparisons is simple: if a thousand years

6 In the morning it flourisheth, and groweth up; in the evening it is cut down, and withereth.

7 For we are consumed by thine anger, and by thy wrath are we ¹troubled.

8 ^aThou hast set our iniquities before thee, our ^bsecret sins in the light of thy countenance.

9 For all our days are passed away in thy wrath: we spend our days as a ¹tale that is told.

10 The days of our ¹years are threescore years and ten; and if by reason of strength they be fourscore years, yet is their ²strength labour and sorrow; for it is soon cut off, and we fly away.

11 Who knoweth the power of thine anger? even according to thy fear, so is thy wrath.

12 ^aSo teach us to number our days, that we may ¹apply our hearts unto wisdom.

A Plea for Mercy

13 Return, O LORD, how long? and ¹let it ^arepent thee concerning thy servants.

14 O satisfy us early with thy mercy; ^athat we may rejoice and be glad all our days.

15 Make us glad according to the days wherein thou hast afflicted us, and the years wherein we have seen evil.

16 Let ^athy work appear unto thy servants, and thy glory unto their children.

17 ^aAnd let the beauty of the LORD our God be upon us: and ^bestablish thou the work of our hands upon us; yea, the work of our hands establish thou it.
